Gen. Viele has established his headquarters in the Custom House, formerly occupied by Gen. A national flag was raised for the first tin are coming up. The night passed very quietly. Order perfectly restored. To-day all the public property is occupied. The 10th New York regiment has gone to Fort Norfolk, which it will garrison for the present. Gen. Wool and Commodore Goldsborough have just arrived. The policy of the authorities is to allow every thing to go on with as little interruption as possible. A general feeling of confidence seems to prevail. Union sentiment begins to show itself. Two guns were found at Craney Island re maining. The naval vessels here are the Sus quehannah, Flag, Seminole, San Jacinto, Mount Vernon, Dacotah, Monitor and Naugatuck. The following proclamation was issued or throngs of spectators along the whole line of old Point. Some were disposed to discredit the announcement that the Merrimae had been destroyed the excitement became intense. In the meantime two tugboats were seen comng on toward the Fortress, at full speed, each apparently endeavoring to out vie the other, and when nearing the wharf the radiant counrenance of Capt. Case, of the Minnesota, gave ssurance that the news they brought was of a

At the request of the President Capt. Case

Your correspondent, with Mr. Farrel of the N. Y. Herald, and the Paymaster of the little 'Zouave," Capt. Phillips, which figured so nobly in the fight with the Merrimac, on her first appearance, were conateously invited by Capt. Case to accompany him on the expedition which was soon under way, and overtook and passed all the vessels of war that had started in advance of us, except the Monitor and Naugatuck, which were moving ahead on their way to Norfolk, having passed by Sewell's Point and Craney Island. As we neared Craney Island, we found this mmense fortress apparently abandoned, though three rebel flags were flying from very tall staffs in different parts of the works. Capt. Case, when within half a mile of the shore, ordered a shot to be fired to test the fact of evacuation; the only signs of life produced was the appearance on shore of two negro men. A boat was mmediately lowered.

The forts on the Island are in four or five separate sections. They are constructed with the best engineering skill and most admirable workmanship. The forts were left in excellent ondition, as were also the extensive barracks which had accommodated during the winter, a garrison of over two thousand men. Forty heavy guns were mounted in different parts of the works and the main front of the Island, the works commanding the approaches to the chan-

They said they were on their way to Suffolk. On the line of the river leading from Craney Island to Norfolk there are not less than six heavy earthworks, mounting in all about 69 cannon, all of which are still in position, except those near the naval hospital, these are said to have been taken to Richmond during the past week. On the opposite bank of the river is another battery, with two or three small works. On all the works the rebel flag has been lowered by the fleet and the Stars and Stripes substituted.

The amount of powder found in the magizine is estimated at 5000 pounds and the fixed ammunition taken can only be enumerated by the cargo.

After cruising about for some time among the fleet we landed at the wharf and took a stroll SILK SACQUES through the city of Norfolk.

bells rung in honor of the great events. SOUTHWEST,

PITTSBURG LANDING, May 12, 1862. The following has just been received at the headquarters of the army of the Mississippi: NEAR FARMINGTON, May 9, p. m.

To Major Gen. Halleck: The enemy, 20,000 strong, drove in our pick ets beyond Farmington, and advanced upon the brigade occupying the furthest side of the creek in front of my camp.

The brigade held on for five hours until, find ing they were heavily pressed in front, and in the flank, and that I could sustain them with out passing the creek with my whole force, which would have been contrary to your orders and would have drawn on a general engagement, I withdrew them to this side in good order. The conduct of the troops was excellent and the withdrawal was made by them very reluctantly. The enemy made a demonstration to cross, but abandoned the movement. Our loss is considerable, though I cannot yet tell how great.

The enemy being much exposed suffered very severely, one of his batteries being completely disabled, and his infantry line having been driven back several times.

My command are eager for the advance. Signed, JOHN POPE. Major-General. Farmington is five miles north west of Corinth. The only forces engaged were Plumers and Palmers brigades.

The Horse Guard Armory. The Armory of the Horse Guard in Cutler for elegance and taste of ornamentation, is unsurpassed by any Armory in the state. The members of the company have recently expended between seven and eight hundred dollars in furnishing it throughout. It has beautiful damask curtains, sofas, of the latest pattern, a commodious committee room carpeted &c. On one side of the hall is a splendid oak case for sabers and pistols, which is surmounted by an original design, being that of a horseman and horse, carved out of solid oak, forming a very appropriate ornament of a Horse Guard Armory. The Female Forger.

