Money and Patriotism. The provision for the pay and comfort of ou soldiers is ample. No nation ever dealt so generously as ours. State and National bounties are lavished. Towns vie with each other in their liberality. Private patriotism pours forth a stream of wealth for the general good. There is no deficiency of funds. The soldiers and families must be supported and will be. But we must not rely upon large bounties as a means for recruiting. Where one soldier enpatriotism. They know that they are making sacrifices to go, sacrifices for which money cannot compensate. To leave their wives and in the day of battle. But they fight, not for the gold they may receive, but for their country. To this spirit of patriotism, this heart-felt love of country we appeal. A great disaster or a great victory lies before us. Not many weeks will roll by before we shall be startled by the former, or cheered by the latter. The de feat of our arms may be averted, and a decisive victory gained. Shall it be done? Prompt, earnest, untiring action will alone save us.

War and Conciliation.

In the prosecution of the war thus far two leading ideas seem to have influenced the gov . ernment. The first is to suppress the rebellion and compel the rebels to lay down their arms The second is so to conciliate the rebels that 2 when conquered, they may be willing to return to their duty under our republican system of whose duty it is to take the especial charge of government, without being embittered by the all recruiting offices for this regiment, and apinjuries they may have suffered. The first of point such recruiting officers as may seem best these ideas looks to the present; the second has and all persons who are desirous of recruiting reference to a future contingency. The former for the same, are requested to meet at the office is demanded by the loyal sentiment of the land of F. Wayland, Jr., Exchange Building, this every where; the latter is the favorite theme afternoon, at half-past four o'clock. of the conservatism of the country-a conservslavery than upon any other.

There is hardly any system of popular error which has not in it some admixture of Truth And so in this idea of "conciliation," there is much to commend itself to the thoughtful patriot. It certainly recognizes the fact, that, if we are again to be a united people, it is desirable that the eight millions of the South should not be so filled with hatred to the twenty millions of the North, as to prefer political association with any other people rather than with us. And it has in it also, at the first blush, apparently some of the elements of Christianity. for it proposes to do to slaveholding rebels, as we, if slaveholding rebels, would wish to be

But this idea of conciliation may be carried too far-so far as to take all earnestness out of the prosecution of the war. It may be cherished too long, so long as to cease to be of any possible use, and to become a source of encour agement to the enemy. It is to be feared tha already many of our people in their long-suffering forbearance towards traitors, have forgotten that we are actually engaged in a war with the rebels, whom they are trying to conciliate. It is also to be feared that in continually throwing the mantle of their charity over the most bitter and blood-thirsty traitors that ever trod the soil of a free country, they are se-· riously contributing to the success of the rebellion.

The undoubted generosity of the President for an additional number of New Haven. troops, Meriden has made rapid progress to give her full share of men to the cause. Up to Wednesday afternoon sixty men had enlisted to in the way of being speedily filled. Indeed, it is expected that the first company will be ahead of any company in the county-that is, it will be ready to go into camp first.

Yesterday afternoon a town meeting was held in the Town Hall, and it was voted to ap propriate $50 bounty to each volunteer enlisting in any Connecticut regiment in the field, including the 14th, or any regiment which shall be organized under the call for 300,000 troops; and it was also voted that if any recruited person shall leave a mother or other person dependent for support, the town will pay such person the same monthly pay as is now given by the State for the support of the wife and children

Body Found,

The Courier says that a party from this city while going on shore at the Light House yes terday, discovered the body of a negro man floating in the water. Upon taking it on shore wire was found twisted several times around one leg, which, with other circumstances, leads to the belief that the deceased came to his death by foul means. The body had evidently been in the water for a long time.

> We are in receipt of late copies of the London American sent across the water by our friend Mr. May of Centerville. Our readers will remember that this paper is the leading organ of American opinion in Europe. In one of the numbers before us, a list of late subscribers appears, among whom we observe the names of Abraham Lincoln, Col. Forney, David Wilmot, Reverdy Johnson, and other distinguished citizens. The American should be cordially supported by the loyal people of the country, as its publication aids in no small degree to correct the wicked efforts of certain men and papers in England, who by falsehood and misrepesentation endeavor to advance the cause of

THE MASTER RACE.

Since the great battle of Shiloh, and includmany-tongued enemy.

