King Cotton. If the present war shall break down the cotton despotism, it will in that respect at least, prove a great blessing to the world. Our Union might endure forever if the productions of the South were not so exclusively confined to cotton.

Religious Notices. The Thirtieth Regiment will attend the sacramental service at the 3d Congregational Church to-morrow forenoon.

Thurlow Weed in London. Mr. Weed is watching over American interests in London with much anxiety and care, and appears to be well received everywhere.

England and the United States. In regard to the opinion, often uttered, that notwithstanding the settlement of the Trent difficulty, England is resolved upon a war with this country, and will annoy us until she has accomplished her purpose, the Albany Evening Journal justly remarks that if this be true, it is nevertheless well that her purpose has been thwarted for the present, for two reasons: First, because we have just now enough to do at home; and, secondly, because, in the Trent quarrel, England had the sympathy of all the great maritime nations of the world.

Dr. I. G. Porter, of New London, has been appointed and confirmed as surgeon of the post at Fort Trumbull.

Attempted Inoculation. Some villain last night broke into the cellar of Richards's building, on State street, and passed up to the first floor at No. 255, where he tore away the plastering and kindled a fire in the lath which came very near igniting the building. The flames, however, went out of themselves, without doing any great damage, and the inmates only discovered the diabolical attempt this morning. Some one needs hanging very badly.

On Friday, the 20th of December, three gentlemen of this city—one a youth 19 years of age—started out on a fishing and shooting expedition in a small schooner owned by Mr. John Ward of West Haven. Their names were James Swift, living on Putnam street; James Reed, living at No. 94 West Water street; and George C. Collins, son of Friend D. Collins, living at No. 19 West Water street. They intended going to Stony Creek, Saybrook and Gardner's Island, and meant to return on Christmas day, but since their departure nothing has been heard of them.

Letter from Philadelphia. PAYMENT OF THE FIRST INSTALLMENT OF THE INTEREST ON TREASURY NOTES—THE SPECIFIC PANIC—THE WAR FEELING—TRADE STAGNANT—THE HOLIDAYS—FASHIONS, &c., &c. PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3, 1862.

The Girard bank was besieged yesterday with men and women, who were anxious to receive the interest on the U. S. Treasury notes. A stranger would have supposed the citizens had an interest in some transaction the public were unacquainted with. The crowd was so great that it was with difficulty I made my way past, and supposing some great robbery had been committed or foul murder perpetrated, I stopped to inquire the cause, and elbowing my way to the counter was amused at the manner of the interested parties. It appears many had supposed that the suspension of specie payments by the banks would necessarily include the denial on their part to meet this demand; consequently, the excitement was intense, yet it was as soon allayed as every one was promptly and systematically paid their demands, and all went home with smiling faces.

Trade is really stagnant. Chestnut street presents a lonesome appearance, so many elegant stores being closed, and labelled "To Let." Men seem to do nothing but watch the telegraph bulletins, and arrival of New York papers. Hotels are deserted by strangers, but used as the resort of citizens to talk of war, and rumors of war. Every third man is a soldier, who struts about self-confident and disgustingly vain. Men without brass, and with successive four feet eleven and a half, with a profuse supply of whiskers and moustache, are largely in majority, and methinks ought to be on duty. Now we have disposed of the rebel emissaries people want some other panic. We have become a nation of panics. One excitement cultivates a taste for another, and we shall never be satisfied I fear, to live in peace again with all the world.

The holidays have passed away with much less gaiety than balls are out of fashion, and ladies more scarce in the streets. The elegant silks which a year ago swept the sidewalks have changed to merino, and cloaks are worn for comfort rather than show. Thick heavy cloths are worn almost exclusively with very little trimming. Bonnets are plain velvet, with here and there a plume. Philadelphia ladies are not over so extravagant in dress as the New York ladies, although I do not say they use more taste in real display. This is perhaps an unnecessary criticism, but it is I believe true.

The mammoth Continental Hotel, which surpasses in elegance any hotel in this country, has been doing a losing business, like most other establishments of the kind. It is too large—there is no home about it. You are like a stranger in the streets of London—yourly cares for you, but not over so extravagant in dress as the New York ladies, although I do not say they use more taste in real display.

How the Rebels Left. The Boston Traveller of Thursday says: The departure of General and Major from Fort Warren, yesterday, was conducted as quietly as possible. The garrison, with the exception of the guards on duty, were kept from the side of the fort where the prisoners' quarters are, and there were but few persons upon the wharf, when they embarked. The other political prisoners, as they bade them good-bye, congratulated them on their release. Mr. Mason went off in good humor. Indeed, he has recently been in good spirits, and has borne his imprisonment with the air of a philosopher.

