FOR CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

To The Editor:

We are students from Vernon Center Middle School. We are studying capital punishment. We feel capital punishment should be allowed in certain situations. We believe that a person who purposely takes the life of another (while in complete sanity) does not deserve to live to commit such a crime again.

We feel that capital punishment rather than life imprisonment should be in our judicial system because taxpayers pay millions of dollars to keep a prisoner behind bars and alive. Capital punishment would save Americans millions of tax dollars every year. This money could then be used for civic services.

Therefore we would like to see capital punishment reinstated.

NO. 24171 - 157 RIDES PRIVATE JET TO JAIL

By Floyd Norris of the Hartford Courant

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) - Former U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell is now inmate No. 24171 - 157 in Maxwell Prison Camp. But his reception indicates that treating him like just every other inmate will not be easy.

to the prison. He said it was "nice to be back in Alabama," and he warned one reporter not to trip in the crush around him.

Marshal James Lunsford said Mitchell "seemed very cheerful" during the ride from the airport.

Superintendent Robert Grunska promises that Mitchell, the highest law enforcement official ever sent to prison in the U.S., will not get any special treatment.

Mitchell, who could be paroled in 20 months from his sentence of 30 months to 8 years for his part in the Watergate cover-up, was quickly processed into the prison after he arrived.

"He ain't nothing but another convict with a number now," yelled an inmate, after Mitchell walked into the minimum security prison here Wednesday, becoming the 25th and last person to go to prison for Watergate related crimes.

"I really believe he can be treated like any other inmate by our staff, probably by the inmate body, and certainly by myself," Grunska said.

But Mitchell's arrival and greeting at the prison was anything but routine. He flew into Montgomery in a chartered private jet plane, then was whisked from the airport in the Cadillac belonging to the U.S. marshal who met him.

Mitchell was assigned a lower bunk in one of the seven airconditioned dormitories, which he shares with more than 40 other inmates. There are six-foot high partitions, but little privacy for a man accustomed to living in a Fifth Ave. apartment.

The reception had been arranged by U.S. Attorney Ira Dement, a Republican named to the post when Mitchell ran the Justice Department. Dement said the transportation was provided "as a matter of courtesy for a former attorney general."

Grunska said Mitchell would be assigned a job in the clothing room, where Charles Colson once worked, or in the business office or educational program.

Mitchell, 63, had little to say to reporters as he strode the 15 feet from the car on chicken-fried steak for lunch, and dined on corn-beef hash. Colson, another former Nixon aide sent to Maxwell, found the food "surprisingly good."

When the totality of the circumstances is considered, particularly that Reilly was inspected and examined within an hour after the murder and no blood was found on either his person or his clothing, the failure to furnish the statements becomes of greater significance. It is highly unlikely that a person of Reilly's size could have committed such a bloody murder without getting blood on him if he caused and inflicted the massive injuries, including an oblique fracture of the right femur and a spiral fracture of the left femur, within a period of two to three minutes.

Some members of the state police now theorize that Reilly drove his vehicle over his mother's legs. Under the established time sequence this would mean that Reilly would have had to drag his mother from under the car, carry her into the house, place her on the floor of the bedroom, and inflict the multiple and massive injuries all within a period of two to three minutes.

The next consideration of this subject matter is whether Mr. Bianchi believed the Finney statements to be exculpatory. It is argued that neither Mr. Bianchi nor Catherine Roraback appreciated the significance of time in this case. In her motion, dated November 7, 1973, Miss Roraback asked whether any exculpatory statements were in the possession of the state and Mr. Bianchi answered by furnishing eight statements, one of which was a statement by Barbara T. Curtis. The sum and substance of the Curtis statement was that Reilly was at the Methodist Church area at approximately 9:30 p.m. If Mr. Bianchi considered the Barbara Curtis statement to be exculpatory then logically the Finney statements would also be exculpatory because they make reference to the fact that Reilly was in the center of Canaan at 9:39 p.m. The intersection of Railroad and Bragg Streets is approximately 700 feet farther from the Gibbons' home than the Methodist Church.

Another important factor to consider in deciding whether Mr. Bianchi withheld exculpatory material from the defense is the actual withholding. In her motion, dated December 21, 1973, Catherine Roraback requested the names of any persons who saw Peter A. Reilly in the center of Canaan after 9:30 p.m. on the evening of September 28, 1973. Mr. Bianchi's file indicated that he objected to this question. His objection was noted by Mr. Bianchi placing his initials alongside the question. In his answer, dated February 4, 1974, he did not divulge this information by furnishing the Finney statements.

At the commencement of the trial, however, Mr. Bianchi did furnish to the defense a list of persons whom he expected to call as witnesses during the trial. Among the names of witnesses on the list were Frank and Wanda Finney.

During the selection of a jury to hear the case, Mr. Bianchi on at least two occasions announced to the jury panel that two of the witnesses he might call to testify were Frank and Wanda Finney.

The purpose of announcing names of witnesses to prospective jurors is to attempt to select a jury which will act impartially and without prejudice.

The simple fact is that Frank and Wanda Finney never did testify.

As indicated early in this report, in response to a question listed on the motion dated November 7, 1973 Mr. Bianchi did furnish to the defense a state police continuing investigation report, the contents of which are revealed in Exhibit "A". It is clear that the names of Frank and Wanda Finney appear in that report.

Although Miss Roraback does not deny the fact that she received this report, apparently she did not appreciate its value, probably because no reference was made in it that Reilly was seen by the Finneys at Railroad and Bragg Streets, as described in the Finney statements. The failure to provide the Finney statements to the defense defies a logical explanation.

