

TO BE ANNOUNCED SEPT. 20

THE MEMBERSHIP OF THE NEW BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Major Farnsworth Practically Admits That Eli Whitney Will be a Member—Mayor Thinks Old Board a Good One—Probable That Six Old Members Will Serve on the New Board.

There remains yet to be appointed by Mayor Farnsworth, under the new city charter, four public boards. They are the board of education, the board of charities and corrections, the civil service board and the board of park commissioners. When asked yesterday afternoon if he had yet made up the personnel of the board of education, the mayor said: "Yes, I have fully decided upon the membership of the new board. The list was completed some time ago, but I am not yet ready to give it out, and will not be ready to do so until about September 20."

Although the make-up of the new board is as yet in great part a matter of conjecture to all except those personally concerned, it may be stated with certainty that Eli Whitney will be a member of the new board. This information was given last evening by a gentleman in a position to speak authoritatively on the subject.

In response to a question as to whether or not Mr. Whitney would be a member of the new board, the mayor said: "I do not care to give out just yet the names of any of the members of the new board. I will say, however, that Mr. Whitney would make a good member and I have no doubt that he will make a good member of the new board of education."

Pressed further to give the names of the appointees to the board of education, Mayor Farnsworth said: "When Mr. Morgan and myself drop out, seven members of the old board will be left who are eligible to membership on the new board. Five of these seven gentlemen are democrats; gold democrats, I believe. They are Messrs. Asher, Moran, Hooker, Stoddard and Connor. The other two, Messrs. Mansfield and Betts, are republicans. Now I believe that if we were to consider men who voted for McKinley, republicans, then these five democrats I have mentioned would be republicans. I think those seven would make up a good board. Mind, I don't say these gentlemen will make up the new board. I say they would make a good one."

It is said that Mr. Stoddard has refused absolutely to accept an appointment to the new board, and in view of this fact and the hints dropped by the mayor in conversation yesterday, it seems very probable that the make-up of the board will be something like this: Harry W. Asher, F. A. Betts, James T. Moran, John T. Manson, Thomas Hooker, Walter J. Connor and Eli Whitney.

It has been reported that the mayor would appoint a lady as a member of the new board and when questioned on the matter yesterday the mayor refused to confirm or deny the report. It is said that friends of Miss Marie Ives has asked that the appointment be given to her.

Although the civil service and charities and corrections boards will not begin their duties until December next the mayor hopes to secure before that time public spirited citizens to serve on the boards, who will in the meantime take interest enough in the work of the boards to study the experiences of other cities in those lines, and so be ready when they enter on their duties to go at their work in an intelligent manner.

A quantity of literature on the matters of charities and corrections and civil service has been received at the mayor's office and as soon as he has selected gentlemen to serve he will turn over to them the reports from other cities and other matter bearing on the subjects, for their perusal.

The mayor considers these two boards among the most important under the city government. He stated yesterday that he would not appoint a new board of park commissioners until the terms of office of the present commissioners expired.

WASP AND AMORITA.

They Win in the New York Yacht Club's Handicap Race at Bar Harbor.

Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 10.—The sloop Wasp and the schooner Amorita each added another prize to its already large collection to-day by winning the handicap race of the New York Yacht Club, half of which was sailed in the fog. But for the thick weather the race would doubtless have furnished a grand spectacle as the whole course in a clear day is visible from the famous cliff walk.

The course was a triangular one of twenty-one miles and during the race the wind was light from the southwest, although at one time it freshened and then Sayonara carried away her top-mast.

The start was at 11:50, and the yachts crossed the line in the following order: Wasp, Queen Mab, Gloriana and Sayonara.

The schooners crossed the line in the following order: Amorita, Fenella, Marguerite, Alot, Clonia, Sachem and Emerald. The Fenella was the first to tack and from then to the first mark all the boats made short tacks. Wasp turned the first mark shortly after 1 o'clock, followed by Queen Mab.

In the run to the second mark off Baker's Island the wind was astern and nearly every boat broke out her spinnaker and balloon jib. Before this leg was half completed the fog shut down, making the boats invisible from the shore. The fog was very dense when they turned the second mark and the Sachem tossed about twenty minutes on account of her jibbing the buoy. The fog lifted just before the finish.

SHORT MEETING HELD

By Board of Selection—New Names Suggested for Center Street.

A short session of the board of selection was held last evening. Selectman Sucher presented a petition for a cobble gutter on Farren avenue in front of the property of N. W. Kendall. Mr. Kendall claims that the wash from floods tears down the bank along his property. The petition was referred to the committee on roads and bridges.

A communication was received asking that the name of Center street in the annex be changed to either Lenox avenue or Girard avenue. There has been some talk of changing the name of the street to Ludington avenue, but Captain Ludington objects to this. The communication was placed on file.

A communication was received from Mr. Grannis of Grannis' Corner thanking the board for the building of a retaining wall in front of his property.

Mr. Merrill of 29 Palmer street was ordered to build a dividing fence between his property and that of his neighbor, Mr. Wisely.

SPAIN'S MURDERED PREMIER.

The Remains of the Assassinated Statesman Taken from Santa Agueda.

Madrid, Aug. 10.—A dispatch from Santa Agueda says that the funeral cortege accompanying the remains of Senor Canovas left the bathing establishment this morning, headed by the Duke of Sotomayor, major domo to the royal household, representing the queen regent, and by Senor Castellano, minister for the colonies, and Senor Eldoayan.

The coffin was covered with wreaths, among them one from the queen regent. It was borne on a car drawn by four horses. A detachment of chassours rendered military honors and acted as an escort.

The special funeral train awaited the arrival of the cortege at Zumarraga. Almost at the very moment of the transfer of the coffin from the funeral car to the train a foreigner was arrested. He is suspected of an accomplice of the assassin.

Senor Canovas has watched by the body of her husband for two nights, one night with Senor Catalar and the other with Senor Castellano. She absolutely refused to take either food or rest, but desired all the details of the funeral completed, but broke down on the road to Zumarraga, when a severe nervous fit was happily relieved by a flood of tears.

Dr. Marquis de Husto, the court's physician, embalmed the body. The post mortem examination showed that the deceased was in an extremely healthy state and that the brain was unusually large. It showed also that either off the three shots would alone have proved fatal. At the special request of Senor Canovas the remains will lie in state at the private residence of the official residence of the deceased. The government plan was for laying in state at the official residence, since.

The queen regent has ordered a special mass to-morrow for the repose of his soul.

Next week General de Azcarra, the new president of the council, will go to San Sebastian to consult the queen regent.

President McKinley has cabled to the Spanish government the condolences of the United States government and the American people.

It is understood that General Martinez Campos is willing to go to Cuba should the cabinet decide to call Captain General Weyler. There are rumors that General Polavieja, former governor of the Philippines, will be invited to succeed Weyler. But these are mere rumors, and thus far there is no indication of abrupt changes, either in the administration of Cuba or in the constitution of the cabinet. Senor Sagasta, Senor Moret, M. Prendergrast and Marshal Campos, with other statesmen and generals, favor the retention of the present cabinet long enough to reorganize and to conciliate the conservative groups.

The government has decided to try the assassin by court-martial. He still defiantly declares that other startling crimes will follow. The police and government detectives are acting with redoubled vigilance, and the government is in communication with foreign capitals on the question of the surveillance of anarchists.

GOLLI IDENTIFIED.

His Name Is Said to be Michael Angiolino—Has Been in Prison.

Madrid, Aug. 10.—A dispatch from Lucera, Italy, says that the Italian police have identified Golli, the assassin of Senor Canovas as Michael Angiolino. He is thirty-three years of age, and was born in Foggia, capital of the province of that name, in the Apulian Plain. His military record was very bad. He proved an indifferent and disobedient soldier, and was sent for three years' service in the disciplinary battalion. Subsequently he became a compositor.

In April, 1896, he was sentenced to eighteen months imprisonment for disseminating anarchistic propaganda, but after serving a part of the term escaped to Spain.

He comes of an honest family. His father, who is a tailor, is grief stricken by the crime of the son. The provincial and communal councils of Foggia have sent telegrams of condolence to the Spanish government, denouncing the assassin.

70,000 Voters Want Low to Run.

New York, Aug. 10.—The executive committee of the Citizens' union met to-day. Secretary Clark reported that up to the present time over 70,000 voters had signed ballots favoring Seth Low for mayor of Greater New York. He also said that the enrollment of new members of the union was between two and three thousand per day.

Negroes Must Leave the Town.

Clayton, N. M., Aug. 10.—Notices have been conspicuously posted about town warning all negroes to leave before August 15. Nearly all the negroes here are preparing to go away.

BOLD STRIKE FOR LIBERTY

THRILLING AND TRAGIC EPISODE IN MASSACHUSETTS STATE PRISON.

Herbert Willis, a Murderer and Life Convict, Aided by His Brother, Everett, a Visitor, Attempt to Shoot Their Way Out of Prison—Both Badly Wounded, the Former Fatally—Several Officers Shot.

Boston, Aug. 10.—Herbert Willis, a life prisoner in Charlestown state prison, being sent there for the murder of Fred N. Strange of Taunton, Mass., nearly a year ago, attempted, with the assistance of his brother, who was visiting him, to shoot his way to freedom this morning. While the attempt was unsuccessful, no less than twenty-five shots were exchanged by the men with four of the prison officers, with the result that Willis, the convict, now lies at the point of death, his brother Everett is severely, if not fatally wounded, and one of the brave prison officers is under a physician's care with a deep bullet wound in his ear.

The affair was all over inside of three minutes. Late to-night the prison hospital reports that Convict Willis cannot live; the Massachusetts general hospital says that Everett will live, although increasing inflammation may result in the loss of one eye. The affair caused a tremendous sensation in this city.

