LIFE INSURANCE.

The CONNECTICUT MUTUAL LIFE INS. CO., Hartford, has assets amounting to $4,358,009 60, now on hand. The Company has paid $2,753 001 77 for losses, and $1,959,079 00 in dividends to policy holders. During the past year the Company's receipts have been $1,117,500 28, and the bonds paid have been $255,100. Persons who de sire to be insured need only to understand the favorable terms on which this Company transact their business.

Reasons why this Co. should be preferred

It offers abundant SECURITY in a large accumulate Fund, derived from Premiums, amounting to over FOUR AND A QUARTER MILLIONS.

Its ECONOMY in the management of business permits large dividends to policy holders, which have averaged 50 PER CENT. er ann

Its DIVIDENDS are ANNUAL and are paid during the life of the assured, in cash to those who pay their premi ums in cash, or applied in canceling the notes of those who pay their premiums partly by note. More than $200,000 have been thus refunded to policy holders during the past

It is prompt in PAYMENT OF LOSSES.
It accommodates the assured in the settlement of their premiums on Life policies, by receiving a note for one-half, when the premium amounts to $50 or more; thus furnishing insurance for double the amount, for nearly the same cach payments, as is required in an "ALL CASH COMMAN," JOHN G. CITIZENS OF CONNECTICUT: Our National en mies are still strong in their determination to de stroy the Union. More than ten thousand of you sons have gone to the battle-field to contend for the honor of our flag, and the supremacy of our Gov ernment. The army needs reinforcements. The President calls for another Regiment from this State, and for recruits to fill those in the Departnent of North Carolina, 'Tis your country's call espond promptly. Organize the Regiment quickly and fill the ranks. Connecticut should be true t her early record of patriotic devotion to liberty and Given under my hand, and the seal of the State at New Haven, this, the 16th day of June L. s. one thousand eight hundred and sixty two WM. A. BUCKINGHAM. By His Excellency's command,

J. HAMMOND TRUMBULL, Secretary of State.

First Annual Repart of the Chief of Pe lice. The first annual report of Mr. J. W. Pone Chief of Police, under the present system, was presented to the Court of Common Council

Monday evening, 16th, and from it we gather the following facts and items of information. The Police Department now comprises three officers, sixteen regular policemen, and fifteen supernumerary policemen, the latter being brought into requisition as special occasion may require. The discipline of the Department is reported as satisfactory, and the adoption of the uniforms is regarded as a measure of great benefit. The Chief mentions as worthy of particular notice, the efforts of some of the policemen in the special character of detec tives-an office requiring special "coolnes tact, ingenuity, address, a furtive mind, determination, and perseverance."

"During the past year, the police have been able to preserve the public peace to a remarkable degree, considering their number and the 'character of their duties."

The number of the police is reported to be ess in this city in proportion to the populatio than in other cities of the country. The nun ber of policemen in New York is, in propor tion to the number of inhabitants, as 1 to 500 in Hartford as 1 to 1,363; in Booklyn as 1 to 1,500; in Albany as 1 to 1,550; in New Haven as 1 to 2,437.

If we had policemen in proportion to the city of New York we should have 80: in proportion to Hartford, 29; in proportion to Brook yn, 27; in proportion to Albany, 26. The proportion of police in Europe is 1 to each 500 nhabitants, and they are constantly supported by the military force in those countries.

The smallness of the police force of New H: en is shown from the fact that the police must perform duty both day and night, and must have time for refreshment, sleep, &c., and therefore only four to six men can be on duty during the day, and six to twelve during the night, with a very large extent of territory to cover on each beat. It is therefore impossible for the police to appear in some localities except at great intervals. The Chief therefore reports that the number of policemen, instead of being fixed by law, should be left to the dis-

The number of arrests made during the nine nonths covered by this report, is given in the recapitulation as follows: For offenses against the person, 1,173; against property, 139; mis cellaneous offenses, 188: violation of city or linances, 89-total number of arrests, 1,539. The number of children lost and restored ha been 33; the number of destitute persons ac commodated with lodgings, males, 963; fe retion of the Board of Police Commissioners.

