To Horse Owners. DR. SWEET'S INF ALLIBLE LINIMENT FOR HORSES is unrivaled by any, in all cases of Lameness, arising from Sprains, Bruises or Wrenching, its effect is magical and certain. Harness or raddle Galls, Scratches, Manage, &c., it will also cure speedily. Spavin and kingbone may be easily prevented and cured in their incipient stages, but confirs ed cases are beyond the possibility of a radical cure. No case of the kina, however, is so desperate or hoper so but it may be alleviated by this Liniment, and its faithful application will always remove the Lameness, and enable the noise to travel with comparative case.

Every horse owner should have this remedy at hand, for its timely use at the birst appearance of Lamness will effectually prevent those forminable diseases mentioned, to which all horses are liable, and which render so many otherwise valuable horses nearly worthless.

It has never been the intention of the Principal, nor is it now, to make the institution a mi'itary school. The great object is mental and moral culture, in a preparation for college or for business. Can We Do It?

The number of white males, in the loyal states, between the ages of fifteen and fifty according to the Census of 1860, is about five mil-The number in the seceded states is In the Border States of Kentucky and Tennessee there are nearly five hundred thousand. It appears also that the number of men capable of bearing arms in the States of New York and Massachusetts alone is greater than in all the Rebel States. These figures speak for themselves. When, therefore, men talk about the impossibility of subduing the South, as many have done, in the past, and point to our own contest with Great Britain as an indication of what a weak power, when acting on the defensive, can do against the strongest, they overlook not only this vast superiority of the loyal States in numbers, but also some other very material points of difference between the present war and that of the Revolution. Between us and the rebels rolls no ocean three thousand miles wide. Our armies are not forced to march from New England to Virginia, but are hurried onward in the cars without loss of time or strength. Steamboats transport our troops from one point to another of the enemy's territory with a degree of comfort and dispatch unknown in the olden time. The present war is waged on the most stupendous scale in all history. The small armies of our fathers could retreat, and hide themselves in mountains, living as best they might. But now when armies number their hundreds of thousands, they must face each other. The question of supplies enters largely into the contest; and whenever either army is ready for a decisive combat, there is no alremative for the other but to meet it. And besides all this our fathers had France to help them, while the rebels turn their suppliant hands to all nations, as yet in vain. We are filling up our ranks now, not for exhausting marches, but for battle. Upon the banks of the James River, it may be, the great contest will be fought. One hundred and fifty thousand loyal soldiers already tread the sacred soil of Virginia. When six bundred thousand more are mustered into service who doubts, that on a field, which history shall record as more glorious than Marathon or Waterloo, the banner of treason shall go down in the dust?

Energy. The Governors of several Northern States are at present in Washington holding a consultation, and ascertaining the views of the War Department respecting the draft which has been ordered. Gov. Buckingham is among the number. It is believed that their presence in Washington will add most decidedly to the vigor with which the war will be prosecuted. Coming as they do fresh from the people, they can let the government know how the popular heart has yearned for more energy, more faith, more inspiration, more determination on the part of those in authority to out down the rebellion at all hazards. The people have waited with a could exhibit, for some evidence of real earnestness-some proof of actual progress in the war. And when at last the order came for a draft, strange at it may seem to those who know little of our institutions, the people hailed it with joy, not because they desire to be drafted-they would much sooner volunteer and enter freely into their country's service-but because it was an indication that we were not contending merely to make a respectable fight, or to command favorable terms of peace when we should close the contest, but for the restoration of the Union in all its integrity, the re-establishment of law and order, the triumphant vindication of the national honor, and the blotting out of treason and traitors. It is this faith which is now calling the freemen by thousands and tens of thousands to the ranks of the army. Men at Washington, do not disappoint the expectations of the people. Be not frightened at your own daring, but press United States Patent Office, for the week ending on the work, never doubting that the people are July 29, 1862, each bearing that date:

For the New Haven Pallading CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., July 20, 1862. Messes. Editors: I have found sailing against the Mississippi current quite a different thing from sailing with it, it being a three days' voyage from the Cape to Memphis, and a four 1st Lieutenant. The company is now nearly full, days' voyage back again. We left Memphis on the evening of the day of our arrival. A large number of passengers came on board, who, for the most part were fleeing north. It is not a their company, which will to-morrow elect its offi- strange fact that they prefer the security of Lincoln's administration to the despotism of out doubt, be formally installed in their respective Jeff. Davis. Some, however, come north for the purpose of acting as spies, and the most stringent regulations have not been adequate to protect us from this despicable class of enemies. The refugee Reynolds came to me for advice that Capt. Kerrigan was on board, that most of the passengers were rebel sympathizers, and We are informed that $150,000 in silver arrived that, finally, he was afraid his life was in danger. Reynolds, however, came on board. He is a New Yorker by birth, went to New Orleans for many years past in New Orleans. It arrived to engage in business and was caught there by secession. I thought at the time that living in constant peril had made him morbidly timid, and assured him of his security with us. Ere C. V., has associated himself with John U. Wheeler long it was discovered that a party of gamblers were on board. The leader, whose alias was Hale arrived in town Wednesday morning, with a Sherman, was well known to the officers of the steamer, having for six years navigated the Mississippi for the purpose of robbing the verdant, under the pretence of fair play. Since the opening of the river he and his crew have drove a splendid business in fleecing soldiers who were returning home with their hard earned wages. On board was an honest-hearted, unsuspecting soldier—Sergeant-Major Jackson of the 1st Nebraska infantry. The gamblers marked him for their victim. Monday night they prevailed upon him to play. He lost a small sum. The following day they resumed operations. I warned Jackson against the party with whom he was playing, but Sher man took care that his victim should be wel supplied with drinks, and the game proceeded londay night Reynolds had hired one of inv Sergeants to stand guard. Tuesday evening established a guard with instructions to watch the gambling desperadoes, and report any unusual movement at the landing places. Finally Deputy Sheriff state-room terribly excited, and asked for a Squires took him into custody, and the crowd that pistol, saying he had been robbed while sleepng of all his money, $145, and a finely mounted pistol which he had taken at Shiloh, valued at $30. He had played until 12 o'clock. He recollected that Sherman had passed through there will be about four hundred men in the camp his state-room. Shortly after, when he awoke his pocket-book was gone and his pistol from the holster. I advised him to wait until our arrival at Cairo before taking any measures to ferret out the robbers. We reached Cairo at 7 o'clock, to the great delight of Reynolds, who nce more found himself on free soil. Before landing, I proceeded to arrest Sherman and his five confederate gamblers. He made no resistance. On his person was found a bill which Jackson recognized as his own. But Mr Keene, a stout bully, who hailed from Canada, would not be taken alive. "If you take me you take me dead-where is your authority to arrest me?" I drew my Colt and remarked. there is the authority by which I arrest you.' NEWS FROM WASHINGTON A Great War Meeting.

PATRIOTIC RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED. The immense war meeting at the east front of the Capitol, Wednesday afternoon, was preceded by the ringing of bells, the firing of cannon, and music from the marine band. The portico and platform were occupied by many ladies, and military, civil and naval officers of distinction. The Mayor of Washington presided, with 34 vice-presidents and 22 secretaries. After a prayer by the Rev. John C. Smith, the following resolutions were read by Edward Jordan, the Solicitor of the Treasury:

[4t this point the applause from thousands of voices deafening, and again three cheers were enthusiastly given, with exclamations "read that again," "good," good, read it again."

Mr. Jordan was about to repeat the resolution, when he was interrupted by the heavy and continuous sound of cannon mingled with the mu-! sic from the marine band, for the President had now made his appearance, and was proceeding to the front platform where a chair had been provided for him in a conspicuous place. Three neers were given in his honor, and when this leasant excitement had somewhat subsided, Mr. Jordan read the entire resolution a second time, and proceeded as follows:

mously and enthusiastically adopted. The President then, in response to loud, in atient calls, addressed the people as follows: Fellow citizens, I believe there is no precedent for my appearing before you on this occasion. (Applause.) But it is also true that there is no precedent for your being here yourselves (ap plause and laughter), and I offer in justification of myself, and of you, that upon examination have found nothing in the Constitution against it (Renewed applause.) I, however, have an impression that there are younger men who will enertain you better (voice-no one can do better than yourself-go on), and better address your understanding than I can, and therefore I propose but to detain you a moment longer. (Cries—go on, tar and feather the rebels.) I am very little in clined, on any occasion, to say anything unless I hope to produce some good by it. (A voice-"You do that, go on.") The only thing I think of just now, not likely to be better said by some one else, is a matter in which we have heard some other persons blamed for what I did myself. (Voices, "What is it?"). There has been a very wide-spread attempt to have a quarrel between General McClellan and the Secretary of War. Now, I occupy a position that enable me to believe at least, that these two gentlemen are not nearly so deep in the quarrel as some presuming to be their friends. (Cries of "good." Gen. McClellan's attitude is such, that in the very selfishness of his nature he cannot but wish to be successful, and I hope he will, and the Secretary of War is precisely in the same situation. If the military commanders in the field cannot be successful, not only the Secretary of War but myself, for the being the master of them both, cannot be but failures. (Laughter and applause.) I know General McClellan wishes to be successful, and I know he does not wish it any more than the Secretary of War for nim, and both of them together no more than I says ish it. (Applause and cries of "good.") Sometimes we have a dispatch about how many men General McClellan has had, and those who would disparage him say he has had a very large number, and those who would disparage the Secretary of War insist that Gen. McClellan has had a very small number. The basis for this is, there is always a wide diference, and on this occasion perhaps between the grand total General McCiellan's rolls, and the men actually fit for duty, and those who would disparage him talk of the grand total on paper, and ose who would disparage the secretary of war talk of those at present fit for duty. Gen. Mc Clellan has sometimes asked for a thing that the secretary of war did not give him. Gen. McClellan is not to blame for asking what he wanted and needed, and the secretary of war is that causes so much sickness, and by putting not to blame for not giving when he had none few drops of Dr. True's Pain Destroying Comto give. APPEAL TO FREEMEN.

Men of the Northland! where's the manly spirit Of the true he arted and the unshackled gone? Sons of old freemen! do we but inherit Their names alone?

Is the old Pilgrim spirit quenched within us? Stoops the strong manhood of our souls so low That Mammon's lure or Party's wile can win us To silence now? Now, when our land to ruin's brink is verging, In God's name let us speak while there is time! Now, when the padiocks for our lips are forging Silence is crime!

What! shall we henceforth humbly ask as favors Rights all our own? In madness shall we barter For treacherous peace the freedom Nature gave us, Here shall the statesman forge his buman fetters, Here the false jurist human rights deny, And in the church their proud and skilled abetters Make truth a lie! Torture the pages of the hallowed Bible, To s metion crime, and robbery, and blood And, in Oppression's hateful service, libel Both man and God!

Shall our New England stand erect no longer, But stoop in chains upon her downward way. Thick r to gather on her limbs, and stronger

Oh, no; methinks from all her wild, green mou From valleys where her slumbering fathers lie -From her blue rivers and welling fountains, And clear, cold sky -From her rough coast and isles which hungry Ocean Goaws with his surges—from the fisher's skiff, With white sail swaying to the billow's motion Round rock and cliff—

From the free fireside of her unbought farmer-From the free laborer at his loom and wheel—
From the brown smithshop, where beneath the has Rings the red steel—

From each and all, if God hath not forsaken Our land, and left us to an evil choice, Loud as the summer's thunderholt shall waken A People's voice! Startling and stern! the Northern winds shall bear it

Over Polomac's to St. Mary's wave:
And buried Freedom shall awake to he ur it
Within her grave.

Oh, let that voice go forth! the bondman sighing By Santee's ware, in Mississippi's cane, Shall feel the hope, within his bosom dying, Revive ag. in. Let it go forth! The millions who are gazing Let if go forth! The millions who are gardened sadly upon us from a far shall smile, Sadly upon us from a far shall smile, And unto God devout thanksgiving raising, Bless us the while.

Oh, for your ancient freedom, pure and holy, For the deliverance of a greaning earth,

For the wronged captive, bleeding, crushed, and l. wly,

Let it go forth! Sons of the best of fathers! will ye falter With all they left ye periled and at stake: Ho! once again on Freedom's holy altar The fire awake!

Prayer strengthened for the trial, come together, Put on the harness for the moral fight. And with the blessing of your Heavenly Father, MAINTAIN THE RIGHT.

Soldiers, Attention !-- Pain, disease and exposure, with a hot climate, muddy water and bad diet will be unavoidable, but armed with HOLLO-WAY'S PURIFYING & STRENGTHENING PILLS, you can endure all these and still retain good health. Only ? To Horse Owners.

Johnson, Agricultural Dealer.

Sprains, Bruises or Wrenching, its effect is magical and certain. Harness or Saddle Galls, Scratches, Manage, &c., it will also cure speedily. Spavin and Ringbone may be easily prevented and cured in their incipient stages, but confirmed cases are beyond the possibility of a radical cure. No case of the kind, however, as so desporate or hopetess but it may be alleviated by this Liminent, and its faithful application will always remove the Lameness, and enable the norse to travel with comparative case.

