STEAMSHIP ELBE HAS BEEN SUNK OFF THE ENGLISH COAST.

Only One of Her Boats Has as Vet Beer Accounted For-She Was Run Into By Another Steamer, the Prow of Which Crashed Into the Second Cabin and Abaft the Engine Room-Sallors Chopped at Frozen Ropes and Worked Hard to Get the Boats Off-The Occupants of Only One Boat Rescued By a Fishing Smack.

London, Jan. 30.-The North German Lloyd steamship Elbe, bound from Bremen for New York, was sunk in a collision with a small steamer fifty miles off Lowestoft early this morning. The Elbe carried 380 souls. But twen ty-one survivors have been landed, but a few others may still be affoat in on of the ship's small boats.

At 10 o'clock this evening the number of lives lost was given out as 350.

The survivors of the wreck wer landed at Lowestoft by the fishing smack Wild Flower at 5:40 o'clock this evening. They are:

Sollberg, third officer; Naussell, first engineer; Weser, paymaster; Schultheiss, Lukmeyer and Sitting, assistant paymasters; Furst, chief stoker Vicebe, steward; Wenning, Singer and Siebert, sailors; Dreson and Batko, ordinary seamen; De Harde, German pilot; Greenham, English pilot; Hoffman, Lugen, Schlegel and Vevera of Cleveland, O., saloon passengers, and Holthen, a steerage passenger, and Miss Bucker.

Hoffman's home is in Nebraska. His wife and boy went down with the ship. All the survivors were in a pitiable condition. The passengers were but half clothed. Their few garments were frozen stiff, their hair was coated with ice and anxiety and effort had exhaustthem so completely that they had to be helped ashore. The officers and saflors were fully dressed, but their clothes had been drenched and froze and they had been almost paralyze with cold and fatigue. They had bee ashere three hours before they had recovered sufficiently to tell the story of the wreck. Their accounts agree upon the following points: The Elbe left Bromen on Tuesday afternoon. The few hours of the voy age before the disaster were unevent ful. At 4 o'clock this morning the wind was blowing hard and a tremendous sea was running. The morning was unusually dark. Numerous lights were seen in all directions, show ing that many vessels were near by The captain ordered, therefore, that rockets should be sent up at regular intervals to warn the craft to keep out of the way. It was near to be o'clock and the Elbe was some fifty miles off Lowestoft, coast of Suffolk when the lookout man sighted a steame of about 1,500 tons approaching. He gave the word and as a precaution number of rockets was doubled and they were sent up at short inter

The warning was without effect. The steamer came on with unchecked speed and before the Elbe could change her was a terrific orash of the collision. The Elbe was hit abaft her engine room When the smaller steamer wrenched away an enormous hole was left in the Elbe's side. The water poured through and down into the engine room in a cataract. The room filled almost stantly. The engines were still and the big hulk began to settle. The pussen gers were in bed. The bitter cold and rough sea had prevented any early ris ing, and none except the officers and crew on duty were on deck when the ship was struck. The shock and crash roused everybody. The steerage was in a panic in a moment, and men, wome and children, undressed or in their night clothing, came crowding up the companionways. They clung together in groups, facing the cold and storm, and cried aloud for help or prayed on their knees for deliverance. The officers and crew were calm. For a few moment they went among the terror-stricker groups, trying to quiet them and en couraging them to hope that the vesse might be saved. It was soon apparent however, that the Eibe was settling steadily. The officers were convince that she was about to founder and gave orders to lower the boats. In a short time three boats were got alongside, but the seas were breaking over the steamer with great force and the first boat was swamped before anybody could get into it. The other two boats lowered at about the same time, were filled quickly with members of the crew and the passengers, but the number was small, as the boats held only twenty

The boat carrying the twenty-one per sons who were landed at Lowestoft put in such haste from the sinking steam that nobody noticed what became of the other boats. The survivors believe however, that she got away safely They say that they tossed in the heavy seas for several hours before they sight ed the Wild Flower. The little smack ere down on them at once and took them aboard. They were exhausted from excitement and exposure. Several of them were in a state of collapse and had to be carried and dragged from one boat to the other.

Miss Anna Bucker, the only woman in the party, was prestrated as soon as they got clear of the Elbe. She lay in the bottom for five hours with the seas breaking over her and the water that had been shipped half covering her body. Although her physical strength was gone, she showed true pluck and did not utter a word of complaint and repeatedly urged her companions not t mind her, but look after themselves Hoffman's leg was hurt severely whill he was changing boats.

The Wild Flower's crew gave the sur vivors every possible attention. Upor survivors were taken in charge by B. S. Bradber, the German

I hurried nto a few of my clothes, however, and went to the upper deck. I saw only too clearly then what had happened rushed below and helped my wife and boy throw on a few clothes and ve went on deck together. The excite nent and confusion cannot be describ never saw anything like it, ev erybody seemed to have test his head The scene was distressing beyond any hing I ever saw. This boat got lear of the steamer. Before the men at the oars could get full command of ier a big wave almost dashed her against the steamer's big foremast, which had gone by the board at the time of the collision. It was almost miraculous that the boat was not swamped. Another boat was got out. I took my boy into it and supposed that he had remained by my side, but ust as the boat was lowered I found that he had disappeared,

"He had been torn away in the rush and scramble for places. I tried to get back, but he boat went down with a jump and the moment we reached the vater the sailors pushed off."

Miss Bucker said in an interview; T was in bed when the steamer struck. I was aroused by a great crash ollowed by shouts and the trampling of feet on deck. It was dark when reached the top of the stairs leading to the deck. I found that two lifeboats were being lowered, and ran to one o The steamer was sinking gradually. One boat was already in the water. Some men shoved me into the boat, which was then lowered. We had hardly reached the water before the boat upset, and all were thrown out Most of the others managed to get back on the steamer. I went under and when I came up clutched the bow of the capsized lifeboat. I clung to it until another lifeboat picked me un suffered terribly until the Wild Flower rescued us. I lost all my clothes, but saved my money and watch, which were in the belt around my waist." The steerage passenger, Bothen, said 'At the moment of the collision I was in the foregastle. When the steamers came together the noise was deafening like the crashing of icebergs. Then came a series of tearing and grinding sounds. I hurried back and found th officers and crew at quarters. Two boats were being lowered, but I saw no others. The ropes were somewhat stiff, but not so as to hinder the lowering of the boats. The Elbe went down about twenty minutes after the collision." Jan Vevora, a cabin passenger, was returning with his niece to America.

