

OLNEY DICTATED TERMS

QUESTIONS TO BE PASSED ON BY VENEZUELAN ARBITERS.

Lord Salisbury Assents to Unrestricted Arbitration of All Territory in Controversy With the Period for Acquisition of Title by Prescription by the Agreement of the Parties in Advance at Sixty Years.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Two letters which were exchanged between the United States and Great Britain regarding Venezuela since the presentation of Mr. Olney's counter proposition of June 12 were given to the press at the state department this afternoon and help materially to clear up the situation.

In a dispatch of May 22, 1896, Lord Salisbury had proposed an evenly divided commission to report upon the territory in dispute outside the so-called settled districts and Secretary Olney had suggested a provision for a commission of unequal numbers.

The next dispatch was from Lord Salisbury to Sir Julian Pauncefote. It was dated July 3. The dispatch begins by saying that Lord Salisbury will not at present discuss the reasons that induce the United States government to withhold assent from the proposals contained in his dispatch of May 22; Lord Salisbury then says:

"My object in addressing your excellency is to point out that in a matter of some importance Mr. Olney—owing, doubtless to the inadequacy of my own explanation—has misapprehended the purpose of the proposal which I had the honor to make to him. He states that it appears to be a fundamental condition that the boundary line, decided to be the true one by the arbitrators shall not operate upon territory bona fide occupied by a British subject—shall be defeated in every such case so as to make such territory part of British Guiana.

"This was not the intention of my proposals, and the language of my dispatch does not, I think, fairly bear this construction. I proposed that the tribunal should not have power to include such districts as the territory of Venezuela," but I did not propose that they should necessarily be assumed without further proof to be part of British Guiana. I only stated that the ownership of them was not to be decided by the tribunal, which, in our judgment, was inadequate for this purpose, though it was adequate for the assignment of the unsettled districts.

The settled districts shown to be in dispute by the inquiries of the commission were to be disposed of by subsequent negotiation. The claim of Venezuela is so far-reaching that it brings into question interests and rights which cannot properly be disposed of by an unrestricted arbitration.

"It extends as far as the Essequibo. It covers two-thirds of the colony of British Guiana; it impeaches titles which have been unquestioned for many generations. These districts must be treated separately, and until further inquiry has thrown more light upon the matter it is only by reserving the settled districts generally that this can be done. The view of her majesty's government is that where the matter in issue is of importance and involves rights which belong to a considerable population and are deeply cherished by them, special precautions against any miscarriage of justice are required, but which are not required where a little unoccupied territory is alone in question.

"It is for this reason that her majesty's government proposed to except these districts from the jurisdiction of the arbitral commission, though it could deal adequately with the disputed claims of territory not occupied. But they did not intend by that stipulation to ask the government to prejudge any questions which had been raised or might be raised with respect to the ownership of settled districts. This part of the subject, confessedly the most difficult part, would have been reserved for separate examination."

A copy of the above dispatch was given to Secretary Olney, who, on July 13, sent a reply to Lord Pauncefote. In this reply Secretary Olney says:

"All the present explanation would seem to show is that Lord Salisbury's proposals of May 22 contemplated not a complete boundary line, but a part or parts of such a line, namely, such parts as might divide uninhabited or unsettled territory. Such a conclusion requires a somewhat heroic construction of paper which in terms proposes the following basis of settlement of the Venezuelan boundary dispute," by which the governments are to endeavor to agree "to a boundary line" upon the basis of a certain report and by which, in absence of such an agreement an arbitral tribunal is "to fix the boundary line upon the basis of such report."

"Nothing in this language intimates that anything less than a complete boundary line is to be the outcome of the plan suggested. The discussion, however, is hardly worth pursuing. If Lord Salisbury did not make his meaning clear in the dispatch of May 22 he certainly is entitled to make it clear now. There is another part of the dispatch which seems to me of more importance and upon which I wish to base an inquiry. The claim of Venezuela is so far-reaching that it brings out a question, it is claimed, interests and rights which cannot properly be disposed of by an unrestricted arbitration. It extends as far as the Essequibo; it covers two-thirds of the colony of British Guiana; it impeaches titles which have been unquestioned for many generations" is undoubtedly of the most weighty character. The Inquiry I desire to put, therefore, is this:

"Can it be assumed that her majesty's government would submit to unrestricted arbitration the whole of the territory in dispute, provided it be a rule of the arbitration, embodied in the agreement, that territory which has been in the exclusive, notorious and actual use and occupation of either party for even two generations, or say for sixty years, shall be held by the arbitrators to be the territory of such party? In other words, will her majesty's government assent to unrestricted arbitration of all the territory in controversy with the period for the acquisition of title by prescription fixed by the agreement of the parties in advance at sixty years?"

Secretary Olney's concluding question, suggesting sixty years as the period, is undoubtedly to be that which was affirmatively answered publicly last night by Lord Salisbury's speech at the lord mayor's banquet, although it is understood Secretary Olney has been confidentially aware of its acceptance for some time.

The concluding suggestion of Secretary Olney for sixty years as the period for acquisition of title to property led to a counter proposal from Lord Salisbury to reduce the time to twenty years, which was the term common in the United States or to twenty-one years, which was common law in England. Venezuela, however, would not consent to this, nor did Secretary Olney entertain the suggestion for such a reduction. Considerable discussion resulted in a virtual agreement on fifty years as the period. Fifty years would practically make the arbitration unrestricted as nearly all the British assertions have taken place since that time. Schomburgk's lines having been drawn within that period.

Every indication now points to the probability that within the next fifteen or twenty days Sir Julian Pauncefote and Secretary Olney may be able to sign the protocol of a proposed treaty to be submitted to their respective governments for approval, which will include within its provisions a method of arbitrating the boundary line between Venezuelan and British Guiana. The arbitration tribunal is to consist of five disinterested persons, not citizens of any American state. It may take some days further to arrange details as to time and place of meeting of the tribunal and as to the selection of the arbitrators, but there is every reason to believe that the president may be able to announce to congress when it meets in December the signing of the protocol and to submit it to the senate for ratification.

H. W. ALLING ASKS DAMAGES. The Board of Selectmen Hear a Claim for $1,000. A claim of $1,000 damages was presented to the board of selectmen last evening by Judge Hotchkiss, attorney for H. W. Alling, who holds that his property was damaged this amount by grading Crescent street. The claimant avers that by cutting down the street to the present grade the town has inconvenienced him and made his property much less desirable than it was before the change of grade was made. Several other property holders on Crescent street are preparing to make a similar claim.

The finance committee reported that the proposition to allow Patrolman Ahearn the $75 damages for injury done his dwelling by blasting stones could not be carried out, as the committee refused to accede to the demands of the claimant in consideration of the amount of money paid.

At the last town meeting it was voted to expend $1,200 for the purchase of land adjacent to the Beaver Ponds Park. In accordance with that vote the following properties have been purchased: 110 feet on Crescent street at the corner of Munson street, 110 feet of Mrs. Farrell, and 110 feet of E. M. Clark on Crescent street, six acres of land of A. N. Farnham on Bassett street on the east side of the park, a lot on Willis street belonging to the Osborn estate, and on Ford street a lot belonging to S. Robinson. The amount of the purchases exceeded the appropriation $215. Part of the land is on a bluff, while a large area is meadow and marsh. The committee is of the opinion that there is enough of the high land to fill up the meadow without going off the land purchased for dirt. The board will hold a hearing next Tuesday evening on the matter of the removal of the tracks of the New Haven Street Railway company at Morris Cove.

BOSTON'S SHOCKING BACCCHANTE. Now Possible It May Be Admitted to the Public Library Courtyard. Boston, Nov. 10.—There is a possibility that the statue of Bacchante may be given a place in the courtyard of the public library. The trustees of the library have asked the art commission to reconsider its decision against the propriety of placing the statue in the place for which it was intended by Architect McKim, and the commissioners promised to consider the matter of reconsideration. This action of the trustees is based on the fact that the commission has never seen anything but a copy of the statue and the hope is expressed that after it has viewed the original its views will be so far modified as to admit it to the seclusion of the courtyard.

Hurley Seen in Fair Haven. Patrick Hurley, one of the men who escaped from the insane retreat in Middletown last Friday evening, ate supper in Fair Haven last evening. He was last seen going toward the tracks of the Consolidated road near Cedar Hill station. At 2 o'clock this morning the police had not succeeded in capturing the fugitive.

Salecide and Probable Murder. Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 10.—J. S. Wintermuth, a prominent local physician, was probably fatally shot by S. S. Tucker this morning. The latter then blew out his brains. Tucker was subject to fits of insanity. Witnesses of the tragedy said Tucker accused the doctor, who had been treating him, of malpractice.

"SERPENT OF REPUTATION"

ONLY SCOTCHED—NOT KILLED, SAYS THE HONEST-MONEY LEAGUE.

Sturgeon Should be Continued Unremittingly Until It is Dead—Several States Lost Which Should Have Been Saved—Campaign of Education Must be Prosecuted Against the Silver Heresy. New York, Nov. 10.—An address has been issued by the Democratic Honest Money League to the honest money democracy. The address in part says:

"From the latest utterances of those who led the assault upon American honor it is evident that the serpent of reputation has been only scotched—not killed. These men assert their unshaken faith in the vicious principles enunciated by the Chicago convention and declare their intention of continuing the battle during the next four years and of forcing the same issue upon this country in 1900.

"In the face of these assertions and declarations but one course is open to the citizens of the country who stand for national honor and safety and against repudiation; to continue the struggle until even Mr. Bryan as well as his associates shall seek the light of truth, and abandon the contest.

"It is a well known fact that Mr. Bryan was at the zenith of his popularity and power about the middle of August last and that his defeat is due to the splendid educational work of the several organizations which fought for honest money.

"But, although we have succeeded by the narrowness of the margin in certain states which were saved and the fact that several which should have been saved were lost—states, every one of which can be brought into line for honest money by continued educational effort—shows the urgency of the need for further action.

"This league asks all honest money organizations throughout the United States to continue under arms for the present with a view to meeting the attack; to extend their work and influence into the states which were not successfully covered during the campaign, and to continue in communication with this body, which will remain in the field while there is work to be done."

"DOLLAR WHEAT" IS SIGHT. One Third of the Argentine Crop Destroyed by Locusts. New York, Nov. 10.—"Dollar wheat" appears to be in sight, and the prospect is that the flow of gold from Europe will soon be resumed. Cash wheat No. 2, the standard grade, sold to-day at 94 cents a bushel. On August 14 last it sold at 64 cents. The chief dealings to-day were in December wheat. The opening price was 87 or 14 cents above the closing price of Monday.

