[CONCLUDED FROM THE FIRST EDITION.] A BLOODY BATTLE.

Heintzelman, as I have said, was on the road furthest over toward James River. Early in the afternoon the enemy, in strong force, appeared, opening with artillery, and advancing division after division of infantry in solid masses. He resisted bravely, but was compelled to fall back to a new position. The enemy followed, employing his old tactics of hurling masses of men, now upon the right, now upon the left, and now suddenly in the center. He held his ground unaided until six o'clock. His ranks were terri bly thinned, and he was obliged to bring up McCall once more. His division had been in NANSOUKS, &c.

Simultaneously upon their advance came fresh troops from Righmond, and loud and terrific as at any time during the six days fighting roared the contest. But the masses of the enemy rolled along the road. Their leaders had no care for saving life. This was war-a strife for mastery. It was their determination to win, no matter what it cost. They rushed We are UNION MEN. "No North," "No South." We solicit the patronage of ALL, in every section of the Uni-ed States; and are the servants of all who favor us with on impetuously, charged upon our batteries, captured Randall's, and took a large number of prisoners. The united divisions, firm and unyielding as the granite of their native mountains, moved to the charge—onward, right onward, unheed-ing death or life! They came upon the enemy like a thunderbolt, bore down the living masses in front as if they were automatons, sent them flying over the field, and captured twelve pieces of artillery, one brigade, including three regi-ments; also Col. The troops felt the soul stirring strains and forgot that they were tired, hungry, exhausted and ready to

The rebels had thrown a body of men close own upon the river. The gunboats, when the fight began, moved up and opened with 10-inch shells upon the table land. It was a timely assistance, otherwise the rebels would have crept along the bank, flanked Heintzleman and reached his rear. What narrow margins there have been in this war. I enumerated some of them in a former letter. This may be added to the list.

It closed the fighting. On Tuesday the pickets of the enemy hovered around, but not in Tuesday's fight lasted from 5 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night. The rebels came up in lines three or four deep, but were driven back with great loss of men. We captured 24 guns.

HEADQUARTERS, Army of the Potomac, camp near Harrison's Landing, July 4th, 1862.—Soldiers of the army of the Potomac,—Your achievements of the last ten days have illustrated the valor and endurance of the American soldier. Attacked by superior forces and without hope of reinforcements, you have succeeded in changing your base of operations by a flank movement, always regarded as the most hazardous of military expedients. You have saved all your material, all your trains, and all your guns except a few lost in battle, taking in return guns and colors from the enemy upon your march. You have been assailed day after day with desperate fury, by men of the same race and nation, and skillfully massed and led. Under every disadvantage of numbers, and necessarily of position also, you have in every conflict beaten back your foes with enormous slaughter. Citizens of Connecticut: You are again called upon to rally to the suport of the government. In the name of our ommon country, I call upon you to enroll your names for the immediate formation of six or more Regiments of Infantry, to be used in suppressing the Rebellion. Our troops may b eld in check and our sons die on the battlefield—but the cause of civil liberty must be advanced—the supremacy of the government must be maintained. Prompt and decisive action will be economy in men and money. By CHAPEL ST. CLOTHING STORE, our delay the safety of our armies, even of the nation, may be imperilled. The Rebellion, contending with the desperation of a hopeless and wicked cause, must be met with equal energy Close your manufactories and workshops-turn aside from your farms and your businessfor a while your families and your homes— meet face to face the enemies of your liberties. Haste and you will rescue many noble men now struggling against superior numbers, and speedily secure the blessings of peace and good gov.

Given under my hand and the seal of the State, at New Haven, this third day of July, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and sixty two.

WM. A. BUCK NGHAM. By His Excellency's command, J. H. TRUMBULL, Secretary of State

More Soldiers Needed.

