SENATE DELAYS ACTION

Effort of Senator Davis to Get a Vote on Cuban Resolution Fails.

HE MAY FORCE ONE TO-DAY

A CONTINUOUS SESSION WILL BE DEMANDED.

An Unprecedented Scene Occurs During an Endeavor to Continue Yesterday's Session Until a Vote is Taken-Senator Hoar Makes an Emotional Plea for Calm and Deliberate Action-Yesterday's Speeches All Favorable to Some Action

Washington, April 14.-The attention of the civilized world is focussed upon the senate of the United States. Upon its action probably depends the momentous question of war between this country and Spain. The action of the house yesterday in adopting resolutions looking to armed intervention in the Cuban rebellion transferred the center of interest and action from one wing of the capitol to the other. Upon the senate, therefore, as was reiterated on the floor to-day rests the responsibility for delay or action.

Six Hours of Debate.

For more than six hours this afternoon the senate had the resolutions proposed by the committee on foreign relations under consideration. The speeches delivered upon the various phases of the situation were spirited and vehement, and disclosed no irreconcilable differences among those who spoke. All were in favor of action in some form by the government. The most radical difference was as to whether the resolution finally adopted should recognize the independence of the Cuban republic or simply declare for armed intervention with a view to the ultimate freedom and independence of the Cuban people.

The Speakers. The speakers to-day were Messrs Turner, Hoar, Turple, Gray and Fairbanks. They were accorded the most profound attention both by senators on the floor and by the throngs in the galleries. Among those who listened to a part of the debate were Sir Julian Pauncefote and a considerable number of the diplomatic corps, Speaker Reed, Mr. Justice Harlan of the supreme court and Hon. W. J. Bryan. The speeches were interspersed with sharp and spirited colloquies, some of which caused intense excitement in the galleries. Many times the applause both on the floor and in the galleries was tumultuous and the vice president was obliged more than once to warn the spectators that no demonstrations were under the rules to be permitted.

Within a few minutes of adjourn ment a genuine sensation was created by the efforts of the vice president to subdue the applause induced by the effort made to prolong the session until a vote could be taken. Vice President Hobart directly addressed the galleries and ordered that the applause should cease. Nearly every senator was on his feet and the main aisle in front of the president's desk was crowded with senators.

"The chair is himself out of order." shouted Mr. Gray of Delaware. "He has no right directly to address the peopeople in the galleries."

"Such a thing was never before done in the senate," declared Mr. Bate of

"The applause was started by senators on the floor" some one shouted from the crowd in front of the president's desk.

"I started it myself," explained Mr. Mason, "and am proud to assume the responsibility." After vainly endeavoring on two occasions to agree to a time for a vote upon the resolutions and after voting down a motion to adjourn, the senate finally amid much confusion, agreed to adjourn until 10

HOAR'S BRILLIANT PLEA.

Followed by Senator Turple-Sen ceedings in Detail.

When the venerable senator from Massachusetts, Mr. Hoar, arose to follow Mr. Turner, there was a visible stir in the audience. His first sentence fell from his lips slowly and distinctly and showed that he was for peace, if peace could be had. He said that he wanted to make a few observations quietly, calmly and in the manner of a court dealing with the great problems of public welfare and public honor. He thought it was not the time for impassioned rhetoric, loud declamation and clapping of hands and the stamping of feet, but rather it was the posiof absolute deliberation that should command such a scene and such an occasion. He then argued that the report of cruelty and oppression in Cuba undoubtedly warranted some measures that would bring peace, but he doubted the wisdom of rushing headlong into war until every other diplomatic effort had been made to hostilities. He spoke of the utterances of his fellow senators who had told of the horrors surrounding the reconcentrados and believed that they were POWERS WILL TRY AGAIN the utterances of good men, but whether, said he, "I differ or agree with their utterances. I have nothing but the profoundest respect for that which brought these utterances forth."

Voice Trembling With Emotion. Then, with a voice trembling with emotion, his head slowly shaking as the words came forth, he told how a captain of a company of infantry organized in the same town in which he was born, went forth in the morning of the revolution to hold the bridge at Concord and said that he was in the same position as that captain was Realizing the tremendous responsibilities of his high office, he thought that whatever was done should be done with an eye single to the situation. He said he was born in a cold latitude and consequently might look upon things in a somewhat different light and then, with hand raised, and amid profound stillness in the senate chamber he made this significant remark: "If this country is to do a great act of international justice let us do it calmly and deliberately."

Attacks Upon President Ill Advised, Senator Hoar argued that the attacks upon the president were ill-advised and most ill-timed; that instead of condemnation of the policy of the executive the country and the congress should commend the president in his efforts making for peace, so long as peace could be had with honor. Then after paying a tribute to the president the senator said that the men who suffered by modern wars were not the men who provoked them, and that the men who reaped the benefits from wars were a few officers and the stock job-"It is not the Weylers, the Sagastas, the Blancos, who realize the horrors of war," he said, but the poor peasants, taken away from home and drafted, the widow whose stay is taken away, that suffer most. War may be necessary now, but I am not prepared to believe it." He then remarked that he could not agree with the assertion that war was needed once in a while as a purifying force. He said that war meant the addition of untold millions to the public debt of the country, the piling up of pensions mountain high, and would bring woe and desolation to thousands of homes. McKinley's Sublime Self Restraint, "I like and thank the president of the United States for his sublime selfrestraint in this emergency and for holding back so far as he could the step towards war," continued Senator Hoar. "Those who love and stand by him need not be disturbed that the brilliance of his fame will be diminished in the view of our posterity by his action at this time." Mr. Hoar said Mr. Hoar said that the name of McKinley would be linked with other actions of notable self-restraint which had characterized the American people in other momentous hours. "Have we forgetten," said he, "that the same kind of objurgation and contumely was hurled at the head of Washington when he held back the people from another war with Eng-

Recollections. The senator from Washington, Mr. Hoar thought, had forgotten this fact, that John Adams as president had sent to France commissioners to negotiate a peaceful solution of pending critical juestions, and that while that action had cost Adams the re-election, it had left him with a brilliant fame. "I am old enough," said Mr. Hoar, "to remember some of these tempests of popular excitement in congress and out of it. Some of the senators here remem-ber the cry of "On to Richmond!" "On to Richmond!" and the charges of impotence and cowardice which were heaped upon Abraham Lincoln. Some of us on this side of the chamber wish we might forget Bull Run." Mr. Hoar recalled the fact that he had entered the house during the ten years' war in Cuba. He added sententiously that in those days the members did not throw books at each other and call each other llars. He recalled the tremendous pressure that was brought upon President Grant to take drastic action in the then pending Cuban question, and regarded the self-restraint with which Grant at that time conducted himself one of his strongest claims to fame.

"As I Grow Old and Thin Blooded," "As I grow old and thin blooded" said Mr. Hoar, "I like to read the stories of these sublime self-restraints." Mr. Hoar said he could not agree with the impression taken by Mr. Foraker that recognition of belligerency a year ago or even two years ago would have averted serious trouble between Spain and United States, That recognition would have given Spain the right to search our ships and he did not believe it would have done the insurgents the slightest good. Mr. Hoar referred to the quotation yesterday by Mr. Lodge from the poet James Rus sell Lowell in relation to the civil war, and Mr. Hoar called his colleague's attention to the fact that the people had not taken at that time the advice of Mr. Lowell, but instead had taken that of Lincoln, Seward and Stanton and on the whole had come out quite as well.

Again Praises President. Again the senator gave high praise to the president for his masterly presentation of the condition in the island as outlined in his message to congress and said he was in hearty accord with the executive when he advised against recognition of the insurgent government if it was a government. He then rapidly reviewed a great many international questions. "To recognize the insurgents," said the senator, "would be to ignore our whole history, and we cannot recognize their independence without flying away from the whole history of the world." He stated that when the process of intervention took place it would give America the right to use every possible advantage for war would then be an actuality. He said he did not belong to the class of lawyers who believed that if the United States took Spain by the neck and heels and threw her out of Cuba

TO MAKE REPRESENTATIONS TO PRESIDENT MEKINLEY.

Ambassadors and Ministers at Washington Hold a Conference-It is Understood That the Present Movement in Behalf o Peace Will Not be of the Same Mild Character as Previous One.

Washington, April 14.—It was learned to-night in high diplomatic quarters that an exchange of notes had begun between the European capitals with a view to making representations on the Spanish-American situation. In the same connection an informal meeting of the ambassadors and ministers in the city of the six great powers of Europe was held late in the day. This had been anticipated in view of the prevalling sentiment in all the foreign quarters that the action thus far taken in congress made war inevitable. This common opinion had been officially reported to the several European capitals and it was doubtless instrumental in starting the active exchange between the great powers to-day. The same exchange occurred a week ago as a preliminary to the joint note of great powers presented to President McKinley mildly urging a peaceful setdement with Spain. It is understood, however, that the present movement is not of the same mild character as the former one.

