The military from the Gulf States, at Norfolk were severe on the Virginia chivalry since the defeat at Roanoke Island. Even the Richmond Blues have fallen in public estimation.

All award bravery to O. Jennings Wise, but his father is proclaimed, in the streets of Nor folk, a coward and a poltroon.

In his escape from Nags Head he rode 30 miles on horseback notwithstanding he had previously reported himself to ill to remain on Ro anoke Island at the head of his command. Wise and Floyd rank together as fleet footed

Information says that Wise would be hooted in the streets of Norfolk or Richmond. He has re turned to his farm in Princess Ann. The fire eaters ridiculed the North Carolina troops, charging them with cowardice. The shopkeepers and bakers refused to receive North Carolina money, and there being two North Carolina regiments there at the time, a revolt was the consequence, and the shops were broken open and the troops helped themselves.

These regiments refused to serve any longer and were allowed to return home. There is no direct information of the abandonment of Pensacola, but it is generally believed that our troops have crossed from Santa Rosa Island and occupied the place.

John Brown vs. Henry A. Wise. The Palladium must excuse us for dif-

Aside from the wrong itself, so far as it affected States, because it gave demagogues and disunionists the opportunity they coveted, of attacking the motives and purposes of men who had no sympathy with Brown's mode of dealing with the "peculiar institution." But after all, there is some palliation of Brown's conduct, which could not be urged in behalf of few men -perhaps no other man in the country. His cutions, and the murder and torture of his children by the slave power, made him, on the subject of slavery, little less than a raving maniac. We therefore pitied him-and in most of his previous life, as well as in his heroic conduct to the last, we admired him. He was one of the most extraordinary men of this age, and whether we stamp on his grave or build monuments over it, one thing is certain to our mind, that when the passions of the present hour shall have subsided. Brown will be enrolled among the martyrs of liberty, and receive honors on the very spot where he died. We make this as a simple prediction, although we may not live long enough to see it fulfilled. But such is human history, and there are cases enough on record analogous to this, to bear us out in the Now who and what is Henry A. Wise, that he should be so mercifully spared by the Democratic press, while every sort of epithet is heaped upon poor John Brown? Wise had no provocations to do the wicked things he has done. He had enjoyed some of the highest honors that could be conferred upon him under this Government. He was thoroughly acquainted with the constitutional rights of the States and of the citizens. Yet he was one of the base conspirators that has deluged this land in blood and covered it with mourning. Millions of innocent people have suffered in their feelings and their property from the development of the conspiracy of which this monster Wise was a leader. The use he made of Brown's mad and reckless scheme of libera ting slaves, showed him to be a wretchedly de praved man. His memory will live in all hisry with that of desperate conspirators and traitors, and yet the Democratic press of the country refers to him respectfully, and even at- a Quartette Club. Anniversary Exercises of the Guilford Institute.

The usual anniversary exercises of this In stitute were of unusual interest. The exhibition was held in the 3d Congregational Church, and a very large audience was in attendance The exercises (which were of a high order) were well sustained, and reflected great credit on the teachers. A recitation of Tennyson's "Charge of the Light Brigade," by a company of 16 boys, in concert, was finely done, and showed that the hand of a master had been there. The tain of the company, C. Eillott Spencer, if nominated for Major General, would have been confirmed on the spot.

This is the true key to this last one day's wonder, doubtless."

What they really agreed to do, (says the Re publican) as we are well informed, was to support, not President Lincoln's, but General Mc Clellan's "war policy," and to oppose the President's emancipation policy in this district and in the border States. How the Nashville Ran the Blockade. An officer on the sailing barque Gemsbok writes to a friend in Boston an account of the escape of the Nashville from Beaufort harbor We find the letter in the Boston Traveller: OFF BEAUFORT, N. C., Friday, March 21.

On Monday last, about 71 o'clock in the evening, it being at that time quite dark, black looking object was seen from the quarter deck of this vessel, slowly moving past the for about two miles distant, The 'rattle' was sorung calling all hands to quarters, and at the same time a rocket was fired, a signal to the Cambridge that the enemy was coming out. We now began to fire our broadside at the Nashville, which vessel had approached to within a mile and a half from us, feeling her are good at cyphering: "Three sisters go to way out the channel farthest from us-we lying almost at the entrance to one. The Cambridge was close by us at the time and seemed as it she was never to move. We continued firing at the rebel until she escaped from the channel when she went out of sight in a 'twinkling' almost. It was a dead calm at the time, making it impossible for us to get under weigh. The Cambridge finally started off in the direction of our shells, but almost before she left us the Nashville was gone.