When Everett B. Willis, on his regular monthly visit to his brother, called at the prison this morning, it was 10:30 o'clock, and after a pass into the prison had been issued to him, he went directly to the meeting place in the rotunda. His brother Herbert, the murdered, was summoned from the work shop, and in a few minutes the two were in an earnest conversation, each being seated in chairs in the rotunda, directly in front of the west wing and in full view of the officers.

Officer Witham sat down at a table in the center of the room where he could keep a sharp oversight on the pair and as another precaution, Officer J. S. Abbott took a position in a chair near the entrance to the rotunda. Officer Darling at 11 o'clock stepped up to the men and told them their time was up. As soon as he turned his back on them and started toward the center of the rotunda, he was directly in line of the other officers, and that was undoubtedly the time when the revolver was passed.

In an instant the two brothers, crouching near by, began their fusillade of bullets. The convict fired three shots at Officer Witham, but his aiming was so poor that all went wide. When the first bullet whistled by his head Witham stooped behind the little table at which he had been sitting, and while in that position drew his revolver and returned the fire.

Officers Abbott and Darling also opened fire, and in a short space of time Officers Benjamin and Townsend rushed to the assistance of the other officers.

Flash after flash came from the revolvers until nearly twenty-five shots had been exchanged between the convict, his brother and the officers.

Officer Townsend was at his desk outside of the rotunda when the shooting began and instantly drawing his revolver he sprang to the door, opened it, threw away his door key, went through it and slammed the door behind him. He threw the key away so that if overpowered the men could not get out. As he stepped into the rotunda Herbert Willis, the prisoner, broke from the officers and rushed across the rotunda towards the door while his brother continued to struggle with the officers.

As the prisoner sprang forward Townsend fired. Willis threw up his arms and spinning round staggered toward the east side of the rotunda and fell to the floor. The next instant his brother, who had now broken from the officers, came rushing toward Townsend and before the latter could again raise his revolver, was upon him, and the two men grappled in a fierce struggle. Willis had fired his last shot, but he freed him right arm and struck Townsend with his empty revolver, inflicting some painful bruises.

Townsend did not try to hit back, but forcing his revolver against Willis' chest fired, the ball passing into Willis' lungs. Almost at the same moment Deputy R. P. Benjamin, who had been outside in the prison and heard the firing, rushed in and springing toward the struggling pair, discharged his revolver close to Willis' head, the ball passing into the neck near the ear.

This ended the struggle. Townsend had a bad black eye and a lump as large as a hen's egg on the side of his head where Willis' revolver butt landed, but is otherwise uninjured.

When the firing had ceased the forms of the two brothers were found on the floor. Both men appeared to be dying. The convict was taken into the prison hospital and his brother to the Massachusetts general hospital.

Ever since his brother's conviction Everett has been sullen and morose and many of those who acted as informers at the time of Herbert's arrest, have feared that he would upon learning their identity, turn upon them in his vengeance. Everett, as well as his brother, is a fine athlete, and craved severe recreation, and it is thought that the plan originated with him. It is now known that last week Everett sold all the goods and fixtures of his father's fish market and that he used part of the proceeds to purchase the two revolvers and to pay his car fare to Boston. The result of the wounds of both the boys is awaited with great interest.

AFTER GARBAGE GATHERERS.

Board of Health Heard Complaints Against Contractors.

At the meeting of the board of health yesterday afternoon the only business was the consideration of the numerous complaints against the collectors of garbage which have been pouring into the board of health office thick and fast recently.

The first case brought up was that of Patrick Daly, garbage gatherer, for what is known as the east district. The first complaint considered was that from 97 Grand avenue, where it was charged Daly was not removing garbage. Mr. Daly proved to the satisfaction of the board that there was at No. 97 an improper receptacle for garbage. He proved that the receptacle was a wooden tub which has fallen partly to pieces and did not hold the garbage placed therein. On motion of Commissioner Dibble it was voted not to fine the collector on this count. The fine ranges from 50 cents to $5.

TERRORIZED OAK STREET.

An Iroquois Man Yesterday Afternoon—Philip McMahon Taken to Springfield.

Philip McMahon, who said that he lived on Hill street, terrified the inhabitants of lower Oak street yesterday afternoon by running up and down the street and threatening terrible things to the lookers-on, who did not stop to look long, but fled precipitately to places of safety. Officer Conroy finally came along and seeing McMahon's actions sane, however, seemed to have the strength of several men and would have broken away from the officer had not several citizens come to the assistance of the officer. Together they held McMahon until the police ambulance with other officers arrived. It then required the united efforts of four officers to put him into the ambulance. At the police station it was found that McMahon was a raving maniac and he was sent to Springfield farm.

CAP. HATFIELD STILL AT LARGE.

Said to be Strongly Injunctured in a Mountain Pass.

Williamstown, V. Va., Aug. 10.—Wild stories are being circulated about the officers who are trying to capture "Cap" Hatfield, the desperado, who escaped last week from jail. The Hatfields are said to be strongly entrenched in a mountain pass and to have recently killed Deputy Sheriff Johnson and four other deputies, but none of these reports is confirmed. The officers are in hot pursuit, and Judge Doolittle instructed the sheriff capturing Hatfield at any cost or risk. It is believed that there have been encounters, but nothing definite can be learned.

On motion of Commissioner Dibble it was voted not to fine the collector on this count. The fine ranges from 50 cents to $5.

The next complaint considered was from No. 267 Lloyd street. After the matter had been before the board for some time President Fleischer discovered that the document was a request and not a complaint, so the matter was dropped. Other complaints from Mr. Daly's district were from 271 Lombard street, 182 Wallace street, 167 St. John street, 26 Warren street, 183 Pine street, 103 Atwater street, 183 James street, 98 Exchange street, 35 Chestnut street, 255 Grand avenue, 25 Wallace street, 8 Shelter street, corner of Ferry and English street and 94 Cedar Hill avenue.

The complainant from the corner of Ferry and English street was Charles Gay. He said that he did not get better garbage service from the board than he would get if he were to go outside in the prison and heard the firing, rushed in and springing toward the struggling pair, discharged his revolver close to Willis' head, the ball passing into the neck near the ear.

This ended the struggle. Townsend had a bad black eye and a lump as large as a hen's egg on the side of his head where Willis' revolver butt landed, but is otherwise uninjured.

IS IT HONAY?

Suspected Nichols Murderer Arrested in the Town of Providence, N. Y.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 10.—A man who gave his name as James Durick, suspected to be one of the men who murdered Marcus Nichols at Daniel's Farms, Conn., is locked up in jail at Ballston Spa. Durick was arrested last night in the town of Providence, this county, by Deputy Sheriffs Shadrick and O'Brien, who found him hiding in a barn. His companion has not been found. Police Justice Freedman of Ballston Spa held Durick on the charge of "being a fugitive from justice."

Durick is said to closely resemble the published picture of one of the suspects. He takes his arrest coolly and denies any knowledge of the murder. He says that he was in Ballston Spa a week ago and has worked a few days in the mines at Ticonderoga, and that he was in Bridgeport, Conn., only one month ago to-day. The prisoner claims to be thirty-nine years, and that his home is in Honesdale, Pa.

Chief of Police Birmingham of Bridgeport, Conn., has been wired the fact of Durick's arrest, and will tonight send a detective to identify the suspect.

RUSSIAN TOWN WIPED OUT.

Famous University Town Practically Destroyed by a Conflagration.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—A special dispatch has been received here which says that a great fire has destroyed the greater part of the Russian town of Mtsivasi, west of Moghilev, in the government of Mobelev, on the River Sozh and affluent of the Dneiper. Two hundred houses have been burned, and the famous Jewish synagogue and six Jewish seminaries have been ruined.

SARSFIELDS' NEW CAPTAIN

SERGEANT DONOVAN GETS THE COVETED PRIZE.

Ex-Captain Kennedy Was His Chief Competitor—The Vote Stood: Donovan, 34; Kennedy, 29—Ex-Captain Creed Received One Vote, and There Were Two Blank Ballots Cast.

Attorney Jerome F. Donovan won in the election for the captaincy of the Sarsfield Guard last evening, receiving 38 votes on the decisive ballot, while his closest competitor, ex-Captain J. J. Kennedy, received 26, and there were two blank ballots.

On motion of Lieutenant Kenna, a strong Kennedy man, the vote was made unanimous. Prior to the decisive ballot an informal ballot was taken without making any formal nominations. The informal vote resulted: Donovan 34, ex-Captain Kennedy 29, ex-Captain Creed 1, blank 2. The next ballot was formal and decisive.

This election practically terminates a somewhat acrimonious contest, which has been waged for the position by the two leading contestants, for while the nomination of the company has to be passed upon and confirmed by Colonel Burpee there is no doubt but that this will be done in proper time.

Ten days, however, are required by the military regulations before the nomination can be confirmed, so that Donovan will not have to go camp at Niantic next Monday unless the official red tape can be made to stretch at some point in the present case.

Regiment Adjutant Welles, who has been acting captain of the Sarsfields since its reorganization last winter, when asked last evening whether he would take the company into camp, said he could not tell, as it was a question which the adjutant general and colonel would have to decide.

It is extremely probable, however, that he will command the company in camp this year, and that Donovan will get his captain's papers on the return from camp, which will be at the end of the ten day's limit.

The newly elected captain received many congratulations last evening and the announcement was received with cheers by a considerable crowd who had assembled outside the company room. Many of these were of the number discharged from the company when it was reorganized, who are said to have been opposed to Captain Kennedy.