The accounts of the recent battle near Rich mond, are not yet sufficiently clear to warrant a final judgment respecting the results of the engagement. It is quite certain, however, that the Federal arms have suffered a reverse, that Richmond, instead of being doomed, is apparently safer than before, that the high hopes of the nation have been temporarily crushed, and that McClellan for some days has been acting upon the defensive. The recital of the valor of our troops, of the terrible loss of the enemy. of the safety of our baggage and artillery, may brighten the picture somewhat, but it cannot obscure the fact that an army which is obliged to retreat from its own chosen position, is not Speculations are rife respecting the cause and the results of this seeming disaster; criminations and recriminations will be indulged in. of McClellan will feel that their prophecies are fulfilled, and his friends will experience a bitter disappointment. It is no time for any of these things. The nation's life is too dear to be imperiled by unmeaning wranglings among ourselves. Enough for us to know that that the whole power of the rebel States, gathered by conscription and force, and concentrated at Richmond, has been too great for our army to conquer, and that from the loyal millions of the land thousands of new volunteers must come to put down this bloody and fratricidal rebellion. Let the Nation and the State rise in their might and show themselves equal to the grand emergency which is upon us. England and France and the world may interfere if they choose, and if they dare. Our course is straight onward, the final goal to which we must arrive, the suppression of the rebellion, though it be through waste of treasure and ivers of blood.

They who talk of peace at a time like this alk of national disgrace and infamy. To make erms with traitors and submit to the dismem berment of the republic is to entail on coming generations a legacy of eternal war. The connuance of this war until the supremacy of the Government shall be re-established in every State, is no longer an open question. We may as well dismiss from our minds once and forever all thoughts of peace upon any other basis, and gird ourselves to the work. Let the power of he loyal States, as yet hardly felt, be poured like an avalanche upon the rebels. Let us devote ourselves to the work of the age, not as an outside business, for accomplishing which we send off certain regiments and certain men, but, like the rebels, as our only business to which all our energies must be directed. Everything that makes life valuable to every man, woman and child in the land, hangs upon the issue of the coming battles. Our friends and brothers are fighting for us and for our country. Even now they may be standing under the old flag, amid a shower of leaden hail, with thinned ranks, struggling against the superior forces of the enemy. They must not be abandoned.

They seem to call upon us to come to the They seem to call upon us to come to the secue, while the unknown graves of heroes that so persevering were the efforts of this noble officer and those whom he inspirited with the good have fallen upon the battle field or by the no less painful ravages of disease, and the vacant that vessel signed the pledge of total abstinence, places by the hearth of many a New England and the first port that the good and now safe bark touched, all the "U.S." stores of whiskey home, appeal to us most touchingly not to abandon the cause for which so many youthful martyrs have given up their lives.

The State of Putnam and Ledyard, of Woos er and Hale, of Lyon and Russell, which covered itself with glory in the contest for inde pendence, must not, will not be wanting in its duty, when blessings gained by blood are in

The call of the Governor for more troops i ssued. Let it be responded to and the ranks filled with promptness and enthusiasm. Every town in the State must contribute more men We are twenty millions and can raise an army, if need be, of two and a half millions. The suppression of the rebellion is therefore a mere the poetical mine, took especial care to help question of time. But a needless waste of treasure and life will be avoided by pressing forward new regiments at once. The moments are precious. Everything is at stake. One more grand effort and the country may be safe.

Grand Union Rally! The undersigned citizens of New Haven believing that the present crisis of our national affairs calls loudly upon every patriotic citizen, to put forth his utmost exertion to sustain the Government in this hour of its trial, most earnestly call upon all good and true union-loving men to meet together in Music Hall, on Tuesday evening, July 8, at 71 o'clock, for the purpose of appointing a Committee of Ways and Means to assist in raising immediately such numbers of volunteers as may be necessary under the late call of the President.

Our country calls! let every man respond t the extent of his ability; some have time, some money, such as we have let us give cheerfully, and thereby dispel the clouds which are emporarily hanging over us. The darkest hours are always just before day! Rally, one and all, and let us stand shoulder to shoulder in defense of our country and its gallant army. N. D. Sperry.

The News.

Our dispatch from Fortress Monroe mentions fighting on Wednesday, but advices at the War diers after the bloody battles of eight successive days, rest upon the banks of the James river, a too much for the rebel force, and they have re- evening. treated from the field.

