OCEAN SPLENDORS

When the sea is perfectly clear and transparent it allows the eye to distinguish objects at a very great depth. Near Mindora, in the Indian Ocean, the spotted corals are plainly visible under twenty-five fathoms of water. The crystalline clearness of the Caribbean sea excited the admiration of Columbus, who, in the pursuit of his great discoveries, ever retained an open eye for the beauties of nature. "In passing over these splendidly adorned grounds," says Schopf, "where marine life shows itself in an endless variety of forms, the boat, suspended over the purest crystal, seems to float in the air, so that a person unseems to float in the air, so that a person accustomed to the scene easily becomes dy. On the clear sandy bottom appear is sands of sea-stars, sea urchins, molusces, fishes of a brilliancy of color unknown it temperate seas. Burning red, intense lively green, and golden yellow perpeturery; the spectator floats over the growness-plants, gorgonias, correla alexanterior vary; the spectator floats over the groves of sea-plants, gorgonias, corals, aleyoniums, flabellums, and sponges, that afford no less delight to the eye, and are no less gently agit tated by the heaving waters, than the most beautiful garden on earth when a gentle breeze passes through the waving boughts. Mr. Charles Darwin paints in vivid colors the magnificent spectacle presented by the assemble sailing in the latitudes of Cape Horn or a very dark night. There was a fresh breeze and every part of the surface, which during the day is seen as foam, now glowed with and every part of the surface, which during the day is seen as foam, now glowed with a pale light. The vessel drove before her bows two billows of liquid phosphorus, and in her wake she was followed by a mi'ky train. As far as the eye reached, the crest of every wave was pright, and the sky above the horison, from the reflected glare of these livid flames, was not so utterly obscure as over the rest of the heavens. While La Venus was at anohor before Simon's Town the breaking of the waves produced so strong a light that the room is which the naturalists of the expedition were stated was illuminated as by sudden flashes of lightning. Although more the room is which the naturalists of the expe-pedition were stated was illuminated as by sudden flashes of lightning. Although more than fifty paces from the beach where the phenomenon took place they tried to read by this woudrous oceanic light, but the succes-sive glimpace were of too short duration to gratify their wishes.

Thus we see the same nocturnal splen which shines forth in the tropical seas, gleams along our shores, burst forth from the Arctic waters, and from the waves to bathe the southern promontories of the and new world. But what is the cause of beautiful phenomenon widely spread over face of the ocean? How comes it that, contain times flames issue from the basen. certain times, flames issue from the bosom of an element generally so hostile to their appearance? Without troubling the reader with the groundless surmises of ancient naturalists, or repeating the useless tales of the past, I shall at once place myself with him on the stage of our actual knowledge of this interesting and mysterious subject. It is now no longer a matter of doubt that almost all inferior marine animals, perticularly the jelly fishes, many molusees and annelides, crustaceans and infusoria, possess the faculty of emitting a phosphoric light, and adding their mite to the grand phenomenon. When we consider their countless multitudes, we shall no longer wonder at such magnificent effects being produced by creatures individually so insignificant. In our seas it is chiefly a minute gelatinou animal, the mammaria scintilans, which, as it were, repeats the spleadid apectacle of the starry heavens on the tilans, which, as it were, repeats the splendid spectacle of the starry heavens on the surface of the oceon. On filling a vessel with the luminous water, the small mammarim, about the size of a plu's head, may by day light be seen floating at the top. For the most part transparent as crystal, they only in one spot exhibit a milky opacity. Under the microscope they plainly appear as globular animals, with an indentation corresponding to the dull spot on the surface, from which a tolerably long tentacle proceeds, moving slowly about as if in quest of food. It can easily be proved that the phen-proceeds from the animals, for on at the phosphorescent water it entirely luminous property, while the mamma maining on the filter shine on being move intensity of the light being always in propor-tion to their number. And finally, on gently shaking in the dark a bottle of sea water containing some of these animals, small lu-minous bodies are seen to full and rise in the same manner as mammarim, when similarly agitated during the day time, sink in the liquid, and then again ascend to the surface

Armee, states that Pekin is built in the form of a polygou, its northern portion offering a parallelogram, and its southern portion a square. It is surrounded by a turreted wall, with towers at short intervals; outside of this wall is a deep ditch, and beyond this enclosure a circle of suburbs, as densely peopled, as busy and as compact as is Pekin itself. The capital of China consists, in fact, of two cities, the North, or Imperial City, and the South City. The former is called the City of Tartars; the latter, the City of the Chinese. ABOLITIONISM