The undersigned concludes that State's Attorney Bianchi committed serious and prejudicial error in failing to furnish the Finney statements to the defense inasmuch as these statements were definitely exculpatory. Based on the theory on which the case was tried by Mr. Bianchi, if the Finney statements had been revealed and if their contents were presented to the jury, it is more than likely that Peter A. Reilly would not have been found guilty of manslaughter in the death of his mother, Barbara Gibbons on September 28, 1973.

STATE POLICE

The investigation into the murder of Barbara Gibbons was directed by Lt. James Shay, who assumed command of Troop B in May, 1973. This was his first troop command and he remained in command until August, 1974. He had been with the state police over twenty years and has been involved in the investigation of many major crimes, including several well-publicized homicides. He is described as a versatile, dedicated, hard-working officer with a strong and domineering personality.

On assuming command of Troop B, Shay was of the opinion that the troop was lacking in efficiency by closer supervision, issuing directives and shuffling personnel. Several troopers testified that the morale of the troop was affected adversely by these actions. These comments are made in the hope it will assist in an understanding of the competency of the investigation.

In viewing the body he (Lt. Shay) made an astute observation that at least one wound namely the abdominal laceration was postmortem. He directed the seizure of certain articles on the premises and ordered an examination and inspection of the 1968 blue Corvette.

Lt. Shay then directed his attention to Peter A. Reilly because he was the person who discovered the crime. Because of Reilly's conduct, which was lacking in a display of any emotion, together with his statement that his mother was having difficulty breathing on his arrival, Shay immediately suspected Reilly as the perpetrator of the murder, especially because of the postmortem abdominal wound.

The commander personally examined and inspected Reilly's person and clothing and this inspection was negative as far as blood was concerned. From this point on Reilly was in effective custody.

On the basis of the evidence available on the evening of September 29, 1973 at about 10:00 p.m. there was probable cause to arrest Peter A. Reilly on a charge of murder. There is no indication that Reilly's constitutional rights were violated, even though the interrogation was suggestive at times. The interrogation in Hartford was lengthy in that it lasted about seven hours, and Reilly indicated that he was tired because of lack of sleep. The court, (Armentano, J.), on a preliminary motion, ruled that the tapes of the interrogation were admissible and the court (Speziale, J) during the trial also concurred that the tapes were admissible. At the murder trial the jury was allowed to listen to the interrogation in its entirety and was allowed to consider and weigh Reilly's admissions and the circumstances surrounding them. There were allegation that Peter A. Reilly was not in a proper frame of mind during the interrogation. The police had no duty to obtain a psychiatric evaluation. Although Reilly indicated that he was becoming tired or fatigued during part of the questioning it should be remembered that Lt. Shay did provide quarters for Reilly to rest for about four hours at the barracks.

Many of the so-called admissions made by Reilly were somewhat ambiguous and not firm and definite. Furthermore, before signing his statement Reilly emphasized that Mulhern had failed to include in it that Reilly was not sure of the facts recited in the statement. On Monday, October 1, 1973 he recanted his admissions not only to his attorney but to the trooper who transported him to court in Torrington. Accordingly, it was incumbent upon the police to reexamine the evidence. Although the active part of the police probe continued until the early part of November 1973, one gets the impression that after Reilly was charged with murder the remainder of the investigation was concerned primarily with the elimination of any other suspect. An evaluation of the available evidence, such as the Finney statements, statements of persons attending the youth center meeting, time sequence evidence, lack of blood on Reilly's person and clothing, negative laboratory tests as to sink trap contents, lost wallets and money of the victim and inconsistencies in statements of Reilly, should have caused the police to review their investigation.

The police relied on the polygraph tests as an investigative aid. However, it is clear the tests were used principally to eliminate suspects and to prepare a stronger case against Reilly. The great reliance on the polygraph tests seemed to impede the investigation. The use of polygraph tests in this probe confirms the wisdom of our rules of evidence in prohibiting the admissibility of the polygraph results as evidence. In one instance Michael Farnalee and Sandra Ashner made contradictory statements about the whereabouts of Farnalee on the evening of September 28, 1973.

Both persons consented to take the polygraph test administered by the state police and both were found to be truthful. As a results of those tests and tests given to other suspects, the police curtailed their investigation of those persons in the early stages of the investigation. The failure to investigate other reasonable suspects with the same intensity and vigor as applied to Peter A. Reilly is hard to understand.

Two identifiable prints were uncovered in the investigation, namely, a fingerprint on the side rear screen door and a palm print on the front door. Very little was done to identify the prints. There were several persons in the area who possessed the motivation, capability and opportunity to commit the crime alone or in concert with others. We now know it would have been relatively easy to identify the fingerprints on the side rear screen door, which was not positively identified until January 1976. The person whose print was subsequently identified as the one on the screen door was questioned on the night of the murder and his print was on record at the police barracks during the middle of 1974. It was only because of the insistence of defense counsel that a comparison was made as late as January 1976. The movements and actions of this same individual on the day following the murder and the fact that he left the state on that day for approximately one week should have been investigated with greater effort at the early stages of the probe. While we recognize that Lt. Shay as the troop commander could not and should not be expected to personally question witnesses, the conclusion of the undersigned is that much of the questioning of suspects was cursory and superficial. This is attributed to lack of morale and efficiency. Troopers testified that while they complied with the orders of their superior, they would do nothing further because they were not permitted to voice suggestions or opinions. There appeared to be little initiative on the part of some troopers.