We fired some 21 guns, the Cambridge 4 but to crown all, she fired them at what she knew not.

Unfortunately, she could not see the rebel but fired probably because we did. If we ha had a steamer instead of a sailing vessel, the privateer would not have escaped so easily: or A correspondent of the Boston Journal, if the Cambridge had seen her, and run down writing from Southeast Pass, Mississippi river, to the channel as soon as we made signals to her, there would have been an opportunity head her off, and perhaps drive her back vessel brought into New York on Monday, as

As it was, I hardly think she escaped with out some damage, because our shells appeared to burst all around her. The captain of her laid his plans admirably, and in the same manner executed them. The time selected for he was just before the moon rose, and a heavy bank of clouds lined the eastern horizon, making it very difficult for any object between it and us to be seen.

I suppose the papers will rub us pretty hard. when it becomes known. It needs four steamers, or at least three, to effectually blockade this port, because there are two channels a mile apart.

At the rate things are going on, ther will soon be a dearth of leaders in the rebel service. Since the war began no less than senteen Generals have died, committed suicide, resigned, been killed, captured or suspended! In the latter category must be ranked Floyd, the thief, and Pillow, the ditch-digger.

The dwelling house of Capt. Francis W. Welch, at Roxbury, Mass., was destroyed by fire Saturday morning. It was a fine building, of stone and brick, finished in superior style, and cost between $30,000 and $40,000 on which there is an insurance of $5,000.

A bill has been introduced in the Ohi Legislature to prevent the marriage of second cousins, by punishing the magistrate or clergy-man who solemnizes such marriages by the imposition of a fine of $100. The bill after earnes lebate was laid upon the table.

The Albany officials claim that New York has furnished 120,816 men for the war, organized in 112 regiments, 4 battalions, and

The average cost of an army ration is now about 16 3-5 cents. Previous to the war it was 14 3.4 cents. The increase is made by an increase of the flour ration and the additimeasures earnest and hearty support, as well to of potatoes, molasses, rice and hominy, which oppose the policy and measures of the abolition were not included in the old rations. The rations are abundant, and some regiments save $1000 a month of overplus, which they sell to the commissaries, or exchange for luxuries.

Miss Sadie B. Curtis, eldest daughter of Gen. S. R. Curtis, died at St. Louis, Mo., on Tuesday, 24th ult. A Singular Boiler Explosion at Balti-

A most remarkable steam boiler explosion occurred Monday afternoon at the Baltimore House of Refuge. A boiler in the boiler house Republicans of Meriden will do themselves and attached to the bake-house, 250 feet from the their country good service by depositing their main building, was blown up fully 200 feet into the air; then taking an easterly direction, i exploded again in the air, after which it passed in a straight line 250 feet to the north, and fell directly on the roof of a school building, carrying with it its slate roof, rafters, beams and plaster, crushing into the school room where there were nearly 70 boys. Most wonderful as it may appear, although the entire floor of the room was covered with ruins, only two children were killed, two brothers named Myers, and seven wounded, one seriously. The rest, with the teacher, escaped entirely unburt. All agree there were two explosions, one in the air, which changed the direction of the boiler.

Emerson Etheridge made a speech at ton. It is designed, principally, for gratuitous Nashville, the other day, which is bold and distribution in the Army and Navy, and may slashing, as reported in the papers of that city.

[Washington Correspondence to the Springfield Republican.]

We have two or three very disloyal Episopal clergymen in Washington and Georgeown. They refuse to offer up prayers which heir bishop has prepared for them, thanking God for the late victories over the rebels! Two clergymen in Washington refused last Sunday to read the prayer. One in Georgetown read it with a protest, several women of the congregation bouncing out of the church in sublime anger! It is very singular what a hold this ebellion has upon a class of women in this city. They descend to the most abominable dirtines of spirit in their conduct. There is nothing noble, nothing heroic, in their conduct, and but one thing will cure them. Let Gov. Wads worth order them to pack up their baggage and e off to Dixie, and if any real estate is left let he government seize it -and this would make short work with fashionable treason here. These petticoated fiends (for many of them are downight fiends) have had their own way long enough, and it is about time to compel them to go to the people they say they love so well. on the street upon which I live there are at least twenty female secessionists, full-blown rabid, and some of them unquestionably engaged in the spy-business.

