To Horse Owners. DR. SWEETS INFALLIBLE LINIMENT FOR HORSES is unvivaled by any, in all cases of Lameness, arising from Sprains, Bruises or Wrenching, its effect is magical and certain. Harness or kaddle Galls, Scratches, Manage, &c., it will also cure speedily. Spavin and Ringbone may be easily prevented and cured in their incipient stages, but confirmed cases are beyond the possibility of a radical cure. No case of the kind, however, is so desperate or hopel-ss but it may be alleviated by this Liniment, and its faithful application will always remove the Lameness, and enable the horse to travel with comparative case.

Every horse owner should have this remedy at hand, for its timely use at the first appearance of Lamness will effectually prevent those formidable diseases mentioned, to which all horses are liable, and which render so many otherwise valuable horses nearly worthless.

SECOND EDITION. 4 O'Cleck, p. m.

WASHINGTON, July 9, 1862. The correspondence between the War Department and Gen. McClellan was, to day, transmitted to the House in response to a reso lution of inquiry. The latter says, in the course of his explanations, that those who originated the false statements concerning the White House yard and spring, are, in fact, as stated in my dispatch of the 7th inst., but enemies of this army, and the cause in which it is fighting They have imposed upon the Surgeon-Genera and caused him to make official representation which, on examination, prove to be unfounded in fact, which are disrespectful to his superior officers. They have unnecessarily occupied the attention of the Secretary of War, and have interrupted the Commander and the Medical Director of the army in the midst of the most ardous duties.

Commissioner, and appointing Exra Dean in his was taken up, on motion of Mr. Peck of New stead, was taken up, on motion of Mr. Peck of New Haven.

Mr. Osgood of Pomfret remarked in favor of the resolution, and gave an account of the general management of the school fund in years gone by, showing that loans have been made illegally: He spoke in favor of the justice of giving all public institions "a regular overhauling" once in a while, if we do not do it amusally as we ought.

Mr. Peck would like to ask how much the present Commissioner has jeopardized of this fund?

Mr. Peck of New Haven, replied that he thought it was most unitar, at this late day, that the Sohool Fund Commissioner should be removed without one particle of testimony to impeach his honor or lategrity; and that, too, on the testimony of men who dislike the man personally. The proper way is to appoint a committee of examination; not to come in here, and stab a man in the dark. He defended the Commissioner from all assault, and urged that he had protected the $2,000,000 fund with guardianship care.

Mr. Pratt of Bocky Hill, said he introduced the resolution in perfect good faith; he held none but the kindest motives towards the School Commissioner. He did not like the wholesale charges which have been made by the gentleman from New Haven, attributing personal motives entleman from New Haven, attributing personal motive those who favor this resolution. Mr. Pratt read from ection of the report which refers to a loan of $3,500 as serious informality," as at instance of illegal action of the part of the Commissioner, from which he argued the occasity of making a change in the officers. In what he pratt) said and did he only followed the line of duty as in necessity of making a change in the officers. In what he (Pratt) said and did lie only followed the line of duty as independent dictated from a careful canvass of the facts.

Mr. Adams of Norwich, sympathized with the gentlemen who were moving in this matter that the School Commissioner should be cut short in the occupation of the office; but he did not feel as if it, was right to remove the present occupant without any specifications against him—without showing wherein he has been remiss in his duty. Nothing has been shown of any corrupt intention, even in the matter of the loans said to have been illegally made. If in the first of the session we had said the present Commissioner had held the office so long as to warrant his removal, then we could have acted differently. But now under this resolution of removal outright, we by adopting it, blight the character, as it were, of the Commissioner. Under the circumstances he could not vote for the recoval.

Mr. Hyde, of Tolland, thought it not remarkable or surprising, in the language of the report, "if the most sagacious should occusionally be deceived as to the soundness of stocks and securities" of the varied character of those upon which the Commissioner has affected loans. He said the present occupant of the office had been more faithful than his predecessors. He spoke against the removal.

The resolution was indefinitely postp ned.

Bill de computation of time in civil suits, extending the xceptions to the statute of limitations so that a defandant who has by his own act prevented the bringing of a suit or any length of time, that time shall be deducted, so as to give the plaintiff his full time under the statute. Mr. Pratt advocated the bill and explained it. He sale bill was eproposed by the N. Y. and N. H. rauds.

