CHARGED BY LOUIS STEERS WITH TAKING MONEY.

se Before the Lexow Committee tified That He Paid one Thousand liars to Have the Case Against lilm

New York, Dec. 27.-Inspector Williams was again on the stand before the Lexow committee to-day and was subjected to a severe set of questions. During the early session the inspector was accused of theft from a prostitute, which he excitedly denied. He also acknowledged that he had been negligent in not suppressing eighty-three disorderly houses in Wooster street,

In reply to Mr. Goff, the inspector said that he did not think that houses of ill fame in the vicinity of schools had a bad effect on the morals of children and that he took that stand. He remembered having been charged with being in league with panel houses and later admitted that he answered falsely when he testified that he had not heard of a panel house in the Eighth precinct.

The examination of the inspector was then suspended to allow Louis S. Street to be sworn. He said he was indicted on June 20, 1889, for a felony in con-nection with green goods. Witness said that two indictments were found against him. He was not in the business and had no connection with the The witness explained that a man named Edward Beckthold rented an office from him at No. 76 Beekman street. "Anthony Comstock," said he, came to my office a month after and asked me to tell the name of the man I refused to tell, was brought to the Tombs and held in $5,000 bail for making green goods."

Witness further said Beckthold gave his wife $5,000 as bail for me. The ball was finally reduced to $3,000 and Street was released.

"Beckthold told me," said the witness, "he gave $1,500 to Anthony Comstock to square an indictment in the United States court."

Witness also said he went to Europe and when he returned the state court's indictments were still hanging over him. "I went to see Comstock," said he, "and he said he was the only man who could get the indictments dismissed. I called to see Mr. Comstock in in August, 1890, and I paid him $1,000 in cash to get the state court indictments dismissed. If said when he was taking the money: 'l'emember you are not giving me this $1,000 as a bribe, but as a donation to the so-

This testimony orested a sensation in the court room.

"Now, are you sure you paid this money to Anthony Comstock?" swear before God and man I paid him to have the indictments dismissed and to secure my liberty."

Mr. Goff then produced the indictments, which were dismissed in September, 1890, and were signed "C. S." 'Who was district attorney then?' "Colonel Fellowes," replied Mr. Goff.
"Anything else?" asked Mr. Goff.

"Yes sir," replied witness. tried by the United States court. I was convicted and the case is now on

The witness then said that Anthony Comstock made him sign an affidavit which was partly perjury. He also said that Reckthold told him he had naid Anthony Comstock $1,000 and United States Attorney Mott $1,000 to dismiss indictments against him (Beckthold.)

Mr. Goff asked that all that Beckthold had said to Street about Mr. Comstock and Mr. Mott should be stricken from the record. This was

"Have you anything else to say? "Edward Beckthold," replied the wit-"is still conducting the green goods business and he told me he paid Mr. Comstock $1,000 for protection. I have only Beckthold's word for this." Robert Street, a hotel keeper, and brother of the previous witness was called. "Did you visit Anthony Com-stock's office with your brother in August, 1890?" asked Mr. Goff. Yes sir. I saw my brother pay $1,000 to Anthony Comstock. There was an agreement between them to get the indictments dismissed. I gave my brother $300 Street went on to tell about his sec and indictment, but Mr. Goff stopped this, too.

Then the witness said he had written to President Cleveland, confessing all about his relations with Comstock and had received a letter in reply. He was stopped again when he produced the letter, which, he said, was only rom the president's private secretary and was merely an acknowledgment of he one he blad sent. Street started to tell what Judge Benedict of the United States court had done when he heard that Street had written to President too, although Senator Bradley wanted to see the letter.

the police had protected green goods men long ago. "We have now evi-dence," said he, "if the testimony is true, that Anthony Comstock, the president of a private society, has accepted for substantially the same thing as the police accepted it."

That's a pretty heavy indictmen gainst Mr. Comstock, if it is true, said Chairman Lexow.

The last witness corroborated all his brother's story as to the interview with Mr. Comstock. Adjourned.

SYNDICATE IS DISSOLVED.

Sotice to That Effect Has Been Sent Out to New York, Dec. 27.-The banking firm in charge of the government bond syndicate sent out the following notice this afternoon to members: "The action of the United States reasury on currency questions having stopped progress in the sale of bonds for the account of the 5 per cent. bond syndicate, and the period of thirty days mentioned in the notice of November 2 having expired, the syndicate is dissolved.

The agitation about currency reform and the number of peculiar suggestions made by certain government officials and members of congress, it is said, has weakened the market for government bonds generally, and the price for the new fives has in consequence been depressed below the syndicate figure.

Vice President Garland of the First National bank said: "In dissolving the syndicate the par ties to it took into consideration the unsettlement of the market for bonds, due to the offering to congress of the currency plan of Secretary Carlisle where by its provisions would have compelled the national banks to dispose of at least $200,000,000 in bonds on or before July 1, 1895. With such a possible block of bonds to come on the market, the question of continuing the agreement to hold the bonds was not even thought

Mr. Garland said that the amount of bonds which the syndicate intended to dispose of aggregated about $20,000,000.

Murdered By Indians.

St. Louis, Dec. 27.-A special to the Globe-Democrat from Guayamas, Mexico, says that another crime has been committed by a band of marauding Yaqui Indians in the valley of the river of that name, in the western part of the state. They visited the ranch of Julio Cardenas last Saturday and massacred the latter and his entire family, consisting of wife and two children.

Bonds Ready For Delivery.

Washington, Dec. 27.-The Stewart syndicate which purchased the entire second bond issue of $50,000,000, for which it paid $58,338,500 and accrued interest, has so far received only $40,000. 000 of the bonds. The rest are ready for delivery, but have not yet been called for. The bonds draw interest from the date of issue, whether delivered or not, and the treasury bears the expense of the first delivery to the purchasing party.

CHINA SELECTED FOSTER. EX-SECRETARY OF STATE HAS AC-CEPTED THE INVITATION.

He Will Go to Japan and Meet the Plenipotentiar es of China to Aid Them in Their Negotiations For Peace-Will Go in a Private Capacity. Washington, Dec. 27 .- Ex-Secretary of State John W. Foster has been requested by the Chinese government to go to Japan and meet the plenipotentiaries of the former government to aid them in their negotiations for peace. He has accepted the invitation and expects to leave Washington within a day or two, sailing from Vancouver, B. C., for Yokohoma on January 7, unless informed of a delay in the departure of the plenipotentiaries. The Japanese government has been advised of the appointment, and its minister in this city has expressed his satisfaction with it.

Mr. Foster goes to Japan in a purely private capacity, as an advisor to the Chinese plenipotentiary. He has no authority to represent or speak for the United States. Mr. Foster has had an extended diplomatic career, having in addition to being secretary of state in General Harrison's cabinet represented the United States at the court of Spain, and having acted more recently as one of the counsel for the United States in the Bering sea arbitration at Parls. In official circles, where the above announcement became known, it was taken to mean that from now until the peace negotiations are formally begun there will be a complete suspension of hostilities between the armies of Japan and China. It is thought that the Japanese minister on approving the appointment voices the opinion of his government. The immediate effect of the appoint nent will be to delay the beginning of the peace negotiations. Mr. Foster's mission is taken as an indication that the Chinese expect to gain more favorable terms from Japan than has hitherto been considered probable. Until to-day no one has doubted that Japan's ultimate terms had been made definitely known to China, and that China had fully consented to accept the ultimatum without delay.

As Mr. Foster does not intend to sail for more than a week and as the voyage across the Pacific will consume two weeks more nearly a month must elapse before the peace negotiations are fairly inaugurated.

ECONOMICS IN MESSION.

NEW HAVEN CONN., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1894

or Hadley Head a Paper on Popula tion and Capital.

New York, Dec. 27 .- At to-day's session of the American Economic associa tion C. D. Wright, commissioner of labor, made the opening remarks and read the first paper. His subject was the recent Chicago strike, which he described as a "combination of strike and boycott." He reviewed the cause of the trouble and its growth.

A discussion of Prof. Dewey's paper was then held. The fact was brought out very strongly that persons who had lived in the city did not care to go into the country to work.

This afternoon Prof. A. T. Hadley of Yale university read a paper on "Population and Capital." Prof. Hadley said:

"I wish to point out how the use of sociological methods of inquiry has enabled us to connect the discussion of the causes affecting the growth of capital with the study of the Malthusian theory and how the combination of two things has enabled us to present the essential truth of the Multhusian theory in a more guarded, but at the same time, in a more convincing and useful form than is otherwise possible. We find that the institution of the family has taken a share necessarily in the accumulation of capital. For such accumulation, which is socially necessitated we must restrict population and increase production. The first form of the family, known as the matriarchate, restricted population but did not provide for production. The military family, which was the second form provided for the accumulations in the hands of the strongest. The modern family provides for accumulations in the hands of the producers as a class.

"The prudent man or weman who works hard, invests wisely and does not marry till assured of the ability to support a family insures himself and his children against the danger of pressure of population upon subsistence. He lessens his contribution to the national birth-rate and still more conspicuously lessens his contribution to the national death rate. And as more of his children survive in spite of their smaller numbers there is a cumulative effect from generation to generation, by which the and its morality more intellectual.

"It is in these ways that the institu tion of individual capital has proved the best means of accumulating the capital of the community.

"This progress has been marked by a still greater lowering of the death i than before. But it has left certain parts of the population in a state wher they are constantly on the verge of indictment against the modern industrial system? Malthus holds the for-Malthusian theory may be summed up as follows:

(1) A low death rate is a nec for national prosperity. A high death rate means a low average duration of

"(2) Any excess of birth rate over death rate means increased population and, in long established communi ties, increased density of population. When this increase is more rapid than improvements in the arts it means less food per unit of labor, more disease and stoppage of the accumulation of

"(3) The physiological possibilities of the birth rate are so far in excess of the death rate, which is consonant with laws. social prosperity that the improvement in the arts of food supply has not kep peace with this possible excess and cannot be expected to do so. difference must, therefore, be reduced by "preventive checks" to lessen the birth rate. Otherwise the individual is to blame and must expect to see his family suffer the checks of disease and

"The socialistic criticism upon the Malthusian theory may be fairly summed up in two heads:

"(1) There os almost never, in civilized ociety, a present or immediate pressure of population upon subsistence. There is always food enough to go around it t were only distributed.