The low price of the day was 87 1/2 cents on a "split sale," the high price was 89 cents, and the final price was 88 1/2 cents, or 2 1/2 cents above the final price of Monday. The high price prevailed on Monday was 86 9/16 on a "split sale" on October 19. A potent factor in moving up wheat was a despatch from Rosario saying the locusts had already destroyed one-third of the Argentine wheat crop and were still doing damage. In addition there was information that the drought continued in India and Australia.

PINGREE VISITS MCKINLEY. Says Michigan Sentiment Does Not Endorse Alger for the Cabinet. Canton, O., Nov. 10.—Governor-elect Pingree of Michigan came from Detroit to-day to see the president-elect. Incidentally he had something to say about the availability of General R. A. Alger for a cabinet appointment, saying to several persons here that he did not think public sentiment in Michigan was very much aroused in behalf of the ex-governor.

The members of the Union Medical association of northeastern Ohio called in a body this evening and were cordially greeted by the president-elect. Most of the other callers to-day were people who had been engaged in various forms of campaign work.

Major McKinley expects to leave on Thursday for a week's visit with Colonel Myron T. Herrick at Cleveland. A personal friend here of Chauncey M. Depew says that he has Mr. Depew's word for it that he would not accept a position in the cabinet if it were offered him. In a letter of congratulation to the president-elect, Mr. Depew says:

IN HONOR OF MARK HANNA.

A Luncheon at Which Many Distinguished Men Were Present.

New York, Nov. 10.—A luncheon was given this afternoon in the banquet hall of the Equitable building by Isaac H. Seligman, of the banking house of J. & W. Seligman & Co., in honor of Mark A. Hanna. There were about thirty or forty guests at the table, among them being General Horace Porter, Cornelius N. Bliss, Carl Schurz, General Louis Fitzgerald, president of the Mercantile Trust; Seth Low, D. O. Mills, and J. Edward Simmons, president of the Fourth National bank.

Mr. Seligman, in the course of some remarks, emphasized the importance of joint action in the future by the republican and national democrats in settling the currency question. He paid a tribute to the work for national honor and credit done by Mr. Hanna and then introduced that gentleman.

Mr. Hanna spoke at length and said he felt he was addressing an important body of New York bankers and merchants. He stated also that the administration recently chosen would go into office without pledges of any kind and wholly uncommitted as regarded the formation of a cabinet.

This statement was greeted with applause. Mr. Hanna also spoke of the general character of the work done by political organizations in the recent campaign, and said republicans and national democrats would preserve their organizations intact to further the work so auspiciously begun. He hoped this organization would be able to enlist all good citizens in the good work still to be done to bring about thoroughly good citizens.

There were several other informal talks, and the opinion was expressed that after so many years of stormy discussion an absolute rest was needed, and no new political question should be pushed to the front to disturb business. It was felt the business men should now have an opportunity to build up national industries, and if that were done there would be such an advance in general prosperity that laboring men as well as business men would feel the beneficial results of the last election.

GOLD FOR CUSTOMS DUES. Yellow Coin Being Received for the First Time in Several Years. Washington, Nov. 10.—The treasury, for the first time in several years, is receiving gold for customs duties. For this reason, and because gold is being withdrawn from hoarding places and deposited in the various sub-treasuries, the gold balance at the close of business to-day had increased to $122,234,315. The present policy of the department is to discourage the receipt of gold, as the treasury has not on hand, without inconveniencing itself, sufficient currency to exchange for all the gold likely to be offered.

The present treasury balance is $229,803,000, of which (exclusive of the $122,000,000 gold) $51,523,000 is in greenbacks and $39,477,000 in Sherman notes. Only $13,343,000 of silver certificates remain in the treasury. The continued increase in the deficit is now engaging the attention of Secretary Carlisle and will be treated by him in his annual report.

It is rumored that he will recommend an increase in the tax on beer from $1 to $2 per barrel. This proposition is said to be favored by Commissioner Miller. The treasury deficit for the month to date—one-third of the month having passed—is $4,453,000, making an aggregate since July 1, 1895, of $37,342,000.

SNOW IN THE NORTHWEST. Heavy Fall Covering a Large Area—Blizzard in Wisconsin. St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 10.—From two to three inches of snow have fallen in this city since yesterday morning. In southern Minnesota and Iowa the depth is reported to be twice that. The storm originated in the Dakotas two days ago and now extends nearly all over the northwest.

Marshfield, Wis., Nov. 10.—A blizzard of the first magnitude is blowing here. Snow has fallen irregularly since last Thursday, and to-day more snow fell than at any time in the past two years. About six inches have already fallen, and indications point to at least a foot by morning.

Leadville, Col., Nov. 10.—The heaviest fall of snow in years began yesterday and continues. Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 10.—Six to ten inches of snow fell in this section last night and to-day. Chadron, Neb., Nov. 10.—The heaviest snow storm in many years prevailed here last night. This morning when the sky cleared there was a foot of snow on the level extending all over northwestern Nebraska. Stockmen were generally prepared for it and the loss will be light. Passenger trains from the east are delayed from two to four hours.

GUARDING CITY'S MONEY

BOARD OF FINANCE GAVE COMMISSIONERS A HEARING.

Appropriations Asked For by the Police, Fire and Lamp Departments Several Thousand Dollars More Than Those of Last Year—The Claims of the Boards Strongly Urged. The board of finance considered last evening the estimates of the police, fire and lamp departments for the ensuing year. Commissioners Moran and Ullman and Superintendent Smith were heard first in behalf of the police estimates. The members of the board and the superintendent were closely questioned by the committee.

Alderman Rourke's pencil was close at hand when each estimate was read. It took the combined power of the two commissioners and the head of the police department to persuade the doubtful calculator from the Seventh ward that everything had been calculated at bedrock, and but little could be taken from the estimates submitted. One of the lists, at least, provided by the auditor for the use of the members of the board of finance is considerably marked, and is stowed away in Alderman Rourke's breast pocket for reference, when the matters come up for final action. The total estimates this year are about $20,000 more than last year.

A recapitulation of the estimates of the police department and a comparison with last year are as follows:

$163,380.75 Pay roll.	$182,741.93
2,277.00 Police alarm.	2,975.00
650.00 Wagon and harness repairs.	650.00
1,000.00 Ambulance.	500.00
200.00 Patrol wagon.	200.00
1,200.00 Forage.	1,350.00
840.00 Reporting stations.	1,040.00
500.00 Special detective service.	500.00
1,000.00 Sundries.	1,500.00
$173,066.75	$191,456.93

The fire department was represented by Commissioners Walker and Macdonald and Chief Engineer Kennedy. Ten additional men will be put on this year, provided the board of finance include in the appropriation a sufficient amount of money to pay them. This will give the members of the department a longer vacation than it has been possible to give them heretofore.

Included in the estimates is an appropriation of $15,000 for an engine house in the Twelfth ward, Fair Haven. Chief Kennedy explained that the protection against fire in that portion of the city was entirely inadequate. Fifteen thousand people live in the Eleventh and Twelfth wards, and they are exposed to the danger of fire to a degree that should be at once remedied.

When the bill for sundries was called the demand of the board to have it explained was unanimous. Acting Clerk Fancher read an itemized account of what was included in the sundry column last year, and it included a variety of items from a bar of soap to the expenses of Chief Kennedy and one commissioner to Salt Lake City. This was inventoried as necessary traveling expenses.

"That you will not need, chief, this year," said Alderman Rourke, to which the chief replied, "No; the association will be here this year, and we want $1,500 with which to entertain them." Both commissioners and the chief thought if they were allowed to use the unexpended balance, as has been requested, the department would need so much less of the appropriation asked for next year.

The total amount asked this year by the department is $14,486. This will probably be cut down, as the commissioners and Chief Kennedy conceded a few of the items last evening. The total amount asked for last year was $116,825.

The necessities of the lamp committee were illustrated by drawings by Inspector Henry Hopkins. The department this year asks $3,148. Last year it was $75,485.50.

BEAUTIES AND THE BEASTS. Belles of Gotham Society at the Big Horse Show. New York, Nov. 10.—In the evening Madison Square Garden filled up early and the attendance exceeded that of the first night. The belles of society occupied the boxes fronting on the promenade, and most of the well-groomed men of the town were in the aisles. Those in the galleries watched the performance in the ring with interest, but a large part of the crowd devoted itself to the beauty show. It was a gala night and the costumes were the most brilliant shown this year. Some of the notable people present were Baron Le Ghaht, Belgian minister to the United States; ex-Governor Flower and G. J. Gould.

POSTAL SERVICE EXPENSES. Postmaster-General Wilson's Estimate for the Year Ending June 1898. Washington, Nov. 10.—Postmaster General Wilson has submitted to the president his estimates for the department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898. The first assistant postmaster general's office requires $43,542,500, an increase over the previous year of $2,012,750. Third assistant's office, $1,559,100, an increase of $37,400, and Fourth assistant's office $38,311.

BUFFALO IN THE BIG LEAGUE.

Belief That That City Will Succeed Cleveland in the Circuit.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Nick Young, president of the National league of Baseball associations, and Pat Powers, president of the Eastern league, arrived here to-day en route for Chicago, where the National league's annual meeting will begin on Thursday. Taken in connection with the many stories afloat to the effect that Buffalo or Detroit will succeed Cleveland in the major league, the visit was looked upon as significant, but Mr. Powers said that it was nothing but a break in the long journey westward.

Besides Mr. Powers himself wished to have a few words with Magnate Franklin in respect to the affairs of the Eastern league in general and those of the Buffalo and Toronto clubs in particular. He seemed to be of the opinion that Toronto would retain its place in the Eastern league, as a number of capitalists are about to interest themselves in the club. If their efforts come to naught, one of four cities is a possibility. These are Worcester, Fall River, New Haven and Hartford. Mr. Powers thought that no mistake would be made in choosing any one of the four.

Mr. Powers was chary about predicting any changes in the National league circuit, and seemed to be of the opinion that the status quo would be maintained.

MUST KEEP DOWN EXPENSES. The Department of Public Works so Instructs Superintendent of Streets. The board of public works voted last evening to instruct the acting superintendent of streets and the city engineer to reduce the force of employees so as to keep the expenses in each of the departments within the appropriation for the fiscal year ending November 30.

The contractor for the paving of Ashmun street began laying the bricks yesterday afternoon. About sixty feet of the work was laid.

BRIDGEPORT'S BIG CELEBRATION In Honor of the Great Victory for Sound Money and Good Government. Bridgeport, Nov. 10.—There were 3,600 people in the sound money ratification parade to-night, of whom about 600 were gold democrats. The Gold Legion of New Haven carried off the honors of the night. All along the route they were applauded and commended for their fine appearance.