His niece was lost. He said: "I fell asleep in the coffee room. A terrific crash woke me up with a jump. I ran out and saw that everything was upside down. People were rushing around be low in a frenzy, some half naked and al) only partially dressed. I made way up on deck and asked the mail man what was the matter. He was calm, and replied carelessly: 'Oh, nothing is the matter.' I could see, however, that omething terrible had happened. I ran below to get my niece from her cabin. but was unable to go far, as the woodwork had been shattered and broken and timbers and boards were wedged across the corridor. I then got my wa terproof coat, put on two life preservers and ran back to the upper deck, where it was evident that the ship had a heavy list and was sinking fast. I was told to keep out of the boats, as the womer and children must go first. The strugg'e for the lifeboats was too desperat to leave a man much chance, so I wait-The men around me had grown frantic. They tried to tear off my life

Seaman Singer says that the Elbe was struck just abaft the engine room, the stem of the other steamer crushing into the second cabin.

Third Officer Stollberg says that he me on the Elbe. I am utterly wretched, cannot explain the collision, and that for I became separated from them and it is unlikely that any adequate acount can be obtained, as all the deck watch on duty at the time were drown ed. The captain was on the bridge when the collision occurred, and Officer Stollberg heard him shout in a loud, firm voice that the women and children were to be saved first. His orders were repeated by the chief officer, and must have been heard by verybody abourd. The roughness of the sea made the work of rescue by the crew of the Wild Flower extremely per-

There is some hope that the missing boat has been rescued, as there were several smacks in the vicinity of the ollision. Probably some women and children got into the missing boat.

Among the persons waiting in Southmpton to take passage on the Elbe for New York was Ludwig Boxendale, He was to join his wife and daughter on the steamer. The steamship company has deferred until morning its decision sending the survivors to New

The North German Lloyd sent this official's atement from Bremen to-night:
"The third officer of the Elbe reports struck on the port side in the waymail com by an unknown steamer, sinking in twenty minutes. Stormy weather Watch in order. Hope a second boat which was lowered may be safe, as several fishing vessels and a steamer are in the vicinity. Good discipline Everything done that was possible to

The statement seems to prove that only two boats were lowered, despite the varying statements of passengers eight were cut loose. The boat carrying the survivors was tossed at the mercy of the waves in a bitter south-east wind until 11 o'clock. Meantime they sighted several vessels, while themselves upseen. The scantiness of their clothing made their sufferings more intense. When they sighted the Wild Flower frantic efforts were made to attract her attention. Sails, shirts and underclothes were waved some time before the fishing smack answered their ball.

The exact place of the collision is forty-seven miles southwest of the Hook lightship.

Mr. Neussel, the first engineer, told a reporter that it was only the position the vessel assumed when the water made its volume felt that prevented the launching of more boats.

Dispatches from Germany say that Bremen is in a state of consternation and the whole country is excited by the news of the wreck. The passenger came from all parts of the empire.

A steamer has been ordered sent from Lowestoft by the North German Lloyd o search for the other tifebout.

He and the crew of six had nardly reached a safe distance from the ves when she sank. Captain Hand, of the steamer Charles F. Mayer, saw the signal of distress displayed by the shipwrecked mariners and picked them up an hour later. The Mayer was bound for Portsmouth, Va., and she took the sailors of the Ives to that port. St. Johns, N. F., Jan. 30.-The inhab tants of St. Johns awoke this mornng to find the city placarded with large Interesting Addresses at the First M. E Church Yesterday Afternoon

A very interesting and largely attended meeting of the Woman's Foreign Katle and Annie Trowbridge, Miss Missionary society of the First Methodist Episcopal church was held at the church lecture room yesterday afternoon and was addressed by Miss Anna Cummings of South Africa and Mrs. Heman B. Allen of Meriden, who was formerly engaged in the mission work in South Africa. Mrs. Allen is the widow of the late Mr. Heman B. Allen of this city, who was a prominent member of the First M. E. church.

> Miss Cummings gave a very interesting account of the Huguenot seminary girls at Wellington, South Africa. This seminary was founded twenty-one years ago by Miss Ferguson, formerly lady missionary for the City Missionary association of this city. Miss Ferguson was a graduate of the Mount Holyoke by her years ago has been steadily carried forward by those interested in it. To-day there are 300 girls in the school at Wellington, and there are 500 girls ore in two branch institutions, making a total of 800 girls receiving instrucion. It is to be understood that the chools are for the white girls of the olony only. These girls are of three nationalities, Dutch, French Hugueno and English. The Dutch have been set led there upwards of 200 years and the French are old residents there, as they came there to find an asylum at the ime of the revolution of the edict of ers among the savage and heathen ribes in the interior. Five hundred eachers have already gone out from the powerful and lasting influence for good on the people of that benighted gone forth into active work. They had penetrated that immense tract of South Africa.

Miss Cummings also made a brief statement of the needs of the institu-tion. They are endeavoring to secure new building at the cost of about $50,000. The residents of the colony have agreed to bear half the expense if the friends of the school in this country will raise the other $25,000. she made an earnest appeal in behalf of the work there, and quite a large colection was taken up at the meeting for its benefit.

Anyone who feels especially interest ed in this work and desires to contribute to it may address any communication relating to it to Miss Anna Cummings Stratford, Vt. Miss Cummings will return to Africa not before June.

Mrs. Alien was then introduced to the meeting. She gave a very interesthe school, is a sister of Mrs. Allen and the latter spent two years in Afrion helping in the work. She gave a very interesting account of the diamond city, Kimberly, She said that the town sprung up like magic at the discovery of diamonds there, and that the people at first lived either in tents or in corrugated iron houses. So the center of the town is at present irreguours ratified the Japanese treaty, af- A great deal of religious work is being mostly converted natives themselves. The mines are surrounded by high corrugated from fences, so high that the natives cannot throw the diamonds over to anyone on the other side. Y. G. A. CONTESTS

At Yale Gymnasium Last Evening-A Throng Present-The Hunning High Kick Record Broken by Gerard-The Other Events.

The third annual meeting of the Yale Gymnastic association was held in the gymnasium last evening and was largely attended

The first event was a contest on the side horse, in which five men participated. After some very creditable work the first place was awarded to Buist, 96, of Charleston, S. C., with Mac-Callum, '97, of Northampton, Mass., sec-ond. There were four entries in the second event, the running high klok, which was won by Gerard, '97, of New York, with a kick of nine feet, beating last year's record by two inches. Tenny, '98, of Knoxville, Tenn., was second, with a kick of eight feet ten. Buist, '96, then won the contest on the parallel bars, with Lehlbach, Newark, N. J., second, and Shepard,

97 S. of New Haven, third. Six men participated in the rope climb, which was won by McBride, with Adams second, and Gerard third. This closed the contests for the evening, but there followed an excellent exhibition of tumbling, the finest feature of which was a human pyramid collapsing at a given signal. The association deserves great credit for the success of this, their third meet. Dr. Anderson announced that on February 27 the Princeton Gymnastic association would meet the association of Yale in a contest at the Yale gymnasium.