"(2) If such a distribution were made there is no likelihood of a future pressure of population on subsistence pecause increased comfort is accom panied by a lower birth rate instead

"The last point is erroneous. It is true that as society exists at presen high comfort and low birth rate usually go together, because comfort is made to depend upon prudence. Let the comfort be made independent of prudence, as in the case of English poor aw at the beginning of this century, and the birth rate tends to increas rather than diminish. It may not be equally true as some Malthusians would have us believe that the low birth rate is the cause of the comforts, but it is nuch further from the truth to asser that the comfort is the cause of the ow birth rate. Both are the results of common cause—the exercise of pru dence, which gives high comfort and ble of practicing it; while those who are incapable of so doing have at once high birth rate and lower level

OF INVESTIGATION. Communication From Rev. Dr. Newman

Smyth Commenting Upon the Evidence Brought Out at the Investigation. Following is the report to the board of police commissioners of the committee appointed to investigate alleged irregularities and evils in the management of the city's police force; and following their report is a communication from Rev. Dr. Newman Smyth to the board concerning the testimony given at the recent investigation: To the Board of Police Commissioner of the City of New Haven: At a meeting of your board held on the 10th day of October, 1894, all the members and the mayor being present, charges involving the conduct of one or more of the police commissioners, as stated in the resolutions unanimously adopted by your board, were publicly and formally made to your board against the efficiency of the police force of the city by an association composed of a large number of respectable citizens of New Haven known as "The Law and Order League of New Haven. Whereupon your board unanimously adopted resolutions that a committee consisting of the mayor and two com-missioners to be appointed by him, be raised to "investigate whether there appears to be truth in such charges, and if so the proper method of investigation;" the committee to have power to subpoena witnesses and "to report to the board at such times as they see fit, provided that not less than two days' notice be given."

The mayor appointed Commissioners Prince and Doolittle, who with the mayor constituted the committee which was approved by your board.

And now, said committee having held many meetings, and having heard statements made under oath, by a large number of the police force and other witnesses, beg leave to report as follows:

The expression of opinions as to whether there ought to be or ought not to be any laws in existence against any mode of gambling, against the selling of alcoholic liquors on Sundays or to minors, against drunkenness, immoralination as a whole grows more prudent ty and crime, or against the carrying on of any business or calling considered to be productive or promotive of immorality and crime, is not within the provnve of this committee.

But as such laws, intended for the promotion and well being of the comthe lowering of the general birth rate, munity do exist, and as under the laws it is the duty of the police department and of each and every member thereof which have enabled population, though to be vigilant and active in an enincreased, to live in greater comfort deavor to enforce them, it is within the scope of the investigation ordered by your board to inquire and report to you whether or not the police force of the starvation. Is this to be regarded as a city appears to be vigilant and efficient necessary incident to progress, or as an in detecting the infraction of these laws, unnecessary evil which constitutes the and in arresting the lawbreakers, and in taking them before the courts with the proper and necessary evidence to mer view. The successive points in the warrant their conviction and punishment.

Whether the ends of justice are defeated by neglect to prosecute or by delays in prosecution till the witnesses are absent, or by nolles on payment of costs, thus avoiding convictions that under the laws must be followed by a revocation of licenses, tends to the disouragement of the police force as is alleged in the evidence, is another question that is beyond the province of your committee, except to suggest that if such be the fact it cannot be expected that the members of the force will be zealous in the performance of their duty in connection with the liquor

But within the scope of this investigation are the questions whether anyone, or more, of the members of the police commissioners has used or made it appear that he would use, or lend, his official position or influence, to screen from detection, exposure, arrest or punishment any violators of such laws or of any laws that are within the province of the police department to enforce; or whether any police commissioner now in office has been influenced to do this or to have it appear that he would do it, on account of business interests, and whether he sought the office of police commissioner, or uses or had used such office for the purpose of business gain, by adding to the number of his customers, or holding present customers, through the expectation of their part of the use of his official influence in shielding any customer from exposure or from the lawful penalty for wrong doing, or whether any police commissioner has, for any reason, protected or appeared willing to proect or shield, by the use of his official influence, any wrong doer from such exposure and punishment.

Your committee, therefore, upon the evidence submits the following as its

1. Your committee finds the facts to be as charged, that there has been a lack of vigilance and efficiency on the part of the police in the enforcement of the laws for the prevention or suppression of the various forms of gambling and other vices, and especially in the enforcement of the laws against Sunday liquor selling. But since the beginning of the hearings before your committee and the taking testimony by your committee, there nmendable and success ful activity by many members of the

2. Your committee finds from evidence that there has been a belief of opinion widely prevalent throughout the force, that vigilance and zeal in the enforcement of the liquor laws the police commission or at least no by all members of the commission; that such belief is the main cause of the general non-enforcement of those laws, and has had a seriously disheartening effect upon the police force and lowered the standard of efficiency

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE and the general morals of the force in those directions.

3. As to whether any commissioner has sought position on the board of police commissioners for his busines advantages, or has used or appeared to use, his official position to the hinder ance or discouragement of the police in the enforcement of the liquor law, or has improperly interfered with any policemen in the discharge of their duty, considerable testimony has been taken; and your committee finds the testimony concerning these matters to be of sufficient weight to establish probable cause of action, so that your committee recommends that all the testimony relative thereto be referred by your board to the court of common council for the information of the members of that body, and for any furthe and public hearings which may be had by the board of aldermen on request of any member of either branch of said court of common council, as provided in section 38 of the city charter, in order that the following questions may be passed upon, if that body so decides, by the direct representa tives of the electors of the city: First-Whether, as charged, one or more of the commissioners has sought, or has used, his official position for the purpose of business advantage, and in a manner tending to encourage the infraction of laws.

Second-Whether, as charged, there is impropriety or harm to police efficiency or to public morality in the occupancy of the position of police commissione by a bottler or wholesale dealer whose goods are dealt in by local saloon keep-

4. Your committee finds no evidence of general or systematic corrupt use of money for the purpose of protecting any illicit business, but some testimony has been given before the committee to the effect that disorderly houses are enabled to continue in business by settling in court at intervals sufficiently remote so as not to seriously interfere with their gains.

We find, further, upon the testimony that "tips" and information of intended raids by the police have occasionally been given, but the manner in which such information has been given, and the names of the parties who have given it, require further corroborative testimony. Further vigilance and investigation on the part of the superior officers of the department are needed in orde that the giving of any such information may be prevented in the future.

5. The statements made and the opinions expressed by many officers in regard to the needs of the department for the detection and prevention of orime, and the obstacles in the way of success, your committee would refer to the future consideration of the board.

6. In justice to the police departmen the committee has felt authorized to receive any testimony which might show why responsibility for the failure of law should not be charged to the police but should be properly located elsewhere. Evidence of this nature has been presented, which is serious if not explained away; but on account of unavoidable circumstances the committee has not been able, as yet, to complete this part of the inquiry, and is not a present ready to report any findings in this respect.

J B SARGENT C. E. PRINCE. JOHN A. DOOLITTLE.

Rev. Dr. 5myth's Communication

To the Committee of Inquiry of the Board of Police Commissioners: Gentlemen : - Acknowledging painstaking thoroughness with which our committee has endeavored to follow out every line of material evidence in the matters submitted to you, I beg eave to offer the following review of the evidence which now lies before you. Inasmuch as the testimony in many particulars has gone beyond the infornation which was originally laid before you as a reason for investigation. I shall not now go back merely to the original allegations, but I ask that your findings be brought up to the evdence in the whole scope and importance of it. With regard, however, to the tolerance of policy-writing in this city. I cheerfully drop all former complaints, as the present activity of the police deserves only words of commendation; I ask only that the good work be faithfully continued of driving that poverty-breeding business out of this town, and that any means which experience may show to be needed for that ourpose, be furnished to the police. The fact that there has been, as aleged, a general disregard of the liquor law is established by so much of the testimony that I deem it unnecessary to make particular citations of it. The object of this investigation, as I understand it, will be accomplished, if measures shall result from it for the permanent efficiency of the police and their political independence.

I would submit that in fairness to the police due weight should be given to the following facts in evidence: (1) The safoons employ on Sunday from four to five hundred men as spotters to give notice of the approach of the police. (2) To some extent the police have been discouraged in doing their duty by the failure of the prosecuting agen to prosecute, and the miscarriage of cases in the courts. The prosecuting agent, Mr. McWilliams, was asked by the committee to make some statement with reference to this complaint of many of the police officers; I presented to him also a list of nine nolles and seven discharges, and $160 of accompanying fees in cases recently brought by him: I likewise called his attention to the testimony before you in the case of Mr. Thomas Nugent, in which Mr. Mc-Williams had nolled the original com-

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

RESULTS OF CAUCUSES HELD IN CITY HALL LAST EVENING.

everal Contests in Aldermanic Caucus-MacDonald For President-Hoyt, Hubinger and Morgan the Three Commissions er .- Elect-Other Nominees.

The several republican caucuses were held last evening in the city hall behind closed and locked doors, and the nominations for the several offices were made. The joint caucus was the first one held. This caucus was called to order by Alderman Benham, and Councilman-elect Charles D. Nicoll was chosen clerk. At this point Alderman Blakeslee moved that the caucus be held in executive session and it was so voted.

After the representatives of the press had been excluded, the doors closed and locked, Attorney William H. Ely was nominated for corporation counsel by Alderman Blakeslee, and the nomination was seconded by Councilman James D. Dewell, jr. The secretary, on motion, cast the unanimous ballot of the caucus for Mr. Ely. For assistant city clerk the present incumbent, Edward A. Street, was nominated by Alderman MacDonald, seconded by Councilman-elect Felix Chillingworth, and unanimously elected. Clerk Nicoll casting the ballot. The councilmen then adjourned upstairs and held the councilmanic caucus. At this Councilman E. C. Coolidge presided and Harry D. Grinnett was clerk. Councilman-elect Charles D. Nicoll was nominated for president of the board by ex-Judge Pickett and unanimously elected. Councilman James D. Dewell was also unanimously elected a member of the board of finance and Hawley W. Lincoln page. After Councilman Nicoll had made a speech thanking the councilmen for the honor they had conferred upon him in electing him president, the caucus adjourned.

The liveliest of all the caucuses held was that of the incoming board of aldermen, and during the session there were several spirited contests for places. The session was called to order at 8:20 o'clock by Alderman Henry F. Keyes of the Tenth ward, and Alderman Dr. B. L. Lambert was unanimously elected clerk. The first contest of the evening was that for the presidency of the board. The rival candidates were Aldermen James H. Mac-Donald of the Tenth ward and Dwight L. Blakeslee of the Second ward. To settle this contest four ballots were necessary.

