ATWATER'S ADJUSTABLE ARMOR THIS FACT HAS BEEN

Demonstrated Beyond a Doubt. THE following extract from a private letter THE following extract from a private letter says: "Col. griggs, of the Mass. 10th, was hit in region of the heart by a Minnie ball, but having on one of Atwater's Patent Armors, his life was preserved."

Every test which has been made proves the Armor an absolute protection against sabre and bayonet thrusts, and pistol balls at any range, and from rifle balls at the ordinary range. The Armor covers every vital part except the head, and is so adjusted to the person as to leave free use of all parts of the body. It is made in sections, easily detached, and packed in a begor knapsack. The material is the best of steel, made expressly for Armor purposos.

This Armor can be seen at the effice of the

The Duty of Northern Women.

Heroism in any form is noble. We admir especially an heroic woman, one that can suffer any sacrifice for right, that can give up son o brother, lover or husband at her country's call: that can place her hand upon her beating heart and stay its throbbings when her dear ones fall upon the battle-field.

Such women there have been-women who shrank from no suffering for a noble cause, Such were the mothers of Revolutionary days who buckled on the armor of their sons and hade them go forth and fight. Such women there are to-day-women who have given their tons to the cause, and whose only regret is that they have no more to offer. But these women ly a clerk in this city, has been appointed reto-day are comparatively rare. The refinements of our civilization tend to produce a full company being raised in that place. Bindlier class of virtues than those which flourish

But the soul of the rebellion is the women of the South. Hating the North more intensely than the men, but half comprehending the real issues of the conflict, their minds distorted by the wildest fanaticism, but imperfectly educated and wholly unused to self-control, they drive from their homes every man capable of military duty, while they rave with the ferocity of frenzied bedlamites against the Yankees and the Union. The Southern lady does not hesitate to address to the Union soldiers language which would disgrace a Parisian fish-woman, while the love-tokens asked from the absent lover are the skull of a Yankee or the heart of a brave volunteer. These women have been by General Butler most felicitously, though with more truth than beauty, styled she-adders. Proud, malignant, fiery and blood-thirsty, such women as only the poisoned atmosphere of a slaverycontaminated society can produce, they are as totally different from the modest, affectionate, peace-loving mothers and sisters of the North, a bydra-headed dragon is from a dove. Heaven save us from the heroism which makes such women as these.

But hate is not heroism, nor passion courage The women of the North can do much to aid the cause of the Union without departing from their proper sphere of duty, or doing violence to their womanly nature. We do not ask them to stir into action the hearts that have felt no shame at national disgrace, that have had no feeling during months of disaster. We only ask them to let the brave and willing fight for their country. There are thousands of young men whose hearts are in this war; in whose veins courses no coward blood, who long to buckle on the sword or shoulder the musket and fight: who feel every day that a stain is on them while they linger; who hear every night the voice of God and their country calling them. But the arms of mothers and sisters, of wives and lovers are around their necks. The dearest and holiest ties of domestic love are invoked to keep them at home. In the scales before them are made to balance the honor and safety of their country, and the than life. And so they hesitate, while the o'clock, p. m. months roll on and the fate of the nation trembles in the balance, themselves restless and uneasy with the consciousness of a divided duty.

It is just here that the women of the North can do much to aid the cause of the Union. Cheerfully and hopefully let them bid these young men go. Surely, if they are willing to fight, no one ought, at an hour like this, to discourage them. Let them go, not with a burden on their hearts, but feeling that the same faith which sustains them in the conflict, is making the loved ones at home brave-hearted and hopeful.

Trust.

If we could reach every citizen of the great loval North and speak the word they most need to hear, to feel, and to live by, we would sav. trust : trust your President, trust your generals trust your army, trust the people, trust God. It is with pain that we observe so much dispo sition to find fault with every body and every thing. Every citizen of a free government is entitled to his opinion; that opinion carefully formed he should express-temperately, calmly earnestly. Such expression of opinion makes up the great popular will, the vox populi, which is the life of a republic, and which neither Presidents, nor cabinets, nor generals, will wish or dare to disregard; but when fault-finding and denunciation take the place of opinion properly expressed, then danger becomes iminent. Is there not something here that should be remedied? Do not the people in this awful crisis seek rather to blame the Administration than to sustain the Government? Are there not many who would discover a weak point in the President's policy, rather than in a rebel fort? Are there not too many who delight to attack the conduct of the war rather than the ranks of the enemy?