The parade consumed an hour and a quarter in passing one point. It traversed seven miles of street. Among those who reviewed the marchers were Governor-elect Cooke, Congressman Hunt of South Norwalk, Hon. Samuel Fessenden, Senator Marigold and many others recently elected to state offices. Four-fifths of the houses along the line of march were handsomely decorated and illuminated.

The factories of any size throughout the city were represented by distinct delegations. Two accidents of no serious nature marked the demonstration. A wheel was taken off the carriage in which Henry M. Bishop, purchasing agent for the Consolidated road, was riding, but his injuries, though painful, were not serious. A bicycle rider was run down by a saddle horse and his wheel ruined.

The Philharmonic band headed the first division and the Wheeler & Wilson the fifth division. The Second regiment band of New Haven headed the Gold Legion. Besides these there were drum corps unnumberable.

The following is a list of the organizations which participated in addition to the regular district clubs, horsemen and wheelmen: Algonquin club, Seaside club, Gold Legion, New Haven; Gold club, Stratford, 175; Josselyn's flashlight exhibit, W. F. Swords' Lumber company, Wheeler & Wilson band, Philharmonic band, New Haven band, eight drum corps, Barum's club, Hungarian club, 200 Slavonian club, 275; Swedish Republican club, Standard association float, Hinks & Johnson club, Warner Brothers, Lagdon, Batcheller & Co., Thomas P. Taylor, Bullard Machine Tool company, Eaton, Cole & Burnham; Burns, Silver & Co., Smith & Egge, Bridgeport Copper company, Bridgeport Forge company, Wilmot & Hibbs, Yost Writing Machine company, graphophone, Push company, Strickland band and float, McKinley Light Battery with Gatling gun, Tippecanoe chorus, American Ordnance company, Bridgeport Brass company, Cartridge company, Bridgeport Corset company, Holmes & Edwards, Bridgeport Butchers' association mounted, Wheeler & Wilson Manufacturing company.

ONE SIDE OF THE STORY. Report of a Brilliant Spanish Victory—Insurgents Repulsed by Two Towns. Manila, Nov. 10.—The Spanish forces have won a brilliant victory over the insurgents at Noveleta. The rebel positions were strongly fortified, and there was desperate fighting before they were taken. The insurgents lost 400 and the Spaniards thirty-three killed.

Havana, Nov. 10.—The towns of Vegas and Colimar, the latter being close to this city, were attacked by rebels yesterday. The garrisons at both places repulsed the insurgents. No losses are reported. The police have searched the rooms of a social club at Regla, across the bay from Havana, and found a quantity of ammunition. A number of arrests were made. Among the prisoners is Louis Lay, an American. Vice Consul Springer, who is acting in place of General Lec, during the latter's absence in the United States, is making an investigation. Leavitt and Melton, two of the men captured on the filibustering schooner Competitor and now awaiting trial, are suffering from yellow fever.

STRUCK BY AN EXPRESS

PHOTOGRAPHS KILLED AND ANOTHER WILL PROBABLY DIE.

They Were Trying to Board a Moving Freight Train—Accident Happened Near the Greenfield Station—Injured Man is Christopher Broga—Identity of Other Two Unknown. Greenfield, Mass., Nov. 10.—Fitchburg train No. 5, west bound, struck and instantly killed two men and probably fatally injured a third, just before it came to a standstill at Greenfield station, at 10:20 to-night. All three men were trying to board an east bound freight that was moving slowly. They were seen moving on the railroad bridge by Inspector Kingsbury just before being struck by the express.

Christopher Broga of Worcester, the injured man, recovered consciousness long enough to give his name and say that his companions were not known to him; that he had been looking for work and was afraid to ask for a night's lodging at the lockup for fear of being held as a tramp. His left leg is cut off below the knee and he is otherwise injured. He was taken to the Franklin county hospital and is not expected to live through the night.

From papers on his person one of the men killed is supposed to be Vard Eaton. That the name in his hat and in a memorandum book in the name injured man, recovered consciousness long enough to give his name and say that his companions were not known to him; that he had been looking for work and was afraid to ask for a night's lodging at the lockup for fear of being held as a tramp. His left leg is cut off below the knee and he is otherwise injured. He was taken to the Franklin county hospital and is not expected to live through the night.

WANAMAKER FOR SENATOR. Philadelphia Business Men Name Him to Succeed Don Cameron. Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—The McKimley and Hohart Business Men's national campaign committee to-night wound up the business of the organization. The committee was the first of similar committees to be formed in various cities and did effective work during the campaign. It was composed of some of the wealthiest men in Philadelphia. To-night they organized "The Philadelphia Branch of the National League of Business Men." Similar organizations are to be formed in other cities. The candidacy of John Wanamaker for the United States senatorship to succeed J. Donald Cameron was endorsed.

The following was adopted: "To aid in the organization of similar organizations for the purpose of extending loyal and earnest support to the chief executive of the government in the arduous duties of his office; to encourage patriotic love for our country as a united whole, and to break down and obliterate sectionalism; to maintain national credit and integrity upon a sound money basis; to uphold law and order and secure prosperity for our people; to promote the election of members of the national legislature in the senate and house who are in sympathy with this movement and who will distinctly represent the business interests of the country; to form a strong and united front to the party of repudiation and disruption, who in their hour of defeat, are threatening to immediately renew and persistently continue during the ensuing four years, the assault upon the honor and integrity of our country; that immediate steps be taken to secure the formation and co-operation of other similar organizations and to arrange for an early meeting of delegates from such organizations to perfect a permanent organization of a national league of business men."

NOTORIOUS NEW YORK SHOPLIFTERS WORK Chicago Street. Chicago, Nov. 10.—W. L. School, Harry Bauer and his wife and Mame Delmont, an alleged gang of New York shoplifters, are under arrest here. The quartet, it is claimed, has been doing systematic robbery in the State street stores for a year and is believed to have accumulated $15,000 worth of merchandise, including furs, jewelry, silks and all kinds of wearing apparel. The greater part of the plunder was sent east. Express receipts, showing shipments of about $5,000 worth of property to New York and other eastern cities within the past two months, were found in Bauer's trunk.

Baptist Congress Annual Session. Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 10.—The Baptist congress met in annual session to-day. Papers on denominational topics were read by President Green, of William Jones college, Mo., and President H. H. Harrison, of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville. Addresses were made by Thomas D. Anderson, D. D., of Providence, L. I., and President Statt of Franklin college, Ind. A paper on "Christianity and War" was read by General T. J. Morgan.

Western Union and Bell Telephone. London, Nov. 10.—Russell Sage said this afternoon that he knew nothing of the report from Boston that a new agreement had been affected between the Western Union and Bell Telephone companies.

Georgia Senatorial Caucus. Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 10.—The senatorial caucus met again this morning and continued balloting until a late hour without result. The caucus adjourned until Thursday at 3 p. m. The last ballot, the twenty-third, was as follows: Atkinson, 61; Clay, 52; Howell, 35; Lewis, 15; Evans, 0; Robertson, 0. On this ballot there were twenty-one absentees. It looks like a long dead-lock. Scattering votes were cast to-night for F. G. Dubignon, ex-Secretary Hoke Smith and Sam Jones.