MANY IMPORTANT MATTERS UNDER

A Court For the Town of Orange-The New England Road's Reorganization-That Bridgeport Grade Crossing-The Aduleration of Candy-Mr. Gunn Has a Very Busy Day-Pension For Ira Fonda-Minor

Hartford, Jan. 30.-The committee this afternoon entered upon their worl with a business-like determination. I was really the most important day so far this month before the committees several of the more important organizations considering measures of real import and listening to the views of those Interested. A few such days will result In a number of reports being sent in for

THE WATERBURY COURT HOUSE. Before the committee on the judiclary this afternoon the bill providing for a court house in Waterbury was taker up. It provides for a tax of 21/2 mills on the county and 14 mill on the district to pay the cost of the court house, which with the site is not to exceed an outlay of $100,000. A board of trustees is empowered to buy a site and to procure plans and specifications for the proposed new building.

Attorney John F. O'Neil read the bill and explained its objects. Quite a del-egation of officials and lawyers from Waterbury were present. The people of that town aver that they are tired of the expense and the time of attending court in New Haven.

A COURT FOR ORANGE.

The town of Orange Intends to have a town court and many of her leading citizens went to Hartford to-day to attend the hearing on the bill before the judiciary committee. The callers in-cluded Hon. James Graham, Attorney K. Bush, Clarence E. Thompson Esq., of the Law and Order league, Dr Barnett, Samuel J. Bryant, Warden Crawford, Justice Pardee, besides the New Haven legislative delegation and others from that city. Friends of the proposed court claim that last year there were 267 criminal cases brought before the justice court and that with such business there is a demand for court whose jurisdiction shall embrac the entire town. They claim further that a justice court under such conditions is liable to be run for the multiplication of cases and for revenue. The are estimated at about $1,500 per annum, or say from $300 to $500 more than the receipts, but the benefits would more than offset this outlay. Samuel Bryant & Main is mentioned as a can-didate for town judge if the bill is adopted. There is a very strong sentiment in favor of the measure. THE NEW ENGLAND REORGANI-ZATION. Hon. E. D. Robbins, counsel for the New England road, went before the committee on incorporations this afternoon to explain the bill in the interests of the reorganization commit tee-John I. Waterbury, Henry W. Can-non and Jefferson Coolidge. He said the committee proposed to effect a purchase of the property and pay the re ceivers' certificates and mortgage bonds of $5,000,000. The se curity of the first mortgage bondholders would be just the same as ever The second mortgage bonds had been delivered to the committee and would be paid for. The committee would obtain the property no matter if rival interests should bid against them to the amount of $40,000,000.

Hon. Lynde Harrison, repr the Consolidated road, requested that any further hearing of the matter go over for one week and the committee TALKING OVER A $6,000 DEBT. There was a hearing this afternoon before the committee on agriculture on the petition of the Connecticut Agricultural society for $6,000 to be used in payment of their debt. Ex- Lt. Gov. Hyde said the society had a few friends who had stuck by it for man; years and had watched its growth and its work. He spoke of the success of the society and he thought it to b the bounden duty of the state to pay off the present indebtedness. Remark along the same line were made by Hon, E. Stevens Henry and Hon James A. Bill.

THE BRIDGEPORT GRADE CROSS INGS

Senator Marigold introduced in the senate this afternoon an important bill regarding the abolition of grade crossings in the city of Bridgeport, I was drawn by City Attorney Daven port of that city and differs from th Marsh bill, in that it provides that the railroad commission shall have the determining power; the Marsh bill provides for a special commission. Under the new bill the expense of construction is to be borne by the Consolidated read and the land damages by the city. Within three months of the passage of the bill, if the city and the railroad can agree upon plans, methods and the time when the work shall be completed, the work of elimination of grades shall begin, if such plans, etc. are approved by the commission. The bill also provides for hearings of matters involved by the commission. A report of the work shall be certified to the city clerk and then appraisals for benefits and damages shall be made. The city is authorized to buy and the railroad to sell the bridge belonging to the latter over the harbor.

SISTER GOUGHNOUR'S SUIT, There is Society in New York. There also Society in New Haven. And suburb of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania. There are people who may think it strange that there is Society in the latter place, but such people do not understand human nature, and so do not know that where Woman is there is Society, even though the interior of Africa be the place. The Society of McKees Rocks is well organized, and appears to be the real thing. The managers of it act as those having autherity and fully conscious of their privileges and duties. In the exercise of their privileges and the performance of their duties they felt impelled to snub Mrs. Goughnour, who believes that she is a large part of the Society of McKees Rocks. She found out that she was not so considered the other evening when a ball was given for the delight and distinction of that Society. She was not invited, and she wants to know the reason why. She has therefore brought a suit against the managers of the affair for $10,000. It appears from her complaint that she is thirty-five years old, that she is a member of the church and that she has an excellent reputation. She has been a gay and successful participant in other Society affairs at McKees Rocks, and it was at these affairs that she succeeded In demonstrating her superiority to the wives of the members of the committee as a dancer and an entertainer, and that she received more attention than a dozen of her defamers bunched together, had such a combination been possible. It was, according to the complaint, the spiteful feelings and lealous dispositions of her rivals that caused them to induce their husbands to bar her admission to the recent ball, that her superior charms might not be brought into much prominence to the diminution of their own. She admits that this move of her rivals has caused her a great deal of worry, and sets forth that because of this worry she has

Though her action in bringing her suit for damages is a little unusual there is no doubt that she is well entitled to a place in the Soclery of McKees Rock. She evidently has all the feelings of a Society wo man, and she well knows how the other Society women feel against her. They have reason for their feeling, of course but they have gone a little too far in attempting to obscure the charms and graces of Sister Goughnour. They will probably find before they get through that she will not only establish a natural title to leadership in Society, Indeed, the time may come when Sister

ABOUT "MOONSHINERS," If the truth wan told in congress the prayity who wander over the land as of moonshine in the talk and writing about the "moonshiners" of some of the southern States. It was asserted that a large part of the government money used to detect and punish moonshiners is paid to spies and informers who are not officers of the law, but belong to the owest order of the mountain population of those States and of Georgia. Mr Settle of North Carolina contended that the appropriations made annually for the support of the federal courts and the officers of the internal revenue service were ample, and that the special fund was most demoralizing and productive only of evil. In North Carolina alone there were 919 commissioned rev anue officers last year, and if there were added the deputy marshals and other employes of the revenue service the total would exceed twelve hundred men employed to break up illicit distilling In a practice of ten br twelve years in the federal courts he had found in trying these cases that nearly every one founded on information was, at the worst, a mere technical violation, for which no court would convict, and that the only effects were to entail a cost on the government and to harass innocent citizens and impose upon them loss of time and heavy expenses that were often more than they could afford. The appropriation added nothing to the efficiency of the service, but it set a

PEANUTS AND THE CIVIL WAR.

An Enormous Increase in the Peanut Crop Due to Old Soldiers. (From the New York Sun.)

