Mojors Albrecht and Von Dewliz, the Famous German Officers, Captured With Crouje's Forces-The Guns raise the siege of Ladysmith. Taken-Report That French is Moving on Bloemfontein-Desperate Fighting Continues in Natal.

London, Feb. 28-4:30 a. m.-There is general cheerfulness throughout Great Britain over the surrender of General Cronje. There has been cheering today for the queen and a universal singing of the national anthem. This, with mutual congratulations, is the Briton's way of celebrating the most cheerful day of the war. Already he is taking stock of the situation and measuring the future. There is no disposition to overthe house of commons, ten thousand troops will immediately go out and the effective will be kept near

Lord Roberts has done more than to capture four thousand Boers and a few guns. He is within striking distance of one of the Boer capitals and is master of a large district of the Free State. He has given a shock to Boer confidence and immeasurably restored the spirit of his own troops. In capturing Cronje he has taken a leader whose presence alone was worth thousands to the Boer cause. The best opinion here is that the Transvaalers are certain to continue the fight with undiminished valor; but it is not certain about the Free Staters. Lord Roberts has not allowed the corps of descriptive writers with him to supplement his plain narrative as yet, and there are some points in doubt. It is not clear whether the 4,000 prisoners include those taken in small parties before the capitulation. What has become of the rest of the Boers who held the Magerfontein lines and where are the big guns? The smallness of Cronje's forces causes some wonderment.

The morning papers, without exception, comment on the achievement of the Boer leader and men in holding off for ten days a force from six to eight times as large as their own. British opinion is far more generous in victory than in defeat.

Sir Redvers Buller is having a hard time in Natal. It is evident now after a fortnight's fighting, that he was misled when he wired that there was only a weak rear guard between him and Ladysmith. Apparently some of the tice was agreed upon to allow attendance upon the wounded and burial of the dead. Both sides must have lost

At any moment, however, news may day will begin the fourth month of the siege of the garrison, which is seemingin a position where it is seemingly in a position where it is unable to do anything to help General Buller.

Colenso, Sunday, Feb. 25.-In the attempt of the Inniskillings Friday evening to rush the Boer position on Pieter's Hill, the Boer fire was so terrible, when the infantry emerged from the cover of the trees that almost every man in the leading half of the company fell wounded. The advance line of the British reached a donga in front of the fire Boer trench, which was not apparent until they were actually in it. The Boers retired to the crest and then returned on either flank of the Inniskillings, enfilading the captured dongs with a ter-

The Inniskillings lost fourteen out of seventeen officers killed and wounded, and about two hundred and fifty non-commissioned officers and men killed and wounded.

General Lyttleton's brigade relieved General Hart's brigade in the morning; and the artillery duel was continued yesterday (Saturday) though no great damage was done. To-day an armistice was agreed upon to enable both sides to collect their dead and wounded. The Boers admit having had very heavy losses; but they scout the idea that the British will compel them to

DISASTROUS FIRE IN NEWARK

Buildings Completely Gutted. New York, Feb. 27.—The greatest fire night, destroying a score, or more buildings. The loss is estimated at over night. $1,000,000. The fire started in W. V. Snyder's department store at Broad and Cedar streets, a four story bullding, of seventy-five feet frontage and extending two hundred feet along Cedar street. The stock was valued at half a million dollars and nothing was publican associates. Before these clos saved. The building was burned to the

The four story building adjoining the Snyder building on Broad street and occupied by J. M. Mantse, dealer in laces and similar goods, on the first floor, and offices on the upper floors was soon burning and was eventually totally destroyed with everything it contained. Next to it was the restaurant and confectionery establishment Allen, a fashionable caterer, this building also containing many offices. The fire completely gutted this building, but left the front part almost final vote to-morrow. untouched. From Peddie's it spread to the big department store of David The rear of this building was a desperate stand to prevent the fire from getting into Martegan's jewelry store, which was in the next block. At the same time the flames were traveling southward with as much fury as on the north of the original fire. W. T. Rae's jewelry store occupied the cor-ner opposite Snyders. Nothing was saved here, although the valuable stock of jewelry, probably the largest in Newark, was securely locked in the vaults of the building. Above the jewelry store the building was occupied as of-

