Referring to the failure of Commis sioner Mitchell to accept the decision of the supreme court in the Drawburgh case as finally disposing of the claims made by that inventor Mr. Choate charged that then was constituted one of the most gigantic cabals to destroy the Bell Telephone company ever known in the history of such a similar warfare. In the cabal the government was represented in the person of its attorney general, who amended the bill filed by him at Boston to annul the Bell patent by inserting the very paragraphs in Drawburgh's answer which the supreme court had declared to be utterly without foundation

To the claim that the Berliner patent was invalid because a patent had been previously granted to the same cant for a similar invention, Mr. Choate answered that a court of equity could not entertain a bill to annul the patent for that reason. The law made the commissioner of patents the sole judge of the law and facts upon which a patent should be issued.

Causten Browne of Boston, special assistant attorney general, concluded the argument in support of the government's bill. He contended that there was something to be considered beyond |2; Fourteenth, 1; Fifteenth, 2. astrous shrinkage or that the national the mere technical right of the compa ny to a patent and the duty of the commissioner to issue it: the commissioner's duty was to issue only such patents as did not conflict with the rights of the public, and in this action, as charged in the bill and sustained by emarks that the democrats want his Judge Carpenter, there rested upon the company an extraordinary duty to speed the application by every means known to the law, and if it failed to do so that failure invalidated the patent. With the conclusion of Mr. Browne's argument the case went to the court for consideration. A decision is expect-

THIS COUNTRY, NOT VENUZUELA, TO ARBITRATE WITH ENGLAND.

United States the Protector of Weaker Sister Republics on This Continent-A Grave Responsibility-Venezuela Must Abide by the Decision of Arbiters-Justice Brewer Probably Member of Tribunal.

Washington, Nov. 11.-Considerable surprise is manifested in diplomatic and official circles that the United States Hurley that an officer was on his and not Venezuela is the party of the track, and that he would be captured first part of the arbitration. It had been supposed that the sole function of this country was that of mediator, and carriage with them under pretense of that notwithstanding the forcible tone of President Cleveland's message to congress, Venezuela was not to be succeeded as principal by this country.

The attitude in which the United States is now placed, it is claimed, partakes largely of the position of a promany skillful diplomats, imposes a escaped from the insane retreat at grave responsibility on this country, somewhat similar to that which Engcaptured four miles below Middletown lish statesmen have repeatedly endeavored to fasten upon the United States since the days of Canning.

It is apparent that under the terms of the agreement Venezuela cannot resist the decree of arbitration, however adverse to her extreme contentions it may be, and the United States is bound to see that the award is enforced. By this proposed Venezuelan Bryan. One of more than local fame in American history has been turned.

With regard to the arbitration, it is anticipated that some time must elapse before its consummation. Justice Brewer, the president of the American commission, will probably be an Amerlean member of the tribunal. As explained by the American commissioners to-day, their efforts are not by any means suspended, but will be redoubled in order to complete the evidence as soon as possible so as to be in position to reach and announce a decision at any time should the project for arbitration from any cause fall through. The United States having taken the matter entirely into its own hands will undoubtedly spare no effort to gain a decisive victory. The most eminent counsel obtainable will necessarily be retained. Fortunately the executive force of the commission, which under Secretary Provost has developed so much evidence hitherto overlooked by either contestant, will be available, as well as such experts as Prof. Burr. Among the counsel likely of selection will be James J. Storrow of Boston, now leading counsel for Venezuela, who would have the advantage of Secre-tary Olney's personal assistance and continued friendship, which has existed since they were boys.

THE DEMURRER SUSTAINED. A demurrer to the plea in abatement was yesterday sustained by Judge Shumway in the case of Ann Keane, as administratrix of the estate of her husband, against Bridget Barry of Wal-lingford, and Catherine and John J. Meyers of the same place, for $1,000 damages and the reconveyance of a piece of land, which it is claimed the defendants secured from Mr. Keane by undue influence while he was living with them and incompetent to dispose of his property. The plea in abatement was on the ground that the plaintiff was not the legal administratrix of her husband's estate, as she was appointed in New Haven when her husband was resident of Wallingford.

An Increase of Southern New England Telephone Stock-Plant to be Improved.

