The Procession To-Day, | CONNECTICUT LEGISLATURE, Rarely has a more beautiful day been seen for Election Parade than that of this year. The Procession was a magnificent affair consisting of eight Military and four Fire companies, additional to the Horse Guard, and the Collegiate and Commercial School Battalion, Bridgeport Norwalk, was elected by a unanimous vol Battery of Flying Artillery, and the Police Battalion of Bridgeport. Four Steam Fire Engine were in the line. Three were drawn by four horses each, and the Hartford Phoenix Steam Engine, which is a beautiful machine, was drawn by members of the company attached.

The steel gun "Connecticut" was also in line, together with the two 6-pounders belonging to the city. Eight brass bands and four bands of martial music were in the line. A large number of gentlemen formed a cavalcade which, together with the carriages in line, made the entire length of the Procession nearly two miles in extent.

The Preliminary Caucuses. THE SENATE.

Hon. Hiram Goodwin of the 15th Senatorial District, was appointed Chairman, and A. H. Byington, of the 12th, Secretary.

The Senators convened at the Temple wer invited to take part in the proceedings of this Caucus; and accepted the invitation.

On ballot for a President, pro tempore, Hon. Hiram Goodwin was nominated.

Cyrus Northrop was unanimously nominated for Clerk: Willis Dewey of Granby, for Messenger, and M. R. Enscoe of New Haven, for Assistant; Calvin Ripley of Old Saybrook, for Doorkeeper, and Dyer A. Clark of Windham.

Messrs. Babcock & Sizer of the Palladium were nominated for State Printers. The Caucus then dissolved,

We are assembled as the representatives of the people, and of the whole people, to legislate for the common good—not to advance party or sectional interests. May I not rather, express the hope that the noise of party strife and contention will not be heard within these really strife and contention will not be neard within these walls, while we unite with one neart and one voice, and one mind, to strengther the hands of the Government, in suppressing this icked rebellion—one year ago found us wholly nations, however unwilling, to respect us, and have given, as I verily believe, a death blow to the reitself. To this end, I need hardly add, nothing can be more conducive, than united, harnothing can be more conducive, than united, narmonious action on our part.

The opinion is quite prevalent, gentlemen, that one of the cyth of our times, is, that of too much and too hasty legislation. Whether this opinion is well founded or not, no danger certainly, can result from bearing it in mind while in the discharge, the duties devolving mone as I trust we of the duties devolving upon us. I trust we shall not, however, be deterred by any such com siderations, from enacting new laws, or applying the correcting hand to old ones, in all cases where, n our judgment, the best interests of our consti-tents require it.

The subjects which will come before us as Legis lators are multifarious, and constantly increasing. Hence it is that the ordinary sessions of the General Assembly, have come to be prolonged much beral Assembly, have come to be prolonged much be-yond what they were within the recollection of the youngest member of this House. But within the same time there have sprung up among us, large and varied interests, employing large amounts of capital and labor, and furnishing our citizens with sources of comfort and wealth, which were former sources of comfort and account among us. In so far, then, as the necessity for more legislation is at once the evidence and the result of the increasing prosperity of our beloved Commonwealth, it can hardly be a source of regret. At the same time, while re-membering that one of the greatest of all evils is that of legislation without due deliberation, let us

The effect of Hancock's brilliant engagement yesterday afternoon, was to turn the left of their line of works. He was strongly reinforced, and the enemy abandoned the entire position during the night, leaving all his sick and wounded in our hands. We have some 300 uninjured prisoners, and more than 1,000 wounded. Their loss in killed is very heavy.

The victory is complete. I have sent the cavalry in pursuit. The conduct of our men has been excellent with scarce an exception.

The rebel works are very extensive and exceedingly strong, both in respect to their posi tion and the works themselves. Our loss was heavy in Hooker's division, but very little on the other parts of the field.

It will probably be necessary to raise the sum mentioned above, which can be done either by taxation or a loan, or by both. This unusual condition of our finances arises principally from aware that the Government is endeavoring to judge whether our country is adopt a new and, with us, an untried system of sunlight of intelligence, civilization and Chris revenue, based upon the productive industry of tianity, or whether it is to be darkened and des the country, and one which will make still olated by the storm of ignorance, depravity and larger demands upon our pecuniary resources. But we have abundant ability to meet these claims. A very small part of the profits of our industry will be sufficient to supply the public treasury with ample means to prosecute the war, and furnish a good foundation for public credit. The people are wisely preparing for this demand, which many cheerfully anticipate and even earnestly desire. Sound policy dictates that you should avail yourselves of this selfsacrificing patriotism by making liberal provision to meet our existing obligations. SCHOOL FUND.

