NIGHT THOUGHTS

By

Ronald Hatak

I sit and listen to the midnight rain
And think of you, my friend
As we gather to play cards, or talk
Or just stand and dream
We are caught up in a world of our own
And I wonder.....
Can we all relate to each other?
Can we give kind words to support the Lonely Ones?

I often wonder
Do you think what you are and who you
ARE....is so important?
We are all here for different reasons
Yet we are all men living together
Inside these grey, bare, walls.....
We are all standing alone in some way or another...
And yet I see sad faces, reaching out
For Freedom.

Can each of you hold your head high,
And speak of who you are?

Be Proud, my friend....You Are a Man...
Open your thoughts, let your beauty of yourself flow out and touch someone....

I give what I have to others
And see many grab a hold.....
And yet there are many who are afraid to let go....

The walls close in on you
Behind steel doors, you shed a tear
You listen to the midnight rain
In the night, you become a child.....
Be not afraid, my friend
Show someone you care
Extend your hand, take hold of life
Be proud of yourself
And show them that you care
They too cry the tears of lonely hours.

Can you say that you need no one?
You know that is a lie.....
We all are in need somehow to reach out
And touch a friend's hand
Don't slap the hand away.....

You each have a special feeling
Something special to add to someone
And I seek to understand
And offer some answers.....

The faces around you are many
But those that need no one, are few
Reach out to your special brother
Ask to share his dreams, thoughts and words with you.....

Be Not Afraid!
He too, cares.....

Don't be afraid to cry
It helps relieve the tensions inside
And sometimes tears can wash away your troubles.....

I can be me, and give a little
Will you also try to help a friend
By being a friend.....?

Night thoughts....whispers.....
Free words jotted on a virgin page
Questions asked, waiting for answers
The midnight rain still falls
So do my thoughts.....

THE FEDERAL BONDING PROGRAM.....QUESTIONS & ANSWERS....Submitted by:Luis Roque

1. What is the Federal Bonding Program?

The Federal Bonding Program is a means by which the Manpower Administration of the Department of Labor offers fidelity bonding coverage to qualified job applicants who cannot otherwise obtain it. It is administered by the State employment service agencies, which have a limited amount of coverage that can be extended to individuals in particular instances. This bonding coverage is available to persons who cannot obtain suitable employment because they have police, credit, or other records which prevent their being covered by the usual commercial bonds. Prospective employers require these bonds to protect themselves against loss from infidelity, dishonesty, or default.

2. Why was the Federal Bonding Program initiated?

Many ex-offenders return to crime because their prison records prevent them from obtaining the bonding coverage that certain jobs require. Evaluation of the Department of Labor's experimental and demonstration bonding projects that have been initiated over the last 4 years shows that they have greatly increased job opportunities for individuals who formerly could not obtain suitable employment because they could not get usual commercial bonding coverage.

3. What are some further objectives of the Federal Bonding Program?

One objective of the Federal Bonding Program is to stimulate employers and commercial bonding firms to re-examine bonding practices and thus reduce or eliminate barriers to employment that have nothing to do with ability to perform. An effort is being made to gain acceptance by commercial companies of persons who have been bonded under the DOL Program after completion of successful DOL coverage.

4. Where does one go for fidelity bonding coverage?

Either the jobseeker or his prospective employer may seek fidelity bonding coverage at any local office of the State employment service. These offices are found everywhere in the United States and its possessions and territories, including in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Guam.

5. Who is eligible to participate in the Federal Bonding Program?

Bonding assistance may be provided to any individual making direct application through a public employment office. To be bonded under this program, an individual must: A) Be Qualified and suitable for the employment in question. B) Not be commercially bondable under ordinary circumstances.

6. What jobs may be covered?

Many jobs require bonding. However, the employer may state that his bonding company will not cover persons with questionable records. In such circumstances, eligibility for coverage of a particular job under the DOL bonding program is clearly established. Other employers may insist on a bond even though the job involved has not heretofore been covered; that is, they would refuse to employ on that job an individual with a questionable record unless he is bonded. The DOL program will cover such cases if the jobs are those in which irresponsible or dishonest conduct can materially damage the employer and are those that would offer the worker full-time steady work, adequate working conditions and wages, and a reasonable expectation of permanency.

Section 53a-92, is unconstitutionally void for vagueness in that men of common intelligence could not determine the conduct proscribed and is unconstitutionally devoid of standards, all in violation of Due Process of Law guaranteed to a defendant by the Fifth Amendment to the constitutional of the United States, and article 1, of the Connecticut Constitution.

The same act alleged to have been committed by accused, is proscribed three separate criminal statutes, one a Class A felony, C.G.S. sec. 53a-92, one a Class B felony sec. 53a-72 and one a Class C felony, sec. 53a-78. Since the Legislature has not defined to a reasonable degree of certainty the penalty to be imposed as a result of committing the proscribed act, the effect of the overlapping of the statutes is to delegate to the prosecuting attorney the power to set the punishment for the commission of that act. The statute vague, any of the above section of the general statute are therefore unconstitutionally vague, and further, the vagueness has result in an unconstitutionally delegation of legislative authority to the prosecuting attorney.

The Supreme Court has expressly held that "when the law lays an unequal hand on those who have committed intrinsically the same quality of offense....it has made as an invidious a discrimination as if it had selected a particular race or nationality for oppressive treatment. "Skinner V. Oklahoma, 316 U.S. 535, 541(1942).

