

STATE CONVENTION.

THE ANNUAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION to nominate candidates for State Offices, will be held at NEW HAVEN, on THURSDAY, the 22d of February next.

At 10 o'clock A. M. the Convention will be called to order, at which hour it is hoped every Delegate will be in attendance at the place of meeting.

Towns will send Delegates equal to double the number of members of the House of Representatives to which they are entitled.

It is hoped that no town in the State will be so recent to duty as to omit sending a full and efficient delegation.

JAMES T. PRATT, State JULIUS CATLIN, Committee. NATHAN BELCHER, Dated Rocky Hill, Jan. 11th, 1849.

Agricultural Institutes.

We are very far behind the State of New York in the establishment of High Schools for instruction in the important science of Agriculture.

Two hours in each day are employed by the students in the chemical laboratory, during which they are required to analyze and investigate the natures and properties of soils, and of all substances used in dressing the soil.

Agricultural Chemistry is strictly attended to, and Geology, so far as it has relation to Agriculture, is thoroughly taught, and strongly impressed upon the minds of the students.

In speaking of this Institution, the Albany Cultivator says:—“From what we have learned of this institution, we are favorably impressed with its character, and the advantages it affords for giving instruction in the branches above mentioned.”

Mr. Clay.—The general impression is, that Mr. Clay will be returned to the United States Senate, from Kentucky. In a speech before the Senate of that State, Mr. Bruce pronounced a high eulogium upon his character, and called upon his constituents to send him once more to the National Council.

Congress.—The bill for coining one dollar pieces of gold at the Mint, has been a topic of considerable discussion of late. It had passed to a second reading, and it was thought, would become a law.

New Commissioner to Mexico.—The President has recently appointed the Hon. John B. Weller Commissioner to adjust and run the boundary line between the United States and Mexico.

Adjourned Town Meeting.—It will be recollected, that an adjourned Town Meeting is to be held at the Town Hall in this Village, on the first Monday of February inst., at one o'clock, P. M.

To Correspondents.—L. N. B. is crowded out for want of room. It came too late.

Scar's New Pictorial Family Magazine.—We have received the January number of this work, which commences the first volume. It opens richly, and promises to be a highly useful and entertaining publication.

Occasionally we have a newspaper returned to this office by mail, marked refused, without the name of the town where the subscriber lives.

Cancer.—The application of a Cranberry poultice, it is said, will cure a cancer, if its use be strenuously persevered in.

Steam Boat Explosion.—The Charleston News contains an account of the explosion and destruction by fire, of the Steamboat Richard, near Britton's Ferry, on the 15th inst.

The Atlantic and Pacific Railroad.

The most important railroad enterprise ever projected in the world, is about to be carried into execution. For centuries it has been desirable that there should be a short cut by means of a railroad or canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean.

The Committee further find, after minute investigation, that such a road will produce the following vast saving in money to American commerce alone.

Table listing savings for various commodities like China trade ($800,000 per annum), fishery ($2,250,000 per annum), and others.

That is to say, the saving in money will pay for the road, expensive as it is, seventeen times over, in twenty years.

They further provide in their report, that not over five dollars fare shall be charged for passengers, and not more than five dollars per ton for freight on the road.

As an investment, this railroad would, without much question, be more profitable than any other ever projected.

Printers' Festival.—The anniversary of Franklin's birth was celebrated at New York on the 17th inst.

The anniversary of Franklin's birth was celebrated at New York on the 17th inst., in a manner well suited to the occasion.

The following is published as a specimen of western eloquence and jurisprudence.

Judge, said the counsel for defendant, "your time I know is precious, as must be the case with so able and valued a member of society."

"Verdict for the Defendant," said the judge.

A WRITER in the American Courier is out against female M. D.'s. He says he shouldn't like to have his wife called out in the night to visit another man.

President Polk.—Much as we may dislike President Polk, we must admit that his administration has been singularly successful.

The employment of steam vessels would render the contrast still more striking.

A Sick Gold Digger.

We commenced the following extract from a young man, formerly a compositor in this office. He went out with the New York Regiment of Volunteers, and went to the region of gold dust, and dug, and washed and collected the yellow stuff.

California, Region of Gold Dust, } Out of doors, Nov. 20, 1848. }

DEAR LEES—Here I am in the Gold Region digging like a naylor—when I am able. I had, at one time; about five pounds, which I sewed up in bags, and tied it to a belt I had around my body.

You have seen the shaking quakers, at Lebanon, at their worship. Put a shovel in their hands, and make them lean and thin, hungry and ragged; and you may guess what the diggers are in California.