Simultaneously with the opening of the exchange word came from Madrid that the Spanish government was about to issue another appeal to the great powers of Europe. It is understood that this appeal is initiatory to the contemplated action of the powers and there is apparent agreement in advance that the appeal will risceive favorable consideration. It is said that Spains appeal will recite her grievances against the United States, stating in detail the many concessions she has made and pointing out that it was in response to the urgent representations of the six joint powers that the last concession of an armistice was grant-If the powers determine to act their influence will probably be practically decided toward inducing the United States to grant Spain sufficient time within which to try the armistice recently proclaimed. During the recent joint action of the powers their main influence was exerted at Madrid, the only action at Washington being the courteous expression of hope for peace. But the pres e nt movement contemplates that the influence shall be exerted at Washington rather than at Madrid, as it is the common belief in diplomatic quarters that the Madrid authorities have reached the limit of concessions and should now be given adequate time to try what they and the powers have offered as a means of restoring peace in Cuba.

There is no suggestion, however, that this influence at present will be of a material character, but it is expected fluence of the powers in checking tendencies which, it is believed, inevitably will lead to war. Up to a late hour to night word had not been received at any of the various foreign establishments that any common basis of joint action had been reached, although it was the general impression that there would be little difficulty in arriving at this common ground, in view of the prevailing sentiment abroad. It is not so certain, however, that all of the powers are ready for a step of this character. Germany has of late shown a disposition to avoid exerting strong influences on the United States. Russia is also thought to be somewhat indifferent. France and Austria are the most active in the present movement, as they were in the former one, Whether all of the six great powers are ready to join in the movement is in doubt, and without this united action it is felt that the force of such influence

The Spanish minister had not been officially advised up to a late hour to night that the meeting of the Spanish cortes had been advanced from April 25 to April 20. The press cables from Madrid were not doubted, however, There is no doubt that the cortes will prepare a war budget adequate to the existing condition of affairs, which budget will be akin to the $50,000,000 defense fund recently appropriated by congress. It is understood that the Spanish war budget will not be less than 250,000,000 pesetas. The address of the queen regent upon the opening of congress is looked forward to a another important document.

RAISING OF TROOPS. General Miles Makes an Explanation for

Public's Benefit. Washington, April 14.—Major General Miles, commanding the army, said today that a misapprehension exists in regard to the raising of troops in the event of war. He thought the people should understand the situation more thoroughly than appears to be the case at present. In the event of the passage of the resolution reported by the senate foreign relations committee, said General Miles, the president would have authority to call into the service of the government military to the number of about 2,000,000 men. The third section of the resolution directs and empowers the president "to use the entire land and naval forces of the United States and to call into actual service the militia of the several states to such extent as may be necessary to carry these resolutions into effect."

Spain Advised to Declare War

London, April 15 .- The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "Several European powers, including Austria, are reported to have advised Spain or concessions would be likely to provoke a revolution."

DELAY IS LIKELY.

NEW HAVEN CONN., FRIDAY, APRIL 15, 1898.

ut Senator Davis Will Push Cuban Mat ter in Senate. Washington, April 14.-All day long conferences of senators were held looking to a possible agreement on the form of resolution to be sent to the presi dent. Great efforts were made for the house resolution, which was known to have been satisfactory to the president and which was supported by the conservative senators. It is not believed that the house resolutions can pass the senate, and the prospects are that the committee resolution will have an amendment recognizing the republic of Cuba before it is passed, the friends of recognition claiming a clear majority for it. The conservative senators be lieve the house proposition will win in conference, the impression being that the house will refuse to yield, and in friends of Cuba in the senate will accept the house proposition. When the senate adjourned to-night Senator Davis, in charge of the resolution, repeated his intention to ask the senate to sit continuously after the beginning of the session to-morrow, unless an agreement to fix a time for a vote can be secured. "I see no other way of bringing the matter to an issue," he said. "I do not enjoy night sessions any more than other senators, but I appreciate the importance of getting the speeches off and of securing a vote at the earliest possible hour." As anxious as Senator Davis and others of his mind are for a speedy vote, the indications are for considerable delay. The vice president already twenty senators for recognition to speak, and others are expected to make that they have no intention of speaking for the purpose of causing delay, but nevertheless they will consume many hours of time. It would seem now that even in case of a continuou session a vote would not be probable before Saturday. The list of those who have expressed a desire to speak includes the following senators: Cullom, Daniel, Frye, Tillman, Wolcott, Spooner, Chilton, Platt of Connecticut, Can non, Pettigrew, Proctor, Burrows, Ba-Wellington, Stewart, Caffery, Hawley, White and Rawlins.

GENERAL LEE DECLINES. Does Not Wish Reception in His Honor-

Washington, April 14.-General Fitzhugh Lee declined to-day the honor of the reception tendered him. When the committee waited upon him to-day to receive his final decision, he said: "Look here, boys, I have not done a American citizen would not have done, and I don't see why there should be any fuss made about it. Now I don't want you to think I am ungrateful, for I am not, but I have studied over the matter and I feel satisfied that it would be better not to have the reception. I don't want for an instant for anybody to think that I wish to put myself forward, and I must decline your most kind offer." One of General Lee's most intimate friends said that one reason for his not wanting the rethat he recognized the fact that he oc cupied an official position and he felt s hesitancy in accepting any formal demonstration on this acount.

FEELING AGAINST AMERICA. It is Reported to be Very Strong in Paris. Paris, April 15 .- The feeling here is very strong against the United States, especially since President McKinley's message. Mr. McKinley is compared to Pontius Pilate, and the American congress is accused of a buccaneering spirit, which it is feared will extend to other nations as well as those of Spain. There is feverish activity at the government dock-yards in completing vessels and rearming old ones. Frenchmen are quite indignant at the suggestion that the United States will possibly indulge in privateering. It is believed that the government however, preserve a strict neutrality. The idea of war is not very popular among the people.

Feeling in Berlin,

Berlin, April 14.-According to a dispatch from Kiel, the United States is negotiating for the purchase of two dispatch boats now being built for Brazil. Holland is also inclined to sell two armored cruisers. Nearly all the papers refer in strong language to President McKinley's message, and the feeling of the public is against the United States.

PRIVATEERING. Applications for Letters of Marque a Spanish Embassy in London. London, April 14.-There is great interest here in government and commercial circles over the possibility of privateering in the event of war between the United States and Spain. Several applications for letters of marque have been made at the Spanish embassy and at the office of the Spanish commission, but there have been no applications at the United States embassy. It is generally recognized that Spain intends to make privateering a conspicuous element of the campaign. It is thought, however, that she will confine her energies in this direction to preying upon American coastwise commerce.

It is not believed that she will risk offending European powers by stop- gravity of the decision the government ping their American bound vessels or by searching transatiantic ships for against the continued and aggressive American goods, for if European ships policy of the United States with reare molested the powers will probably adopt radical preventive measures, The prevalent opinion that the United us a declaration of war. CORTES IS TO ASSEMBLE late to-day with Sir Henry Drummond | SPAIN ON THE DEFENSIVE

THE IMPORTANT ACTION OF THE SPANISH CABINET.

Queen Signs Decree Calling for National Subscription to Increase Strength of Spanish Fleet-Climax is Approaching-Another Note to be Sent to the Powers-Report Concerning Recall of Spanish Minister-Queen Threatens to Abdicate. Madrid, April 14.-3:15 p. m.-A hurriedly called cabinet council was held this afternoon under the presidency of the queen regent at which it was deorder to prevent further delay the decided to hasten the reopening of the Spanish parliament. The date for the assembling of the cortes was April 25, but parliament will now be summoned to meet on Wednesday next, April 20. The queen regent, at the cabinet council, signed the decree calling for a national subscription to increase the strength of the Spanish fleet.

At the cabinet meeting Premier Sagasta made a statement on the subject of the recent developments of the Cuban situation, as affected by events has received requests from about in Washington. He declared the situation was very grave and while pointsimilar application. All these insist ing out that "the debates in congress have no legal value," he said he deemed it advisable to expedite the reopening of the cortes "in order to allow national opinion and its representatives to declare the will of the people and to enable the government to act in accord with the nation."

