The Harper Brothers of New York, have published The History of the Netherlands, by Philip Motley, which has received the unanalified praise of the most discerning critical by Philip Motley, wants a qualified praise of the most discerning of it is the historical gem of the age; it nothing has so generally engrossed the lie approbation since the time when M ley's great historical work was inaugur Speaking of the matter of Mr. Motley torical bravery" as the Chicago Times that paper says:—There is no more day ous field for historic display than the Ge Empire. Strangely uniting tribes, free ies, monarchies, republics—all the diver-of external and human nature, all the var of external and human nature, all the varities of human institution,—it demands in the historian a range of abilities rarely combined.—It looms sternly up through the Pagan mist and its grand and often wild career; it is indented indelibly upon the Christian centuries. In position, the heart of Europe,—its domestic history crowned with rebellions against Church and States. Church and State; it has moved the nent from the Spanish Peninsula to icy shadows of the Ural. Its history is made sunshine of human events. In literature the school of Europe; to religion, the scotter of the Reformation; in the Fine Arts, their grander and gloomier characters, rival of Italy; in law, alone in unchalleng supremacy of her Grotius and Puffendort; commerce, the glory of Tyre and Cartha revived and increased; in council, dingly grand and subtle; in science of w producing Egmont and Orange; the preents and almost unexampled history of in vidual interest and national greatness. Such is the story, foremost among the spledid records of Europe, which Mr. Motley undertaken to write. Schiller has flung up the subject the power, the passion and to pomp of his genius in the magnificent framentary pictures which have descended us in his "Revolt of the Netherlands" B the fragments are divided in long gaps, as he did not live to finish the work. On to other hand, Watson, his predeceasor, in other hand, Watson, his predeceasor, in life of "Philip of Spain," covers too my ground, and weakens the interest by be too diffuse. To neither were the sources of information open which modern research has laid bare. Our own Prescott, in his lucid, cultivated and graceful manner, has recited the tale of the Dutch Republic in his "Philip of Spain." Mr. Prescott is admitted by Brit ish critics to be second to no British historian. Mr. Motley, we are persuaded, will occupy even a higher rank. He has pictured with Italian warmth of coloring those Central Europeans from the time Tacitus recorded their traditions, and the terrible blade of Cæsar inoculated them with Roman ideas and corruption, to the last success of the House of Orange. oo diffuse. The Yo Semple Cataract the highest in the World.—Thomas Starr King writes to the Boston Transcript of his vacation in the Sierras: The Yo-Semite cataract is the highest in the world yet known. The portion of the grante wall of the valley which rises opposite the hotel, is more than three thousand feet high. In a superbly arranged nock or bend, in the precipitous rampart, the cataract is framed. Mr. Greeley, in the account of his very hurried September visit to the valley a year ago, calls it a mere "tape line" of water dropped from the sky. Perhaps it is so toward the close of the dry season; but as we saw it, the blended majesty and beauty of it, apart from the general sublimities of the Yo-Semite gorge, would repay a journey of a thousand miles. There was no deficiency of water. It was a powerful stream, thirty-five feet broad, fresh from the Nevada, that made the plunge from the box of the awful precipioe; and as the valley is THE YO SEMITE CATABACT THE HIGH

only a mile in width, our delightful restinglace, on the southerly bank of the Mercecin the pass, afforded us the most favorable

The thunder, however, though certainly melodious, is by no means low, as our readers may imagine, when the measure of the fall is reported to them. At the first leap it clears 1 497 feet; then it tumbles down a series of steep stairways 402 feet, and then makes a jump to the meadows, 518 feet more. The three pitches are in full view, making a fall of more than 2.400 feet.

The three pitches are in full view, making fall of more than 2,400 feet.