The best of feeling now exists in the company in spite of the warmth of the contest over this election. Attorney Donovan is a popular young lawyer, and although but a few months in the service passed the highest examination for non-commissioned officers. He is also a graduate of the Russell military school.

Captain Kennedy sought the election to exonerate himself from blame for the condition in which the company was at the time of its reorganization. It is probable that the secret meeting of some of his adherents at the Tonnie did more to strengthen the opposition against him than it aided him.

The Sarsfields also made preparations for their camp life last evening. The army presents a very busy scene these days, as the various companies are getting ready for Camp Cooke.

The field officers of the day will be as follows: Monday, Major Theodore H. Sucher of the Second regiment; Tuesday, Lieutenant Colonel Charles W. Hendrick of the Fourth regiment; Wednesday, Lieutenant Colonel Alfred L. Thompson of the First regiment; Thursday, Lieutenant Colonel Timothy F. Callahan of the Second regiment; Friday, Lieutenant Colonel George M. Cole of the Third regiment; Saturday, Major Gilbert L. Fitch of the Fourth regiment.

TO SEAT FIFTEEN THOUSAND

NEW AMPHITHEATER TO SURROUND YALE FOOTBALL FIELD.

Will be Erected at a Cost of $10,000 to $12,000—When Completed Will be the Best in the Country—Change in Freshman Gridiron—New Property Acquired—Entrance to be Made More Accessible.

Extensive improvements in the layout of the football gridiron at Yale field have been commenced, and by the time college opens, the last of September, Yale will have the best football field in the country, costing from $10,000 to $12,000.

These extensive improvements, which are being made by the Yale Athletic association, are rendered absolutely essential by the recent change in Yale's athletic policy whereby her big games of baseball and football with Harvard and Princeton will be played on college grounds and not at Springfield and New York, as in former years. In accordance with this policy, Yale will meet Harvard at football at Cambridge this fall, while the Yale-Princeton tussle over the pigskin will be at the Yale field.

As at present arranged, the field is utterly inadequate to accommodate the tremendous crowd which is sure to be here to witness the battle of the giants. The improvements now under way include some changes in the layout of the old football gridiron and in the erection of new bleachers all around it with a seating capacity of fifteen thousand. The location of the gridiron will be moved further west from the grand stand to furnish room for the bleachers, and will be made perfectly level and smooth.

The Athletic association, in order to have more room in which to carry out its plans, has purchased Charles H. Webb a strip of land to the west and adjoining that portion of the field along the Derby turnpike. This strip is 110 feet wide and 500 feet long. The land thus purchased is considerably below the level of the Yale field, and has an orchard of apple trees upon it. The trees will be removed and the land will be graded up to the level of the field. The old dwelling house which also stood upon the land has been moved further west by the St. Lawrence Cemetery association, which has purchased the remainder of the property, and will be fitted up for a dwelling and office for the sexton of the cemetery. This purchase will make an entrance for the cemetery on the Derby turnpike, and the footpath to the cemetery across the Yale field will be discontinued.

A portion of the new land has already been filled in, levelled and nicely turfed. This work has been done by A. N. Farnham, the Westville florist. Bids for the rest of the filling and grading were received Monday, but have not yet been awarded. The land will have to be raised from one to three and one-half feet, and will require about 10,000 cubic yards of earth. The specifications require that this work shall be completed by September 1.

A space 330x150 feet is set apart for the gridiron and the bleachers. The bleachers will completely enclose the gridiron and will be separated from it by a close board fence three feet in height to keep back the crowd from the field. At present some of the old bleachers from the east side of the grand stand are being moved to a position back of the south goal posts, but these will all be supplanted by new ones early in the season. Specifications for the job were already out.

Hydrants have been placed at the four corners of the field and connected with a two-inch main, so that the ground can be kept as wet as is necessary. Another change made at the field is the removal of the freshman football ground from the baseball diamond to a position east of the grand stand and covering a portion of the ground occupied by the bleachers which are being removed. The surveys for this gridiron were made by Engineer Hill. This change will prevent the cutting up of the baseball diamond, as has been the case in past years.

Of course the bleachers will be restored when the baseball season opens. The entrance to the field will be moved about one hundred feet further west to a place much more accessible to the entire field, and the old entrance will be discontinued for most purposes. The land between the fence and the Derby turnpike has been levelled, forming a sidewalk where people can walk with safety.

WARNING TO GOLD HUNTERS.

Secretary Bliss Draws Public Attention to the Dangers to be Encountered.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Secretary Bliss has taken cognizance of the rush to the Klondike gold fields and Alaska and has issued the following warning to the general public:

To whom it may concern: In view of information received at this department that three thousand persons with two thousand tons of baggage and charge are now waiting at the entrance to White Pass in Alaska, for an opportunity to cross the mountains to the Yukon river, and that many more are preparing to join them, I deem it proper to call the attention of all who contemplate making that trip to the exposure, privation, suffering and danger incident thereto at this advanced period of the season even if they should succeed in crossing the mountains.

To reach Dawson city, when over the pass, seven hundred miles of difficult navigation on the Yukon river, without adequate means of transportation, will still be before them and it is doubtful if the journey can be completed before the river is closed by ice.

I am moved to draw public notice to these conditions by the gravity of the possible consequences to people detained in the mountainous wilderness during the five or six months of Arctic winter, where no help can reach them, however great the need.

(Signed) C. N. BLISS, Secretary of the Interior.

YESTERDAY'S ATTACHMENTS.

Property of Hayes & Rourke Attached—Jacob Cutler Sues for Amount of Notes.

Three attachments were recorded in the town clerk's office yesterday afternoon just before the office closed for the day. The largest of the three attachments was one for $1,000, and was placed upon property on Grand avenue belonging to Hayes & Rourke, the tinners and plumbers, at 373 Grand avenue. The papers were served by Deputy Sheriff Higgins in favor of Elizabeth Beloff and Golda Walkin. The plaintiffs allege that the defendants did tinning work on the roof of a building belonging to the plaintiffs, and that the work was done so unsuitably and negligently that some time after its completion the roof became leaky and in consequence the decorated plaster work of rooms in the building became water soaked and was partially destroyed. It is further alleged that the defendants have otherwise failed to fulfill their part of the contract and still neglect and refuse to complete it. Damages of $1,000 is claimed. It is also claimed that J. S. Clark of Orange is the agent of the defendants and has concealed some of their goods and effects. The case is returnable to the superior court on the first Tuesday in September.

Deputy Sheriff Higgins also placed an attachment for $

Refrigerators.

This season we are recommending the Siberia Refrigerators. They are in all respects the best refrigerators on the market to-day, combining all the qualities of the highest priced refrigerators at a cost as low as the cheapest pine refrigerators. The Siberia refrigerator is cleanable in every sense of the word; the flues, the waste pipe, the shelves and the bottom of the ice chamber itself can be readily taken from the refrigerator, cleaned, aired and sunned and made as sweet and clean as a milk can. Viewed from a hygienic standpoint the value and importance of Siberia Refrigerators cannot be overestimated.

Patrick Mohan was fined $1 and costs for driving an express wagon without a license.

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL.

So Finds Coroner Mix in the Case of Pelaro, the Victim of the Savin Rock Explosion.
Coroner Mix made his report yesterday as to the explosion at Savin Rock Monday. He finds that Pelaro came to his death by accident. Regarding the storage of gunpowder in the building on the ball grounds, Coroner Mix finds that the West Haven authorities had no knowledge that so much powder was kept there.

It seems that the boss of the fireworks factory run by the railroad company did not know what the assistant was mixing or tamping. Further, the coroner has failed to find any permit for storing powder on the baseball grounds. He will recommend that the company be required to move their magazine from the grounds, and that the selectmen of Orange give them permit to store powder only in a place where public life will not be endangered.

FUNERAL OF MRS. BRETZFELDER.
The funeral of the late Mrs. Henrietta Bretzfelder will take place from her late residence, No. 85 Lafayette street, this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

PANDEMONIUM IN A JAIL.

At Outbreak at St. Louis Which the City Police Were Called on to Quell.

St. Louis, Aug. 10.—For four hours last night, during the absence of the head jailer, pandemonium reigned in the city jail at the Four Courts, and such was the din caused by the yelling and howling of the inmates that the four streets surrounding the square were densely packed with people. The guards, five in number, headed by Samuel Murray, were powerless to handle the unruly inmates. After vainly trying to do so, they were forced to call upon Night Chief Kieley. A squad of police, headed by the chief, rushed into the jail, and after nine negroes had been placed in the dungeon order was partially restored. When the police entered the jail and the floor was littered with broken chinaware, pans, tin cups and every conceivable object. Nobody was seriously hurt.

ALASKA SHIPS LOADED DOWN.

Carry So Much as to be Unseaworthy.

San Francisco, Aug. 10.—Steamships which have left this port for St. Michaels in the past three days have been loaded down with passengers and freight to such an extent as to render them unseaworthy. United States inspectors are powerless to prevent, this, as their authority is limited to compelling the ships to carry a sufficient supply of life-belts and boats.

Applications to the various transportation companies for passage to the Yukon still number several hundred daily. The Alaska Commercial company will make no more contracts to transport passengers to the Yukon until next March. With a view to maintaining a good service between this port and the Yukon by way of St. Michaels the coming season, the company is making a large increase in its fleet of river boats for use on the Yukon, and will build a commodious ocean steamship to be run between San Francisco and St. Michaels.

The steamship Excelsior, leaving here on September 5, will take a large number of passengers to St. Michaels, who expect to remain there through the winter, and be ready to go up the river to the Klondike as soon as the ice goes out in the spring.

