had not for its object the speculation so greatly practiced by the artists of our age.— Garrick did not go to Paris to act and to gain money, he traveled for pleasure, as a simple tourist anxious to see a beautiful country, partly his own; for the family of the actor were of French origin, exiled by the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. In the mailcoach which brought him from London to Dover he had as fellow traveler a gentleman named Sir Charles Lewis, whom he had already met at several places, and who used often to go to Drury Lane Theatre. They took advantage of the occasion to pursue their journey together in the French coach, but when arrived at Paris separated—the actor went to lodge with some friends who were expecting him; the other gentleman went to one of the hotels in the fashionable quarter of the Chausee D'Antin. The two fellow travelers expected often to see each other during their stay in Paris, but the totally different life which each of them led prevented their meeting. Sir George Lewis was about forty-five or fifty, of a strange figure, irregular and striking features, and an expressive and singular countenance. Despite his age, which should have tempered the arrest age. dor of his character and made himself renounce the follies of youth, Lewis lived in dissipation and pleasures. He had come to Paris to amuse himself, and to spend a large sum of money which had been left him. It was a surplus with which he wished to satiswas a surplus with which he wished to satisfy his love of prodigality. He was very fond of gaming, and his passion led him into a very mixed circle, in which people are estimated according to the amount of gold they put on the cards, and in which sharpers thus easily keep each other's company. The actor lived in other company, and he scarcely met his fellow-traveler twice or three times during a stay of four months at Paris. The during a stay of four months at Paris. The day before his departure for London, Garrick went to Lewis to bid him good bye, and to ask if he had any commissions. He learned that the unfortunate gentleman had been assassinated. His body had been found that morning in the forest of Bondy, stabbed and covered with blood. Garrick, much astonished, wished some account of this sad accident. The following are the details he obdent. The following are the details he obtained:—Lewis went on a party of pleasu to a Chateau on the borders of the forest Bondy, where a great number of hunters as gamblers assembled. He was to stay the several days. The first evening he won a considerable sum; the next day he received an invitation from Paris to a rendezvous; so he soon took leave of the company. They tried to make him stay, less through polite-ness than from the desire of winning back ness than from the desire of winning back what they had lost; and they went so far as to injure his carriage. Lewis, therefore, went on horseback. They represented to him the dauger of going through the forest of Bondy at nightfall; but he went. The accounts went no further. It was supposed he had been assassinated in the forest by robbers; but Garrick was of a different opinion. Lewis was armed. Besides, his watch, gold snuff box and ring had not been taken. He therefore thought him the victim of private revenge, and not murdered for his jewels.—Garrick, who knew something of law, held an inquest, while every one sought the murderer. Suspicion at last fell on a person named Chevalier Gatan, who left the chareau about the same time as Lewis, and had reabout the same time as Lewis, and had returned in about two hours. Garrick asked for permission to try a method which would olear all doubt. He was able to make his features closely resemble those of other per-sons. Sir George Lewis had lately his portrait painted, and it was still in the painter's workshop. Garrick went to see it, and to study to make himself, resemble it. The Judge caused the chevalier to leave the prison, and to be brought with a guard to Lewis's house. When he arrived he said, "Sir is's house. When he arrived he said, "Sir George Lewis has not died of his wounds.—
He wants to see you, for he accuses you."
He was brought into the room where Garrick represented Lewis. The illusion was complete. It was Lewis's expression of countenance, and it was his voice, when he said:—"Miserable assassin! will you now, before me, dare to deny your crime?" The chevalier fell on his knees, and, begging for pardon avowed his guilt. He was hanged enormous weight; a servant, where it was practicable, carried one about for his especial use. It was difficult to get a carriage whose door was wide enough for him; in London he had, of course, his own broughant in attendance. On one occasion the rehearsal at the theatre terminated sooner than was expected, and Lablache, anxious to reach home, ordered a street cab to be called. The driver looked alarmed when his face issued from the stage door. "He'll never get in, sir," said the man despairingly to me, as I was shaking hands with Lablache, who also seemed to have doubts upon the subject. We approached the vehicle—the door was opened wide. Sideways, headways, frontways, backways, the prize basso tried in vain to effect an entry. Without assistance it was impossible. Two men went to the opposite side and dragged with all their force, while two others did their utmost to lift him in, "It's ne go," cried the cabman; "he'll ruin my cab." One more effort. A long pull, a strong push, a pull and push together—the point was gained—Lablache inside, puffing and blowing from the exertion. But the difficulties had not yet terminated—he had inadvertently sat down on the wrong seat, with his back to the driver. Wishing to change his position he rose. In turning to change his position he rose. In tur round the whole of his prodigious we was upon the few slender boards forming bottom of the cab. Imagine the horr the cabman, the astonishment of Labla and the surprise of a large crowd which been attracted by the terrible struggle well when the board gave way, and his two were seen standing in the road. THE COMING ELECTION.