> Madrid, April 14-3:30 p. m.-A cabinet minister who was interviewed on emerging from the council, said: "The true climax is approaching, but Spain is calm. She has done everything to avert war, and is now confident in her ight and in the justice of her cause. She is ready to defend her soil and honor. When the American government communicates its decision, Spain will stand ready to meet all eventualities.'

Madrid, April 14.-3:40 p. m.-After he cabinet council the ministers re-asembled at the ministry for foreign affairs, and there discussed the question of sending a note to the great powers. ommunicating the decision arrived at during the day's cabinet meeting and explaining the situation from the Spanish standpoint.

Madrid, April 14.-4 p. m.-The pre-amble of the summons for the convocation of the cortes to be published in to-morrow's official Gazette assumes a very determined tone in justifying the convocation. Senor Sagasta, on leaving the palace said that Senor Gullon the minister of foreign affairs, would report to the European powers the attitude assumed by the United States.

Madrid, April 14.-6:30 p. m.-Today's action of the council confirms the general belief here that a conflict is inevitable and has produced much excitement. The decision was published in an extra, which sold rapidly in all parts of the town. The council decided in addition to what has been already cabled, to instruct all Spain's representatives abroad to "protest against the calumnious against her" as embodied in the reports of the foreign relations committee of the senate and house of representatives. It also authorized Senor Gullon, the moment he hears that the resolutions proposed in congress against Spanish sovereignty are sanctioned by President McKinley to order the withdrawal of Senor Polo y Bernabe.

Every Preparation Possible for an Eme gency Made.

Key West, Fla., April 14.-Surmise appears to have settled into conviction here that the statement attributed to President McKinley and partially confirmed by Vice President Hobart, many senators and General Lee, namely "no senators and General Lee, namely "no army and navy, Spain and Cuba, they hostile shots until April 15," is true, uttered cries against "Yankee pigs" was made for good reasons and will and against Senor Morel, the secretary govern events. Those acquainted with Cuba recognize how valuable vessels of this class would be in such harbers as Matanzas, Sagua La Grande or in United States to acquiesce. With the Canto river, where light draft well armed and heavily manned boats are just the thing for good service.

With the exception of the reports that four companies of troops ar their way here to do garrison duty, there is not much information obtainable regarding the military plans and no steps appear to have been taken to provide for the transportation of troops to Cuba. The naval men say they do not know of any available transports in the gulf and some people think the insurgents could be relied on to conduct the land operations but those who are familiar with the circumstances say such an idea is untenable. Dr. Clendin, chief medical army officer on this island, made an inspection yesterday of the Ellinger and of the Marrero cigar factories, with a view of converting them into

TO ENFORCE NEUTRALITY. Purpose of Increasing British Fleet Off Kingston, Jamaica.

Kingston, Jamaica, April 14.—The colonial authorities say that until specific instructions to the contrary are received from the home government, coal will not be regarded as contraband of war. There are now 2,500 tons of tered there had revolted, Welsh and American steaming coal in Jamaican ports, and it will be sold to any purchaser, American or Spanish. The correspondent of the Associated Press is semi-officially informed that the increase in the force of the British fleet and the reinforcing of the garrison here are measures taken to prepare for the enforcement of neutrality, anticipation of war between the United States and Spain. For example, if a Spanish and an American ship happen to be in the harbor at the same time one of them will not be allowed to leave until twenty-four hours after the other and at least enough coal will be supplied to the warships to steam to the next friendly port. The officials of the colonial government regard the possibility of a United States protectorate over Cuba as likely to be hurtful to Jamaica, as, they say, it would engage capital for the former island which would otherwise be employed here. The British consul at Santlage charge of American interests there, the foreign minister, had a conference cables that all is quiet at that port.

London, April 15 .- The Madrid correspondent of the Standard telegraphing Thursday night says: "The dispatches announcing the resolutions proposed in the United States senate and passed by the house of representatives caused more indignation and displeasure in Madrid than even the presidential message. Not a single paper admits the supposition that such pretensions could be tolerated by Spanish government desirous of keep ing harmony with the unanimous feelings of the people. "The watchword of the officials is to remain on the defensive. All sensible and farsighted statesmen in Spain understand perfectly that the declara-tions of their own government and of President McKinley do not by any means make impossible a peaceful and conciliatory solution, if circumstance permit. Besides they fancy that the European powers, particularly Austria, France and Russia, may yet have omething to say and check President McKinley when once he has control of the negotiations. In this strain of consideration I understand the Spanish court and several members of the cabinet do not despair or share the pessimist impressions prevalent in the press and in political circles. The military newspapers talk very wildly today, demanding war and considering further concessions impossible. The other papers are mostly angry against America but the conservative organs, like the chief, Senor Silvela, are guard ed and reserved, with the evident inclination to have peace."

It is worthy of note that the demonstrators who were dispersed in the course the day in the vicinity of General Woodford's residence and elsewhere were not the rabble, but people of th middle classes and the well-to-do. The best proof of this is that men like Senor Martin, a well known and wealthy attorney, and Senor Dicenta, the celebrated dramatist, were arrested as agitators. During the demonstrations some revolver shots were fired by persons in the crowd, and this caused the police and civil guard to charge with drawn swords.

"Several daily newspapers will be prosecuted for publishing articles in-citing the populace against America. But despite all these events, General Woodford declares that he expects his family to return here from France next week, and it is a fact that none of the American consuls in Spain has yet left

To Be Committed to Memory by All Dyspepties, Invalids, Consumptives. What is the first cause of nine tenth of all disease?

Imperfect digestion of food. Why does imperfect digestion cause disease of other organs?

Because blood, nerves, muscle, bone and flesh are derived from the food we eat and digest. If digestion is perfect the blood is pure, nerves and muscles strong, flesh firm. If the digestion is poor, the blood is supplied from half digested, fermenting food, irritating every nerve and organ. The result is, sooner or later, organic disease, because every organ being poorly nourished the weakest gives way first and we have liver trouble, kidney complaints, heart disease or consumption. Is not dieting the usual and best treatment to cure indigestion? No, because the dyspeptic has been starved long enough; what is needed is abundant nourishment, not the lack of it. The stomach and blood demand nutriment, not bran crackers. What is the best method of cure?

Plenty of wholesome food well digested. But how can a weak stomach diges plenty of wholesome food? By taking with the food after each meal certain harriless remedies which are known to digest food and thus nourish the blood and rest the weak stomach.

What are these harmless remedies? The most valuable are vegetable ferments, pure pepsin, Golden Seal and fruit salts. All of these are now combined in the form of pleasant tasting tablets sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Are these tablets superior to the various liquid preparations of so-called

Most decidedly, because all liquid medicines become stale with age and lose whatever good qualities they may have had originally, while the tablet retains its properties indefinitely. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be car ried in the pocket, always at hand ready for use when traveling or at daily occupation. They cost but 50c and should be kept in every family. They keep the digestion perfect and save doctor's bills by warding off dis-

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets adapted to all forms of dyspepsia? Yes, because in all cases the trouble results from indigested, fermenting food. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cause the food to be digested before it has time to ferment. If you wish to know more about them ask your druggist for a package and try them.

VALE NOTES OF INTEREST. Successful Easter Trips by the Ball Teams Other News.

The success of the Yale law school baseball team on the Easter trip through the south was much better than anticipated. The members of the team returned yesterday morning by boat and report a thoroughly enjoyable and successful trip, both financially and sociably. In several places they were royally entertained by the supporters of the team which they played. Three of the five games played resulted in victories for the lawyers. teams defeated were Howard universi-Collegeville, Pa., and St. John's college at Annapolis.

They were defeated by Fredericksburg team at Fredericks, Va., and Villanova college at Villanova, Pa. In the game with Ursinus, Hamlin pitched a strong game allowing only one hit.

The University nine won four out of six games and made quite as good showing as former teams have on the Easter trip. The games played and the score of each follows: Manhattan college, 10; Yale, 3; Georgetown college, Yale 5; Georgetown college, 6; Yale, 9; Hampton, 0; Yale, 12; University of Virginia, 6; Yale, 3, University, 0;

During the Easter recess the freshman baseball team has played three games, winning them all as follows: 9th, Yale freshman, 6; Hillhouse high school, 1; April 11, Yale freshman, 27; Hopkins Grammar school, 7; April 13, Yale freshman, 16; Hillhouse high school, 7.

INTERCOLLEGIATE WHIST. Plans for the Yale-Harvard-Prince ton whist tournament are being rapidly completed. Teams of eight players will represent colleges. The tournament will probably take place in the rooms of the Knickerbocker Athletic club, New York city, on Wednesday April 20. The duplicate game will be played? The original plan was to have thirty-two deals played in one sitting, but at present it is proposed to arrange a schedule for two sessions-afternoon and evening-twenty-four hands being played at each sitting The teams from the three colleges have been selected by competitive tournaments.