A Meating at Music Hall. A call for a Grand Rally, in behalf of the Un ion, at Music Hall, on Tuesday evening next, appears in our columns this afternoon. No meeting of equal importance has ever been called in this city. Let New Haven do her full duty in kindling an enthusiasm for the war, and the country towns will nobly respond. The temporary depression of the last few days is passing away, and already we see the clearest indications in all parts of the State, that the people are prepared for new sacrifices and exertions. The deep earnestness of the popular heart only needs to be rightly directed, and Connecticut will be found in line with Massa chusetts and New York. Friends, one and all. let us meet and consult for the Republic!

The War Department has exonerated Gen Benham from the charge of having violated his orders in making the attack on the rebels at James Island, and he now goes back to his comnand in South Carolina.

The Christian Advocate and Journal tells the following characteristic anecdote of Com. Foote: "At the commencement of a cruise Com Foote called the Chaplain to his state-room and told him that he desired to form a temperance society aboard of the vessel. The Chaplain thought the object a good one, but the success of the experiment he very much doubted. His doubts were much greater when the Commodore told him he intended to make old Brown President, if agreeable to the others. Now old Brown had for many years been a follower of the seas and had imbih ed such quantities of bad liquor that his nose plainly told of the excess of his drinking, and in answer to the Chaplain's doubts about securing the concurrence of old Brown, the Commodore replied: 'Never mind I have already spoken to Brown on the subject and he enters heartily into the scheme, and con sents to be President of our society.' The meet ing was called and the society was formed; and work, that every officer and man on board o were stored on account of the Government. The cruise was finished without one drop of whiskey rations; and no doubt the crew was much better able to perform their duty and to endure hardship than when they daily imbibed that which was calculated to destroy body and soul.

Gen. O. S. Ferry states in a private letter that Edward Moore, formerly editor of the Fairfield County Democrat, in this State, is now publishing a secession newspaper, the Gazette, at Front Royal, Va, and that he is fast dying of con-

Brilliant Charge of an Irish Brigade. Jake Hodge is a well-known "contraband" of his city, who went to Hilton Head with the Sixth Regiment, and returned about a fortnight since to est upon his laurels. Last evening, near 7 o'clock, Jake, with his friend Henry Williams, started from Fleet street on an excursion to Miller's Garden, ut went only a short distance before he fell in with Edward Fitzpatrick, who cheerfully voluneered to give Jake a sound thrashing, and immeliately opened his batteries upon him. Versed in the manly art of self-defence," and having just come from the wars, Jake stood his ground and opened with his 2-pounders upon his adversary who getting worsted, called up a large reinforce. ment of his Irish rowdies to his assistance. Jake was now forced to fall back, which movement he executed brilliantly and in good order, through State street into Cherry street and thence into Unon street. Here Jake made a stand and called for fair play, offering to take three of his opponents at a time, but protested against fighting two dozen at once. His enemy would, however, hear no cry for quarter, and executing a flank movement of their whole brigade, completely surrounded Jake and raked him terribly by a cross fire from their combined batteries. The Police finally interfered and took the leader of the brigade, Mr. Fitzpatrick, to the Station House. He was tried this morning found guilty of assault, and in default of $5 fine and Frederick W.J. Sizer. osts of suit, was sent to jail.

Fatal Burning Fluid Accident.

A sad case of burning from the explosion of burning fluid can, occurred at the residence of Mr A. J. Beers, No. 14 Orange street, this morning. Between six and seven o'clock, the hired girl, Kate Reynolds, while building a coal fire in the basement resorted to the use of fluid, pouring the liquid from the can upon the ignited coals, when an explosion at once took place, enveloping the unfortunate gir in flames. She rushed up stairs screaming loudly Mr. Beers and wife hearing the explosion and her cries, started hurriedly from an upper room, and Mr. B. met the girl a mass of flames at the head o the basement stairs. He threw a woolen blanke around her, smothering the flames, just as she wa entering the parlor. She dropped to the floor exhausted and fainting. Dr. Charles C. Foote was immediately summoned, who pronounced her case hopeless. She had passed the Fourth with a brothe and his family from out of town, and in her hurry to expedite her domestic matters, resorted to thi infortunate experiment.

lemonstrations of an unusual character. Large umbers of our people attended the celebration in Bridgeport, and others journeyed to Hartford to witness the more imposing celebrations, for which the people of those cities made extraordinary preparations. The juvenile portion of our population assisted to a considerable extent by their seniors wasted large quantities of fire crackers and gunpower in making night and day hideous with their noisy demonstrations. The day was unusually free, in this place, from the accidents that so often mark these celebrations.