We need men; we need soldiers; we need that the great host of northern freemen be mar

with crossed bayonets the traitors who assail our national life. This is our great need; what do we get? Fierce encounters on the plain of argument; a warfare of words; words and arruments, where there should be soldiers and Think of this, friends. Let us give up talking and commence acting. Trust the President and his cabinet; trust the Government. Let us, if we really desire to save the nation, have less censure and more soldiers.

Town Meeting.

We understand that a call is soon to be med for a town meeting to take action upon the subject of bounty for volunteers. While all the towns around us are offering money freely to recruits, it cannot be supposed that enlisting will be very brisk here unless we offer equal inducements. If the Committee cannot do this, the town certainly should. Many men who design to enlist are waiting to see what will be the action of the town. We hope it may be such as to give a new impulse to the work.

Of course, if an appropriation is made by the town, it will be only equitable that those who have subscribed under the impression that no town meeting would be called, should receive their subscriptions again if they desire it.

A Patriotic Family.

James Ruscoe of Vista, Westchester county, New York, has five sons, four of whom have already enlisted in Connecticut regiments. I'wo of them are in the 10th regiment, and two others have joined the company now being raised in New Canaan, for the Fairfield county regiment. The total height of the four volunteers is a little over twenty-four feet. If any family can show more feet of patriotism than that, we should like to hear from it.

Waterbury.

Waterbury held a Town Meeting on Satur day the 26th, and voted a bounty of $100 to volunteers in the new regiments; $50 to each volunteer and $50 to the family or those dependent upon him. An appropriation of $20,-000 was made to pay the bounties and provide for the support of families.

The citizens of Westbrook voted, on Monday, in town meeting a bounty of $110 to such as enlist in that town. Joseph Magna, formercruiting officer and there is every prospect of a

Letters from F. and brother W. have followed, and it is with thankful hearts that we learn that you are all To-day we have letters from F. and Mrs. H. and I begin to feel like learning how to write letters again, but it will be a long time, if ever, before I shall feel the regular current of life is flowing on as before this war. The last year has been one of painful mental suffering. have grown old under it, and so has the community around us-Secessionists from living in violent passionate excitement, and Union-loving people from wearing, silent anxiety-suppressed emotion, and a terrible, vague, undefi able fear. You can none of you realize the power of the intangible despotism that has been over us, and I presume after a while it will ap-pear to us like a horrid nightmare; but I tell on it has been real enough in its experience. I can see that our U. S. men, who have come

The last ten days before the 25th of April, vere the worst for us, and the only time that ve ever feared personal injury. I woke every norning with a feeling of deep gratitude that nother night had passed in safety, and went to sleep the succeeding night with a new sense of But we grew accustomed ncreasing danger. to it, and our apprehensions were not so lively, nor the pain so keen-it did not seem much how much one suffered, or when one died. I think I did not make C.'s trials any neavier by any expression of womanish fearsand people going in and out of our house-even friends who felt apprehensive for us, thought by our cheerful calmness that we felt secure, C., I think, sustained himself with remarkable orudence, though never compromising his honor by falsehood, as hundreds have done. His reputation for uprightness and integrity of character, protected him from molestation, at the same time that he was suspected of the great erime of reserving to himself the right of individual opinion, and of cherishing loyalty to his own people and government. He did nothing that could be taken hold of; but in those last few weeks he did not take the oath of allegiance to the S. C. as commanded by our rulers -and if our deliverance had not come when it lid, he would perhaps have suffered for that.

The night of the 25th of April, after we had neard that the fleet had passed the forts, and pefore it had reached the city, was the darkest of all. When our government was so near with its protection, life began to look more hopeful and desirable. About 9 o'clock, a gentleman of foreign birth, and safe, called and told us that he understood THEY, (that invisible "they,' uled by that Jacobin Club of a secret Association,) were going round "to take care of the disaffected," that night. We had been told before, that great oaths had been sworn, that if the Federals ever did get here, not one of those 'spotted" men should live to rejoice at their coming. That C. was "spotted was pretty If there was no one else to hand in is name, I have no doubt his minister, Mr. M. and done it. Well, it was a restless, wretched night-the six-shooter and the bowie-knife were all ready and at hand. (I had learned to fire a oistol with telerable steadiness.) C. is not a thorough non-resistant man, and he said he wouldn't be taken out like a dog to die, with out ridding the world of a few base rebels if he could. But, as we hoped, our rulers had too much to attend to that night to notice us, and the spotted men lived to see the dear old flag The streets were busy, noisy, all night-drays "The solemnities of the day were introduced loaded with cotton for the funeral piles of the ealth of the South were passing-cabs and horsemen driving furiouslyanoke of burning cotton penetrated our very chamber, and the blaze of burning ships and teamboats lighted all the Levee. Oh! it was horrid night; and this was Southern patriot-

