. The Two Ways of Carrying on War. The South is thoroughly in earnest. Every interest is sacrificed for the war. The whole available male population, voluntarily or by force, is in the army. Business is forgotten. Upon the issue of the conflict the rebel leaders have staked their all, and they must fight to the last. Defeat to them means somethin more than shame, taxation and debt. It means loss of property, banishment or death. They have goaded their followers to fury, by denun ciations of the government and appeals to Southern pride. They have frightened them into a willingness to fight, by the most terrible pictures of northern rapacity and cruelty. The security of their homes, the safety of their wives and children, are represented as impossible if the Government shall triumph. But the rebels do not depend on the willing support of Congregation will make a pic-nic excursion to the people. Union men are forced into the Pine Orchard-a pleasant grove on the shore ranks; their property is seized and appropriated near Stony Creek-leaving the city on the to the use of the so called government; every Shore Line Railroad at 7:30 a. m. See adverally is welcomed, and a death more awful than that upon the battle-field is the penalty for loving the old flag. Is it any wonder that men so thoroughly in earnest, should call into the field an army larger than our own?

And what are we doing? We have been playing instead of fighting, dallying with the enemy instead of punishing them, talking con ciliation instead of acting war, protecting the property of rebels with Union troops, while the owners were absent in the rebel army, instead of making it fatal for a man to be a rebel.

We have been speculating upon abstractions mumbling over the old phrases of an untimely conservatism, standing upon false pride and refusing the assistance of untold thousands of alwere black. We have been waiting for victories while our troops were outnumbered, and expecting success when we did not deserve it We have allowed traitors in our midst, with neither loyalty or shame, to discourage enlistments and to go daily to the Hospital grounds in our City and insult and deride the brave soldiers of other States who have lost limbs and health in the service of their country. Enough of the past.

But what of the future? Henceforth we must not be satisfied with the conciousness of power to crush this rebellion; we must crush it It must no longer be safe for a man to be a rebel. Let every man understand that in choos ing between loyalty and treason, he not only decides his own position but his own fate.

This rebellion must no longer be handled with gloves. The life of the nation and all the of civil liberty, and of a Democra Government are in peril. Forbearance toward the rebels is cruelty to our own troops, and death to our country.

The call is for more troops. It is not for the sons of Connecticut to be backward in respond ing. The men of '76 have left us an inherit ance, the title-deeds to which are Lexington and Bunker Hill, Saratoga and Yorktown. Their sons, and those from foreign lands who share in the inheritance must not lose it by indifference and delay. We have lived upon the glorious deeds of our ancestors; henceforth we may live upon our own.

The Recruit's Demands.

It cannot be expected that the "people" can both lead and follow. If they go to fight for the government, in suppressing this gigantic rebellion, they expect that their employers will exercise due discretion in their behalf. Our leaders call for more help, and shall have it, but to secure it promptly they must commence a reform in regard to the health, happiness, and liberty, of their instruments of power.

Large pay and increased bounties are no necessarily the most efficacions recruiting officers. Few Yankees enter the ranks to make money. It is a sore trial to them, and the result of true, unselfish patriotism. What they do want, is the assurance that they will be as carefully handled as the nature of the busines will allow. Two things the recruit asks from the Government, in addition to what is already given. 1st. That when stationed in the unac customed heat of a tropical climate he shall not be called upon to perform severe labor which will prove almost certainly fatal, when there are thousands of acclimated laborers, forced to be idling around, all the while eager and ready to do the work for him, and thus leave him time and energy to perfect himself in the more difficult duties of a soldier. Whether this menial work is done by whites or blacks, he does not care, so long as it is well done in the way, that is cheapest in lives and treasure. He desires not to enter into the question of creating negro soldiers, but he does desire it to be understood that he enlists as a soldier, not as a

2d-He requires that his employers shall see to it that he does not languish month after month in Southern tobacco warehouses, subject to insults, filth, rotten food, undressed wounds and unmedicined illness. While it may be extremely desirable and agreeable for the government to hang such scoundrels as Buckner, Floyd and Breckinridge, the recruit does not deem those rascals' death worthy of the lives of hun dreds of Northern braves, who this summe will die in Southern prisons. He therefore re quires that suitable exchange be made of priso. ners as favorable to the North as possible, but Union prisoner, rescued from the Charnel house of Richmond is better for the Government than a dozen Charlestonians fattening up, amid the Accident.