A call was issued last evening to tockholders of the Southern New England Telephone company to meet next Tuesday, November 17, to vote upon the question of authorizing the company to increase its capital stock from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. The plan of the company, however, is to issue to stockholders at $90 the new shares of $100 each in the ratio of one to three of the 16,750 shares representing $1,675,000 of capital stock now outstanding, thus increasing he capital stock to $2,233,500. The company will use the proceeds of the new stock in retiring next February its convertible 5 per cent. debentures amountng to between $300,000 and $400,000 and n extending and improving its plant. The returns for ten months of the present fiscal year indicate that the company is earning about 10 per cent. a year upon its outstanding stock. JOHN CASTAGNETTI CAPTURED IN NORTH HAVEN YESTERDAY,

The Prisoner Seemed Bational and Recalled Incidents of His Crime and Arrest -He Walked Out Because the Door Was Open-Castagnetti Had Walked to North Haven Without Shoes.

John Castagnetti, one of the three "insane" prisoners who escaped from the retreat at Middletown last Friday evening, was captured yesterday, and brought to this city about 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

Information came to the police headquarters early in the day that Castagnetti was stopping with a relative near Wallingford, and Captain Wrinn immediately detailed Patrolmen Reynolds and Shannon to investigate the report. When the officers arrived at the house which had been designated as the hiding place of the fugitive, he was still in bed resting from his long tramp over the stony ground. Patrolman Reynolds went up to the room where Castagnetti was sleeping. The young man was awakened by the officer's steps. "Well, THE LATE WILLIAM R. HUBBELL.

John," said Patrolman Reynolds. "Yes; Iknowyou," was the young man's reply. You are an officer from New Haven. I cannot call your name, but I remem ber you." Castagnetti made no resist-When he went down stairs he asked to be allowed to eat breakfast. The officers slipped the handcuffs from the prisoner's hands, and the request was granted. "I do not want to get away, and you see I cannot because of my lameness," the prisoner said, as he proceded to take his food.

Castagnetti carried on a running conversation with the officers during his ride to New Haven, speaking very good English, and showed no signs of

He described the appearance of Sergeant McBride who arrested him, and remembered that he was then doing patrol duty. When Castagnetti was brought out of the cell Sergeant Mc-Bride was at the desk.

The prisoner immediately recognized the sergeant and spoke to him. In talking of his escape, Castagnetti

I got outside, barefoot, and saw one man lying in the road. I left him there and went on. My foot was sore and bleeding. I tied a suspender around it. It then began to swell and I could hardly get along. I didn't see any more of Peters, but Hurley and I traveled all night and slept the next night in a lot. When we got down toward North Haven, I suppose it was, I was so weak and sore I could hardly crawl, and Hurley left urer, and Charles E. Castagnetti said he was willing to give himself up, as there was no chance of his escape as long as his relatives didn't want him to get away. "I ought to have been out five years ago," he said, "and I would if some people had kept their promise. But my relatives seem to think I ought to stay in longer and get out in a regular way,

The Chrysanthemum Show and Sale of Fancy Articles by the United Workers Will Continue This Forenoon-Lare Attendance Yesterday.

The chrysanthemum show and sale of fancy articles held yesterday afternoon and last evening by the United Workers at 200 Orange street was very successful and, despite the stormy weather, was well attended. The fan-cy articles displayed were dainty and beautiful, and many of the chrysanthemums were of rare varieties. Although the sales yesterday were large, there are still a fine lot of fancy articles and a few choice chrysanthemums left, and the sale will be kept open this forenoon for the purpose of disposing of them. The flowers were neatly arranged yesterday and called forth many expressions of admiration from the visitors. Tea, coffee, chocolate and candy were served from tables tastefully arranged and charmingly presided over.

At the tea table Misses Edith and Rebekah Morse had charge. Cake was dispensed by Mrs. Ward, Miss Daggett Those presiding at the candy table were Miss Florence Rowland and Miss Carrie Fitch. The fancy articles were disposed of by Mrs. F. G. Beach, Mrs. Griffing, Mrs. David Daggett, Mrs. Shelton and Miss S. M. Day. The pretty dolls, dressed to represent different nationalities, were sold by Mrs. B. C. Lake, Mrs. Rowland and Miss Robertson.

The committee in charge of the chrysanthemums consisted of Mrs. W. W. Rodman, Mrs. E. P. Morris, Miss DeF. Skinner, Miss Blanche Whitthesey and Miss Jennie Smith.