"I don't suppose there are many peo ple who know that the ever-popular canut came originally to this country with the first cargo of slaves that landed on our shores," said a dealer in nuts and fruits, "but such is the interesting fact. The peanut is a native of Africa,

United States $1,400 to convict one man almost as a fat 'possum. Cultivation of the sale of a single glass of whiskey and change have greatly reduced its to an informer. He had known of a oleaginous quality, although the nuts here is Society in McKees Rocks, a number of deptuy marshals who had raised in North Carolina secrets enough oil yet to make them in demand in done the same as the Alabama com- France, where they combine with their African progenitor and cottonseed to make a great deal of the olive oil we

"And I don't believe there are many people outside of those who have I who ever heard of the peanut habit. You don't like raw peanuts, do you? I thought not. No one does until he ac quires the habit, and then he wants his raw peanuts just as regular as he wants his tobacco, provided he chews or smokes—and if he has the peanut habit the chances are he is not a tobacco chewer. The funny part of the peanut habit is that it prevails only among veterans of the late war who served either in Virginia or Tennessee North Carolina. These are the states where the bulk of the peanut crop is

"Perhaps you can remember how things were before the war. If you can't, I will tell you that the peanut then was chiefly a holiday luxury to the great mass of people in this coun try. The day when the circus was in town, or when the county fair was showing its pumpkins and four-minute horse trots, or when the great and glorious Fourth of July had come round wisted velvet or fur, and the velvet is again, were about the only occasions when the yearning for the peanut was in any measure satisfied. On these memorable occasions the nut was shucked and masticated until it couldn't rest. It was only in the towns and large villages that the favored few could have peanuts with them always Before the war there wasn't a peanu roaster in the whole country outside of the big towns and cities, and the rural dealers bought their stock already coasted and delivered to them in bags, course bags. To-day every cross-roads from Maine to California has its peaout stand and its wheezing steam roaster, and the great American nut has no better standing on circus day or Fourth of July than it has on any ordinary day of the year, except that there is a creater concentration of energy as to its shucking and chewing on these red-letter days.

"Now, then, a large proportion of the soldiers who went to Virginia, Tennessee, and North Carolina were from the rural districts of the north. So, when hey got among the peanut patches, were, metaphorically speaking, right in clover. At first they roasted at their camp fires the peanuts they pulled eilta. from the patches, but it wasn't long before they not only acquired a taste for them raw, but actually preferred them that way. The result was that the boys discovered after a while that they hankered after their peanuts pretty nearly as much as they did for their tobacco and after they got home they brought the longing with them. What has been the consequence? The demand for peatuts increased so much immediately after the war that the crop didn't begin o supply it. Wideawake farmers saw the point, and garden patches where peanuts had been grown for nobody knew how long were abandoned for the popular nut, and to-day Virginia, Tenness e and North Carolina are growng something like 3,000,000 bushels of eanuts a year-a result due almost enfrely to the civil war and the contractng of the peanut habit by the soldiers of both armies.

"Naturally, the returned soldiers' loud call for peanuts soon placed the nut within their reach and that of the ural population to the furthest limit of mekwonds grocery rom a revolving roaster as thickly as It ever was on the Fourth of July in Corners just as fresh and regular, almost, as if he were still on the old camp ground, yanking the nuts from their native soil.

"When the war broke out most of the peanuts consumed in this country were raised in North Carolina. A great many were imported from Africa. They were of inferior quality. The best of the ante-bellum peanuts, as a matter of fact, were poor compared with the nuts grown to-day. In fact, even the latter demand for peanuts has not seemed to have had the effect of im proving the quality or increasing the deld of the North Carolina product very much. Virginia and Tennessee hough, woke right up under the inreased demand, and improved cultiva ion has produced a nut, especially in Virginia, that is as near perfection as an be. For all that, many old soldiers prefer the little, thin-shelled, strong flavored Carolina nut to the best Vir ginla nut. 'It seems to git there bette and quicker,' a veteran said to me once

"While the Virginia peanuts are th best, their popularity was threatened a few years ago. Consumers began ; omplain of their having a peculiar dis agreeable taste and smell, and they dld, too, What caused this was a mys tery to the trade for a long time. Fin ally it was learned that sometimes th shells of a growing crop are discolored by a prolonged spell of wet weather and as one thing that recommends the Virginia peanut as a favorite in the market is its clean, white, glistening shell, a process of cleaning the damage crop was invented. In it certain chem icals were used that impregnated the meat of the nut while cleaning the When this was discovered the artificial cleansing of peanut shells was discontinued until the difficulty in the process could be remedied, which has been done,

"Norfolk, Va., is the greatest peanut centre in the world, about 1,000,000 bush els being handled there during the year It is a pretty sight to see a peanut plan The blossoms are a bright yellow and the vines a vivid green. No: the nut does not grow from the blossom. As soon as the blossom appears, though, fine branch forms on the vine and shoots down into the ground. eas, as the nuts are called on the dantations, form on the shoot beneath the ground, like potatoes. When the rop is gathered in October the vines are ploughed up and the nuts hang to their roots. Vines and all are piled n cocks in the field, and in twenty days the nuts are ready to be pulled off placed in bags and taken to the factories. There they are cleansed of dirt, issorted into different grades, and polished in revolving cylinders, when they are ready for the consumer, whether h membered one case where it cost the and in its wild state is as full of oil is the soldier with the confirmed peanut hablt or the lover of the nut smok-

THAT CHARMING SINGER, THE LARK

Man Greatly Indebted to Him for Usefulness and Delight. From the San Francisco Bulletin.]

Dr. Levi C. Lane delivered a lecture on birds on Friday evening, the concluding portion being devoted to the lark. He said:

"All birds do not sing. That faculty is, in the main, possessed by those which feed on worms and insects. And in their work in the garden, orchard and grain field, in destroying vermin, they materially aid man in his industries; and if they do eat a few cherries, grapes, or grains of wheat, they richly pay for all they consume in the destruction of insects. In fact, man is greatly their debtor. And in reckoning the serto the insects they have killed, the unhimself in no enviable position as debt-

The American field lark does not soar upward as does this transatlantic brother, yet his notes, swollen with joy, come from a heart painitating with a similar ecstacy of delight.

"The wood lark sings best when his mate is sitting on her eggs, and after the young are hatched, the singer lays aside his syrinx and assists his mate n feeding their young.

'The sand larks have this peculiarity that a company of males will rise upward together, and, when they are so high that they can no longer be seen, then they sing a concert together. Such is as excellent a choir as the angelic one which saluted the ears of St. Ce-

'In the countries of the Levant, in olden times, the lark was highly rever-enced, and in Lemnos he was an object beloved; he called the harvester to work in the morning, and at noontide when the lark rested, the laborers also rested, and in the evening when the lark ended his song, the harvester ceased from his toil.

"Besides the carol which nature taught the meadow lark, he can also learn the song of other birds; not one, but several. But some care must be taken in his tuition, for if the lark hears different birds singing, he ac broad fields, which were planted with quires a song compounded of several the popular uut, and to-day Virginia, confused notes. A WONDERFUL ROSEBUSH.