In the coming election the electors of Connecticut have a double duty to perform,first as citizens of a common country; and also as citizens of an individual State. The first requires that they should send to represent them in the councils of the nation, men whose course will be governed entirely by what will be for the best interests of the whole country; not those who can see no further then the narrow precincts of their particular districts, and think that they are bound to do thing except for the benefit of their particplar locality: nor those who think they must pander to the passions and prejudices of a adical few who hold the balance of power but men of enlarged and statesmanlike views of sober reason and discreet judgment, who in their actions will be guided by what will be for the best interests of the whole country. and looking beyond the present generation will keep in view the prosperity of the future.

In the selection of their candidates for Representatives, the Democracy of the several Congressional Districts in this State have shown commendable judgment: They have selected not mere politicians, not mere partisans, but men who who are especially needed in the present state of affairs. The nominations have been made from among the people; those who from professional, social, siness intercourse with the people, know what is for their best interests. In this District the nominee of the Democratic party is one who in all his relations, business or social, is highly esteemed for his integrity, capability and promptness. No better tribute could be paid than that of a political opponent and a former high officer of this State, who upon being asked if he knew Mr. Woodruff said, "I do; he is a fine man—a man of talent, and honest and straightforward in everything." Fer such a man, electors of the Fourth Congressional District, you are invited to give your suffrages. In him are centered all those qualities which are so requisite in our Representatives in Congress.
Without political ambition; and having fish motives to serve; unostentatious and ionified in his social intercourse; conservative and patriotic in his views; the Demoparty of this District, have nominated for a position he did not seek, but on the band, one which his sterling qualities how him peculiarly qualified to fill.

As to Mr. Ferry, his speeches and his votes ess, his action upon one of the most is now making before the people of this Dis-trict; and his own admissions—show that he has forgotten the patriot in the politician, and mage should be repaired and his less of the national man in that of a partisan. Our nerated. I am not aware that duty then as citizens of a common country is this portly basso ever attempted to ride again.

Prof. Jonnson of Middletown University, was one day lecturing before the students on Mineralogy. He had before him quite a now dissevered Union to future strife and number of specimens of various sorts to civil war; and compromise and concession to illustrate the subject. A roguish student, for what some so boastingly call back-bone—or in other words partisanship regardless of country.

But we have duties to perform as citizens to the brickbat. Without betraying of our individual State. For years past Connecticut has been under the control of a political party whose leaders have done all in their power to bring about the present distracted state of our country. Joining hands with a party which but a few years since was despised and scorned by both great political organizations of that day, they sent an ultra, radical Abolitionist to represent Connecticut in the Senate; they elected another to fill a responsible State office; year after year they have passed resolutions insulting sister States of the Union; they enacted a law intending to nullify one of the fundamental articles of the Constitution; and at a time when the country is full of strife and contention, when the Border States of the Union were endeavoring to stem the flood of seces sion and disunion and were imploring the North to adopt some plan of adjustment to save the Union, their representatives in Congress spurned them with disdain; and their party, as if to heap insult upon insult, have nominated a man for a high State office who, when Virginia hung the invader of her soil as a traitor, tolled the bell of his factory as he would for a martyr.

It is necessary, therefore, that Connecticut as a State should redeem herself from the rule of those who so long have placed her in a false position before the country. It is time for conservative men to act not merely by simply voting, but by earnest, sober reasoning upon all who are not so blinded by prejudice that they cannot reason.

The Democratic candidate for Governor is too well known in this community to need any commendation from us. Holding a high professional and social position, a man of unblemished character and spotless reputation, he is eminently qualified to fill the position of Chief Magistrate of this Commonwealth .-His opponents are trying by every species of misrepresentation and abuse to destroy the confidence of the people in him; but it should be borne in mind that they are playing at a desperate game; that with them everything is at stake, and if they cannot win by fair means they will descend to foul. The Standard takes the lead in this despicable business, but let it be remembered that it is the result of a long series of years of personal malice and desire for revenge, urged on by that peculiar disposition that characterises men of mean minds,—who when they have once wilfully misused and injured another, have not the manliness to apologize or the decency to retract, but pursue with malignity to the bitter end.