YESTERDAY IN THE COURTS SUIT FOR $5,000 AGAINST FAIR HAVEN AND WESTVILLE ROAD. Assignment of Thomas F. Haan—Suits for Commissions—Hired Must Support His Wife—Dr. Lee Asks for a New Trial—Other Court Notes. Judge Shumway, in the civil side of the superior court, yesterday afternoon, heard the suit of Francis Healy of Fair Haven against the Fair Haven and Westville road to recover $5,000 for injuries his son received over a year ago, when the brake flew round and struck the lad in the eye, destroying the sight. Attorney Hamilton appears for the plaintiff, and Watrous & Buckland for the defendants. Probate Court—Judge Cleveland. Thomas P. Horan, saloonkeeper of 767 Grand avenue, yesterday made a voluntary assignment through his attorneys, Maher & Conlan, yesterday, naming Frank G. Maher trustee. The liabilities are about $1,400, assets $300. Horan came here from Berlin two or three years ago, established a saloon, and sank about $6,000 during the past year in the business. Court of Common Pleas—Judge Studley. Judge Studley yesterday heard the suit of John H. Phillips against C. W. Kellogg & Co., in the court of common pleas. Mr. Phillips sues for a commission which he alleges is due him from Kellogg & Co. He contends that as agent for the firm he secured a contract for them from the Consolidated road for laying an artificial stone walk around the Mt. Vernon depot. The contract was for $2,500 and Mr. Phillips claims 10 per cent. Kellogg & Co. contend that Phillips had nothing to do with securing the contract. Court Notes. George W. Hird, a silversmith, pleaded guilty of non-support in the city court yesterday, but asserted that if the court would give him an opportunity he would do what was right. Mrs. Hird testified that she had two daughters, aged fifteen and seventeen years respectively, and the older one had to be taken out of school because the father would not provide for her. Witness did her best to support herself and children, and took in sewing to that end. Her husband's great trouble was over drink. Hird was ordered to pay his wife $5 a week for twenty-six weeks and furnish a bond of $150 or go to jail for sixty days. A SUIT FOR A COMMISSION. The case of Louis Rosenberg vs. Jacob Cutler to recover $66 commission was tried in the city court, civil side, yesterday. Early in the spring Rosenberg sold some property for Cutler and he claims that Cutler refused to pay him his commission, which amounted to $66. Cable and Tyner appeared for the plaintiff and Lynch and Doroff for the defendant. The juryman on the case were David H. Clark, George E. Mitchell, Rev. D. M. James, Fair Haven; J. W. Hull, Daniel F. Kelley, Walter J. Connor, Bernard E. Keating, Alonzo D. Jacobs, Fair Haven; Albert Widman, Louis Steiner, Charles H. Strennell, Charles W. Hemingway, Fair Haven; George A. Stockin, Emerson R. Smith, Rev. Newman Smyth, Henry Hillman, John Ruff, David O'Donnell. DR. LEE ASKS A NEW TRIAL. Attorney Prentiss W. Chase yesterday filed an application for a new trial in the case of Dr. J. Edward Lee. His application is made on these grounds: That Judge Thayer refused to give him a new trial; that he did not have sufficient time to prepare his case as he had but a few days intervening between the Morse case, of which he was attorney for the defence, and the opening of the Lee case; that the evidence did not show that the crime was committed within the jurisdiction of the New Haven superior court; also that his request to personally examine each member of the jury was not granted, he believing the several newspaper reports and the previous cases in which Dr. Lee had figured had prejudiced some of them. He took exception to the testimony of both Bird Palmer and Thomas F. Ruff, the conductor of the train on which Miss Palmer rode to this city from Derby, and Attorney Chase also claims the judge charged the jury directly in contradiction to his request. OYSTER BOAT ATTACHED. E. M. Woodward, the coal dealer, through his attorney, G. J. Tuttle, has brought suit against Merritt W. Burwell for $225. An attachment has been placed on Mr. Burwell's oyster boat. ATTACHMENT RELEASED. The attachment which was placed on money belonging to Burton F. Cannon, the liverman, by his wife, Rose Cannon, last week, was released yesterday. Edward F. Bishop, the George street horsehooper, became surety. He was examined on the witness stand before Judge Shumway and proved himself qualified to become surety. Mrs. Cannon attached her husband's property for $15,000. FINE AND JAIL FOR STEALING. Charles Bass and James Williams were yesterday fined $7 and given thirty days in jail each for the theft of a watch and clothing from Charles Zulm. NOLTE'S BOND REDUCED. The bond of Julian Nolte, charged with stealing diamonds and money from Prof. Adolph Schwicardi, was reduced by Judge Cable in the city court yesterday morning from $1,000 to $700. Attorney Hamilton appeared for Nolte, and argued that the bond as it stood was unnecessarily large and gave the accused no chance of obtaining liberty before the trial. The court made the reduction. Nolte is still in jail, but his friends are trying hard to secure the bond. 30 DAYS FOR STEALING A SHIRT. Lawrence Mulligan of Oak street was yesterday sent to jail for thirty days for stealing an undershirt from a Hebrew. Mulligan claimed he bought the garment on Congress avenue, but Sergeant Tiernan exploded this statement. THE ROAD NOW COMPLETED. Trial Trip Over the Manufacturers' Street Railroad To-day—A 30-Ton Motor to Draw Cars—Road Will Not be Put in Operation for Three Weeks. The first trial trip over the new Manufacturers' Street railroad in Fair Haven, now practically completed, will be made to-day by the officials of the road. The trip will be made with one of the trolley cars of the Fair Haven and Westville road. The laying of tracks and wiring of poles on the new road was completed yesterday, but the road will not be put in operation for two or three weeks, during which time several minor details will be completed. The cars of the road will be hauled by a 30-ton electric motor, constructed by the General Electric company of Boston, and which was on exhibition at the world's fair, and the current for the motor will be furnished by a system similar to that used by the Consolidated road on the Nantasket Beach branch. A cross section of the wire, instead of being round, is shaped like a figure eight. With this model of wire, the fastenings of the supporting wires from the side poles can be secured without the clamp around the entire feed wire. The clamp is only fastened to one-half of the feed-wire, and thus leaves the contact service entirely free from interruption. The tracks connect with the Consolidated road tracks at Cedar Hill. They extend from James street, a Cedar Hill, through the Mill River meadows to River street, to the Quinipiac brewery in Fair Haven. THE CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW. The chrysanthemum show and sale of fancy articles by the United Workers to-day promises to be most attractive. There will be rare plants on exhibition and for sale. Fancy articles of dainty workmanship will make the prettiest of Christmas gifts, and dolls of varied nationalities will delight the children. The tea, chocolate, cake and candy tables will be most appetizing in their tasteful arrangement. The committees are as follows: Flowers, Mrs. W. W. Rowland, Mrs. E. P. Morris, Miss M. de F. Skinner, Miss Blanche Whitteley, Miss Jennie Smith. At the tea table Miss Edith and Miss Rebekah Morse with their friends will preside. Mrs. Ward, Miss Daggett and Mrs. Lines will have charge of the cake. Miss Florence Rowland and Miss Carrie Fitch will preside at the candy table. Mrs. F. G. Ead, Miss Griffith, Mrs. David Daggett, Mrs. Shelton and Mrs. S. M. Day will have the care of the fancy articles. Mrs. H. C. Lake, Mrs. Rowland and Miss Robertson will dispose of the fascinating dolls. Miss Scranton will receive the mysterious "birthday" bags. A refreshment fifteen cents. The apocryphal rooms at 290 Orange street will be open from 11 o'clock through the day and evening. WOMAN'S BOARD OF MISSIONS. November Meeting Yesterday Afternoon. The New Haven branch of the Woman's Board of Missions held their November meeting at Center church chapel yesterday afternoon at 8 o'clock. A large number were present and the meeting was devoted in large part to reports from the convention of the board at Manchester, N. H. Yesterday's meeting was arranged and carried out for a Thanksgiving service, the scripture read and the hymns sung being selected with special reference to this idea and the various reports dwelt on the reasons for thankfulness in the home missions and junior work and from the mission fields. Reports were made by Miss L. E. Prudden, Mrs. Henry J. Prudden and Miss Grace Porter on the home mission, junior and other mission works. A letter was read from the missionary of the local board in Mexico and also one from Mr. Montgomery of Adana, Turkey. THE ALMONERS' CONFERENCE. Mr. S. O. Preston Speaks in Hartford on the Co-operation of Charities. Hartford, Nov. 10.—The monthly meeting of the Almoners' conference was held in the Connecticut Mutual Building yesterday afternoon. It was voted to hold meetings bi-monthly. Mr. S. O. Preston of New Haven gave a long and interesting talk upon the co-operation of charities in his city. The question was asked by Mr. Preston whether the detective features of the work, or the work of securing needed relief was the more prominent. The detective element was voted the more prominent among the public. A prominent effort of the charities and corporation church is to keep the poor from the public charities, and it has been a public sentiment that no respectable person should become a town pauper. Y. W. C. A. The first entertainment of the winter will be given at Warner hall on Wednesday, November 11, at 8 p. m. The managers are fortunate in securing Mr. George L. Fox, who will deliver his lecture on "Norway and Sweden," or "The Land of the Midnight Sun." Of this lecture a recent notice says: "The subject was full of interest, and made more captivating by a series of beautiful dissolving views. Mr. Fox's easy, conversational manner of describing the people and scenery makes a delightful lecture." "One listens to his words as though he was telling a pleasing story or reading a fascinating romance, and his stereotyped views compare favorably with those of Mr. Stoddard." This lecture is free to all class members. Other ladies and gentlemen can secure tickets at popular prices at 565 Chapel street.

HARLEM RIVER YARD. The Immense Amount of Business the Consolidated Handles There. An interesting history of the development of the Harlem river yard, through which all east and west bound freight of the Consolidated now passes, has recently been written by W. E. Chamberlain, assistant superintendent of the New York division, who is in charge of the yard. Among other things Mr. Chamberlain tells how, prior to 1873, all the Consolidated freight was drawn up Fourth avenue from Center street to Forty-second street by horses. Then came the Harlem River and Portchester parallel scheme, which was bought up by the New Haven road and completed in 1893. From this time freight was taken by transfer boats from along East river to Harlem river yard, and this system resulted in a large increase in traffic. Pier 50 was opened in 1875. President Clark wa. then general manager of the New England, and the same year organized the New England Transfer company, for the purpose of transferring freight cars on floats from the Pennsylvania station in Jersey City to Harlem river, to be hauled by the New Haven road to Hartford, and there delivered to the New England. The plan proved a very profitable one. When Mr. Clark became president of the New Haven road he succeeded in obtaining for his road the property of the transfer company. Since Vice President Mellen has been general traffic manager the freight traffic has greatly increased, until now the Harlem yard has a record for hauling 1,995 loaded freight cars in one day. STATIONARY ENGINEERS. The grand annual ball given by the Stationary Engineers' New Haven association, No. 2, N. A. S. E., was held in Harugur hall Monday night. The grand march was led by the chairman of the committee of arrangements, Max Trommler and wife led the march, followed by 100 couples. AS TO DEADLY CONTAGION EVERY CASE FRAUGHT WITH DANGER.

Fifty-six Diphtheria Patients Last Month—'For God's Sake do Not Take the Bread From My Family.' Were the Words of a Poor Shoemaker—Hospital for Contagious Diseases a Dire Necessity.

'Every case of diphtheria in the city is fraught with the most dangerous consequences,' said President Fleischner yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the board of health. The remark was brought out by the report of the committee on hospital for contagious diseases.

There was no action taken on the subject further than accepting the report of the committee, but the members indulged in a running commentary on the action of the citizens of New Haven in courting a scourge of contagion.

'Fifty-six cases of diphtheria and twenty-one cases of scarlet fever is a record for one month that is alarming,' said Health Officer Wright, 'and still the people of this city act as if there was no danger in the air.'

Commissioner Stannard said: 'Every day cases are reported to Health Officer Wright which have a story behind them. A case in point is that of a shoemaker whose house was placarded to-day because his child had diphtheria. 'For God's sake, do not take my bread and butter from me,' said the man when the inspector nailed a placard on his door.'

Continuing, Mr. Stannard said: 'There are some people in New Haven who have not realized the importance of a contagious disease hospital. I know that the papers say that every one in the city has a sense of its importance, but he does not want the hospital next door. In this I am satisfied the press is not well informed, for I meet men every day who would be in favor of the erection of such an institution if they could be brought to a realization of the immense loss that occurs with each case of contagion. Why, the other day diphtheria broke out in a Crown street boarding house. The lady who kept it was dependent upon the money she made by so doing for the maintenance of her family. There was no place to take the patient. What was the consequence? Every boarder left the house. In York street there have been five cases of diphtheria in one house. Had there been a place to take the first patient there would have been no recurrence of the disease.'

President Fleischner said that the fumigating apparatus that would be at the disposal of the hospital would be as necessary and important as the hospital itself. No one would claim for the present crude fumigating process anything but something to make out with. Librarian Stetson sent a communication to the board requesting to be kept informed of the families in which contagious diseases had been reported. The clerk was instructed to furnish the desired information.

The parents of the children who attend Lovell and Edwards street schools are much worried over the appearance of diphtheria in several families in the districts. The cases are light. At 46 Foster street there are two patients, Gladys White and Erma Trefry. At 15 Nicoll street Harry Whinn, who lives with his aunt, Miss Coakley, a teacher in Lovell school, is also ill with diphtheria.

Baldwin of the society's committee of the Dwight Place church, were at the depot and attended the interment at Evergreen cemetery. Rev. Dr. Asher Anderson of Meriden and Dr. Twitchell officiated at the cemetery.

POOR PAID IN GOLD.

Meriden, Nov. 10.—The selectmen paid the outside poor in gold this morning, and it took some time before the applicants could really make up their minds that it was the real yellow metal they had in their hands.