But it is the upper and highest catanthat is most wonderful to the eye as well most musical. The cliff is so sheer that there most musical. The cliff is so sheer that there is no break in the body of the water during the whole of its descent of more than a quarter of a mile. It pours in a curve from the summit, fifteen hundred feet, to the basin that hoards it but a moment for the cascades that follow. And what endless complexities and opulence of beauty in the forms and motions of the cataract. It is comparatively narrow at the top of the precipice, although as we said, the tide that pours over is thirty-five feet broad. But it widens as it descends, and curves a little on one side as it vidends, so that it shapes itself, before it reaches its first bowl of granite, into the figure of the comet that glowed on our sky two years ago. More beautiful than the comet, however, we can see the substance of this watery loveliness ever renew itself, and ever pour itself away. see the substance of this watery loveliness ever renew itself, and ever pour itself away. Our readers have seen the splandid rockets on fourth of July nights, that burst into the serpents of fire. This cataract seems to shoot out a thousand serpentine heads or knots of water, which wriggle down through the air, and expend themselves in mist before half the descent is over. Then a new set burst from the body and sides of the fall, with the same fortune on the remaining distance; and thus the most charming fretwork of watery nodules, each trailing its vapery train for a hundred fact or more, is woven all over; the cascade, which swings now and then thirty feet each way on the mountain side, as if it was a pendulum of watery lace. Once in a while, too, the wind manages to get back of the fall between it and the cliff, and then it will whirl it around and around for two or three hundred between it and the clift, and then it will while it around and around for two or three hundred feet, as if it were determined to try the experiment of twisting it to wring it dry. We could lie for hours before Mr. Peck's door, never thred in gazing on this cataract, but ever hungry for more of the witcheries of motion and grace that refine and soften its

"THE CONSTITUTION AS IT IS" Is against all Personal Liberty Bills in the States that conflict with the authority of the Federal Government. Against all Underground Railroads that run off servants from Mayor, presiding. their masters South, to Canada or elsewhere North. Against all mobbing of U. S. Mar- report : shals that in the line of duty execute Federa laws. Against all incendiary publications North that influence a servile war in the South. Against all "Tribunes," "Independ dents," and everything like them. Against all geographical party organization that array one portion of the country against another. Against the denial of all right of transit North for servants as well as masters. Against turning out of church the George Washington, Patrick Henry, Thomas Jefferson, slaveholding followers in the South. Against converting into "a crime" "and a sin," the example of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and of Paul the Apostle, who sent back Philemon. Against going to war to acquire common Territory, and then stealing or monopolizing the whole of it, and persist ently excluding from it the sharers of our danger in the war, or the common contribu tors in purse in time of peace.

The Constitution, as it is, is excellent,magnificent. The only difficulty we have in with the Higher Law, Chicago Platform Republicans who construe it, -as it is not, -and refuse to abide by the abjudications of the Supreme Court, when the Courts come in conflict with their Underground Railroad, civil-war-inspiring, territory-monopolizing "conscience."

If the Republicans will abide by the Courts, and cultivate, not brutalize, their "consciences," we need no constitutional amendments. If the party in power will only give the South their Constitutional rights -everything would be settled quickly and peacea bly ; and the busy hum of industry would be heard once more in thousands of deserted manufactories at the North.

I hope you will send stiff-backed men or none. The whole thing was got up against my judgment and advice, and will end in thin smoke. But again. In parations as Gen. Scott made. It is best 1798, the Legislature of Kentucky passed a to use due caution, but our government is not a military despotism, and unless there be sufficient cause, the President elect should never be run through a tunnel or boarded gang-way to the Capitol, nor should he be surrounded by frowning cannon, with sharp shooters on platforms and housetops. Such ever the General Government assumes undelegated powses, its acts are anauthoritative, void, and of no force; that to this COMPACT each State acceded as a State, and is an integral party, and this Government, created by this COMPACT, was not made the exclusive or final judge of the extent of the powers delegated to itself, since that would have made its discretien, and not the Constitution, each party has an equal right to judge for itself, as well of infractions as of the mode and measure of redress.

Washington despatches are highly important, and indicate that the question of renforcing Forts Sumpter and Pickens will soon be decided. Indeed, so far as Fort Sumpter is concerned, it may have been decided already. One despatch states that there is a strong probability that an evacuation will soon take place, while the general character of all the intelligence relative to the subject leads to the conclusion that some definite action may be expected immediately.

MATTERS SOUTH, &c. Advices from the South inform us that the confederacy is making rapid strides toward forming a substantial and permanent government. Mr. Lincoln's inaugural was regarded as a declaration of war, and every preparation was being made to meet the emergency. From Texas we learn that the Convention declared that State out of the Union on giance to the State nor resign. The returns of the election were still incomplete, but as far as ascertained show a heavy majority in Virginia has reported on "Federal Rela tions"-in favor of Union, only with Equality and Justice. A conference of the Border States is urged.