Citizens of Connecticut! you have an important contest before you! the result of which may be for the weal or woe of your country! If those noble men of the Border States who are fighting the battle of Union there; if those citizens of the Southern States there; if those citizens of the Southern States be carried out. She would be humiliated if she exiced anything else, and the North would be humiliated if it granted it. The South only asked for there is one bright spot in the North; that there is still the spirit of concession and compromise left which actuated the framers of our glorious Constitution, they will reioice and take courage; and our State, small as it is, may in the future, when the clouds of fanaticism shall have rolled away, -when the sun of peace and prosperity shall again shine upon a reunited, .happy people,-then may we proudly say that we have stayed the storm that threatened to destroy; that we averted the calamities that were about to overwhelm us, and saved the country from the horrors of a civil war.

NEW BOOKS. THE GREAT PREPARATION; or Redemption draweth nigh; by Rev. John Cummings, D. D.; New York Rudd Carleton.

This is the second part of Dr. Cummings great work on the rapid approach of the dillenium. The Reverend author is minister of the Scottish National Church, London, and the volume is composed of sermons preached from his pulpit. The character and contents of the discourses are entitled to the attention of every Christian mind. They are strong, original and singular, and well-worthy of a perusal. In the words of a religious cotemporary "Their tendency is not so much o alarm as to awaken. The fulfillment of prophecy, the probabilities of the near approach of the end, are not spread out in dranatic or didactic terrors to produce sensation but are everywhere treated of with a deep and selemn earnestness, and always for the one purpose of making an application of the njunction, 'Be ye, therefore, ready.' SPECIAL SENATE SESSION.

On Tuesday, Hon. David Wilmot Senato from Pennsylvania, in place of Mr. Cameron was sworn in and took his seat. Joint reso lutious from the General Assembly of In dians, requesting Congress to call a Convention for the amendment of the Constitution were received, ordered to be printed, and laid on the table. The Douglas Resolutions coming up, Mr. Breckinridge, late Presiding Officer of the Senate, delivered a moderate and eloquent address. He said, among other the corner of State and Courtland streets to things, that he had made strenuous efforts at the recent session to consummate a satisfac tory adjustment of the pending issues, and that no one regretted the failure more than he did. He declared that the immediate Inaugural, and he noticed especially those suggested by the Senator from Maine, and nois, but declared that while the general expression of the President were for harmony and the prevention of bloodshed, his policy unless essentially modified, must result in bloodshed. He then proceeded to quote from the Inaugural, and argued that the Raitroad, was referred to the Committee on President was to use force, so far as it is necessary, to occupy the forts and enforce the laws. He asserted that the sloop navybill, calculated to invade the shallow waters of Sothern shores, together with the character of the cabinet, indicated that bloodshed may not be avoided. He also charged that the Chairmen of the Standing Committee, of the Senate were mostly in favor of main taining the authority of the Federal Government over the withdrawn States by force, if necessary. We are in constant danger of and conciliation to be obtained; what was meant by peace and conciliation? Then for the sake of the great national interests at stake, the support of the credit and the general prosperity, he favored the establishment of some leading principle. He recommended also, the withdrawal of the troops from the South as the last chance of re uniting the States, and asserted that in case of war, the border States would also secede. Finally, he was of opinion that the Federal Government cannot be restored or preserved on the principles which brought the dominant party into power. Messrs. Hale and Wigfall also took part in the debate and after an Executive Session, the Senate adjourned.

DR. M'LANE'S LIVER PILLS. When the proprietors, FLEMING BROS., of Pittsburgh, Pa of this invaluable remedy purchased it of the inventor, there was no medicine which deserved the name, for the cure of Liver and Billious complaints, notwithstanding the great prevalence of these diseases in the United States. In the emedy was required, at once safe and effectual, and the operation of which could in no wise prove prejudicial to the constitution. This medicine is supplied by Dr. M'LANE's LIVER PILLS, prepared by FLEMING BROS., of Pittsburgh as has been proved in every instance in which it has had a trial. Always beneficial, not a solitary instance has ever oc-curred in which its effects have been injurious. The invention of an educated and distinguished physician, it has not public by shallow pretenders to the medical art. GREAT CURE!