The next day, Farragut and his fleet appeared, and with them, still the smoke of burnng vessels and gun-carriages, and a grand thunder storm, and defiant messages from Lovell, and storms of passion sweeping over us. C. is known as a Union man. Though he takes no prominent part in any demonstration, he cannot consider it consistent with his dignity as a man, or his duty as a Christian citizen, now that he enjoys the protection of his own Government, to avoid giving it the small moral support which may arise from a friendly ex-pression of his sincere regard for it. Many pression of his sincere regard for it. Many gentlemen of his own standing apparently, during the last year, now preserve with jealous care a sort of neutrality, as they call it; but it is simply an abject deference to the despotic will which has ruled this community for the last eighteen months. Dr. Tobias' Venetian Liniment-Dr. Tobias' Venetian LinimentAn instantaneous remedy for chronic rheumat sm, headache, toothache, croup, colic, quinsey, sore throat, and pains in any part of the body. Try a bottle and be consinused. Remember this artacle is a success, not an experiment—for 14 years it has been test-d. Every one who uses it recommends it. No medicine ever had such a reptutation as this; silently it has worked its way before the putdle; and all are loud in its praise. "Chronic Rheumatism." Thousands who laid for weeks on a bed of agony, and never walked without the add of crutches, with this complaint, can testify to the magical effects of this liniment. They are cured and proclaim its virtues throughout the had. Remember relief is certain, and a positive cure is sure to follow. Headache of all kinds we warrant to cure. Putrid sore throat, quinsey and digtheria are robbed of their terrors by a tunely use of the Venetian Liniment. It has saved hundreds the past three months.

Messrs. Editors: Feeling an interest in the success of the enterprise in aid of the sick and wounded soldiers, I am induced to communicate a few words, in relation to the Opera itself, having recently witnessed a representation of it, where it was originally brought out.

"The "Doctor" is a comic opera, as its title indicates. It has however neither the complication of plot nor breadth of musical construction that characterize "The Barber of Seville," or "Der Freyschutz." It is rather of the callibre of "Rip Van Winkle," and kindred operas,

Drafting.

In several Northern States, orders for drafting have already been issued. Gov. Todd, of Chio, seems to comprehend the necessity of urnishing troops before the season for the fall campaign shall be over. He gave reasonable notice some time since that if the quota of Ohio was not ready in forty days he should draft. He has now issued an order for drafting to take effect on the 18th of August. Towns or Counties which furnish voluntarily their quota will be exempt from the operation of the order while it will fall with full force upon those who have hitherto failed to furnish the men required. In Maine and Maryland too, drafting is said to have commenced, and it is no longer doubtful that it will come sooner or later in all, or nearly all of the Northern States. We have hoped that it might not be necessary to draft in Connecticut. But so slowly does the work of recruiting progress, in comparison with the haste required, that not only does a draft seem probable before many weeks, but public sentiment throughout the State is becoming decidedly in favor of it.

We have only this to say upon the subject We are tired of sending our men in small bodies to have them destroyed one after another There is power in this country to suppress the rebellion. That power should be called into the field. If we are to draft, let the drafting be to some purpose. The Government need not fear to call into the field the largest possible force. Instead of three hundred thousand let the number be seven hundred thousand or a mill on. Immediate measures should be taken by the Government to procure arms for these troops. The old regiments should be filled up to the maximum number, and no more new ones created than can be filled.