No nominations were made and that aldermen at once proceeded to ballot There were fifteen aldermen present, Alderman Smith of the Eleventh ward being absent in Florida. Alderman Rabanus had paired with him and consequently did not vote. The first in-formal ballot resulted: MacDonald 7, Blakeslee 7. A second informal ballot resulted: MacDonald 8. Blakeslee 6. A. formal ballot was then called for and taken, resulting: MacDonald 7, Blakeslee 7. On the second formal ballot Mac-Donald won out, receiving 8 votes to 6

Next came the contests for the several commissions, and the board of public works was the first taken up. For this commission Nathan B. Hoyt of the Fourth ward was nominated by Alderman Skiff and Joseph Kegelmeyer of the Ninth ward by Alderman Benham. The informal ballot resulted: Hoyt & Kegelmeyer 7. The formal ballot resulted in the selection of Mr. Hoyt, he receiving 10 votes to 5 cast for Kegel-

For police commissioner there were three aspirants in the field, and five ballots were necessary. Joseph E. Hubinger of the Tenth ward was nominated by Alderman MacDonald, W. E. Chandler of the First by Alderman Bromley, and John H. Shaw of the Fifth by Alderman Sanborn. The ballots resulted as follows: First informal ballot, Hubinger 4, Chandler 6, Shaw 5; second informal ballot, Hubinger 7, Chandler 5, Shaw 3; third informal ballot, Hubinger 8, Chandler 5, Shaw 2; first formal ballot, Hubinger 7, Chandler 6, Shaw 2; second formal ballot, Hubinger won, receiving 8, Chandler 5, Shaw 2

Alderman William E. Morgan was elected a member of the fire commission on the first formal ballot. The two candidates were Morgan and Captain Theodore H. Sucher. The informal ballot resulted: Morgan 10, Sucher 4, scattering 1. The formal ballot stood: Morgan 12, Sucher 3.

James H. Parish, Dr. B. L. Lambert and Russell A. Belden were placed in nomination for members of the board of finance, but the latter withdrew his name and the nomination of the first two was made unanimous. Three candidates also popped up for the position of page. They were Hawley W. Lincoln, Alfred Clark and John Conogue. Lincoln easily carried off the plum, receiving 13 votes to 1 for Clark and 1 for Conogue. Alderman James H. MacDonald was chosen chairman of the joint and aldermanic caucus committees for the ensuing year, and the work of the evening was over.

DEATH OF MRS. GEORGE J. LACEY. able Lady and Valued Member of St. Paul's Chu ch.

Mrs. Lacey, wife of George J. Lacey, who has been for more than thirty years an employe of the Winchester Repeating Arms company, died at her home, 42 Goffe street, Wednesday evening after an illness of about six weeks'

Mrs. Lacey became ill with Bright's disease several months ago, and had gradually been failing since. She was fifty years of age and leaves a husband son, Frank Lacey, who is in the west. Deceased was for many years a member of St. Paul's church and was much interested in the charitable work of the parish. She was a member of the parochial society, the sewing school and was chairman of the work committee of the King's Daughters. She had many friends throughout the city, who will deeply mourn their loss.

The Street Pavement Enquiry. Colonel N. G. Osborn, who was appointed by the chamber of commerce on Wednesday evening a member of the committee to consider the best method of paving the streets of the city and means of paying for the same, insisted yesterday on an acceptance of his resignation from the committee. He would have resigned at the meeting only he did not wish to precipitate a series of resignations, as he was told his action might. Colonel Osborn's reasons for not serving are that he does not wish to be placed in the light of booming his own paper through the chamber, and that if he acted on the committee it might hamper his editorial line of operations on the subject in question. These reasons were stated o President Sperry of the chamber, who yesterday appointed on the committee George W. Lewis, of the firm of Lewis & Maycock, in place of Colonel plaint, and then allowed Mrs. Nugen to appear on a substituted warrant as a vicarious offering for the salvation of her husband's license; but Mr. McWilliams refused to answer any question which approached "the territory in which he was personally concerned. In the absence therefore of any explanation from the prosecuting agent, the complaints of the police, to which his attention was courteously called, remain unrebutted. I beg leave, accordingly, to suggest that all the portion of the evidence relative to the prosecution, or rather non-prosecution, of licases, be referred respectfully to the county commissioners, provided they are not themselves providentially legislated out of office. (4) Admitting all reasonable difficulties in the way of the enforcement of the liquor law by the present force of police, on the other hand I would cite the testimony given by several of the best officers that, if the department really meant it, these laws could be enforced, as other laws are enforced; pp. 114, 157, 225-6, &c. The testimony of some officers, particularly from the second precipet, betrayed either an inability to see, or a wilful ignorance of their duties, which discloses the need of weeding out incompetent or corrupt men from the service. Real difficulties, which should be admitted, in the enforcement of the fiquor license law, inexcusable reasons for such failure, and also the need of more effective work, will all be made clear if the testimony is followed and weighed with regard to a few more open and persistent lawbreakers. A complete history of the case of Mr. T. J. Coffee, for example, would illustrate all these points, including also the friendly interest of commissioners in a lawbreaker. Testimony to the same effect lies before you in the case of an other defiant lawbreaker, who, if the police could have succeeded in enforce ing the law, might long before this have been sent to a suitable cell in the county jail instead of being elected by confiding ward to a seat on the board of aldermen.

THE CITY'S POLICE FORCE.

Another cause for the non-enforce ment of the license law is shown to be the lack of any proper inspection of the premises where liquor is sold. By many saloon-keepers, who perjure themselves in their application for license, there has been and is an open or thinly disguised violation of section 3,074 of the general statutes, as well as of chapter 112 of the public acts of 1891. It is in evidence that the purpose of this violation of law is to afford facilities for still further law-breaking in doing a Sunday business: pp. 78-9, 280. I respectfully ask therefore that in view of this testimony the board of police com missioners issue a positive order, to be obeyed, requiring of the police at frequent intervals an inspection of all premises where liquors are sold, and reports to the superintendent as to whether the law relative to flving connections, and also the screen law, are effectually complied with or not. Such action, if honestly and persistently made, would of itself materially lighter the task of the police in the enforcement of the Sunday law.

I submit that the evidence is explicit and abundant in proof of the fact that the presence upon the board, and action of commissioners who are doing a wholesale business with the saloons, has had a demoralizing effect throughout the police force, and is one direct cause of the non-enforcement of the liquor law; and further that, so long as commissioners remain on board, it is difficult for the superintendent and captains to keep up in this important particular the discipline and efficiency of the force. I would still further submit in this connection that if, in regard to any one law, or system of laws, the discipline of the department cannot be kept up, the inevitable tendency is to lower in all other ways and with regard to the enforcement of other laws, the standard and discipline of the force. Paralysis of the force in any one line of duty cannot be tolerated without danger of thorough debillty and impotence.

In evidence of this demoralizing effect of commissioners who have business interests in the salogns, I cite among others the following pages of the testimony: p. 13, "A hindrance somewhere; * * the work has fallen pp. 93, 98, Lack of zeal on account of "having two men on the board that is making their living from the liquor-sellers;" p. 104, "This general remark among the officers, 'What the devil is the use to do anything, the commissioners don't want us to do anything,' op. 112, 123, "I have said myself use to break my neck when It wasn't wanted,' pp. 126, impression that protection is given through the business of such commissioners to saloon kespers; pp. 200, 269, 274, 275, "Genera talk among officers that on account of certain commissioners better let saloons alone;" 307, advice given by older officers to new ones that "having two men that were commissioners that were interested indirectly with the saloons, they thought it would be best not to pinch certain saloon-keepers, especially a man that had a pull; that wo of these men were in power, and were liable to hurt usif they could:"and other remarks current in the force to the same effect.

As sufficient to establish this point, as well as other hindrances to the exe-cution of the law, I would submit the independent and outspoken testimony of one of the highest officers, beginning with the words, "It is my candid opinion that first and foremost it lies with the police commissioners," and ending with these statements, "The commission itself, any law, order, or rule, that they pass here by a bare majority, will have little effect, provided there is one or more, but at least one that is willing after he has passed his vote here to go outside and try to nullify the rule or law." Dr. Smyth I think is right in this matter that he has brought before your attention in regard to the commissioners and the men, the promotions and preferments for easy billets, etc., and all that. It strikes me in reading it over that that is just the policy that is required and was needed. "In calling your special atten-tion to this candid and brave testimony to beg leave to urge that the officer who has had the courage to take this stand be thoroughly sustained by the Board.

In view of the mass of general evince of the tenor just cited, the question arises whether probable cause for a removal from office of any commissioner is shown sufficient to warrant its reference to the Court of Common Council in the manner prescribed by the charter. So far as Commissioner Clancey is concerned this inquiry ceases to be a practical one inasmuch as his term of office expires in January. Without inquiring further, the general testimony as to the inevitable effect upon the police of the present on the Board of any man doing so much business with the saloons, would seem to be sufficient, if Mr. Clancey's attention is called to it, to lead him to be among the first to see that he can hereafter serve the public interest more honorably in some other capacity than that of a police commis-

The case, however, stands differently with Mr. Gilhuly, as he has another year's term of office, unless the same weight of evidence leads him to re sign, or he can be removed from office. The question, therefore, whether the evidence in his case furnishes probable cause for further proceedings in the court of common council is one of practical importance for the efficiency of the department. The charter authorizes removal from office of a commissioner for cause. The nature of the cause is not defined or limited by the charter. A large discretion is left thus to the aldermen. The general principle under which impeachment proceedings may be undertaken is stated as follows by the best fegal authorities: But a cause for removal from office may exist where no offense against positive law has been committed, as where an individual has from immorality, or imbecility, or mal-adminis tration become unfit to exercise the office." (Curtis, Hist, of Const. 260-1.) The precedents establish this principle: 'It is not always necessary that an act to be impeachable must violate a positive law, and there are many misde meanors which are repugnant to the moral sense, and yet do not violate any positive law.(Am. Cy. of Law, 9, 958.) Such being the broad scope both of principle and practice in the impeachment of judges, there can be no doubt that a municipal officer under our charter may be removed from office for any nisconduct, contrary to the dignity and the trust of the people, which, al-though not indictable, is "in its nature or consequence subversive of some fundamental or essential principle of government." (Imp. of Andrew Johnson, 1, 147.) I claim in view of this general principle of law in impeachment proceedings, and I maintain upon the evidence before you, that a prima facle case for the removal of Mr. Gilhuly from office has been made out, and hould be so reported by you, in the following charges and specifications: 1. Because Commissioner Gilhuly has violated the city charter in section 267, in this particular thereof, viz., "It shall be the duty of the board of police commissioners . . . to encourage and sustain every police officer in the faithful discharge of his duty." 2. Because commissioner Gilhuly has by his habitual influence and his personal acts subverted essential principles of government in the following particulars, to wit: He has sought for office upon the board of police commissioners for the furtherance of his own business, contrary to the public interest; he has lived up to the purpose, subversive of any public trust, for which he sought said office, and he has used his position as commissioner for the gain of his force; (4) he has by direct word and act discouraged and prevented the enforcement of the laws of the state contrary to his oath and duty as a commissione of police. In substantiation of these reasons for your finding probable cause for the removal of Mr. Gilhuly from office. I offer the following citations of evidence: The testimony already cited (which in part Mr. Clancey shares with Mr. Gilbuly), to the effect that the influence of Mr. Gilhuly, as it has been felt throughout the police force, has not been such as the charter in the section adduced requires, but on the contrary has been a hindrance to the enforce ment of law. In estimating the weight of this evilence it should be recollected that it iunwilling testimony, drawn from officers who have endangered their own prospects by telling the truth against men in power over them; and reluctant testimony from witnesses who testify against their own apparent interest, is worth in law its full face value at least, and presumptively much more. It may be inferred with fair legal presumption of fact, that such impression, as several witnesses have testified to. has not been produced by Commissioner Gilhuly without some basis of specific acts and utterance by him, even though no such act could be definitely proved. If, according to the statutes, disorderly houses, and houses of illfame, which are only reputed to be such, can be convicted in court upon their reputation, still more in the case of a municipal officer, who should be above suspicion, on the same legal principle action may be had when his business is credibly reputed to be contrary to his public trust, even though no actual misconduct should be proved against him. Reputation even more in the latter case than in the former is a valid ground of complaint. But furthermore the wisdom shows specific acts and utterances of Commissioner Gilhuly which substantiate this general repute of his official misconduct; to wit, (1) Two witnesses have testified to the fact that, while he was a member of the board of aldermen, Mr. Gilhuly sought and obtained a position on the the evidence indicate both directly and presumptively that he has taken ad-his official position might prove advan-tageous to them; and furthermore that rade has been solicited by agents and even probably by policemen for com-missioners in the soda-water business: pp. 608, 511, 13,615, 19, 524, 552, 555, 558 562-65, 631, &c.