Give me digging at the case, with a steak at the Franklin House, at dinner time, and you may dig for the "dust," with a hungry stomach and back as bare and ragged as a beggar.

Your old clothes, and broken victuals, would be a godsend. Can't you ask the hands in the office to make a collection to make up a package of cast off "duds," and sent them on; and I promise you all the dust I can gather in a month.

Friend Lees—If I can only get to work at the case again before I get to be a case, give me joy. Men's faces grow longer than their lives very shortly here.

Piracy.

We have received, (says the New York Tribune,) complete files of the Polynesian from Sept. 1, to Nov. 2, containing much news of interest.

"On Thursday morning the 12th inst., the English schr. Amelia, of Glasgow, arrived at this port in distress, part of her crew having mutinied, and murdered the captain, supercargo, and first and second officers.

The right of way so far as it belongs to the public domain is given to the Company, besides the right to select 150,000 acres out of any portion of the public lands which have not been appropriated.

The Company has applied to Congress for a grant of $250,000 per annum for twenty years, in consideration of conveying the troops, mails and property of the United States across the road free of expense.

The Company has applied to Congress for a grant of $250,000 per annum for twenty years, in consideration of conveying the troops, mails and property of the United States across the road free of expense.

The ladies, affrighted at the noise and groans of the murdered, were ordered to their state rooms, the mate was secured in his, and the murderers took possession of the cabin, and shaped their course for the coast of Peru.

They then threw all the letters and papers overboard, and getting out a large quantity of gold, divided it among the crew, compelling all of them at the peril of their lives, to take a share of the money; and then calling for wine, commenced gambling.

[Here follows a letter from Thomas Gannon, cabin boy on board the Amelia, which goes to corroborate the above statement, and gives the names of the mutineers and murderers. They are as follows:—John Smith, of Rotterdam, Holland; William Peter, Christiansand, Norway; Frank Peering, St. Michael's, Western Islands; John Berringer, Bordeaux, France; Jose, Bilbao, Spain.

They were killed by the mutineers.—Mr. Cook, a resident of Mazatlan; Capt. Robert L. McNally, of Dublin; Roman Alva, and Citano.]

During the past year, 4,737,126 bushels of salt manufactured by the salt works of New York State, or 755,744 bushels more than in the previous year.

and with a loud laugh ran off, as though his last feat was the most meritorious of his life.

Thankful at having escaped with unbroken bones, his lordship was not long in overtaking his carriage; the servants could not repress their laughter, at seeing their master in such strange and motley attire; but there was in his face such evidences of terror and suffering, that they speedily checked their risible inclinations, particularly when they learnt by a few brief words the danger he had undergone.

"My dear W——," exclaimed his affectionate wife, after listening to the account of the perils to which her husband had been exposed, "for Heaven's sake take off that filthy jacket and throw it out of the window. You can put my warm cloak over your shoulders till we reach the next stage, and then you will be able to purchase some habit better suited to your station and calling."

"That is more easily said than done, my love," he replied; "I have lost all the money I possessed; not a single guinea is left me to pay our expenses to-night. My watch, too, that I so dearly prized! Miserable man that I am!"

"Never mind that, or anything else just now—only pull off that mass of filth, I implore you; what horrid contagion we may all catch if you persist in wearing it?"

"Take it off, dear papa," observed the daughter, "but don't throw it away; it may lead to the detection of the wretch who robbed you!"

The obnoxious garment was removed; the young lady was about to place it under the seat, when she heard a jingling noise that attracted her attention, and on examination, found secreted in various parts of the coat, not only the watch, pocket book, purse, and silver, of which her father had been deprived, but a yellow canvass bag such as is used by farmers, containing about 30 guineas.

The surprise and joy of all parties may be imagined; they reached the inn where they proposed stopping for the night, and as the portmanteau had escaped the dangers of the road, the bishop was speedily able to attire himself canonically.

Before the party retired for rest, intelligence arrived that the highwayman had been taken, after a desperate resistance—the notice of the police, being attracted by the singular appearance of a man of his station sporting a new black coat, and covering his carolary, shaggy locks with the well powdered and orthodox peruke of the Right Reverend, the Bishop of Cashel.

Detection of a Lady Thief.

The fancy store keepers in Broadway, have been for some time past, much annoyed by missing valuable articles from their stores, amounting to from $5 up to $20, at a time; and these petty larcenies were invariably committed at a time when the store was filled with fashionable looking ladies.