OTHER ITEMS. The university baseball training table was started yesterday morning at Mrs

PAVING OF CHAPEL STREET

Advocated by the Mayor Before Street Committee.

Mayor Farnsworth appeared before the street committee Wednesday evening and advocated the paving of Chapel street, between State and York streets, with vitrified brick.

Dr. Frank Whittemore spoke in opposition to the use of brick, though he emphasized the mayor's argument for a better pavement on the street. Others who appeared before the committee were S. W. Hurlburt, S. H. Moseley, Henry C. Bretzfelder, A. Maxey Hiller, Benjamin R. English and Anthony

Mr. Moseley thought that the stands of expressmen on Chapel street oppo site the green should be removed, and suggested that the stands would be better located on Temple street or in the green, or on College street opposite the university.

After the hearing the committee went into executive session, but no important business was done.

PATRIOTISM IN WEST HAVEN At the regular meeting of Savin Rock council, Royal Arcanum, held Wednesday evening, it was voted, after a stirring appeal from Supreme Representative J. Mackrille, whose motion was seconded by Past Regent Charles T. Sherman, that Savin Rock council No. 1068, R. A., should pay the dues and assessments of any member of the council who (through being at present a member of the state militia) should be called upon to support our national government in the event of a war between this country and Spain in the immediate future, or a brother who should enlist for the same purpose in the army or navy of the United States. thus preventing his earning a sufficient sum to keep him in good standing in the order.

THE CRESCENT ANNUAL.

Brilliant Affair at New Music Hall To-Night.

Judging by the sale of tickets for the under the auspices of the "Crescent" at New Music hall to-night, there will be a very large and brilliant assemblage.

Those who attend will hear one of the best entertainments given in the city this season. A final rehearsal of the one-act farce comedy, "A Proposal Under Difficulties," was held yesterday afternoon and it was faultless. The performers display considerable histrionic ability, and their part of the pro gramme will indeed be very enjoyable. The cast if characters will be as fol-

WILL NOT START UNTIL MONDAY.

Owing to Delays the L. Candee & Co. Extends Its Shut-down.

L. Candee & Co. will not start their works to-morrow, as was expected. The wheels will turn Monday, when the employes of the mill room will go in to work. The boot and shoe makers will fit up Tuesday and all departments will be in operation Thursday. A notice to the above effect was pasted on the company's bulletin board last evening.

At the Wallace street entrance Superintendent C. G. Ames stated to a representative of the Journal and Courier last evening that it was utterly mpossible to start the factory to-morrow, owing to delays in completing the extensive improvements and repairs which are nearing completion. These delays, although unavoidable, are as exasperating to the officers of the company as they undoubtedly are disap-pointing to the employes. However, work is being pushed energetically and steam producing plant in all New England. Some of the operatives will no doubt be surprised when they enter th yard again to notice one of the old brick chimneys gone and the other in ourse of demolishment.

However, the electric lights will be as brilliant as ever Tuesday, the smoke from the generators will rise from a gigantic and imposing iron stack, the rumble of the mill will be as familiar as ever and the rattle of the lasts will sound just as musical as before, a pleasant accompaniment to busy hands

FORMER NEW HAVENER MAY COMMAND.

Captain C. F. Goodrich Expected to Command the St. Louis.

It is expected that Captain C. F. Goodrich, president of the war college at Newport, and a member of the naval strategic board, will be placed in command of the St. Louis, one of the American line steamships which the government will turn into cruisers. Captain Goodrich was born in New Haven and lived here for many years He was appointed to the naval academy by the late Governor James E. English, then a congressman. Young Goedrich was the son of William Goodrich, one of the best known sea captains of the early part of the century. Young Goodrich was in Russell school when he was appointed to the naval academy, which was then at Newport. This was just after the civil war broke Since his graduation from the naval academy Mr. Goodrich has been continuously in the navy. He has been part of the time a professor at An-

The Meriden Journal says that a new superintendent of the state school for boys will soon be appointed, but that the trustees have not decided who the appointee will be, but it is a settled fact that one of the many candidates will be selected to take the place of the present acting superintendent.

One of the trustees stated that the special committee appointed from the board to look into this matter had no man yet selected and until they had no action would be taken. When they are ready to recommend a new superintendent a special meeting of the full board of trustees will probably be called to take action.

HOOKING A BIG SHARK.

Experience of Two Fishermen Who Battle With a Monster Fish.

It was a pitch dark night with heavy swell coming up from the inlet. We sat on the pier of the shanty smoking and listening to the confused sounds of wind and sea, while now and then a big wave would become visible as it broke near the pier. It was about half-flood tide, the very time for schools of big fish to run in, as they did at night, to feed. Whenever we wanted to go fishing in the night, used to listen for the sounds made by the feeding fish as they splashed and leaped on the surface.

On this night we located a big school by this method, and seizing our rods and tackle, jumped into a smaller boat than we would had we taken time to choose. The fish proved to be further out than we thought, and the light in the shanty was a mile and a half away before we dropped anchor. But we had managed to get into the very middle of the school, and for a ime we had splendid sport with big bluefish. Suddenly the fish stopped biting in the queerest way. I let out foot after foot of line, thinking that the school had moved only a short distance and that my balt might strike them. for a long while there was no sign of fish. Then at once something struck the balt and started off with burst of speed that the reed line cut and burned my thumb, The rod whipped the water, and the sudden pull dragged me to one side before I realized that I had a fish.

"What have you got, in the name of all that's wonderful?" asked my com-"What in thunder have I got?" I asked in turn. I couldn't tell. It was going like a locomotive, and I knew that I couldn't check the thing, whatever it was, if I had a hawser attached to it. The 10ounce bethabara and the strong bass line might as well have been a twig and piece of thread.

Both of us sat peering into the black vagueness astern, and my reel was tor" is a combination of self-sacrifice, simply screaming, while the rod was bent into a semicircle. At last almost all the line had gone, when at once the strain relaxed and the line slackened mother-in-law, a spiteful, termagant so suddenly that the rod straightened out like a whip.

"Reel in quick!" whispered John. "It's coming this way." And sure enough it was coming. Four hundred feet astern the black water was broken into phosphorescence by it. It came along as swiftly as it had gone in the other direction a few minutes ago, and it left a wake of light behind as it was, but we did not need to speculate long, for almost instantly the big fish was alongside, and then we saw that it was a shark, and a big one. He titioner. His mother-in-law's termatwisted his tail violently as he again felt the strain of the line which I had by this time reeled in. For a moment he showed his full length as he turned on his side, and hen we saw that he was as long as the boat.

Without wasting time, I let the reel go and gave him all the line he wanted, hoping he would take it and be off. But the big fish was angry and didn't intend to be off.

The phosphorescence which followed him showed up his motions clearly. He swerved off, swam swiftly in a big semicircle, headed straight for the boat with a great lashing of the water, and with terrific speed and force struck his head against the side of the small craft. Only by throwing all our weight on the gunwale did we escape being causized; as it was, we shipped half the boatful of water. The fish cirby sheer strength to guide the dangerous fellow round the bow of the boat. The strain snapped the line, and the shark sank slowly below the surface .--Chicago Inter-Ocean.

A BABOO ON THE ENGLISH.

The latest lucubration by a Baboo is the booklet 'London and Paris Through Indian Spectacles,' by G. P. Paul, B. A., of Madras. After the proper observations on our streets, our drink, our polite treatment of the native, and the virtues of the London policeman, the author comes to the great woman question, and, of course, in his own way. His visit to this country increased his respect for women a hundredfold. In England you have to talk up to the woman; in India it is all talking down. But the privilege has its embarrassments for the native. His lifelong training in the idea of the seclusion of the sex at first made Mr. Pillat's life a burden to him in London. He seems haunted by the notion that the traveller is expected to kiss the singing chambermaid-or, at any rate, to make an acknowledgment in kind of the smile of the maid who opens the street door. His embarrassments increase on his reaching the drawingroom and entering the presence of his "friend's mother." She drops her handkerchief. What is he to do? Is it the proper thing to pick it up? At home you dare not do that. Then in comes your friend's sister, and her "eagerness to shake hands with you sends a thrill through your whole frame! Fancy your friend's sister being introduced to you at home in India! But it is the custom in England." He is still far from the end of his

APPOINTMENTS IN MAY.

reachers Will be Appointed by Superintendent Kendall.