(3) Direct acts of interference with the police on the part of Comm Gilbuty, as charged, are in evidence These acts of interference, as appears from the testimony, have been of two kinds. The first kind consists of cause less and wanton interferences with po licemen in the discharge of their duty -acts usually committed by Mr. Gilhuly when he had just come out of the same saloon. Four officers have testi fied to such interference; one of these made complaint of Mr. Gilhuly's act to his captain, and the captain reported it to the superintendent. The chief, however, had no power to protect the of-ficer against the insolent interference of the commissioner. In one of these instances Mr. Gilbuly is represented as "kind of mad," and in another as coming from a saloon in an "excited" condition. Besides these instances, Mr. Gilhuly's habit may be inferred from the testimony of one of the officers that he "blows his whistle for the police," p. 408. The discipline of the depart ment requires that complaints against officers should be made by commissioners, as by other citizens, through the regular official channels; and, though somewhat more privilege of ordering around patrolmen might be ac-corded to a commissioner, even his prerogative is used in a manner utterly destructive of discipline when he rushes in an excited manner out of saloons and late at night is "kind of mad," and when, moreover, as another officer testifies, he has "a great habit of calling

The second kind of acts of interfer ence on the part of Mr. Gilhuly are more serious, and, unless sufficient evi dence in rebuttal can be shown, they are acts directly impeachable. On three separate occasions Commissioner Gil huly, according to the testimony before you, has interfered with officers in a manner to discourage and hinder the enforcement of the liquor law. Any one of these three acts, if clearly prov-ed, would be of itself sufficient cause for his removal from office. The first in evidence was his conversation with an officer on the corner of Church and Crown streets relative to two saloons He asked an officer wby he did not raid one saloon, where Mr. Clancey's soda water was sold, saying that he did not care for the trade, and he did not think Mr. Clancey cared for it either. Then to the same officer he complained that another policeman on an adjoining beat was "crowding one of his customer altogether too hard." And, according to the testimony, he had sought two nights for the officer to have this little business talk with him, and "he seemed very much in earnest about it," pp 207-8, 218. I claim that a commissione who will talk with a policeman in the manner concerning his competitor's interest in a saloon, and who complains of another officer for crowding one of his own customers, is unfit for his position, and ought not to be allowed further opportunity to mix up in that manner his bottling interests with police duties. In this instance the officer drew, and could draw, but one conclu sion as to Mr. Gilhuly's desire not to have the law enforced against his personal profit. The second offense in evidence was direct, specific and unmistakable, pp 398-400. Mr. Gilbuly, coming again out of a saloon and halling an officer, took him to task for watching a saloon on Sunday, which saloon, it is in evidence, has the reputation of doing a lively Sunday business. Mr. Gilbuly, reading his oath of office backwards in regard to sustaining and encouraging of his duty, told this patrolman "not to hang round those saloons so much." The officer explained that the priest had complained of them, to which Commis-sioner Gilhuly replied, "What in hell does he care for, he has his." Having received this forcible rebuke from the commissioner, the officer walked away; whether Mr. Gilhuly returned to the saloon from which he had emerged to jump on a faithful officer does not appear from the evidence; but the saleon kept right on doing an illegal Sunday business under the profane protection of Commissioner Gilhuly. He should be removed because he interfered with an officer who was watching a saloon which had been complained of by a faithful priest. The effect of his action in this instance has been the effect intended: as the report of it has become current among the men, it has not led to greater zeal on their part in the enforcement of law; it is of itself suffi-cient to explain remarks, which the evdence shows are current among officers in that precinct, to fne effect that they would lose their places if they saw too Still another act of Mr. Gilhuly which is in evidence, has weight in connection with other testimony. One of the most persistent and defiant law-breakers had been raided by the police; t appears that immediately after the raid Commissioners Clancey and Gilhuly sought out one of the officers who made the raid—one of them visiting him in his home, the other finding him on the street-and inquired particularly of him how bad the evidence was. The officer could not remember all the conversation which ensued, and testified with reluctance; but he said that the commissioners wanted to know how bad the case was; that they seemed interested in it; that the impression which he received from their coming to him was that it would be just as well if the case was not prosecuted too hard. The officer did not testify that they came to him to encourage and sustain him, as the charter re-quires, in his faithful discharge of duty in getting evidence against their friend and customer. There is an utter absence of any testimony to such sustaining and encouraging action on the police board for purposes of private part of Mr. Glihuly. The evidence, and gain. (2) The following citations from the weight of, evidence, is all in the wrong scale. There is absolutely nothing to balance it in the other scale.

presumptively that he has taken advantage of his position; that his business has greatly increased since he secured a position on the board; that other sons of an officer at the depot; not that this incident shows turther interference by him with the police, but that it shows possible occasion for the and by his agents on the ground that it shows possible occasion for the police to interfere with the commissioner; that saloon-keepers and others whose trade he has obtained, have given as a reason for their transference of their custom that weight of evidence, I claim, therefore, that it is shown that Mr. Gilhuly cannot remain on the police board without prejudice to the public interest, and ntinued injury to the morals discipline of the department; and that sufficient probable cause is made out, as the result of your inquiry, for a reference of these charges to the court of common council, before which commissioner Githuly would have opportunity for rebuttal and defense.

The committee was asked to inquire whether tips or improper information of intended police raids have been given. The evidence shows that in everal instances, some several years ago, and others recent, such information appears to have been given, pp. 19, 103, 121, 210, 226, 231, 236, 287, 261, 260, 266, 316, 450-1, 454. In some instances, one as recent as last June. the evidence points to the same person, who is not a member of the de-partment. I would respectfully submit that the person so implicated be excluded, so far as possible, from the police building. But how other tips have been given, especially to gamblers, the evidence does not ciently show. Continued and diligent inquiry along this line may serve to prevent such damaging leaks in the future, and discover who have been esponsible for them. No evidence has een offered to warrant the suspicion of any general or systematic corrupt use of money for protection. The testimony of one witness as to methods by which disorderly houses in past times have secured protection by payment of sums of money, and loans to patrolmen, is not sufficient of itself to warrant charges against present members of the force to whom moneys are thus said to have been paid; but the testimony is of sufficient significance to in dicate methods of protection against which the vigilance of the department needs to be directed. As illustrating a certain method of protection of immoral houses permit me to call your attention to the evidence on pp. 668-72. It appears that in this recent raid upon a notorious disorderly house, all the nen found there were let go by the officer, and subsequently that all the women were allowed by Judge Callahan to return on their good behavior, while the proprietor was fined a small amount—a method of suppressing disorderly houses, the justice of which is only equalled by its effectiveness. some testimony has also been introduced to the effect that it has been an understood thing among keepers of houses of ill-fame that they were to go up and pay fines about once in six months, if they were doing a good business, and about once a year if their business was not good. Other evidence has been introduced to show that some notorious places of this sort might be broken up, if a real effort was made to do so.

In the course of this investigation information of grave importance came to me, which compelled me to look higher than the police department in the effort to discover how a murderous business may have gained security and immunity from punishment. It is a matter of the most serious moral, as well as legal conpern, how certain well known doctors who have left a trail red with blood hind them, have managed so long to escape the just penalty of their crimes. You have rightly, therefore, I think, extended the scope of your inquiry so far as to discover where the responsibility of the police department ends, and other responsibility begins, for undetected or unpunished crime. Inasmuch, however, as some portions of this part of the investigation remain to be completed, and as in justice to all concerned no publication of the matter should be made until every line of inquiry has been followed to its end. I reserve at present any discussion of this grave matter. When the right time shall appear, in my judgment the interests of the public morals and the pure administration of police justice require that all this evidence be made public, and this whole iniquity be exposed.

While the vote authorizing your committee to act limits your functions to the ascertainment of the truth of allegations concerning the efficiency of the police department, I do not understand that the committee is thereby debarred from making such recommendations in their findings as the evidence may seem to them to justify. I would therefore respectfully urge that after finding the facts, as shown by the testimony, the committee recommend that all the evidence relative to the influence of ommisioners who do a wholesale bottling business with the saloons be referred to the court of common council for them to determine whether any restrictions to the eligibility of men doing a wholesale business with saloons for positions on the police board may be required, and additional ordinances to this effect, or amendments of the charter are needed; and also whether further hearing in the case of Mr. Gilhuly is demanded by the public interests. Further, I may suggest, that all evidence pertaining to the failure of cases in courts, or alleged protection of illicit business through the courts, be ultimately submitted to the representatives of the next general assembly for New Haven; and, further, that all measures recommended in the testimony of the superintendent and officers, or suggested by the evidence, for the greater efficiency of the police, be referred to the board itself for such action as may be required. Especially should the testimony with regard to the needs of the department, and the requirement of a sufficient secret service fund for the detection of crime be commended to the careful attention of the board.

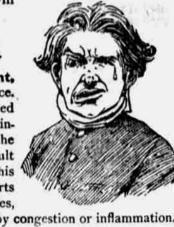

The petitioners, to whom you have given hearings, and whom I have had the honor to represent at your hearings, desire the adoption of such policy and measures as shall tend to give to the police force throughout more of the political independence, and the trained ficiency, of a military company of the

THE POLICE INVESTIGATION.