A Chicago transportation company announces that it will contract to take passengers to St. Michaels, feed them all winter and then carry them on to Dawson early in the spring, all for $1,000 per passenger.

LOVE IS LIFE.

Without love this world would be a good place to emigrate from. Without it, even money would be a worthless commodity, and all the jewels in the world as valueless as a clod of earth. Without it the human race would die—and be glad of it. To few young women understand the basis, principle implanted in nature by the Creator, that underlies love. Love is but the light in the east that leads to maternity. Love of husband is the stepping-stone to love of child. A childless woman is a star that gives no light or warmth, a cloud that never showers the thirsty earth, a flower, beautiful, perchance, but without perfume. There are thousands of women who lived well into middle life without knowing the bliss of a first-born's caress, but who are happy mothers to-day and heap blessings on Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Over 60,000 women have testified to the merits of this marvelous remedy, and many of them have permitted their experiences and photographs to be printed in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. The "Favorite Prescription" quickens the life-giving organs of women. It makes a woman strong and healthy where she most needs vigor and vitality. It cures all weakness and disease of the feminine organs. It eliminates the discomforts on the way to maternity and makes baby's coming easy and nearly painless. Found at all medicine stores.

"In four years," writes Mrs. Minnie Smith, P. M., at Lowell, Lane Co., Ore., "I had miscarried twice. I took ten bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and now have a healthy baby. I am stronger than in twelve years."

Free. Send 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only, for a paper-covered copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, cloth binding, 11 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. The "Adviser" contains 106 large pages and over 600 illustrations. It is a veritable medical library in one volume.

BIG CATTLE SHIPMENTS.

Southwestern Railroads Taxed to Provide Transportation.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 10.—There has been a friendly rivalry between Tucson and Wilcox, Arizona, as to which would ship the larger number of cattle this season. Wilcox having been a trailhead ahead last year. The Range News says: "We are informed by Mr. Proctor, the well and favorably known inspector at Tucson, that up to Sunday, July 18, shipments from that point since January 1 aggregate 32,599 head. Shipments from Wilcox during the same period comprised 32,848 head, leaving a difference of 249 in favor of Wilcox."

These figures give a faint idea of the cattle business on the range. Every station on the southwestern railroads is taxed to its utmost for cars to supply the demand of shippers; and the numbers given above must be added 350,000 head of Mexican cattle imported through the El Paso district.

EDGEWOOD WHITEWASHED

MERIDEN NINE RUNS AWAY WITH THE GAME

Score 11 to 0—Bad Luck Began in First Inning—Heavy Hitting and Errors Did the Work—Several Hundred at the Game.

Manager Chapman sat in the grand stand yesterday afternoon at Elm City park looking very much pleased. His pleasure increased as his boys from the Silver City piled up run after run.

They gave Edgewood a dose of what they themselves received about two weeks ago at the hands of the Waterbury team—precisely the same thing, even to the score, which was 11 to 0.

And the worst of it was that not a single run of the eleven was earned. Corcoran was in the fettle and proved too much for Greist's men. He had good speed and good delivery, and his drops were puzzlers; in fact, Edgewood could not get more than two hits, while Meriden pounded out ten or eleven of Edgewood's twirlers. It was an off day for the local team, and the leaders of the State league took advantage of every little point.

The trouble for Edgewood began in the very first inning, when two runs, really gifts, were credited to Meriden on wild throws. Buckley had been given a pass to first and Dietrich banged out to Johnston. He threw too low and Beecher could not stop it before Buckley had crossed the rubber and Dietrich was scurrying on to third.

The ball came back to Johnston, who averaged up his throws by slinging the ball over Cameron's head. That gave Meriden her second run. Leslie looked thoroughly disgusted, and thereafter worked very hard to retrieve himself. Somehow another old and reliable player was "off" yesterday; that was Beecher at first, in the early part of the game, but his errors luckily did not count for very much. Indeed, if all the errors were to be enumerated, all but three or four of the Edgewoods would have occasion to feel sore. After Dietrich had come in Donovan fled to Greist, who played great ball in left field, but was weak with the stick yesterday.

Gardner gave Robertson a pretty catch out in the other corner. Pflünger sent a grounder through Beecher's glove out into the long grass, but Bone gave Percy Greist another fly, retiring the side.

Cameron walked to first, and Johnston put a well placed hit in left field. Tommy Atkin advanced the men on bases one bag apiece on a sacrifice. "Doc" Hamlin hit to Bone, who caught Johnston coming back to his base and assisted in getting Hamlin out at first. It was a neat double play and left the score 2 to 0.

Courtney was disposed to dispute the umpire James O'Brien's decision when he had hit to Atkin and was out at first, but he found no encouragement among his brethren. Kelly sent one to Atkin just as Courtney did. Tommy fielded it quickly, but the perverse ball fell out of the postmaster's glove. Corcoran hit to McHugh, who assisted Atkin in a put-out at second, with Kelly as victim. Buckley caught a bender and safely turned it to right field, whence Robertson made a capital throw to third, straight and swift. Dietrich was up again, but did not get to first, McHugh doing quick work with Beecher's assistance.

For Edgewood there was not much in this inning, with four men up and only one man, Brennan, getting to second. In the third Donovan gave Cameron a pop-up. Gardner followed with a vain hit to short, and Pflünger's fly was taken in by Atkin, who starts at the crack of the bat when anything turns his way. Another whitewash blanched the faces of the Westville rooters.

In the next inning Bone got a hit into center. Courtney got first on balls. Kelly's hit was taken by Johnston, who threw well to Beecher, but the glove or something else caused another error that filled the bases. The fielders got away out now, expecting a long drive. Corcoran's crack, however, went no farther than second, where McHugh threw in, catching Bone near the plate with Brennan's aid. Buckley got hit, thus forcing in Courtney. It did not pile up any more runs, for Johnston's quick work on Dietrich's grounder put Kelly out. He threw home, catching Kelly at the rubber, and Morris sent the ball to Beecher just in time to tag Dietrich.

Another shut-out and Chapman's crimson-capped boys were on the bench again. Donovan's fly fell into Greist's basket. Gardner got a clean hit to center. Pflünger hit to Johnston, who assisted in turning Gardner back at second. Tommy Atkin's assist on Bone's grounder caught Pflünger at second. That gave Edgewood a chance, but a pop-up fly touched at first and Cameron's being touched by the ball on the way to third when Tommy hit made them feel blue.

In the sixth Dietrich's long drive over Hamlin in center brought home Corcoran and Buckley after there were two out, and Dietrich himself made the third out, being caught between second and short.

A crowd of three or four hundred saw the seventh inning, a number of rubbers, scrubbers and race-track hangers on having perched on the low rail fence when Donovan commenced the inning for the fourth time. Donovan went out at Beecher's bag. Gardner, who followed, brought in tally number six with Bone's hit when Atkins threw wild. Bone tried to steal second and Pflünger started homeward only to be met by Brennan, who had received the ball. Another futile drive into left retired the side with six runs.

Two additional runs in the eighth and three more in the last inning gave Meriden the game, with the score 11 to 0. The two nines batted in the following order: Edgewood—Cameron, third base; Johnston, pitcher; Atkin, short stop; Hamlin, center field; Beecher, first base; McHugh, second base; M. Brennan, catcher; Greist, left field; Robertson, right field.

Meriden—Buckley, center field; Dietrich, right field; Donovan, left field; Gardner, first base; Pflünger, third base; Bone, second base; Courtney, short stop; Kelly, catcher; Corcoran, pitcher.

James O'Brien of this city was the umpire.

MONSTER WAS ALL BLACK

Hartford Sunday School Superintendent Saw a Sea Serpent—It Danced and Then Vanished

Hartford, Aug. 10.—The sea serpent of Long Island sound, on whose annual appearance many voracious fishermen stake their reputations, presented its compliments to three Hartford citizens on Saturday.

The serpent danced to the delight of the citizens on Saturday, and it executed the serpentine dance for their delectation. During the entertainment they had an opportunity to discover that the serpent was 25 feet long, that it had a head and tail, and these were connected by the other parts of the monster's body. Oddly enough, the sea serpent did not have green eyes, or, if it had, the fact escaped the notice of the fishermen.

The Hartfordites who passed the time of day with the serpent were Daniel R. Howe, treasurer of the Hartford Street Railway company, who is also superintendent of the Warburton chapel Sunday school; A. A. Olds and George B. Reed, vice president of the Goddard & Clapp company. They have been spending a few days in Black Point, on the sound, and went fishing Saturday aboard Mr. Old's yacht.

They had been out but a few hours when they encountered the sea serpent. The monster of the deep, who saw them first, was overjoyed at discovering that it was not alone, and, according to Messrs. Howe, Olds and Reed, leaped six feet into the air. Then it skimmed along the water, swimming part of the time on its stomach, occasionally on its head, and once in a while covering a few feet on its tail. In this way the serpent enabled Messrs. Howe, Olds and Reed to size it up, so they could tell all about it when they got home.

The reptile, according to the three fishermen, had a small head, which with the neck and tail, comprised more than half of the 25 feet in its composition. The tail was not fan shaped, but was straight, and looked as if it might have been borrowed from a Jersey cow for this occasion. Its body was thick and round, and the serpent was jet black from head to tail. It had four appendages, which Messrs. Howe, Olds and Reed call "flippers," and which, they say, looked like the claws of a griffin.

The snake plunged back into the water after executing the serpentine dance, and there was a great splashing and much foam, in which the serpent was enveloped and under cover of which it was lost to the sight of the three fishermen. The serpent gave them no inkling of its future plans, but started, they seem to think, for the Klondyke gold fields.

STAMFORD'S MAYOR. Council Overrides His Veto Concerning Improvements at Central Park.