males, 153-total, 1,119. One important duty performed by the police of which but few are cognizant, is that of ex amining the condition in which stores, offices, &c., are left at night. The number of store and shops found unlocked, open, or exposed and in unsafe condition, has been 78; a finopening for enterprising rascals and thieves to enter into business. Lost and stolen property has been restored to the value of $4,082 25. The Chief reports a large increase of juvenile offenders, among whom many arrests have been made; many of them under 18 years of age, and some under the tender age of 10 years and these are among those who are to be the voters of the city in a few years. This report if printed in full and placed be fore the people, would give much information on many points which are little understood by the mass of the public. As it is, from the facts we have gleaned from the report, many items for deep reflection may be obtained. Dispatches from Gen. Halleck have been received at the war department. They present no new features with regard to Beauregard's army, which is supposed to still remain in the It provides for a bureau of steam engineering, vicinity of Okolona, Overton and Columbus. Disnatches from the army of the Potomac dated 7 o'clock Monday evening, indicate that all is quiet in front of Richmond, Gen. Dix informs the department that the military telegraph ha mpleted to Norfolk and Suffolk. The line to Fortress Monroe was working well Monday night.

Messas, Editors-The 14th of June, hereafter. I trust, to be known as "Flag Day," was duly observed in Ansonia. The villagers, male and female, assembled at the head of Main and female, assembled at the head of Main ened Saturday, and ran with such violence as street at 2 o'clock p. m. when an elegant flag to scatter his lacteal freight from the cans in staff of red cedar 82 feet long, painted red, white and blue, was erected and from it a National Flag, 80 by 30 feet, was flung to the breeze. After hearty cheering the President of the day, Mr. Collins, called upon the Ansonia the year past, is as follows: Cases argued in GLEE CLUB who sang under the direction of the Supreme Court, 57. Whole number of Mr. North a national song with good effect new entries in all the counties, during the commencing "we'll rally round our Flag," &c.

S. Barbour, Esq., made a short address giving an interesting history of "the Flag" and calling upon all, old and young, to uphold and sustain it to the bitter end. Mr. Beardsley, a physician of the town, being loudly called for responded in a terse and vigorous speech which licted great applause. His remarks were well timed and highly patriotic. Rev. Mr. Frisbie followed him briefly, being quite humorous and poetical in what he had to say. Wm. B. Wooster Esq.

was then called for. He took the stand and spoke for nearly an hour. He gave a vivid renume of the rebellion portraying its blighting effects all over the country. He spoke feeling-ly of our dead and wounded and dying soldiers, and maintained that the people of the North as yet were not educated up to the awful necessities of the hour. He gave several sledgehammer hits at rebel-rotten Democracy. His speech was bold, earnest and convincing, and with "conservatives" would be characterized as decidedly anti-slavery, but it showed his head and heert to be in the right place. David Griffith, a young limb of the law and a recruiting officer for the 14th Conn. regiment, was at the battle of Bull Run and was in for another fight. The "Old Flag" was as dear to him as his country or his home. After singing th Star Spangled Banner the president thanked the people for their attendance and the crowd dispersed. The whole affair, apparently impromptu was well managed and highly creditable to the enterprising citizens of Ansonia.

[Correspondence of the Palladium.] THE SEVENTH C. V. ON JAMES ISLAND-PREP. ARATIONS FOR AN ATTACK ON CHARLESTON. JAMES ISLAND, SOUTH CAROLINA, FIVE MILES DELOW CHARLEFTON CITY, June 11, 1862.

MESSES, EDITORS : After a northerly moment, occupying mostly two weeks of time, we again find ourselves face to face with the chivalry, and apparently on the eve of meeting then in open field and underneath their own vines see Forts Johnson and Sumpter, and a little further on, the tall spires of that cursed hole where was hatched and perfected all this foul scheme of rebellion rise in silent stillness. We landed on the island last Friday, and since that time we have had daily skirmishes with the enemy, meeting him every time on his own ground, and, in every instance, driving him back. In one of these engagements, we encountered their pickets, (cavalry,) in a dense wood, drove them back to a place called Secessionville, where, being strengthened, they made a stand and gave us battle, firing from the windows of a church, out-buildings, negro shanties, and other places of concealment, (a very forcible way of illustrating their desire to " meet us in the field.") Our men were found equal to the emergency and responded quickly to the firing, making their Sharp's rifles tell fatally wherever they found a target. Having accomplished the object of the reconnoissance, to find out the locality and strength of the foe. we retired with only the loss of one killed and ne wounded.