Mr. Hyde spoke sgainst the bill. Under it we open our courts for litigation to p rities in New York State when the courts there have decided against them and shut them off from litigation there.

Mr. Treat replied to Mr. Hyde. That gentleman had hardly treated the question fairly. Under the Constitution of the United States no party can litigate a case twice, as stated by the gentleman.

Mr. Hyde said he did not mean to be understood as saying that a case could be litigated twice from the same cause of sction.

Mr. Pratt continued. If any man has been prevented by this road from bringing his suit by injunction, he wanted a remedy estab ished.

The bill was indefinitely postponed.

GRAND UNION RALLY!

Let no loyal citizen of New Haven fail to be at Music Hall this evening. Gov. Buckingham, Senator Dixon, and many other speakers will be present, while Commodore Foote, the hero of the western rivers, will preside. Senator Dixon has just returned from Washington, at the request of the Secretary of War, and will make known the special object of his mission, as well as the wants of the present hour. As we have before said, the object of this meeting is more valley of the Shenandoah to the Potomac? What shall save Washington? The cry of the Government is for more troops. The answer of the people is to read the dispatches, dispute whether the late battles were victories or defeats, criticize with the greatest military acumen the various Generals, and wonder why some thing is not done

At a time when the danger to our country i imminent, when our own safety and the honor of our land may be lost, hopelessly lost, by the neglect of a day, Connecticut, after a month's trial, has only two hundred men enlisted in the 14th Regiment, and not a man in any one of the six others that are required. This state of things cannot continue. Either the volunteers every citizen. It calls upon each citizen to render to the nation what is due. If the people will not decide among themselves who shall go and fight for their country, the Government must decide for them, and the inexorable draft must determine. Shall such a stain upon the patriotism of our State be suffered? Shall it be said in coming years, that Connecticut, when the salvation of the country was at stake, could furnish no volunteers to fight for the old flag, but was obliged to draft her soldiers from a reluctant people? There is no use in concealing from the people existing facts. The danger from without and within is evident. By our indifference and coolness we are imperiling everything. Better that our stores be closed, our manufactories shut, the labors of our farmers cease-better a thousand times that industry of every kind come to an end for a few months, than that the flag of our country should trail in the dust, our soldiers be overwhelmed and butchered by their powerful foes, our capital taken, our institutions destroyed, our Government disgraced, and twenty millions of freemen bow at the feet of six millions of traitors. There must be no delay. An immediate and enthusiastic response to the call for volunteers is all that will save us. Let no one think of waiting for a draft. That disgrace must be spared us. The patriots are not all in the army yet.

Men who have hoped that this war might be ended without their help, must surrender such hope. Men of character and standing, whose the junction of Whitney avenue and Temple streets. very names are a tower of strength, in whom the people have confidence, and whom they would delight to follow must now come to the rescue. They must enlist companies and take rescue. They must enlist companies and take Lucius Gilbert and 44 others, property holders on the command. We are not speaking of what State street, remonstrating against the building of ought to be done, but of what must be done. We are not pointing out a possible necessity of the future, but an imperative demand of the present hour. The seeds of national hope and prosperity, or of despair and ruin will be sown in the next thirty days. The state of the late of

FIRES AT THE WEST .- The alcohol works of J. H. Lowe, Chicago, were burned on the 4th. Loss $8,000; insured. The buildings from 220 to 236 North Clark street, and the buildings corner of Oneco and North Wells street, were also burned on the same day, involving a loss of $76,000. On the morning of the 5th. four blocks of buildings in Winona, Minn. were burned; the fire supposed to have originated from a mouldering sky rocket. Loss $500,000; insured for about $100,000. Vicksburg.

The New Orleans Delta of June 15th speaking of Vicksburgh states, that it is situated on the Mississippi river, 400 miles above New Orleans, 441 west of Jackson, the capital of the State. Its location is elevated, the ground uneven, and the city not compactly built. It contained in 1860 a population of 20,710, of whom 13,763 were slaves, four or five churches, and several academies for both sexes. Before the rebellion, three or four newspapers were published there bales have been annually exported, it being the most com the river between Natchez and Memphis.