We briefly aliuded yesterday to some ingenious frauds perpetrated upon several banks in this city and other places, and now allude to them again to give some further information that may serve as a caution, and perhaps lead to the arrest of the woman and her accomplices. She negociated a draft at the New Haven Bank for nine dollars and fifty cents on the Park Bank, New York, under the name of Mary L. Way. This she altered to ninety dollars and fifty cents by adding to the nine the remainder of the syllable "ty." The writing upon the draft, except the signature, was traced over in a heavier hand, so as to conceal the alteration of the word "nine." This draft was sold at a Providence Bank. Six of the banks in this city, or all but the Mechanic's and New Haven County, sold drafts to this woman, sums. The draft obtained at the City Bank was made payable to the order of H. C. Wetmore and drawn on the Park Bank, New York, face, in red ink, the amount to be paid. This red ink operation was very cunning, as it and social advantages have increased in greater seemed as if designed at the Bank for the pur-

Most of them passed over the masts of the schooners on the left, drop ping in range of those on the other shore, but from 150 to 200 vards short. After a while however, the rebels got the range of these six vessels accurately, and the balls fell about them, especially from Fort Philip, terribly thick and fast. In return, the bombs were directed spinitedly upon the fort, and with such effect that the enemy slackened his fire. It is wonderful that our vessels were not smashed to pieces. Solid shot struck the water close beside them, wetting the men with the spray, or lodging in the soft mud of the river bank, directly between health was poor for a long time. We have cut the telegraph wires above the quarantine and are now going ahead. I took 300 or 400 prisoners at quarantine. They surrendered and paroled them not to take up arms again. I could not stop to take care of them. If the General will come up to the bayou and land a few men or as many as he pleases, he will find two of our gunboats there to protect him from the gunboats that are at the forts. I wish to get to the English Turn, where they say they have not placed a battery yet, but have two above nearer New Orleans. They will not be idle, and neither will I. You supported me most nobly. Very truly yours,

STR: Agreeably to a communication just reeived from the Hon. Edwin M. Scranton, I have the honor to report—

The instructions I gave vesterday, to the officers commanding the several vessels detailed to open fire upon Sewell's Point, were-"That the object of the move was to ascertain the practicability of landing a body of troops thereabouts, and to reduce the works if it could be done. That the wooden vessels should attack the principal works in enfilade, and that the Monitor to be accompanied by the Stevens, should go up as far as the works and there operate in front.

On the Merrimac's appearance outside of the a fair channel way, and only to engage her seriously in such a position that this ship, togethriously in such a position that this ship, together add abandoned, and preparations were maker with the merchant vessels, intended for the ling to destroy the Navy Yard and other public purpose, could run her down. If an opportunity presented itself the other vessels were not to hesitate to run her down, and the Baltimore, an unarmed steamer of light draught, high speed, and with a curved bow, was kept in the direction of the Monitor, expressly to throw herself across the Merrimac, either forward or aft of her plated house; but the Merrimac did not engage the Monitor, nor did she place herself where she could have been where there was any prospect whatever of getting at her.

My instructions were necessarily verbal, and n giving them I supposed that I was carrying out your wishes in substance, if not to the letter. The demonstration resulted in establishing the fact, that the number of guns at the principal work on Sewalls point has been essentially reduced, and is not greater now than a bout 17, and that the number of men now stationed there is comparatively quite limited The quarters connected with this work were set on fire by our shells, and no doubt seriously injured. Still Harping.

The Hartford Times, in view of the gloomy prospects of the rebels, again throws out hints for negociations, as if the present war resembled any other in which the American people have been engaged. Like Buckner, at Fort chivalrous that we do not allow other terms ularly fine. than unconditional surrender to the nation. We copy from that paper as follows:

" Now that the rebel armies are practically de feated, our Government should strengthen the Union sentiment of the South, by wholesale measures, upon which Southern people who are friends of the Union at heart, can stand. Now that the Federal banners are victorious everywhere in the field, an opportunity is afforded for the Government to be magnanimous as well as just. We should remember that if we have a Union at all, it should be based upon the friendly sentiment of the entire people, and that we cannot afford to have in our Republic, massed together in one-half of our territory, eight millions of intelligent and spirited people, held only by force in obedience to the laws, while they are most thoroughly our enemies

Now the Times may be honest in these sentiments but they are dangerous nevertheless. A treaty of peace with the rebels would be a parexistence, whereas they are part of the Union in spite of their efforts to get out of it. The only treaty either party can recognize is the constitution and the authority of the Government. The proclamations of the President and of our generals have all declared this great fact. The same submission to the laws that the North practices, is all that is required. These are easy terms and readily understood, and there is no degradation in them. But the rebels require something more. They are not willing to acknowledge their northern brethren as their equals. They demand concessions and further compromises from the victors. These things they have had from time to time; but as they have tak n the sword, they must perish Meeting of Grand Masonic Bodies of the State by the sword, or acknowledge themselves vanquished and submit to the same laws, constitution and Congress, to which the victors acknowledge allegiance.