STATE NEWS. Erastus Baker, a fifty-year-old, was fined $5 and costs and sentenced to ten days imprisonment at the New York State Prison, for insulting "various respectable young ladies" in New London.

Charles Williams broke into Wakeman & Perry's clothing store, in Bridgeport, Tuesday morning, the 31st ult., and was in the act of storing some $240 worth of property in a big trunk which he had secreted on board the New York boat, when an officer took the thief to the lock-up and the property to its owners. Sunday night another store on Beaver st., Bridgeport, was broken open and robbed of $5.

Henry Olmsted, formerly of East Hartford, has been found dead in Olmsted, Iowa. It is supposed his horses ran away and threw him out, killing him.

A Mrs. Daniels of Groton, came very near drowning Monday evening, the 30th ult. Passing down to the ferry on the New London side to cross over, she accidentally stepped off the wharf into the water. Her cries brought to her assistance Henry Heeley, who jumped in and rescued her.

The Middletown Constitution has an obituary notice of the death of Jonathan Barnes, Esq., who expired in that city on Tuesday, the 24th ult. He was attending business in his office three days before his death. He was a native of Tolland, a graduate of Yale College of the class of 1810, studied law with his father, and afterwards with Chauncey Whittelsey, Esq., of Middletown. He was a man of great legal acquirements—but always declined entering public life. The Superior Court in session in that city, adjourned to attend his funeral.

Abram M. Darrow has been appointed postmaster at Waterford, in place of Henry Gardner. Thomas Bailey had a thumb and three fingers torn off by a circular saw in Savage's pistol shop in Middletown, Tuesday, the 31st ult. A fine ice bridge has been cut out, floated down the river and lodged opposite the foot of Ferry street, Hartford, where free crossings can be had to East Hartford for pedestrians and sleighs.

Lewis Coe of Stratford, on Monday, the 30th ult., killed three wild geese at one shot with one barrel of his gun. If the other barrel hadn't missed fire, he would probably have killed the whole flock.

A wild boar was killed on the 28th ult., in the Allington woods, where he had been roaming for a year or two.

Shooting a Rebel. A letter from Weston, Mo., furnishes the following incident: "While the men were busy in loading the goods, information was received that a notorious rebel named Phil. Bucher, employed by Price as a dispatch bearer, who, a week before, had narrowly escaped capture, was in the town. When pursued previously he had to leave his horse, and since sent a message to the Lieutenant commanding the squad, that he (the Lieut.) was a dead man, so he might make his arrangements accordingly." By the way, the Secess pony became a prisoner of war to the Lieutenant. Major Lee detailed this officer and four men to find him. He broke from the house in which he was hid, and was shot through the heart by Lieut. Hoyt, of John Brown, Jr.'s company, whose life he had threatened. The body was left where he fell.

The garrison, with the exception of the guards on duty, were kept from the side of the fort where the prisoners' quarters are, and there were but few persons upon the wharf, when they embarked.

NEWS SUMMARY. The Albany Argus attacks Secretary Seward for his able letter to Lord Lyons in the Trent difficulty, and calls him a "quack statesman," and yet has the superlative meanness to withhold his letter from its readers!

News from Nassau confirms the intelligence already received, that United States vessels are refused permission to take in coal there, while rebel ships have every facility offered them. The United States will doubtless "charge over" these favors and pay all balances due, in "due time."

Fort Trumbull has received new attention from the Government. A quantity of heavy ordnance stores, shot and shell has been ordered there from the Government Arsenal at Watervliet, N. Y., and Frankfort, Penn. So says the Chronicle.

Col. Clatfield, of the 6th Regiment C. V., having recovered his health, sails in the Baltic next week to rejoin his regiment at Port Royal. The gallant Colonel, is one of nature's noblemen.

A bill will probably be passed by Congress making Treasury notes a legal tender; if so, the financial waters will be as smooth as glass.

If the Union men in Southern Kentucky have any property as yet unlost, let them look out for it. It is said that Floyd has been ordered to Bowling Green.

A spring of pure gin has been out of the ground in Loudon, and the liquid speedily became much in demand. Its origin was for some time deemed miraculous, until finally the stream was discovered to flow through a broken underground pipe to a distillery.