We print this morning in full two exceedingly interesting and important documents. One is the communication Police Commissioners concerning the the stock colfar may be. And the other is the report to the Board of Police Commissioners of the fur provides against this. Then, too. committee which has been conducting the habit is a much less pernicious one the investigation. We are glad to see that there is substantial agreement between the committee and Dr. Smyth in their views concerning the weight and bearing of the testimony. It would have been very unfortunate had it been otherwise. As it is, the report of the committee amply and strongly sustains Dr. Smyth's charges against the Police department. It finds that there has been "a lack of vigilance and efficiency on the part of the police in the en forcement of the laws for the prevention and suppression of the various forms of gambling and other vices and especially in the enforcement of the laws against Sunday liquor selling." It finds that there has been a feeling among the members of the force that vigilance and zeal in the enforcement of characters in the Chinese language. the liquor laws were not expected by the commissioners, or, at least, by all is of the dress goods, machine stitched and so printed in book form. It is of them, It finds probable cause against and thus made to match the sleeve one or more of the commissioners on cuffs and skirt hem. But, despite so the charge of using official position for business advantage and binds him or them over to the Court of Common Council. It finds that "tips" concerning intended raids by the police have occasionally been given, but it finds no evidence of "general or systematic corrupt use of money for the purpose of protecting illicit business."

In its findings the committee goes quite as far as Dr. Smyth did in his charges, and makes it clearly apparent that his zeal has been according to knowledge. Its report is fearless and Those who made it have done their duty wisely, honorably and honestly. They were in a trying position, but they have done no whitewashing and have made no attempt to screen lowest, $4.25, as a large proportion of anybody. They have shown that they have the right idea of their duty to the public and they have manfully borne the responsibility put upon them. They deserve and will receive the gratitude of all good citizens for their faithful and unprejudiced work. A foundation for needed reform has been laid by them and it is to be hoped that it will be speedily and thoroughly built upon.

A BILL THAT SHOULD PASS. Of course it is not to be expected that Senator Lodge's bill to provide for the reorganization of the consular and diplomatic service of this country will find favor in a Democratic congress, but it may be adopted when the Republicars take hold. It ought to be. It provides that a commission shall be appointed by the President for the purpose of assisting him in the reform of the service, this commission to consist of the Secretary of State, two senators of the United States and two members of the house of representatives; that the necessary rules and regulations to effect the reorganization of the service shall be left to the discretion of the President, and that the reorganization shall begin within one year after the passage of the bill; that the higher diplomatic officials shall be exempt from the provisions of the measure that "all notarial services, when cer-

LIVE BEARS ARE HEAVY.

But a Dead and Harmless One That Weighs One housand Pounds is

[From Forest and Stream.] I have hunted and trapped for years in the Rocky Mountains and coast ranges, the home of the grizzly, just for the money that I made by it, and in all my experience I have never killed nor even seen a bear that I thought would weigh half as much as some I have read about and I have never known any one who ever saw a bear weighed that tipped the scales at fifteen hundred pounds. Nine out of every ten bears that are reported as weighing all the way from one thousand pounds up to twenty-three hundred pounds were killed many miles away from a pair of scales. The largest bear I ever killed, or rather helped to kill, was when my partner and I were hunting and trap-Montana in the winter of 1889. We had had very good luck with beaver, marten and lynx, and other land fur. Along towards spring we took a pack of grub and blankets on our backs, and went up a creek that empties in the Yak. We intended to hunt in that locality for bear; and, as we always take the easiest way to hunt, we kill an elk, deer, or any kind of game we run across for bait, then wait for the bear to come. We had lots of bait up that creek, and killed some more on another creek. Then our grub was about out and we had to go back and pack up enough to last us through the hunting When we got through packing out grub we began to see where there had been a bear taking the balt. A warm Chinook wind at that time did the work, for we were killing one now and then. We had traps and guns for bear, also four good dogs, so we were kept hustling taking care of the hides. I had not been up to the furthest bait for several days. When I had time to go D. said that he would keep me company, as he wanted to raise a cache of traps he had made in the fall when trapping for beaver. We had got almost up to the bait when I saw a bear track. It was a whale. I told D. that most likely the old boy was handy around the balt, for the tracks fresh. When we came in sight of the halt the hear had either heard or smelt us, for we saw that he had been eating on the bait. We put the dogs on the track and followed after them as fast as we could travel, over wind-falls and through underbrush, with snowshoes. We had shoeing away into the spring in the mountains. We had not gone more than half a mile when I heard one of the dogs howl. Then I knew that the bear was our meat. We went down to where the dogs were, and there was a bear that was the grandpa of all the bears either of us had ever seen. It was a bald-faced grizzly. He was fighting the dogs. He would run after one, when one of the others would bite him on his heels. It was laughable to see him. He did not know what kind of a jack-pot he was in. Finally he thought it was getting too warm for his rear end, so he sat up on his haunches. That was the opportunity we were waiting for. We both "turned loose" with our .40.90 Sharps, and th bear tumbled all in a heap. We the bullets had broken his neck, and the other his shoulder. I had never seen such an animal be fore for size. I asked D. what it would weigh. That was the first bear I had ever wanted to weigh. D. said he had no idea, but we could try and pull him we could just move him; he was lying on snow that was pretty solid. We had a stick through his gambrels, so we had a good pull at him. Both of us were over six feet tall and weighed over two hundred pounds, so we were not very weak. We talked about the weight of the bear, and we thought he would probably weigh eight hundred pounds. His hide when stretched measured ten feet three inches from tip of hose to the tall and was eight feet nine inches wide. When we went down in the spring we showed the hidwas the largest bear hide they had ever skinned him and found where one of

We killed sixteen bears that spring but none of them was as large by one third as the big one. I do not believe that the big one would weigh at the very most nine hundred pounds, and he was very fat. I think he had not been out very long, as it was in April when he was killed. Now, my notion is that all these bears that weigh from fifteen hundred pounds up have been killed ground a camp fire. I would like to near from any one who ever saw a beau weighed that tipped the scales at fifeen hundred pounds. A person had never seen a bear running wild would say on seeing his first that it was would say on seeing his first that it was the biggest thing ever wrapped up in hide. The first bear I ever saw looked as big as a mountain, but after I had killed him he shrunk down to a small black one. I could pack him all I around he was so small.

THE WILD HORSES OF NEVADA.

Why the Hanchers are Waging War o

(From the San Francisco Examiner.) R. L. Fulton, of Reno, for a number of years agent of the land department of the Central Pacific railroad, is at the California, and tells a strange story of the myriads of wild horses now roaming over Nevada and of the steps hat have been taken to get rid of

"There are now in Nevada more than two hundred thousand head of these horses," said Mr. Fulton, "and they are increasing so fast that they are getting to be a great nuisance. Cattle and sheep owners are killing them wherever they can.

"The last legislature passed a law permitting any one to shoot any stalions that were found running wild, and the ranchers have, in consequence been killing them off wherever they could. They do this as well to get rid of them as to keep the wild horses from ncreasing.

"The trouble is they are eating of the grass so that sheep and cattle owners are having a tough time of it in certain sections. More than this, the stal lions are in many cases leading off the domestic horses from the ranches. So the ranchers have it in for them and are making it very lively. Many is the stallion they have killed, and some of them are very fine, too.

"And what do you suppose they do with them afterward? Why, they turn them over to the swine to eat. They figure that in this way each stallion is worth about two dollars, which is the op notch figure that can be realized from them. Horses are very cheap now the world over, but probably not since the settlement of America have horses been so cheap as they are in Ne-

"Most of the wild horses are in the neighborhood of Elko and Iron Point A few years ago there was turned loose from the Evans ranch, near Iron Point a fine thoroughbred stallion. He joined the neighboring bands of wild horses and could not be got back again.

"The result has been that the quality of the herds was greatly improved He left many colts that were much superior to the old stock. The various bands have increased much since then While many of the horses would not be called first-class, others are very fine, and all are as tough as pine knots and as fleet as there is any use in having lorses.

"They are eating the grass off, and making it hard picking in places for cattle and sheep, and, as the ranchers can't catch the wild horses, they are shooting them down whenever they get sight of them and can get up close enough. The latter is not always an easy task. In fact, it usually is a most difficult thing to do.

"They use long-range rifles, however and ride fleet domestic horses, and in this way pick off a great many. Every rancher or cattle owner in Nevada when he sees a wild stallion and has a weapon with him, turns loose at it. I is the particular aim and mission o every cowboy to thin them off, and oftentimes he is not so very particular just what kind of wild horse it is."

(From the Titusville (Pa.) Herald.)

Our townsman, Mr. Charles Burgess who lately returned from a brief trip to England, says that when he stepped off from the steamer New York a Southampton, the first thing which attracted his attention was a most ele gantly appointed palace car on the railroad track, conspicuously placard ed, "This car is reserved for the Hon. W. L. Wilson." Mr. Burgess and a friend, knowing that Mr. Wilson die not take passage on the New York, though he had intended to, marched up to the car and tried the door with a much sang froid as though the car had heen saved especially for them, but were at once confronted by a policeman of herculean proportions who informed them. "You cannot get in that car: it is for Mr. Wilson only!" The policeman was deaf to their mock pleadings that Mr. Wilson didn't come, etc. It was of no use. "You cannot go in that car! was repeated. No doubt those English men who wined and dined Mr. Wilson and provided him a special palace car are now saying to themselves, "Wha bloomin' asses we did make of our selves over that man, doncher know!"

cult. Early in the morning the snow changed to hall and the wind was henvest. By noon, however, it became calmer. The sleet interfered greatly with the electric railways, the Sylvan avenue and Winchester avenue lines having much trouble. The State street road had some difficulty in the forenoon also on account of the coating of ice on the tracks. The Fair Haven and Westville railroad had the least trouble. The large sweeper of the company had been out all the night previous and the tracks were in fairly good condition. On the Edgewood road travel was much de-

The storm is not the heaviest of the season, being exceeded by the gale of November 5, which damaged electric systems so generally.

The storm was fierce and wild on the ound and greatly hindered navigation. At midnight the wind was blowing forty miles an hour. At 4 o'clock it had ncreased to fifty. Last night was cold, but calm, and boats ran as usual. The Richard Peck arrived here last evening only a little late. The storm began in Montana.

Reports of the damage by the storm received from the shore places near New Haven chows that property ly by the storm. People who are living down along the west shore during the winter months say that the storm Wednesday night was the worst that they have ever experienced. The wind blew at a furious rate all the night and was accompanied by a heavy fall of snow, At midnight the wind was blowing a gale and about 2 o'clock yesterday morning several buildings directly on the water front were blown down and carried out into the sound. At 3:30 o'clock the big pavilion owned by P. Himman, proprietor of the Hinman ouse on Beach street at Savin Rock, was struck by the wind and went down with a terrific crash. The building was two stories high and occupied a space about 100 by 60 feet. It was formerly used as a paddock, but a year ago it was remodeled and fitted up for a pavilion. The building was blown out into the sound, and nothing remains now but a floating mass of timber. The sea tides were unusually high, and yesterday morning Beach street, upon which all the hotels and summer resilences are situated, was two and three feet under water. The waves broke over the bulkhead constructed in front of the shore residences and flooded many of the cellars. The inmates at the Keeley institute, which is on Beach street, passed a very uneasy night, and the patients were up nearly all of the night.