Indeed, the whole experience of the war is an attestation of the truth long since discovered by impartial observers, that the master-race of this continent is found in the Southern States. Of a better stock, originally, and habituated to manlier pursuits and exercises, they have ruled in affairs of State by force of the stronger will in carrying out their wishes. The Governor and larger wisdom that pertain to and distinguish superior races of men, while on the field of battle they have in every contest held a priority of place, conceded to them by their present

This natural dominancy of the Southern people has had much to do in bringing on the war. The inferior race, grown strong in numbers and ambitious from prosperity, have revolted against and now seek to overthrow and destroy those whose superiority was a constant source of envy and self-reproach. There is no fiercer malevoence than that of caste, and it is this which has so long stirred the Yankee bile. Always, in the presence of the Southern gentleman, he ha felt a strong and painfully-repressed impulse to take off his hat. This conscious inferiority has galled the jealous and malignant creature, untill he has broken out in servile insurrection. He has vainly concluded that his numbers can overwhelm and exterminate the subjects of his envy, and that he, succeeding to the broad acres and liberal habitudes of the Southern gentry, will come to be looked upon as a gentleman, too With us the contest is one for hereditary repute of the better blood-with the Yankee it is a rebellious and infatuated struggle for place he is unworthy of, for privileges he would degrade, for property he would barter, and for institutions he could neither comprehend nor en joy. It is the old and never-ending strife be tween patrician and proletarian-between gentle and vile. It is the offer of battle on a new field of muscle against spirit-numbers against honor and prosperity. A thousand men to-day, courage. It is not upon Southern soil and are better than ten thousand next year. Let among the descendants of Cavaliers and Hugue-

Walking leisurely through one of the stree of Boston, a lady swept by me and swept her lress under my feet. The consequence was hat I trod upon it, and the consequence was that the dress gave way. I was hastening to make an apology, but the lady sailed off in anger and would not hear it. The line in Homer, as Pope renders him, came into my mind: 'Troy's proud dame, whose garments sweep the ground Thereupon the way opened into a curious field of etymology. The proud dames of Rome, as well as Greece, must also have swept the ground with their garments. For we have vesis, a garment, and from this vestigia, a track r trail-that is, a track made by a garment. Then we have vestigo, and investigo, to follow on the track, and by metaphor, to track out thing with the mind. Not all in vair, then, is this sweeping the ground with long dresses, for it has enlarged our vocabulary, giving us vestige, to investigate, and investigation. English ladies of the olden time indicated their rank by the length of their garments. But they did not trail them upon the ground. Queen Elizabeth, if we remember rightly, employed six maids o bonor to hold up the trail of her royal robes Their vestments did not make vestiges, like those of Grecian, Roman and American ladies. None can dispute the queenly gracefulness of these expanded skirts which We hope the American ladies will not be

A Good Retort.—"I wish all the nigger worshippers were hung," said a prominent se cesh citizen the other day. "So do I," re sponded a good loyal man who overheard the remark. ROBBING A BRIDE OF HER BED.—The St Louis Democrat has the following :- At Layer's Boarding house, in this city, an unusually merv wedding came off on Tuesday night, and the ance was prolonged till one o'clock in the morning. The bride and groom then repaired to their apartment, but horribile visu-the bed and bedding had been sacrilegiously stolen from the nuptial chamber! Some vindictive wretch gained felonious ingress at the rear, and effected a robbery unparalleled in the history of matimony. It is conjectured that so fell vengeance could only have been devised and executed by some disappointed lover of the bride.

Lives there a man with soul so dead Who never to himself has said, The scamp who sto'e the bridal bed Deserves to die and live unwed, With maidens old to punch his head.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS.

Washington, July 17, 1862. SENATE. The Senate convened at 9 o'clock. Mr. Wright entered personal protest against the Committee on the conduct of the war. Mr. Doolittle reported, with amendments, bill establishing a bureau of emigration. Its object is independent emigration, settlement and colonization of people of African descen who may desire to emigrate to other countries. It appoints Commissioners of Emigration, clerk and two assistant clerks.

the publication of portions of evidence before

Grove House near the Light House. A purso of Ten and one of Five Dollars will be given to the two winning boats by Mr. Geo. D. Nett et m. the proprietor. The course will be from the anchorage off the Grove House around S. W. Ledge, thence around the Fort buoy, thence around S. W. Ledge a second time back to the Grove House. Boats will be anchored, and on starting their time will be taken as they pass a flag boat. There will be an Entertainment with Dancing, &c., in the evening. Various messages were received from the Senate to day, concerning the passage of certain bills. The Speaker signed a number of enrolled bills. There was much confusion Bill to divide Michigan into two Judicial dis tricts, passed. The request of the Senate to postpone adjournment to two o'clock, agreed to Mr. Hooper asked consent to introduce a bill that United States Postage stamps under sum of five dollars shall be received for all dues, and may be received in exchange for United States notes. No private corporation or bank

shall make or issue any token, note or device for less than one dollar to circulate as money, under penalty of fine and imprisonment. Objection was made, when Mr. Hooper mov ed to suspend the rules: agreed to.