Dead Heading at Entertainment The Common Council last evening abolished th rule which required all exhibitors of theatricals, etc., to give tickets of admission to each city fficial. Alderman Tyler stated that the rule had been greatly misrepresented, and that "the city Press have been vigilant in the premises, and therefore, it was thought best to recommend the revoking of the rule." He also stated that the license fees would be made all the heavier in consequence of repealing the rule. The vote for the abolition of the rule was nearly unanimous.

Bank Officers.

At the annual meeting of Stockholders of the Mechanics' and Merchants' Banks held yesterday

The Fourth at Hartford.

The Fourth was celebrated with great spirit at Hartford. Among the more noticeable features of the display was the floral procession of 2.500 children, the females generally dressed in white dresses trimmed with flowers. Another feature was the firemen's parade, which, it is said, for length and beauty has never been excelled in Hartford.

The great event of the day was the ascenion of three balloons which was witnessed by a crowd estimated at from 20,000 to 40,000 peo ple. Professor Brooks, the aeronaut, Mr. A. N. Clark of the Courant, and Miss Jane E. Potter ascended in the largest balloon, the "Constitution." Mr. Clark's account of his experience in the heavens fills several columns. He had a most grand and beautiful view of the State, Long Island Sound and the adjacent shores, having ascended a distance of nearly three miles. The party landed safely in a little over an hour in the town of Hebron, having traveled about 40 miles in their aerial journey.

Two other balloons which ascended at the same time, each bearing one person, landed near the same place, all safe.

In the evening a fine exhibition of fireworks was had, and the celebration on the whole battle field or in the counting room. assed off with much satisfaction.

The First Conn. Artillery.

We learn from Washington that Major Trumbull of the 1st Conn. Artillery has arrived in that city, and is fast recovering from an attack of the Chickahominy fever, and from the fatigues of the recent battles. He states that siege guns of the army during McClellan's banks masterly retreat, and saved every one of them. The guns were placed in position on five different occasions during the retreat, and the advancing columns of the enemy thereby held in check until the position which the Commanding General designed to secure was gained. The loss of the enemy on Tuesday from our siege guns and from all the artillery, which was well posted, surpasses all accounts, and in Major Trumbull's opinion far exceeds our own loss. Our troops are in good spirits, and have the most unbounded love for Gen. McClellan. The gratitude of the soldiers for the timely assistance of the Galena and Aroostook on Monday, and their cooperation in repelling the traitors, is unbounded.

We learn that the 1st Conn. Artillery re ceived the thanks of the Commanding General for their skill and courage in saving the siege guns of the army.

The citizens of Norwalk hold a public meeting at Lockwood's Hall on Thursday evening to devise ways and means for raising such numbers of volunteers as shall be required from that town under the Governor's call. This is right. Let every town or Senatorial District do likewise and we shall soon have a noble array of young volunteer patriots marching to the support of their country.

The Fair held on the 4th, at Bridgeport, for the benefit of sick and wounded soldiers, netted the handsome sum of about $1,300.

A surgeon of a Wisconsin regiment, captured t Bull Run and held a prisoner at Richmond was brought out by the rebels during the late hattles to assist on the field, and managed to escape, arriving in Washington on Sunday. He says the rebel leaders claim a miraculous deliverance, and that every pane of glass in Richmond was illuminated in honor of their victory, but the tone of the community was saddened by their frightful losses.

Col. McQuade, of New York, Col. Cass of Massachusetts, Major Patterson, of Pennsylvania, and all the field officers of Duryea's Zouaves, heretofore reported killed or wounded, and nany others, are alive and well. Col. Van Wyck, reported killed, is seriously wounded, and at Fortress Monroe.

THE AID OF ROBERT SMALL .- On the 21st of une, Lieut. Commanding Rhind with the Crusader and Planter piloted by Robert Small, the colored man who brought the rebel steamer out of Charleston harbor, ran up the North Edisto river into Wadmelaw Sound as far as Simons Bluff which is on the main land. A few broadsides from the Crusader dispersed the enemy who had a camp there and some artillery. About thirty tents and some cabin quarters were destroyed and a few muskets were brought