Superintendent Kendall of the city schools will this year appoint teachers for the schools in May. Heretofore these appointments have been made in June by the board of education, but the power of appointment is vested in the superintendent by the new city charter. The new rules of the board of education provide that these appointments shall be made on or before May 30. This change in time has been made for two reasons. One is that if any appointee declines appointment more time will be given to fill the vacancy than if the appointments were not made until June. Another reason is that sometimes teachers are uneasy about their positions, and if they are not reappointed they have a longer time in which to find other positions in the announcement of appointments is made in May.

"A DAY AND A NIGHT." Hoyt's "A Day and a night" will be presented at the Hyperion next Monday and Tuesday evenings. For several years past Charles Hoyt has given a new comedy to the public annually, and this musical farce is his con-tribution to the stage for '98. It sets forth the author's report of the doings of a gentleman from New Jersey during the period of time stated above in the metropolis. Visitors to New usually manage to put in all the time there in excitement and pleasure, and the individual who makes this particular visit is no exception to the rule Mr. Hoyt is with the company, and the production is given under his sonal direction. Prominent in the cast are Otis Harlan, Georgia Caine, Wil-Nellie O'Nell, W. H. Currie and the Clayton sisters.

Grand Opera House. Dan McCarthy and his excellent company appeared for the second time this season at the Grand opera house last night for a three days' stay. better than to fall in line behind the that the Declaration of Independence eadership which to the present time has been sagacious, patriotic, dignified and alert. The statesmanship of the world has indorsed and applauded it. Patriotism and humanity are its inspiration and its guide. It is not seeking to make war, but to restore peace to a devastated island and maintain it in our own land. It is still possible to do this even under such strong resolutions as the House has adopted, but there is no hope of a peaceful settlement if the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is to have its way. Its resolution makes it incumbent upon Spain to fight, whether willing to get out of Cuba or not. The best way is for both houses to agree to follow President McKinley's suggestion.

READY.

"In time of peace prepare for war," is an old and true adage, which has been most happily exemplified by the course of President McKinley in the which the nation has found itself during the last few months. The wisdom foresight and excellent judgment of President McKinley displayed in his efforts to procure a peaceful and honorable solution of the Cuban question, if possible, and in holding back the country from an immediate and foolish plunge into war, with no adequate preparation for a conflict, have been of vast benefit to the nation. Had he has cut so prominent a figure in the last few months and precipitated war. the country would have been engaged in a struggle badly handicapped by lack of preparation therefor. Now, if war comes, the country is in vastly better shape for it, as is apparent to all in view of what has been done ir strengthening our seacoast defenses, adding to our fleet of vessels of war, which is where most of the fighta much better state of defense than ing army,-a mere handful compared to the standing armies of Europe-but source in the National Guard, should their services be needed. In first-class battleships we far outdo Spain's equipment in that line. We have the Indiana, Massachusetts and Iowa, pitted against Spain's solltary Pelayo. On the other hand. Spain is decidedly erful armored cruisers, she having eight of these, against our New York and Brooklyn, the only two we have in this class. Taking all the armored most likely to win in a general ser fight. Our protected cruisers far outnumber those of Spain. In unarmored cruisers and gunboats we are also far important gains of late in the addition to our navy of armed yachts, tugs and merchant liners. Spain outdoes us in torpedo crafts, but many of these smaller crafts are absolutely unfit for a cent acquisitions in that line are important and put us on an equality in this respect. In times of peace our navy ranked ahead of Spain's, and with the new boats of various classes added of late, we need have no fear of Spain.

THE STARTING OF WARS.

Wars and rumors of war in this country have originated in various ways, usually owing to an overt act obnoxious to the nation repellant to its sense of honor and militating against its dig-As a rule, however, wars have not been inaugurated by a formal and official declaration from one or both hostile nations. Usually wars start owing to some overt belligerent act on the part of one of the nations, such as firing upon a ship, assailing a fort or penetrating and passing boundary lines with an armed force. The British lion very recently, for example, gave a warning growl to France, a French military force in the East having crossed a boundary into British territory, inadvertently as it proved. None of the wars or war-like outbreaks in which the United States has been engaged was preceded by a formal and official declaration of war except, possibly, the war of 1812, which was declared by Congress, though violent assault had been made by the British before the issuing of the declaration. Our revolutionary war, as says the Kansas City Journal in an extended article on the subject, broke out long before the Declaration of Independence and before any organized steps had been taken by the Congress of the Colonies. It was precipitated by the attempt of 3,000 British soldiers stationed in Boston to enforce obnoxious and oppressive British orders, and the resistance of this tyrannical proceeding which brought on the fights at Concord and Lexington. It was in April, 1775, that the fighting blood of the colonies forced the fighting. A month later Congress assembled and took steps to organize the American forces and made Washington commander. The battle of Bunker Hill was the next great event and it was

was issued. There was no telegraph, however, in those days to help expedite matters. The declaration of the 1812 war was brought on by continued meddling and warring upon our commercial navy by British ships under the with France, her enemy. These acts and the blockading of American ports, the capturing and imprisonment of American sattors, the firing upon the Chesapeake, were overt acts precedent to the declaration of war by this country. All our protests which followed were ignored, things went from bad to worse and then came the declaration proclamation of the same by President Madison. The Mexican war was preceded by the invasion of Mexican territory with an armed force by General Taylor by order of President Polk. This was, therefore, a war practically declared by the President without consultation with Congress. This act of the President caused a heated discussion, as it was held by many that he had exercised "despotic" power. General Jackson came near involving this England in 1817-18 by making a similar invasion upon Spanish soil in Florida and this country was obliged to officially disown his acts. General Jackson captured Pensacola, deposed British subjects whom he had suspected of being instigators of Indian depredations. The upshot of the matter was that we purchased Florida and Jackson

Our civil war began with Lincoln's taking time by the forelock without waiting for Congress, the emergency being pressing, and he called our army field, blockaded Southern ports, suspended the privilege of habeas corpus and in other ways exercised powers that were not supposed to rest with the constitutional executive; but all his acts were subsequently ratified

FASHION NOTES,

Cashmeres in All Around Favors. Considering its general use, cashmer teeps good company. Though good qualities of it are to be had at prices still it appears in many gowns that stand for their designers' best efforts, of exclusive folk. Proofs of this are so abundant that every woman with an eye in her head must be convinced of the fact, and the costume the artist presents was not chosen with a special idea of clinching the question. Rather, it was taken, as are other sketches for this column, for the purpose of presenting most effectively something attractively novel. Its skirt of almond green cashmere opened over a tablier of the same goods, which was framed with two bias folds and displayed a number of ornamental buttons. The bodice had a girdle of the same cashmere, but the vest was of liberty silk in the same shade of green. This was arranged in deep gathers starting from the center of front and back. It opened over a chemisette of tucked white silk, the same white silk giving the Green silk sleeves showed a new trimming in the shape of deep pleated cuffs of white silk.

Parasols of plaid ribbon, of Roman striped silk, of frilled chiffon, of lace, of net (and these are the latest) tempt the eye, though August is far away. The net ones are finished with stiff little frills at the edge, and the frills are elaborated with baby ribbon. net over pink baby ribobn conjures up the vision of a white dress over pink, embroidered stockings, white shoes, white gloves, a bunch of pink roses at the belt, pink throat showing pink blushes that the frills vainly hide from the lovely young man (not pink) who leans to say pretty things in the pink, and-how much is the parasol?

Several men who are employed by C. W. Blakeslee & Son of New Haven, who are building the trolley line in town, on several occasions after supper would adjourn to the creek and intoxicated and start for home, creating no little disturbance. Officer Gardiner had warned them that they must keep quiet at such a late hour of the night, but they paid no heed to him. On Monday evening an intoxicated crowd repeated the racket and Officer Gardiner promptly arrest-ed several of them and locked them up in the would-be cells under the town hall. Later in the day of Tuesday the men were seen walking about town looking for the officer, but could not excavation over two and one-half feet find him, so left word with one of our merchants for the officers that if they sait water of the guif." wanted them they could find them at their homes. THE FORT AT DRY TORTUGAS.

It Has Cost Nearly Three Million Dollars-It is the Largest Masonry Fortress in the World.

Fort Jefferson, at Dry Tortugas within a few weeks has been awakened from a thirty-year sleep, is not only one of the largest and most costly military structures of masonry guest of her uncle, M. E. Cook of East in this country, but is also one of the most isolated military structures in the world. Built in a part of the country where all manual labor was at this time done by slaves, colored bondmen were of course largely employed on it.