Mr. Hooper caused a letter to be read from the Secretary of the Treasury, urging the matter, and enclosing a draft of the oill, and also one for changing weight of small Mr. Cox moved to lay the bill on the table-lost, 39 against 64. Bill passed-62 against 29. A joint resolution suspending the sales of lands of Kansas, Sacs and Fox Indians, until the 4th of March next, was passed. A message from the President was received and read. He says he has approved both the confiscation and supplemental resolution, considering them one act. Before he was informed of the passage of the resolution he had prepared a draft of a veto message.

CHAS. S. A. DAVIS, Trustee. As the bill does not touch the persons property of loyal citizens it is just and proper It is startling to say Congress can free slaves of a State, but as rebels forfeit their slaves to government the question is whether they shall be declared free or returned to slavery. He saw no objection to the former. In reviewing other points of the bill, he says military commanders should seize and use whatever real or personal property may be necessary for their commands in some way, providing evidence of such appropriation. He thinks it Major Gen. Halleck's Grand March proper that military commanders should employ TS the title of an entertaining piece of music as many blacks as can be used to advantage. The message was laid on the table and or dered printed.

will now aid in punishing rebel treason.

We are in a state of war. It is too late for conciliation. The closing months of Mr. Bu- ple of Southington, says a correspondent, was chanan's administration were spent in suppli- held at the Congregational Church in Southingcating the rebels, not to lift their hands against ton on Thursday evening. Rev. E. C. Jone the government of their country. The day for was one of the speakers. A resolution was conciliation was past when the batteries of the passed calling a town meeting to appropriate rebels opened upon Fort Sumter. Henceforth that a company ought to be and shall be raised war was inevitable. Without it the nation at once for the war. must die. Its sun must go down in disgrace. But the object of war is not, to weaken one's own resources and strengthen those of the enemy. It is to slay, to conquer, to subdue. War is waged with sword and rifle and cannon, not with assurances of distinguished consideration and apologies for injuries already inflicted. It should be continuous and unceasing, blow following blow in quick succession. until the rebel shall feel both the capacity and the will of the government to subdue him. And while the army of the Union marches sublimely forward in vindication of the government, from no loyal lip should come a word of sympathy for the traitor, and on no loval face should there be a look of compassion for him. of "loyalty or death."

When the rebels are once conquered and obliged to lay down their arms, there will be no difficulty in conciliating them. But at present the attempt to carry on a war with the sword in one hand and the olive branch in the other against an enemy with a sword in one hand, a revolver in the other, and his belt full of bowie knives, judging by the experience of the past, is not destined to be profitable. Apologies and Lindsley. smooth words offered to an enemy in arms after battle are of very little account.

The truth is, and the sooner the Government and people understand it the better, that the rebels to day hate the North, the Government There are, however, several from Maine, New and the Constitution, with a virulence which Hampshire, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Michicannot be surpassed. Loving slavery far less gan, and twelve from Connecticut. B, 1st U. S. Chasseurs; W. H. laws." When we carefully guard their prostates for the support of our armies, they laugh at us for our folly. When we treat them, not as public enemies seeking to stab our country, the common parent of us all, but as erring brothers to be won back to duty by kind words and a policy of inaction, they profit by our weakness, are amazed at our stupidity and despise us for our want of spirit. From our forbearance they gather encouragement, and from joy social gatherings under the trees, on the our want of earnestness they derive hope. The only answer to such men should be from the cannon's mouth. Let the war now be pressed forward with the utmost vigor, as a war against enemies determined and defiant. It is a waste of time, and a sacrilegious trifling with human life, to dally longer with the enemy. And upon this one issue of prosecuting the war with undying vigor, let the loyal people stand united, resolved that while such bitter enemies assail us from without, no minor differences of opinion shall distract us at home.