At Hamilton Park a throng of between one an two thousand gathered to witness the races of horses and men, and to laugh and grow merr over the ludicrous English custom of chasing and catching the greased pig. The sports of the day were apparently well relished by the crowds in the Park, and good order was preserved through the whole proceedings.

At Savin Rock a large number enjoyed a pleasan holiday, under the careful attentions of Mr. Upson the presiding genius of the place.

Much interest centered during the afternoo about the newspaper offices. In such a quiet town as Clinton, the people are apt to settle into a stupid indifference in the matters of the church, and by one consen allow and expect the pastor to do all the work; and think that if they pay pew rent and go to church their duty is done; and if, perchance their children grow up irreligious, and there is no work of grace in the church then the pastor in their estimation is to blame. In the Congregational Church a Saturday night meeting is sustained by a few faithful one and some of its members have continued to hold district meetings in a school house remote from th church on Sabbath evenings ever since the great revival. These meetings are highly prized and are means of grace to those who attend single Division.

Washington, July 4, 1862. The Richmond Examiner of July 2d, gives the following relating to the battle of Monday : It says that on Sunday morning Gens. Hill and Longstreet, with their divisions, crossed the Chickahominy and late on Monday afternoon attacked the Federals about five miles northast of Darlingtown, on the New Market road. The conflict was terrible, and at half-past o'clock, p. m., the Union forces had been driven back a mile and a half. At half past o'clock, having been heavily reinforced, the Federals made another stand. The loss here on our (rebel) side was terrible. The situation being evidently hopeless against such overwhelming forces, Gen. Hill slowly retired. At this moment, seeing their adversary retire, the most vociferous cheers arose along the whole Yankee line. The fight ended there for the

The Examiner says it thinks the division which went into the fight of Friday, 14,000 strong, could only number 6,000 men for duty on Tuesday, and that the loss of life exceeds that of any battle or series of battles yet fought. About 8 a. m., of Tuesday, the Examiner says, Jackson and Huger's divisions attacked McClellan's left flank on the west side of the Chickahominy, 17 miles from Richmond. Later in the day Magruder fell upon McClellan's

He then discussed the propriety of the commutation ta:
Is regarded the vo untary system of militia duty, which he basis of this bill, as inconsistent with the compulsion pel any one to do milliary duty except in case of rebellion, &c.

Nor can the law be defended under the law of Congress. This bill compels the payment of a tax, and yet gives no opportunity to do military duty. There is no such ansurdity in the laws of any other State in the Union.

Nor is the tax any equivaient for the duty, if any duty were required. Again, the plan of casting upon a small part of our citizans the burden of paying our mil tis expenses, is unjust, for the militia is organized for the protection of every citizen and every interest. More than three-fourths of the property of the State is owned by corporations, which are protected in their rights by this arm of our government in times of p-ril.

He inquired why the expenses of the militia, equally with the expenses of the judiciary, should not be paid by the preparty of the State. Was if not enough that men should be enrolled and put in a position where, in case of war or public disturbance, they will be compelled to fight—without taxing them at the same time for the support of the militia? Why should not other classes of individuals be taxed as well as those between the age of 18 and 48 years? He contended that mere notions of policy and expediency should not overcome principles of right and justice, for the present is always the best time to begin to do right.

Mr. Calhoun contended further that the commutation tax is too small to stimulate enlistments. If the whole idea of a commutation tax were stricken out entirely, the bill would be consist nt; and a fruitful source of vexation and much expense in collecting would be saved to the Batate.