CHARITY BALL AND CHILDREN'S VAUDEVILLE,

Mr James E. Wheeler, Mr. Edward G. Buckland, Mr. Wilbur F. Day, Jr. Mr. John Edward Heaton and Mr. Roger S. Baldwin will act as a floor com mittee at the big charity hall at Warner hall to-morrow (Friday) night. The affair will be the first large soclety event of the season and it promses a brilliant success.

Interest, however, centers around the children's vaudeville and fair on Saturday at Harmonie hall. Hundreds of the school children of New Haven are anxiously awaiting the day which has been so delightfully planned for them, and the treasury of the day nurseries will be the richer by many dollars because of the committee's efforts.

Nothing has been left undone that will make this children's party a uniquely charming one. Then, to crown all, a most amusing performance will occupy the stage, although the attractions in the hall are all sufficient to divert the little folk and their attendants. There will be the goose that lays the golden egg, the great bran pie, the Christmas tree glistening with hundreds of brilliant lights and toys; tables laden with delicious candies and plenty of ices, and cakes which will be served at pretty little tables.

Mrs, Isham Henderson, Mrs, Walter Camp. Miss Winchester, Miss Esther Stoddard, Mrs. Frank H. Whittemore, Mrs. J. B. Sargent, Mrs. Warner and many others of the board of managers of the Lella and Hope Day nurseries have labored indefatigably to make the children's vaudeville and fair the most elaborate and entertaining carnival ever offered for the pleasure of New Haven's young people Especially jolly will be Prof. Hurd. the magician, who comes indorsed by Manager Poli of Poli's theater, and who will do all manner of mysteriously funny things.

YALE CORPORATION MEETING. The fall meeting of the Yale corporation will not be held this year. It was to have taken place yesterday, but ow ing to the absence of President Dwight in Europe, and the fact that no business of importance was scheduled to come up, it was deferred till late in January, after the return of President LAST NIGHT'S WEDDINGS.

The people of England are not as poor as some think. The savings bank returns throughout the United Kingdom just fasued, show that the small savings of 1895 were as nearly as possible five millions sterling, and that the total amount of these accumulated savings is now over 140,000,000 pounds, or roughly, one-fifth of the national debt.

In addition to the Red Cross and the White Cross there has just been established in Vienna a new order, to be known as the Green Cross. It originated in the Austrian Aipine club The intention is to establish buts on high mountains and to keep supplies and relief stores or boxes containing articles likely to be required in emergencies at conveniently located points.

A queer Maine man is William Brown, an old man who lives now in one village and now in another, devoting his time with much success to the trapping of foxes. This year he is camped near Oakland, Kennebec county, where, in the last twelve months, he has caught over a hundred foxes, including two of the very valuable silver-gray variety. He is accompanied in his wandering life by his wife, who is said to be an artist of considerable talent. Brown has a dog and a gun, but owes most of his success to a mysterious scent with which he sprinkles ordinary steel traps. He will not reveal the composition of the substance to anybody.

There are said to be many persons even vet, in Talbot county, Maryland, who believe that Bryan has been elected to the Presidency, because a woman fortune-teller says so. About two months ago she planted two beans. She went through the necessary Incantations in such performances. One of the beans was named McKinley and the other Bryan. They were tended carever came up first represented the successful presidential candidate. A day or two before election both beans came to the surface, the Bryan bean outstripping the other three hours and twenty-six minutes. Therefore she declared Bryan would be elect ed by a small majority. But even heans and rabbits' feet couldn't elect

A new invention which may in time become a great aid to the modern housekeeper, is the pneumatic sweeper. All that is necessary to fit it to a hotel or private house is a pipe connection for compressed air, such as is now carried into every house for gas and water. It consists simply of a long nozzle the size of a broom handle, attached to the end of a rubber hose. The outer extremity of the nozzle carries a brass arrangement about a foot in width across the face, with a narrow slit, not more than 1-32 of an inch in width. running from side to side. | Through this narrow aperture the compressed air is forced at the rate of 75 cubic feet a minute. The house maid using the pneumatic sweeper passes it back and forth over the surface of the carpet. It can also be applied to dusting fur-