It is idle to make calculations as to how few It is idle to make calculations as to how few Class. Name and age. Place and Time of Death, men can suppress this rebellion. The question is "how many will do it?" Whatever that 1795 David Sahth, 94. Cincinnati, O. Oct 4, 1861. N. Haven, Ct. Mch. 5, 1862. is "how many will do it?" Whatever that number may be, let the Government call for them. The determination of the people is to put down this rebellion. We only wish President Lincoln and his advisors could leave the banks of the Potomac, and come to the banks of the Connecticut, that instead of gazing upon the sacred soil of Virginia, on the other side of the Potomac, teeming with traitors, their eyes could rest upon New England full of loyal men; that they could feel how hearty is the support of the people of any proper measure for suppressing this rebellion. We believe they would all take new heart and new courage, and that the notes of war would be henceforth clearer and more inspiring. Gentlemen at Washington, do not fear the people. They will follow, where you dare to lead.

Officers of the Lyon negiment,

The field officers of this regiment are an nounced. The Colonel, Dexter R. Wright, is a man of ability, who, at the call for 600,000, formed a company in his town, Meriden, and proposed to go to war, but the complement of men had already been obtained. At the recent call Mr. Wright, though immersed again in business pursuits, laid them aside and accepted the Lieut.-Colonelcy of the 14th. On. the formation of this regiment he was tendered and accepted the post of commanding officer. For Lieutenant-Colonel, choice has been made of Capt. Samuel Tolles, a life-long military man, whose name and abilities have been identfied with the New Haven Grays. He is every inch a soldier, possessed of kindly feelings, yet a strict disciplinarian. The men of the regiment cannot fail to love and respect him. The appointment of Capt. Osborn for Major, gives universal satisfaction. Young, plucky, able and conversant with military rules as they are at present taught; he is modest in demeanor but brave in action. The company which he led to the battle-field of Bull Run all speak his name with

The Quartermaster, Mr. John C. Kimball, is known in business circles as an energetic and efficient man. The duties of his new station will call out more prominently those traits which have won the respect and confidence of all with whom he has been associated. Men of New Haven county, cannot you follow these officers?

Effects of the Lightning

Yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the residence of Alvan O. Wilcox, Esq., of Madison, was struck by lightning, the fluid entering at the cupola and scattering in four directions .-Some clapboards and plastering were detached, the carpet slightly burned, and windows were broken. The family were uninjured.

A barn belonging to Eli Tucker, of Saybrook, (Oyster River,) was struck about 12 o'clock at night, and with its contents, some twenty-five tons of hay, was destroyed. The neighbors turned out and saved the house from Alumni Meeting.

The meeting was called to order by Professor Thacher, upon whose nomination the following officers were elected : PRESIDENT-Hon, WM. W Hoppin, of the Class of 1828.

Assistant Secretary-Frederick Coe, of the Class of 1837. Ex-Governor Hoppin briefly returned thanks for the honor conferred, announcing that it was almost the first college appointment he had received. He called upon the educated men present to come forward and discuss freely and fully the wants of our country, and let our public men know what is the pleasant diversion. sentiment of the country. His remarks were eloquent and patriotic, and his allusions to the Union intervention rendering a conscription advisable loudly applauded.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Edward Beecher.

Prof. Thacher then paid a touching and most de served tribute to the memory of Edward C. Herrick Prof. Noah Porter spoke feelingly and in jus erms of the lamented Prof. W. A. Larned.

We regret that we have not room for the remark of both Prof. Thacher and Prof. Porter. Ex-Governor Ellsworth introduced the following Resolved, That it is the profound conviction of this mee ng that the present is a most critical period for Republican overnment. If the experiment fails in the United State There is no other area left on the Globe of further trial. That while we have the fullest confidence in the patriotism and wisdom of President Lincoln and his Cabinet, we conjure them to spare no effort consistent with civilized warfare, to put an end to the present most stupendous, wicked, and ruinous rebellien known in the his tery of the world.

Governor Ellsworth spoke carnestly in suppor of the resolution.

Messrs. Hubbard, Bradley and Bishop are recruiting a company who shall bear the name of the National Blues to the field. They are succeeding well. We are glad to find this old corps, which numbers some thirty men in different regiments, awake to the exigencies of the times.

An Important Suggestion.

The enlistments in Connecticut are progressing passibly well, but we are not doing our duty. It is unwise to quiet ourselves with the belief that all is well. We are not safe till the 300,000 men are in the field, and another 300,-000 are ready to start at a week's notice. No one ever suffered a defeat by being too well prepared. Our disasters have universally been the result of misplaced confidence in our strength. Prof. Hadley's this evening, at 7 1-2 o'clock, and to- To our shame be it told, that we have not shown morrow morning, at 10 o'clock, at the house of the the devotion to the holy cause of saving our country, that the confederates have to the infernal one of ruining it.