Passengers by the steamers from Key West to New Orleans, when four five hours out of port, see three lonesome stuctures, rising apparently out of the water, with no land in sight, and no foliage to protect them from the burning sun of the Gulf of Mexico The largest of the trio is Fort Jefferson, which during the civil war was the dreaded military prison of the Dry Tortugas. The second, a mile or more to the northwest, is the lighthouse bearing the official name of Tortugas light, but locally known as Logger-head Key light. The third building, almost within pistol shot of the fort, is a rough, temporary house of boards, cheerless and forbidding enough to seem what it has been for some years -the pest-house of the Tortugas quarantine station. As the vessel approaches the buildings it is seen that each stands upon its own little islet of sand; and these three sand keys are all that remain of the Dry Tortugas. A generation ago there were several other islands in the group, but the gulf stream has washed them away. The sharp eye of the military and naval men were disposed navigator, however, sees that only the to laugh at it as a useless work. It is sandy tops have disappeared, leaving the dangerous coral formation close to expenditure it can be converted into the surface. With its double row of ragged portholes, its six great bastions, each large enough to be a fort in itself, and its broad, granite-walled moat, Fort Jefferson looks far more imposing than the modern fort of earthworks. Congress made the first appropriation of fifty thousand dollars for the construction of the fort in 1844, and the work was begun in 1846. Garden

Key, upon which it stands, was not as large as the fort that that was designed, and several neighboring islets of sand were taken up by the shipload and deposited upon the beach to give solidity to the foundation of granite blocks that reaches far down into the coral. For fifteen years the work dragged slowly on, and at the outbreak of the war the fort was still ncomplete and hardly defensible When it was first garrisoned in the winter of 1860-61 it had cost $1,400,000: for every brick in its eight-feet-thick walls, every block of granite, even the earth for the five-acre inclosure within the walls, had to be carried by sea from New York and other northern ports. As soon as the war department determined to use it for a military prison congress began to lavish money upon it. In 1860 and 1861 $250,-000 was passed, and on the same day another for $100,000; and later in the day a third, a total of half a million dollars in a single day. As the fort filled up with prisoners, many of them of importance, it was proposed to enlarge the accommodations by building an annex fort on the adjoining Bird key, and $650,000 more was appropriated for the purpose. But this project was adandoned after the plans had been made, and the money was used upon the original structure. The last appropriation was made in 1873, and the garrison was withdrawn in 1878. to that time the structure alone had cost $2,935,000. The sole representative of the army in the fort for years was Ordnance Sergeant William

Keller, who painted the old columbi-ads with coal tar once a year, Since 1888 Fort Jefferson has been used as a federal quarantine station, under the charge of Dr. R. D. Murray, and in the summer months it could be visited only with his permission. The adjutant-general of the army describes the fort as "a double-casemated, hexagonal structure of brick, standing on Garden Key, Tortugas, the most southwestern part of the Florida reefs, in latitude 24 degrees 37 minutes 47 seconds north, longitude 82 degrees 52 minutes 53 seconds west, In 1864, he adds, "it contained about one thousand prisoners. They key contains seven acres, five of are within the walls of the fort. The average hight of the key above the migating apparatus of the quaranting station, and a wooden bridge leads across the fifty-foot-wide moat to the heavy granite portal. A steam launch and several smaller quarantine boats float peacefully in the moat, and in a dozen steps from the entrance the visitor is within the fort. On every side stretch away the long rows of casemates, one above the other, in as good condition now as when first built The fort proper is too solid a structure to become a ruin in anything less than centuries. The only signs of decay ever evident have been in the wooder galleries to give access to the barbette magazines, extending in front of what a civilian would call the roof of the fort. These have been weakened by age, and occasionally a hurricane has blown one down. To the right is a cottage for the keeper of the Tortugas Mrs. Minnie Ladd were married in harbor light, which shines from the Shelton by Rev. Mr. Luddington, April top of one of the bastions, and beyond this is an immense, three-story brick building, barracks for the men. Directly opposite the entrance, across the inclosure, is the officers' quarters another large, three-story brick building. To the left of this is a row of one-story brick houses for the non commissioned officers. The inclosure up to the time of the recent activities was a picture of desolation. Bushes had overgrown it, and there were tralling vines that trip the exploring visitor, and buttonwoo in clusters. Thirty cocoanut palms have grown till their feathery tops are far above the walls of th fort. When there were one thousand prisoners and about eight hundred soldiers within the fort outbreaks of yel fever were frequent, and all victims but two were buried on neigh-boring sand-keys, which have since washed away. A small monument near the barracks marks the resting place of the two who were buried within the walls-Brevet-Major Joseph Sim Smith, assistant surgeon, who died of yellow fever September 8, aged thirty years, and Henry Price, only son of Joseph Sim Smith, who also died of yellow fever ten days aged three years and six months. Water was always a serious question at Fort Jefferson, and immense stone tanks were built for its storage, extending under almost the whole structure, and under a large section of the inclosure. A giant steam condenses was kept almost constantly at work but this expensive machine has stood so many years idle and uncared for that it is ruined by rust, and is falling to pieces. The quarantine establishment was supplied with rain water caught upon the acres of roofs. The most noted prisoner the fort held was Dr. Mudd, the physician who attended John Wilkes Booth after the assassination of President Lincoln. Dr. Mudd's cell was one of the large casemates in the lower tier to the left of the entrance, and some one has painted upon the exterior of its heavy wooden door: "Leave hope behind who enters here." It was a gloomy but spacious room, from which Dr Mudd made several unsuccessful efforts to escape. At the time of one of the serious yellow fever epidemics in the fort, when not a surgeon was left alive on the island, Dr. Mudd offered his professional services. They were accepted, and he worked so faithfully that the officers afterward united in signing the petition which secured the prisoner's pardon. In one way and another, more than thirty million dollars has been expended upon the fort, and until the recent discovery that it was a valuable bas for naval operations in the gulf, both so well built, however, that with small formidable modern fortress.-New York Times.

WIFE OF A CHANCELLOR.

The recent death of the late Princess Mary Hohenlohe, wife of the imperial chancellor of Germany, has thrown some of the greatest families in Germany, Russia and Austria into mourning and the demise of her excellency will leave a great gap in Berlin society and be deeply felt in the Wilhemstraase, where she presided so grace fully and tactfully over her husband's

Not the least notable incident in th career of the diplomatic lady was her struggle with the late czar for the possession of the enormously valuable estate in Russia inherited on the death of her father. For some years before his death the czar issued a decree that no foreigner would in future be permitted to hold landed property in Russia without naturalization and inheritance; and on the princess Mary inheriting the same his majesty severely insisted upon compliance with his condition under pain of confiscation. The matter was, indeed, so serious that it nearly caused an estrangement be-tween the two imperial courts, Emperor William naturally siding with the wife of his trusted servant, who had so satisfactorly governed his two most difficult possesions, Alsace-Lorraine But the princess bravely took matters into her own hands and boldly went to St. Petersburg to plead her cause, which she was able to do the better having been born in St. Petersburg, being, in fact, a Russian and at one timone of the brightest stars of the imperial court. It is said that she succeeded in gaining the support of the czarina, to whom the czar could never say nay, and she pleaded her cause so well that she practically gained the day, re turning home triumphantly. The late princess was at the time of her death within a month of reaching her 70th birthday.-Chicago News.

SENATE DELAYS ACTION

sponsible for any bonds which Spain might have agreed to pay from revenues derived from the island.

Exuberant Eloquence.

Mr. Hoar did not think that the metaphysics of the senator from Kentucky (Mr. Lindsay) or the exuberant cloquence of his friend from Illinois (Mr. Mason) had tended at all to clear the atmosphere surrounding the question. He thought that the speeches delivered by both of them should have been delivered in secret session.

Insurgents Not Without Fault. The insurgents, he thought, were not without fault. Long before Spain had put into effect the reconcentrados orthey had applied the torch to or otherwise destroyed everything that stood in their way, from crops to

The Cuban Horrors. Mr. Hoar held that the fact that both sponsible for the existing horrors did not in any way detract from our own responsibilty. He thought it the right and duty of the American people to deal with the difficulties. "We should not," he said, "begin by quarreling among ourselves and slapping in the face the president of the United States, nor should we endeavor, in the discussion of this matter, to make party capital."

Should Expel Spain From Cuba.