The School Fund, which has been of such value in opening free schools to every child in the State, originated from a sale of public lands twenty-three millions of persons have been con lying in what is now the northeast part of Ohio. The sale was made in 1795 for the sum of one million two hundred thousand dollars. By the fidelity with which the present Commissioner and his predecessors have performed their duties, and husbanded the fund, it has produced an aggregate income of over five million three hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, which has been used for educational purposes in the several school societies, and laid the foundation portion of the last State loan of one million two of that system of public education which has been the just pride and the glory of our State. now amounts to two million fifty thousand four hundred and sixty dollars and forty-nine cents or nearly double the original capital. SCHOOLS. It is gratifying to know that amidst the troubles and excitements of the year, and the specie fifty per cent., since the last annual re embarrassments which have attended nearly every parsuit, Common School Education has not suffered with the general depression. The schools have been prosperous, a larger attendof the war, a greater number of school houses are reported in good condition, the consolidation of districts and more perfect classification of scholars, in large towns, is advancing, and the sum raised for the support of public schools ninety-six thousand, seven hundred and sixty in districts and towns, by voluntary taxation, has more than doubled during the year. Our National Constitution was founded upor the divine right of man to self-government, and adopted by the people under a solemn pledge of submission and obedience to the will of the majority.

A denial of this principle, a violation of these pledges by the minority, and the claim that the superior and more intelligent class has a right, pased upon the importance of a more perfect development of our social condition, to the con trol and service of the inferior class: are the causes of the present rebellion against our Na tional Government,

It originates, not in a deprivation of constitu tial rights, not in well-founded complaints and grievances which can be properly redressed, but n the arrogant claims of an oligarchy to dictate in the administration of the Government. A refusal to yield to such imperious demand

Who shall be sustained, the criminal or the court? Which shall be successful, the rebellion or the Government?

These questions are no longer open to the or linary modes of adjustment, for reason has given place to passion, the forms of law to anarchy, and both the rebel and the loyalist, appealing to high Heaven, leave the questions a ssue to the arbitrament of the sword.

While the sword may not determine the con stitutionality or morality of questions at issue, it may establish the conditions upon which the Government shall hereafter exist, and the princinles upon which it shall be administered.

The war may determine whether the Govern nent, which shall continue in being after this revolution, shall recognize Slavery as a divine institution, nourish and foster the system, as though it were sacred, and give its supporters increased and undue influence and power; o whether it shall continue to rest upon the prin ciples of liberty as embodied in the Declaration of Independence, and protect the rights of the citizen by the enforcement of constitu tional law. The sword may determine whether this Na

Constitution; and yet claims protection by virtue of its provisions. Let us not be deceived by such fallacy. Th Constitution was adopted for the mutual interest of the citizen, on the one part, and the public on the other. He who refuses to obey its requirements, must not expect its benefits. Slavery, by denying her obligations to the Con-

The people, aroused by this rebellion, will

The Message.

Our limits to-day will not permit us to speak of the Message in detail. We have perused it with much satisfaction, as we doubt not most of our readers will do. Gov. Buckingham has always been successful in his State papers, and is none the less so now than heretofore. The Message is truly an able paper.

Reception of Gov. Buckingham. At about 1 o'clock, yesterday, the 2d Company Governor's Horse Guard, assembled on their original parade ground, opposite the North Church, (where the Company was organized in 1808,) and proceeded to East Haven, where they were met by a large cavalcade of horsemen, composed of the enterprising citizens of East Haven and Fair Haven, and escorted the Horse Guard to the Green, in East Haven. Here the Guard were drawn into line and dismounted, for the purpose of being treated to refreshments, which were much appreciated by the Company. The Staff of Major Ingersol. and the Committee of Citizens of East Haven, proceeded to the depot to receive Gov. Buckingham and Staff, on the arrival of the train from Norwich. The Governor and Staff were provided with fine horses, and were escorted to the Green, where they were received by the ing party interests may be of no practical ad- citizens with a cordial welcome - he roar of cannon seeming to say every time, "Buckingham is the Governor for us."

After marching about the city the route laid out, the cap sheaf of the day, but greatly amused the large crowd to see the general stirring up of the horses and people in this concluding ceremony

In the evening, the Horse Guard opened their new Armory in Cutler's building, and held their first annual sociable. Gov. Buckingham, Adjutant Williams, Col. Fitch, Col. Aiken, Col. Osgood, Col. Pond, Major Fitch and others were present, by invitation, to participate in the festivities of the occasion. The Horse Guard, their wives, sweethearts and friends, were introduced to the Governor by Maj. Ingersoll, in a very patriotic speech, which was responded to by Governor Buckingham with much feeling, expressing just such sentiments as we might expect from a Governor like Buckingham, whose whole official life is above criticism. During the evening, almost every member of the Horse Guard and their ladies had an opportunity to take by the hand His Excellency, and enjoy a brief chat with him, and with the members of his staff. The whole affair was a very pleasing entertainment and was creditable to those having the management of the same.