MATT KANE OF MADISON DROWNED. Clinton, Dec. 27 .- The storm last night and to-day in this vicinity has been the most severe that has been experienced here since the blizzard. From Madison to this place the roads are three or four feet under water from the numerous creeks and rivers which are overflowing. This afternoon a farmer named Matthew Kane, forty years old. was driving to his home and when near a bridge over the East river near Madson Kane drove the horse off the roadway into the river, and with the horse was drowned. It seems that the water overflowing from the river had completely covered the bridge over the river and hid it from view. Kane supposed evidently that he was on the road, but instead the horse had got off on the meadows and finally went down in the deepest part of the river. It was late this afternoon when the horse was found floating in the river near the bridge. A party from Clinton Identifled the turnout as that belonging to Kane, and a further search led to the finding of Kane's body. The unfortunate farmer was fished out of the river and his body taken to his home this evening. Kane was on his way home from attending his brother's funeral in Guilford. He had another brother, Michael Kane of New Haven. DOWN AT GROVE BEACH

The storm was quite severe and a number of bath houses belonging to the summer residents, most of whom are Hartford people, were washed away, The pier in front of the cottage of President Hurst of the Pond Extract company of Clinton was wrecked completely by the high seas, which were running all day. The wind blew at the rate of about forty miles an hour at 4 o'clock this morning, and nearly every small building on the water front was ripped from its foundation and carried out into the sound. This afternoon there was a mass of the wreckage floating about in the sound near here. The total damage to property in this vicinity caused by the storm of last night, it is estimated, Woodmont, Dec. 27.-Last night's storm here was the most severe in two years. All night the wind blew at a terrific rate and much damage was done along the shore to the cottages. Atlantic Baseball League. "Ted" Sullivan, formerly manager of the Washington baseball team, was in town yesterday in the interest of the proposed Atlantic league, and the pros pects are that a club will be formed ere. The league is to consist of eigh teams, two to be located in Pennsylvania, two in New Jersey, and four in Connecticut. The Connecticut teams are to be, if the scheme is adopted, New Haven, Bridgeport, Waterbury and Danbury. The Providence team will be entered from Newark and Patterson.

LAID AT REST.

Funeral of Mrs. Lydia Ingraham Bartlet The funeral services of Mrs. Lydia Ingraham Bartlett, widow of Phineas Bartlett, who was for many years a prominent New York merchant, took place yesterday afternoon at her late esidence, No. 176 York street, attended by many friends, including people from w York city and other place s. Rev Mr. Snyder, a friend of the family, was the officiating clergyman, and made remarks in which he spoke of the Chris tian character of the deceased lady and the patience and resignation with which she bore protracted illness, supported by her bright hope of a better life be wond. There was beautiful singing by select quartet, which consisted of M'ss Gaffney, Mrs. Blinn and Mesers. Lang. dale and Smith. There were no pall bearers. The remains are to be taken for interment to North Adams, Mass. on the 7:45 train this morning, where they will be laid at rest by the side of the remains of her husband. Mr Lewis, of Lewis & Maycock, had charge of the funeral ceremonies. Quite representation of prominent members of Calvary Baptist church, which the ENTERTAINMENTS.

H pe ton. Archie Boyd's now celebrated play, 'The Country Squire," which will be een at the Hyperion to-morrow night, has taken a firm hold on the masses of people who have seen it, as is evidenced by the enormous attendance at each performance.

The plot is a simple moral story, just the same as a father and mother experience with their children every day, and is a thread holding together the moving panorama of city and country life. Is it any wonder that people flock to see a play which so cleverly carries them back to "old times," and which their children enjoy just as much now as they themselves used to? The most remarkable feature of its success is the fact that it draws among its patrons many prominent clergymen who have never before darkened the doors of a theater, and who, in turn, have from their pulpits paid it the highest tribute ossible by saying that the play taught high moral lesson, as strong and powas any they could preach. This pefore unheard-of endorsement sends thousands to witness it who have always looked upon the stage as a place to b shunned and avoided. "The Country Squire" will be recorded in the annals of nistory as the most successful domest olay ever known, artistically and financially. Sale of seats now open.

THE KLEINE KINDER CARNIVAL. The stage of the Hyperion will be transformed into a Christmas fairyland on New Year's day, when the 'Kleine Kinder Christmas Carnival," under the personal supervision of Miss Justine Ingersoll will be given at the special holiday matinee and in the evening. The first ballet on the bill will introduce "Harlequin" and "Columbine" with their attendant "Humpty Dumpty." The children will be seen in an exellent vaudeville performance including the "Hindoo Snake Charmer." Baby Ruth will sing and dance. "Florette," a Dresden China Fantasy, will be presented by Misses Jean Coburn and Edith Barr. Miss Gertrude Roy will sing the comic song, "The Love Letter." Miss Mae Carroll will give "The Wedding Merch," in full bridal costume. Dravole will show his hanky panky tricks; the child wonder, Miss Edith Barr, will appear as "Teddy O'Rourke." A clever hornpipe will be danced by Master Fred Smith, and Miss Rita Smith will sing, "Boarding School Delights," from "Dr. Syntax." Camellia, the Spanish dancer, will introduce her bewitching Spanish dances, which she executes with much grace, and Morgan, the clown, will lend his aid for the amusement of the little ones and their riends. Miss Ingersoll is to be congratplated for the admirable amusement bill which is presented to the theatergoers. The sale of seats is now rapidly pro-

"The Life Guard" engaged the attention of a large audience last evening. The plot centers about a hero, a heroing and a villain. The material, however has been treated in a somewhat novel way with the result that the interest in the piece was sustained from start to finish. Several times the principal actors were called before the curtain to acknowledge the hearty applause.

The plot deals with a captain of a ife saving station on Long Island, who has married a young wife. His cousin, whom he has rescued from a watery grave, adopts the role of villain, and in return for the captain's kindness falls in love with his wife. She reciprocates his passion, and together they plot her husband's ruin. There is a quarrel between the two men and a mock duel in which the captain believes he has slair his perfidious cousin. Fearing arrest he flees, but reappears in the next act to denounce his cousin and his faithless wife in a New York club house. The cousin follows him, seeking revenge after casting off the woman he had in duced to leave her husband. She commits suicide, and the captain falls in love with a waif, who has been brought up by an old Italian rascal. The wick ed cousin is baffled in his revenge and ends in a lockup, while the captain marries the waif, who turns out to be a French heiress, and everything ends happily as a melo-drama should. Miss Davis sang several songs, which were encored, as well as her other spec ialties. The stage settings were also very handsome. The piece will be repeated this and to-morrow evenings and don't forget "The Life Guard" mat inee to-morrow afternoon.

"Alvin Joslin," with the popular comedian, Charles L. Davis, in the title role, will be the attraction at the Grand opera house for the first three nights of next week. In speaking of the play an exchange says: "The best testimo nial to the popularity of the Yankee comedy, 'Alvin Joslin,' was the large audiences which enjoyed 'Uncle Alvin's adventures in New York, as presented by Charles L. Davis at the 'Grand' last night. The play is brighter and better than ever and the promised 180 laughs in as many minutes were, it is safe to say, enjoyed by all Mr. Davis'

old friends, and also by many new ones The acting of Mr. Davis was, as it always is, admirable. The company gave the star strong support, and is without doubt the strongest Mr. Davis has ever

The scenery was a marvel of realism Especially is this true of the Brookiyi bridge scene, the setting of which was natural and realistic. The whole play has been remodeled to a great extent since last seen here, and much improv ed." On New Year's day a grand holi day matinee will be given, and the regular matinee Wednesday. This will be Mr. Davis' farewell appearance in Nev

Haven. The lecture hall annex at the Grand pera house, which is open free to the patrons of the theater, is crowded at every performance to witness the clever tests of magic performed by Fred Hurd. who is an adept at his art.

So much talk has spread through the city of the wonderful dancing of the Misses Lizzie and Vinie Daly that t seems as if everybody was in a sweat to see them. Miss Irene Price, too, dances with much skill and kicks splits and tumbles in a way to astonish all beholders. The Sexton brothers are a splendid pair of acrobats. Mead and Bella Werntz are a good pair of boxers, Miss Werntz being by all odds the best woman boxer in the busines The Rice brothers give a fine exhibit tion of triple bar work and the Cle-menso brothers unite acrobatics to heir novel musical act. The Ammons Clarise trio play on a variety of musical instruments. The Clipper quartet make much fun with their lively buresque on "Ole Kentuck." For next week the greatest American novelty nas been secured in Girard and his $10,000 singing donkey, which sings with all the skill of a human being. The Electric quartet, Collins and Collins, Francis Bryant, and many other great funmakers will be on hand also to make everybody who goes to the Wonderland realize that they have entered in a very happy New Year.

AT THE SEAMEN'S BETHEL. Grand Christmas Jabilee For Jack Tar

Many Sailors Enjoy It. The Ladies' Seaman's Aid society, he conductors of the Sailors' home on Water street, did not forget to make Christmas a pleasant occasion for the brave fellows for whose comfort they work. They prepared for a Christmas celebration in their usual complete way and those sailors who were present will remember it. The entertainment consisted in the rendering of a pleasant program, distribution of presents and he spreading of a substantial supper. All day yesterday Rev. J. O. Bergh, the superintendent of the home, went among the vessels in port and distributed tickets to the sailors whom he met.

The program of the entertainment was as follows: Whistling solo-Miss Meta Fellows, Song-Miss Kate Osborn.

Sleight-of-hand-Henry W. Ball. Recitation-A little girl. Song-"They All Love Jack"-Miss Kate Osborn. Whistling solo-Miss Meta Fellows.

Distribution of presents to sailors, The presents consisted of bags, each containing a pair of woolen half-hose, pieces of flannel, buttons, thread, needles, thimble, linen, tape and a roll of pandage cloth. The bags were made by members of the society. A cornucopia of candy was also presented to each of the men. The supper was a very nice one and was partaken of with relish by the "hearties."

The entertainment was in charge of the Christmas committee, which consisted of Mrs. Arthur Bradley, chairman; Miss M. Fellows, Mrs. Florence Clark, Miss Rose Galbraith and Miss Alice Cowles.