The legislature, in enacting Connecticut General Statutes section 53a-92, sec. 53a-72, sec. 53a-78 has proscribed different degree of punishment for the same act, without providing any criteria adequately defining the circumstance when one crime should be charged rather than the other. The prosecution. In any of the above statute, has exercised its unconstitutional option charging the defendant with the greater offense.

The factual situation of the case is therefore clearly distinguishable from that presented in State V. Anonymous, supra, Connecticut General Statutes section 53a-92 sec. 53a-72 and sec. 53a-78 are identical as applied to the facts of this case as alleged by the prosecution: identical except as to the penalties provided therein, "and it has been held that a statute which proscribed different degree of punishment for the same acts committed under the same circumstance by persons in like situations is violate of the Equal Protection Clause....(citations omitted.) State Vs. - Pirkay, 203 Ore. 697, 704, 281 p. 2d 698, 702, (1955).

The defendant further contends that since his actions are proscribed by three separate criminal statutes the state should have prosecuted under the statute that provided the least punishment. The United States Supreme Court, in Bell V. United States; 349 U.S. 81, 83 (1955) said:

"It may fairly be said to be a presupposition of our law to resolve doubt in the enforcement of a penal code against the imposition of a harsher punishment".

In the light of State V. Dubina, 164 Conn. 95 (1972) the trend in Connecticut would appear to be to allow the jury to decide under appropriate instruction from the court whether the detention was incidental to the underlying crime. In the present case the court refused the defendant's request to charge on this question. Accordingly, because of the Court's failure to give proper charge, and thereby invade the province of the jury, the judgment must be set aside.

In the instant case, the State's Attorney has chosen one of the overlapping vague statutes. To vest this degree of discretion in the prosecutor exceeds the legislature's authority to delegate its power. The legislature may, though, vest the judge and jury with broad power to determine the punishment to be imposed for a particular offense.....(The above case deal with kidnapping and rape or sexual contact.

Another rainy day, and another fanless football game. Each time these two teams met this year, it was rainy weather. So, you missed a real good game today.... Esposito's team and Gordon's team did big battle today. I say big battle as that is just what it was. And an outstanding game defensively for both teams. Offensively, the line wasn't blocking on either team. Esposito's team did get close a few times to the goal line, but each time the defence got extra tough and stopped them. It would be hard to pick just one or two players out of any of the teams... Defensively, both teams played fine, but there are those who always seem to play a fine game time after time.

The outstanding player for Gordon's team defensively was Middleton. In on most every play himself. Also Middleton got a game ball for his defensive play. I guess that just about gives him the defensive player of the year. I can't see anyone else getting it, but some strange things happen in here.....Anyway, it was a fine game you played, Dade. There were other standouts for Gordon's team also. Players such as Gordon himself, who is always putting out 100% both offensively and defensively.... Then there was Joiner, who played a fine game defensively, and did some hard running. Also Carr, who really was charging. Carr got a bit hurt at the end. I hope you're okay, as you're a fine player. Other standouts for Gordon's team were Syms, who really played a standout game....also Aubin, Clinkscales, Daniels, D'Avera..... Freeman, who always is getting better and better with each game. Manville and Morris played fine at the C.B. possession, but a lack of blocking couldn't get them started.

Now for some of Esposito's players. The backfield was nice, as they are a fine set of backs, Reynolds, Roger Allen, Boo Robinson and Vinnie. These guys were really hanging in there. I say that, as there was very little blocking from the offence line. But, defensively, the team was mean. They kept the opposition in their own end of the field all afternoon. Great standouts today...from the whole defence... But, there were some who were extra tough today. Esposito did play his finest.... game of the year today, stopping everything that came his way. A fine game Vinnie. Another standout was Millage at end. A real strong game from this lad today..... Other standouts were Jones, the big rookie who just keeps getting better every game. Then Allen Reynolds, played a fine game out there defensively, along with Willie Williams, Brockenberry, Keith played a nice game until he got hurt. Hope you're okay Keith, you were missed in that guard slot. Boo Robinson and Roger Allen, and Hendrick took care of their passing game. It was just a fine game defensively by both teams. The final score was 0000 to 0000. The game ball went to Middleton, Esposito, and Millage. You all did a bit extra today, but you all did good defensively.

Last week I forgot to talk about Gates, a fine receiver for Dowdy's team. I'll have to blame it on my bad eyesight, but he caught about four passes himself, and looked real good. Keep up the good work, Gates.

Dowdy's team in First place: 3-0-1.....Esposito's team, second place: 1-2-1 and Gordon's team: 0-2-2.....Next week, I'll have all the final news for you.....

P.S. Johnny Gates came back from an injury to play a fine game today. We sure missed you last week, John.....

The Federal Bonding Program (Continued.....)

7. When is the coverage effective?

Coverage becomes effective immediately when both of these conditions have been met:

- 1. The applicant has begun work.
- 2. The manager of the local employment service office or other authorized personnel of the State agency has certified the bond.

8. What are the amounts and duration of coverage?

The bonds are issued in units of $500.00....Maximum coverage is limited to 20 units ($10,000) per month. Although the bonds have no specified termination date, coverage is usually obligated for 1 year. At the end of that year, the employer will be asked to assimilate the bonded individual into his regular bonding arrangements, drop the requirements for bonding, or make whatever arrangement he can.... provided this does not jeopardize the individual's job. However, if the employer cannot make other arrangements, coverage may continue past that year, the State employment service staff will check regularly, at least every 6 months, to see when the requirement can be dropped.