Within an hour there was hardly a brick of the building standing above a few feet from the sidewalks. The flames drove through a solid wall into P. J. Garrigan's drug store. Cairns' pho tograph establishment and galleries were next above this and nothing could save either of them. The rear end of the Beehive Dry Goods store, owned by L. S. Strauss & Co., was next to go and here a large body of firemen concentrated and fought hard to keep the fire from entering the main building, which was separated from the rear portion by a party wall with iron doors. The fight was a stubborn one. The doors became red hot and the task looked hopeless.

While the flames were thus eating the heart out of the most important business block on Broad street, the fire was spreading westward along Cedar street on both sides. On the south side of this street the fire burned from No. 2 at the rear of Rae's store to No. 24. These were all small stores, in buildings three and four stories high, the upper floors being floors occupied largely as dwelllings. In this row was Bierman's pawn shop, where many thousand of all brown stone and brick buildings, used as offices on the upper floors and keeping back the crowd.

A NEW STORAGE BATTERY.

Rented to Supplant the Old Battery Now

Used at Fire Headquarters.
Although the board of finance refused being made up to provide a sum sufficient for the purchase of a storage battery to take the place of the chemical batteries now used at the fire headquarters, the fire commissioners arranged to rent a storage battery from the Gamewell company of New York. By the use of a storage battery it is figured that a saving of at least $600 per year will be made. Despite this fact and the fact that a new storage battery would cost only about $2,500 the finance board failed to provide the needed amount. The rental for the storage battery will be $37.50 per month, a saving of about $250 per year on what the old battery costs for running. It has not yet been decided whether the electric current for charging the new battery will be obtained from the electric light plant or from one of the street railway lower houses. In either case, the cost the charging current will not exceed $50 per year. The work of putting in the new battery will be begun in a few

NEW HAVEN BAPTIST UNION

THE SEMI-ANNUAL BANQUET HELD LAST EVENING.

Large Gathering to Parlors of Calvary Baptist Church-Speeches by Distinguished Divines and Prominent Lays men-Dr. Tupper of Philadelphia on "Pessimism versus Optimism". The New Haven Baptist union held its semi-annual banquet in the parlors of Calvary Baptist church last evening. It was quite largely attended and proved one of the most enjoyable events in the history of the organization. The union met at 7 o'clock for a social hour and promptly at 7:30 sat down to dinner. The menu was an excellent one and the enjoyment of dining was greatly enhanced by the beauty of the table decorations. These were done in pink and lit with candles of the same color, the whole presenting a charming appearance. The decorations and the menu were the work of the women of the church. President William H. Douglass pre sided as toastmaster of the occasion and introduced the speakers of the evening. At the table with him were seated the Rev. Kerr Boyce Tupper, D. D., LL. D., pastor of the First church, Philadelphia; Rev. Dr. Watson L. Phillips, Rev. Addison T. Moore, Rev. George H. Fer-ris, Pierce N. Welch, vice president of the union; C. M. Parker, its secretary and treasurer. At intervals during the evening selections were rendered by a quartette from the Yale Glee club. Mr. quartette from the Yale Glee club. Mr. Douglass prefaced his remarks in introducing the speakers by a short address to the members present. He reviewed briefly the work of the union and the splendid results it has accomplished and then urged all present to greater effort

The next speaker, Rev. George H Ferris, picked up the remarks of the preceding speaker and continued much in the same vein. He also spoke of the great results to be attained by working together. He said: "We're coming more and more to live with one another and to believe in one another. I'm glad I belong to an organization which nizes a man as a man, whose cry always has been and always will be,

has been and always will be, "Thou made't him and thou reverence him."