He thought the tax imposed in Section 5, very unjust.—

He thought the tax imposed in Section 5, very unjust.—
He asked why one class of exempts should pay a tax, and another not be required to do so. They may be able to cay, but should they be forced to pay simply because they are able and others are not able to do so. They cannot do military duty and avoid the tax, for if they desire to do military duty test cannot do so.

In what he was about to do, he proposed to rise above men personal considerations. He wished to save the bill and to present the Etate with a military law, which, it it was not a! he desired, yet was, he hoped, a valuable and effective step in the organiza ion of our State militar, he moved to reconsider the action of the Senate in striking out the clauses relative to the Coupmutation tax, as he was convinced that in the present temper of the House the bill could not pass without that feature.

The claims relating to the Commutation tax were insert.

for troops to fill up the regiments in the field to the full standard, and for additional troops. Vicksburg is Ours!

NEW MADRID, July 5, 1862. Vicksburg is ours. No particulars.

Dr. Hamilton of New York, this successful Chiopodist, has just arrived in New Haven and can he consulted at the Tremont House. Dr. Hamilton ruarantees to cure all diseases of the feet, includ ing Corns, Bunions, Enlarged Joints, Bad Nails, &c. Parties wishing to enjoy comfort during the hot weather should call early upon the Doctor at he Tremont House.

Almost a Serious Accident. Certain parties who were engaged last evening in firing rockets, by some mismanagement, sho one through the window of the house of Mr. Wm. E. Newell, No. 66 Wooster street. The blind which was closed at the time was smashed to pieces, a was the window sash, and the hissing missile whizzed in fearfully close proximity to the head of Mrs. Newell, and struck on the wall, knocking off the plastering and causing a terrible fright to the inmates of the house. Too much care canno be taken with such dangerous playthings, which should not be allowed in the hands of children.

Grand Pyrotechnic Display. A free and unexpected display took place last evening in the store of Jacob Mailhouse, on Church jy1 rockets, crackers, squibs, &c., which were stored in barrels, boxes, and other receptacles. Some carele individual threw a fire cracker into the store, which falling into a barrel of rockets, produced a sudder and terrific explosion. The fire works moved about with a commendable activity, and the inmates of the store rivalled them in this portion of the performance. The result was a large loss of profit or fireworks, and a store with windows and show cases

Gen. McClellan and his Army. The series of battles recently fought by the army of the Potomac exhibits in the most striking light the bravery of our soldiers, a bravery as pleasant to contemplate as the claughter of the troops is painful. The rebels have hitherto supposed that the Yankees were not equal in valor to the western men, an opinion which Bull Run was not calculated to weaken. Most of the soldiers engaged in the recent battles were from the Middle and Eastern states, and for steady endurance and unwavering courage under the most distressing circumstances, they are entitled to rank not only with the heroes of Fort Donelson and Pittsburg Landing, but with those of any age and any country. The British infantry in withstanding the famous charge of the Imperial Guard at Waterloo, did not face death with any more self-forgetfulness and devotion than did our own brave volunteers in the recent conflicts. All honor to them, the living and the dead! A grateful country cannot reward them too much for the services they have rendered.