Every horse owner should have this remedy at hand, for its timely use at the first appearance of Lameness will effectually prevent those forminable diseases mentioned, to which all horses are liable, and which render so many otherwise valuable horses nearly worthless.

It has never been the intention of the Principal, nor is it now, to make the institution a military school. The great object is mental and moral culture, in a preparation for college or for business. Unless, under extraordinary circumstances, only a part of the play-time is devoted to military training and other physical exercises; and it is only by this use of hours, commonly worse than wasted, that the school has acquired any reputation as a military institution.

The regular course in the department preparatory to Yale College, occupies four years; but full opportunity is allowed to those who can prepare more rapidly.

Parents will find, in the instruction given in Military drilling, grymnastics, swimming, etc., and in the ample grounds for out door games, under careful supervision, just the advantages for physical training and vigor, which hows in cities need. boys in cities need.

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY OF POTOMAC,) THURSDAY, AT MALVERN HILL.

Everything was quiet during yesterday. It vas reported last night by deserters and contrabands that the rebels had been moving from the vicinity of Richmond all day in large force towards Malvern Hill, for the purpose of retaking the position. Three thousand exchanged prisoners arrived yesterday afternoon from Richmond. Those belonging to this army and fit to do duty were sent to their regiments; the others leave for the North to-day. No officers are among them. There is no truth in the report that this army is used to protect rebel property as is reported n case of Hill Carter. During the two days battle of Malvern Hill. eight hundred to one thousand wounded Union men had their wounds dressed at his house. The ladies freely tore up their sheets and pillow cases for bandages, while the army was passing. A guard was posted to protect the vemen and children. The horses and cattle are grazed on the farms, and the negroes are working upon our fortifications. All applica-

San Francisco, Aug. 5, 1862.

The bark E. A. Rawlings, in the Government employ, was recently wrecked at the mouth of the Colorado river. Her cargo, consisting of commissary stores for Fort Gunia, was valued at $200,000. Work on the new levee around Sacremente is progressing energetically. It is said that it will cost over $200,000. It will be 8 to 10 feet high, and of sufficient strength to leave no room for apprehension of future inundation. The first train of overland emigrants from Iowa arrived last week at Powder River Mines, Oregon. They met no difficulty on the road. Three companies of Oregon cavalry had gone to meet them. The confiscated ship Henry Brigham was sold by the United States Marshal yesterday for $15,000. A dividend has been declared by the Ophir Silver Mining Company for the month ending the fifth, amounting to $72 a foot shares in the mine are selling at $2,400 a foot. Extremely flattering accounts are received of all the principal silver mines in Nevada Territory. Bullion receipts are large and stocks are going up.

Defeat of the Rebels near Memphis, CAIRO, Aug. 6, 1862.

The Memphis Bulletin of the 3d reports that a fight occurred seven miles from town on Sunday, between a force of 4,000 federals and the rebels under Jeff. Thompson. The latter were driven back with great loss. The paper gives no further particulars. More fighting is anticipated.

THIS FACT HAS BEEN Demonstrated Beyond a Doubt.

THE following extract from a private letter THE following extract from a private letter says: "Col. Briggs, of the Mass, 10th, was hit in region of the heart by a Minnie ball, but having on one of Atwater's Patent Armors, his life was preserved."

Every test which has been made proves the Armor an absolute protection against sabre and bayonet thrusts, and pistol balls at any range, and from rifle balls at the ordinary range. The Armor covers every vital part except the head, and is so adjusted to the person as to leave free uso of all parts of the body. It is made in sections, easily detached, and packed in a be gor knapsack. The material is the best of steel, made expressly for Armor purposes.