The bitterness of the Southmen towards the North is evidently very deep and cannot be eradicated by any such remedies as have been tried in times past. Their minds have been poisoned by their ambitious leaders and the supporters of those leaders in the North. The sword is the only cure, and it will do its work effectually: vet it must be an efficient agent of the Government for a long time to come. The rebels must feel its evil effects sufficiently to be satisfied that it is not the best remedy for their fancied or real grievances. They are now taught that the constitution and not the sword munkey river, on Saturday, 3 o'clock p. m., reis the sheet anchor of their safety as it ever is ports Gen. But it will take time for them to day night. learn this. Our people have begun to mingle with them, and they see or will see we are not monsters. One effect of the war will be to cause beautiful and fruitful lands. These men will carry with them new ideas about slavery, about the Union, about industry, about law, and about the rights of the majority and of mankind. The effect of all this instruction will be to make the Southern Bobadils wiser and better men. Negociations with them now would be absolute suicide to the nation. Submit unconditionally or "we will at once move upon your works," will continue to be the watchwords of the Government, until the last rebel has laid down his arms. Then, after hanging Davis, Toombs, Wigfall, the pompous Mayor of New Orleans, and a few dozen others, the masses of the Southern people may safely be regarded as deluded men, and be treated with all the gentleness that a paternal Government will ever exercise towards its erring citizens who are whom they reposed confidence.

Death of Perry Davis.

Perry Davis's Pain Killer it appears could no save the life of its inventor, for he died recently, leaving a large fortune from the sale of his mediin early life, was an uncultivated man, and he may have been such to the last. In what manner he got his receipt for his mixture, we know not. How ever that may be, we regard it as one of the most valuable medicines for human ills ever compounded, and it will reach more complaints than any medicine we ever heard of. It has this merit, also that if it cannot cure, it will rarely harm any body. We do not say this for the benefit of its proprietor, for we know not who that person now is, but for the benefit of sufferers, especially from bowel complaints. With it we would scarely fear any of those affections of the Southern climate, or even cholera, in its incipient stage. Every northern soldier should have at hand, next to his bible and musket, a bottle of this medicine. The dead Perry Davis we doubt not has saved thousands and tens of thousands of lives by his safe, simple and wonder fully active compound. We would rank him next to Jenner in his discovery of a marvelous remedy and preventive-and yet, by at least one-half of the world, he has been deemed the mere catch penny adventurer, or a successful speculator in medicines. ### MARCHING ON TO BICHMOND Two and a half Miles from New Kent C. H., Cumberland, Va , Sunday,

A company of the 6th cavalry pushed on last night, to White House, 5 miles from here, on the Pamunkey river, better known as the Curtis' estate and owned by a son of Gen. Robert E. Lee

The company secured seven thousand bush els of wheat and four thousand bushels of corn. The rebels had burned the railroad bridge and town, and tore up the railroad some distance towards Richmond. The distance from Wool having completed the landing of his White House to Richmond by railroad is 23 forces at Willoughby's Point, about 9 o'clock

He was 72 years Wool that the city should be given up upon a said to have been a grand sight by those who During the march on Norfolk three regimen tal cavalry camps were found deserted: apparently a day or two since.

Gen. Weber's regiment, the 20th N. Y prepared with considerable care for a battle in three miles of Norfolk: field. Trees and bushes had been felled, rifle pits built, and early in the morning several He approached the soldier to whom gus had been placed in position. Here some recruits of the 41st Virginia regiment were

They reported Sewalls Point abandoned the preceeding night by four companies, which had garrisoned the place some weeks.

A negro was also eaptured who stated the intention of the enemy to destroy the bridge over Tanner's Creek, and evacuate Norfolk.

A part of Weber's regiment then pushed for ward on the road to the bridge, and the enemy were found about noon posted on the opposite side of the creek with three guns; the bridge had been set on fire and was still burning.

Some six or eight shots were fired without effect. Our men being beyond musket range The creek being about a quarter of a mile wide our forces started on another road, a considerably longer distance and reported defended by a strong battery. Not the slightest opposition was made and the fortifications which were a mile and a half below Norfelk were found evacuated and the guns spiked. They were extensive works finely constructed. We arrived at Norfolk after a tiresome march at five o'clock without firing a gun. Gen. Wool proceeded to the City Hall with the Mayor followed by a large crowd where he issued the following proclamation.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT VIRGINIA. NORFOLK, 10TH MAY, 1862.

The city of Norfolk having been surrendered to the Government of the U.S. military, poseession of the same is taken in behalf of the National Government by Major-General John E. Wool. Brigadier-General Viele is appointed Military Governor for the time being. He will see that all citizens are carefully protected in all their rights and civil privileges, taking the utmost care to preserve oder, and to see that no soldiers be permitted to enter the city except confidence. His career hitherto had been one by his order or by written permission from the of the most brilliant successes, and his name commanding officer of his brigade or regiment; and he will punish summarily any American soldier who shall trespass upon the rights of any of the inhabitants.

Major-General.

Gen. Viele immediately appointed T. R. Da vis his military Secretary. After the departure of Gen. Wool, several thousand people assen bled near the City Hall to hear the speech of the Mayor who seemed very popular. He said in his negociation with Gen. Wool he had secured a pledge of protection to private property and a safe continuance of all private busines. Gosport Navy Yard and the public property was burnt by the enemy to-day, with most of causes within the control of Beauregard, not the steamboats and other vessels on the Elizabeth river. It was a brilliant spectacle.

During the entire evening the people were in state of great excitement.