The notion that France, because of the free use of light wines, is a land of exceptional sobriety, is rudely disturbed by some figures put forward by Professor Jules Denis, of Geneva. Assuming that beer contains, on the average, 3 per cent, cider 9 per cent, and wine 10 per cent of alcohol, and reckoning suitable percentages of alcohol in brandy, rum, whiskey and other spirits, he finds that France consumes each year the appalling total of thirteen quarts of pure alcohol for each individual of the population. Switzerland comes next with ten quarts, Belgium, Italy and Germany following in order, down to England, with nine quarts. Sweden, where the Gothenburg system has greatly modified the liquor trade, consumes only four quarts, and Norway three. Moreover, drinking is on the increase in France and Belgium, stationary in Switzerland and Italy, and decreasing in Scandinavia, Germany and England

The Bournal and Courier encouraging reports. He passed thir- of tin plates from the United Kingdom he says, confirmed his own estimate of of the Inkissi, and tells of the rapid advance of the works in connection with the railroad. When asked conserning the truth of the statement made lately by Mr. Parminter regarding the crueltles inflicted upon the natives by agents of the state, he replied that in districts where only one or two whites were in control of some hundreds of blacks, ready to seize the first opportunity to murder those in authority, the Europeans were compelled at times to use their revolvers to save their lives. It was probable, he added, that atrocities had been committed here and there in isolated cases. He maintained, however, that the state exercised as strict and careful a supervision as could be expected in the circumstances. Of the immense value and success of the Congo State as a commercial enterprise he entertains no doubt whatever, and the reasons for his faith will be published soon in a book which he is preparing. At the same time he admits that the climate is fatal to Europeans and gives a pathetic account of the wretched physical condition of the state agents with whom he came in contact.

During the late unpleasantness it was a favorite theory that this country could well afford to go it alone in financial matters and that there was no reason why it should care what the Bank of England, or any other foreign goldbug, might happen to think or do. Possibly some of the States that voted in support of that theory may learn something from its partial working in the relations between themselves and other States whose people do not accept the theory. Kansas seems especially likely to get a lesson of that kind. A majority of the people of Kansas are possessed by the idea that they don't need to care anything about outside capital. The platform these people stand on includes demands for a lay taxing foreign judgments obtained against Kansas citizens; a law reducing the legal rate of interest; a taw taxing credits; a law reducing and fixing freight rates on Kansas railroads and providing for the election of railroad commissioners empowered to regulate freight charges and enforce their rul-

It is not probable that new capital will flow into Kansas very rapidly under the conditions which now prevail there, and it is probable that all the old capital which can flow out of there will do so as soon as possible. The State's credit wasn't very good before the recent Popocratic victory there. That victory will not restore confidence and Kansas people who want to borrow money will find it very hard to fully, and the fortune-teller declared get. It is a pity that a State which might be so rich is made so poor by the ignorance and folly of its own wild-

NO ESCAPE.

A great many people, including some lawyers, think that special assessments on property to pay for city improvements are not valid. This important question has been tested in three states-Iowa, Rhode Island and Delaware-in the last named quite recently. In Delaware an assessment for the construction of a sewer was resisted by a property-owner on the ground that he did not use the sewer and therefore was not benefited by it. Even on the assumption that sewers are a public benefit, it was argued for the protestant that he should not be required to pay specially for the sewer in front of his premises, but that the public at large should pay for the public benefit by general taxation. Further, accepting the city's contention that abutting property is benefited by the construction of a sewer. It was claimed that the special assessment was unjust, as, if the assessors did their duty, the increased value of the property, accruing from the benefit, would annually pay a larger tax, and thus the property would be doubly assessed. But the Delaware court agreed with the courts of Rhode Island and Iowa in pronouncing the ordinance valid. The court ruled that the city was only exercising the function granted it by the legislature, and that the latter body, in its general taxing power, had the authority, when authorizing sewer assessments, to fix the proportion which the abutting property should pay.

TRUTH ABOUT TIN PLATE. A few years ago the papers were filled with what were called lies about tin plate. It didn't make any difference what was said on either side of the great controversy. It was sure to be called a lie by the howlers for the other side. Little has been heard about tin plate lately, and the readers of newspapers have had a rest for which they are doubtless properly grateful. But it s time now to talk about tin plate again, and the talk can well begin by calling attention to what a saddened Englishman says about the success of the tin-plate industry in this country. The Englishman is a writer for Chambers' Journal, one of the ablest and Brussels from an excursion in the Con- most conservative of all London re-ty-five days in the Lower Congo, and has averaged over four millions sterwhile there sought information from no ling in value for each of the past three less than 300 Europeans, all of whom, years. In a recent report on the American tin-plate industry our consul in the natural resources and riches of the Chicago notes that this manufacture region. He went as far as the valley has long passed the experimental stage. The American industry comprises one hundred and thirty-seven mills, and gives employment to thirty thousand men. Seventeen of these works were in Pennsylvania, employing five hundred and fifty-seven persons, in 1895. If the Steel Trust companies should advance prices it is expected by many that this will tell upon the American tin-plate makers, and allow British tities, as was the case some years ago