Slavery or The Union. The grand march of events, in the present war, points clearly to the final removal of Slavery from our land. It cannot be doubted that to this institution, with its poisonous influence upon the Southern mind, we are entirely indebted for this rebellion. It is the cause and the sole cause of our present calamity. We cannot conceive of any issue, any wrong, real or imaginary, that could have produced such wholesale treason in the North, as exists at the South. The public mind must first be corrupted, prejudiced and embittered by the teachings of Slavery, before patriotism, loyalty and native land can cease to exert an influence. And so to-day, Slavery, with all its devotees, its influence, moral, immoral and political, is arrayed in rebellion against the Government of the United States, the Government that we love and fondly cherish. From a contest so bitter other must die. And to the loyal people of our land we submit the inquiry "Which shall it be -Slavery or the Government, the assailant or the assailed ?" He who truly loves the Union and the Constitution will esteem every thing hateful that lifts its hand against that Union, and against the Supremacy of that Constitution. Slavery has done this. For Slavery this war was begun,-by it, it is waged, and with it, it must continue. Its most ardent admirers and sup-selection after the Legislature had indicated porters are in arms against their country. Its (though prematurely) its choice in electing more cautious friends in the Border States, like Wickliffe at the Indiana Democratic Convention the other day, proclaim their devotion to the Union, provided that Slavery is not injured. If either of these is to be injured they prefer that it should be the latter. And yet such Union men as these have been permitted hitherto to be the foils to our weapons, and prevent our striking the enemy in earnest

The sensitiveness of our people on the subject of slavery, with its attendant conservatism, delay and strategy, has cost our nation untold millions of dollars, and the lives of thousands of brave men. And if it be true that the loyal people of this country prefer to see this government destroyed, and this free republic go down in midnight darkness, rather than have slavery injured, it is a fact of dreadful portent to the Republic. For the question with us is no longer "what shall we do?" but "what can we do?" Gen. McClellan, with the grand army of the Potomac, on the banks of the James Biver, is to-day, in the opinion of good judges, in danger of being cut off from supplies, and forced to surrender. We are contending against an enemy to conquer whom taxes and will tax the entire energies of this country. Slavery has its hands around the throat of our nation to-day, and is strangling it. Yet men stand in our streets and coolly witness the operation, and cry "Don't hurt it-don't interfere with slavery." Why not? Is this cry the mere force of habit, indulged in so long that the ruling passion is destined to be strong even in death? Or is there somebody who still expects that this rebellion can be suppressed by our eating dirt in the presence of our enemies? The words of inspiration, "Peace, be still," that shall calm down this tempest, must come from a diviner source than a love for human slavery.

Yet we have not clamored for abolition measures. We have made no demands for emancipation acts. We have not asked the President to proclaim liberty throughout the land. We have been in favor of "the Union as it was and the Constitution as it is," and still are in favor of the same. We have desired a policy of forbearance until forbearance has ceased to be a virtue and is no longer safe.

But while the President has been silent, and the country in its struggle has done much to protect its foe, events, mightier than men or parties, have swept us onward, and now the simple law that where two fight a decisive combat, one must be defeated, is the law of the present contest. Which shall it be-Slavery of the Union? Are we willing that slavery should perish, if it come to that, in order that our nation may live? To this question thus presented, and it is daily growing more apparent that be but one response from the loyal millions of the land. "Let slavery perish, let the Union live forever!" Democrats and Republicans in the past-Patriots to-day, we love our country too well to suffer it to die through any tenderness for its foe.

The Fourteenth Regiment. In the zeal which has been manifested by the different counties of the State for their own local regiments, the 14th has been seriously overlooked and obliged to recruit as best it could, being regarded as a trespasser on the peculiar territory of a county regiment almost every where. But, notwithstanding these disadvantages, it has now about 800 men in camp, and a noble set of men they are. Many of them are dow and was killed.

men in the full vigor of mature years, farmers and mechanics, who have gone into the service solely from considerations of patriotism and duty. Col. Dwight Morris, the commanding officer, has traveled largely in Europe, has made military science an especial study, and has gained much knowledge by careful observation of foreign armies. He is, moreover, a most agreeable and courteous gentleman, devoted to his country, and of unshrinking courage. Lieut. Col. Captain Daniel Hebard. The Telegraph announces the death of Cap tain Daniel Hebard, son of Hon. Learned Hebard of Lebanon in this State. He died in New York of a fever contracted in the swamps of Virginia. He was, at the time of his death, Assistant Adjutant-General on General Gorman's staff. Captain Hebard graduated at purposes soon to resign the office he now holds. Yale College in the class of 1860. He was a loved by those who knew him best. At an early period of the present rebellion he entered his country's service, and has ever since been engaged in doing all that he could to suppress the rebellion. But a few days since we received a letter from him, written since the seven days' battles, full of earnestness and hope. And plate, evidently given him by the State of South now he has gone. His death is a sad blow to Carolina for some distinguished service. The breast his family and to all his friends.