When Mr. Buchanan refused to re seive the Commissioners of South Carolina in their official capacity, but granted them an interview as "distinguished citizens," there was a universal howl of 'traitor,' "imbecile," from the Abolition Republican press. Mr. Buchanan, they declared, deserved impeachment for not causing them to be arrested and arraigned for treason. It is now reported that Commissioners from the Southern Confederacy are in Washington, awaiting a proper time for conferring with the new administration. Let us see if the same violent denunciation will be heaped upon Mr. Lincoln, should he find it expedient to follow the same course.

At the concert given by Sharpley's Minstrels on Saturday evening, the violin solo executed by Prof. J. H. Sadler was nasterpiece of musical skill and talent. It was loudly encored, and the audience would not be satisfied without a repetition. Mr. Sharpley, we understand, has made an engagement with Mr. Sadler; and we doubt not he will receive the encomiums which his nusical talents deserve, wherever he goes.

The conservative portion of the Republican party would probably support the President in such a step-and that is the only portion he ought to try to please. He should pay no attention to the howlings of such Abolition fanatics as Ferry. Buckingham, and other disunion traitors. By their acts they have shown that they want to keep up the present division, and would see the Union "broken into as many fragments as there are stars in the heavens," rather than consent to give the South her constitutional rights.

The Boston Commercial Bulletin states that there were fifty-two failures in the United States during the week ending March 8. Facts like these upset the Old Abe theory that "nothing is going wrong," and "nobody is suffering anything."

CATARRH! CATARRH! CATARRH! CATARRH! WHAT IS IT ? HOW CURED?

Thousands of persons suffer all sorts of annoyance from Catarth. Mostpeople know what its inconvenience and results are, yet but few know how it can be cured. It is simply a chronic irritation, and often enlargement of follicles, and consequent thickening of the mucus membrane, liming the nasal cavities, irontal sinuses, and sometimes extending into the throat and lungs. From this result tightness and often verige of the head, obstructed nose, or a profuse flow ef mucus, loss of smell, nasal voice, and often impaired hearing and taste. ing for it. Nasai injections and inhalations are as paintic and expensive as they generally are worthless. Yet Hustersey & Cataran Frecipic, a simple Sucar Fitt, takes two or three times per day, promptly cures the milder cases cures at once all colos in the head, and radically cures, by persevering use, the most obstinate cases, as is proved by the experience of hundreds.

IT WILL RESTORE THE WEAK

ORIGINAL VIGOR AND PURITY.

PROF. O. J. WOOD'S

RESTORATIVE CORDIAL

BLOOD RENOVATOR

It is precisely what its name indicates; for, while pleasant to the taste, it is revivifying, exhilirating, and strengthening to the vital powers. It also revivifies, relustates, and renews the blood in all its original purity, and thus restores and renders the system invulnerable to attacks of disease. It is the only preparation ever offered the world in a popular form so as to be within the reach of all.

So chemically and skillfully combined as to be the most powerful tonic, and yet so perfectly adapted so as to act in perfect accordance with the laws of nature, and hence sooths the weakest stomach, and tone up the digestive organs, and allay all nervous and other irritation. It is also perfectly exhilirating in its effects, and yet it is never followed by lassitude or depression of spirits. PROF. WOOD'S RESTORATIVE CORDIAL.—It is recorded in the classics that Payche was once sent to a climate warmer than the West Indies to procure a sample of the beauty of Proserpine in a box. After some delay the messenger returned, and as soon as the lid of the box was removed, out flew all the lilis that flesh is hoir to. For unnetly, hope was found in the bottom of the box. PROF. WOOD'S RESTORATIVE CORDIAL revives the recollection of the story, for it invigorates the blood, aids the organs of digestion, imparts strength to the aervous system, and fortifies the citadel of health, so as to bid defiance to the assaults of disease. It is a healthy tonic, composed entirely of vegetable productions, and while it is exhibitate ating as pure wine, no injurious results can possibly follow its use. It is a desideratum in the medical world, and those who are afflicted with Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsis, Consumption, Fainness, Olddiness, Neuralgia, Palpitation of the Heart, &c., &c., will here find an infallible panacea.—St. Louis Daily Express.