We catch an occasional stray lamb from the ock, as, for instance, a day or two since, a corporal and three privates from the Charleston rifles. One of them had with him a piece of private property in the form of an Enfield rifle with a silver plate on the swell of the stock, and the name of Jas. B. Berkley engraved thereon. They were all uniformed in the yellowish gray cloth so common to Beauregard's army, and felt hats. Their encampment about mid distance between here and Fort Johnson, and is well protected from the fire of infantry, when attacked, by rifle pits and mounds, resembling in form and size the hay cocks of a country farm at home.

is, we do not know with certainty, as the ac counts from persons are so conflicting that we cannot rely on their statements. However, in a few days we shall know by actual observation. Our boats and the enemy's batteries have had brisk time of it during the past night, and this morning the Pawnce is sending down her top-masts, preparatory to punishing them by their insolence. Among all the marvels of mechanical inge nuity which are daily being brought to perfection, none are more interesting than those which aim at the accomplishment of some task apparently requiring intellect, in addition to mere mechanical dexterity, for its execution. It is difficult to conceive a mechanical operation which requires a greater exercise of intellect than that of verbatim reporting by means of nuity which are daily being brought to perfecthan that of verbatim reporting by means of short-hand. Yet even this art seems likely, before long, to be supplanted. For several years a French savant, M. L. Scott, has been engaged in experiments on the fluxation of sound a prepared tablet, in the same way as photography fixes luminous images; and has met with considerable success in this new art, which he has named Phonautography. At the last sitting of the French Academy of Sciences, a short communication was made by the discovcalled out and spoke briefly. He said he was erer in consequence of the publication of some experiments in the same direction made by other gentlemen. * This communication was devoted niefly to a description of certain illustrations laid before the members, and would be unintelligible to the "general reader without the diagrams, and a knowledge of what had previousy been accomplished by Mr. Scott. The subject, however, being of immense importance, and likely now to attract great attention, and having ourselves watched its development for several years, as well as having had many opportunities of inspecting the phonographic repesentations of sound autographically recorded v Mr. Scott's instrument, a short account of what has already been done by this physicist will perhaps be considered of interest. The problem which first required solution was the artificial construction of an ear, by means of tubes and diaphragms, so as to imitate as nearly as possible the human ear, in its powand fig-trees. From our look out we can plainly er of collecting sounds of every degree of intensity, and transmitting them to a delicate membrane placed at the extremity. After numerous essays an apparatus was constructed which possessed the above qualifications, the nembrane was seen to vibrate visibly, and in a different manner with each audible sound or note: and if a pen or style were fastened to this membrane, its point would trace the wonderfully beautiful and complicated curves and circles appertaining to the elements of sound. The next difficulty consisted in finding a sensitive surface upon which this style could mark the imprint of its movements; for the vibrations of the aerial pen were so delicate that, if any appreciable force were required to effect the transciption, the resistance would at once stop all movement. This difficulty was at last overcome by employing a strip of thin paper, upon which was deposited a film of lampblack obtained from the smoke of burning bodies. This sensitive surface is carried along by clock work agency, in front of the vibrating style, so that the successive movements of the latter shall not impinge one on the other, when the result is a series of lines written on the paper, composed of the most complicated systems of curves forming a natural autograph of the producing sounds.

Of course it will be understood that the above is intended more as a brief outline of the principle of Mr. Scott's instrument, than as an exact description of its individual details. In reality, especially the one recently made, it is far more complicated than would be imagined rom this brief sketch; but the phonog produced by it are marvelously perfect. Every separate source of sound has an individuality of struments, for instance, are easily distinguished from one another, and from the human voice. The latter, moreover, gives different traces according to its character—the sweet, soft voice f a female, especially when singing, being characterized by great beauty and harmony in produced by the harsher voice of a man, the urves are larger and more rugged looking; while in a shriek or a shout, or in the harsh tween these powerful contending armies. discordant sounds of instrument, the waves re irregular, unequal, and broken up into secondary vibrations of all degrees of amplitude.