The Norwich Bulletin says that recruiting for as the present war, it is idle to expect that both the Eighteenth goes on briskly. The new comcombatants can come forth alive. One or the pany in Danielsonville is filling up rapidly. The second Greeneville company already numbers twenty men. In Mystic (Groton side) seventy-five men have been raised. In the companies in Norwich the additions are coming in rapidly. There are 250 men already enlisted in addition to those who have gone into camp.

> Major General -- Gov. Buckingham has appointed Wm. H. Russell, principal of the Coll riate Institute in New Haven, major-general of the State militia. Isn't this a rather singular Gen. Starr, of this city, to that position?

"The Legislature" never indicated its choice in electing Gen. Starr. In the next place it is not singular that the Governor should not appoint Gen. Starr, who, it is reported, has said he would never go further South to fight than Washington, and would desire to fire one gun toward the North for each one fired toward the north for each one fired toward the South to fight than the Pennsylania Volunteers in the Hospital at New Haven, under your charge. The best defense a commander of troops can ave is his own columns; and the more frequently he leads these to victory over the enemies of his country the less need will there be for newspape defenses. The Camp Ground.

We visited the camp to-day, and found affair progressing in an orderly and quiet manner. The Regiment now numbers full five hundre men in camp, and there is no doubt that at least three hundred men are already enlisted in various owns, who will enter this regiment.

This morning the Committee appointed at the own meeting to disburse the appropriation made o volunteers in our New Haven companies, visited the camp to pay the soldiers their $100 bounty Capt. S. Smith's company was the first that was paid. The men were drawn up in line at Colone Within the last few days a fearful malady has Wright's tent. He addressed them, saying that the bounty they were to receive was intended to make them more comfortable, contented and happy while they were engaged in the service of the country He earnestly recommended them to deposit it i the savings banks of this city, as a fund to be drawn upon in case of emergency, or for the use and bene tion of the system. The payments then were made in the bills of our city banks. The appearance of the men generally while waiting for and after receiving the money was anything but sorrowful. Especially to those who enlisted before the town bounty was voted by New Haven, the present seemed particularly pleas

We can truly say that the appearance of the Lyo-Regiment is at present very good. The men are inelligent, active, and patriotic; the officers kind bliging, and courteous. When once the regiment gets fairly drilled and settled into military life, we shall hope to hear good reports from it.

We will just notice the fact that the camp appear o have several names. The popular name is Camp Lyon; but among the officers of the regiment we have heard it called Camp Aiken and Camp Terry The camp of the Fairfield county regiment is named Camp Aiken. Would'nt it be well, now that the camp has a "local habitation," to give it "a name?"

The people up in Litchfield county are very much troubled by the freedom with which cer- district school-house, lifting the white curtains, tificates are granted by the Assistant Surgeon, The members and their friends of the Universalist Church in this city, had a pleasant pie nic at Dr. Beckwith. Whether the Doctor does really scholars, of all ages, were bending over the grant certificates without cause, we of course do writing, quiet and busy; the voice of the masnot know. It is to be presumed that he intends ter, as he passed about amongst the writers, was to do his duty. But there is a general com-Eight yachts belonging to the New York Yacht to do his duty. But there is a general complaint that men who are able to travel all day nunting, and others who can do more work than any men in the town, have secured certificates and then boasted of it. From all parts of the country wagon loads of people roll into Litchfield to save themselves from a draft. Those who succeed in obtaining the certificates come away relieved from great mental suffering, while their able-bodied neighbors, who don't get certificates, are considerably troubled, as the number of enrolled militia is day by day diminishing. We fear the "examinations are not strict enough. If it was a time of peace and men were exempted by a certificate merely from service at home, it would be of less consequence. But while no man who is unfit for war ought to be placed in the service, it is equally true that no one who is fit for service ought to receive a certificate. A mass meeting of the inhabitants of Tolland ounty was held at Tolland on the 6th. Hon. Loren P. Waldo presided, and speeches were made by Rev. George A. Oviatt, Hon. James Dixon, John H. Brockway, Hon. Charles Chapman, Hon. Dwight Loomis, and Hon. Alvan P. Hyde. Resolutions offered by Mr. Hyde de his place; for, at the close of the school, the claring that the rebellion must be crushed at ing foreign nations kindly to mind their own business, were unanimously adopted. There is quite a stampede of the valiant citi-

The applications for certificates of exemption at Hartford are so overwhelming that Dr. Ellsworth has removed his office to the city hall, and employs two assistants. The following timely article appears as eader in the Philadelphia Press:

That there is an effort being made to create trouble, by arraying the Irish people against the negroes, we are convinced. It is more extensive and wide-spread than many will be willing to believe. It has been long in preparation. Months ago, when a few contrabands arrived from North Carolina, the effort was made, but it failed by reason of the prompt denial of a leading colored man. The Breckinridge papers hroughout the State, and, indeed, in every part of the country, printed the most absurd and malicious stories, and the prospects of a riot be-tween the negroes and laboring men was anxlously canvassed. The feeling is greater now. We have seen it exhibited in Brooklyn-we have seen the infamous attempt of Democratic politicians to excite the same disturbance in Harrisburg. We know that great efforts have been made to excite the same feeling in Phila-delphia. We have heard Fernando Wood flippantly recommend the scattering of Congress by he bayonet; every day we hear violence recommended and suggested, as the surest way of advancing a certain political sentiment or repres sing an opposite political opinion. This familiarity with crime and tyranny, and treason, is in itself a fearful thing. It is the most efficient, and at the same time the most terrible, way of stimulating popular excitement, and directing it against the country. It may bring anarchy, and street warfare, blood, death, and arson; but these are secondary matters compared with the ambition and desperation of the islovalists in the North. The Irish citizen should read our local history before listening to the counsels of the men who are endeavoring to incite him to deeds of vioence. He has reason to know what mob rule s. He has been time and again the victim of a prejudice as ungrounded and heartless as that which is felt towards the negro. Not many years ago the streets of Philadelphia were rowded with an angry and infuriated mob, oreathing death and violence upon the Irishman; mobbing him in the street; murdering authorities to cause the suspension of busines him on the highway; burning his churches desecrating his convents; and committing to the flames the emblems and archives of his religion. These are things for the Irishman to remember-and we speak of them boldly and frankly, because we stood by the oppressed forigner when the oppressors were American citzens, and have defended him consistently during our whole career. Let the Irishman do Capt Brooks was captured. Our force burned nothing to rouse the feeling of 1844. He is in the house of the rebel who led them into this no peril. No one menaces his labor; no negro as taken a place which a white man held there are few, if any, negroes arriving from the slave States. General HUNTER informs us that, although he offers the negroes passes to go North whenever they are requested, but few day morning nearly 30 applications for enlistapply, the negro naturally preferring to continue in the State of his birth, amid the associations of his childhood, with the friends he has nade among the acres his labor has titled. It is, therefore, criminal to do anything to wards embittering the feeling between the negro and the foreigner. Any attempt to bring the pike into our cities will be terribly punished. This country is large enough for all men now inhabiting it. We have upon these shores three races, the red, white, and black. They must live here, and humanity would demand that they be permitted to live as happily as possible. The fields of labor are wide enough for all. The honest white man will have an right to earn it is as indisputable as the right | Pillow and Donelson. of any man on the earth. Those who proclaim nassacres as a reward for honest ambition and

It was a warm summer afternoon; a lazy breeze stole through the window of a little hot and rustling the leaves of the copy books that tle, light, hot school-room has its heroes.

The bell rings for the writing to be laid by and now comes the last exercise of the day, the spelling, in which nearly all join. At the head of the class is a delicate little girl in a blue dress, whose bright eyes and attentive air show that she prizes her place and means to keep it Presently a word, which had passed all the lower end of the class, came to Eunice. The word was privilege. "P-r-i v, priv-i, privil-e-g-e, lege, privilege," spelt Eunice. eacher, vexed with the mistakes of the other end of the class, misunderstood, and passed it. The little girl looked amazed, the bright color came into her cheeks, and she listened eagerly o the next person, who spelt it again as she had

"Right," said the teacher; "take your place." "I spelt it so," whispered Eunice, partly to the tears springing to her eyes as she passed down. But, too timid to speak to the master, she remained in her place only deter-mined soon to get up again. But her trials were ot vet over.

Many expedients had been tried in the school o keep out that arch enemy of all teachers-Whisper. At length the following plan was adopted:-The first whisperer was put on the floor in front of the teacher's desk. Here he acted as a monitor; as soon as he detected another, he took his seat, and the next offender kept a sharp lookout to find some one to keep scholar who had the whisperer's place was punwhatever cost, pledging men and means from ished very severely—as the school phrase was, "took a furling!" This plan appeared to operate very well; every one dreaded being found derly school, many of the parents doubted its Chapel street.