In addition, the commander appeared to be too involved with minute details instead of devoting his energies to supervising the investigation, conducting critiques, and following up on laboratory tests and analyses of evidence. At the time of the murder investigation there appeared to be a lack in organization as to the specialized services and the field forces. For example, the contents of the bathtub were never analyzed and this was not discovered until recently. Former Sergeant James McDonald charged that his investigation into the possibility that the 1968 Corvette was involved in the murder was hampered by the unavailability of finger and palm prints of the victim. He also charged that while he was investigating the automobile phase the Corvette was released in October 1973 without his knowledge. At the inception of the murder trial, State's Attorney John Bianchi was presented with a dilemma. Lt. Shay consulted with the state's attorney and turned over to him all evidence which he considered relevant and material. Included was the medical examiner's report and the autopsy results. The medical examiner's report stated the primary cause of death was exsanguination and aspiration of blood.

This report also indicated that many wounds, including the fractures of both femurs, were caused postmortem. Sergeant McDonald vigorously advanced the theory that the lege were broken by the Corvette running over them. This would mean that the legs were broken antemortem inasmuch as the cause of death was exsanguination of blood which occurred inside the house John Bianchi chose to ignore the car theory with sound reason. Since the dismissal of the charge in November 1976, and after the Governor's directive to the state police commissioner, the state police have pursued an intensive investigation of the car theory in attempting to prove that Peter A. Reilly committed the crime. In order to advance this theory the state of Connecticut purchased the 1968 Corvette from the latest owner, who was located in New York. The tires were also purchased from a different owner. Knowledgeable and experienced officers are of the opinion that it is not likely that Barbara Gibbons' legs could have been broken by someone such as Reilly jumping on her legs. The femur bones are considered the strongest and most protected bones in the body and a powerful blow by some blunt instrument is required to fracture these bones.

In order to prevail on the car theory, the findings of the medical examiner must be rejected. This raises a serious problem and one of concern. The issue raised involves the jurisdiction of the department of the state police and the office of chief medical examiner. In a homicide, which department has the right or should have the right to determine the cause of death and manner of infliction of wounds and injuries? This problem may have to be resolved by the General Assembly. The bitterness and lack of cooperation being in the best interest of the state of Connecticut.

During this probe, both Chief Medical Examiner Eliot Gross and Medical Examiner - Ernest Izumi testified. Dr. Izumi was the medical examiner who filed his report and also performed the autopsy. He testified during the course of the murder trial. He is firmly of the opinion that the legs of Barbara Gibbons were not broken by the 1968 Corvette. His opinion is based on his findings that there was a lack of hemorrhaging at the site of the fractures and there was minimal bleeding in the soft tissues. His conclusion is that these fractures were caused postmortem. Dr. Elliot Gross was asked by Chief State's Attorney Gormley and the state police for his opinion. After consulting with Dr. Harry Gossling, Professor of Orthopedic Surgery at the University of Connecticut Medical School and Dr. Frank Cleveland, a well-known pathologist in Cincinnati, Dr. Gross concurred with the findings and opinion of Dr. Izumi. In detailed reports both Dr. Gossling and Dr. Cleveland concluded that the femur fractures were postmortem although they could not specifically indicate how the fractures occurred inside the house.

The state police have consulted with a non-medical witness as to his opinion. This person is Professor Herbert MacDonell, who has testified extensively in criminal matters. He gave impressive credentials of his expertise in examining physical evidence and in particular blood chemistry. In his report furnished to the state police he indicated that he is not an expert in medical problems and is unable to give an opinion as to hemorrhaging and the issue of postmortem or antemortem wounds.

The state of Connecticut has set up an office of chief medical examiner to assist the state police and other investigating agencies in solving crimes.

In the absence of fraud or other wrongdoing it should be mandatory for investigating authorities to accept the opinion of the medical examiner on purely medical matters. The services of the medical examiner's office should be utilized and accepted by investigating officers. If there is incompetency in any agency it should be resolved by the appointing authority and not by the refusal of another agency to accept the results.

There appears to be no basis for the state police to question or reject the opinion of Dr. Izumi, especially since it has been concurred in by Dr. Gross, Dr. Gossling and Dr. Cleveland, all respected members of the medical profession. The action of the state police in purchasing the 1968 Corvette and seeking an opinion from a person other than one in the medical examiner's office should not be tolerated. The only conclusion drawn by the undersigned is that some state police are determined to vindicate their position that there was no error made in the arrest and conviction of Peter A. Reilly.

Another phase to be considered in connection with the conduct of the state police is that the defendant and his defense team were harassed by the police. There is merit to this charge. Soon after Attorney Daly was retained to represent Peter A. Reilly, he employed James G. Conway as an investigator to assist him. Mr. Conway devoted countless hours in investigating the Reilly matter. Mr. Conway had thirteen years experience in police work in New York City. Around 1956 Conway retired from police work and settled in Rockville, Connecticut. He applied to be a professional bail bondsman, underwent an extensive investigation by the state police and finally was approved. A short time later he applied for a private investigator's license. Again he was investigated by the state police and a license was issued.

After he commenced his investigative work on the Reilly case in the fall of 1974, he was approached by a friend, David Winslow who was a detective at Troop C in Stafford Springs. This detective inquired as to Conway's activities in Litchfield County. When Winslow was originally called to testify about this activity, he stated he could not recall the identity of any person who had called him to inquire about Conway. Later, Winslow requested to testify and he recalled that Trooper Calkins of Troop B barracks had made the inquiry. Conway testified that he was told to stay out of Litchfield County by Winslow, if he knew what was good for him, but Winslow denies that he made this statement.

HOLY BIBLES

There are a great many reasons why people will not read a Bible today. They fear what their friends will say, some friends. They don't know, or don't care to know of the existence of God. If by chance they happen to acknowledge they don't read because they don't understand the language of the Bible.

Not understanding a Bible is not reason for not reading it. It is not valid because there are a number of Bibles today that speak plainly, in the vernacular we speak. The following two Bibles fall into this realm. Both are clearly and beautifully written, and leave no question as to what is being said.