Stamford, Aug. 10.—Mayor Bohannon and the court of common council are at loggerheads again, and to-day the police took a hand in the struggle. Some time ago the council, in response to a petition of citizens, voted to remove the stone posts and iron rails which inclose central park. The mayor vetoed the resolution. Last night the council passed the resolution over the executive veto and at 4 o'clock this morning a gang of workmen began the work of removal. By 9 a. m. two sides of the park had been relieved of the posts and railing, and it was at this hour that Mayor Bohannon first heard of the doings.

He immediately ordered Superintendent of Street Department to detain the contractor, and was told to go ahead. The mayor then instructed the chief of police to act, and Superintendent Bartlett and half a dozen laborers were removed to the station house. Prosecuting Attorney Carter advised their release, and the work continued until noon, when it was practically completed. Meanwhile the mayor is writing a veto of last night's resolution, and will call a meeting of citizens to consider the matter.

A LAKE OF PEARLS. Leased to a Memphis Syndicate for $10,000.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 10.—For a month or more the people living near Bald Knot, Ark., have been finding valuable pearls in a lake near that place. Hundreds of people have been opening mussel shells in search of the pearls, and some rare gems have been found, some being sold for as much as $200. A special from Bald Knot says a syndicate of Memphis parties have leased the lake for a term of years for $10,000. They will build a fence around the lake and begin work with a steam dredger. They will also erect an elegant club house. The lake is said to be the richest pearl producer in the United States.

ORDERED RELEASED. The Suspected Cuban Filibuster.

Washington, Aug. 10.—The government will order the release of the schooner Blanche Morgan, now detained at Bridgeport, Conn., as a suspected Cuban filibuster. Captain Perry, representing the government at the Bridgeport ammunition works, was at the department to-day and stated that the ammunition found on the Morgan belonged to the government and was being shipped to New York.

It may be that the government will be called upon to pay a bill for demurrage growing out of the comedy of errors involving the detention of the Morgan.

JUDGE ADAMS' ILLNESS SERIOUS. Secretary of the Park Board Taken to the Retreat.

To-day he is reported to be in a very bad condition. He has walked the halls all day and makes no answer to questions addressed to him, refusing also to take nourishment. He appears to be extremely debilitated. His illness is very serious.

There was a very pretty race at Riverside park Monday afternoon. E. S. Bradley, Officer Bright, H. S. Lancaut and Ed Tuttle went out to exercise their trotters with no thought of a race, but the conditions were so favorable it was decided to try a mile heat. R. S. Bradley drove his fast horse, Blue Light; Officer Bright drove Bright Light; Ed Tuttle rode behind Rose Bud Wilkes and H. S. Lancaut drove his handsome chestnut pair. The race was really between the horses driven by Bradley and Bright. For nearly a mile both horses maintained nearly the same positions, with Blue Light about half a length ahead. On the home stretch it was evident the race was to be a close one, and at the wire Bright Light forced in about one-half neck ahead. Spectators who saw the trotting say it was the prettiest heat trotted at the park this year. The time was 2:24. Mr. Bradley seldom drives his horse in a race. Charles Tillinghast has been the usual driver of Blue Light until his recent accident resulting in the fracture of his arm.

Roundout, N. Y., Aug. 10.—George J. Gould, who owns Furlough Lake in the Catskill Mountains, has sued Hiram Graham and Aaron Graham of the town of Hardenbergh for trespassing. The alleged trespass consists in fishing in Furlough Lake, which Mr. Gould declares is his private preserve. The matter came before Justice of the Peace Hill of Pine Hill on Monday, W. D. Brinnier, a lawyer of Ulster county, representing Mr. Gould. The defence made a general denial and alleged that the lake was first stocked by the state, and that therefore the right to fish in it belonged to the public. The defendants secured a two weeks' adjournment.

A Washington correspondent tells of a western congressman whom he once heard declaiming in a Washington hotel about the new navy: "We must have speed in our new ships," he said; "if I had my way about it we would never build another cruiser that could sail less than twenty fathoms an hour!"

Brooklyn ministers have received a circular from a New York firm which says that that firm "is prepared to supply sermons neatly typewritten, the work of a minister recently connected with a large church and intended for those who, in the sharp competition of modern times and the multiplicity of other duties, are not able to prepare for themselves the high quality of work now demanded of the pulpit."

Maryland peach growers are wishing that they had paid heed to the warning of Professor W. G. Johnson, State entomologist, who told them a year or two ago that if they did not gather up and destroy the cuttings and droppings from their trees the cuculo would develop so rapidly as to ruin their crops. They ignored the professor's advice, and just what he told them to expect has come to pass.

Horse dealers of France are apparently no longer able to supply the demand for the flesh of that animal in Paris. An order from the French capital for five thousand barrels of horse meat has been received by a company of Portland, Oregon. The animals used are the half-wind cayuse of Oregon, which are bought for about $2.50 each. As the use of horseflesh for food seems to be growing in several foreign countries, it may become a profitable article for export.

Boston is properly proud of its prominence in the wool trade. The Commercial Bulletin says: The total amount of sales recorded in Boston to date since January 1 is but a few million pounds short of the total American clip. It is nearly double the annual clip of the British Isles. It is five-sixths of the clip of the Argentine Republic. It is just about equivalent to the entire clip of France, Spain and Germany. It is more than half as large as the total sales at the London wool auctions in the whole calendar year 1896. Yet this is the record of but seven months in the Boston market. Yes, Boston is holding her own. She is the second wool market in the world.

The provision of the new tariff that fish caught in the great lakes or other fresh waters by "citizens of the United States" are to be admitted free develops an interesting question. The A. Booth Packing company of Chicago has just brought from the Canadian waters of the upper Superior some whitefish which it wishes to have admitted free on the ground that the company is an American one. The customs authorities at Duluth and the treasury department hold that as the fish were caught by Canadians, they must pay the duty of one-fourth cent a pound. The company seems to hold that the Canadians employed by them are citizens "by proxy."

The question of the price of school-books is becoming a serious one in Georgia, and Governor Atkinson is said to be determined that radical reforms shall be instituted. The question has been before the Georgia public for a number of years, but no action has been taken except the appointment of a State School-Book Commission, which so far has failed to bring about any betterment of the unsatisfactory conditions. Governor Atkinson believes that the legislature should pass a uniformity school-book act, reducing the price of books used in the public schools, and compelling the use of uniform editions and authors throughout the State. He says that he would favor the establishment of a State publishing plant if important reductions cannot be secured otherwise. He believes that the reforms can be brought about, however, by less radical measures, perhaps the purchase of all school books by the State and their issuance to the county boards at cost, or less, obviating at least the danger of rural committees being swindled into paying exorbitant prices by the book agents with whom they now deal.

A plan to ascertain the value of different varieties of native stone found in California for structural purposes has been made by Professor Lawson of the department of geology in the University of California, at Berkeley. From quarries or outcrops where quarries are possible, and where the stone is fairly uniform, it is proposed to secure two blocks of stone—one a twelve-inch cube dressed differently on different faces to show the qualities of the stone, and a four-inch cube, similarly dressed, for preservation in the college. In cases where the rock has ornamental qualities and varies in texture and color, as in the case of marble deposits, several such blocks would be required fairly to represent the prevailing characteristics; and then there may be cases where, owing to special structures, the stone will appear to better advantage in the form of slabs or columns. These specimens, properly cut by skilled operators, are to be made part of the university's permanent economic exhibit, and such a collection will, it is believed, be of positive practical value in determining the kind of stone best adapted for constructive purposes.

AND THE WHEEL ROLLS ON. Wheelmen in Chicago and other places will be encouraged by the decision of Judge Tuley of that city that the ordinance concerning licensing bicycles imposes not a license, but a tax, and that as many wheel owners already pay a tax on bicycles as personal property the proposed exaction of another payment would be in the nature of double taxation. Judge Tuley further maintains that the city's right to impose a license is merely a right to license certain occupations such as those in which draymen, carters, expressmen and others are engaged. It has been held by other courts that wagons not used for hire, for instance, are exempt from payment of license. Judge Tuley is inclined to believe that only bicycles and vehicles "used for traffic" could be required to pay license. The city contended that the power to impose a license for the use of its streets was involved in the same power which gives it the right to regulate the use of the streets. The court answers that the power of regulation does not carry the right to impose a license for the use of what is free to the people of the entire State. Regulation implies restriction of usages or practices injurious to individuals or to the community. Bicycling is not an amusement of this nature, nor would it be contended that the restriction of ball playing, say, or kite flying in the public streets should be "regulated" by the imposition of a license. The city will appeal the case, and by and by we shall know what the high court thinks about licensing bicycles.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING. Those of our readers who buy gold bricks or contribute money to have their unclaimed estates in England claimed will do well to guard themselves against "the Spanish prisoner fraud," which, after a successful career in Europe, has emigrated to this country. It has appeared in Wolfeborough, New Hampshire. Isaac C. Thompson of that town received from Spain a letter purporting to be signed by one Alfred Dias, an ex-Secretary of General Weyler. Dias wrote that he had offended Weyler and had been forced to flee to London. With him, the letter said, he took $25,000, and had deposited it in "the London Bank." To explain the telling of this interesting tale to Mr. Thompson, Dias wrote that he had married Caroline Thompson, a distant relative of the New Hampshire man, and for that reason appealed to him for assistance in turning over to the loving Caroline such part of the $25,000 as Mr. Thompson did not care to keep as compensation for his trouble—and a slight advance to be used in legal proceedings connected with recovering the treasure. Dias could not do the work himself, he wrote, because, after depositing the money in London, he had incautiously paid a visit to Spain, had been arrested in connection with the Weyler trouble, was now languishing in jail, and didn't know when he should get out. If ever, Mr. Thompson had never heard of a relative named Caroline, and, instead of sending $400 to a given address in Spain, as requested, he wrote for further information. Dias replied at great length, and varied his request to one for $500, with which to send his daughter and the chaplain of the prison to America. This eliciting nothing, there then came a letter, nominally from the chaplain, saying that Dias had died, leaving by will one-fourth of the $25,000 to Mr. Thompson. A copy of the will was inclosed, and again money for legal expenses was demanded.