Mr. Stephen E. Pardee, of the 10th Regi ment, C. V., son of Stephen D. Pardee, Esq. residing at No. 61 Howe street, was driving through State street this noon, and when in front of Mr. Atwater's harness shop, as he was about turning the corner of Wall street, the king bolt of his carriage came out, and he was thrown violently on to the curb-stone of the walk, severely injuring him about the head and elsewhere. His face was very much bruised. The young men working in the harness shop came promptly out and took the injured man in charge, till Doctors Sprague and Langdon were called. Mr. Pardee was then taken home The horse which he was driving when thrown out ran away attached to the forward wheels of the carriage, but was afterwards secured. Yale Prizes. Prizes have been awarded for declamation to the Sophomore Class in Yale, as follows:

DR. SWEET'S INFALLIBLE LINIMENT FOR HORSES DR. SWEET'S INFALLIBLE LINIMENT FOR HORSES is unrivaled by any, in all cases of Lameness, arising from Sprains, Bruises or Wrenching, its effect is magical and certain. Harness or Raddle Galls, Scratches, Manage, &c., it will also cure speedily. Spavin and Ringbone may be easily prevented and cured in their incipient stages, but confirmed cases are beyond the possibility of a radical cure. No case of the kind, however, is so desperate or hopeless but it may be alleviated by this Liniment, and its faithful application will always remove the Lameness, and enable the horse to travel with comparative case.

Every horse expert should have this remedy at hand, for its timely use at the first appearance of Lamness will effectually prevent those formidable diseases mentioned, to which all horses are liable, and which render so many otherwise valuable horses nearly worthless.

Congress To-Day.

Washington, July 15, 1862.

SENATE. Joint resolution passed conveying all right and title of Government in Stevens battery to the heirs of Robert M. Stevens. Bill introduced providing that every office shall protect slaves approaching our lines; it loyal men, to be compensated.

Bill introduced to establish a bureau of em Bill relative to letters of marque taken up and laid over. Bill amendatory of the act of 1795 calling forth the militia, was taken up-the question being on amendment limiting emancipation of those who enter the service of the government to slaves of rebels-Lane opposed it-amendnent adopted.

Ben Wood made a personal explanation, protesting against the report on his treason case, being deferred by the Committee till next session, and he offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Judiciary to report forthwith. Bingham objected.

Resolution passed that any Member of Conress may be excused who is on active military ervice for the suppression of the rebellion. The mileage question was than taken up Thomas's amendment offered yesterday adapted, and Aldrick's substitute for Colfax's amendment agreed to. Thus all laws giving mileage to members of Congress, including present Congress, are repealed by the House. Токомто, July 15, 1862. The statement that the Canadian banks are about suspending specie payment is untrue.

Washington, July 15, 1862. The steamer Wyandank arrived to-day with prize schooner. She reports that the guer rillas are very plenty along the banks of the Pianketuk and Rappahannock rivers, who carry off Union men as well as steal subsistence sup-Кеокик, Iowa, July 14, 1862. A party of rebels on Sunday night broke open several stores in Memphis, Northern Missouri, driving out Union men and capturing some State troops. Reports by to-night's train are to the effect that the rebels are advancing or Athens. The people are fleeing to Canton and Farmington.

Troops leave for Athens to-night.

NEW YORK, July 15, 1862. The schooner Nathaniel Chase of Harwich Mass., which was sunk in the Neuse river, N C., by the rebels, and subsequently raised by Gen. Burnside and restored to the owners, arrived here to-day.

The Vermont troops have not yet arrived they will not likely reach here till some time

Washington Items.

The Senate, after a long debate, passed the bill admitting Western Virginia into the Union as a new state. The bill provides that until the next general census the new state shall be entitled to three Representatives.

The Navy department has received dispatched stating, that Lieut. Commanding Braine recently picked up at sea, in an open boat, eight contrabands from Little River Inlet, South Car olina, from whom information was obtained which led to the finding of two hundred barrels of turpentine, sixty bales of cotton, and fiftythree barrels of rosin, valued at about $50,000 the whole of which was destroyed by fire. In the case of Senator Simmons the Senate Judiciary Committee have reported the matter back to the Senate, and add that there is no and to the act of 10th August, 1856. dispute as to the facts in the case. The committee find that the government has sustained no loss from Mr. Simmons or his contractors. It is doubtful whether the Senate will expel him, unless a vote is pressed by the mover of the resolution. The attack by the Louisville Journal on Gen. O. M. Mitchell, is severely condemned as a most unwarrantable act, as no charges are pre

The House has passed the Senate resolution to adjourn on Wednesday, the 16th instant.

We have been shown a letter written by Richard A. Robinson, of this city, now with Co. F, 1st Reg. Conn. Vol. Artillery, in camp near James River, in which he gives an account of the severe fighting during the retreat of our ! army. He says in one days fight his regiment met with no loss, "until just before dark, when a shell from one of our own gunboats struck fair in the center of the battery, wounding four of our company, one of them Walstein Goodyear, of New Haven, quite seriously. The other men wounded were James C. Sweetland, Andrew Bodge, and James D. Murray"-all of Fuglish Sentiment.