One thing of the OLD TESTAMENT which tunes out all, or most of us, is all the (begots), and the who's who. Since the new testament quite frequently relies on the old as a base of laws fulfilled, you must have a general familiarity with the Old. To have such you must clearly understand it. I have found a beautiful version of the old testament, which can be had if ask around for it. It is, THE NEW WORLD TRANSLATION OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES, first published, in the 40's and updated in the late 60's and 1971. It is clear and precise with footnotes and references on all topics of life as we should read live it. Since the only people to have these versions are the Jehovah's Witnesses, these are the people to seek. They will aid in getting you a copy.

In regards to the new testament, an excellently written Bible is put by TYNDALE HOUSE PUBLISHERS. It is the LIVING BIBLE, PARAPHRASED AND ILLUSTRATED. It uses today's english as a method to make clear that the New Testament isn't a collection of 1500 year old, useless, outmoded laws, inapplicable to today's youth. It reaches you. If you don't think so, ask either, Father Shanley, or Reverend Barber for a copy. I guarantee you will neither be sorry nor the same person when you finish. Your friends say and believe you should be yourself. How, can you be yourself if you want to read a bible but are afraid of what they will think of you or say about you. Forget what they think. Be yourself. Anyway, who's to know if you read a bible at night in your house anyway.

God never allows anything to come into our lives that may not in the end bring blessing to us or to someone else. We should be thankful that, when trials come, He tempers them to fit our own particular needs.

Here is God's promise, "AND WE KNOW ALL THINGS WORK TOGETHER FOR GOOD TO THEM THAT LOVE GOD, TO THEM THAT ARE CALLED IN LINE WITH HIS PURPOSE" (Romans 8:28)

Troubled with affliction that had come to him, a Christian was tempted to complain. Later when the trial was passed, and he could see things in God's perspective, he said, "Fool that I was not to know that the messages of God are not to be read through the envelope in which they are sealed."

Why God Permits trials

Trials test character, which is why God allows Satan to bring trials upon us. The Bible teaches clearly that we are sinners by nature. We all have hidden defects that we need to get rid of, in our preparation for a better world. But we are in danger of failing to recognize them, for-

"The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked: who can know it? (Jeremiah 17:9)

The hidden weaknesses of our characters might never come to light if we were never tested. We might never recognize our need of Jesus Christ in daily living, if trials, troubles, and sufferings never crossed our paths. God is looking for characters that have stood the test. We may have to be put under pressure, under strain, and on the stretch to prove ourselves, but in it all, we may rejoice, that in Jesus, "we have not a High Priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin. (Heb. 4:15)

It is possible for others to be blessed by our trials. How much easier it is to sympathize with someone who is ill, if we ourselves have had a similar illness. It helps us to "feel his feelings" and to do or say just the thing that will give him the most comfort and help. Because of our own experiences we are able to understand why a brother has fallen under trial and temptation. Were we never in difficulty, how would others see what God can do in developing saintly patience?

Trials shape character. We may shrink under severe testing, or we may grow. In God's plan, we grow most in life's darkest hours. The best in us is put to the stretch. In this way our faith is given exercise, and thus strengthens. According to (Heb. 2:10), we can develop character when trials come if we relate to them correctly, "FOR IT BECAME HIM, FOR WHOM ARE ALL THINGS, AND BY WHOM ARE ALL THINGS, IN BRINGING MANY SONS TO GLORY, TO MAKE THE CAPTAIN OF THEIR SALVATION PERFECT THROUGH SUFFERINGS."

If we but hold fast our faith in God, under the fiery trials that come, our saddest moments may be our times of greatest spiritual and moral growth. God gives us grace sufficient for our needs if, in our weakness, we call on him for help. Jesus promises to be with us in every trial - "But now, thus saith the Lord which created thee, fear not, for I HAVE REDEEMED THEE, I have called thee by thy name, THOU ART MINE, when thou passest through the waters, I WILL BE WITH THEE: and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee: when thou walkest through the fire, thou shall not be burned; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee." (Isaiah 43:1-2).

Trials teach us obedience. The importance of obedience is learned by experience. The Psalmist says, "Before I was afflicted I went astray: But now I have kept thy word.... It is good for me that I HAVE BEEN AFFLICTED; THAT I MIGHT LEARN THY STATUTES." (Psalm 119: 67,71) Our difficulties are often the result of our foolish explorations. We learn obedience. How often we read of a wayward son returning to God after he has been bruised and battered by sin. Perhaps his trials and sufferings were the only way he could learn to be obedient. Yet we should not sin to find out how badly it will sting us, for the sting of sin brings death in the end.

Jesus went through every kind of trial and suffering, so that he would understand by experience, how a man can become obedient through such suffering.

THE NEW LIFE

We read of Jesus as one - " who in the days of his flesh, when He had offered up prayers and supplications with strong crying and tears unto Him that was able to save him from death, and was heard in that He Feared; though He were a Son, YET LEARNED HE OBEDIENCE BY THE THINGS WHICH HE SUFFERED, (HEBREWS 5: 7&8)

The wise man once commented on this means of teaching obedience: " He that spareth the rod hateth his son, but he that loveth him chasteneth him betimes." (Proverbs 13:24). The word of God reminds us that our afflictions are sometimes for the same purpose: " My son, despise not thou the chastening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of Him: FOR WHOM THE LORD LOVETH HE CHASTENETH, and scourgeth every son whom He receiveth." (Hebrews 12:5&6)