The society has but lately moved into their beautiful and commodious build ing on Water street, one block to the east of the old home. Here the society have one of the best buildings of its kind in the country. It is complet in its appointments and is conducted in a very sagacious manner. It was erected at a cost of $14,000. Sailors may board there, take meals there, or, if needy or sick, be given necessaries and cared for there without charge, if they are unable to pay. The Ladies' Seaman's Friend society will at its next annual meeting, on January 13, 1895, become the Connecticut Voman's Seaman's Friend society and will solicit aid from all over the state for the advancement of its purpose.

The present officers of the society are Mrs. F. W. Fellowit, president; Miss Sara M. Mix and Mrs. John H. Booth vice presidents; Mrs. C. S. Winchell corresponding secretary; Miss Mary E. Law, financial secretary: Mrs. Helen L Cowles, treasurer; Rev. J. O. Bergh superintendent.

LIQUOR DEALERS COMBINE.

Permanent Organization Effected-Will Be Known as the New Haven Liquor, Wine and Beer Dealers' Association. A meeting of the liquor dealers of the city was held yesterday afternoon at Harmonie hall to organize a branch of "The Wine, Liquor and Beer association of the State of Connecticut." A large number of local liquor dealers were present in response to the invitations sent out. When the meeting had be called to order M. J. Beegan of the state association, was selected as chairman, John J. Hogan temporary secretary and J. Casarlego temporary treasurer. P. H. Nolan of Port Jervis, N. Y., national state organizer, then addressed the meeting, explaining the object sought and the benefits to be derived from the association.

The question of the amount of initiation fees then came up, and was finally fixed at $2. About seventy-five dealers then went up and paid their initiation into the new organization.

Mr. Nolan announced that the executive committee of the state association would meet in a few days, and he thought it advisable that the local branch effect a permanent organization before the meeting adjourned in order that they might make application for a charter at the coming session of the legislature. A motion was accordingly made that the chair appoint a committee of five to select the permanent officers of the organization. The chair selected as members of this committee John J. Doody, John Zapp, Frank McGinn, Patrick Moran and Francis W. Foley.

After a brief consultation the com mittee on permanent organization reported as follows: The association shall be known as the "New Haven Liquor, Wine and Beer Dealers association.' The officers selected for the coming year are N. W. Kendall, president; first vice president, Henry Fresenius; second vice president, F. S. Porter; corres ecretary, Edward McCarthy; financial ecretary, W. B. Hull; treasurer, Maler Zunder; sergeant-at-arms, Henry

After voting to meet again a week from to-day at Clan-na-Gael hall, cor-ner of State and Chapel streets at 3 o'clock p. m., the meeting adjourned.

DRUMS MADE TO TALK. A Singular Method of communication Used by Natives in Airies. (From the P.tisburg Dispatch.)

"The 'talking drums' of equatorial Africa are something which puzzle the traveler who sees what can be done with them," said Professor Garner, whose name has become universally known on account of his investigations into the speech of the monkey family. "I first came across 'talking drums' when I was on my way up the Camer oon river in a territory about 4 degrees north of the equator. While we were sailing up the river I noticed a peculiar beating of a drum which seem to be answered by another some little distance off. I asked one of the natives with me what the meaning of the drumming was. He listened a moment, then said: 'That's a fisherman down at the river shore in front of the town of Cameroon," which was then not in sight 'He is calling the natives to come down to the shore to buy his fish. He is tel ling them by beating his drum: "Come down and buy my fish. I have three large ones and two smaller ones and many others smaller. All fish caught to-day." ' Then he explained that the other drum I heard was a rival fisherman who was beating on his drum to the inhabitants of the town. 'He lies. His fish are not fresh. They were caught yesterday. But come buy my fish; I have seven large ones and just caught them.

"I thought my native follower a clever romancer, but he insisted that was the significance of the drum beats, and told me he would prove it to me when we got to town. When we arrived opposite the town, to satisfy my curiosity I asked the native to show me the fisherman. We took a boat and were soon at the landing of the town. There, sure enough, was the fisherman still beating his drum, and in his boat (I took the trouble to count them) lay three large fish and two small ones, besides numerous very small ones, just as had been described to me from the drum beats by my man. The fish did not look very inviting and must surely have been a day old. We paddled to another point where the rival fisherman was beating his advertisement to the townsfolk.

"He had seven large fish in the bottom of his boat, and he explained to my man that the other fisherman had been fishing up in the brackish waters above the town and had been unsuccessful, whereupon he tried to dispose of some stock he had left over from the day before. This was my first experience with talking drums, and it puzzled me to account for this method of communication, inasmuch as the natives had not the least idea of an alphabet. Some little time after this I was at a town and desired to get a boat and several men to take me further up the river. When I told the natives what I wanted they told me that they would have a boat come down the river from a town some twelve miles above, as this was the only boat which they knew of that would be suited for my pur-

When they asked me how many men I wanted and had gotten the particulars, one of the natives took a drum to the shore of the river and began to beat it in a strange manner, sounding in rhythm something like the tick of the telegraph instrument. The drum was unlike those they use for dancing, being more cylindrical in form. It was about three feet long and six inches in diameter. The shell was made of wood. burned out, and it looked like bamboo. the end, through which the sound pass-The native sat down and placed the or half after. drum before him. Then he beat with he kept up continually until, far in the distance, away up the river, I heard the faint noise of another drummer beating the same thing. The drummer. as soon as he found that his fellow up at the next town was repeating the message correctly, stopped. I then listened, and soon the drumming above ceased, and away off, so faint that only occasional beats could be distinguished, I heard another drummer. I was then told that my message would be repeated from town to town until it arrived at its destination. "I asked if I would know whether the boat would come, and they told me I would receive an answer. Some time after this I again heard drum beats and a native told me that they had reselved word that the boat would leave and arrive here at such a time. The boat arrived just when the drum mes senger said it would, and this proved to me that the natives of Africa have a sure means of communication by drum beats. " They told me that all kinds of messages were repeated from town to town by drum beats. The towns are from one to two miles apart and the drumming can be heard distinctly at that distance. They can call names of an individual, represent nouns and verbs and some few adjectives. Even after having this strange system of munication demonstrated to me, I doubted. So when I was spending my time with Captain Buchan, who had lived in Africa for years and was well acquainted with the characteristics of the various tribes. I asked him con-cerning the matter. He verified what I preserve the precious health for which told him and, to demonstrate more ful- she is largely though unwittingly rely, called his boy and told him to drum for a certain man in the town above. It was but a short time until that wantd person appeared. Then some time after this I was talking with E. J. Glave, who was six years with Stanley in the Congo basin. He told me of other tribes who used drum beating as a means of communication. He named the Balolo and the Balola tribes as being quite expert. He mentioned an exice he had while locatd at Lukalile. He heard of a herd of elephants which were on a rampage on the opposite side of the Congo, about twelve miles from the town. He went out posite side of the Congo, about twelve miles from the town. He went out to hunt them, but after searching for some time was unable to locate them. He had to go back to the town, so some of the natives of the town near the place where the eisphants were supposed to be told him they would let him know if the heard came about again. That night he was awakened between 10 and night he was awakened between 10 and 11 by a native, who told him that the herd of elephants had returned and was tearing up the plantations on the outskirts of the town. The message had been received by drum beats from one town to another. He started out and arrived there before the elephants departed. The message had been repeated just four times in the twelve niles it had come. "It is puzzling to form a theory as to how these natives accomplish the re-sults which they do. If they had an alphabet, or the knowledge of one, you could find an explanation there. But, as a matter of fact, they are utterly devoid of the knowledge of an alphabet. The only explanation which I can make of the matter is that they have a phonetic formula of some kind. They have certain drum beats and combinations to represent certain phonetics and perhaps syllables. It is certainly not alphabetical, as our telegraph system is. A language has from forty or fifty phonetic elements, so with combinations of beats to represent these and other modifications natives are able to communicate. The The loudness and softness of the beats seemed to suggest more than the intervals. There was very little difference in the intervals, scarcely enough to make me think that they alone indicated the various phonetics. Of course the intervals had something to do with it, but the loudness of the beats seemed to carry more importance. However it is done, it is indeed wonderful to have an ignorant lot of uncivilized people without an alphabet formulating a means of communication which is akin to the telegraph code of this country. From all sources of information I learned that they were able to send messages of all kinds, such as would be used in the ordinary affairs of life and business.

"But there are many more interesting facts we could learn of the natives of Africa. For instance, if it were generally known what wonderful system of politics these barbarians have, and their conception of government and enforcement of law, the statements of those brass-buttoned officers sent out by various countries who poke at the natives until they are forced to kill, as to the necessity of killing such large numbers in self-defence, would receive but little credence."

> Men and Breakfaste [From Harper's Bazar.]

Breakfast-a most trying duty, and one which many a man shirks, saying. "I never care for breakfast, I take only a roll and coffee." And even that pls-aller he would rather take alone, judging from the grumpy silence with which he surrounds himself, or the absorption with which he devours the morning newspaper.

The coffee-and-roll habit comes to us from Europe, and, more than that, from its upper clases, therefore it has won its way here through the emulation of fashion rather than its fitness for our modes of living. The American breakfast is looked upon with horror, as barbarous and inelegant. Jus what the American breakfast is would be hard to define, except by those Ed ropean theorists who have never partaken of it. But that it is in some families execrable through its length, and in others through its quality, we all unfortunately know.

Within forty miles of New York are innumerable towns which send all their male population, save the indigent, to the city every day in pursuit of bread sweetbread mayhap, for the men of larger gains. To reach the office at the proper hour in the morning (and every one knows that the fundamental prin-There were holes in the sides and in ciple underlying all wealth is a prompt and early appearance at the office) ne-

Luncheon does not follow until one his fingers this strange tattoo, which and is even then a hastily snatched meal, making an interval of five or six hours without food, during which time both body and brain are submitted to every sort of fatigue-the nervous anxlety of catching a train, the bad air of the journey itself, and the hurry and worry of office-work.

What sort of preparation has the man had for this strain on his system? A night's rest, which of course exceeds in value any other restorative-but after that? Sometimes merely his makeshift of coffee and roll. Before it, his longest fast: after it, his hardest work. The habit of eating a slight breakfast

Perhans the man is willing to eat. but the housewife, never having studled the relative values of foods, places before him those dishes which do little to feed the vital flame of life. An autumn breakfast served in a house where three young men of the nervous American temperament went daily to town serves as a sample. To begin with, there were Concord grapes, then catmeal, then chipped beef creamed, with fried potatoes, and coffee to drink. It sounds well and tastes well, but for nutrition pure and simple is not worth a picayune. There are a thousand and one ways of serving fresh beef, mutton, poultry and eggs to make them acceptable to the peevish breakfast palate, and as a "space-filler" there are better things than fried potatoes. If indigestion has hald its tenacious hold on the family, coffee must give way to weak cocoa or hot (not boiled) milk. All these things sponsible. Of course if improper dishes please the taste and are set before a man, he will eat them, but don't let him have the chance. These things apply as well to school-children as to Eating breakfast is more of a habit than one would think. There is no common declaration than: I can't eat breakfast. I never had any appetite for it." That, too, is a matter of habit, and a practice which should be coaxed away into disuse. It takes

THE MISSISSIPP I'S GRAVEYARD.