He pronounced the report of the foreign relations committee a masterly document and paid its author (Mr. Davis) a high compliment for the ability exhibited in its preparation. He agreed with the conclusions of the report that the United States was entirely warranted by international law in putting an end to the horrors that existed at our very doors. He agreed further, he said, with the president, who had declared that it was impossible for Spain to maintain a proper and stable gov-ernment upon the island. The continuance of the Spanish flag over Cuba could no longer be tolerated. He held, therefore, that we must directly and as soon as possible expel Spain from the island. Peace could not be secured there except through such expulsion. So far as Spain had made this step of the United States necessary she was responsible. Spain could not prevent disturbance or preserve the pros-

Ready to Support House Resolution. Mr. Hoar said that he agreed with and was prepared to support the resolution passed by the house. He liked, however, a resolution which had been drawn by Mr. Teller of Colorado, and maintained that in that resolution the United States was authorized to go as far as it ought. All other things would be added in the executing of the man- Mr. Allison said that was agreeable to date of the resolution by the inexorable logic of events. Should Not Acquit Blanco.

Mr. Hoar held that to acquit Blanco, however, of any connection with the Maine diaster, as General Lee was in-clined to do, would be to acquit Spain, for Blanco was the only official through whom orders could have gone to subordinate officials, but he did not hold erew. The setting off of the mine did not create a state of war, but it was one of those acts for which war might be made. Will Lead to War.

Mr. Hoar said he expected to vote for the house resolution; that he would have liked to vote for the resolution offered by Senator Teller, but whatever the resolution he did not want it to include the recognition of the Cuban insurgents, nor their present government. The resolution, he said, would ead to war. A war of no foreign conquest, for no national gain or personal aggrandizement, but a war for hu-manity. Speaking of the destruction of the Maine, he said that it was a wretched act on the part of Spain which demanded full reparation.

United Action. In closing Mr. Hoar, who was listened to with the closest attention on the part of a crowded senate, said: "If there have been any hasty or unwise utterances of impatience in such a cause as that and I think there have been, they have been honest, brave, human utterances. But when I enter upon this war I want to enter upon it with a united American people-president and senate and house and army and navy and democrat and republican, all joining hands and all marching one way. I want to enter upon it with the sanction of international law with the sympathy of all humane and liberty loving nations, with the approval of our own consciences and with a certainty of the applauding judgment of history. As the Archangel Michael.

"I confess I do not like to think of the genius of America angry, snarling, shouting, screaming, clawing with her nails. I like rather to think of her in her honest and serene beauty inspired by sentiments, even toward her enemies, not of hate, but of love, perhaps a little pale about the eye and a smile on her lips, but as sure, determined, merring, invincible as was the archangel Michael when he struck down and trampled upon the demon of dark-

Senator Turple's Speech.

Mr. Turple thought the existence of the Cuban republic was the first fact to be recognized. This was especially due from the United States. Mr. Turpie thought the people of Cuba had earned nationality. If recognized as a nation it would rest with them to do as they might please with the Cuban debt. Cuba would not in case of her independence be in any wise bound to pay the debt of the mother country, and she could only be so bound by her own raised as to what Cuba would pay and that Gomez had said that no responsibility would be assumed.

Defends Insurgent Government,

Mr. Turple contended that but for of belligerency would have been granted before this time. He refuted the senate. Senator Davis, chairman of the whole entertainment. Officers and assertion that the Cuban government was insolvent and declared it was prac-tically without debt. Mr. Turpie thought that at the same time the divine right of kings to reign in this con-tinent was extinguished, the right of the bondholder should be similarly treated. Cuba should not be responsible for any part of the Spanish debt Mr. Turple construed the president's reference to international obligations as employing a possibility that the Spanish debts were to be cared for by any government that might be set up in Cuba. This possibility should be avoided by recognizing the present gov-

Mr. Gray. Mr. Gray of Delaware of the committee on foreign relations said he was here not to support a republican president, but to support an American president. He would support the committee resolutions if the Frye resolution could not be taken up. He thought the Frye resolution better represented the parties to the war in Cuba were resentment of the country. Mr. Daniel sponsible for the existing horrors did remarked that Mr. Gray's words implied motives on the part of other members of the committee less high than his own, to which Mr. Gray declared he had not such intention. Mr. Gray said the American people would ont justify any war unless satisfied that it was a righteous war.

Situation Intolerable. "We have waited until the situation has become intolerable," said Mr. Gray, "and we can wait no longer. I believe the president did everything in his power to secure an honorable peace, but he has now turned the question over to congress and we must take the momentous steps which we are now about to take. The nations of the world will applaud our action, but if they should not, God help them and the civilization which they represent. God would hold us to responsibility if we continued to hold our peace." Mr. Gray maintained that the recognition of independence would at this time be improper, because it could not be expected that the United States after putting an end to the war would retire without voice in the construction of the island's government.

Effort to Reach a Vote.

Mr. Voorhis asked unanimous con sent that the debate lose at 5 o'clock to-morrow and a vote taken, and Mr. Daniel objected. Mr. Allen said that he was ready to vote now. Mr. Davis perity of the island. We could, and we then asked unanimous consent that the vote be taken at once. Mr. White objected, because he and others desired to speak upon the issues before the senate. Mr. Teller suggested that the debate from now on be limited to speeches of fifteen minutes' duration. Mr. Daniel objected.

Senator Wellington moved that the senate adjourn until to-morrow at 11 o'clock, Mr. Allen protested against allowing the resolution to go over for another day. The house resolution relative to the Cuban situation was then reported to the senate and was laid on the table.

TRAGIC FATE.

The new torpedo boat bought in Germany has been renamed by the navy department the Somers. What prompted the selection of this name is not known, but it is not a name well chosen. There was once a sailing vessel of this name, rigged as a brig, and of some repute in the navy. It was a long for the preceding resolutions declaring time ago. The name of the brig was stained by a foul deed of her commandpresident to use the land and naval er, the hanging of Midshipman John forces to prosecute it. war, and two seamen, Samuel Cromwell, ho'sen's mate, and Elisha Small, ordinary seaman. The execution took place from the yardarm of the brig, in the last days of November, 1842, off the island of St. Thomas, in the West Indies. The Somers was on a cruise in those waters. John Spencer, the midshipman, was 19 years old. He was of a wild disposition. In previous cruises on other ships he had drank more than was good for him, a pitiful thing for one so young. This tendency toward drink caused Spencer to be somewhat insubordinate when drunk. The captain of the Somers, Alexander Slidell Mackenzie, could hardly keep him within bounds by the ordinary methods of naval discipline. In consequence the captain formed a feeling of ill-feeling for the midshipman. While off St. Thomas a seaman reported to Captain Mackenzie that Spencer had divulged to him a plan to kill the officers, seize the ship and start on a career of piracy. The captain said nothing at the time, but watched Spencer for the next few days. In that time he was discovered studying a chart of the West Indies and paying attention to details of the handling of the ship, which did not come within the scope of his duty. The captain then called Spen-cer into his cabin, accused him of an intention to seize the ship, and the plot as he had been told of it. Spencer, self-possessed and sober, said it was all a joke. He was put in frons and his locker searched. In the locker was found a sheet of paper with strange characters upon it. Another midshipman said these characters were Greek; he was able to read that the paper comprised a list of the crew, divided into two columns, one headed "sure," the other "doubtful." Cromwell and Small, who had been seen in conversation with Spencer, were also put in irons. Captain Mackenzle called a council of his officers, discussed the affair, and asked their opinion. They found the three men "to have been guilty of a full and determined intention to commit a mutiny on this vessel of a most atrocious character." Though no overt act had been committed, they recommended that the mutineers be put to death. The captain said he would hang them at once and so notified the prisoners. Cromwell protested his innocence, and Small requested that the particulars of his death be concealed from his old mother. Spencer said he was not ready to die, and begged to be shot instead of being hanged. He was not allowed to write, but the captain, at Spencer's dictation, wrote a message to the midshipman's father, the secretary of war, An hour was given for such preparation for eternity as the men themselves felt called upon to make. They were then unbound and taken under guard Frye Answers Caffery.