The indignation of our people towards England, for her ungenerous and unfriendly course toward us, since the breaking out of the rebel lion, is general and just. We had a right to expect better things of our mother land. Her abhorrence of our infant sins has always been se great, her rebukes so earnest, her warnings so heari-felt, that, although it wounded our na tional vanity somewhat to be thus publicly rein expostulation indicated some small degree of have been recruited in twenty-eight days. interest in our welfare. But subsequent events have shown that our venerable parent was actuated more by a desire to manifest her superior righteousness than to cause us to reform.

We ought not, however, to suppose that the England of the London Times and the cotton manufacturers is the only England there is. The people, the middle class, the men who in position and mode of life are more nearly Amerihuman rights, as a vindication of the people's capacity for self-government. Thousands of their friends and relatives are citizens of this country-loyal and true; while thousands more are waiting and hoping that at some time they too may find a home in America, where the little boy, who in England could be but a cotton spinner, may become one of the rulers of the land. Nor is this sincere interest in our wel fare confined to the small farmers. There have been not a few staunch champions of our country among the papers of England. In the Liverpool Daily Post of June 25th, we find a wellwritten article on American affairs. After describing in a graphic manner the successive occupation and loss by the rebels, of Fort Henry, Fort Donelson, Columbus, Corinth, Nashville, Fort Wright, Memphis and New Orleans, it save "The Federals hold possession of the Father of Waters. For three thousand miles the Mississippi is theirs. They communicate given it proof." "Another battle is pending. We will not McClellan is beaten and that Lee is victorious. be restored to the Union. We talk of medwhat is meant by mediation? We at least are not silly enough to suppose that the North will stop in its career—that after all the blood and treasure it has spent, it will permit the South to obtain by negotiation what it has been unable to accomplish by arms."

It is also noticeable that an entire change has occurred in the tone of the British Govern ment since the visit of Lord Lyons to England. When Lord Palmerston was asked on the 10th of June, whether the Government intended to a disgrace to civilization-a shame to human take steps to end the war in America, he replied "that the House could readily see that any interference would only tend to aggravate the sufferings of those who were now experiencing such great privations." We do not fear British intervention. The military and naval power of our government has not yet been half exhibited. But enough has been done to show to England and the world that discretion on their part is better than rashness, and that the United States is a nation not to be met in hostile encounter with impunity. Our Monitors on the water, and our hundreds of thousands of soldiers on the land, are proving the right kind of logic for convincing John Ball. When the new levy of three hundred thousand men is raised. and the new Monitors now being built are launched, he will see clearly as never before the justice of our cause.

Press on the Work.

We again urge upon our friends the necessity of pressing forward enlistments. It will not do to lose a single day. A number of places in the State are doing nobly, and volunteers are coming forward in a most encouraging manner. But a few patriotic cities and towns cannot raise the number of troops required. The country towns without exception can send their ten, twenty or fifty men. They should do so at once. Do not delay. Do not wait for some one to visit you and kindle your patriotism. Raise your men and let them report to the nearest recruiting office, if you cannot raise a regiments should be on their way to Washingleaving the work for others?

We have been unable as yet to get the names of the miserable wretches, though they should be placed on record for the scorn of all patriots. They are

At the War Meeting last evening in the "Old Brick" Church, Fair Haven, a large audience was gathered, some two or three hund'red ladie being present. There was much enthusiasm and no small degree of interest manifested. A fine drum band, representing in part our sister city of Bridgeport, was on hand, under the auspices of the Recruiting Committee, and enlivened the occasion.

The meeting was called to order by S. C. Clark, Esq., and the following officers were elected :

Furloughs. It is estimated that there are now on furlough 50,000 enlisted men, most of whom are in condition to rejoin their regiments. They should at once rejoin their Companies, and save then selves from the disgrace which will certainly prove lasting if they remain away longer from their post of duty. This is no time for fashionable "furloughs."

President Lincoln's Speech to McClellan Army.

During his recent visit to the Army of the Potomac he made a speech to the serried masse of armed men who had just come out of seve days' terrific combat. Dismounting from his horse and mounting upon a rail fence-a most appropriate platform for Mr. Lincoln-he addressed the army in these words: Be of good cheer: all is well. The country owes you an inextinguishable debt for your services. under immeasurable obligations to you. You have, like heroes, endured, and fought and conquered. Yes, I say conquered; for though ap arently checked once you conquered afterward and secured the position of your choice. You shall be strengthened and rewarded God bless

From Washington. The President's Emancipation Policy. RESPONSE OF THE ROPDER STATE MEN

The Border State Representatives on Tues day finally agreed upon their reply to the President's emancipation proposition. It is repre sented as temperate and respectful. They cannot, for reasons stated, endorse his policy, and differ from his belief that the declination of these States to act upon and adopt it may or will prolong the war. They join in the recom mendation that those States give it a respectful consideration, but in no way commit themselves to its support. Probably 20 members of Congress have been in consultation upon the subject. some of these from the Border Slave States were not present at the meetings, while others have left the city.