The store at this time was thronged with ladies, who witnessed the whole affair. The store keeper felt it a duty he owed towards the other stores, as well as to himself, and the public, that she should be arrested and dealt with according to law; therefore a messenger was sent to procure a policeman; but before he arrived, the accused had induced a gentleman, who was in the store at the time, to go into Wall street and notify her husband of her peculiar position and arrest. Before, however, the arrival of her husband or the policeman, by entreaties and suplications, she so far softened the heart of the store keeper, that he let her go.

They met with silent looks, and walked off together, with feelings the reader can more readily imagine than can possibly be described.—N. Y. Herald.

Death of the Milford Bard.

We learn by a private letter from Wilmington, Delaware, that Dr. John Loffland, well known by the literary appellation of the "Milford Bard," died, in that city yesterday morning, where he has resided some time past, occupying an honorable position, as one of the editors of the "Blue Hen's Chickens," a weekly paper of considerable literary merit and business tact in that city.

The columns of that paper weekly teemed with prose and poetic productions from his pen, evincing an application to his favorite pursuits, and an abandonment of the weaknesses of his early life that must have been truly gratifying to his friends and relatives among whom he resided.

He was a native of Delaware, though for many years a resident in this city, where he has left many friends, and no enemies—for the sympathies of his heart were all bound up in good will for his fellow-man. As a poetic writer he was always ready and fluent, and many of his productions evinced great ability.—Baltimore Sun.

Justice to the public induces me, on this occasion, to write on the subject of Mutual Insurance.

It is conceded, I believe, by all thinking men, that it is a duty for every one who is the owner of buildings, to effect an insurance upon them in one way or another; but special caution is necessary in the choice of Companies at which to effect such insurance.

Without going to the State of New York, or any other State, we have in our own, Mutual Insurance Companies, conducted strictly on mutual principles, and at as low rates of premium as any foreign institutions, which are at the present time, flooding this State with their agencies, almost without number or responsibility, many of whom, I hesitate not to say, and that without fear of contradiction, are practising the grossest imposition on the public, and taking from every man whom they insure, at the least estimate, three fourths of the money taken for insurance, to fill their own pockets, and the pockets of half a dozen others, if possible, more corrupt than their agents.

I wish to be a little more particular, that there may be no mistaking the meaning; and I wish to do it by suppositions, which suppositions are no fiction; but, to my personal knowledge, are facts, which I am qualified by written communications to substantiate.

I will suppose, then, that a Mutual Insurance Company is started in the State of New York, (Washington County, for instance, or any other County) denominated the "Farmer's Company," for the expressed purpose of insuring buildings and other property, at the least possible expense to the "Farmers," representing, that in no case, will a larger amount than two-thirds the real cash value of the buildings be taken; that, in point of fact, the same are taken at one third advance above their value, (which, to say the least, induces carelessness on the part of the insured.)

That it is pursuing the object for which it was professedly created? Or, is it practising an imposition upon the public?

Again, I will suppose these hiring agents come to you with their mouths filled with false representations of the affairs of our own domestic Companies which have stood the test of years against the increasing fires of our State, have adjusted all their losses with promptitude and fairness, without in a single instance, in fifteen years, having made an assessment on the premium notes or charges, and which allow only a fair compensation to agents for doing their business.

Suppose that, by these false representations, they induce you to effect insurance in their companies, when you have already an insurance on the same property, at another office for two years to come, giving their word, that you have a perfect right to violate the contract you have made with a former Company, when they know full well, if you do so, you by your own act, render both the policies void and of no effect; and at the same time, have obligated yourself to pay your proportion of all the losses which may happen in both companies. (This has been done in numberless instances.) I say, what is the conclusion here? Is it not that the "Two Dollars" have something to do with it?

Is it not that such an Institution is rotten from the core to the shell, although the shell appears sound. I say to you, be on your guard, as the County of Litchfield is now being scoured by these same Foreign Agents, who, I have no doubt, will use all the art they are masters of, to take the "Two Dollars" from you.

I have already been more lengthy than I designed; but I could not, in justice to the public, say less, knowing as I do, the facts in the case.

I will just say in conclusion, that the "Litchfield County Mutual Insurance Company," I believe to be worthy of patronage, as are also the "Hartford County" and "Middlesex County" Companies; all of which are under the control of judicious Managers, men with whom we are personally acquainted, and in whom we have the utmost confidence.

Personally, I am but little known in Litchfield County; but I beg leave to refer to the following gentlemen:—Leman W. Cutler, Amos A. Gridley, Eli Curtis, Merritt Hemmaway, Watertown; Abraham Beecher, David M. Cowles, Bethlem; and Charles B. Phelps, John Abernathy, and J. & R. Hotchkiss, Woodbury.