Our trials turn us to God. Since troubles often awaken men to their need of God, small wonder that He sometimes allows them to come in order to turn our faces toward Him. " Hungry and thirsty, their soul fainted in them. Then THEY CRIED UNTO THE LORD IN THEIR TROUBLE, and He delivered them out of their distresses. And He led them forth by the right way, that they might go to a city of habitation. Psalm 107:5-7. Although God does not bring troubles upon us, for this is the work of Satan, God often uses them to lead us to Him. But whether or not we help manufacture our troubles, they are all the result of sins. We live in a sinful atmosphere that will not allow the christian, to relax, except he find that special inner peace which is Jesus Christ in us. Then even though Satan tries His hardest we need not be shaken, for we can know that God is in control even when things seem darkest. Job learned this complete trust through the troubles that came to him. Satan made Job think that God was responsible from the trouble, but Job clung to his knowledge of God's love and declared, " though He slay me, yet will I trust in Him." Job. 13:15. Satan can go no farther with his destructive plans than God will permit. God allows only that which will shape our characters in His image. He has assured us that, " There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: But GOD is faithful, who WILL NOT SUFFER YOU TO BE TEMPTED ABOVE THAT YE ARE ABLE, but will with the temptation also make a way of escape, that you will be able to bear it" 1 Cor. 10:13.

Someday all the perplexities of life's experience will be made plain. Where to us have appeared only confusion and disappointment, broken purposes and thwarted plans, will be seen a grand overruling, victorious purpose, a Divine harmony. The Apostle Paul recounted his stripes, stonings, shipwreck, His perils from criminals, mobs, heathen, the wilds and the sea. He looked back on a life of constant conflict and great affliction, but He looked forward with courage as he thought of the crown awaiting him.

He wrote, " For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory", - 2 Cor. 4:17

Thank God, that in His great love for you, He " tempers every wind that blows". " Sometime when all life's lessons have been learned,....we shall see how all God's plans were right, and how what seemed reproof, was love most true. Let us have faith in God, for, " No good thing will be withheld from them that walk uprightly." Psalm 84:11

EMPTY CHAIRS AND VACANT PLACES,
SOON WILL FILL WITH OTHER FACES.
NEW WILL COME WHERE OLD HAVE GONE,
ETERNAL CHANGES GO ON AND ON.

All that you touch
 And all that you see
 All that you taste
 All that you feel
 And all that you love
 And all that you hate
 All you distrust
 All you save
 And all that you give
 And all that you deal
 And all that you buy
 Beg, borrow, or steal
 And all that you create
 And all that you destroy
 And all that you do
 And all that you say
 And all that you eat
 And everyone you meet
 And all that you slight
 And everyone you fight
 And all that is now
 And all that is gone
 And all that's to come
 And everything under the sun is in tune
 But the Sun is Reclipsed by the Moon.....

THOUGHTS

I'M FREE

In my mind I fear no one
 BUT yet, I'm deeply scared of something
 As my mind dreamly puts out thoughts of Peace and love, I only wish for everyone
 To understa; that's what makes the world
 Go around. Written by Chuck Doszpoj

My Prison home is cold and grey,
 And made of rock and steel;
 It's filled with tears both night & day,
 With little Love to feel.
 The sick and sad and broken men,
 Who suffer here with me;
 Cannot recall the moment when they,
 Were so gay and free.

" LOVE "

I do beleive that God above,
 Created for me to Love.
 He picked you out of all the rest,
 Because he knew I'd Love you best.
 I had a heart and it was true,
 But now it's gone from me to you;
 Take care of it as I have done,
 For you have two and I have none.
 If I get to heaven and you're not there,
 I'll write your name on the golden stair;
 If you're not there on judgemwnt day,
 I'll know you went the other way.

They can't recall the trees and flowers,
 Nor Sun, nor Stars, nor Moon;
 Barb-wire and high forbidding towers,
 Shut out all but the doom.
 Yes, I am happy and I am free,
 Tough tombed within this hell;
 For the thought of being with you again,
 Is still heaven, even though I'm locked
 In this cell.

Written By: Larry Hunstman

I'll give the angels back their wings,
 Golden hearts and everything;

And just to prove my Love to you,
 I'd go to hell to be with YOU!!!

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, The Merciful; Peace and Blessings upon His Servant and His Messenger, forever, Amen. There is no Gog but Allah; Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah.

WHAT ARE YOU.....? WINNERS OR LOSERS?

A Winner says, (let's find out); a loser says, (Nobody Knows). When a winner makes a mistake, he says, (I was wrong); when a loser makes a mistake, he says, (It wasn't my fault). A winner knows how and when to say Yes and No; a loser says, Yes, but and perhaps not, at the wrong times for the wrong reasons.

WHAT ARE YOU?

A Winner goes through a problem; a loser goes around it and never gets past it. A winner makes commitments; a loser makes promises. A winner shows he's sorry by making up for it; a loser says, " I'm sorry, but does the same thing the next time.

WHAT ARE YOU?

A winner paces himself; a loser has only two speeds: hysterical and lethargic. A winner explains; a loser explains away. A winner feels responsible for more than his job; a loser says, " I only work here." A winner says, " there ought to be a better way to do it;" a loser says, " that's the way it's always been done here."

(THINK ABOUT IT - WINNER OR LOSER)

EMPATHY UPFRONT

This is to the brothers in population whose knowledge of Empathy House is vague or has been disollutioned. I feel it is my obligation as one brother to another to try and give you a better understanding of how this house is organized from a personal point of view.

To begin with, it is not a house of weaklings, it is contrary to this. To me it is a place where people from different environments come together to try to gain a more profound understanding of themselves. Where Blacks, Whites, Spanish and any race conceivable strive to understand themselves, and set aside their prejudices so that they may work together towards positive goals rather than get hung up on negatives.