The Traveler leaves New Haven at 10 o'clock in m. and New York at 11 o'clock, our m. and New York at 11 o'clock, our m. and New York at 11 o'clock in m. The work of restoring the Union in the South west goes bravely on. In Missouri the war is virtually at an end. In Arkansas the march of our army has been everywhere triumphant. In Kentucky the enemies of the Union have degenerated into mere bushwhackers. In Tennessee the good cause is making silent but substantial them by Gen. Halleck. In Northern Alabama Gen. Mitchell is teaching the erring masses the folly of treason. In the captured cities the aspect of affairs is daily becoming more encouraging. Nashville is gradually getting out of her sulks and making up her mind that Secession don't pay. Memphis not only submits to her fate with philosophy, but almost with cheerfulness. Thousands of her citizens have voluntarily come for ward and taken the oath of allegiance. Her people are little by little falling into the habits of its better and loval days. Business is reviving; the gloom that overhung it during the horrid regency of Polk and Pillow and Jeff. Thompson is dispersing. Even the Avalanche is compelled to admit that the hustle on the streets and on the levees "faintly reminds one of old times." In New Orleans the evidences of awakening patriotism are still more manifest. The friends of the Union-the thousands that in their own hearts remained steadfast to the old flag and the old cause through every shock and fortune-are coming out boldly in its support. The timid and wavering are plucking up courage to take their stand on the side of law and order. The disloyal are cowed into decent behavior by the firm but just rule of GEN. BUTLER. Even those who have taken up arms against the Federal Government are repenting of the error of their ways, casting off their Secession heresies and newing their allegiance to the Government of their Fathers. Does the following order, extending the time to rebel soldiers for taking the oath of allegiance, look as if the Southern people were, in the magniloquent language of the rebel prints, "resolved to die rather than surrender' to the Federal authority?:

HEADQUARTERS MILITARY COMMANDANT, HEADQUARTERS MILITARY COMMANDANT, NEW OBLEANS, Jone 18, 1862.

By commandant of G. K. SHEPLEY, Military Commandant.

E. LISLEY, A. A. A. General.

Nor is this a mere piece of sharp advertising, got up to stimulate a languishing business, as will be seen from the testimony of the Bulletin and Picayune-both zealous champions of the Confederate cause, and both giving in their evidence with consequent reluctance: From the New Orleans Bulletin, June 20

By reference to General Order No. 14, in another column complying with the requirements of order No. 13 until and including the 23d inst. To Horse Owners.

DR. SWEET'S INF ALLBEL LINIMENT FOR HORSES is unrivaled by any, in all cases of Lameness, arising from Spraius, Bruises or Wrenching, its effect is magical and certain. Harness or haddle Galls, Scratches, Manage, &c., it with also cure speedily. Spavin and Ringbone may be easily prevented and cured in their incipient stages, but confirmed cases are beyond the possibility of a radical cure. No case of the kind, however, is so desperate or hopel-ss but it may be alleviated by this Liniment, and its faithful application will always remove the Lameness, and enable the horse to travel with comparative case.

Every horse owner should have this remedy at hand, for its timely use at the trst appearance of Lamness will effectually prevent those formidable diseases mentioned, to which all horses are liable, and which render so many otherwise valuable horses nearly worthless.

On motion of Mr. Peck, the House resumed consideration of the claim of Bartholomew Healy, of New Haven for subsistence of troops.

Mr. Peck spoke of the attacks which had been made upon this claim, and that too without any justice. It has been stated that Mr. Healey furnished liquor to the troops. Mr. Healey is now in the Rouse, and promises if any man in any court of justics will prove that he offered one drop of liquor to any of the troops he subsisted, he will draw his check for $1,000 to go for the support of the war. He moved, and that too at the request of Mr. Healey, that the resolution be indefinitely postponed, as Mr. Healey felt that he had been abused. alution be indenniely postponed, as many and had been abused.

The Meeting of Last Evening. The meeting at Music Hall last evening, was an immense one, the Hall being filled to its utmost extent, while many were obliged to leave without obtaining an entrance. The audience was composed almost entirely of men, of whom enough to form at least two regiments were capable of doing military duty. It was a splendid sight to witness such an outpouring of the people on a sweltering July night. They had come together either from a patriotic desire to do something for their country, or to render unconsciously a tribute to patriotic heroism in the person of Commodore Foote. And when the gallant hero took the stand, no welcome could have been more enthusiastic than that extended to him by the audience. The speeches of the evening were earnest, patriotic and able, and commanded the respectful attention of all. The present danger, the demand for more troops the necessity of immediate action, the danger of delay, the value of the interests at stake were all clearly presented, and felt by the audience. And though even in that audience, here in New Haven, at the very moment when every patriot's heart is beating with new resolves of sac rifices for his country, when the salvation of this land which has been and is the happy home of all is in danger, when every right minded citizen is painfully feeling the need of instant and united action for the public weal, there were found a set of miserable, deluded sympa thizers with secession and treason, no one need be in the least discouraged thereby or doubt the final result. These sympathizers with secession were but few. The heart of the people is right. And the impulse given to the cause by the meeting last night will not end here. It will be increased by the meeting in Hartford to-night, by meetings in Norwalk, New London, and Meriden to-morrow night, and in all parts of the State, night after night, until the required number of Volunteers is raised and the work is