If a British consul can publicly recognize the existence of a flourishing tin-plate industry in this country it can safely be recognized by the free-traders who have insisted that there couldn't be any such thing. If they will look carefully enough they may also disover that the ingenious tin-plate mak ers of this country have not only made tin plates equal to the best of the British output, but they have also introduced appliances and processes which have greatly decreased the cost of production. Of course it was wrong for them to so annihilate a pet theory of the free-traders, but business is busi-

Sleeves That Suggest Slenderness. The stoutest advocates of tight dress sleaves leave a bit of looseness at the shoulders, and many of the current sleeves patterns resemble the lately departed big sleeves very closely, the difference being that the proportions have sees a sleeve that is so radical a deawkward. It is one of this sort that is shown here, and it gave to the wearer an unpleasantly slim and thin chested appearance. Yet the dress was a new one, and the sleeve one that will have many duplicates before long, the unpleasant impression the latter at first was well in advance of existing syles, This dress was intended as a traveling gown, and was made of gray mehair

The skirt was trimmed with two rows of black soutache that ran up the center of the front and left a panel-like opening embroidered with black silk near the hem. The fitted bodice was to match, only the opening was at the neck and the soutache met in the waist. Added to the bodice was a tiny jacket that had turned down collar and very large revers, together with a short fitted basque all the edges being finished with stitching. The sleeves were on the bodics, the jacket being sleeve-

Novelties in silver knick knacks for the holiday trade are already in view. One of these is a little silver handle, finished with a socket, into which the end of a small sealing wax stick may be set. This simplifies the use of scalhandle to correspond with that for the for moistening stamps. A pair of curved silver straps are fastened to a little top of the handle. The spring is supup. If the spring holds firmly, a single oxes and jars with spring and screw silver tops are used for small quantities of salves, vascline, etc. It is no longer the fashion to have all silver boxes for such purposes, the crystal beng easier to keep clean and therefore deemed more hygienic. Silver mounted pocketbooks are all out of form. Perfectly plain leather is preferred. FLORETTE.

WRITING AND THOUGHT. Perhaps the most suggestive event of he meeting (of the British Association) was the address delivered by Prof. Flinders Petrie, on "Man before Writing," in which he described the formation of ideas prior to speech and the development of art prior to language Our knowledge of the first must, of course, be founded mainly upon obervation of children and of animals, in the former of whom ideas are plainly antecedent to the words by which they afterwards come to be expressed while in the latter they are altogether independent of them. For the second Prof. Petrie took his illustrations from the pictorial writing of the ancient Egyptians, which, as it was presumably or certainly prior to the discovery of alphabetical writing, remains as onument of intelligent expression apart from words On the basis thus furnished he rests somewhat sweeping conclusion that the present generation is "drunken with writing," that we "let it override the growth of our minds and the common use of our senses," and that the servant, speech, has come to be mistaken for the master, thought." He goes even further than this, and exing wax at the desk. To go with it presses his belief that writing is but omes a small sponge mounted on a a hurtful hindrance when it takes the place of the direct knowledge of the wax, and this is to be damped and used senses, and that the senses cannot grow or feed the mind when the fet ters of writing are allowed to hold silver handle and spring with their them back from the living touch of tips touching. A little ring finishes the nature. He cites the Baconian aphorism that words are the money of fools posed to hold papers or letters togeth- but the counters of wise men, and be er and so bunched they may be hung lieves that the prevailing trust in writing has clearly deadened the mempaper may be withdrawn without caus-ing the others to fall. Little crystal ready in those who do not read and that in some measure it has deadened the senses themselves.