It is a place where one is able to express himself to concerned individuals without the fear of being laughed at. Where one can reconstruct all of his negative resources into a positive force, thus better preparing himself for the obstacles in his environment once he is relwased from the confines of incarceration.

It is a place where one learns to deal with his emotions, for he is constantly in-touch with them. Within this house I have learned to deal with the problems that I have, for so long, ran away from. There is a sense of accomplishment I feel within myself and I know as my stay here continues, so will this Beautiful feeling.

All a brother needs is the desire to change his life-style and he will find our door always open to him. I've found that life isn't one failure, all it takes is alittle effort on one's part.

Dicen que lo negro es triste,
yo digo que es mentira,
porque negro son tus ojos,
y son la luz de mi vida.

Un amor verdadero,
a de ser como la sangre,
que siempre acude a la herida,
sin esperar que lo llamen.

Si verte fuera la muerte,
y no verte fuera la vida,
prefiero la muerte y verte,
a no tenerte y tener vida.

El amor que puse en ti,
fue limpio y verdadero,
y aunque tu ya me olvidastes,
como siempre yo te quiero.

By: Carlos Rivera:

El amor,
al contrario que el dinero,
cuanto mas se da, mas se tiene, cuanto mas generoso, es mas grande
y mas hermoso.

Amor,
es saber sacrificarse y buscar ser comprendido,
no es buscar ser perdonado, sino saber perdonar,
no es buscar ser alegrado, sino saber alegrar,
no es buscar ser amado, sino amar.

Amor,
es dar felicidad y apreciar al ser querido,
si no quieres sufrir, no ames,
pero, si no amas, ¿Para que vivir?

By: Carlos Sotomayor:

El dia que no te veo,
para mi no sale el sol,
y si sale no me alumbra,
como me alumbra tu amor.

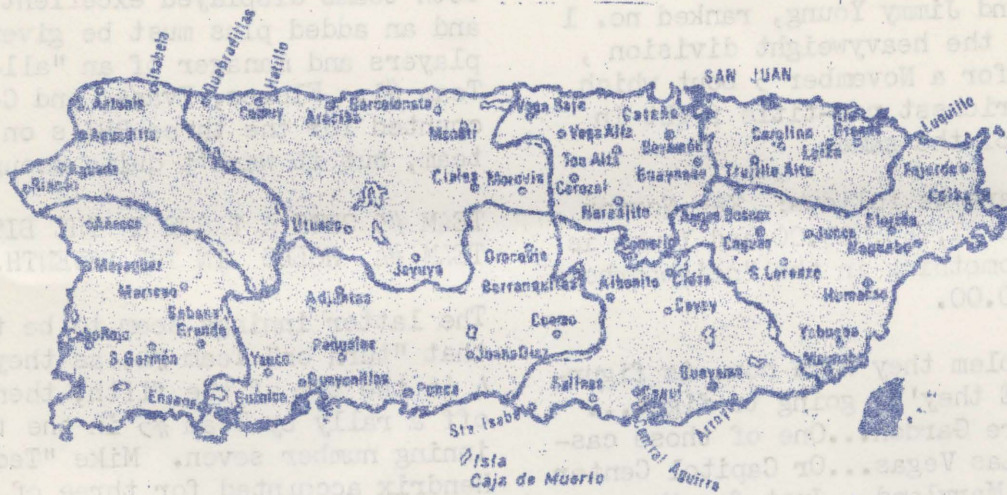

Dijistes que me querias,
y cometistes un error,
tan solo me deseabas,
y el deseo no es amor.

PUERTO RICO

(HISTORIA DE PUERTO RICO)

La Geografia indica que Puerto Rico es una isla de formacion reciente creada por un cataclismo geologico que lanzo del continente al mar rocas ciclopeas y tierras con las que se formaron una serie de islas en el mar Caribe.

Puerto Rico es la menor y mas oriental de las llamadas Grandes Antillas. Cuba y Haiti-Republica Dominicana completan este grupo. Puerto Rico o Borinquen es una isla montanosa cuyas alturas suben desde la costa hacia el centro donde el cerro puntas, su cumbre mas elevada tiene 4,389 pies de altura. Su sistema hidrografico, aunque no es util para la navegacion proporciona riegos de abundantes y es aprovechable para la industria. El Rio Grande de Loiza es la mayor de sus corrientes. La tierra es fertil; 2/3 de la isla son cultivables. El clima es tropical maritimo atemperado por los vientos del mar y las montanas; la temperatura casi constante es de 70 a 80 grados F.

Geology indicates that Puerto Rico is an island of recent formation, product of a seismic cataclysm which thrust cyclopean masses of rock and land from the continent into the ocean, to form a string of islands in the Caribbean.

Puerto Rico is the smallest and most easterly of the so-called Greater Antillies. Cuba and the island shared by Haiti and the Dominican Republic, complete this group. Puerto Rico, or Borinquen, is a mountainous island whose peaks increase in altitude from the coast toward the center, where the Cerro Puntas, its highest summit, rises 4,389 foot above sea-level. Its hydrographical system, though useless for navigation, supplies abundant water and is susceptible to industrial exploitation. The largest of its rivers is the Rio Grande de Loiza. The soil is fertile and two-thirds of the island is arable land. The climate is maritime tropical, tempered by winds from the sea and the mountains. The temperature is almost constant between 70 and 80 degrees Fahrenheit.

NATIONAL NEWS.....

NORTON AND YOUNG SIGN TO SEE WHO GETS A SHOT AT ALI...

Ken Norton and Jimmy Young, ranked no. 1 and no. 2 in the heavyweight division, have signed for a November 5 bout which will be the richest non-title fight in the history of the game.

The figures are as follows: Ken Norton is guaranteed $1,750,000.00 and Young is guaranteed something in the "neighborhood of $1,500,000.00.