CORBETT AT YALE FIELD.

'Gentleman Jim' Watched the Football Practice Yesterday—Said He Wanted to Bet on the Yale-Princeton Game—Left for Meriden Last Evening.

'Gentleman Jim' Corbett, the pugilist, was in New Haven yesterday, having arrived in town at 1 o'clock yesterday morning from Stamford, where he produced his new play, 'The Naval Cadet,' Monday night. Corbett was accompanied by his wife and Miss Taylor, a member of his company. They stopped at the New Haven house.

Yesterday afternoon Corbett went out to Yale field to watch the football practice and seemed much interested in it. He said that he wanted to see the Yale team practice, as he expects to make some big bets on the Yale-Princeton game. The big fighter was the center of much interest at the field, and several students who were at the field took snap pictures of him, with his permission.

Corbett and his party left at 6 o'clock last night for Meriden, where he will play his show for a few nights.

THE LATE REV. D. HENRY MILLER.

His Funeral at Mystic Monday—Close of an Active Life—Was Chaplain of the Fifteenth C. V.

Norwich, Nov. 10.—The Rev. J. W. Nicholson, pastor of the First Baptist church of Bridgeport, officiated at the funeral of the Rev. D. Henry Miller, D. D., at Mystic on Monday afternoon. There was an unusually large assemblage at Chestnut cottage, Dr. Miller's home, to assist at the services. The funeral was at Yonkers, N. Y.

Dr. Miller died Saturday at the age of seventy-one. He had been in poor health for upwards of six years, and while comparatively feeble, yet was able to go to the polls to vote on Tuesday. The news of his death, was, therefore, unexpected, and was a surprise to acquaintances throughout New England, where Dr. Miller was generally known. He had been in the ministry nearly fifty years and in that time had had seven pastorates and baptized 1,667 persons.

He was born on the island of Jersey in the English channel on October 31, 1825; was brought up in the Methodist church and educated for the ministry. He graduated at Wesleyan university at Middletown, Mass., in 1845. He was ordained to preach in the Baptist ministry at North Stonington, December 12, 1847. From there he went to the Staunton street Baptist church, New York city. In May, 1849, he went to Yonkers and under an elm tree organized a church with but seven members. Here he remained eight years and built up a very prosperous church.

In April, 1857, he was called to the First Baptist church of Meriden, where he remained until 1862, when he enlisted as chaplain of the Fifteenth regiment, Connecticut volunteers, of the Army of the Potomac. He was in the field two years. In 1854 he accepted a call to the First Baptist church of Trenton, N. J. Here he remained until 1867, when he went to Elizabeth, N. Y., at the Broad street Baptist church, which he had built at a cost of $100,000.

In 1872 he was called to the Worthen street Baptist church of Lowell, Mass., where he remained one year, after which he was called to Plymouth Baptist church of New York city. In 1875 he went to the Noble street Baptist church of Brooklyn, where he remained for ten years.

In 1885, on account of ill health, he made a lengthy visit to Europe. On his return, as his health was not improved, he returned to his cottage at Mystic. His only pastorate since then was in Norwich, where he was pastor of the First Baptist church for several years. Since that time he has resided continually in Mystic.

Dr. Miller was a member of Williams post, No. 55, G. A. R., and at one time was department chaplain of the state organization. He was also a prominent Mason. In early life he succeeded Dr. Dowling as editor of The Baptist Memorial.

In 1855 the degree of A. M. was conferred upon him by Madison university and in 1866 the degree of D. D. by Lewisburg university. In 1887, the fortieth anniversary of the ordination as pastor of the church at North Stonington, was duly celebrated, the address being made by the Rev. Dr. T. J. Armitage.

He was married three times. His third wife died in Mystic some time ago. His second wife was Mrs. Sarah Maynard of Norwich, the widow of Dr. Maynard.

An adjourned meeting of the Connecticut society of the Order of Founders and Patriots of America was held Saturday, resulting in the election of the following officers: Governor, Charles Alexander Jewell of Hartford; deputy governor, Norris Galpin Osborn of New Haven; secretary and treasurer, Charles Mather Glazier of Hartford; registrar, Edward Everett Sill of New Haven; historian, Thomas Jefferson Boardman of Hartford; chaplain, Rev. Among the prominent associates in the New York society are Colonel Frederick Dent Grant, the governor-general; John Quincy Adams, Rear Admiral Meade, Prof. Thomas Eggleston, Colonel Lewis C. Hopkins, Hon. James J. Belden and Clarence L. Collins. The semi-annual meeting of the general court is to be held in the historic hall in New York on November 13, followed by a reception in the evening at the Hotel Normandie.

Among those present were: P. O. Saunders and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lovell Smith, Mr. and Mrs. George Starkweather, Miss Leonard of Washington, Mrs. Starkweather of Hampton, Mrs. Boland and son of New York, and friends from Norwich.

THE MALLEY FARM.

Wallingford, Nov. 10.—Work has just been resumed laying out the large tract of land known as the Malley farm into streets and building lots. Strauss Bros. have the contract for the work. Among the other improvements is the straightening of Wharton's brook. It is reported that Edward Malley, who is the owner of the property, will build six houses on the land.

ENGINE HOUSES INSPECTED.

Proposed Sites for New Tenth Ward Engine House Visited.

All of the fire engine houses in the city were yesterday inspected by Mayor Hendrick, Chief Kennedy and the fire commissioners, such inspection being made twice each year. The men, apparatus, horses and quarters were inspected, and at each house there was a test of speed in getting out the apparatus ready for a fire.

The inspecting party also visited two proposed sites for the location of a new engine house in the Tenth ward. The decision as to which site is accepted will be made public in a few days.

THE LATE MRS. VANDERBILT.

Funeral Services Were Held Yesterday Forenoon.

New York, Nov. 10.—St. Bartholomew's church was filled to the doors this morning during the funeral services over the remains of Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt, which took place at 10 o'clock. After the relatives and intimate friends had passed into the edifice other friends were permitted to enter.

Rev. Dr. Greer, assisted by Rev. Robert C. Booth, officiated. The bier was covered with costly floral gifts. The ceremonies were extremely simple and impressive.

Among those present at the church were Cornelius Vanderbilt, Right Rev. Bishop Potter, Rev. Dr. John Wesley Brown and Rev. Dr. Eggleston, the latter being the deceased's pastor when she resided on Staten Island.

At 11 o'clock the funeral cortege left the church and drove to the Forty-second street ferry, where it embarked for Staten Island. The interment was in the Moravian cemetery at New Dorp.

Owing to his illness, Cornelius Vanderbilt did not accompany the remains to the grave. The pallbearers were Chauncey M. Depew, D. O. Mills, S. F. Barger, George Crocker, James A. Burden and John Sloan.

ANNUAL DONATION DAY.

The Home for the Friendless—Its Work and Great Usefulness—New Building Hoped For Soon.

Although the Home for the Friendless has been in existence only a little more than a quarter of a century, its well doing has extended over an immense field of misery and wretchedness, with small thought for creed or color, so long as the need was there. Yet there is, perhaps, no work of mercy among the many in New Haven about which so little is known.

The institution, unlike many charitable homes, is exactly what its name implies—a home for friendless women. When the appeal for aid goes forth quietly once every year the response is liberal enough to keep the home from debt.

The care of homeless wayward girls was the first object of this corporation. Although its charity has since branched out widely, this first object still continues one of the foremost. The institution differs from some others inasmuch as it will not open its doors twice to the same unfortunate woman.

Girls who have met with misfortune are welcomed with open arms, cared for and sheltered, and many are made better for life by the refining and gentle influence of kind women. Those who need medical attendance are sent to the hospital, where they are kept by special provision of the home.

The single condition on which they are received is that they return to the home after their recovery, and here they must remain for six months. It is during these six months that the society hopes to so mould the characters of the girls that they may become useful members of society.

Nearly every young woman who is received lays the foundation of a character while she is in the home, which enables her to live an upright, self-respecting Christian life, and very few fall back in later years. The special work of the home is to give help to such cases as these girls who are not hardened.

The institution has begun to outgrow the old wooden house at Clinton avenue and Pine street, in Fair Haven. A new wing of brick, containing twenty bedrooms, has been added recently, and these apartments are given over to the aged women of the home—women who are more than seventy years old.

The managers of the home look forward to the speedy realization of their plans for a new building which will adequately shelter the inmates. Special subscriptions to this object have been received to the amount of over $5,000.

To-morrow is donation day. The home will be open to visitors and a cordial invitation is extended to all its friends to visit it at that time.

To accommodate those desiring to give, who may be unable to visit the home, or to send their donations there, the store at 694 Chapel street, at present vacant, has been generously placed at the disposal of the home for to-morrow. All contributions of goods or money may be sent there, where some one will be present from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. to receive them. Checks should be made payable to L. F. Coakley, treasurer.

NO REDUCTION IN WAGES.

Rumors of Cuts Made by Several Local Companies—Denied by the Various Firms.

It was reported yesterday that cuts in wages had been made by the New Haven Clock company, Mallory, Wheeler & Co., the Candee Rubber Co., and Henry Hooker & Co., but investigation of the cases showed that the rumors were unfounded. It was stated on the streets yesterday that the Clock Co. had reduced wages about 10 per cent., but Superintendent Coe stated that no reduction had been made by the company, nor by any of the contractors, to his knowledge. President Andrews of the Mallory, Wheeler & Co. said that there had been a little revision of the prices paid to the buffers and polishers, the prices for some work having been lowered and for other work raised, making the average the same as before. There is, also, probably no truth in the report that the Candee Rubber Co. had made a 4 per cent. reduction. Secretary N. A. Hooker of the Henry Hooker & Co., states that there has been no cut of any kind in their factory. He said that business was dull and it was found necessary to lay off some of the men. Some of them proposed to work for less wages than not at all, so they were allowed to keep to work.

FUNERAL OF MISS BEMIS.

S. Bemis, and Mr. Smith of Salem. The burial was in Fairview cemetery. Friends were present from Salem, where she died, and from New Haven.

MRS. CASTLE RELEASED.

She Will Come to the United States at Once With Her Husband.

London, Nov. 10.—Mrs. Walter Castle, of San Francisco, the kleptomaniac, who was sentenced at the Clerkenwell sessions on Friday last to three months' imprisonment without hard labor, after having pleaded guilty, by the advice of counsel, to shoplifting, was released from Wormwood Scrubbs prison this morning, by order of the home secretary, Sir Matthew White Ridley.