The assumptions underlying this argument will appear very startling to many people who would probably be said by Prof. Petrie to be living under the yoke which he condems, and who have been accustomed to regard an incapacity to read writing as the direct of all misfortunes, and even as an insurmountable barrier against the attainment of any high degree of mental activity. Dickens, who in many respects must be regarded as a fair exconent of the views of the man in the treet, has no better way of emphasizing the intellectual darkness of his vagabond than to describe him as shuffling along, "unfamilair with the right?" Hill-"Not exactly. Travers shapes, and in utter darkness as to the meaning, of those mysterious symbols, so abundant over the shops, and at the corner of streets, and on the doors, and in the windows"; and he has not thought it necessary, keen observer though he was, to provide him with any additional acuteness of sense memory by way of compensation for, or consequence of, his deficiency. It is with a doctrine which runs counter o all ordinary prepossessions, and to compelled, as it were, to turn these prepossessions over in the mind and to ee what can really be urged in deence of them.

The widely prevalent belief quoted by Prof. Petrie that words are the instrunents of thought, and that no thought go, independent of language. But it preciated," said her husband, as he fin- may safely be affirmed that no com ble without words upon which usage has conferred precise and definite meanings, so that they are understood in the same sense by all who have legitimate occasion to employ them. If we conceive the idea of a dumb philosopher, who occupies himself in abstruse thinking, it would be necessary for him to invent some spmbols by which the gradations of his thought could be pictured to his own mind: and. when the philosopher is not dumb, such symbols are supplied by the words which enable him to convey his thoughts to others and receive theirs in ant's vocabulary of two or three dred words, there would be no channel through which it would be possible to convey to his intelligence a great num-ber of facts and doctrines which are familiar to better educated people. It would be hardly possible, for example, to make him understand the unadulatory theory of light and the conse quences which flow from it, although his natural capacity might be quite equal to the task.—London Times,

LONDON'S OMNIBUS THIEVES.

Their Work So Profitable That They Ran a Line of Private Vehicles of Their Own.

One of the happiest hunting grounds for a pickpocket is a London omnibus! People have been warned of this over and over again; notices are kept continually pasted on the doors and windows of the 'bust conductors watch with keen and suspicious eyes doubtfutooking passengers, and yet all this energy seems to make little or no differ-nce to the pickpockets. They seem to thrive almost as well as if 'buses were provided for their special edification, and there are quite a large number of theives in London who make a living by working almost entirely in public con-One gang in partfcular was broken up long ago. It consisted of about twenty three men, and was known-on account of a practice they had of alinging : hooked stick over their arms-as the 'Crooked Stley Gang." It was started in 1893, and the originator was an exceedingly clever thief with whom the police desired further acquaintance, He started this brilliant idea by Mr. Wall is emphatic in his assertion an "At Home" in the Seven Dials He that she will please. The members worked in pairs, the one thieving and the other

> This system worked remarkably well for a time. Each pair of thieves had a number of ingenious disgulses; on different occasions they exchanged routes and as they kept a particular record of their proceedings and were careful no to work too often in the same district they were for a long time undetected. At the end of each day they met at a public house, previously appointed; for dividing their spoils; and a fair idea of the profits of the concern will be gath ered from the fact that they have ded as much as six hundred and fifty dollars on a single day.

After a time the conductors of the 'buses (especially in sprincipal thoroughfares like Piccadilly) got to know the gang, and become strangely shortsighted when one of them halled them from the pavement. They treated them with an indifference that was galling present to his patrons "Gilmore and and their behavior seemed especially Leonard," known all over the world as brutal when the passenger with the "crooked stick" happened to be an old, white-haired gentleman with gold eve-

When at last business became so in volved that the directors of the omnibus companies began to employ detectives to watch them, the gang thought it advisable to run 'buses of their own and they did. They started a number of "pirate" 'buses, and as just somewhere about this time the company buses raised their fares, they easily go a large number of passengers by re the old prices. They were ve careful, however, to stop only for welldressed and respectable-looking people and it was a strange thing if a passenger did not miss something before he or she reached the end of the journey.

Each person who entered the was, of course, most carefully watched. The cry "All fares," gave the thieves a clue to the wherealiouts of the purses and a short time after they were replaced they were skilfully removed by the "working members." One of the gang who manipulated matters inside the pocket. It was his boast that he could extract a purse with a pair of sugar tongs, and he has been known to steal one, remove all the money, and then quietly replace it in the owner's pocket without exciting the slightest suspicion.