First Experience in Battle. A federal soldier who was in the battle of Pikesville, in Kentucky, writes to his friends in Cincinnati [this graphic description of his sensations during the fight: "And now for my share in the battle. I was riding along somewhat carelessly, when crack! crack! crack! went their rifles, and down fell our men. Crack! crack! crack! they came. Off I jumped from my horse, when along came the Major and gave me his horse to hold; but I soon latched them both to a tree down by the river and sprang again on the bank, when whizz! went a bullet past my face, about three inches from it, and made me draw my head back in a hurry. I can assure you. I looked up the hill, but could see no one for the smoke, which was plenty, so I levelled in the direction of the enemy and fired—loaded again and fired. I got my rifle in readiness again. Ah! that ball was pretty close. Here comes another—buzz—buzz—you can hear the whizz for fully a hundred yards as they come—get out of the way. But where is it to go? Where! that was close. But, great God! it has gone through a man's shoulder within a few yards of me! He falls—some of his comrades pick him up. "Now a horseman comes past in a hurry. He is right opposite me—when whizz, crack! a ball strikes his horse in the forehead. Off tumbles the man; down falls the horse, stiffened out and dead. If the bullet had gone through the animal, it would doubtless have struck me. "Here comes a dozen or more. How they cheer when they go past! 'Load and fire!' 'Load and fire!' is the order—and load and fire it is. My notice was especially drawn to a very fine-looking man who stood close to me, and he truly acted like a hero—loading and firing just as if he was on parade, when whizz! whizz! comes a bullet. My God! how close. It almost stunned me! When I looked towards my soldier, I saw his comrades lifting him up. He was shot through the breast, and died in less than half an hour. Oh! the horrors of war! Vengeance on the heads of those who initiate it!

"I directed my attention up the hill: a little puff of smoke was dying away. 'Boys,' says I to the squad of his fellows, 'you see that smoke: aim for it, a rebel's in your rear.' I raised my Enfield and glanced through its sights, when I for a moment caught sight of a man through the bushes and smoke there. Crack went our gun, and all was over. "We crossed to the place afterward and found the man's body. He had four out of twelve musket balls, and one Enfield rifle ball—mine, as mine was the only rifle ball fired. They all went through him; either of which would have killed him—mine through his breast. Thank God! I had done my duty for the poor fellow who fell beside me.—Evening Post.

Among the names of 240 prisoners sent on from the South for release, we find only one Connecticut man: that is W. R. Moulton, Sergeant Co. D, of the 3d Regiment, C. V.

something to remedy the evil. Such is the demoralized condition of the army that enlistments cannot go on, thousands would enlist being deterred by the discouraging condition of the army.

The Despatch of the 29th, says the powder mill opposite the city exploded last night. A guard had inspected the premises only half an hour before. The fire is attributed to an incendiary. The prisoners say their clothing and boots were looked upon with longing eyes by the rebels. As high as $25 were offered for the latter. Coffee was held in Richmond at $1.50 per pound.

Destroyive Fire. CORTLAND, N. Y., Jan. 4, 1862. The Eagle Hotel was entirely destroyed by fire last evening. Also Henry Brewer's harness shop and McFarland and Carnichal's cabinet warehouse. Loss $14,000, slightly insured.

Departure of a Regiment. NEW YORK, Jan. 4, 1862. The Illinois has sailed for Key West with the Nineteenth New York Regiment.

Release of Federal Prisoners. FORTRESS MONROE, Jan. 3, 1862. The steambot George Washington left at 11 this morning, and proceeded up James river 9 miles beyond Newport News, where the rebel steamer Northampton was met with Union prisoners from Richmond. They stepped aboard under the protection of the national flag, as the roll of their names was called, and such happy looking men are seldom seen.

Cheer after cheer arose from each boat as they approached, and the band of the 4th artillery played Sweet Home, which added to the enthusiasm. As the boat passed Newport News the crews of the frigates Cumberland and Congress manned their rigging, and the troops at Camp Butler crowded the beach and wharves and sent over the water their shouts of welcome.

The George Washington arrived here on her return at about half past 5, and the Baltimore boat, which was detained for the purpose, took the released prisoners to Baltimore. The number released is 240, almost all taken at Ball Run. The prisoners left Richmond at 7 o'clock in the morning.

All needing clothing were immediately supplied here by the Quartermaster's department.