The commissioners of prisons, it appears, direct the medical board to inquire into and report upon the health of Mrs. Castle, whose condition was causing anxiety to the prison authorities. She was watched day and night by special attendants in the infirmary and was shown every attention possible. The commissioners, after receiving the report of the medical board on the state of Mrs. Castle's health, communicated with the home secretary, who promptly ordered her release from prison and that she be placed in the care of her husband who has undertaken to take her back to the United States with the least possible delay.

Kentucky is full of patriotism. In Clark county alone no less than five hundred flags were raised during the campaign.

A recent law suit noted by Case and Comment illustrates what their may be in a name. It was Damm vs. Damm, and both parties were women.

It is estimated that about 200,000 men have received employment since McKinley's election. These men have received an instructive object-lesson.

They do some things well in Japan. Newspapers are suppressed in that country not merely for political reasons, but for publishing scandalous articles on the private life and family affairs of individuals.

A Michigan farmer's wife who kept a record of her cooking operations for a year had these figures to show, there being six persons in the family: 325 loaves of bread, 83 tins of biscuit, 15 loaves of brown bread, 267 pies, 180 cakes, 35 puddings, 114 dozen cookies, 108 dozen ginger-snaps and 14 chicken pies.

Many meritorious things that were done during the campaign are just coming to light. For instance, an Indianapolis crowd mobbed a campaign orator who said "I-ther" for "either," declaring that no true American would say "I-ther," and that he must be a Briton in disguise talking in the interest of the British free silver syndicate.

The lamented Monticello is not the only one. Baltimore's Calumet club, for many years past the strongest Democratic organization in that city, has lost so many members of late that it has decided to abandon its present home and seek another, smaller and less expensive. The Calumet was started in 1838 as a rival of the Crescent, which it soon outstripped and finally killed, but the Republican victory of last year weakened it materially, and now the defeat of Bryan, whom the club supported against the protest of all its best members, has brought practical ruin.

The Florida Agriculturist says that the orange groves of the State are rapidly recovering, and it will be only a short time now before the growers who have "given their trees care and attention will begin to realize the fruits of their labors." The Agriculturist says that the great freeze was in no sense a "blessing in disguise," as some have said, but was a positive calamity; nevertheless, the State is rapidly recovering from it, and will before a great while be sending as many oranges to the markets as ever before, provided no other similar calamity comes along to mar all of the present bright prospects.

Although Colorado went for Bryan she isn't as badly off as she might be. The new governor is to be Hon. Alva Adams, who ran as a Silver-Republican Democrat. He was opposed by a People's Silver-Populist National-Silver candidate, together with other nominees to the number of five. There was a gold Republican among them, and former Governor Waite's name also appeared as the head of the National-People's party. By uniting their forces against the People's Silver-Populist National-Silver nominee, Bailey, the conservative citizens of the State, barring the gold Republicans, won a complete victory over the dangerous party whose chief elements were in power under Governor Waite.

A WARNING. We don't very often warn the good people of New Haven. This is not because they don't need warning often. They do, but what's the use of scaring one's neighbors and friends by warnings which may or may not pan out? If they don't pan out the scare will be useless. If they do both the scare and the woe will be suffered, and if the scare is omitted there will be only the woe to suffer. But we feel bound now to warn the people of New Haven to look out for their Green. The music coop in the middle of it appears to be all done now, and if it is not calculated to point a warning we don't know what is. We call attention to the fact that that music coop has grown around the flagpole in the middle of a time devoted to patriotism and the preservation of things that ought to be preserved.

Where have the people been whose duty and privilege it is to preserve the sacred grass of the Green from desecration? Why have they slept while the enemy has sowed and grown such a tare as that music coop? Why have they not groaned and protested and kicked? Why have they not "Town-Born," "Veritas," "Pro Bono Publico" and "One Who Knows" written to the Journal and Courier about the matter? Does the appearance of the band stand and Bryan on the Green mark the end of the Green age? If it does not we warn those whose business it is to take care of the Green to begin to do it. If they don't there will be more things than Bryan and the band stand on it, for it stands to reason that if that band stand can stay there little else can be fairly or consistently kept off. Why, unless something is done there may yet be a canopy at the corner of the Green to protect thousands of people daily and nightly just as the music coop in the middle of the Green protects twenty-five or so for several nights in the summer.

There ought to be a meeting or something about the music coop. If there isn't somebody who goes across the Green late at night may become aware of a weird meeting in the coop held by ghosts who have been moved to come out of the Center church crypt by what has happened to their cow-pasture. It will be simple poetic justice if the man who sees that fearsome meeting happens to be the designer of the coop.

MRS. MALLOY, WOMAN ELECTOR. Although woman suffrage had a bad defeat in California Woman will shine for the first time as a member of the electoral college. She will so shine in the person of Mrs. Sarah Malloy, of Cheyenne, Wyoming. Mrs. Malloy has lived in Wyoming since 1870. She is in full sympathy with the idea of woman suffrage, which has prevailed in Wyoming for many years. She has served as a delegate to Republican county conventions, and has always done her duty in a creditable manner. She never misses voting on an election day. Her husband is a staunch Democrat, and a favorite remark with him is that he has been throwing away his vote ever since his marriage because his wife always votes the other way. While Mrs. Malloy takes extreme interest in politics she is a good housewife and a kind mother. She has four children, the eldest a civil engineer 18 years old. Mr. Malloy is superintendent of the Union Pacific railroad from Cheyenne to Ogden, a stretch of five hundred miles. Many of his Democratic friends in the service of the road voted for the wife of their superior officer. Some may think that Mrs. Malloy's distinction wasn't won in just the right way, for she asked her husband if he might run. When she was nominated her husband frowned, and she told him she would do exactly as he bade her. Mr. Malloy made some inquiries, and found out that his wife would not be called upon to do any campaigning, and so gave her his permission. He ought to be a proud man now, but he hasn't been heard from since his better half has shown him what it is to be a good Republican.

BAD WORK IN ENGLAND. An interesting discussion has sprung up in England where many wrong things are done. An eminent English civil engineer has publicly asserted, and his statement has been borne out by others in the same and different lines of business, that it is becoming a common thing in England for engineers who are employed to lay out and supervise work, and for architects who plan and superintend the construction of buildings to demand and to receive commissions from those who contract to do work or furnish supplies. That is, in too many instances, it is assumed to be an understood thing that a builder who contracts to put up a building, or a dealer, a plumber, a painter, or a house fitter who contracts to do work or furnish supplies, shall include in the estimates they send in a commission to the architect in addition to the commission which the latter receives from the one who employs him to make the design and to superintend the construction of the new structure. Manufacturers and dealers in supplies assert that unless they are willing to pay a commission they are not called upon to make bids, and civil engineers assert that there is a growing tendency in operations over which they have no control to indulge in the same pernicious method. It is asserted that in other lines of business in England the same fraudulent practice has obtained a marked extension, and that it is often the case that those having goods for sale cannot find a market for them in certain quarters, no matter what the price or the quality of the goods may be, unless they pay a bribe, mis-called a commission, to clerks or other assistants in the employ of the company or individual making the purchase.

No wonder there is talk about such wicked work in England. Of course nothing of that kind is ever done in this country, so there is no need of any talk about it here.

FASHION NOTES. Boleros Not for Plump Women. Boleros are so pretty and so generally worn that it is almost impossible to be wise about them, but only a tall or very slender woman should risk them.

For the many who think they might risk them there are several compromises. A bolero cut only to the bust line or even bobbed off shorter than that does not sacrifice the height as does the jacket cut off just short of the waist line. These last are prettier and more characteristic. If you want that bolero line under the arms and at the back you can save a little height by letting the fronts of the bolero extend down sharply in a pair of points that reach a little below the belt line. Yes, that does take from the character of the bolero, but it destroys its appearance, and, what is worse, ruins its wearers, to be worn by any one who looks like a rain barrel with a sash on. Boleros may also be compromised into a point at the back and a pair of little tabs at the shoulders in front. A box bolero is a more complete compromise. It is cut to a point in front and opens at the back. A bolero split up the back showing the bodice beneath in a point narrowing to the collar is less unbecoming than the squared-off one. For the woman with big hips there is no rule, no compromise, no saving grace that may be applied to the bolero. If such a woman must have a bolero let her have one added to her night dress, and if her house catches fire may it occur in the daytime. The bolero sketched here is of the sort that slender women revel in, and it was part of a walking rig of unusual construction. Bolero and skirt were green cloth, and the center box-pleat and deep bodice were green velvet. The latter being attached to a plain taffeta bodice. The last named portion hooked in the center beneath the pleat, which was loose at the bottom, and the bolero which was entirely fitted, was edged with fur all around and trimmed on each side with two minks. It was cut in one with the high wired collar and was held together in front with silk galloon. The small sleeves had fur trimming. FLORETTE.

VARIATIONS. Teacher—"How old are you, Willie?" Willie—"I'm 5 at home, 6 at school, and 4 in the cars."—Washington Times. In Philadelphia.—Her Friend—"And when are you to be married?" She—"In three years. Charles, you know, is so impatient!"—Puck. "Paw," said Tommy Tucker, "am I descended from the monkey?" "Not on my side of the house," replied Mr. Tucker, with much positiveness.—Tit-Bits. Mamma—"Johnny, I fear you were not at school yesterday." Johnny—"H'm! I'll bet the teacher told you, A woman never can keep a secret."—Boston Transcript. Bacon—"In Venezuela they have trees which look exactly like umbrellas." Egbert—"I should think they'd be afraid to leave them out all night then."—Yonkers Statesman. "No, darling," said a mother to a sick child, "the doctor says I mustn't read to you." "Then, mamma," begged the little one, "won't you please read to yourself out loud?"—Tit-Bits. During the Interval.—Bobbie—"Papa, do green apples always give a boy a pain?" Bings—"I believe so. Why?" "I was wondering if this was going to be an exception to the rule."—Brooklyn Life. Needy Poet—"Can you use a poem on the bicycle?" Editor—"Not unless it is strapped to the handle bars. Much as I can do to use my feet and hands."—Boston Transcript. "I've got a great mind," said the young man, "to go West and grow up with the country." "But you don't know anything about agriculture." "I know that. But there are one or two sections where there seems to be so many politicians that I believe an energetic man could come pretty near getting a monopoly of the farming."—Washington Star. "You want as much for this thermometer," said the woman who had arrived before the store opened so "as to be the first at the bargain counter," "as you did for those you showed me last August." "Of course," the salesman answered. "It's the same thermometer." "No it isn't. There ought to be a reduction in the price. Those others had nearly twice as much mercury in them as these have."—Washington Star.