A man doesn't need to go to the Klondyke to get something for nothing. He can stay under his own vine and fig tree and have it brought right to him. SUGAR AS A TONIC. Many new discoveries nowadays tend to show how smart and intuitively knowing lovely Woman is. For thousands of years Woman has been noted for her fondness for sweet things. She has been scolded for this and she has been told by learned men that her sweet tooth was a very bad thing for her. But it now turns out that she has known all along what was good for her. It has been remarked by Alpine tourists that on difficult climbing excursions an increased desire is felt for the consumption of sweets and sweetened foods, and many who never touch such things at home devour large quantities of them on such expeditions. It has also been noticed how eagerly the guides appropriate any sugar that may be left over. At the instigation of the Prussian war office, investigations have been made recently with a special apparatus into the question whether the consumption of small quantities of sugar renders the tired muscles capable of renewed exertion. In order to obtain a practical result, the person who was made the subject of the experiment was kept totally ignorant of the object of the experimenters. On one day a sweet liquid was administered containing thirty grammes of sugar; on the next day a similar liquid, containing a sufficient amount of saccharin to render it indistinguishable from the other as regarded taste. After a very large amount of muscular work had been performed, it was found that better results could be obtained on the days when the sugar was given than on the days when saccharin was given. The blood had become very poor in sugar in consequence of the severe muscular effort, and the administration of a comparatively small quantity of sugar had a markedly invigorating effect.

And it may be remarked that those who bought Sugar when the Washington people were said to be buying it were well pleased with its tonic effect on their spirits and pocketbooks. FASHION NOTES. For Women's Shoulders. Cloth capes lined with fur are worn by those who can afford them for seashore and mountain use, and if you possess such you are sure to wonder how ever any one gets along without such a comfort. But the much more common wrap is planned chiefly as an ornament, and a coat of mosquito netting would be about as warm as they are. Here is a dainty one in the accompanying picture, consisting of a deep, round black silk yoke to which a wide fluffy ruffle of pink chiffon with satin edge was gathered. Over this came a narrower ruffle of black chiffon laid in accordon pleats and disposed in points. The fronts consisted of wide black satin ribbon and formed tabs that were enriched with appliqued guipure, and similar ribbon in narrower width gave the finish for the cascades of pink ruffles edged with black that were set up into the black chiffon points. Pink chiffon furnished the drapery in front. Although a great many of these beautiful accessories employ chiffon, it is much wiser, if not more economical, too, to use a soft quality of mousseline-de-soie. Chiffon becomes crushed and messy after a few wearings, and the mousseline will last much longer, giving good return for its greater cost. The difference between the two not being much, after all, to the judicious purchaser. There's a deal of ingenuity exercised in the construction of these gauzy garments. Bolero designs lead and there are all sorts of modifications of the cape. The shoulder-fastening model is especially pretty, with front and back hanging transparent and smooth, and the lapping at the arms prettily elaborated so that either when the arms are down or lifted, and so betraying the lap at the sides, the garment is dressy. The sleeve of the bodice worn beneath must harmonize with such a cape, else the cape must be a mere effect and the sleeves must be a part of the garment. Delicious jackets bagging prettily into a loose belt are also made of net, lace or mousseline, and are so delicate that it seems a wonder how they ever hold together or get on or off. Indeed, the difficulties of adjustment usually have to be met by cape sleeves instead of tight ones. FLORETTE. RICH. Every woman knows some man who would be immensely rich instead of poor if "he had his wife's energy." "Atkinson (Kan.) Globe." "If you want your boy to respect you," says the Manayunk Philosopher, "don't ever try to show him how hell was played when you were a boy."—Philadelphia Record. "Did you permit him to kiss you?" asked the old gentleman. "I didn't have to," replied the sweet young thing. Indeed she had caught an up-to-date young man who knew too much to ask.—Chicago Post. Cholly—What time is it, Reggie, old man? Reginald—I can't tell you, Cholly, old chappie. My man was called away just as he finished dressing me this forenoon, and there is nobody to wind my watch.—Somerville Journal. "I should think," said the energetic lady, "that you would be ashamed to let your wife take in washing." "It does seem kinder rough," said the gentleman who was too strong to work, "but she needs the money to keep up the house."—Cincinnati Enquirer. Angelina—So this is the information bureau? Clerk—It is; what can I do for you? "Is my hat straight?" and Angelina looked appealingly at the busy young man whose reply was lost in the murmur of the waves.—Chautauqua Assembly Herald. "Rather curious that both the melon and this breakfast should be the product of a vine," casually observed Lake Front at breakfast. "Beefsteak from a vine?" growled the dyspeptic. "Yes," was the cheerful reply, "from a 'bo-vine.'"—Chautauqua Assembly Herald. "Dad, I wish I came of a distinguished family, like Bob Hill, so's I could have something to boast about." "A distinguished family like Bob Hill's, eh? In what way were his parents distinguished?" "Why, his mother was a fat woman in a museum, and his father was swallowed by an alligator."—Richmond Dispatch. A FIRE-FIGHTING DOG. John Foley patted Mary affectionately on the head and remarked, "She's the greatest, dog you ever saw. Eh, Mary? If a call should come in now she would be the first one to her post. When that fire-gong rings Mary knows it means a run, and she stations herself under the wagon." Mary belongs to Capt. Raja's squad, which is stationed on Poplar street, and she is as well thought of as any member of the squad, as Capt. Raja has said many times. Mary has been in the service for about three years. Her mother, who was known by the name of Fannie, and whose reign preceded that of Mary, saw about ten years' service on the Fire Department under Capt. Raja, and she is still to be seen at the Captain's headquarters. Fannie, the boys say, has retired from active life and is living on a pension. Mary goes to every fire that the chemical responds to. In the time that she has been a member of the chemical squad she has had some exciting experiences and narrow escapes. She can climb a ladder almost as rapidly as any of the men, and whenever it is possible for her to be at their side, there she is. Not long since there was a fire on Market street. When the gong rang Mary took up her station under the wagon. She was at the scene of the fire by the time the wagon got there. The fire was in the garret of the building, and leading to this garret was a ladder. The firemen quickly ascended this ladder. Mary was right there with them. When they got ready to leave they did so, but Mary hung back. They missed her, and Capt. Raja, along with several of his men started in search for her. They remembered that she was in the garret with them fighting the fire and looked in there for her. There was Mary, scratching around in some old rubbish, looking for fire, and she had uncovered a spark or two, but with her feet she quickly extinguished them. One of the most remarkable traits of Mary's character is her affection for her mother. Fannie is still endowed with the old-time love of adventure and excitement, and brightens up when the alarm-gong rings. But she no longer goes to fires. Mary is responsible for this fact. She had a hard time breaking her beloved parent of the habit of going to fires, but she finally did so. Even yet Fannie will get up and start out on a run with the wagon, but Mary drives her back. She drags her mother by a limb, and holds her, or runs in front of her, and barks until the elder dog returns. Then Mary joins the squad. Both Mary and Fannie have developed the wonderful faculty of telling the difference between the exercise bell and the fire bell. At stated hours the gong rings for the horses to be let out of their stalls and to be hitched to the wagon, just as though they were going to a fire. There is no difference between this ringing and the ringing of a fire alarm, but Mary has learned to tell them apart. Mary will glance up at the indicator as though she was reading the number there, and if it is simply the exercise bell ringing she will not move.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal. THE BRITISH LOVE OF PRINCES. It is a positive fact, which to future historians will seem incredible, that readers by the half-million are pleased to know the movements of lawless and gentlemanly names in the street. We cannot doubt on the evidence that any journal which was able to give people, say to publish a reasonably accurate estimate of their incomes, would immediately add thousands to its circulation, the single fact about them which would be accounted wearisome being the only one which has a reasonable interest, namely, the historic origin of their position in the forefront of European society. The readers who are delighted to see that Count Zichy is running a horse, or that the Countess Zichy prefers emeralds, do not care to know that before his countrymen quitted the shores of the Caspian to conquer and be defeated in the West, and settle down on the great Hungarian plain, they regarded the Zichy's as princes, possibly from the farthest east. It is the funniest kind of curiosity, and we confess that the usual explanation of national snobism does not strike us as sufficiently explaining its existence. Why should the English alone in Europe be snobs in this particular way? They are not expecting anything of these personages; they do not reverence them; they would be wild with anger if they were in any way, however trifling, annoying or injurious. They are not quite free of the feeling that they are as a lot "furriners," and as such contemptible, and that in particular, for their showiness, they have no money, a fact which but for their titles would not come from them in this country. Most of their claim to respect, and we cannot but think that their existence appeals to some latent feeling, some desire to break the monotony of life, or to gratify an unconscious liking for the sumptuousness which has disappeared from the life of the middle classes. It is like the pleasure felt in the sight of brilliant uniforms. The English people have ceased to wear characteristic clothes or brilliant clothes of any kind; but they will go miles to see a regiment in its dress uniforms, or a bevy of ladies going to court, or a procession, such as that which on June 22 turned the dingy streets of London into roads in "Cockaigne" or other fairyland. It is the old taste for "pageants" in another form.—London Spectator.