The address of Rev. Dr. Tupper, who was next introduced by President Douglass, was very interesting and was frequently interrupted by applause. subject on which he spoke was "Pes-simism vs. Optmisim, or the World Growing Better." Few who listened to his words but were convinced that the world is really growing better. He spoke in part as follows: "There is nothing, I believe, plainer to the student of history than that this world of ours grows better from generation to generation. The world to-day is moving through a fearful crisis, but it is for the good of humanity. Humanity is not a lownward spiral, but an upward spiral, which is constantly whirling round and round in its movement toward a hightr plane. The golden age is never in the past; the golden age is never in the present. It is always in the future."

Diverging, he went into the subjects of politics and declared that even in these the world is better than it used to be, and to bear out his states said that the money lost by the United States treasury under the Cleveland administration was less than ever before the history of America, McKinley," he said, "can manage treasury as well as he managed the war, he will go out of office without the loss of a cent. IN THE CITY COURT.
The cases against Lizzle Mitchell, who was charged with common drunkenness. keeping a disorderly house, and abusing Signal Officer Bradley, were finished in the city court yesterday morning. Judge Dow after hearing the evidence asked Mansfield, M. E. Chatfield, F. C. Lum, Lizzie if she wished to make any statement in the case. Lizzle said that she was guilty of wrongdoing but wanted the court to let her go this once as she said she would go out of the city and not trouble the police again. Judge Dow evidently did not take much stock in Lizzie's promises for he fined her $20 for keeping a disorderly house, sentenced her to thirty days in jull on the charge of abusing the officers and to sixty days in jull on the charge of being a common drunkard.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

Judge Hubbard in the common pleas court yesterday heard the suit of Annie Camp of Wailingford against John Carroll of the same town. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant is the father of her child which was born on May 5, 1890, and sues for its support. G. H. D. Fowler appears for the plaintiff and Attorney Danaler for the defendant.

BUIT MAY BE REOPENED.

Judge Baldwin in chambers yesterday morning sustained in part the demurrer filed by counsel for the borough of West Haven to the remonstrance of Attorney-McLaren, counsel for W. H. Moore of West Haven, who has sued the borough for damages alieged to have been sustained by improvements made by the borough on the roadway on Maio street near Savin avenue. One week is allowed to the plaintiff's attorneys, Lynch & Thomas, to file answer to that part of the complaint to which their demurrer was not sustained. The matter was heard recently before a committee of the superior court, and a report made in favor of the defendants. The remonstrance filed sets up the claim that evidence was admitted that was not proper. The action of Judge Baldwin makes it possible for the plaintiffs to ask for a new hearing.

LARGE AUDIENCE TO HEAR THE FISK JUBILEE SINGERS.

Twenty-seventh Annual Meeting of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Conference of South western Connecti-

The concert given Monday evening in the Grand avenue Congregational church by the fublice singers of Fisk university, Nasijublice singers of Fisk university, Nasaville, Tenn., was a very enjoyable affair. Despite the cold, an andience of 600 or 700 people assembled. The company of nine nave sweet and rich voices and render southern colored melodies and other selections in a very entertaining manner. They received many encores and in one of their responses rendered "Suwance River" most effectively. One of the company in outlining the work of the university, said there were between 500 and 600 young colored people receiving instruction and 95 per cent, of the graduates went forth and led useful lives, contributing materially to the advancement of their race in the south. He said there were 10,000,000 colored people in the United States. Of those instructed at Fisk university about one in every six pay their way. He spoke of the need of education in the south, especially in the black belt, where the schools are held only three nonths in a year and where the Sunday school is considered a luxury. He said the negroes were not a lazy race, but were the fillers of the seil and the real workers of the south. The south was at last waking up to the matter of education and if was bound to solve the great problem of the prosperity and well being of that section. A collection was taken for the benefit of the Nashville school and about $50 was contributed. ville, Tenn., was a very enjoyable was presided over by her all and the district.

When the meeting was called to order there were about twenty-five clergymen present, but as the ministers were arriving on different trains during the afternoon it is expected that by the evening session the full force of the district, which includes about seventy-five ministers, will be present. A business session followed the brief devotional service. It lasted but fifteen minutes and during that time the conditions in different churches in the district were brought out.