A TALK ABOUT TREES. When the world learns to go to the chambers of the earth for knowledge, and conforms to the demands of natural law, we shall know that philosophers greater than Socrates have come to abide with us. Instead of envying the millionaire, the farmer can sit down beneath his trees and comfort himself with the thought that at the doors of death he can claim as much as his wealthier brother. The most scrupulous honor and unflinching industry will give a man nothing better than peace. He will never feel the ignoble envying, the gnawing discontent at his heart for the magnificence of the rich, for all men are kings who own fifty acres of land and understand cultivating them according to natural law.

The rich are not always happy. They are sometimes made miserable when they are freed from their beautiful dream of riches by their actual possession; they find themselves disappointed at the first hour they experienced a sensation with nothing to do but to look out for their investment. They would gladly go back to the beginning. Their grand idea of happiness are sadly dwarfed by reality. There is more comfort in cultivating the soil than all other employments created for human industry. Ploughing and planting, seed time and harvest, are the seasons when man feels the nearest to his Creator. No slow apathetic contentment is felt in spring-time, and no sad worry is felt in harvest seasons. So it must have been appointed to all men to live in harmony with the soil. There is never vain over-shadowing spirits of discontent and longing round the agriculturist who understands his work. The meagre unappeased longing for more is lost in the energy of restoring and producing when midsummer puts on the beauty of the vast ripening fruit, grasses and grain.

How all the vexation of pitiful, lawless passions disappear, the flutter of green leaves are like music, while the rustling corn and ripening grain rise on the evening breeze like prayers. Ah! there is no life like a natural one. Fame is but a bubble that bursts at the touch of misfortune, but the happy agriculturist may go on planting his acres, and nature always responds to his kindness and rewards the work of honest hands. Nature is steadfast. There is no golden halo of friction about the life of a farmer, and no mean subterfuge can be exchanged for honest labor. The fields respond to kindly treatment and show their want of care in one season. Certainly there can be nothing lost by doing justice to the fields and forests. This may be seen in the southern portions of the country. In the vicinity of the Chesapeake and Delaware. These bays extend from the northern boundaries in a southern direction, and the agricultural outlook grows brighter as we approach the central parts of the states. In the southern and western quarters, among the highlands, there are extensive swamps, and those damp, almost useless portions of the south should be vitalized in the most scientific manner, and the lower classes of vegetation will give place to the higher and more useful classes of trees. Draining and other methods will be used, and the muck and peat with other compounds mixed with the sand of the sea, and the clay soils of the highlands, will in time fertilize the southern soils and produce rich and bountiful harvests. The soil is sandy, and some parts of the state, especially around the country of the Chesapeake Bay, the soil consists of strong clay substance and requires great amounts of fertilizers. End of the world, a large tract of clay loam of great fertility and strength for all kinds of vegetation, especially trees. This may be said of a great portion of the south. The most beautiful crops of wheat, corn, rye and all other grains and a great variety of vegetables and esculents peculiar to the other Middle States may be produced. Fine grazing land and pasturage to a multitude of cattle, horses and mules, neat cattle of all kinds are found in certain portions of the south. The Delaware has along its banks swampy tracts, yet it yields large quantities of timber; much of it is sent to places in other states, and the white pine timber, with the live oak goes north, south, east and west. The Delaware river enters the bay of that name. The greater portion of forest lumber was taken from the Delaware by the construction of cities and villages, and the internal improvements going on in that portion of the country. The trees have been cut till the forests in those counties lying along the two rivers, though fine, are not old. In and through the Chesapeake and Delaware counties the forests still appear healthy and flourishing.

In 1839, when the Delaware and Chesapeake Canal was finished, connecting the Delaware and Chesapeake Bays, so did the great breakwater erected by the general government. This work was of great magnitude. The timbers used were found in the vicinity, as were the stones and other materials. I give this to account for the forests being thin and often young in growth. But along the Delaware river, and along that portion of Pennsylvania which connects with the state of Delaware, may be found the finest forest trees and the richest and most fruitful country on earth. The forest trees bear the looks of great age and some of them, if they could speak, would tell a tale of great changes in nature as well as human conditions since the Revolution.

Going further south the soil increases in fertility. Maryland and Virginia are states noted for the productions of the soil and portion of hewn has been determined to out-do the other in their agricultural productions. Trees have given place to orchards and vineyards, cotton, tobacco and large plantations where grass and grain are chiefly produced. Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the other southern states are reaping the benefits of the conditions brought on through the commanding elements of man-created warfare. Every thing that the soil produced from the forest trees to a blade of grass felt the internal effects of the struggle. Forest trees went down as if by magic for camps and camp-fires, and every other thing was made to feel man's contending nature which always conflicts with natural law and the productions of the earth. There are no states in the Union that display greater power for agricultural productions than those of the south. Georgia, the Carolinas and all the states between Pennsylvania and Florida are improving, especially in their forests. The wonderful expansion of all southern industries increases the demand for natural and agricultural productions, and the increase in building and manufacturing leads to the promise that very soon the southern states will find markets at home for all their surplus productions. And the forests will hardly supply the growing demand for lumber. The forests are yet able to meet the demands, and other countries are growing rapidly, which will give commercial and other intercourse with portions of South America, whose agricultural characteristics and conditions are calling forth friendly sympathy, and will eventually lead to an exchange of agricultural productions, as well as increase the rural industries of the great southern portions of the continent of America. The forest productions of the tropical climates are rich and desirable, but not extensive. Logwood, redwood, white pine and oak are the best of the trees. Buenos Ayres, Cordova and Santa Fe are not rich in forest timbers. Texas are all favored with forest productions (not extensive), as large portions of those countries are more noted for grazing, particularly the mountain regions. The different parts of California furnish rare old forest trees of ancient growth. All those parts of the earth are undergoing rapid transformation. Civilization and extensive building will thin the forests, and it remains to be proven whether government will offer inducements large enough to tempt indolent farmers to plant trees throughout the western and southwestern portion of the country. Southern states have not yet commenced to replenish their forests. They leave nature to perform the work. But orchards, vineyards, cotton, rice and the tobacco plantations receive close attention. The Southern states as well as the other portions of our great nation should look carefully after their forest productions. California and Oregon are becoming sensible upon this question of forest planting and preservation of their ancient growth of trees. The possibilities of the future for those countries are immense. It is known that the nearer we come to the equatorial belt the forests are older and present a wild and beautiful scene. And the lumber is of the richest and finest character. Rosewood, logwood and mahogany are among the best of the lumber, and those find their way to all parts of the world. The great valley of the Amazon in Brazil seems to attract unusual attention, not only for its inland plains, but for its vast virgin forests consisting of many varieties of trees and various timbers of the richest kind among the agricultural departments of trees, or those bearing fruit, nuts and oils. There are those which furnish gum, rosin, oil, nuts, medicinal, fibrous plants, and many other trees rich in value for timber and manufacturing purposes. The future will develop all the vast American forests, including those of Central America and Brazil. But the grass and grains, and the vegetable productions of those countries are not equal to our own country. There is no more fertile country on earth than our own. North, south, east and west nature reigns, and will forever guard and replenish her own kingdoms, and especially the forest trees. AMOS D. SMITH, 3d.

TAILOR-SWEAT-SHOPS IN ENGLAND. With regard to the reported strike of the master tailors in the East End, a representative of the Westminster Gazette has been making inquiries at the strikers' headquarters in Houndsditch. It will be news to most of our readers that the master tailors are "sweated" quite as badly as the journeymen who are employed in their workshops. In the ready-made trade coats are turned out for 2s. to 1s. 6d., and even 1s. 2d.

The Present Price of Silver bullion is the lowest ever reached in years. Recent development and indictments against twenty-eight New York Dry Goods and Department Houses for selling fraudulent silver would tend to induce purchasers to patronize reliable Jewelers in the purchase of gold and silver. The House of THE GEORGE H. FORD COMPANY has an established reputation for ability, integrity and conservativeness.

WATCH THIS. A LADY SAYS "It ought to be a great card for that food Seal Boefgrain that after trying all the other foods it is the only one I can eat." Delicate stomachs require food containing NO STARCH; it is an additional advantage if there is also NO STARCH. There is no food so free from husk and starch as Seal Boefgrain breakfast food. Besides this it is highly concentrated. One teaspoonful equals at least six teaspoonfuls of ordinary foods. It is a PURE FOOD; contains no pepsin or other chemicals. Easily cooked, easily digested, palatable. Suitable to the most delicate stomachs. Makes a delicious, smooth gruel. It ought to be in every family for THE YOUNG who eat hastily and do not properly masticate their food, for THE AGED whose teeth are poor, for sudden CASES OF SICKNESS when the digestive powers are weakened, and as an ORDINARY BREAKFAST FOOD for nutrition, vigor, and life. This, of course, does not leave much profit for the master tailor when the wages of his employes are deducted. To earn a livelihood at all the master tailors are not only obliged to work as hard as their men in the workshops, but they cannot afford in many instances to give more than a starvation wage. It must be remembered that these jackets which are ordered by big firms at this incredibly low price are sold by them at more than one hundred per cent. profit. Our representative visited one of the better class workshops, where some dozen or more women and men were busily employed. It was a well-lighted, airy room—very different from the "sweating dens" which Mr. Charles Booth has shown us. Frock coats, overcoats and coats of all kinds were being turned out, mainly by hand. A frock coat, for which the future wearer might pay three or four guineas to a fashionable tailor, fetches 13s. 6d. from the wholesale firm which distributes them to the shops, and this represents fifty-three hours' work. An ordinary "tail" coat fetches 8s. to be sold at an enormous rate of profit by an enterprising tailor with an imposing shop-front somewhere or other. Such prices tell their own tale. And if the coats are not returned to the moment, telegrams and cabs are sent after them, and the expense deducted from the masters' profits and the workmen's wages. Here is another item—a Newmarket paddock coat was being made for 13s. 6d., and the fortunate buyer of such a coat will have a tailor's bill of five or six guineas or even more, to pay. If such a coat cost the wholesale firm two guineas, there would still be a profit of one hundred per cent. when the cost of the cloth had been deducted. Even at such a low rate of remuneration the most skilled workmen earn as much as 8s. a day. But this wage is exceptional, and under present conditions is becoming impossible. What the master tailors demand is a rise of 3d. on every article costing less than 2s., and a rise of 6d. on the better class of work. This demand seems to be moderate and reasonable. If it is refused there will be a general strike. With this information before us we are almost emboldened to suggest another general strike—against tailors' bills.—Westminster Gazette.

WALLINGFORD'S PARADE IN HONOR OF M'KINLEY AND HOBART'S ELECTION.