Mr. Caffery said that no good intents the plank, which was held up by a the captain called for three cheers for the old flag from the crew and then cer's body was put in a box and the others in weighted hammocks and all were dropped into the sea. When the Somers came into the port of New York a court of inquiry was held. Commodore Stewart, grandfather of Charles Stewart Parnell, was presiding officer of the court. By a vote of 8 to 4 the action of Captain Mackenzie was approved. The affair created much discussion Captain Mackenzie's summary disposition of the case on slight evidence was condemned. He died a few years thereafter, as is said, leading an unhappy existence, the sentence weighing upon his conscience. The secretary of the navy, Usher, who approved the findings of the court of inquiry, was killed soon

MARRIAGE SCHOOLS IN GER-MANY. In Germany they have started a new idea-marriage schools. I was curious to know the workings out of the scheme; it struck me an comical, and so I only made inquiries. "Ah! you will laugh, you will point the finger of scorn!" murmured a German friend. I much like to hear all about it." I re-"So far," told my friend, " the plied. undertaking has met with undoubted success. No girl is admitted to the marriage school' unless she has finished her ordinary education. Her principal instruction is in housekeeping, although she keeps up more or less the cultivation of her mind. At a school where I have visited about twenty girls are admitted. Each has her own bedroom. At the opening of school, after term, the mistress singles out four girls, and tell them she expects them to take entire charge of the house. Two servants, housemaid and cook, are kept only to do the very rough work. The four girls, then, are expected to rise with the lark and see that the servants get through their duties. Breakfast they prepare with their own hands. After breakfast they go the rounds and see that every room is perfectly neat. Dinner (under the mistress' tuition) they must cook themselves. Later or they prepare supper, tidy up the kitchen and go all over the house to see that every door is properly closed. The girls off duty make and mend their own and their companions' clothes. Financial. The Stock Market. New York, April 14.-There was professional buying of stocks to-day which gave the market a firm tone all day. The extreme advance from the low level at the opening was a point or over in most of the leading stocks, but the net gains are less than a point except in a few cases. The professional buying was more or less influenced by the very ostentatious espousal of the bull side by a large and daring operator, in published utterances and by distribution of buying orders. The following thus invited was sufficient to effect an advance in prices in a very narrow market, in spite of the depressed sentiment reported from foreign exchanges. This depression was reflected at the opening here, but was soon overcome by the bull movement. The bears seemed to be very active on the London exchange, especially in Spanish fours and the fact that they were forced to cover helped the bulls in New York in the later dealings. The bull movement is based on the argument that a protracted delay in the senate over the intervention resolution is likely and that if the senate resolution is adopted there will be further delay in conference. The president is credited with having expressed his preference for the house resolution, and the bulls professed to believe that if the senate resolution was sent him it would fail of his approval. All of these possible complications are accepted as furthering the chances of delay, and delay to the minds of the bulls means additional chance for the bulls means additional chance for the bulls means additional chance for the bulls of the bulls means additional chance for the bulls of the bulls means additional chance for the bulls of peaceful settlement. MOCK TRIAL AT Y. M. C. A.

Held Last Night and Largely Attended The mock trial at the Y. M. C. A. last evening was attended by a large number of the members and their lady friends. The proceedings throughout were thoroughly enjoyed. F. B. Holt was the culprit, accused of stealing a pocket penknife belonging to W. G. Lotze, the general secretary, Mr. Lotze might be accused of extravagance since the knife was valued in the summons at $10.29. The accused was summoned to appear in court before Judge L. W. Cleaveland. The selection of the jury occupied the usual time and produced the usual objections and prolonged wranging of the lawyers. The attorneys for the prosecution were Messrs. F. C. Downs and H. W. Smith, while J. C. Gallagher, Fred Bostwick and G. M. Snyder appeared for the de fense. The jury as finally selected consisted of Dwight Thomas, foreman, Dan Berger, William Konitz, J. F. Rocks, B. F. Hines, Cliff Cooke, M. C. Fausett, R. C. Watson, W. G. Johnston, P. W. Chapman, E. W. Jeffcott and R.

The examination of the witnesses and the cross-questioning were full of bril-Hant points and the arguments of the lawyers in closing their case were funny, if nothing else. The jury soon returned from its deliberations and brought in a verdict of "Not guilty." Their reason for such a verdict was a fitting close to the trial. They claimed that the attorneys for the prosecution had made a deal between themselves and therefore the accused was

BOXING IN BRIDGEPORT.

The Exhibition Last Night Witnessed By Large Number of New Haveners. The New Haven sports who went to Bridgeport last night to see the boxing bouts given by the Horizon Athletic club were well repaid for the trip.

The curtain raiser was between Max Roth of New York and Billy Needham of Boston. This was brief but eventful, as Needham was sent to his corner after two and a half minutes of punching of the slam-bang variety.

The contestants for the star bout were "Mysterious Billy" Smith and Joe Wolcott, both men of national reputation. They agreed to box Queensbury rules, a stipulation which was all in Smith's favor. These men had trained faithfully and looked in ideal condition. They met at catch weights. Smith was said to weigh 143 and Wolcott looked all the three pounds heavier with which he was credited. was nearly six inches taller and his reach was proportionately longer. Johnny Gorman was the leader of Smith's attendants, while the ubiquitous Tom O'Rourke, Wolcott's manager and backer, gave him spirituous con solation between rounds.

In the opening round Wolcott landed two stiff lefts, in exchange of which he had a shade the better. The men appeared very cautious, but it was apparent that neither meant to let any chance slip: Smith did the most work in the next round, but missed two right-hand upper cuts, which were evidently meant to end the contest then and there.

Smith gave more than he took in mix-up at the opening of the third, but and will call upon Highway Commismissed another upper-cut and the round ended with honors easy.

In the next round Walcott landed a good left on the wind, but Smith had and William Bullock Clark, state geolothe rest of the round. In this and the gist. succeeding round Smith kept up his attempts to upper-cut with the right, LOVE CHANGED HIS WHOLE LIFE but never landed.

In the next two rounds Smith continued to gain in every clinch, landing always with the right on ribs and face, but Walcott kept too close for damage, occasionally landing lightly with the left on the ribs. The house began to shout for Smith, but he was tiring rapidly, and Walcott seemed fit to fight all night.

The eighth was faster than any preceding round, and the men went to the ropes repeatedly.

The ninth was all Smith's, as was the tenth, when he landed a straight left on the jaw that would have floored most pugilists, but only made Walcott

In the next round he forced Walcott to the ropes and landed two lefts, but they did not appreciably affect Wal-

Smith had all the rest of it to the nineteenth, when Walcott almost had him out, and he was very cautious during the remainder of the fight. He rallied gamely in the twenty-second, but got more than he liked in the next round.

Walcott was still fresh and willing at the end of the twenty-fifth and Referee Austin's decision of a draw was well received.

TO VISIT COMMISSIONER MAC-DONALD.

The towns of Westport, Woodstock, New Haven, East Hartford and Middletown have filed applications for state aid for the building of highways. A committee appointed by the state of Maryland to investigate the subject of good roads will visit Hartford to-day sioner Macdonald at the Capitol. The committee consists of President Gilman of Johns Hopkins university, Dr. Reid

When Buchanan was president there went into exile in the Adirondack mountains a young man from one of the New England states named Samuel Dunniken, who had been jilted by the girl he fell in love with. Dunniken is now one of the best known guides in the north woods. He has a knowledge of every foot in the mountains and he has guided some of the best known men who have made vicinity their resting place during the summer and fall.

He has not been outside of the Adirondacks since he went there and all of his time has been spent in hunting, fishing and gulding.

"I have been the guide of the late Horatlo Seymour and Roscoe Conklin, and I found them two of the most delightful companions I have ever been out with," he said the other day. "Seymour was with me for a long time on year during his term as governor of this state. He loved to be in the Adirondacks and was very fond of hunting and fishing. "No, I do care much about going outside of the woods. This is my home and has been for years and it will con tinue to be such for many more years, I hope. When I die I want to be buried under one of those big trees. If my wish is complied I will rest easy.

"I have no desire to enter the life of a city man. Here I have enjoyed peace and contentment and I have had no troubles of the body or of the mind. Yes, it is true that I had a love affair at one time, but that is a matter that has almost sunk out of my memory and I do not care to refer to it."

The Ten Years War Wood Against Iron.

A battle of giants. The ancient unwieldy, close, unsightly insect - begetting Wooden Bed against the cleanly, good-looking, convenient, enduring, fresh-air dispensing Iron Bed. Every year, Wood retreats; Iron, gains ground. The end is near. Every year more and more, people are converted to the comfort of the Iron Bed. Wooden Beds are getting into the curiosity class. What have we to do with all this? More than a little. Read the text-books on the Dry-Goods-Furniture-Store-Iron-Bed-Alliance. Here's a Spring Sale of Iron Beds in further evidence. What but such ways of selling could have put Iron Beds within such easy reach of everybody?

How Are You Supplying Your Table With Water?

We assume that you are using something esides the ordinary city or town water supply, as it is now generally recognized that water as it comes direct from the mains is too impure for drinking. Are you using spring water? If so, would you not be glad to reduce your water bill to a small fraction of what it now is, and save the nnoyance of handling bottles or carboys, obtaining at the same time equally good (in fact frequently better) water?

If you are using some system of filtra-tion, are you satisfied with its results? Do you get an ample supply of water? Is it always white and pure, and doe your filter work well THE TIME? If not, will you permit us to show yo how those results can be reached, by talk-ing with you further, or by having our agent call on you?