A Washington correspondent tells of a western congressman whom he once heard declaiming in a Washington hotel about the new navy: "We must have speed in our new ships," he said; "if I had my way about it we would never build another cruiser that could sail less than twenty fathoms an hour!"

Brooklyn ministers have received a circular from a New York firm which says that that firm "is prepared to supply sermons neatly typewritten, the work of a minister recently connected with a large church and intended for those who, in the sharp competition of modern times and the multiplicity of other duties, are not able to prepare for themselves the high quality of work now demanded of the pulpit."

Maryland peach growers are wishing that they had paid heed to the warning of Professor W. G. Johnson, State entomologist, who told them a year or two ago that if they did not gather up and destroy the cuttings and droppings from their trees the cuculo would develop so rapidly as to ruin their crops. They ignored the professor's advice, and just what he told them to expect has come to pass.

Horse dealers of France are apparently no longer able to supply the demand for the flesh of that animal in Paris. An order from the French capital for five thousand barrels of horse meat has been received by a company of Portland, Oregon. The animals used are the half-wind cayuse of Oregon, which are bought for about $2.50 each. As the use of horseflesh for food seems to be growing in several foreign countries, it may become a profitable article for export.

Boston is properly proud of its prominence in the wool trade. The Commercial Bulletin says: The total amount of sales recorded in Boston to date since January 1 is but a few million pounds short of the total American clip. It is nearly double the annual clip of the British Isles. It is five-sixths of the clip of the Argentine Republic. It is just about equivalent to the entire clip of France, Spain and Germany. It is more than half as large as the total sales at the London wool auctions in the whole calendar year 1896. Yet this is the record of but seven months in the Boston market. Yes, Boston is holding her own. She is the second wool market in the world.

The provision of the new tariff that fish caught in the great lakes or other fresh waters by "citizens of the United States" are to be admitted free develops an interesting question. The A. Booth Packing company of Chicago has just brought from the Canadian waters of the upper Superior some whitefish which it wishes to have admitted free on the ground that the company is an American one. The customs authorities at Duluth and the treasury department hold that as the fish were caught by Canadians, they must pay the duty of one-fourth cent a pound. The company seems to hold that the Canadians employed by them are citizens "by proxy."

The question of the price of school-books is becoming a serious one in Georgia, and Governor Atkinson is said to be determined that radical reforms shall be instituted. The question has been before the Georgia public for a number of years, but no action has been taken except the appointment of a State School-Book Commission, which so far has failed to bring about any betterment of the unsatisfactory conditions. Governor Atkinson believes that the legislature should pass a uniformity school-book act, reducing the price of books used in the public schools, and compelling the use of uniform editions and authors throughout the State. He says that he would favor the establishment of a State publishing plant if important reductions cannot be secured otherwise. He believes that the reforms can be brought about, however, by less radical measures, perhaps the purchase of all school books by the State and their issuance to the county boards at cost, or less, obviating at least the danger of rural committees being swindled into paying exorbitant prices by the book agents with whom they now deal.

A plan to ascertain the value of different varieties of native stone found in California for structural purposes has been made by Professor Lawson of the department of geology in the University of California, at Berkeley. From quarries or outcrops where quarries are possible, and where the stone is fairly uniform, it is proposed to secure two blocks of stone—one a twelve-inch cube dressed differently on different faces to show the qualities of the stone, and a four-inch cube, similarly dressed, for preservation in the college. In cases where the rock has ornamental qualities and varies in texture and color, as in the case of marble deposits, several such blocks would be required fairly to represent the prevailing characteristics; and then there may be cases where, owing to special structures, the stone will appear to better advantage in the form of slabs or columns. These specimens, properly cut by skilled operators, are to be made part of the university's permanent economic exhibit, and such a collection will, it is believed, be of positive practical value in determining the kind of stone best adapted for constructive purposes.

AND THE WHEEL ROLLS ON. Wheelmen in Chicago and other places will be encouraged by the decision of Judge Tuley of that city that the ordinance concerning licensing bicycles imposes not a license, but a tax, and that as many wheel owners already pay a tax on bicycles as personal property the proposed exaction of another payment would be in the nature of double taxation. Judge Tuley further maintains that the city's right to impose a license is merely a right to license certain occupations such as those in which draymen, carters, expressmen and others are engaged. It has been held by other courts that wagons not used for hire, for instance, are exempt from payment of license. Judge Tuley is inclined to believe that only bicycles and vehicles "used for traffic" could be required to pay license. The city contended that the power to impose a license for the use of its streets was involved in the same power which gives it the right to regulate the use of the streets. The court answers that the power of regulation does not carry the right to impose a license for the use of what is free to the people of the entire State. Regulation implies restriction of usages or practices injurious to individuals or to the community. Bicycling is not an amusement of this nature, nor would it be contended that the restriction of ball playing, say, or kite flying in the public streets should be "regulated" by the imposition of a license. The city will appeal the case, and by and by we shall know what the high court thinks about licensing bicycles.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING. Those of our readers who buy gold bricks or contribute money to have their unclaimed estates in England claimed will do well to guard themselves against "the Spanish prisoner fraud," which, after a successful career in Europe, has emigrated to this country. It has appeared in Wolfeborough, New Hampshire. Isaac C. Thompson of that town received from Spain a letter purporting to be signed by one Alfred Dias, an ex-Secretary of General Weyler. Dias wrote that he had offended Weyler and had been forced to flee to London. With him, the letter said, he took $25,000, and had deposited it in "the London Bank." To explain the telling of this interesting tale to Mr. Thompson, Dias wrote that he had married Caroline Thompson, a distant relative of the New Hampshire man, and for that reason appealed to him for assistance in turning over to the loving Caroline such part of the $25,000 as Mr. Thompson did not care to keep as compensation for his trouble—and a slight advance to be used in legal proceedings connected with recovering the treasure. Dias could not do the work himself, he wrote, because, after depositing the money in London, he had incautiously paid a visit to Spain, had been arrested in connection with the Weyler trouble, was now languishing in jail, and didn't know when he should get out. If ever, Mr. Thompson had never heard of a relative named Caroline, and, instead of sending $400 to a given address in Spain, as requested, he wrote for further information. Dias replied at great length, and varied his request to one for $500, with which to send his daughter and the chaplain of the prison to America. This eliciting nothing, there then came a letter, nominally from the chaplain, saying that Dias had died, leaving by will one-fourth of the $25,000 to Mr. Thompson. A copy of the will was inclosed, and again money for legal expenses was demanded.

A man doesn't need to go to the Klondyke to get something for nothing. He can stay under his own vine and fig tree and have it brought right to him. SUGAR AS A TONIC. Many new discoveries nowadays tend to show how smart and intuitively knowing lovely Woman is. For thousands of years Woman has been noted for her fondness for sweet things. She has been scolded for this and she has been told by learned men that her sweet tooth was a very bad thing for her. But it now turns out that she has known all along what was good for her. It has been remarked by Alpine tourists that on difficult climbing excursions an increased desire is felt for the consumption of sweets and sweetened foods, and many who never touch such things at home devour large quantities of them on such expeditions. It has also been noticed how eagerly the guides appropriate any sugar that may be left over. At the instigation of the Prussian war office, investigations have been made recently with a special apparatus into the question whether the consumption of small quantities of sugar renders the tired muscles capable of renewed exertion. In order to obtain a practical result, the person who was made the subject of the experiment was kept totally ignorant of the object of the experimenters. On one day a sweet liquid was administered containing thirty grammes of sugar; on the next day a similar liquid, containing a sufficient amount of saccharin to render it indistinguishable from the other as regarded taste. After a very large amount of muscular work had been performed, it was found that better results could be obtained on the days when the sugar was given than on the days when saccharin was given. The blood had become very poor in sugar in consequence of the severe muscular effort, and the administration of a comparatively small quantity of sugar had a markedly invigorating effect.