Congress To-Day. Washington, April 1, 1862.

SENATE A resolution was adopted instructing the Committee on the Conduct of the War, to collect vidence in regard to the barbarous treatment by rebels at Manassas of our killed in the battle there; also whether the rebels enlisted Indiana who committed unheard of atrocities, and how this savage warfare was conducted.

A bill was introduced for the better organiza tion of the District of Columbia militia.

Mr. Washburne presented a memorial in favor of the early enlargement of the Illinois and Michigan canal: referred.

The Military Committee on consideration of the Pacific Railroad bill postponed it to Tuesday next. Mr. Hutchins asked leave to introduce a reso lution of enquiry relative to a certain order of Gen. Hooker, giving permission to certain people to search for runaway negroes and to seize them if found in his Division; with an accompanying report of Brigadier-General Shield's; with a detailed report of Major Follen commanding the 2d regiment Excelsior Brigade with an account of a visit of slave-hunters and their repulse by order of Gen. Sickles. Mr. Wickliffe objected.

The tax bill was then taken up.

Extra Loyal.

But he has written another in reply to sundry interrogatories propounded by the editor of the Norwich Bulletin, which is not quite so satisfactory, for the reason that it lugs in an extraneous matter, as will be seen.

"The only pledge I make to the electors o this District is, that in no event will my vote be given to any one, except he is loyal and true ion, the Union and the Laws. aport no one who has openly or sered Abolitionism or Sec who has in any manner caused the rebellion now existing in our land."

Now, if Mr. Converse is going into an exam ion of the causes of the war, instead of giving all his energies toward carrying it to a issue, he will create endless bickerings which no true patriot can desire to witsues, he is reviving them, for he is too intelligent a gentleman not to know that the old line Democrats have charged the "Black Republi cans" with being the cause of the war, while on the other hand, the Republicans have charged the old Democrats with the authorship of the same calamity. It was agreed by all Unionloving Democrats and Republicans that they would drop that sort of discussion until after the war, and give their undivided attention to the rebels. But Mr. Converse revives the old issues, and talks flippantly about the Abolitionists " on the one hand," and the Secessionists "on the other." This is the talk of Eaton and others who do not think secessionism "unreasonable." There is no doubt that radical abolitionism has contributed to the exasperation of some of the deluded men of the Southbut even their language has been spread abroad through the South by the old Democratic jour-The superfine patriots, the extra loyal men, may always be known by their peculiar cant talk flippantly in this fashion. ## Justice and Law.

After General Schenck's arrival at Cumberland, one of his first decisions, says a correspondent of an Ohio paper, was very character istic. A secesh Colonel had sold his negro to the Confederate Government, taking pay, or course, in scrip. The negro, employed in for tifications, managed to escape to Cumberland, where he spread himself considerably. A constable, knowing the circumstance, and wishing to turn a penny, had the negro thrown into prison as an escaped slave. Gen. Schenck, nearing the facts, sent for the parties. "By what right," he asked of the constable. you hold this man in prison?" "As a fugitive from service."

"Don't you know that he escaped from the service of rebels?

"Yes; but we have a law in Maryland that overs the case, General.' "And I have a law upon which it can be decided. Colonel Porter set that negro at large, and put this constable in his place." The astonished snapper-up of trifles was marched off to the cell lately occupied by his proposed victim. After being detained there recisely the same number of days he had imprisoned the poor darkey, he was set at large, fully impressed with the belief that your grim-visaged General was not to be trifled with.

PULASKI TO BE ATTACKED! A REBEL FORT DESTROYED!

FORTRESS MONROE, April 1, 1862. A flag of truce from Norfolk to-day brought lown some letters from federal prisoners, and a York, and 3d New York artillery. lispatch from Gen. Huger to Gen. Wool.

The Norfolk papers notice the military move nents at Old Point, and say that large reinorcements are landing there, and that at least one hundred large steamers and transports are at the wharves and in the channel.

A dispatch from Charleston says, that Gen. Evans advanced on Saturday on North Edisto Island with 2,000 troops, but finding the Federals at least 6,000 strong, retreated in a maserly manner. It don't say whether there was any fight.

Royal dates to Saturday last.

Fort Pulaski had been thoroughly invested for thirty days and was momentarily expected to surrender. It was said that about 500 rebels were in Pulaski, and they had offered to go Magruder as a man not likely to be caught napbut with the honors of war : but Gen.
