Meriden Literary Record

EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY RIGGS & DORRAN, No. 2, South's New Building, WEST MERIDEN, CONN.

WEEKLY EDITION, 1,500.

Fledged but to Justice, to Liberty, and Law, No Slave ways us, and no Fear shall awe.

LIBERTY AND UNION—now and forever—one and inseparable.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1863.

"MERIDIAN," "PILGRIM'S HARBOR," and "DOG'S MISERY."

The tract of land comprising the town of Meriden, was originally purchased of the Indians by the settlers of New Haven...

The origin of the name has never been fully decided. The spot on which our town stands was early known as "Pilgrim's Harbor"...

Some additional knowledge of the town at this period, and of its inhabitants, their situation and their wants, may be derived from the following paper...

During the period of the "King Philip's War," the whole county was in the greatest alarm and peril from the aborigines...

At still another meeting, the same year grants were made to the Curtis, Royce, and others, of another parcel of swamp, meadow, and upland...

The following extract develops some historical facts, relating to the period, September 16, 1707:—

The John Merriam, here reported to be the ancestor of the numerous families of that name, still residing among us...

From the foregoing deed, and others to which we have had access, it appears that the precise locality of Pilgrim's Harbor was on the meadow north and west of the creek...

In September, 1718, as appears by the original record of Wallingford, the inhabitants of Pilgrim's Harbor and Meriden, in a petition, entreated and requested the inhabitants of the town of Wallingford to admit them...

It is not positively known whether the grantees settled around dog's misery at the precise date of their grants...

Next week, in continuation, the settlement of the Farms and Haverhill districts, the generalities of the Church of Meriden, the Ministry, and the state of religion at this period, will be considered.

Treasons at Home. We regret to learn that one of our merchants is notoriously disloyal in sentiment...

Unfortunately I was on Saturday evening last, an unwilling listener to the conversation of a certain individual...

What we Don't like to See. We don't like to see a man come into a printing office with high booted boots on...

The following named gentlemen compose the Board of Directors of the Meriden Bank:—

At a special meeting of the Board, held on the 22nd inst., the following resolutions were adopted:—

Grand Union Festival. In aid of the families of our soldiers, who are enduring the fatigues and privations of camp life...

Committee on Amusements. (Whole duty it shall be to procure speakers and music, arrange tableaux, &c.)

General Headquarters State of Connecticut. ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE, Hartford, Nov. 18, 1863.

The following statements of pay and bounty to which volunteers who enlist for regiments in the field, under the last call of the President are entitled, and the premium paid to recruiting agents, is published for the information of all concerned:

II. Each accepted volunteer shall be paid by the United States in addition to the regular pay and allowance, a bounty and premium of three hundred and two dollars ($302) receiving at time of muster sixty dollars ($60), and the balance in installments during his term of service.

He shall also be paid by the State of Connecticut: 1. A bounty of three hundred dollars ($300) when he shall have been mustered into the service of the United States, provided he shall enlist on or before the 5th day of January, 1864.

2. The sum of thirty dollars per year, or at that rate for any fraction of a year that he shall serve, ten dollars of which shall be paid him as he is mustered into the service of the United States, and ten dollars at the end of each successive four months thereafter.

3. There shall also be paid for the support and maintenance of his family, the sum of six dollars per month for the wife, if any there be, and two dollars per month for each child under fourteen years of age, and in case there shall be a child or children and no wife, then the sum of six dollars per month for the younger child, and two dollars per month for each additional child under fourteen years of age, provided the amount paid for any one family shall not in the aggregate exceed the sum of ten dollars per month.

Should he be disabled in service, this payment to his family shall continue so long as his disability shall exist, and if he shall die, this payment will continue during his term of service, unless the company to which he belonged shall be discharged.

4. If he shall die in service, he shall receive from the United States, in addition to the above, a further bounty of one hundred dollars ($100).

III. All recruiting agents appointed by the Provost Marshal-General will receive for each recruit who shall be delivered at either of the offices of the Provost Marshal in the several Congressional Districts, and be mustered into the service of the United States, as follows: 1. From the United States a premium of ($15) fifteen dollars.

2. From the State of Connecticut a premium of ten dollars.

3. If the volunteer shall have previously been in service at least nine months, and been honorably discharged, the premium paid by the United States will be twenty-five dollars.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief, HORACE J. MORSE, Adjutant-General.