A plant that blossoms in the open air

of this climate at this season is a good deal of a curiosity to most Waterbury people, hence the stream of visitors to the rose garden of Mrs. C. H. Perkins, No. 28 Walnut street. Mrs. Perkins' garden is the Mecca of all her friends and acquaintances, and many strangers, too, in "flowery June," when from 200 to 300 rose bushes of almost as many different varieties can be seen in full blossom, but now in midwinter, while these are all at rest, there is still an attraction there for flower lovers. It is a five-year-old specimen of the Helle borus Niger, or black hellebore plant, known in every day English as the Christmas rose. The plant, or one very like it, was thought by the ancients to be a cure for insanity, and it is certain vices of the feathered creditors, if they that a man would have to be pretty were to recount their notes in addition well out of his senses not to be brought back again by simply looking upon this grateful lord of creation would find specimen of Mrs. Perkins', whatever its medicinal properties may be. The plant or. And this leads me to some remarks is growing in earth frozen as hard as in regard to a charming songster, the granite and at the present time covers a space may be ten feet in circumference. The bright green leaves are long of the temperate zone, and there are in and narrow and the plant has the sprawling appearance of a monster lobent among these is the crested lark, the lark of the woods, the sand lark, and root and in the center of the green folthe meadow lark. The meadow lark is lage are the blossoms, one solid mass of a native of Europe, yet he has a near kinsman in America. The European lark soars aloft, ascending spirally, are the waxy white of the tube rose singing with all his might, as he rises, when they first unfold, turn to a delland finally reaches such a height that he becomes almost invisible. In this they grow older, and are very much by his admiring female lover, who re-mains on earth below. There is no bet-ber and continues in full bloom all winter long and until late in the spring There are at present probably 300 blos soms on the plant in Mrs. Perkins' garden. Of course both buds and blosoms freeze solid every day of the cold weather, so that they can be broken off like icicles, but this does not discourage the plant in the least, for h seems to thrive on what would be the the very worst abuse for almost any other variety of plant life. | It is enough o make anyone who loves flowers fee incomfortable to se the thing blosson ing there in the snow, uncovered from the biting winter air, but it seems to smile back at you as though sorry for man's ignorance. Like all plants in flower it requires plenty of water, even though the water freezes upon leaf and blossom, and upon the hard earth, as oon as applied. Mrs. Perkins is quite proud of her Helleborus Niger, and wel-

Grand Opera House,

The Wilbur comic opera company continued its successful week last evening with Auber's ever popular "Fra Diavo miliar by the Wilbur company, the bufsometimes the case, and some of the choruses were much applauded. Mr. Clark as "Fra Diavolo" made the ending, which is rather shocking at the best, as gory as possible, and the bedroom scene, in which Eloise Mortimes took the part of "Zerlina," was rather more than less indelicate than usual The comic parts of "Beppo" and "Guicomo," taken by W. H. Kohnle and Claude Amsden, were lively and amusing. The other parts were taken as follows: "Motteo," Gus Vaughan; "Fran-cesco," L. Pineus; "Lorenzo," J. E. Conley; "Lord Allcash," Emmet Drew, "Lady Allcash," Lillie Taylor; "Ro-berto," Belle Hamilton; "Petro," Edith Tedrow. The living pictures called out enthuslastic applause. The posing is artistic, the light and colors dazzle and fascinate and the subjects are well select ed. A special feature is the picture of "Trifby," which is shown as a living ploture for the first time in America and was produced in New York at Proctor's on Tuesday night. The picture is received with rounds of applause, but no encores are allowed or the pictures, and as a special even "Triby," represented by pretty Miss Yorke, was again shown. This picture is creating a great furore. Miss Belle Hamilton sells the matinee tickets ev-

The Grand was packed to the doors last night. Even all the standing room was taken. It was an immense audience. People will find it advisable to buy tickets in advance afternoons in rder to make sure of seats

"The Ups and Downs of Life" is th title of Oliver Byron's new play, which is to be presented the first three nights next week, which is, practically speaking, only in its infancy, possesses great being full of or tive and romantic situations and beautiful scenery. Professor Schurr's collection of bugs, beetles, snakes, birds and other curi-osities has been retained for another week in the lecture hall annex at the Grand Opera house. Poll's Wonderland Theater. Granieau and May are drawing thous

The comedy part of the bill is also fine. William H. Daly in his clever parody songs has made a great impression. When he sings of the country couple's visit to the living pictures exhibition, and tells how the jay fared at the burlesque show, he makes lot of fun for all Storms of applause greet Mr. Daly at every performance. Miss Gladys Van is a great favorite also, her pretty face, sweet singing, graceful dancing and winsome manners attracting all hearts to her and winning her round after round of spontaneous applause. The Miss Swinburne and Howard Pete Shaw, the Sankey brothers, Napier and Marzelo, the Emmet trio, and the Durell brothers complete this excellent bill.

Diamond Merchants Have to Watch Customers Pretty Closely.

Joshua Chapin, a jeweler of London while visiting a diamond dealer in Maiden lane, related this experience with dever thieves: "Long after I thought I knew all the thicks of diamond thieves I had an experience that taught me a lesson at the ost of three thousand pounds, "A gentlemanly-appearing, plainlyattired man came into my shop one norning and asked to see some soliaire diamond rings. I waited on him, and did so with great caution, yet tried to avoid giving offense. I placed before him a tray containing forty rings, and did not for a moment take my eyes from his fingers while he was examining them. As is customary, the tray was filled, so that a vacant place would be readily noticed.

"My customer evidently knew the merits of the stones, and was able to select the most valuable ones at sight. He appeared to enjoy examining them, and did so in a deliberate manner that aroused my suspicion. Finally, he ap-peared to be undecided as to one of three rings and ended by saying he would call the next day with his wife 74-76 Orange street, corner of Center and take one of them. This action made me the more suspicious, and I was careful to see that all the rings were in their places before he left the

"When he did leave I sent a clerk after him, and we learned that he and his wife were at one of the leading hotels, registered from New York.

"He returned with a woman the next afternoon, and the tray of rings was put before them. They were both very deliberate and examined every ring in the tray; but I took care not to have more than two spaces vacant at a time. Finally, a ring, valued at a hundred pounds, was selected, and I was told to mark it and send it with the bill to their hotel. I was about to suggest that I did not like to mark the ring until it was paid for, when the man hand-ed me ten pounds, which was more than enough to indemnify me in case the ring was not taken.

"I examined my tray very carefully and found that it was full, with the exception of the space that had been oc cupied by the ring just sold. I felt re lieved, and congratulated myself on having made a good sale. My customer gave instructions as to the marking and left the shop.

"I handed the ring to our engraver to be marked and proceeded to make a bill to send with it to my customer. Soon the engraver came excitedly to my

"Do you know this ring is plated and the stone paste?" he asked.