The Right Spirit,

The Hartford Courant noticing the grand Union rally in this city, and speaking of the demands of the crisis, mentions the following incident in that city, which shows the right spirit, and should find hosts of imitators:

"One of our most prominent citizens author izes us to say for ten good men he will pay for their families $10 each per month for one year, $1200 in all -and for three men to represent members of his family, a much larger sum. Such a spirit as that would soon fill a regiment. There are hundreds who are financially able to make similar offers, and there are thousand of young men dependent upon their daily labor for the support of their families, who, if they could be assured that their families would not in their absence be allowed to suffer, would respond to the President's call with alacrity and Individual effort is now needed. Let it be cheerfully rendered, and our regiments will be promptly filled, and the credit of the State preserved unsullied.

GRAND UNION RALLY! GREAT ENTHUSIASM MANIFESTED.

At Music Hall, Tuesday evening, a dense udience interspersed with many ladies packed every available space. Commodore Foote came promptly into the Hall on his crutches, and for several minutes a scene of the wildest applause followed, almost the whole audience rising and greeting him with tremendous and long continned cheers. When order was restored, Hon. N. D. Sperry introduced Commodore Foote, who was again greeted with three cheers, Commodore Foote addressed the audience, complimenting the ladies who were present, noping that every true woman would throw her offluence in favor of the country, for he had found that the influence of the ladies was all otent. He thanked the people for the honor they had conferred upon him, but in attempting to speak to them he found himself outside his vocation.

His business had always been action, action ACTION! and not speaking. [Great applause. He spoke highly of the brave men who are fighting our battles, and paid a high compliment to the Governors of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Indiana, for the energetic part they had taken in this war. [Cheers.]

He did not know but some expected him to make some statement of his agency in the affairs on the waters of the West, but he nor his audience had not come together for any such purpose, but rather to confer on what can be lone to assist in raising troops to defend the national banner, from which he hoped not a single star would ever be obliterated. [Applause.] He paid a deserved tribute to the character af Secretary Welles, under whose able administration of the Navy Department we have seen our na-disappointed. But only for a little time. I do welcome sentiment in honor of the army and val power so wonderfully developed. He now feared no foreign intervention. [Tremendous applause.] Our distinguished Com. Gregory is now superintending the construction of such a number of Monitors as will give the English and French a suggestive admonition if they dare to meddle in our domestic affairs. [Great cheering.

Above all he trusted in God and believe that HE would deliver the nation from this trial He then read the following note from Commodore Gregory, who was expected to have been present, but was suddenly ordered away on Fxcuse me to my patriotic friends, as I am obliged to go. Tell them I am just now making up some pills, (Monitors,) especially intended as a preventive, or cure, for one of John Bull's [Cheers] chronic diseases—hostility to may find them too big to swallow, and too hard graphic communication was broken. On former o bite. His cure will be certain if he ever takes them. I shall sustain the Government, right or wrong, in crushing this rebellion. My keel was laid on Union blocks, and my course will be true to the Union always.

Commodore Foote then paid a high complinent to Generals McClellan and Halleck, for generalship. [The names of these officers were received with great applause.]

One of the Secretaries then read a lengthy letter from Hon. Ralph I. Ingersoll, who expressed deep regret that physical inability had prevented his presence. It was patriotic in every sentence and expressed the hope that the Union arms would speedily triumph in all the

What was the condition of the nation the Mississippi was in the hands of the enemy. We were excluded from almost every rebel State. Where was the army of the United States? Where was the Navy? We had scarcely anything of either. Our business was to create an army and a navy.

I look upon our present position rather with exultant joy than with feelings of depression.

And now, Sir, let us look at some of the achievements of our arms. We may well be proud.