Another noticeable feature is the unquestion able skill with which the retreat of our army was conducted by Gen. McClellan. By slow and cautious approaches, he had gained a position within a few miles of Richmond, and was preparing to storm the defences of the enemy, when he suddenly finds himself confronted, not only by the powerful army stationed there for the defence of the city, but by the forces of Stonewall Jackson, recalled from the valley of the Shenandoah, and a large part of the army of the West, recently under the command of Beauregard. The object of the enemy in thus concentrating their whole force at a single point, and leaving other positions exposed, was undoubtedly, to overwhelm McClellan by an unexpected blow, and then march upon Washington, a course which was rendered necessary not only by the numerous defeats they have re cently suffered and consequent loss of prestige, but by the fact that the resources of even a dic tator in the Southern confederacy are not unlimited. If successful in their attempt, and certainly they had some reason to expect that they would be, the independence of the Southern confederacy would, they supposed, be no such an opposing force was simply an impossi-spiked by the gallant Colonel. bility. That he should withstand, the repeated assaults of the enemy upon hir aself was hardly and a perfect giant, "the staff of whose spear mained for him to do. A and to accomplish this without demoralizing ' ing a panic, by whi his baggage, munitions of war, and thov sands of soldiers should be sacrificed, was a . task requiring as much skill as under fav rable circumstances to win a battle. Yet this retreat has been successfully conducted in the presence of a foe twice as numerous as other appliances, and expecting every moment nis own force, who have suffered far more in the arrival of a train, when there appeared upon the pursuit than our troops, thousands upon the scene of action, a young gentleman with white kid gloves, who inquired whether they thousands of their bravest men, and among them Stonewall Jackson, their most wily General, paying the penalty of their rashness with their lives. The object of the enemy was defeated, and our army with its base of operations changed from the Pamunkey river to the of the workmen and the no small astonishment James, protected by the gunboats and already reinforced, in a position most favorable for receiving further reinforcements and supplies, is not only safe, but, though about twenty miles from Richmond, is practically nearer the city than ever before, and if promptly and largely than at any former period of the war. It is to be regretted that our army was obliged to retreat, but from a careful survey of the field of operations and a review of the recent battles, we can come to only one conclusion, which is, that the speedy downfall of health failed, and he resigned and retired to a Richmond depends entirely upon the capacity and readiness of the loyal states to respond to the President's call for Volunteers, and that with the downfall of Richmond the rebellion is virtually at an end.

Roberts is a native of West Chester, Penn. to be expected. To retre at was all that remight be "like a weaver's beam," without serious inconvenience, as the following anecdote, ois own army and creat- which appeared a year or two since in the Chicago papers, will show:

"On one of the Illinois Railroads, a horse fell into one of the cattle guards, and was of course unable to get out. A number of rail road hands gathered round, and were vainly endeavoring to extricate the animal by levers and wished that horse removed, and whether the would insure the horse's neck. Being answered in the affirmative, he seized the animal by its caudal appendage, lifted it dexterously from the pit, and hurled it in the reversed order of loconotion down the embankment, to the great relies of the horse. Quietly telling the men, whenever they needed further assistance to send for the Pennsylvania infant, he resumed his walk.' It is needless to add that the hero of the story is now Col. The correspondent of the Boston Journal gives a connected account of the battles fought in front of Richmond. After stating that Mc-Clellan's line reached from Mechanicsville or the right to Seven Pines on the left, along the Chickahominy River, with New Bridge for a born at Albany, and evincing an early talent pivot or center, a distance of 7 or more miles, he gives the following:

POSITION OF THE TWO ARMIES.

With this much of topography to remember, let us see how the two armies stood on Thursday morning last. Our right was at Mechanicsville Our pickets consisted of the Eight Illinois Cavment, so called because each man wears the white tuft of a buck's tail—sturdy mountaineers, who first at Drainsville exhibited their prowess; and several companies of Pennsylvania Reserves. To the east of Mechanicsville was Gen. Mc

Call's division, composed wholly of Pennsylvanians. About a mile from Mechanicsville East is Beaver Dam Creek, a little insignificant stream emptying into the Chickahominy. McCall was encamped on the west side of this stream; Gen. Griffin, with a brigade was north of McCall, and Gen. Martindade, with a brigade, still farther north, on the road which you have marked down as running due east from Mechanicsville. Between Beaver Dam Brook and New Bridge, were the remainder of Porter's division, Sumner livision, and Franklin's. The other divisions of the army were on the other side of the Chickahominy. This line of McClellan was about ten miles long -not on a straight line, that pornearly at right angles with the stream, while the divisions north were nearly parallel to it. Let us go once more to Mechanicsville. It s Thursday morning, 10 o'clock. The videttes who are out on the Hanover road discover rebe kirmishers advancing at a quick pace, followed by rank upon rank. It is Gen. Hill's division. They crossed at Meadow Bridge and at Central Railroad, and indeed all along the stream, which up there is fordable at any point.