"I was dazed for a second and then I saw it all. I hurried to the tray of ings and found every one of them like the one the engraver held. The man had made an imitation of each ring and deliberately substituted the bogus for the genuine ones and thus robbed me before my very eyes. I never saw the thieves or the diamonds again."-New

The pastor of the Congregational church being unable to preach last Sabbath on account of a severe cold the Rev. Mr. Phipps of Prospect oc-cupied the pulpit in the morning. He took for his text the following: "And shall not this woman whom satan hath bound so these eighteen years be loosed from her infirmity on the Sabbath day?" It was a discourse of unusual interest, giving evidence of much research and thought upon the subject He proved conclusively that the evils which effect individuals and society were not sent from God, but the re sult of satan's finding power and influence in the world.

MR. MACKENZIE'S REPORT. Report of T. H. McKenzie, C. E.: To he honorable board of warden and burgesses of the borough of Southing-on, Conn. Gentlemen: I have the honor to subalt herewith a brief report on the sewrage of Southington, including estinates on the cost, of constructing the roposed system. On account of having made previous urveys of the streets for the purpose of designing a water supply and laying treet grades, and by this means ac quired a knowledge of the topography of the town, I did not consider it neces sary to make extensive surveys for the purpose of these estimates. The surveys, as already made, are sufficient for he purposes of making an accurate stimate of the work, and in the event of construction complete detail plans an be prepared.

My plans with reference to the adoption of the "Separate System" of sewer onveying only the sewage proper, and limited amount of roof and sub-soil waters to the outfall, leaving the bulk of the street and roof waters to be carried by other channels to the nearest

My reasons for recommending the separate system are, that it will probably necessary to purify the sewage before emptying into a running stream, and on account of the expense of purification and the large expenditure incolved in conveying the sewage to a ocation sufficiently remote from the illage for the purpose of treatment, it would not be wise to build the sewers of ufficient capacity to convey storm wa ters, which can be turned into the nearest watercourses without injuring any-

My first investigations were in the line of determining whether sufficient areas of land suitable for purification by filtration could be reached by gravity.

I find that the most desirable location for the construction of filter-beds is on tract of land owned by Samuel Bowers, and located along the north bank of the Quinniplac river from 500 to 1,500 feet westerly from the bridge on the Waterbury turnpike, and about one quarter mile westerly from Stillman' corners. This tract contains about twenty-eight acres, of which ninetee acres lies from two to four feet below the proper level for filter-beds. emaining nine acres average seven fee above the bottom grade of the main sewer. As the soil on this tract seems o be well adapted for filtration, and the ocation so remote from dwellings as o be unobjectionable, I have concluded recommend this site for your adoption. The low ground would be filled and levelled off about one foot below the bottom grade of the sewer, and divided by dykes into filterbeds of about an acre each. It is not probable that more than five res of filter-beds will be required for your present needs. The remainder of land can be graded as required The plans as I have prepared them provide for the grade of the main sewer beginning at the filter-beds at an eleva tion of eleven feet above the water in the river and rising uniformly one for per thousand feet for the entire length to Center street, Southington. ammer street sewer will be laid on the ame grade.

The route is over private property from the filter-beds to the corner of Mulberry and South Main streets thence along South Main street to the corner of Main street, Plantsville thence along Main street to Bristo street, and over Bristol street to Cente street, Southington. The grade at this point is six feet below the top of the rails at railroad crossing near the bol

The grade as proposed is the least al lowable fall for a twenty-inch sewer and should give a velocity of 118 fee per minute, which is sufficient to make the sewer self-cleaning. A depth of fifteen feet will be necessary on some por tions of South Main street, but as the material is a dry gravel this depth wil not be objectionabl The section of Main street, Plants-ville, in front of the residence of F. H. Plant, and the sections of Summ street from Main street north to the property of John Flannigan, also the short section from Knowles street to the residence of Mrs. Fench are the governing points in the matter of laying a grade for the main sewer, along these sections the bottom grade of the sewer is two degrees three minutes low the surface. This will necessitate the use of iron pipe and raising the streets as much as is admissable

Through these low sections the base ments of houses could not be drained. As the lowlands fronting on the streets above mentioned are not yet built on F. H. Belden, sr., Mr. and Mrs. Lucius any future buildings could be set a Sperry, Mr. and Mrs. Professor H. K. such a height as would allow of drain any future buildings could be set at

If the main sewer were laid at the or-dinary depth of ten feet through those low sections, very heavy cutting would be required along South Main street and also necessitate pumping the sewage at the outfall.

Regarding the method of purification ecommended, I will say: The purificaion of sewage by filtration through natural sand filters is no longer an experiment as it has been practised extensively in Europe for the last twent; years, and during the last ten years entire satisfaction. In the few place where it has not worked satisfactorily the soll was an imperious clay and en-The music for dancing was furnished by tirely unsuited for the purpos tumerous experiments have determined beyond a doubt that some form of land treatment, either by irrigation or filtration is more effectual and econom al than any of the chemical or hanical processes which have been

The lateral sewers as provided for in the estimates cover all of the streets which are sufficiently built up to de-

For the purpose of flushing the sew-ers I would recommend the use of hose com the fire hydrants or a water cart, as the capacity of the main pipes of the water company are not sufficient o supply the present demands and maintain the normal pressure in the ipes. The flushing from hydrants by reans of a hose could be accomplished during the night, or on holidays, when he factories were not running.

It is probable that out of the total stimated cost of $80,135 that about $40,000 would be assessed and collected from owners of property abutting on the streets which were sewered, leavng the balance of $40,135 as the indebtedness of the borough. The amount would be gradually reduced as the laterals were extended. The assessments on these lateral sewers would probably exceed the cost.

Th estimates which are appended I elieve to be ample to cover the entire st of construction.

For the operation of the system when ompleted the services of one man rould be required at a price not to exeed $2 per day.

Respectfully submitted, T. H. McKENZIE, C. E.

Caserigo's Cafe. The final meeting of the board of fire ommissioners of 1894 was held last evening and was a verliable love feast. All the members of the board were present and the occasion was much enjoyed. Previous to the meeting at the invitation of Jacinto Caseriego, one of the retiring commissioners, a banquet was served at his excellently equipped cafe on Church street. Those present at the banquet wer ommissioners Stannard, Caseriego McDonald, Wines, Walker, Chief Andrew J. Kennedy, Superintendent of Fire Alarm William C. Smith, Fire Mar shal William H. Hubbard and Clerk Benjamin M. Prescott. The table fairly grouned with the delicacles of the season, served in that excellent style for which the cafe is famous. The banques was delightfully informal, and although there were not set toasts those presen did full justice to the excellent viands After the banquet the commissioners adjourned to the city hall where, at 8 'clock, the last meeting of the board was held. At this meeting Commis-sioner Stannard presided at the reques of the members of the board, as he was one of the retiring members of the board. At this meeting complimentary votes were unanimously adopted in ref. rence to the zeal, etc., displayed by ommissioners Stannard and Caseriego and also to President McDonald for the able and efficient manner in which h had presided over the meetings of the

Robert G. Ingersoll Says It The Ball a Brilliant Success-Distanced All

What the Genial Philosopher Really Means.