We need more popular enthusiasm in enlisting. We must have it. Many are deeming a conscription necessary. To save ourselves from this disgrace, we must wake up and go to work The following plan has received the attention The Commencement exercises of the College and approval of many of our prominent citizens. It is now brought forward to see if it meets with public approval.

In most of the cities of the South, during the afternoons, the various places of business have been closed, and all men and boys, of every cruise as far as Newport and Providence. The exconsequence is that the whole male population are passibly drilled troops, and at least three months in advance of fresh recruits. In proof New Haven Hotel. He is visiting this country to I happen to know that Beauregard called for regiment for thirty days service, which was made up from boys and young men in New Orleans. In less than three weeks from the time they were formed into a regiment, they were led to the battle of Shiloh, where they fought bravely both days.

Every city and town in the North should de likewise, save that our citizens must volunteer. Elm street, between Dr. N. B. Ives' dwelling and I propose that all persons, who are willing to learn the manual and company drill, be invited to meet on the Green two or three evenings each week. Our prominent men, clergymen, lawyers, editors, physicians, merchants and mechanics should deem it not inconsistent with their dignity to be seen handling a broom-stick musket, preparing to defend their country if

There must be no uniform, save a simple padge, that the plan shall entail no expense. It must be distinctly understood that no one lrilling assumes any additional liability to perform military duty. The members merely ledge themselves to drill.

The object is not the formation of a Hom Guard, to enable able bodied men to compronise with their consciences, by joining a noncombatant militia, but it is to aid in educating the people in military drill, that they may rise in their might, and en masse crush this foul rebellion. It is only thus that it will be crush ed, and we must prepare for it.

The advantages are 1st. It will be improving to the health and physical form, and prove 2d. In case of unexpected reverses or foreign the men will be ready for duty in three weeks, instead of three months. 3d. Many will doubtless find military exercise pleasant, and, having become somewhat familiar with the rudiments, will conclude to enlist immediately. 4th. It will announce to the world that Connecticut is preparing to defend her country, if ecessary, to the last man; and that New Haven has taken the initiatory in this second Great uprising." This movement if rightly inaugurated here, vill, like leaven, extend itself throughout the towns and cities of our land, until he who cannot handle a musket, will be more debased, than he who cannot read, in the signs of the times, that "the Union shall be prererved." ----

Copperheads. Messes. Editors: There is one class of cop perheads from whose influence we are surely en. titled to protection by our Government-I allude to those men of Northern birth who having once sold themselves for filthy lucre, seem determined to carry out their bargain in the most disgusting and loathsome manner possible. They have lived in New Orleans and other reoccupied Southern towns; they had not the manliness to join the Southern armies, but tried to fatten on the misfortunes of the people on whom they had fastened themselves, and now they are al lowed by circumstances to come North again, and they soon find out their fellow-copperheads here and join them in instilling all the venom they possibly can, into our community, es pecially in the country towns. Why should such men be tolerated amongst us. They have no modesty, or the remembrance that death would be the portion of any freeman who dared utter his sentiments in Richmond or Charleston, would seal their lips here; they have no self-re spect, or they would not thus insult the toleration that permits them to visit their mothers wives and children. These miserable copper neads, without modesty or manliness, or decency, or self-respect, should at once be returned to that portion of the country whose institutions they pretend to love so well-a present of a million such lick-spittles would do the South infinite harm-we question if Jeff. Davis would allow of their return if he could prevent it. What a curse it must be to the South to have such harpies do their trading for them in the absence of their brave men in the field.

In the House of Commons on the eighteenth, Lindsay's motion declaring that the Confederates have shown such determi nation and ability to maintain their independ ence that the propriety of offering mediation with a view of terminating hostilities is worthy of the serious and immediate consideration of the Government, came up. Lindsay was pressed to withdraw his resolution, but felt it his duty to proceed. He argued strongly in favor

Lord Palmerston spoke against it and earnestly advised that the question be left to the government. In the course of his speech he treated the issue of the war as a foregone conclusion, saying that the only satisfactory termination that could be anticipated was an amicable separation; this, however, he thought would be impeded rather than facilitated by debate in Parliament.

He contended that acknowledgment by England could give the North no offense. The contest would not justify a recognition of Southern independence. He again appealed to Lindsay to withdraw his motion; which was finally
