Mrs. Thomas R. Lounsbury will spend a vacation season at Norfolk. Dr. Burton Talmage and family of Park street left Saturday to spend two months in York state. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Benton of Orange street will sail this week for a summer's trip in Europe. Mrs. John C. North of West Chapel street is passing a few days at Point Pleasant, N. J., the guest of her sister. Mr. and Mrs. George H. Watrous have just gone to their fine summer home at Woodbridge. Mrs. John C. English, whose home is now at Cincinnati, where she went soon after her husband's death, is with her three children, visiting Mrs. John English of Academy street. M. F. Plant, manager of the Plant line of steamers and railroads, was in town recently, the guest of George H. Bishop of No. 10 Academy street. Professor and Mrs. William Lyon Phelps will leave this week for Huron City, Mich., where they go annually for the summer. Professor Phelps will first go on to Detroit, where he is to conduct the Yale examinations. Ex-insurance Commissioner Frederick E. Betts and wife, who have been in Granby, returned to-day. Clifton Treat of this city was married on Wednesday at Plantsville to Miss Alice Cross, daughter of Mrs. M. J. Cross. Mr. and Mrs. Treat will live in New Haven. Miss Alice Maynard, who has been in very poor health, is now greatly improved and has accepted a position to teach during the summer in the heart of the Adirondacks, on Moose river, near Inlet. Miss Maynard will be assisted in the office by a young lady from New Haven. A reception was tendered Friday evening in Waterbury at the home of Miss Maud DeLaney of Charles street in honor of her guests, Miss Finch of New Haven and Miss Troian of Boston. Music, games and refreshments were indulged in. Among the interesting features of the evening were a piano and mandolin duet by the Misses De Laney and Reardon, and soprano solos by the Misses Kiefe and Ryan. Mrs. Arthur S. Cheney is receiving the congratulations of her friends in consequence of a high honor recently conferred upon her father, Anton Pfeiffer of Reichenberg, Austria. He has received from the emperor the Golden Cross of Merit with the Crown, for his service in humanitarian and hygienic work. Mr. Pfeiffer is the editor of a journal, Die Humanitat, and was a delegate to the recent congress at Berlin for the discussion of tuberculosis. The cross mentioned is the highest civil honor bestowed by the Austrian government.

Dr. Alford E. Winchell will shortly erect a one-story brick addition to his dwelling house at No. 60 Pearl street. Mrs. Pendleton, wife of Dr. Pendleton of Bishop street, has been quite ill for a week past. Miss Susan V. Baroness Minckwitz came over on the steamship Koenig Louis, which landed her passengers on Tuesday. The baroness was Miss Soule, an American, really a New Haven girl. Her father, Captain Soule, was a United States army officer and at his death Mrs. Soule took her children to Germany, the baroness at the time being but nine years old. The family has lived abroad since. Baroness Minckwitz, whose husband holds a high official position at court, as also does his family, will pass the summer in America. From here she will go up in Maine. The ministers who will be in attendance at the annual conference in Meriden to-morrow of the Lutheran ministers and teachers of Connecticut Valley are: Rev. These papers will be followed by a discussion.