We gave two extracts, last week, from the Standard, showing what its opinions formerly were of the John P. Hales, Francis Gillettes, and other "fanatics of the Garrison order. who unfortunately have the leadership, control and management of the party which now calls itself Republican, and have brought about that very disastrous state of things which it then predicted-and that, too, with its own aid and concurrence. Below we give an extract from a warning speech made more than twenty years ago by Henry Clay, on this subject. How sadly have his warnings been ded-how sadly, too, have his worst fears been confirmed. Think back, reader, over the history of the country and the changes that have occurred in public sentiment and the character of political parties, since 1839; and, we are sure, you will teel as you make the retrospect, as he did in the prospect, that all the evils now upon us are. and the ruin which awaits us will be, the result, solely, of the insane agitation of Abolitionists—that they and those who, under a s and mone of their honesty, are and have on the real disunionists. See how fully the picture drawn by Mr. Clay of the consewhich would follow the triumph in the Government of this party, has been real-

Abolition should no longer be regarded as an imaginay danger. The Abolitionists, let me suppose, succeed in sir present sim of uniting the inhabitants of the free size as ease man, agniant the inhabitants of the slave sizes. Union on the one side will beget union on the ther. And this process of reciprocal consolidation will activate this process of reciprocal consolidation will activate the success of the Union will have taken prece, while the forms of its ex-beance remain. The most valuable element of unity, me that kindness, the feelings of sympathy, the fraters bonds which now happily units us, will have been exti-guished forever. One action will stand in menacing as hostile array against the other. The scollision of opinic will be quickly followed by the clash of arms.

The terrible future which now menaces ems hardly more palpable to us who stand nediately under its shadow, then did it to the prophetic eye of Clay twenty-one years ago. He mys:

I will not attempt to describe scenes which now happily lie concealed from our view. Abolitionists themselves would shrink back in dismay and horror at the contemplation of desolated fields, configrated cities, murdered inhabitants and the overthrow of the fairest fabric of human government that ever rose to animate the hopes of civilized man. Nor should the Abolitionists faither themselves that if they succeed in their object of uniting the people of the free States they will enter the coteans with a numerical superiority that must insure victory. All history and experience prove the hazard and suncertainty of war. And we are admonished by Holy Writ that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong. But if they were to conquer, whom would they conquer! A forsign foe—one who had insulted our face, invaded our shores, and laid our vace rountry waste? No, sir, no. It would be a conquest without laurels, without glory—a self, a suicidal conquest—a conquest of brothers over brothers achieved. our Bag, invesded our shores, and laid our vast country waste? No, sir, no. It would be a conquest without slory—a self, a suicidal conquest—a conquest of brothers over brothers, achieved by one over another portion of the descendants of common ancestors, another portion of the descendants of common ancestors, who nobly pledging their lives, their fortunes and their seared honor, had longhtand bled, side by side, in many a hard battle on land, and ocean, severed our country from the British crown, and established our national indenses descent

It is, perhaps, a remarkable coinciden that in the same year (1839) in a book published by Capt. Marryatt, an Englishman, ediction is made that the success of Abolitionism is tantamount to disunion. This idea is elaborated at considerable length. We Lewis D. Chatfield was seriously injured at make one extract :

the appears, thorsfore, that slavery can only be abolished by the lises fixthe itself in which it exists; and it is not very porbable that any class of people will make themselves beggers by surrendering up their whole property is astisfy the classor of a party. That this party (the Abolitical is strong, is daily becoming stronger, is very true; the stronger is becomes the werea will be the property of the interest of the United States. In England the case was very classes; the government had a right to make the sacrification; the government had a right to make the sacrification; the government had a right to make the sacrification; and the chorts of the abolitionities will only have because if the property of the abolitionities will only have he effect of plumping the country into difficulties and discusses. As as assertion author truly observe :—"The American Abolitonities through the carrange of a civil war, before they are released."

MATTERS SOUTH, &c. Governor Letcher communicated

Virginia Legislature, Tuesday, the coercion resolutions adopted by the State of Ohio, with a message saying that the sending of such resolutions to the slaveholding States can have no other effect than to excite fresh feelings of resentment, inflame existing prejudices, increase the present difficulties and embarrass, if not defeat, all efforts that are now being made to adjust the cotroversy between the North and the South. Governor Letcher is right. The course pursued by the Ohio fanatics shows that they want to them to repeal their Personal Liberty Bills,

In the Georgia Convention, Tuesday, an ordinance was submitted, continuing in force all the federal laws in reference to the African slave trade. How is this to be explained by the Republicans, who say the Southern Confederacy is to have for its main object the re-opening of the African slave trade?

A resolution has passed the Kentucky House of Representatives, declaring that in view of the men and money tendered by several Northern States to the General Government to coerce the Southern States, that the people of Kentucky, uniting with their extremity.

It is now stated that all danger of an immediate collision of the federal forces at Forts Samter and Pickens is at an end.

A dispatch from Raleigh says that North Carolina will prove conservative. Everybody is for secession, however, it it becomes a necessity.