A Swindler.

A very gentlemanly appearing man calling himself George Dean, of Hartford, called at the residence of Rev. John Dudley on Olive street Tuesday last, and engaged board at the best price. He took tea, staid over night, and had breakfast. During the day he called at the stable of Mr. Kirkland Griffing, 23 Union st. and engaged a team for three hours to take him to Centerville and back. He did not return as was agreed. Mr. Griffing's suspicions were aroused and he drove up to that place. No person answering to Dean's description could be found. Yesterday Mr. Griffing went to Hartford and visited the stables in that city. While describing his stolen horse in the stable of St. John's Hotel, Mr. Griffing discovered his man knowledge the receipt of $140 from the ama- Journal.

After further search the team was found nearly two and a half miles from the city, in the district known as Rocky Hill. Dean has not yet been detected, though the Hartford police are on the watch for him.

The Hospital.

We stated on Wednesday that about two hundred and sixty men had been placed in the hospital here, all sick and wounded soldiers, only seventeen of whom have died. One Lieut. Col., five Captains, and eleven Lieutenants, have sufficiently recovered to be on furlough and will report at Annapolis.

Quite a large number have recevered so that they are able to be about the grounds and engrass, and benches about. All wear a cheerful look, and are politely communicative to all visitors. Some writers in venting their reportorial wisdom seem to be desirous of bringing out in the most prominent style all the horrors and bloody scenes of hospital life, as if the soldier was never "gay and happy still." They are all, as a general thing, far from entering complaints on account of their misfortunes. As an evidence of the hilarity of some we give below the following composition by John F. Echalaz. a member of Cochrane's regiment.-He is now in the hospital here having lost his leg at the battle of Fair Oaks: L & G on my LEG.

Good leg. th u wast a faithful friend, And truly hest toy cuty done, I thank the emost that to the end, Thou didst not let this body run. Strange paradox! that in the fight Wrere I of thee was thus bereft, I lost my left leg for 'the Right,"
And yet the right's the one that's left.

But whi'e the sturdy stump remains, I may be able yet to patch it, For even now I've t ken pains To make an L E G to match it. In case of the death of any soldier, from eight to ten men are detailed, supplied with cartridges, and the deceased is given a soldier's burial. Since writing the above we have received the following note from Dr. Jewett:

Congress, during the recent session, has apropriated about eight hundred millions of dol ars, including upwards of five hundred and sixty millions for the army, and somewhat less than one hundred millions for the navy. Among the most important bills postponed by the Senate or remaining unacted upon are the following: Providing for the admission of the State of West Virginia into the Union; for the enlargement of the Illinois and Michigan canal providing for a uniform system of bankruptcy for the appointment of a commission to ascer tain losses incurred by loyal citizens from the appropriation of their property by the United States troops; the bank bill; the bill appropriating $200,000,000 for border slave State cipation, and for colonization purposes. The senate took no definite action upon the House hills to totally abolish the franking privilege and to repeal all laws allowing mileage, includ ing the present members of Congress. The House bill providing for the discharge or trial of all State prisoners failed in the Senate. Among the last acts signed by the President was on authorizing the issue of postage and other Government stamps as currency, and prohibit ing banks and other corporations from issuing notes below the denomination of one dollar circulation. The President and members of the Cabinet occupied the Vice President's rooms at the capitol while attending to the public business. The Secretary of War, in response to a resolution of the House, calling for all the evidence on the files relating to the question whether any member or members of Congress have had any interest in Government contracts since April, transmitted a printed copy of the docunent heretofore sent the Senate, containing the arrangement made between Mr. Schubarth and Senator Simpsons, which, he says, is all the in formation on the files of that department.

Gen. Halleck Addresses his Troops. CORINTH, July 16, 1862.

Gen. Halleck has just issued a special field order saying that in giving up immediate command of the troops constituting the army of the Southwest he desires to express his high appreciation of the endurance, behavior and soldierly conduct which they have exhibited on all occasions, and to express to Commanders of Army Corps and their subordinates, his warmest thanks for their cordial cooperation. He says the soldiers have nobly done their duty, and accomplished much towards crushing this wicked rebellion. If they continue to exhibit the same vigilant courage and perseverance he believes they will bring the war soon to a close. PHILADELPHIA, July 18, 1862. The Inquirer says that Gen. Halleck is on