THE RAIN CAME. Crops and Everything in General Relieved by Saturday's Storm. The much needed rain came Saturday with a vengeance. With it came lightning, thunder, hail stones and wind and before the sky became clear considerable damage was done in and about the city. All the destruction of the latter elements will be excused, however, when it is thought how much good was done by the rain and how much everybody and everything needed it. The crops needed rain, the streets needed rain and everything needed rain and it came. Many buildings were struck by lightning and a large branch of a tree opposite the Trinity parish building fell with a crash, doing much damage to the telephone and telegraph wires under it. The afternoon was very sultry and there was every indication of a howling thunder storm before evening. At 4 o'clock it was as black as night and shortly after 4 the rain began to fall in torrents. Telegraph and telephone wires in many parts of the city were temporarily disabled, street cars were stalled by the flooded streets and everybody was indoors. Welch hall on the campus was struck by lightning and a large mass was spilled. Many accidents happened, but no great damage was done. FLOWER OF NEW YORK. His Funny Experiences and Cheerful Philosophy. The late Roswell P. Flower of New York used to tell some amusing stories of his congressional amusements. "The house of representatives is the only place where I ever got into where money didn't count," he remarked the last time I saw him, two months or more before his death. "A rich man is actually handicapped there. In the first place a country member is naturally prejudiced against the representatives from the city, particularly those from New York city. They seem to think that New Yorkers are a lot of highwaymen. You find the same spirit in national conventions and state legislatures, and the fact that a city member wants something is a real reason why a countryman should vote against it. The easiest way to kill a bill in congress is to have the New York Chamber of Commerce send in a memorial asking its passage. Then every countryman will vote against it sure. "When the city member is rich that makes him all the worse. During the first session I was in congress I spent more than six weeks confiding my fellow-members of the house of representatives that I was a good fellow. I gave them dinners and wine and plenties and set it up for them every chance I got, and while they enjoyed it as much as anybody, it only made them suspicious. They could not understand why I should spend my money entertaining them without some base motive behind it. I was a city man representing a country district. In other words, I was a wolf in sheep's clothing, and they were very shy of me. I didn't ask anything of anybody. I only wanted to be popular and give the boys a good time, but the more I spent on them the worse they got. "Towards the close of the first session," continued Mr. Flower, "after every-body in the house had accepted my hospitality and drank my wine and eaten my terrapin, I tried to get a bill passed—a bill giving a pension of $12 a month to a poor old woman up in my district, whose husband and son had died during the war. The cost of one of my dinners would have paid for that pension all the rest of her life. Somehow I couldn't get that bill up for a long time, and when I did get it up pretty near the end of the session, the side voted against it. I went over to Joe Blackburn and I said: 'Joe, why in the old Harry don't you fellows vote for my bill?' and he took me over in the corner and he gave me some good advice. He opened my eyes to the situation, but I didn't believe him. I could not conceive that the democrats members of that house were such confounded fools as to try to play me for a sucker, and I said: 'Here, Joe, you take that bill and see if you can get it through. Darned if he didn't call it up the next day during the morning hour and it passed without objection, but if they had known it was my bill it wouldn't have got a vote. "This feeling wore off after a while. They found out that I wasn't a high-walker or a conspirator, but just an ordinary good fellow. "Mr. Flower was an advance agent of prosperity and an expansionist like McKinley, and it was worth a long journey to hear him talk about the glory of his country. A pessimist came into his office one morning and began to croak about everything, particularly about the trusts. Mr. Flower listened awhile nodding naturally; then he walked over to him and said: "Stop making faces at the trusts and go into one. If there is any good money around buy some stock in it and quit growling. I never saw a man yet who was against a good thing when he had a share in it. And these fellows that are worrying about expansion and imperialism have got the dyspepsia. McKinley's all right. I know him. He is as square a man as ever lived. He's got a hard job, and he's doing the best he can, and when a boat is going through dangerous rapids it doesn't do any good for a lot of blamed fools to keep yelling at the man at the wheel. The Lord is running this country, and he runs things, right. McKinley and Dewey and Otis and that fellow Aguinaldo are his instruments, and they are simply doing what He tells them to do. That's the kind of a statesman I am. I believe in the Lord, and I believe He's stuck on this country. We haven't had a thing happen here yet but what He ordered it for our good, and while I can't quite figure out His reasons for letting that fellow Aguinaldo raise hell in the Philippines, you keep your eyes open and you'll see 'em some day. People wonder why our liberties had to be bought with blood. I'll tell you why. The more a thing costs you the more you value it; the more it's worth; and while George Washington and the Continental army were freezing to death at Valley Forge God Almighty was teaching them that lesson. Look at France. They don't value civil liberty over there because they didn't have to work for it. If those Frenchmen had to sweat and starve and freeze like our revolutionary fathers they would estimate their blessings a good deal higher than they do now. "The Lord was on our side during the war, and He led us into it, and He ain't going to desert us now that the fighting is over, I believe in God Almighty, not because it is written in the prayer book and the Bible, but because I see His hand every day of my life. I believe in this country, and I believe that this country can take care of anything it gets in any war; and I believe in prosperity, and men can make prosperity whenever they are aiming to if they'll all join together. It just takes such bladders as you, he explained pointing to his visitor, "that makes panics. It is every man's duty to be good natured and hopeful, and encourage others to do so, too."—W. E. Curtis in Chicago Record.

Give the Children a Drink called Gribble. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee, but is free from all its injurious properties. Gribble aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and children, as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about 1/4 as much as coffee. 15 and 25c.

CAMPAGNING ON LUZON. The Perilous Exploits of Our Soldiers. Below we give an extract from a letter written by Lyle L. Knox, a Coffeyville boy with the Twelfth Kansas, and from it may be gathered some knowledge of the half-raising exploits in which our soldier boys are constantly engaged: "We had gotten up to the river at Calumpit the second lieutenant of my company took five of us boys on an expedition up the river to find some way of getting a party across the stream in order to flank the negroes out of their position at the bridge. We found a bamboo bridge but it had been swung along the river bank on the negroes' side, so the lieutenant told me to swim across with him to cut the bridge loose and bring it across the stream. "Well, he and I swam over, and on looking the bridge over we found that it needed some fixing before it could be used, so we went up among some of the nipa huts to find poles to work with, but we ran into a bunch of 'bolomen'—that is, negroes who pretend to be neutral or friendly, as may suit the occasion, but who will cut your throat for the fun of seeing your blood run. They surrounded us, but were scared to tackle us, although we were unarmed. Finally I caught a chance to take one of them off his guard, so I jumped on him, knocking him off his feet. This gave us an opening and we made a run for it, but the white man is best, even in a foot race, and when a man is running to keep a gang of negroes from cutting his throat he doesn't need much urging. We beat them to the river, and in we went heels over head. The boys on the other side opened fire on the negroes as soon as they could see us so they could tell where to shoot. They knew we were naked up before they could see us, but could not shoot at fear of hitting us. The river here is about 200 yards wide and we had to swim for that far, and the whole thing was done unarmingly. I didn't like the idea of going unarmed, but it was impossible to swim and carry a gun, so when the lieutenant told me to go with him I jumped into it and beat him across. He got away unhurt, but I got a small cut across my left arm and shoulders from one of the negroes. The deep part of the wound was only four or five inches long, and the whole thing was done unarmingly. The doctor said as follows: Superficial knife wound, ten inches long, transversely across left shoulder on a line with armpit; also posterior surface of left arm. It was sewed up and will soon be healed up enough so I can go back to the lines."—Kansas City Journal.