BAND,

Is the only known remedy for RHEUMATISM, GOUT and NEURALGHA, and a Sure Cure for ALL, MERCURIAL DIBEASES. It is a conveniently arranged Band, containing a medicated compound, to be worn around the waist, without injury to the most delicate persons - no change in habits of living is required, and it entirely removes the disease from the system, without producing the injurious effects arising from the use of powerful internal medicines which weaken and destroy the constitution, and give temporary relief only. By this treatment, the medicinal properties contained in the B and, come in contact with the blood and reaches the disease, thregh the pores of the skin, effecting in every instance a perfect cure, and restores the parts afflicted to abulty condition. This Band is all of a most powerful anti-Mercurial agent, and will entirely relieve the system from permicious effects of Mercury. Moderate cases are cured in a few days, and we are constantly receiving testimonials of its effecty in aggreyated cases of long standing.

Price $2--to be had of Drugglist generally, or can be sent by mail or express, with faul directions for use, to any part of the country, direct from the principal office, No. 409 Scoulway, New York. G. SMTH & CO., Sole Proprietors.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—About two years ago, a spot made its appearance upon my nose, which, though at first I thought little of it, soon proved to be that dreaded disease, called Cancer. Dreading to have it cut out, and also having little confidence in the knife treatment, it had been growing from one AND A HALF to two years, when seeing the advertisement of Da. N. BABCOCK, of this city, and see hearing him spoken of as being skillfull in the removal of Caccer by means of plasters, and that, too, without pain, I; it myself under his care, and in a few days learned by expetence the entire truth of what had been said of him. The Caccer came out, and the wound quickly healed over without differing my face. I am free to say, that the operation was entirely satisfactory, and that I feel myself entirely cured. I most cheerfully certify to the knowledge and skill of Dr. Bascock, in the treatment of my ancers, and for recommend him to all such as may be afflicted with this dreadful disease

PROF. WOOD'S

HAIR RESTORATIVE.

OTHERS SAY OF IT.

SEE WHAT

A DISTINGUISHED ST. LOUIS PHYSICIAN WRITES

O. J. Wood, Esq:—Dear Sir.—Allow me the pleasure and satisfaction to transmit to you the beneficial effects of your HAIR RESTORATIVE, after a trial of 5 years. I commenced using your Restorative in January, 1855, since which time! have not been without a bottle on hand. When I commenced the use, my hair was quite thin, and at least one-third gray. A few applications stopped its falling, and in three weeks time there was not a gray hair to be found, neither has there been up to this time.

After my hair was completely restored, I continued its use by applying two or three times per month. My hair has ever continued healthy, soft and glossy, and my scalp perfectly free from dandruff. I do not imagine the facts above mentioned will be of any particular advantage to you, or even flatter your vanity at his late day, as I am well aware they are all well known aiready, and even more wonderful ones throughout the Union. I have occupied my time in traveling the greater part of the time the past three years, and have taken pride and pleasure in recommending your Restorative, and exhibiting its effects in my own case. In several instances I have met with people that have pronounced it a humbug; saying they had used it and without effect. In every instance, however, it proved, by probing the matter, that they had not used your article at all, but had used some new article, said to be as good as yours, and selling at about half the price. I have noticed two or three articles myself advertised as above, which I have no doubt are humbugs. It is astonishing that people will patronize an article of no reputation, when there is one at hand that has been proved beyond a doubt.

Apparently, some of those charlatans have not brains enough to write an advertisement, as I notice they have copied yours, word for word in several lostances, merely inserting some other name in place of yours.

I called to see you personally, at your original place of business here, but learned you were now living in New York. You are at liberty to publish this or to refer parties to me, Any communication addressed to me, care box No. 1,22; will be promptly answered. Yours truly JAS, WAITE, M. D.

WARREN SPRINGS, Perry Co., Penn., June 7, 1860.
PROF. WOOD—DEAR SIR:—I was induced more than a year ago to try your vauuable HAIR RESTORATIVE for the purpose of cleansing my head of dandruff. I had suffered with it upon my head for years, and had never been able to get anything to do me any good in removing it, although I had tried many preparations, until I saw your advertisement in a Harrisburg paper. Being there at the time, I called at Glors & Kunkie's drug store, and bought a bottle, and now a man prepared to recommend it to universal use, for it has completely removed all dandruff from my head, and an application once in two weeks keeps it free from any itching or other unpleasantness. I must also state that my hair had become quite white in places, and, by the use of your preparation, has been restored to its original color. I am now 50 years of age, and although I have used two bottles of the Restorative, no one has any knowledge of it, as I allow a few gray hairs to remain, in order to have my appearance comport with my age. My showledge of it, as I silow a few gray hairs to remain, in order to have my appearance comport with my age. My shead is now of less trouble to child. I consider your preparation of great value, and, although I do not like to expose myself, I consider it my dury to say so. You can use this or any part of it in any shape you think proper, if it is worth anything to you.