The boy who was on the floor when Eunic lost her place, was an unruly, surly fellow, who had smarted for his faults often before; and a school drew near its close, he began to tremble The instant Eunice's whisnered complaint ord propose to give a complimentary banquet reached his ear, his face brightened up; he was safe now; and when the class was dismiss he said, "Eunice whispered, sir."

Eunice rose, and in a trembling voice related what she had said: but the teacher saw no excuse in it, and she was called to take the place of the ungenerous boy who had told of her. Books had been put away, and the waiting school looked on in sorrowfulness, as Eunice left one felt that it was unjust; and many angry me to establish the second." glances were cast at the boy who was mean enough to get a little girl punished. Overcome with shame and fear, she stood by the side of the desk, crying bittterly, while the teacher was

At this moment a tall boy stepped out of his seat, and going to his desk, said : "Are you going to punish Eunice, sir?" "Yes; I never break my rules," the teacher answered.

"We will not see her beaten," said the boy in an excited voice; "there is not a boy here but that one, that would see her punished Beat me, sir, and keep your rule, if you must; The master paused; the school looked

"Do you mean to say you will take her pur shment?" asked the teacher.

"I do, sir," was the bold reply The sobbing little girl was sent to her seat and, without flinching, her friend stood and received the punishment that was to have fallen on her. The school was dismissed; and the boys paid him in admiration and praise for all ne had suffered, while the grateful little girl blessed him from her heart for a noble and generous boy, who had saved her from the great shame and suffering .- Christian Register.

This little song will pass into the hearts of patriots like a breath of inspiration: HOLY LAND.

I.
Is there a Holy land no more—
A land unsmitten by the shame
Of Kings, and crafts, from shore to shore—
Where manhood is the sovereign name?

II.
Oh! thou wild eagle of the crag,
If such a land was ever known,
Her symbol is a starry flag—
It is our own! it is our own!

III.
Our Own! there is no land like thee! And never-never was of yore; On field, and flood, the soul is free-

The dearest boon that thou canst give,
Oh Father, under thy bluesky,
Is in a land like this to live—
And in her sacred cause to die!

The Late Reconnoisance. OTHER MOVEMENTS AT HAND.

The reconnoisance of Monday night has resulted very favorably. Our troops drove in the rebel pickets early Tuesday morning, and the fight immediately commenced, which lasted between two and three hours, and resulted in the [General Orders, No. 96] Federals taking possession of Malvern Hill, days to come. The fighting and capture of Malvern Hill was done by artillery and our loss was small, only 20 killed and wounded. The robel loss is more than the completion of their organization as companies, the bounty of fifty dollars provided for in the act of the General Assembly, approved July 10th, 1852. rebel loss is much greater. One hundred cavalry, men, horses and equipage complete, were captured, and one small battery. We may expect this move to be followed up with the greatest activity, as it is considered a move of much importance. Col. Gamble of the 8th Illinois is Hartford County Jail. Paragraph 2 of General Orders among the wounded. Other names of the killed and wounded we have not vet been able to obtain. A list of the sick and wounded may be expected in a day or two from returned Richmond prisoners. THE EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS. The 3,000 rebel prisoners from Forts Warren and Delaware, went up the river from Harrison's Landing Tuesday night. A flag-of-truce boat accompanied them, which returned Wednesday evening, and reports the change is being made satisfactorily, and that the same number of Union prisoners from Richmond may be expected down the river in a day or two, and that the requirements of the Federal Government in regard to exchange, have been strictly complied with, which is understood to mean the release of Col. Joe Hooker on the Field. One of the colonels in the army of the Poto mac tells the following story of Gen. Joe Hocker of Massachusetts: "The neatest affair have seen in this war was Hooker's fight of the 25th on the Wilhamsburg road," he incidentally remarked: "Hooker is the handsomest officer in the army," said I. "Handsome You have a cool way of damning with faint praise. I say he is the best division general in this army. I saw that affair of which I was speaking, although my regiment was not engaged. Just as I rode up to Hooker—he was sitting on a white horse in a perfect storm of bullets-an officer asked him, 'How goes the day?' Cool as the White Mountains, and just about as immutable, speaking very quietly, like need to bluster, he said, 'My hand is all trumps; I swung that left bower (meaning Sickles), and have just played the king, (indicating some reg. iments disappearing in the woods.) The ace hold back for the last trick. I happen to know the right bower is not out!' Hooker plays the game of war as well as they do euchre on Mis ssippi steamboats."