COLLETT WINS MILE OPEN. Jacobson Second—As a Tandem Team They Come in Second—Good Riding. George H. Collett and J. P. Jacobson of the Olive Wheelmen came in first and second respectively in the one mile open event at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, Hartford, Saturday. In the mile tandem handicap these two riders came in second from scratch, being beaten by about a yard by the twenty-five yard team, Thayer and H. B. Goodwin of Bristol. The time was 1:50 2-5. This is remarkably good time, considering that this is the first time Collett and Jacobson have been entered as a tandem team. Their future riding will be watched with much interest by wheelmen.

LIVING IN THE KLONDIKE.

One of the pioneer gold seekers, Dr. Sweeney, was fortunate in meeting with George W. Carmack, the discoverer of the Klondike, and from him he gathered much interesting information concerning the habits of the Indian tribes on the Yukon and the white men who long before the discovery of the treasure hidden beneath the frozen moss and gravel of the Klondike valley lived with them and shared the hardships of their daily life.

This is the time of year for this work to be done economically, because we are not busy. We are specially equipped for doing this kind of work. Call or just drop us a line and we'll tell you more.

A Lawn Price Fete.

Whether a woman's thought for dainty dressing has its first inspiration in a desire to please herself alone, to attract other women or to win the admiration of men is a pretty matter for a chat. But the ways and means to get the dress is business---out and out. Shopping is a sometimes called. Yet that is only a softer name. To-day's store news provides the ways and means for some of the daintiest of summer dresses. The store shows fold on fold, and yard upon yard---running into the very many thousands of the prettiest lawns ever woven. Yet one item stands out all by itself---a price crowned item, indeed.

7500 yards of 40-inch lawns, in all sorts of patterns and in all shades and combinations of colors. Lawns that have been sold at 1 1/4c, that can scarcely be bought at wholesale to-day for very much less. And these are offered Monday at 4 cents.

Chances in Piques.

Corded piques at 10c, 12 1/2, 15c, 18c, 20c, 25c, 35c and 50c a yard. Black corded piques, hard to find at this time, 25c, 35c, 40c a yard.

Chatelaines.

When one stops to see these trinkets---the fine filagree work, the jewel settings and all the points that make up a part of the dress that many women would not be without, then you will understand why they were so popular at 75c, 98c and $1.25. But only a sort of miniature clearing will explain how it is possible to mark the 3 and 5 piece chatelaines at 50c.

Hot Weather Corsets.

An assortment more complete than ever before. The different lengths and shapes are shown to fit all forms and figures. Sizes from 18 to 36.

Splendid summer netting corsets, double side steels, sateen striped. Regular value, 50c. Sale price, 39c.

Fine netting corsets, extra well stayed, double side steels. Regular value, 75c. Sale price, 49c.

The new "I. S." and "Sonnette" summer netting corsets, three lengths of waists, best of double netting, all steel boned. Sale price, $1.

Loomer's summer cutaway hip netting corsets, sizes 18 to 30, $1.00; sizes 31 to 36, $1.25.

Sample Parasols--Summer Neckwear.

The word sample here means only one of a kind---means one of those unusual opportunities that can happen only when, as in this instance, we buy the manufacturers, very best productions at a very low price. Fancy colors, white and black and pretty handles. One half-off is the way they were bought---one-half off is the way they are now being sold.

Closing Out Ribbons.

It is almost a sorry spectacle to see such prices flaunted in the face of such high grade---such elegant ribbons. But that is the fate of all goods in a store as big as this where there is a never ending effort to make startling price movements.

A 65c Glove Dollar Value.

The Monogram glove, perfect fitting---which means, retaining the shape until worn out---excellently made, and a fine glove that has been sold regularly at one dollar.

The Season's Shirt Waists

If you paid $2.50 or $1.98 for waists like these only a few weeks ago, that money-heavy fact will impress you with the opportunities presented in this special selling. For those values are here in a big showing and---pause when you read it---for 95c.

When the Eyes

begin to bother---when they grow tired quickly or when letters and things seem a bit blurred---they are calling for relief---the help that good eye glasses give.

Bicycle Footwear.

Oxford ties, with heavy or light soles, black or tan kid skin, $1.50 and $2.00.

THE SPY SYSTEM AS IT IS CARRIED ON IN FRANCE TO-DAY.

An Eye Kept on Natives and Foreigners Alike by Authorities—Republic Debated to Russia for its Plan of Espionage.

The miserable Dreyfus agitation under which France is smarting for the moment has revealed in all their horror the iniquities of espionage. It is a system which all nations loathe, but whose suppression no nation is strong enough to advocate.