Other Equally Eminent Men Differ From His Views.

A Question Involved Each of Us Must Decide.

A Letter of Powerful Interest to Our Readers.

The elequent Robert G. Ingersoll, in a recent communication to the New York World, takes the ground that suicide is not always a sin. New York's most eminent clergymen, statesmen and judges immediately filled the columns of that paper with protestations against the great thinker's theory.

What Mr. Ingersoll really said and meant was, that under certain circumstances suicide was not a sin. For instance, he thought that in case of a person suffering with sickness and hopeless of a cure, it would not be a sin lights were suspended over the stage, to end such suffering by self destruc-

Mr. Ingersoll's idea was the humanitarian one of arresting pain. But he forgot that it is often difficult-nay, impossible to draw the line when a disease is curable or incurable.

Mere suffering should not be a war-rant for self-destruction. Countless cases of terrible, yes, excrutiating suffering, have been cured even after all hope was lost, and doctors have pronounced the disease incurable. Many sufferer from disease has been brought to the verge of suicide and afterwards recovered perfect health.

An estimable lady, Mrs. Lila C. Root, who resides at 36 Elm street, New Bedford, Mass., tells the following facts: "I was very nervous," she said, "and my kidneys were in a terrible state, and I had awful pains in my back and side and could not sleep at night. My headache was a source of great annoyance, and I suffered much at certain

"I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, for it cured me of my terrible com Why, I felt so miserable that I often thought I would take my own life. I thank God for directing me to

Case after case like the above might be cited, when all hope of cure had been abandoned, and the persons given up to die, and yet this wonderful medicine has brought back health and joy unto the stricken households.

Suicide is self-destruction. It is just as much suicide to neglect one's health when slightly ill, or when apparently trivial symptoms arise, as to deliberately take one's life. 'To feel nervous to have weak nerves, to be tired, list-less, languid, to have headache, indigestion, constipation and dyspepsia, to pass sleepless nights, to wake tired mornings, to be ever so slightly run down in health and strength,-these are the sure precursors of serious diseases to be later followed by prostration and premature death, unless attended to at Suicide is a sin, and it is suicide to neglect your health. Take this grand medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and it will make you well and strong. Take it because It cures ; take it because it is a physiclan's prescription, the discovery Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York City, the most successful special ist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and who gives his great medicine double value by allowing all to consult him, free of charge, concerning their diseases, either personally or by letter.

IS SUICIDE A SIN? THE HYPERION THRONGED AT THE KNIGHTS OF ST. PATRICK?

GRAND BALL LAST NIGHT.

Were Present-Many From Out of Town-Some of Those Who Were There.

The fourteenth annual reception of the Knights of St. Patrick took place last evening at the Hyperion and it proved to be the most successful one ever given by this popular society. The large theater was thronged and grace and beauty were conspicuous in the gay and festive scene. The decorations this year were far different from those of former years and were also much more extensive. The prevailing color was a light green and white. The Philnarmonic orchestra was stationed on the left of the first gallery and the American band discoursed music from the rear of the upper gallery. Suspended from the top gallery to each of the two upper boxes was a canopy of dellate fabric of a white and green color The fronts of the upper boxes were also draped in fan fashion with the same material, as was also the front of the top gallery. The lower gallery front was concealed with folds of white and green cheesecloth. Silk American flags and banners were hung at the side o the private boxes. At each of the stage sides of the boxes was a bank of pot ted plants. Potted plants in great pro fusion were arranged immediately in front of the boxes. On the stage were rected ten temporary boxes which were all handsomely decorated and furnish ed with rugs and elegant furniture. Suspended high up over the stage was a large canopy of green and white fabric, which entirely concealed the scenery and stage apparatus from view, making a ceiling of beauty. Temporary electric draperies of white and green brocaded The dancing floor, which extended from the rear of the stage and completely covered the parquet seats, was laid with crash. The decorations as a whole were beautiful and artistic. The entire effect, as one sat in the first galtery and viewed the large throng on the floor, was one long to be remem-bered. All the plans were admirably executed, and it was the opinion of all the members and their friends that the ball of 1895 was the most elegant, by far, ever given by this enterprising and influential society and surpassed the society's very fine reception and ball of a year ago. The decorations were greatadmired by those present at this in-resting occasion. The officers of the society are William Neely, president; Thomas I. Kinney, vice president; J. C. Kerrigan, recording secretary; J. J. Kennedy, financial secretary; M. F. Walker, treasurer, and Rev. P. V. Hartigan, O. P., chap-

They were well received. The floral decorations were by Stephen Moore & Co., and the other decorations by the New Haven Decorating

A change was made in the location of the band this being located in the upper gallery this year it was stationed in the rear of the little boat, which could not live in the first gallery. The festivities were continued until well toward dawn.

PIRATE MORGAN'S TREASURE.

Captain Giessler's Odd Expedition to Remore Cocos Island After Mythical Mil-

(From the San Francisco Chronicle,) Captain Giessler, the daring navignor who traveled many thousands of miles in the Pacific ocean in a little sloop, has again turned up in the role of a treasure hunter. With a small party of Germans he left Panama a month ago on the steamer Costa Rica for Cocos Island, where the famous treasure of Pirate Morgan is supposed o have been buried for over seventyfive years. Giessler's party arrived at Panama from New York while the steamer Acapulco was in port, and First Officer Blackman of that steamer had a long interview with the ventureiome captain. Several expeditions have been fitted out from this coast in quest of the treasure trove, but for nerve the voyage of Captain Giessier is without precedent. With a crew of two he made the trip from San Francisco to locos Island. He spent some time ashore, but did not locate the loot of she finished, as he swallowed the lump the pirate. One of the men died, and in his throat and tried to wipe away a Gieseler put out for Costa Rica, Arriler did not attempt to hide the real object of his trip. Endorsement Based Upon Experience, Newark (N. J.) Evening News.

"Most certainly," was the emphatic reply of Dr. Morse when asked by a "News" reporter if the words of commendation of Dr. Da vid Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, that re cently appeared in the press, was veritable "I studied medicine," he said, "with Dr. A N. Allen, for many years the leading practitioner of Massachusetts. Visiting him several years after, he related to me the case of a patient of his who had been cured of stone by solvents. Naturally I inquired into the matter; and he told me. In the town of Dal-ton, Mass., his patient lived, and that he had literally 'suffered many things of many physicians, and they the best of the state. There had been a diversity of opinion as to his allment, but the doctor had diagnosed chronic inflammation of the kidneys, and his proglosis had been "incurable," I had known of this ease-a mere wreck of a man, suffering and pessimistic. But now, greatly to my surprise, the doctor told me that he was so tually cured. He had taken Dr. David Ken nedy's Favorite Remedy, and not only had grown stronger and better, but had passed several pleces of stone. The remedy had promoted the passace of the calculi and had acted as solvent. I saw this man a few days later, looking well, feeling finely, and speaking in the highest terms of the Remedy. I was led to examine it chemically and to test it therapoutically. My deductions have been such as to corroborate the clinical experience of many other medical men, that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy will do that which is claimed for it; and I consider it a great discovery.