An oration delivered with varying rapidity, and with the pitch of the voice greatly modulated in different parts, has a very striking appearance in its phonograph. Rapidly spoken the car. Occasionally a masked rebel battery parts have the curves crowded together, tones of the voice are shown by the written hight, while the low tones are not more than and annoying customer. the eighth of an inch high; the modulations of the voice are thus shown very beautifully by the varying hight of what may be called the etters of sound. Thus, then, the problem of the graphic fixa-

This, however, is far from being the Not only does the impression vary with the tone of the voice, the rapidity or loudness of utterance, but it has been found that the the balloon that we could see the enemy re down by the instrument very differently from as the hand writing of one person differs from another. This, however, is a difficulty which will be overcome by practice, and perhaps improved instrumental arrangements; even now we hear that Mr. Scott is attaining some facility n reading off these natural stenographs. The difficulties, however, in the way of fluent transcription into written language are very great, as the student in this new language has so many different forms presented to him as the equivalent for the same articulated sound; the tracings not being either a true synthesis of the able around the city; smoke issued from all words, nor a purely conventional sign like writing, which has, let us remember, no phonominal value, but is merely, to use a mathematical expression, a function of the tones, the intensty and the pitch. The fact of being able to make spoken sounds record themselves permanently on paper is of itself most singular and astonishing; but if it is ever developed, as the inventor says it shortly will be, to sufficient perfection to enable it to take down speeches which may be written down verbatim, it is difficult to imagine the importance of the discovery, whether it be in respect to the unimpeachable accuracy of the process the entire absence of trouble and expense in respoken of, has lately been discovered. As far porting any articulate sound, or the great saving of the time and the exhausting labors of Stonewall Jackson Strongly Reinforced.

FREMONT IN AN EXPOSED POSITIOT.

New York, June 17, 1862. A special to the Times, dated Mount Jackson, the 16th, states that information has been received at headquarters, that Jackson has been einforced a second time by 12,000 men. Fremont is in a very exposed position, and no reinforcements are on the way to him. It is believed that much of the Corinth army is about to be sent to secure supplies of wheat in the Shenandoah Valley.

[The last paragraph of this dispatch makes a very singular statement.—EDS.]

Congress-To-day. Washington, June 17, 1862.

Mr. Chandler offered a resolution that th amount of legal tender treasury notes already authorized shall never be increased, but the Secy. of the treasury is authorized to issue a hundred millions treasury ten-days certificates bearing five per cent interest in addition to fifty millions already authorized by law; laid over. The Pacific Rail-road bill was taken up.

Bill amending Patent Office law up ar

The bill provides for three examiners in chief whose duties shall be advisory to the commis sioner of patents; and after a second rejection of an application for a patent or after one de cision by the commissioner, the party dissatisfied may appeal to either of the judges of circuit court of the District of Columbia.

Mr. Elliot from the Select Committee on confiscation, stated that he was instructed to report the bill heretofore referred to them, with amendments. A point of order was raised that the Committee were instructed to report the bill and the amendments were inadmissable. 'The eaker sustained the point. Mr. Elliot then reported the bill as it was referred to them.

The morning hour having expired, the House went into Committee of the Whole on the bill authorizing an additional issue of NEW YORK LABORATORY for the sale of

Call for More Troops. Governor Buckingham issues a proclamation to-day, calling for enlistments in the new regiment now forming in this State. He appeals to the patriotism of the people and it should be needed accordingly. We are informed that the PIANOS! various recruiting officers are obliged to expend onsiderable money, a great deal more than they can afford, to help on enlistments. One officer, in one of the regiments, now in service, was at a personal expense of several hundred dollars to get his company ready for adnission into the regiment. It seems to us that this is too great a burden to place upon the shoulders of these zealous, patriotic men, and we should like to see some plan adopted whereby they may be remunerated for their expenditures. The United States make no provision for this expense and there is no provision state-

wise that we are aware of, yet we think there

Capture of a Rebel Steamer. A correspondent of the Boston Journal, on board the gunboat Chippewa off Wilmington, under date of June 4, reports the capture of the rebel steamer Gordon by the steamer State of Georgia. The Gordon is a fine steamer ownd in Charleston, and can make her knots an hour. She was sent to New York Eight of her crew jumped overboard from the State of Georgia and tried to escape, but were ecaptured, and the crowd on the beach which had collected to receive them were shelled by the Victoria, dispersing them. They soon returned with a litter, bearing off two killed or wounded. It is ascertained from the Gordon's crew that the steamer Vion, with 10 or 14 Armstrong guns, is fitting out at Nassau, and is about Wilmington.