And it may be remarked that those who bought Sugar when the Washington people were said to be buying it were well pleased with its tonic effect on their spirits and pocketbooks. FASHION NOTES. For Women's Shoulders. Cloth capes lined with fur are worn by those who can afford them for seashore and mountain use, and if you possess such you are sure to wonder how ever any one gets along without such a comfort. But the much more common wrap is planned chiefly as an ornament, and a coat of mosquito netting would be about as warm as they are. Here is a dainty one in the accompanying picture, consisting of a deep, round black silk yoke to which a wide fluffy ruffle of pink chiffon with satin edge was gathered. Over this came a narrower ruffle of black chiffon laid in accordon pleats and disposed in points. The fronts consisted of wide black satin ribbon and formed tabs that were enriched with appliqued guipure, and similar ribbon in narrower width gave the finish for the cascades of pink ruffles edged with black that were set up into the black chiffon points. Pink chiffon furnished the drapery in front. Although a great many of these beautiful accessories employ chiffon, it is much wiser, if not more economical, too, to use a soft quality of mousseline-de-soie. Chiffon becomes crushed and messy after a few wearings, and the mousseline will last much longer, giving good return for its greater cost. The difference between the two not being much, after all, to the judicious purchaser. There's a deal of ingenuity exercised in the construction of these gauzy garments. Bolero designs lead and there are all sorts of modifications of the cape. The shoulder-fastening model is especially pretty, with front and back hanging transparent and smooth, and the lapping at the arms prettily elaborated so that either when the arms are down or lifted, and so betraying the lap at the sides, the garment is dressy. The sleeve of the bodice worn beneath must harmonize with such a cape, else the cape must be a mere effect and the sleeves must be a part of the garment. Delicious jackets bagging prettily into a loose belt are also made of net, lace or mousseline, and are so delicate that it seems a wonder how they ever hold together or get on or off. Indeed, the difficulties of adjustment usually have to be met by cape sleeves instead of tight ones. FLORETTE. RICH. Every woman knows some man who would be immensely rich instead of poor if "he had his wife's energy." "Atkinson (Kan.) Globe." "If you want your boy to respect you," says the Manayunk Philosopher, "don't ever try to show him how hell was played when you were a boy."—Philadelphia Record. "Did you permit him to kiss you?" asked the old gentleman. "I didn't have to," replied the sweet young thing. Indeed she had caught an up-to-date young man who knew too much to ask.—Chicago Post. Cholly—What time is it, Reggie, old man? Reginald—I can't tell you, Cholly, old chappie. My man was called away just as he finished dressing me this forenoon, and there is nobody to wind my watch.—Somerville Journal. "I should think," said the energetic lady, "that you would be ashamed to let your wife take in washing." "It does seem kinder rough," said the gentleman who was too strong to work, "but she needs the money to keep up the house."—Cincinnati Enquirer. Angelina—So this is the information bureau? Clerk—It is; what can I do for you? "Is my hat straight?" and Angelina looked appealingly at the busy young man whose reply was lost in the murmur of the waves.—Chautauqua Assembly Herald. "Rather curious that both the melon and this breakfast should be the product of a vine," casually observed Lake Front at breakfast. "Beefsteak from a vine?" growled the dyspeptic. "Yes," was the cheerful reply, "from a 'bo-vine.'"—Chautauqua Assembly Herald. "Dad, I wish I came of a distinguished family, like Bob Hill, so's I could have something to boast about." "A distinguished family like Bob Hill's, eh? In what way were his parents distinguished?" "Why, his mother was a fat woman in a museum, and his father was swallowed by an alligator."—Richmond Dispatch. A FIRE-FIGHTING DOG. John Foley patted Mary affectionately on the head and remarked, "She's the greatest, dog you ever saw. Eh, Mary? If a call should come in now she would be the first one to her post. When that fire-gong rings Mary knows it means a run, and she stations herself under the wagon." Mary belongs to Capt. Raja's squad, which is stationed on Poplar street, and she is as well thought of as any member of the squad, as Capt. Raja has said many times. Mary has been in the service for about three years. Her mother, who was known by the name of Fannie, and whose reign preceded that of Mary, saw about ten years' service on the Fire Department under Capt. Raja, and she is still to be seen at the Captain's headquarters. Fannie, the boys say, has retired from active life and is living on a pension. Mary goes to every fire that the chemical responds to. In the time that she has been a member of the chemical squad she has had some exciting experiences and narrow escapes. She can climb a ladder almost as rapidly as any of the men, and whenever it is possible for her to be at their side, there she is. Not long since there was a fire on Market street. When the gong rang Mary took up her station under the wagon. She was at the scene of the fire by the time the wagon got there. The fire was in the garret of the building, and leading to this garret was a ladder. The firemen quickly ascended this ladder. Mary was right there with them. When they got ready to leave they did so, but Mary hung back. They missed her, and Capt. Raja, along with several of his men started in search for her. They remembered that she was in the garret with them fighting the fire and looked in there for her. There was Mary, scratching around in some old rubbish, looking for fire, and she had uncovered a spark or two, but with her feet she quickly extinguished them. One of the most remarkable traits of Mary's character is her affection for her mother. Fannie is still endowed with the old-time love of adventure and excitement, and brightens up when the alarm-gong rings. But she no longer goes to fires. Mary is responsible for this fact. She had a hard time breaking her beloved parent of the habit of going to fires, but she finally did so. Even yet Fannie will get up and start out on a run with the wagon, but Mary drives her back. She drags her mother by a limb, and holds her, or runs in front of her, and barks until the elder dog returns. Then Mary joins the squad. Both Mary and Fannie have developed the wonderful faculty of telling the difference between the exercise bell and the fire bell. At stated hours the gong rings for the horses to be let out of their stalls and to be hitched to the wagon, just as though they were going to a fire. There is no difference between this ringing and the ringing of a fire alarm, but Mary has learned to tell them apart. Mary will glance up at the indicator as though she was reading the number there, and if it is simply the exercise bell ringing she will not move.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal. DEATH OF MRS. LUDINGTON. Wife of Captain Caleb L. Ludington of Fair Haven.

Mrs. Abigail Ludington, beloved wife of Captain Caleb Ludington, the well-known oyster dealer, and mother of Selectman Ludington, died at her late home on South Quinnipiac street, Fair Haven, about 10:30 o'clock last night. She was in every way a most estimable wife and a loving and devoted mother, an ideal neighbor, kind and considerate, a true friend, and deeply attached to her home and fireside. She was eighty-three years of age, and for one of her age was surprisingly alert and active, being able to wait upon herself and attend to light household duties until last Friday, when she was taken down owing to the giving out of her vital powers. Though the most loving care and the best medical attention were given, she passed away last night.

Mrs. Ludington was born in Branford. She was the daughter of Ammi Palmer and Abigail Kimberley. She was married in Branford and resided in New Haven over forty years. She was an attendant at the Second Congregational church. She was the mother of six children—Ammi T. Abigail, Luzerne, Mary Estelle, Louis Andrew and Henrietta Maria—the first three of whom are living. One brother also survives her—Henry Palmer of Fair Haven.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

DROWNED AT SHORT BEACH. Ralph Griswold, Son of Frank C. Griswold of Hartford.

Ralph Griswold, son of Mr. Frank C. Griswold, superintendent of agencies of the Connecticut General Life Insurance company, of Hartford, who was stopping with his parents at the Crawford cottage, Short Beach, was drowned yesterday. He was out in a boat in the East Haven river and the boat overturned while passing under a bridge. The current was very swift.

Young Griswold's body was recovered in five or six minutes by Henry Rafferty. Physicians made an attempt to resuscitate him, but it was impossible. Ralph was about sixteen years old. The body will be taken to Hartford this morning.

NOTES OF THE MARKETS.

Cuthbert & Co. say of yesterday's market:

The situation was regarded by every one as bullish, with the probability of gold imports, a certainty of large railway earnings, and the probability of prosperous business as the bull factors for the future.

Houseman & Co. bought over 44,000 shares of stocks yesterday, of which Mr. Houseman personally bought 24,000 shares. He was offered one-quarter per cent. commission to sell 5,000 shares of the granger stocks, which order he refused.

Of the active stocks in his office he loaned all except a few hundred shares. He attaches great importance to the break in sight exchange to below 4.88, the lowest point for this time of year in ten years.

Wheat developed renewed strength in sympathy with stronger and higher foreign markets, with an advance of 60 centimes at Paris in wheat and flour, and heavy foreign buying of September futures here and in the west, and an engagement of sixty-five loads of wheat for export, including thirty loads here and thirty-five at the outports. Private reports from France and Austria were very bullish, and, backed up by that were with good buying orders, they seemed to confirm the strength of the foreign situation.

Michael Bowler, operator at the Western Union Telegraph office on East Main street, returned home Monday evening after a brief vacation, spent in New Haven. He was given a rousing reception at the Nauvauk depot when he alighted from the train by a corps of messengers carrying umbrellas. They formed in line and escorted him to the office.—Waterbury Republican.

WISE WOMAN makes a mental or notebook memorandum as to how far her dollars and dimes will go towards beautifying her home in the fall. The more practical she becomes the more likely she will be to appreciate the fact that we can do House Decorating for less money NOW than we can then. She will appreciate further being away while the work is going on.

We're ready to talk such matters over.

OBITUARY.

The Right Rev. W. W. How, D. D., London, Aug. 10.—The Rt. Rev. William Walsham How, D. D., Protestant bishop of Wakefield, is dead. He was born in 1823.

William Walsham How was born in Shrewsbury in 1823, was graduated at Oxford, became a diocesan inspector of schools, and was select preacher at his university in 1868. He was made Suffragan bishop of Bedford in 1873, and in 1888 was translated to Wakefield. He was the author of a number of religious works, including a commentary on the gospels.

RECALLS A FAMOUS MURDER.

Adeline M. S. Colvocoresses, widow of Captain George M. Colvocoresses of the United States army, died at Claremont, N. H., last Saturday. Captain Colvocoresses was mysteriously murdered at Bridgeport on June 3, 1872, after a life spent in the United States navy. He was born in the Island of Scio, in the Grecian Archipelago, in 1816, and after the massacre of the Greeks there in 1822 he was ransomed from the Turks and came to this country. In 1828 he was attached to Captain Wilkes' exploring expedition in the southern seas and took part in the overland expedition which went from Vancouver's Island to San Francisco in 1841. He was commissioned lieutenant in 1842, and after serving in various foreign squadrons was made commander in 1861. During the war he captured the blockade runner Stephen Hart, which was laden with arms and ammunition. In 1867 he received his commission as captain and retired. He was also the author of "Four Years in a Government Exploring Expedition." No clue of the murderer was ever discovered. Since her husband's death Mrs. Colvocoresses had lived in retirement. She leaves one son, George P. Colvocoresses, an instructor in the naval academy.

Many people in the state will remember the Colvocoresses' cottage at Litchfield, which was built by the captain, and which he occupied nearly every summer until his death.

ROBERT BONNER ILL.

Arverne, L. I., Aug. 10.—Robert Bonner, who has been lying ill at the Dale cottage on Carlton avenue, has been removed to his home in New York. Mr. Bonner suffered an injury to his right leg several weeks ago, and a complication of diseases set in. Heart failure was the most serious of these, and Mr. Bonner grew so weak that his life was despaired of. He has rallied, however, and was taken home, where it is hoped, the best of scientific treatment will restore his health.