For a while these "pirate" 'buses succeeded even better than the others some occasions a single 'bus has yielded over twenty purses a day, some of them containing as much as seventyfive dollars, and it was seldom that a pocket was picked without something of value being found. At last, however, complaints at Scotland Yard became so numerous that the authorities set a special detective on the track of the crooked sticks, with Troy Will Probably be Arranged the result that one of the members was caught red-handed, and this led shortly afterward to the arrest of geveral othera. A physician has discovered a method of preparing grains so as to produce a beautiful drink, an exact fac simile of the finest Mocha coffee and fattening and nourishing. It fits a place with weak stomachs and for the little folks' "coffee." The coffee habit can be dismissed instantly when the new food drink is used in its place, and health is assured because of the fact that it is made only of pure and wholesome "It makes red blood" is the motto, and Postum is the name. Grocers sell it, and it is made by the Postum Cereal Co., Limited, Battle Creek, Mich.

A reliable grocer will never offer a cheap or weak imitation of a genuine original article because he happens to make a little extra profit. But it is well to observe that when genuine Postum Cereal coffee is ordered, that | ized the business that collapsed to-day. you get Postum and not a spurious imitation offered as "just as good."

HARRISON-M'MICHAEL.

A Brilliant Society Wedding in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—To-day at 12:30 o'clock, the wealth and fashion of Philadelphia were crowded into St. Luke's church to witness the wedding of Miss Ellen Nixon Harrison, daughter of Mr. Charles C. Harrison, and Mr. Campbell Emory McMichael. Miss Harrison is one of the most popular girls in Philadelphia society. For several years she had been a leader in the younger circle, and many lavish entertainments have been given in her honor. Mr. McMichael is the son of Colonel Clayton Mc-Michael, and is associated with his father and brother in the conduct of The North American. He is a member of the Rittenhouse club. Phidiadelphia city

Mr. Harrison, the bride's father, is the provost of the University of Pennsylvania, and is one of the wealthiest citizens of Philadelphia. He was a member of the great sugar refining firm of Harrison, Havemeyer & Co.

The ceremony was performed by Rt. Rev. O. W. Whitaker, bishop of eastern Pennsylvania; Rev. Leverett Bradley rector of St. Luke's church, and Rev George Keller, rector of old St. David's church at Radnor, where the bride's family are summer attendants.

The bridesmaids were Miss Esther White Harrison, Miss Lallte Lesley, Miss Helen Douglass Biskley, Miss Edith Lewis Waln, Miss Sarah Ann Frazier and Miss Emily Harrison They were attired in white Thorp. moire, with white stocks, wore black chiffon hats fined with pink, and carried large bunches of white chrysan the mums tied with pink ribbon.

Before Honest Money Democrats Will Take Him in.

Peru, Ind., Nov. 11.-The Honest Money Democratic league yesterday sent a gilded saw-buck and saw in miniature to W. J. Bryan as a reminder of the following part of his speech delivered in this city on October 23:

The man who leaves the democratic party in its, great fight this year need not come back until he has fully atoned for the sin committed. The prodl-gal son who leaves the democratic household this year and goes to feed the hogs, when he comes back has got to come with the understanding that he must saw wood a long while before he gets to the table."

BOOM IN WINDOW GLASS.

The Stock Never So Small in the History of the Country.

Chicago, Nov. 11.-Window glass has advanced 10 per cent, within three days and an additional advance of 10 to 15 per cent, is the special object of a meeting of the local jobbers to be held in this city this afternoon. The trade is a unit in declaring that stocks of window glass in this country were never so small as at present, not even in the phenomenal years of 1879 and 1883. In those years there was a long strike and the factories were shut down for many months.

This is the condition at present, and the workmen and their employes are period. apparently as far apart as they were when the factories went out of blast last June. The workmen are asking an advance of 10 per cent., while the employers insist on a reduction of 5 to 71/2 per cent, from last year's scale The manufacturers say that they can pay no advance in wages and continue to compete with the Belgian makers, while the men contend that the manufacturers' profits at present prices justify all the advance in wages asked

Meanwhile local jobbers can fill orders only on a few sizes, and even in those the supply is small. Two Chicago concerns which foresaw the situation have practically cornered one of the staple sizes, and the entire trade both east and west is now paying them