The Sixth Connecticut. The Port Royal correspondent of the New York Times says, the forces under command of Brig. Gen. Wright crossed from Edisto Island to Seabrook's Point on the 29th, 30th, and 31st of May. The Sixth Connecticut being in advance had a skirmish with the rebel pickets on Sunday morning, June 1, and at the second attempt drove the enemy across the river and obtained possession of the bridge.

On Tuesday afternoon, the 10th, while advancing toward Charleston, the 97th Penn., 47th N. Y., and two companies of the 6th Conn., were attacked at a point distant 3 miles from Gen. Steven's position, by a large force of rebels. The fight was warmly contested for over two hours, and ended with the rout of the rebels, with loss as follows: 17 killed, six prisoners and about 30 wounded. The killed were buried by our troops. Our loss was 3 of the 97th killed and 13 wounded. The action is represented as having been close, but our boys fought like heroes. The next day an attack was made on a battery situate half a mile in advance of the ground contested as above. The 8th Michigan, and 79th New York charged upon the rebels in gallant style, and drove them from their works, captured three of the guns, and destroyed the remaining one. Our troops behaved nobly. The Generals in command speak in flattering terms of their daring

A Convict's Dying Testimony. The tragedy at the State Prison a short tim ince, which resulted in the death of Warder Webster, stimulated the public mind to demand an inquiry into the character of the governnent of that institution. An investigation was ordered by the Legislature, and the Com mittee on the State Prison have spent portion of two days in making an investigation in ac cordance with that order. How strict the in vestigation was, we are not in a condition to state; nor are we aware that any exhaustive report of those proceedings has been presented to the Legislature. The public mind was again startled on Fr day, the 13th, by the report of another tragedy at this institution, in which an overseer wa the victim of a murderous assault. Whether the case will terminate fatally or not, we cannot a this time, state. It is reported, however, that the sufferer lies at the point of death.

Of course, public sentiment will demand this case, as in the former, a rigid examination into all the facts and circumstances without fear or favor of any person.

A few days before the occurrence of this las mentioned affair, a gentleman handed us a le ter written by a convict who has been an in mate of the State Prison, but who, soon after writing, was released by death. The author was sentenced-justly, we doubt not-in 1858, for a period of six years and six months, o due conviction of the crime of horse stealing His widowed mother resides in Westville, near this city, and is reputed a very respectable and worthy woman. The letter came into her pos session in a manner that leaves no doubt of its authenticity. It reads as follows:

WETHERSFIELD, Dec. 19, 1861.

My Dear Mother: I write you these few line to let you know the cause of my long sickness. feel I must soon die. It was on the second day last April the Warden and the Deputy took me of in the new prison. They had a way to have the in the new prison. They had a note they said wrote; I said I did not. They teld me to take my shirt off. I did. The Deputy struck me ten blow with the "cat;" he did not strike me on the back but on the vitals; every blow in the same place. The ten blows was all the law allows them to pun is he man, but they put me in a dimercion and ken. sh a man-but they put me in a dungeon and ke times, might not have been dictated by a laudable desire on the part of the officers to produce a proper state of discipline in the institution. But as investigation has been, and still appears to be, required by public sentiment, we suggest that a true understanding of the facts of this case, as well as of others, will best conduce to a proper judgment upon the state of affairs in our penal institutions. In the course of the testimony elicited by the Committee at its late investigation at the prison, we understand it was stated by Dr. Warner, that a prisoner actually sickened and died from a cold taken while he was confined in a solitary cell. The circumstances would indicate that the case referred to was that of the author of the letter above given.