Occupation of Great Bethel. FORTRESS MONROE, Jan. 3, 1862. A scouting party left here this morning and proceeding to Great Bethel found the place occupied by a guard of cavalry only. The place was taken possession of by the scouting party, and a guard was left there.

The editor of the Richmond Despatch, said to be a passenger by a flag of truce, is in Baltimore. A flag of truce from Norfolk, this afternoon, brought down over 300 passengers for the North including a theatrical company. The following is the only telegraphic dispatch in the Richmond Despatch of yesterday: COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 1, 1862. All the Yankee prisoners from Charleston, including Col. Corcoran, arrived this afternoon by a special train, and were met at the depot by a rebel guard of the city and conducted to the jail.

Telegraphic Summary. KENTUCKY AND TENNESSEE. Johnston and Buckner's forces have torn up the Louisville and Nashville railroad for miles, at several places between Green river and Glasgow Junction, and were engaged, at last advice, in blowing up the tunnel 300 feet long near the Junction.

The great fire at Nashville, on the 23d ult., consumed $700,000 worth of property; the stored shells in Armstrong's pork house exploded terrifically in every direction. The crew of the "Pink Variable," seized by the rebels, have returned to Louisville.

PORT ROYAL. A Port Royal letter says the British steamer Fingal attempted to run the blockade at Savannah, but the attempt was foiled. She got ready to make her way through Warsaw Sound, but information having been received that a deserter, the gunboat Ottawa was dispatched to the sound, and on her arrival the rebel musquito fleet of Tattall came down to attack her. After a brisk engagement, a shell was put through Tattall's vessel when he retired and the Fingal's escape was frustrated.

A Spanish schooner laden with a valuable cargo of Havana cigars, shoes, and other stores, was run aground and burned at Cumberland Inlet on the 15th ult., by boats of the Beville and Alabama. Her cargo was taken off. The crew had probably fled to the woods.

THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC. Official information received at the medical department of the army of the Potomac, shows that the mortality is less in proportion to the number than in any American city. The department has the official list of 118,000 men.

Wednesday night the Anacosta, which had left Washington with a quantity of shells charged with a peculiar combustible material, threw several of them into the rebel battery at Cockpit Point, but without any apparent effect, as the shells did not explode. Rebel scouts came on Thursday some 80 rods this side of Fairfax Court House, on Little River turnpike, and on Falls Church road came within half a mile of our pickets and watched them closely. Squads of their cavalry occupy the hills surrounding Fairfax, a large force is two miles beyond, and eight regiments are at Fint Hill.

REMOVED LOSS OF A BRITISH TRANSPORT. A painful rumor was current in Halifax on Friday, of the loss of the steamship Parana, with 1,100 troops on board, in the St. Lawrence river, but it could not be traced to any reliable source. A large war steamer, supposed to be the American, was cruising off that port. The steamship Bohemian, with British troops on board, passed Cape Race Friday morning.

Southern News. A powder mill at New Orleans exploded on the night of the 29th and was entirely destroyed. It was a government establishment, and extensive. The papers make no allusion to the value of property destroyed by this disaster, but significantly mention that the fire which produced the explosion was the work of an incendiary.

MISPLACED CONFIDENCE.—The Southrons thought they were accomplishing some great thing when they withdrew their insurance policies from Northern offices, and placed them in Southern companies. The result is, the sweeping fires they are having are total losses, as the insurance companies are in no condition to meet the heavy draughts upon them.

STEARING FISH.—The Boston Journal says that when the Rinaldo came into the harbor of Provincetown, some fishermen went alongside to sell their fish. While a little was trading one of the sailors of the Rinaldo supplied himself with a couple of haddock and then refused to pay for them. The Diamond Murder—A New and Startling Suggestion. This mysterious case grows more and more mysterious. Felner is reported as certainly murdered and robbed of $100,000 worth of jewelry. Suspected persons have been arrested, one of whom has committed suicide, another tried to others are held as the murderers, large rewards are offered for the arrest and conviction of others, supposed to have been parties to the murder. And, yet, so far as is positively known, we believe it is uncertain whether Felner has been murdered at all.

Over Much Room. It makes men impetuous to sit on a horse; no man governs his fellows so well as from this living throne. And so, from Marcus Aurelius in Rome to Cromwell in England, the "man on horseback" in Gen. Cushing's prophetic speech, the saddle has always been the true seat of empire. The absolute tyranny of human will over a noble and powerful beast, develops the instinct of personal prevalence and dominion; so that a horse, subduer and hero were almost synonymous in simpler times, and are closely related still.