The meeting was purely for purposes of discussion, and the bringing out of points in the everyday life of the clergymen. There were two addresses during Monday afternoon. Rev. F. W. Hannon of Waterbury spoke on "The Foremost Apostle," and Rev. F. H. L. Hammond of Wallingford spoke upon "Young Men and the Church."

An adjournment followed Rev. Mr. Hammond, address The cession was resumed.

An adjournment followed Rev. Mr. Hammond's address, The session was resumed at 7:30 Monday evening when there were addresses on the "Twentleth Century Movement," by Rev. H. A. Starks of Middletown and Rev. W. R. Newhall, who is the principal of the Wilbrinham academy. Yesterday's session was opened at 9 o'clock. There were several discourses as follows: "Ministerlal Character," Rev. J. E. Adams. "Hamlet," Rev. Herbert Welch. "Entertainments in the House of God," Rev. B. F. Kilder. "The Problem of Sin From a Biologist's Standpoint," Professor Herbert W. Conn. "Initial Action by Annual Conference on Two Questions," Rev. E. S. Ferry. THE CONGREGATIONAL CLUB.

Next Meeting at Plymouth Church on March 5. The next meeting of the New Haven 2, at the box office of the Hyperion the-Congregational club will be held at ate: Plymouth church on Monday evening, the 5th of March. The speaker will be Samuel B. Chapen, Esq., of Boston Mass. His subject will be "Foreign Missions as an Investment," Musical selections will be rendered by the church choir. There will be a social at 6 o'clock, and a supper at 6:30

A long sought opportunity to have Mr. Chapen with the club has come. He is one of the foremost laymen in the denomination, is well known as a business man in Boston, and as a leader in municipal reform. He was recently elected to the office of president of the American board. He proposes to present his subject in a somewhat unusual method. Judge Livingston W. Cleave land is president of the club, and John A. Richardson is treasurer. Charles F. Clark is secretary.

ENTERTAINM ENTS.

Hyperion Theater.

The Wilbur opera company presented "The Royal Middy" at the matines at the Hyperion to a large audience yesterday. Last evening Millocker's great opera, "The Black Hussar," was given to a crowded house. The opera was well sung and staged. Gus Vaughan as Helbert, Harry Hermsen as Piffknow and Ethel Robinson as Rosetta were all deserving of praise. The chorus was in good voice and sang with a precision that denoted careful training. Anna Laughlin captured the audience by her winning ways and her clever singing and dancing. Master Gabriel, who appeared none the worse for his slight mishap in the morning, when his pony ran away with him, has installed himself as the pet of the women and children. "The Girl with the Auburn Locks" was loudly applauded and is well worth the price of admission alone opera "The Grand Duchess" will be given and in the evening "Boccaccio" will be presented. Grand Opera House.

Charles E. Blaney's latest musical success, "A Female Drummer," which will be seen at the Grand opera house to-day, matinee and night, and again to-morrow night, is without doubt the most successful play ever written by that successful author, and of all the many products of his pen "A Female Drummer" is destined to be in the lead. The story of the comedy branches out into new lines, avoiding the well beaten paths of plots in the past, and is brimful of bright, witty sayings and pleas-ing incidents. Miss Johnstone Bennett as Hasa Bargain, a female drummer, whose work in the metropolis has gain ed for her the plaudits of all theatergoers, portrays the character with a dash and vivacity sufficient to win everything before her. She instills into the part the energy and movement necessary for success in that line. Miss Nellie O'Nell as Carrie Cash is the cleverest little soubrette in America. James Smith in the character of Smioth has a line of comedy decidedly congenial to his tastes and ability, while the well known comedian Harry Ladell as the elevator boy gives the vagaries of that personage true to life. Tony Williams handles the part of Silk, the julior partner, with his usual skill. Willis P. ner, with his usual skill. Willis P. Sweatnam, well known to all lovers of minstrelsy, as a superstitious negro is prominent throughout the play. The entire cast consists of competent artists and the effect is heightened by the addition of twenty-five pretty girls. Seats now rapidly selling; secure in advance. The prices at the matinee today will be the same as at night. Harry W. Fero, who served as bugler on the Boston, one of the ships of Admiral Dewey's victorious Manila squadron, has been specially engaged to take part in the production of "The Gunner's Mate," which Manager Augustus Pitou will present at the Grand opera house next Friday and Saturday nights, with Rockville, Feb. 27.-John Daly, a Saturday matinee. Bugler Fero receiv-American Woolen company here, was vy on November 8 after five years' service. The fact that an actual partic pant in the late war is to take part in the production of the new naval drama is only a suggestion of the life-likeness "The Gunner's Mate" founded on entirely founded incidents in force and with a strong vein of comedy running through it. The jeisure time of the sailors is represented in the presentation of a well trained banjo and mandolin quartette, some clever buck dancers and a couple of the "real thing" with the "mitts," Specialties as they are, these features are not dragged ia-borlously in, but are made entirely consistent with the story of the play. "The Gunner's Mate" is accounted to be the strongest production of its kind in the recent years, and its approaching pre sentation in New York is expected to be met with unqualified success. Seats now on sale. Regular prices, matinee and night.