It may be that there is no law requiring witnesses to be present when convicts are punished. Itil it is perfectly certain that the injury which If not, then it would seem to be both politic they will occasion will not be greater than the suffering which they will relieve. and right in order to secure justice to the administrator of punishment, and also to its subject—that responsible witnesses should be pres ent at the time of inflicting all corporal punisliment, and that the law should define the degree of punishment, its manner, and its im portant incidents. It might also be well, were a strict, full, and duly attested record of the same required to be kept in all cases. We may, at another time, refer again to this subject; but we present this letter now, with these comments and suggestions, hoping that these subjects may receive, at the hands of the Legislature, the attention their importance demands; for the interests of the public, the good name of the officers of our penal institutions, and the welfare of convicts alike demand careful attention.

Middletown Wharves Too much Legislation. It will be readily admitted by every intelligent person that nothing is more conclusive to the peace of society and the general welfare of a State than a system of wise and stable laws. And that nothing tends so much toward public society and engender discord and litigation as among the living, you shall thear from me soon

Laws are said to be "not a transient and sudden order from a superior to or concerning a particular person, but something pre-eminent, uniform and universal." This definition however would be entirely inapplicable to the great majority of laws enacted by our legislature, on in with any of that crowd however and cannot holding up his hand in herror as he looked along the contrary in the hasty and inconsiderate vouch for the truth of it, but I saw one, or at the front rank-"Oh! what a bent row! or statute law of the state should be as much as possible avoided, and should only be made, when experience has proved them to be materially defective in some essential particular and then with great deliberation and caution, first carefully considering the effect and consequences. It is (another) fundamental principle of public policy that as a general rule the laws of a state should be of a strictly public character and of impartial and universal operation, and that particular laws affecting only particular ersons, corporations, classes or communities, hould only be enacted when those who thus seek the interposition of the sovereign power for their special protection are able to show the most conclusive reasons why it should be

The legislature should be especially cautious n the exercise of this transcendent authority when the effect may be to affect adversely private interests and shackle and restrict private enterprise, for these are the great arteries that ommunicate life, health and vigor to the body public and they are governed by natural laws peculiar to themselves, but as constant and invariable within their sphere as the laws of na-

In this State we have carried this practice of pecial legislation to a ridiculous extent, more han half the acts styled public and printed as such, are, in fact, passed merely at the suggeston and for the benefit of some individual corporation or community, and are of merely private and local application. In addition to this the number of acts passed annually, and styled at Washington. He was endeavoring to capprivate, and printed separately, greatly exceed those of a public or quasi-public character.

From the facility with which private legisation is obtained the rights of individuals are not unfrequently impaired without their even having an opportunity to be heard. A striking illustration of this occurred only the other day. A bill was introduced limiting the speed of steamboats, on the Commecticut river while passing the wharves at Middletown. An amendment was proposed prohibiting their passing any wharf on the river at a greater rate of speed than six miles an hour.

As the wharves on the river between Hart ford and Saybrook are innumerable the practical effect of this amendment would have been to limit the speed of the boats to about six miles an hour for the whole distance, thus making it about two days from Hartford to New York by steamboat, and entirely destroying the business of the corporation by which they are owned. and imposing a very serious inconvenience upon the traveling public.

The absurdity of the amendment was discover ed before the mischief was done, but the amendment proposed was not half as absurd as the original bill, for there is scarcely a wharf on the river that does not need such protection more than those at Middletown. Before the poats come within the limits of the city of Middletown their speed must necessarily be relaxed to less than six miles an hour in order that they they leave the dock to go up the river they run directly away from the wharves, and on leavng the dock to go down they do not attain to We would not be understood as saying a Middletown except when such extraordinary word in extenuation of the offense for which freshets as the one of 1854 and of last spring the deceased convict was imprisoned; nor as render it impossible to do so; and at such times complains as having been administered a dozen the current itself at a greater velocity than six miles an hour. It would have indicated more intelligence to have applied for a law prohibiting freshets than for one of this character.

Two or three more laws like the one proposed would entirely ruin interests of ten-fold more value than those they are passed to protect Nature has already placed many obstacles in the way of the successful navigation of the river, and is annually adding to them; it should not be further hampered by restrictive and unnecessary legislation. When steamboats run for a long distance alongside of populous wharves, the protection of the shipping in the harbor requires that the speed of the boat should be limited, and for eason analagous to that which renders it necssary and proper to limit the speed of railroad cars when running through the streets of a city; but upon general principles laws of this char uld not be passed unless the necessity for them is very clearly established, and not ur