The only problem they have now, is figuring out WHERE they're going to fight... Madison Square Garden...One of those casino jobs in Las Vegas...Or Capitol Center in Landover, Maryland. Just for the records, Young favors Capitol Center and Ken favors the bright lights of Vegas...

NATIONAL LEAGUE DOWNS AMERICAN LEAGUE 7-5 IN ANNUAL ALL-STAR CLASSIC...

The "House that Ruth built" got a face-lift to the tune of untold millions, but The National League All-Stars could have cared less about its legends.

Starting Pitcher Jim Palmer was in trouble from pitch 1 as lead-off batter (7 years in a row) Joe Morgan stroked the former Cy Young winner for a home-run in the top of the first. By midway through the contest the score was 5-0 on homeruns by Garvey, and Luzinski. When the American League came up in the bottom of the ninth, the score was 7-3. George "Boomer" Scott hit a 2-run, 400-foot, opposite field shot to right field, but it was too little...too late. Final tally Nat's 7 - American - 5.

(And now for the latest from the local scene...we give you Tony E Price, sports-writer Emeritus, and part-time scorekeeper)

TEAM #1 TRIES DESPERATELY, BUT LOSES TIGHT GAME TO TEAM # 3....5 to 3.....

Team #3 knew they couldn't afford to lose another game if they wanted to catch first place Team # 4, so it was back to basics...

Vigliotto, Carr, Shannon, Guest and "Old Reliable" Joe Jackson, accounted for the 5 RBI's, but in a 5-3 softball game, you know there's a lot more to be said about a low-scoring game such as this.

Under threatening (pitch black) skies, both teams displayed excellent defense, and an added plus must be given to the players and manager of an "all-new" Team #1. Flores, Evans, and Carmen accounted for the three RBI's on their team, but it wasn't quite enough.

TEAM #5 GETS A TASTE OF THE BITTER AS TEAM #4 HOLDS IN THE SEVENTH.....

The latter innings seem to be the ones that "turn on" Team #4, as they scored 4 in the top of the fifth, then staved off a rally by Team #5 in the top of inning number seven. Mike "Teddy Bear" Hendrix accounted for three of the RBIs and was on the receiving end of the no. 1 defensive play of the game. With one out in the fourth, Team #5's Joe Adintori came to bat, and hit a shot to left field, that Cliff Drye misjudged. Drye had trouble finding the handle, and Adintori was not about to stop at second base. Drye threw a waist-high strike to cut-off man Cee Knight, who in turn did the same to Mike Hendrix. Adintori was out...and a possible score was erased. Littman, Drye, Perez, Dick Knight, and Cee Knight accounted for the other runs, and Team $ watched Team #4 pull another one out of the fire... 11 to 10

TEAM # 5 DRUMS A FAILING TEAM # 2 BY A 11 to 5 MARGIN.....

Second baseman Hernandez had no less than 4 RBI's in this rout, and Adintori Rivera(2), Vasquez, Iagulli (2), and Mal comb accounted for the other seven.

It seemed to be no contest, but we do have to wonder how the team with the highest team average, slugging average, and in case it makes a difference, the top individual hitter in the league, is floundering in last place. There were 5 errors made by Reinoso's team, which isn't an awful lot. But it seems they always come at critical times. (like the second inning right in the middle of a six-run rally. Richton, Sotomayer, Kolsin and Graziani had 1 RBI each, and Otis Gordon scored on an error after hitting a double, but it wasn't enough.

At that point, there was only one game left in Round #3. This would pit first place Team #4, piloted by Stanley Roberts and his able-bodied assistant Paul MacDonald, against the fast-closing Team #3 which is currently under the reins of "Kojak" Cruz. Both teams were undefeated in round #3, and Team 4 was in first place with a 8-3 record. But Team 3 need only this victory to even it up, as they sported a 7-4 record. It was going to be the power of the long-ball hitting Team #3 - Jackson, McNeil, Cruz & Carr, against a balanced attack of single hitters (#'s 1-10 in the batting order) and an occasional burst of power from the likes of Hendrix Syms, Dick Knight, & Rico Littman. This team also sports the No. 2 man on the RBI list for the league, Cee Knight. (Who) He was going into this game batting .541, with a total of 17 RBI's. On the defensive side Team 3 boasts the premier 3rd baseman in the league, Joe Jackson, while Team #4 has the best all around infield with Syms at 1st, Perez at 2nd, Hendrix at 3rd & Cee Knight at shortstop. In the outfield of #3, there's Carr in centerfield, and Cruz, with the shotgun arm, in left. For #4 it was Littman, Drye, Dick Knight, and Sanderson, all sound, basic ball players. Huckaby and Roberts were the opposing hurlers with McNeil and a much-improved Carlton Bailey calling the signals. Umpires Tony Henderson, Al Forbes and Art Paquin took to the field, and it was time to play ball. First place was at stake, and all the pre-game betting (tsk-tsk fellas, now that's against institutional regulations!) was over. And this is the way it went...

Drew lead off, and drilled one, eye-high at 3rd baseman Mike Hendrix, who knocked it down, but couldn't make the throw to Syms. Huckaby then came up and hit a high hopper over the pitcher's mound. Shortstop Cee Knight picked it up on the next hop, stepped on second base, then did something we are all used to from this aging nut. Being off-balance, he threw the ball to Mark Syms to complete the double-play, but he threw it on the ground!!! The next man flied out, and Team #4 took to the offensive.