We are now in the very crisis of our country's destiny, and a very short time—possibly a few months or weeks, or even days, may decide the question whether we are to have a country, a country, a constitution, and a government. And that is Constitution, and a government. And that is the disposal of the President, unless by his posticities of the constitution, and a government. And that is the disposal of the President, unless by his posticities of the constitution, and a government. And that is the disposal of the President, unless by his posticities of the constitution of the president of the particular notice, nor did they shed a tear at their departure from this blustering at their departure from this blustering scion of Fouthern chivalry. Great difficulty was experienced in passing through the swamps, and it was ten o'clock when they reached the constitution, and a government. And that is sitive and direct order, or without a general river. They searched for a boat, and after some time found one locked to a large tree by a heavy chain and lock. At midnight they had filed the chain, and with a tin pan and a canteen for paddles they started on their perilous voyage down the Ocomulgee river.

On the morning of the 17th they were twen-On the morning of the retailed way in ty-five miles from Macon, and stowed away in ounces of bread for the day. They started with nly six pounds of bread for the three persons. All day they lay in the willows in sight of a white man and two negroes, who were felling trees. At sundown they started again and rowed about ten miles, when it became so dark that they tied up till the moon rose. They gave them the best they had.

At one o'clock, a. m., they started, and, have ng constructed some rude paddles, pushed off with increased speed. They had not gone far before they discerned a boat ahead. They tried to avoid the new comers, but finally hailed them, supposing them to be rebels, and the strangers were of the same opinion. But after nuch dodging they proved to be runaways, like hemselves.

This new party consisted of Lieutenant J. S.

Agey, Lieutenant G. H. Logan, sergeant J. N. 4th Iowa Volunteers. They all agreed to tie their frail canvas together and share a common fate. The new comers told of the manner of their escape. They procured cloth and made sacks resembling bustles, which they filled with rice, flour and dried apples. These sacks were tied around their bodies. Files and a small meat saw, with a little salt, were secreted in their boots. Thus provided, and dressed in rebel uniform, they left the grounds. On passing the gate of the Fair Grounds they were asked by the guard if they belonged to the battalion. An affirmative answer passed them out. The four went to the river side at a distance of three miles below the town, where they secrete themselves until night; and then, by sawing down with a meat saw a quite good sized tree hey procured a boat and started in search o reedom. Several hundred miles lay before them; but they were as anxious as men could be, and were, in fact, desperate.

The two boats were now lashed together and fitted with rowlocks. The runaways used moss to muffle them, and the same material for their beds and covering. At three o'clock, p. m. on Wednesday, 18th, they landed, built a fire and ooked some rice. At eleven o'clock, they were n sight of Hawkinsville. Here they saw three teamers apparently deserted. Passing the town on the opposite shore, they escaped observation, although several men were on the bank fishing by the light of a large fire. After passing the town they pulled for dear life, and or he morning of Thursday, the 19th, were forty miles from Hawkinsville. At eight o'clock, they went on shore and cooked two fish which they had caught. One was struck by an oar and killed, and the other jumped into the boat Taking a short nap, they again took to their oars, pulling four all the time. They were frequently hailed from the shore and at times passed for detectives. They pre pared a "special order" to be shown in case o necessity, setting forth that they were on secret service in the Confederate cause. On Sunday, the 22d, in the morning, they came upon two steamers, but pulled boldly by them unobserved At sundown they heard the drums beat at the bridge of the Savannah and Gulf railroad, but as they had become desperate, they pulled cauthe bridge. A picket hailed them and ordered them ashore, and afterward fired upon them, but they pulled for life, and at daybreak concealed themselves in a cancbrake. At sunrise on the morning of the 24th, they reached Wolf Island and obtained some rest. They then proceeded to Sappello Island, narrowly shipwreck.

The following day they discovered a gun poat which proved to be the Wamasutta. They waved their coats, but failing to attract attention, embarked in an old yawl and started for her. A boat with ten armed men in charge of Master's Mate Geo. F. Goodrich, came out to meet them. They hailed them three times before the runaways heard them, when they answered by a yell of joy, which caused the resners to suspect treachery, and they fired upon the poor fellows. They were afterward taken on board the gunboat, transferred to the Florida, and on the morning of July 1st, were transferred to the Massachusetts, and arrived at For tress Monroe on the evening of July 5th, whence hey will return home.