Securities i ess Active Than for Several Days Past. New York, Nov. 11.-The security markets were less active to-day as compared with the previous days of the week. The tendency of prices was downward, but the decline was stubbornly contested throughout. As of late the selling was mainly for professionals who are working for a reaction, although here and there in the list sales to realize profits were noted. In view of the advance of late these sales excite little or no comment. At the start lower cables from London and the poor showing of St. Paul for the first week of November had an adverse influence. Prees broke 34 for Manhattan, to 1904, and the general market ran off 14@1% per cent., Sugar being most prominent. The break in Manhattan was due to the disappointment felt in certain quarters over the annual election. It was expected that the new board would contain at least one representative of a leading life insurance company, but this proving not to be the case recent buyers turned sellers. Toward midday the market assumed firmer tone and commission houses eported an increase in outside orders the result of the successful negotiation of the Venezuelan arbitration treaty As the day wore along the bears be came more aggressive and an unfoundd rumor of the death of Cornellus Vanderbilt was used with some effect. Sugar, the grangers, Louisville and Nashville, Western Union, Tennessee Coal and Iron, Southern Railway preferred and Northern Pacific preferred were especially weak. Considering the efforts put forth, the decline in prices was unimportant. The fact of the matter is that the ecling is decidedly confident as to the future, and stocks are finding ready buyers at each concession. Confidence was stimulated by the declaration of the usual dividend by the Burlington and Quincy, the action of the bituminous coal carriers of the Ohio valley in forming a traffic association for three years, the increaseing ease in money and the successful placing of the New York city loan. These bonds were awarded on a basis which returns an annual income of 3.2 per cent. Already sales have been made to private inestors at an advance. In the late dealings Sugar declined to 12i. The company at the opening of business announced an advance of % cent in refined sugar, but later a reluction of equal proportions was made Manhattan after breaking to 100% ral led to 16214 and receded to 160% @101 Speculation closed weak. Net changes thow losses of 461 per cent. outside of Manhattan, which fell 214 per cent. To bacco was in demand, and rose to 82% on an unfounded report of a settlement of the rate war with the Western plug manufacturers.

ABOUT NORWAY AND SWEDEN

Interesting Lecture by George L. Fox at Warner Hall Last Evening-Under the Auspices of the Y. W. C. A .- A Large Audience Interested.

The first in a series of winter enter tainments to be given by the Young Women's Christian association, was held in Warner hall last evening. The tertainment consisted of a stereopticon lecture on "Norway and Sweden" by Principal George L. Fox of the Hopkins Grammar school who has traveled quite extensively in those countries. The hall was well filled, and the large audience was kept interested for two hours by the pleasing descriptions of the Scandinavian countries and their wonders. The stereopticon illustrations were first class, and were tinted with natural coloring. The lecture described chiefly the many flords which indent the Norwegian and Swedish coasts, and the magnificent scenery along their shores. Pictures were shown of several glaciers, and the country life, manners and customs of the people were discussed. Funny and interesting anecdotes of experience on the peninsula helped to make the lecture interesting at every moment Among the views shown were two or three of the midnight sun, and landscape bathed in its light, making a scene the like of which is rarely found. The first pictures shown were those of inhabitants of the country, showing the peasants at home. Fine views of Christiana were also shown. Mr. Fox had intended to lecture on both Sweden and Norway, but he only had time to speak briefly of Sweden, the greater part of his time being spent on Nor-

A woman's happl-ness often hangs by a single thread. Her nerve power is worn away by some disease or weakness of her sex, until barely a single strand sustains her from the awful plunge into hopeless wretch-edness and despair. She has borne all that she has borne all that is possible to bear and feels that one ounce added to the burden, and her last hold on sanity would snap. There is just one remedy to be absolute-ly relied on in this emergency and that is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures these delicate ailments with a positive cer-tainty and complete-ness that no other medicine has achieved.

It is the invention of an experienced spe-cialist who has made a cialist who has made a life study of this particular class of diseases and their remedies. It gives internal organic health and vigor and vital nerve force. The women who have been restored by it to perfect strength and happiness are numbered by the tens of thousands. Dr. Pierce is every day in receipt of such letters as the following from Rev. I. J. Coppedge, of Elmo, Kaufman Co., Texas:

"About six wears are my wife became afflicted."

Elmo, Kaufman Co., Texas:

"About six years ago my wife became afflicted with displacement, causing inflammation and much pain. She could not stand on her feet or get in any position but what she softered great bearing down pain. I had several different physicians to treat her without any permanent relief. She despaired of ever again being well. She saw an advertisement of your 'Favorite Prescription' and spoke to me about it. I got her a bottle which she soon found was helping her; so she kept on till she had taken six bottles. Since taking the last she has not suffered a moment with the old trouble. She has been well nearly twelve months. The 'Favorite Prescription' was all the medicine she took. She is in good health and we are happy."