Carlton Bailey (who used to bat 9th in the batting order) led off with a single. Rico Littman Flied out, then Perez sent one to the gap in right-center. Bailey scored, but Perez was out at the plate on a perfect throw from the cut-off man. It was now 1 to 0, and that's the way the first inning ended. Team #3 got their lead-off batter on (Carr) and they looked like they meant business. McNeil then popped up to the pitcher, and that set things up for the hard-hitting Joe Jackson. He caught a low-outside pitch, and drilled it down the third-base side. It took a high hop over Hendrix' head, but Cee Knight (On Hendrix's advice) was deep in the hole. He gloved it, gunned it to Perez for one, to Syms complete the second double play in as many innings.

In inning #2, it was Syms and Drye starting things off with a single apiece. Then it was the Knight Boys, Dick and Cee, coming on for 3 RBI's. Dick got 2 with a booming-triple, then Cee sent him across with a line drive single to left. That's the way the inning ended, but in this game, things had just begun.

Team #4 scored one time in the 3rd and again in the fourth, but in the fifth, Team # 3 unloaded. Jackson started the inning with a walk, but was forced on a heads-up play by Mark Syms and Cee Knight. Cruz then sent a shot down the leftfield line that Drye miscued on. Cruz scored, and before the inning was over Drew had knocked Guest and Theriault across, and the game was now tied.

Team# 4 failed to score in their half of the fifth, and Carr made things hard by leading off the sixth with a double for Team#3. He eventually scored on a McNeil Sac fly, but the "meat" of #4's batting order, Hendrix, Syms, Drye & Dick Knight, was coming up. It was to no avail...as Hendrix skidded out, and Syms was left stranded on third base.

Team 3 went down, leaving Theriault on 2nd base, and now the stage was set for yet another 7th inning thriller. Mind you, this same Team #4, has won 5 of it's last games, all in the final inning.

Cee Knight was the first man up, and he jumped on Huckaby's first pitch, and sent it screamin' into centerfield. The tying run was on and Sanderson was up at bat. He stroked one to left-center and Knight bailed out, rounded second, and was headed for third. Knight, the ball, and a cloud of dust, arrived at

The same time...The dust cleared and the ball was in the dugout...Knight scored, Sanderson went to third, and there were no outs. Most of all, the score was tied 6 to 6. On the very next play, Jackson snagged a Stanley Roberts ground ball, & caught Sanderson trying to sneak the winning run across the plate. It was then time for Team #3 to make what could be the error of the year. Carlton Bailey hit a flyball to short-centerfield. Short-fielder Daniels and centerfielder Carr evidently got their signals crossed and the ball dropped untouched between them. With men now on first and third it was Perez's turn at bat, and the wily second baseman came through with a shot to right-center, that Carr made a diving attempt at, that scored Roberts with the game winning run. And... Team #3 has yet to beat Team #4. who are now two full games ahead of Teams 3 & 5...

If you want to know what it looks like after the 3rd round...well here it is.

TEAM # 1 UPSETS TEAM # 4 IN 7th * BEGINS

ROUND NUMBER FOUR!!

Team # 1 defeated the die-hard members of Team # 4 11 to 10 in what was a well displayed game with a touch of professionalism by both Teams.

Team # 1 gained control of the game deep in the third inning when Gonzales managed to get on first on an error by rightfielder Tony Kegler, and was followed by Flores with a hard hitting single to put a man on second and first. Fuentes followed by making it to first on an error by firstbase man Mark Syms and Gonzales crossed the home disk for score number one, 13-12. Wingate followed with a double sending two men home for runs two and three in the third inning.

And Team # 4 couldn't get it together in the third after no scores in the first and second innings. Team # 1 score one run in the fourth on a walk by Evans and a sac fly to rightfield by Gonzales.

Team # 4 began to make its move in their half of the fourth, starting off with a Single by Perez and Syms, Hendricks followed with a double to bring the both of them in and Cee Knight stroked a single to bring Hendricks home for the third and only runs in the fourth. Team # 1 bounced back with two runs in the fifth on a single by McCray and Flores with Wingate smashing a triple to make it count.

In the fifth Team # 4 hit the slump again coming up with zero and only scoring one run in the sixth, while Team # 1 rebounded for another three runs on the score sheet. But Team # 4 proved its ability to bounce back with a high hand when the chips are down. In the seventh it was Sanderson who started it off by walking to first with ease and at the top of the batting order it was Carlton Bailey who stroked a single and made it to second on an error by centerfielder Feuntes, Sanderson elected for homeplate to score number 5 run and Perez stroked a double giving Bailey the chance to score number 6. Mark Syms, Mike, Hendricks Clifford Drye, D. Knight and C. Knight put it all together to make it ten runs for Team # 4 with a one point lead over Team # 1. In their half of the seventh Team # 1 flashed back with speed to score the two necessary runs for the victory.

And from Thomas Ford we have the results of "B" DIAMOND ACTIVITIES.....

A.A. DAMPENS JAYCEE'S SPIRITIS - 18 to 16

The A.A.s were red hot Tuesday when they hit the diamond with win number nine written over their faces. Scoring four runs in the 1st, three in the 2nd, 6 in the 3rd, 3, in the fifth, and only two in the 6th, was enough for the Jaycee's to hang their heads down and face yet another defeat,

Angels DOUBLE TROUBLE, But lose

The Angels were aggressive in their game but unfortunately the A.A.s proved to be the stronger team.....

Since I've been down in Empahty House, I've come to realize that I can be just as productive as the next man. For as the old saying goes, " Seek and Ye shall Find." So my brothers, you evaluate the situation you are confronted with and get involved. For if you plant no crops, you Won'T partake in the harvest. " The worst form of fa- ilure is the failure to try."

Remember, it is only you who can direct the course yourlife is going to take. Things that come easy have the tendency to go like-wisr. Give yourself a chance to know yourself and things that surround you. " To Be AWARE Is To Be Alive."