WASHINGTON NEWS. &c. The Republicans in the Senate have thus far been a unit against any propositions of compromise for the restoration of the Union. But on Monday last Senator Cameron expressed his readiness to support the Bigler propositions—substantially the same as the Crittenden resolutions, with the important difference of a direct appeal to the peoplein the Republican column. General Cameron is sagacious politician, and is not apt to misinterpret the public opinion of Pennsylvania. If the other Republican Senators had only a tithe of his sagacity, to say nothing of patriotism, there would soon be a settlement in favor of the Union.

Mr. Dix, Secretary of the Treasury, bas communicated to Congress a statement of the actual condition of the Treasury. He estimates the amount necessary prior to the 1st of July next, in addition to the accruing revenue, at twenty millions of dollars. He also suggests measures to raise money, and, says:-

THE CHARLESTON PORTS The Forts at Charleston are on territory within the original limits of South Carolina, 500; circulation, $6,706,000. and under her exclusive jurisdiction. The ground was ceded to the United States for specific purposes, one of which was the erec- an act repealing the Nullification Law of tion of fortresses for the protection of the that State. This is a movement in the right might be made by foreign enemies, not for their destruction by the General Government, nor for their coercion into submission to what they might regard as unconstitutional and arbitrary power. Had they supposed that these armaments would ever, in any contingency, be used by the Government, to destroy their property or to compel them to submit to wrenge or aggressions of any kind, either from the Federal Government or from any one or more of the sister States, they would of course have peremptorily and indigantly refused to allow their erection .-With these views, they argue that they have a right to seize and hold them, in order to purposes for which they were intended .-

When the people of Connecticut become unanimously convinced, as in the case of South Carolina, that the fortress at New London, is to be employed by Uncle Sam to es, the Emperor Napoleon's reluc compel them to submit to what they regard as aggravated, persistent, unconstitutional wrongs, we reckon they will take it from his hands or perish in the attempt-whatever may be said to the contrary notwithstanding. "You may bet your life on that."

The Albany Argus characterizes the New York Tribune as a "disunion sheet," and adds :

We say disunion sheet, because everybody who has read it regularly for a few months past, knows that it whole tone, ecope and purpose are in favor of a separation between the North and the South, and because its leading editor, in counselling with his political friends here at the Capital, freely avows a similar opinion.

Among the "small fry" disunion paper, the Standard and Hartford Press can very properly be classed.

Not "advantaged" says Mr. Beecher The loss of Southern orders has thrown nearly two thousand operatives out of work in this place and vicinity! This state of things has been brought about by the doctrines brethren of the South, will resist any inva- taught by the "irrepressible men" of the sion of their soil at all hazards and to the last Beecher school. Every sensible man "with half an eye" can see that the North has not only "been advantaged" by being in the Union with the South, but that she would be ruined without her. It would be an "advantage" to society if pulpit screechers like Beecher would tell the truth occasionally.

> The Massachusetts Republicans have excused the existence of the Nullification laws of that State on the ground that they were passed by a "Know Nothing" Legislature. Charles Francis Adams made the same apology in Congress not long since, but the Boston Courier shows that in his case it was a mere sham, and that Mr. Adams was an early advocate of such legislation .-It is no use for leading Abolition Republicans at this late day, to endeavor to shirk the responsibility of their own acts. The best course for them to pursue is to endeavor to do right hereafter, and to make a beginning in that direction by advocating the repeal of their Nullification Laws, and by favoring the enactment of laws that will pretect and guarantee to the South her constitutional

On motion of Mr. Seward the matter was laid on the table. Mr. Crittenden's resolutions coming up, Mr. Powell of Ky., occupied the principal remaining portion of the session in an able speech. WHAT IS LIFE?—Ask this question of the forests, which teem with sturdy life. There stand veterane of centurial ages, rearing their rugged and in-reaching arms alott as if in deprecation of the ignorance of makind as to the means of preserving health and establishing one of the life grandmothers were children, are not the persons to recover us. It is the progressive doctor—the man afrect the requirements of the age—the man who is neither too idle nor too old forgrish to study for the benefit of his fellows and to give them a specific remedy—the result of his soli—that we must consilt. And the product of such study and sacrifice is DR. O PHELPS BROWN'S famous ACACIAN BALSAM:
Almost everybody has beard of it—how it heals the tubercies in the lungs, strengthens the weak stomschs, clothes the wasted muscles with their pristine fullness, imparts purity and color to the impowerished blood, renovates the torpid and dying liver, electrifies into beautiful vigor and activity the shatt red nerves, slences the incessant cough, and makes the Invalid sound; buoy and, strong, cheertul, and useful. The AC CIAN BALSAM has done all this—does it every day—and there is not an invalid in the world who should neglect to give its trial. Get a pamphies, describing it, from The AC CIAN SALSAM has done all time-does not day—and there is not an invalid in the world who also neglect to give it a trial.