Bend in Which Steamboats Costing Millons Have Been Wrecked. [From the St. Louis Gobe-Democrat.]

"The recent discovery of a sunker raft by Mayor Walbridge in the channel of the river above the Chain of Rocks," said Street Commissioner M. J. Murphy yesterday, "will bring to minds of many of our steamboat men the disasters that befell the marine craft of this city in that portion of the river now included in the harbor of St Louis. The charter harbor of the city includes that stretch of the Mississippi river between the mouth of the Missouri and the mouth of the Meramec. That portion of the harbor under the care and control of the wharf and harbor commissioner lies between the Chain of Rocks and the Rives des Peres. From the upper mouth of the Missouri to the foot of North Market street there are now lying under the silt and sands the wrecks of over sixty boats and barges, Many of these steamboats were the largest, best equipped and speedlest that ever walked the navigable waterways of the country. They were in reality marine palaces, such as this generation has not seen. "Sawyer's Bend was the fatal locality where nearly all these splendid craft foundered and settled under the shifting sands of the treacherous channel. Among the boats that were lost many now living will recall the following: York State, Southerner, Mary Blain, Highland Mary, Grace Darling, Allegheny, Federal Arch, C. Buln, Yuba, Baltimore, John B. Carson, Philadelphia, Edinburg, Challenge, Moderator, Nebraska, Sioux City, White Cloud, Omaha, New Admiral, Geneva, Warsaw, Empire City, Governor Sharkey, Submarine No. 13, Saranac No. 2, War Eagle, Ben Johnson, Gerard B. Allen, Fanny Scott, Henry Adkins, Columbia, Silver Bow, R. J. Lockwood, Wild Duck, Nile, Victoria, Champion, Blue Lodge, Calhoun, Alma, Central City, Rayen, Salvor, J. W. Garrett, Hudson, Beaver, John P. Keiser, Pacific, Lulu Worth, Cornella and Badger State.

"The above were sunk between the years 1855 and 1888. In addition to these there were twenty barges lost north of Bissell's Point, within the same year. No record was kept of the sawyer' or cut lumber rafts that were lost south of Alton, but it has been estimated that the aggregate value was ver one million dollars. Only two of the above-named boats, the Calhoun and Alma, were raised. The bones of all the others lie many feet beneath the sands, petrifying under the action of the waters. The actual loss in marine property to the merchants of St. Louis by the sinking of these boats was over five million dollars. It is a sad commentary upon the action of congress in its failure to provide adequate means for the removal of the cause of these lisasters, and the general policy of making only dribbling appropriations for river and harbor improvements that after 1860 few, if any, of these marine palaces were replaced with others. Many of the owners in the loss of this property lost not only all they had, but also lost courage because of the increasing dangers to the marine commerce of the immediate harbor of St.

"To add to the pathetic story of thes disasters, many of them fatal to life, it might be stated in passing that during the period named above fifty five splendid steamers were destroyed by fire within the charter harbor of the city. The hulls of many of them lie just outside of the present water line, and form the retaining dike for the granite wharf. Many of the grandfathers and grandmothers of to-day will remember with varvi trips on the James Howard, the Leviathan, the Bismarck, the Grand Republic, the Carrie V. Kountz, and others equally as grand. It will be noted above that I used the term the 'upper mouth of the Missouri.' I did this advisedly, because of the fact that with- per cent. in 1893. ON A BICYCLE.

Through Bad Roads bu. a Novel Country Lieutenant Guyot, of the Twenty-second regiment, has contributed a book to bicycle literature. He went from Montelimar to Constantinople by the Rhone and sea, and returned on a bicycle. His object was to ride everywhere his fancy led him. The lieutenant got on in Turkey at the rate of thirty miles in three days. He had nothing to eat in that time but four hard-boiled eggs, with vinegar and muddy water, and a little raki to drink. The raki seemed to him nectar itself, but he only found it in three places. The curiosity which his cycle aroused in villages proved inconvenient. The men and lads would get on it. He had often to fasten a Turk with a cord to his machine and drag him on. In Bulgaria there were no roads at all, but many were pegged out. In the midst or roadless plain the handle broke. At Sofia he met a party of cyclists and was able to find a blacksmith. The ride to Servia was very hard work, the Bulgarian mud being adhesive. Cyching was very difficult in Hungary. It was a great comfort to get into Germany and through the Swiss valleys to Montelimar. Lieutenant Guyot reached that place after a ride of 1,860 miles. He did not stop anywhere on the way unless to eat, sleep or get his machine mended. Nevertheless spent seventy-three days in his ride. Financial.

Some Important Developments in the Finaucial World.

New York, Dec. 27 .- There were some important developments in the financial world to-day, but it seems utterly impossible to revive speculative interest in the stock market. In anything like normal times a dissolution of a big government bond syndicate accompanied by severe criticisms of the financial policy of the administration and the declaration of the usual dividend by a great railroad company like the New York Central, after reports for months that the regular rate could not be maintained, would have created a big market. To-day, however, these developments were accepted; with a languid interest, and less than 100,000 shares of NEW HAVEN LOCAL QUOTATIONS stocks were traded in during the entire

The Beardsley House Badly Damaged By Fire Last Night-Loss $10,000.

Winsted, Dec. 27.-The Beardsley house, one of the finest hotels in western Connectiout, was badly gutted by fire to-night. The fire originated on the fifth floor in a room which was occupied by George Eldridge. The lace curtain was blown into the gas jet, and in a few minutes the flames burst out of the windows in the room. There was no one in the room at the time the fire broke out. The fire was well under way when it was discovered by some of the guests in the hotel, who gave the alarm to the other people who were stopping there, Two alarms were turned in and brought the four fire companies and the fire engine to the fire, The fire gutted the fifth floor, and the water damaged the rooms on the floors below.

Three streams of water were poure on the fire for two hours, and at 9 o'clock this evening the fire was under control. The firemen, however, remain ed for three hours afterwards, pouring water into the building. The total loss to the proprietors is estimated at $10,-

There were many guests at the hote to-night, among them being ex-Judge Roraback of Canaan and Representative W. B. Smith. The weather was extremely cold, and the firemen suffered somewhat. The Beardsley house property is owned by a joint stock com-pany, and is now under the management of George Spencer.

her Waterbury Man Killed-His Wounds Suggest Murder. Waterbury, Dec. 27.-At 7:50 las right Alexander Buchi, a young Frenchman who has been in this coun try but a short time, was found lying near the railroad track between Litch field and Albert streets in the borougi of Torrington. He was unconsciou at 4 a. m. to-day. It was at first believed that the man bert; representative to grand lodge had been struck by a train, but Medica Examiner T. S. Hanchett thinks the William S. Hackett; alternate to grand lodge, Frank B. Brockett; organist, wounds were made by an axe. They are two in number, one over the eyes and the other on top of the head, clean direct cuts.

and badly cut about the head. He died

Buchi was a man of good habits living with his mother and sister and employed in the Torrington brass mill. and had just drawn his pay, which was still in his pocket.

The only clue to the assault is the story of two boys, who say they saw two men run from the spot a few min-utes before the wounded man was found. Dr. Hanchett has telegraphed Coroner Higgins at Winsted to make an investigation.

CONNECTICUT POLO LEAGUE.

Fair Haven, Manchester, Meriden, Wallingford, Norwich, New London. Waterbury, Dec. 27.-Officials of the Connecticut Polo league last evening decided not to admit Waterbury to the eague, as the only hall in the city where polo can be played has been let for other purposes. Arrangements for a team next year are already in progress. The league this year will probably consist of Fair Haven, Manchester, Meriden, Wallingford, Norwich and New London

STATEMENT OF SPRINGER. The People Do Not Understand the Present

Washington, Dec. 27 .- Mr. Springer, chairman of the house committee on elected the following officers last night: banking and currency, to-day said he N. G., Henry Klinkefus; V. G., Fred did not believe that the people of the country generally understood the mod Bahr; financial secretary, Fred Boese; fications in the present banking system, which would be accomplished by the passage of the Carlisle bill as now proposed to be amended. He stated that the Carlisle bill proposes a radical change in the manner of securing bank note circulation. The rapid payment of the public debt and the limited number of United States bonds now outstanding have rendered this kind of security impracticable, and some other must be devised or the national bank circulation will soon be retired. On a circulation of $200,000,000 the present national bank circulation, the safety fund proposed in the bill would amount to $10,000,000, and this whole fund could be drawn upon to pay the notes of any bank that failed. This security, together with the other menioned in the bill, is deemed by the safest financiers and bankers of the country as amply sufficient to secure the bill holders under any circumstances. Mr. Springer said that the absolute security of the Carlisle plan is 30 percentum reater than that of the Baltimore plan. Mr. Springer said that if congress failed at this session to pass this bill or one of a similar character he was indined to the opinion that there would be a very strong pressure upon the president to call an extra session of congress to deal with this important in the Jaw. Cincinnati, Dec. 27.-Colonel Breckinridge spoke at the Pike Opera house to-night on "Eras of American Development and their Great Men." He had an audience of 250, of whom seventyfive were women. His lecture was received with little enthusiasm.

COLONEL'S FEES ATTACHED. His Son Got Obstreperous and was Knocke

The receipts were attached by a local otary public to secure a fee for taking deposition for Desha Breckinridge in his father's case. When the constables served the writ Desha Breckinridge, who came here with his father, got obstreperous and was struck on the jaw by the constable. Outsiders separated the men.

Portieres of course. But that is n't our sharp point this time. Here it is. We have about 50 patterns in Chenille Portieres. Greater quantity of patterns than pairs of a kind, maybe not over two pairs of any one pattern and mostly one pair of a pattern including sample. That won't do for regular stock you know. Still you may find just exactly your color and size. Anyway they've got to get out o'here before Jan. 1st.

The price is $3.98 and take your pick. The former selling tickets are still attached so that you can read what the prices have been in a range of $5.00 to $8.00 New patterns, sound goods. Not many pairs, but many patterns. Some half pairs or samples at a price, also. Upholstery, Second Floor. Great Bargain Sale!

FLANNELETTES

Another case the same as advertised a week ago. Everyday 8 cent goods. Equal to regular 10 cent quality except that lengths are short, say 10 to 20 yard pieces. Going to sell them at 6% cents a yard. Friday only. Well assorted plaids, checks and stripes. In view of the last lot, we would advise forenoon buying.