Preparing for a Big Demonstration—It will be a Big Success—Other Notes—The Chrysanthemum Show

Now that it is decided to have an outdoor demonstration to celebrate the recent glorious victory every patriotic citizen in town should lend a helping hand and make the attempt one of the biggest affairs the old town has ever witnessed. The committee appointed to take charge of the celebration is an able one, and will not cease its labors until success is assured. There are many ways in which the merchants can assist the committee in their labors, one of which is to make it a point to turn out in line with their delivery wagons decorated and help swell the number. Everyone who owns a team, especially a big team, should see that it is trimmed up and filled with enthusiastic young, or even old folks, to help make a show and noise. If everybody who truly rejoices over the victory for sound money and good government only takes a hand, the affair is bound to be a grand success. Arrangements will be made to have the factory gongs and whistles sounded during the parade, and there will be other implements in use to help along the racket. A monster bonfire on the peak of Mt. Tom would be a good idea, and would show the neighboring towns that old Wallingford was having a celebration such as was never seen here before. Wake up and let's make it a rouser. It is a little late in the day, but this is an extra occasion, and can stand it. John Milton Hall started yesterday for Providence, R. I., on a business trip.

The town clerk's office is closed for a few days to be cleaned, painted and otherwise thoroughly renovated. Mrs. J. C. Rich of Hall avenue, while getting on a train at Berlin Monday evening, fell and badly cut her face and seriously bruised herself otherwise. Northford residents are scared over a wildcat that comes down from the mountain into the village and lets out unearthly screams. The chrysanthemum show opened in the armory last evening and was well attended. The arrangement of the booths and decorations is the finest of any previous year, and the exhibition is first class. The entire exhibition is arranged on a different plan than in previous years. This will be the last evening. The carpenters have begun work on the new school house. Rev. J. E. Wildman officiated at the funeral of Mrs. Jacob Joab yesterday afternoon. The bearers were George Charles, Frederick, Edwin, Henry and Frank Backes, cousins of the deceased. The women's relief corps has voted to hold its meeting the second and fourth Fridays each month at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. On November 27 the Branch corps will be the guests of the local organization. The line of march as laid out for Friday evening is as follows: Line forms on Center street, right resting on Main street. The route will be up Main to Christian, to Elm, to Curtis avenue, to Main, to Academy, to Elm, to Center, to Fair, to Ward, to Main, down Main to Sylvan avenue, counter-march to Center to Hall avenue, to Washington, to Quinipiac, to Colony, to Church, to Main, and dismiss. All citizens on the line are requested to illuminate and otherwise show their colors. Should there be any change made in the route they will be noted before Friday. The committee was in session and report good progress. The soliciting committee is meeting with good success.

MR. WITHERSPOON'S RECITAL. Mrs. Wyman to Sing a Massenet Song by Request. One of the most interesting and enjoyable recitals of the season will be the one given at Harmonie hall this evening by Mrs. Herbert Witherspoon, assisted by Mrs. Julie Wyman the well known mezzo-soprano, and Mr. Stanley Knight as accompanist. The list of patronesses is as follows: Mrs. H. Grant Thompson, Mrs. F. Wayland Fellows, Mrs. William Farnam, Mrs. Charles S. DeForest, Mrs. Frank Porter, Mrs. William K. Townsend, Mrs. G. B. Martin, Mrs. Horatio Parker, Mrs. C. Purdy Linsley, Mrs. John Beach, Miss Justine Ingersoll, Miss Virginia Johnstone, Mrs. S. Hartwell Chapman, Mrs. T. H. Bishop, Mrs. E. L. Ward, Mrs. Godfrey Dunscombe. Everyone remembers Mrs. Wyman's marvelous singing here with the Boston Symphony orchestra under Nikish's conducting. Mrs. Wyman sang at that time the beautiful aria from "Samson and Delilah," and a group of songs for which Nikish himself played the accompaniment. One of the songs, Massenet's "Bonne Nuit," was given with such exquisite expression and such perfect diction that the song was re-demanded. Many requests have been received to have Mrs. Wyman sing this song to-night, and it is expected that although not down on the program, it will be given as an encore. The recital begins at 8:15, and the tickets are on sale at Steiner's and Chase's.

ENTERTAINMENTS. Hyperion. Horace Wall, formerly well known in New Haven as the manager of the New Haven opera house, has undertaken the bringing out of a new star, Miss Margaret Fuller. "The Princess of Bagdad" has been selected as the vehicle through which this young lady, who is said to be very clever, will make the acquaintance of the theater-goers of New Haven at the Hyperion theater. Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

Grand Opera House. "The Great Northwest," which is booked for the Grand three nights this week, with a matinee to-day, played its second night's engagement last evening. The play, which is a scenic melodrama in five acts, was well given and highly appreciated by the audience. The play typifies life in the west, and is full of the spice and humor which characterize such plays. Some of the scenes are very beautiful, among these being the thriving Boom City, the prairie fire and the blizzard with the old mill. All the parts in the play are well taken. J. M. Dowling gives a pleasing interpretation of the heroic role of Captain Sheaf. Sheridan Black does good work as the villain Foxnell. Eric Pollock and Joseph Conyers, as rival fire chiefs, and Myra Davis, as Nubbins, carry the fun of the play. HOYT'S "A TRIP TO CHINATOWN." Laura Biggar and Burt Haverly will delightfully present Hoyt's "A Trip to Chinatown" at the Grand opera house on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and big houses at all performances are indicated. The cast includes Laura Biggar, Burt Haverly, R. C. Chamberlain, Harry Rossiter, Richard Karl, John P. Brown, Benjamin Leller, Jeanette Lilford, Mabel Bagley, Isabelle Chamberlain and Maud Myring. The musical numbers, so many of which can be found on almost every piano in the land, and which include "The Bowery" and others equally strong, will be awaited with some impatience.

Poll's Wonderland Theater. Raymon Moore is making another brilliant success at Poll's Wonderland theater this week. His ballads, which are pure and fragrant in sentiment as the virgin hills, are sung with that sweetly sympathetic voice and expressive style that have made him famous the whole world over. It is a real delight to hear him sing, and among his hearers at every performance are many of the most cultivated people of the city. An excellent company is supporting him. Those who compose it are the four Luciers, Mr. Barnes and Miss Sisson, the Rice brothers, Mr. and Miss Reilly, the American Novelty Clog Quartet, Miss Victoria, the Non-descript Trio, and Mr. Emery and Miss Marlowe.

STILL AT LARGE. No Clue to Whereabouts of Three Insane Convicts Who Escaped From Middletown. Middletown, Nov. 10.—Four days have now elapsed since the break of the three insane convicts, Castagnetti, Hurley and Peters for liberty occurred at the Connecticut hospital for the insane, and not a single clue has been hit upon. At the institution to-night the superintendent stated that he believed the men had by this time crossed the Connecticut borders into either Massachusetts or Rhode Island. He hardly believed that the men had time to traverse the state to the New York line. He said that they, at the hospital, had held out some hope that Castagnetti, who has relatives in New Haven, would turn up there, but communication with these people showed that they were as much in ignorance of their relative's whereabouts as the prison and hospital authorities. Some one down the Connecticut had thought they had a clue, but it turned out to be a mistake.

X RAYS AND BALDNESS. A Western Man's Unpleasant Experience.

William Levy, of Eau Claire, Wis., who recently had an X-ray examination of his skull made by Professor Frederick S. Jones, at the physical laboratory of the Minnesota State university, had an experience in consequence not generally supposed to accompany that process.

Levy was shot in the head about ten years ago by an escaping bank defaulter. The bullet has been somewhere in his head ever since, and in July he made up his mind to have it located.

After taking a couple of negatives, they finally found where the bullet was located. The doctors wrapped his head up in wires, which were definitely located. A picture was taken through the skull from the front toward the back of the head, the tube from which the rays radiated being, for this purpose, placed inside his mouth.

The next day Mr. Levy began to notice a peculiar effect on his skin wherever it had been most exposed to the rays, and the hair on the right side of his head, which had been near the wire, began to fall out.

from the Gizeh Museum of Antiquities at Cairo. To the generosity of Mrs. Cyrus McCormick the Field Columbian Museum and this city and country are indebted for a rare gift.

With this boat, which will be installed in the museum, and the two which remain in the Cairo museum, were two more, which still rest on the sands which stretch desolately from the Dashur pyramids, near which they were all found.

The five boats were found buried at a considerable depth not far from the famous largest pyramid, and in such orderly form and with such mathematical relationship to the great pile of stone that it was evident that they had been buried with design at that particular spot.

The boats were found to be alike in the material of which they were constructed and in their general dimensions. The cedar of antiquity, which entered into so much of the construction of things of wood, was used for building these boats.

Financial.

The Upward Movement of Many Stocks Marked Yesterday's Market. New York, Nov. 11.—The upward movement in railway and miscellaneous stocks made further progress to-day in face of heavy realizations by local professional operators and foreign houses.

London firms were disposed to accept profits in the high priced American stocks listed abroad, especially St. Paul and Louisville and Nashville, but were inclined to extend their lines in the stocks selling in the neighborhood of thirty.

The selling referred to exerted little influence on speculation for the reason that the outside demand has greatly increased of late.

Commission houses generally testify to this, and attribute the reawakening of interest in stocks and bonds to the industrial revival.

In addition the advocates of higher prices for securities had the encouragement by Lord Salisbury of the settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question, a break of a cent in posted rates of sterling exchange, to $4.82-84.95, and a further rise of 2 cents in wheat, which brought the price up to the high record for this year's crop.

The influence just noted added to the bullish feeling and led to good buying of all the prominent issues. The improvement in prices ranged from 1/2 to 4 per cent., with the gains well distributed.

The particularly strong stocks were American Spirits, Manhattan, Western Union, Pacific Mail, Hocking Valley, Northern Pacific preferred, and Oregon Navigation.

American Spirits preferred scored the greatest gain, rising to 28 on a report that certain stockholders intended to force the directors through legal means to pay dividends.

Western Union was benefited by a vague rumor of a new deal with the Bell Telephone Co., and the bituminous coal shares were in demand on a belief that the representatives of the Ohio roads now in session here will surely settle the vexed question of rates, production, etc.

In the inactive stocks the Hocking Valley jumped 2 1/2 to 20 1/2; Colorado Fuel 2 to 28 1/2, and Cordage guaranteed 2 to 24. Speculation closed strong in tone. Net changes show gains of 3/8 to 3/4 per cent. in the general list and fractional losses in the grangers and Louisville and Nashville.

There was a large and well distributed business in railway and miscellaneous bonds, the transactions footing up $3,443,000. There was a good inquiry, both for investment and speculative accounts.