TIVE, but supposed me strong desire to them; but entertaining a strong desire to the possible, restored to its original color and fineness, as it was in my lyounger days a beautiful black, I concluded I would make the experiment commencing in a small way. I purchased one of your small bottles, at one dollar, and commenced using. following directions as nearly as I could. I soon discovered the dandruff removed, and my hair, that was failing off in large quantities, was considerably tightened, and a radical change taking place in the color. I have ened, and a radical change taking place in the color. I have and just begun on the fourth. I nave now as pretty a head of dark brown, or light black hair as any man, or as I had in my youthful days, when a boy in the hills of western Virginia. My head is entirely clear of dandruff, and the hair wing. My head is entirely clear of dandruff, and feels as and last brown, or light black and of dark brown, or light black and youthful days, when a boy in the hills of western any youthful days, when a boy in the half so in a word and fine, and feels as cleased entirely falling off and is as soft and fine, and feels as oily, as though it was just from the hands of a French champooer. Many of my acquaintances frequently say to me, Butler, where did you get that fine wig?" I tell them it was the effects of your Restorative. It is almost impossible to convince them that it is the original half of the same old to convince them that it is the original half of the same old to convince them that it is the original half of the same old to convince them that it is the original half of the same old to convince them that it is the original half of the same old to convince them that it is the original half of the same old to convince them that it is the original half of the same old to convince them that it is the original half of the same old to convince them that it is the original half of the same old to convince them that it is the original half of the same old to convince them that it is the original half of the same old to convince them that it is the original half of the same old the same of the WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.—We are not in the habit of puffing every new discovery, for in nine cases of ten they are quack nostrums, but we take great pleasure in recommending PaorEsson Wood's article to all whose hab: is failing off or turning gray. Our well-known contributor, finitely Johnson, Eaq., has experienced the benefit of its application, and joins with us in speaking of its virtues. Let all try it and baid heads will be as rare as snow in summer.—Baltimore Patriot.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE. Unlike most specifics, this is proved, by unimpeachable evidence, to possess great efficacy as a restorer of the hair to its prestine vigor. Where the head had become almost bald because of sickness, the use of this article has produced a beautiful growth of thick, glossy hair. It is therefore a valuable preparation for all classes. Its ingredients are such as to effectually eradicate dandruff and other impurities which operate so injuriously to the hair. It also has curative properties of another description. In many cases simples and other disfigurements of the skin disappear wherever it is used. There is no hazard attaching to the trial of this remedy, and its effects can only be beneficial, as the compound, if it does not cause a manifest improvement, is is capable of doing harm, as its component elements are perfectly innocuous.—Boston Transcript. April 22, 1259.

we leave our readers to determine. In one instance, how-ever,—Prof. Wo d's Hair Restorative—we are so well as-sured of the notable qualities of the article, that we give it our endorsement as all that its inventor and vender claims it to be. Its effect upon a falling head of hair is universally known to be magical. Like lime or gusno on exhausted land, it brings the crop wherever applied. Our own thatch is fortunately healthy, but we advise our friends with sparsely-growing hair to try the Restorative.—Columbia Spy

PURITY OF MIND AND BODY, are equally attained by continuing the human organiza-tion in perfect health, unnatural promptings and dewith indigestion, which in its most distressing forms may be ured by the application of DR. O. PHELPS BROWN'S celebrated remedies. One form of DYSPEPSIA is known by cured by the application of DR. O. PHELPS BROWN'S colbrated remedies. One form of DYSPEPSIA is known by capricious appetities; sense of weight and fullness at the pit of the stomach; irregular bowels; tongue white; several lacerating pain; across the lofns; excessive depression of spirits, despondency so intense as often to excite the most paintideas; bence this class of disorders invariably indicate impaired nutrition, enervation in the organs of digestion and assimilation so that bad and unassimilated chyle gets into the blood, and soon develops consumption in those prediaposed to imbercular depositions in the lungs.

DR. O. PHELPS BROWN'S ACACIAN BALSAM, price $2 per large bottle, may be obtained of THAYER, & STEVENS, No. 28 State street, Sole Agonts, who has also a number of specimen bottles, price 25 cents. Call and procure a descriptive pamphilet. feb 19 Imd&4w99