The great value of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy lies in the fact that it dissolves the excess of uric seid in the blood. Many of the allments people suffer from—for instance, rheumatis people suffer from—for instance, rheumatism, neuring fin, nervousness, dyspepsia, kidney, liver and urinary troubles, and the sickness peculiar to women, come from this cause. Favorite Remedy dissolves this acid, expels it from the system; thus curing the disease. In cases of scrofula, diabetes and Bright's disease, it cures where all other treatments have failed. grown atronger and better, but had passed

"The party will remain on Cocos Is land for about six months," said Mate Blackman yesterday. "The Costa Rica made a special trip to the island, and will return for the adventurers in the summer. Glessler carried away about forty tons of provisions and supplies and the party is going to make a thorough search of the island. Cocos is one of the most picturesque spots in the Pacific. It is two hundred and ninety-eight miles west of Costa Rica and about five hundred miles from Pan ama. I was there about two years ago and went ashere. In one part of the is land is a well-sheltered bay with a san-dy beach about two hundred feet long nd three hundred feet wide. At the end of the beach the hills rise up perpendicularly, and at their base is an old-fashioned house which was built many years ago. Far back from the two waterfalls pour down the hillsides, splashing over the rocks and inding a bed in a fresh-water river which runs along in front of the buildng and emption into the bay. Years tgo the Island was a penal settlement for convicts from Costa Rica, and the house was left standing from that time. Wild turkeys and pigs still roam about and they should furnish good eating for Glessler and his party.

"Morgan, the pirate, flourished in the early part of the contury. He looted churches and public treasuries all along the Central American coast, and carried things with a high hand until English men-of-war were sent after him. Morgan hid his booty on an Island omewhere in the Pacific, and it has always been thought that the cache was on Cocca Island. Improbable stories are still told of the daring pirate's adventures in Cosis. Pica, of the rich vaults he rifled, the churches he invaded, and the beautiful senoritas he carried off to his island home. "Glessler first came to this coast ten or twelve years ago and on his voyage Panama for water, While there he met an old Spanish woman who claimed Morgan as one of her antreasure. She described the island and gave the captain a chart showing the exact location of the hidden booty, The captain kept the chart, determined to visit Cocos Island when he had the means. About two years ago he charered or bought the sloop Hayseed and started out from Stockton. He was nearly shipwrecked in the Gulf of Callfornia, but finally reached his destina-tion, where he remained until his stores gave out and one of the crew died. With one man he went over to Punta Arenas and there got the concession to establish a colony on Cocos. He made merry over the proposition when I met him, and said that he did not expect to do much colonizing, but that he was going to get that treasure. The latter is supposed to be buried at considera ble depth, and he and his party are going to dig for it. The situation is a rather novel one. The party is hundreds of miles from civilization, and from former years. Instead of there is not even another island any-located in the upper gallery this where near them. They have only a ocean, and if the Costa Rica should forget to go back in six months they would be practically dead to the world, I wish old Glessler luck, but there have been so many looking for the treasure that its existence is now regarded al most as mythical as the wealth of Monte Cristo."

The Place Was Filled. [From the Detroit Free Press.]

"Madam," he said, as she held the door open a little way and asked him what he wanted, "perhaps it so happened years ago that you had a son wander away from the family fireside?"
"Yes, It did," she replied, as she pened the door a little further. "He went out into the cold world and ecame a wanderer o'er the face of the "Yes, he did." "Days and weeks and months ran nto years and you heard no word of him? You knew not whether he lived "As you say, I knew nothing," replied the woman, as she stood in the door and looked fixedly at the tramp, "Well, ma'am," he continued, don't want to raise any false hopes, but

-but-"But you are just a little too late." she finished, as he swallowed the lump ear. "My wandering son returned about two hours ago and is now taking a soak in the bathtub. Had you called early this morning, you know-"Then the situation is filled?"

At the Opening of the Market There Was Pressure to Sell. New York, Jan. 30 .- Operators at the stock exchange to-day were waiting to hear from Washington in regard to financial matters, and in consequence there was a material falling off in business. At the opening there was some pressure to sell, but considering the development over night the liquidations were on a very moderate scale. In the first place there was the failure of the senate finance committee to agree to the repeal of the differential duty on sugar by the house; the appointment of receivers for the Distilling and Cattle Feeding company and the certainty that there would be further heavy withdrawals of gold from the sub-treasury, These adverse factors, however, had but little influence on the market, and the sales of a considerable line of St. Paul and Louisville and Nashville for foreign account also fell flat. The comparative strength in the face of the unfavorable developments noted was due to a general belief that negotiations had been completed between the treasury department and a syndicate of foreign capitalists and national banks for the sale of $100,000,000 of 4 per cent. bonds. Of this sum $75,000,000 are to be placed

Assistant Secretary Curtis' visit to the city, it was said, was for the purpose of completing the details and it was understood an official announcement of the deal will be given out later in the week. This sustained the market throughout and led to a rally of 1/4 to 2 per cent. Jersey Central sold up 2 to 88, Chicago Gas 1% to 73%, Manhattan 1½ to 107½, Lackawanna 1½ to 159¾, Missouri Pacific 1% to 21%, Bay State Gas 11/2 to 211/2, General Electric 11/4 to 31%, Sugar 1% to 90%, Lead preferred 1% to 81, and the other usually active stocks 1/4 to 1 per cent.

Louisville and Nashville was excepionally heavy, and on London selling fell 14 to 49%. Manhattan was strengthened by the report of the Rapid Transit ommission's experts, and Sugar was higher notwithstanding the repeal of the differential duty by the house. Chicago Gas moved up on rumors of an early settlement of the international troubles. Distilling and Cattle Feeding was not specially affected by the receivership and ranged between 7% and 8%, closing at 8%, a net loss of % per cent, for the day. Louisville and Nashville lost 1% and Canada Southern and Canadian Pacific % per cent. each.

The bond market was weak in the early trading, but at the close a firmer tone prevailed for the active issues. Sales were $1,848,000.

Mass., Jan. 30.-President Boston. Clark of New Haven came up from New Haven yesterday and with the officials of the Old Colony road went to Nantucket to look over the route of the proposed electric line from Hingham to Hull. La Grippe is confounded by many persons with a severe attack of catarrh, which in some respects resembles the former. These individuals suffer severely with pain about the forehead, eyes and ears, with soreness in throat and stoppage of the nasal passages, and in fact, are incapacitated for work of any kind for days at a time. These are catarrhal sufferers. Ely's Cream Balm has been used with the best re-cults in such cases. The remedy will give instant relief. j29 eod 3t 1tw