Poli's Wonderland Theater. The sea lions played their novel act to a big audience at Poli's last night, confirming the statement of all who have seen them that the performance is the most unique animal act ever seen here. It is perhaps giving a wrong title to call it an animal act, for the creatures are half fish, and their limited means o land locomotion would arouse the belief that they are slow of movement. This is not so. Clumsy they are, but by no means slow, and they are far more obedient and responsive to command than animals of supposed higher intelligence that have been exhibited here. This is an act that every one should see. The vaudeville bill accompanying this feature is an excellent one. Press Eldridge is leading the van with a volley of rap-id-fire jokes and songs, all hits. Giacinta della Rocca, the talented young violiniste, is refreshingly good in all her Her technique is elaborate and work. facile, and her tone true and sympathetic. The selections she plays are of a high order, worthy of position in any concert. LIQUOR LAW VIOLATED.

Giovanni Conte Arrested Yesterday by

Sergeant Doherty. Glovanni Conte, twenty-five years old, of 86 Wallace street, was arrested by Sergeant Doherty last night for violating the liquor law. Conte has a beer license, but the police were pretty positive that a liquor license had not been granted to him. Sergeant Doherty went to the place yesterday afternoon and caught two men in the act of drinking spirituous liquor. He telephoned to the county commissioners to ascertain whether Conte had a license. The commissioners at first replied that they did not know whether he had or not, but later telephoned Sergeant Doherty that there was no lince for selling spirituous liquors in the place. Sergeant Doherty then arrested Conte, charging him with violating the liquor law. Conte said he had a license, but was unable to produce it at the request of the sergeant.

The New York Tribune thus, in part, puts it regarding the Porto Rican question: "We say once more that the question of customs duties for Porto Rico is of comparatively trivial importance. whereas it is vital that nothing should be done which could be construed to support the doctrine that the Constitution of the United States operates automatically to extend our tariff system over territories which never ought to become a part of the United States. We think there can be no doubt that the President is right on that main point, and has been from the start. Porto Ricans should be treated now with special generosity. We have been willing to secure them three-fourths more free trade with all the world than we have ourselves, and to give them not only all the revenue they can collect on all the world's imports into their own harbors, but also all we collect ourselves on their exports to us. CRONJE'S SURRENDER.

After a most gallant fight bordering on the heroic and which will redound to the credit of the Boers in the pages of history General Cronje has surrendered and with this triumph Lord Roberts gains fresh laurels which Great Britain will not be slow to bestow. This British victory marks another step towards the inevitable fate which confronts the Boers, although there may yet be some more heavy fighting before the Boers yield and sue for peace. By a striking coincidence the surrender of majesty's government in his brief, courtly and soldierly telegram announcing his success. FUTURE VAST COMBINATIONS.

The field of electrical engineering has become one of the greatest and most imity of the age and is constantly widening. America has won great honor for American inventor's laurels in this department are many. The new departure in this direction, as in so many other fields of industry, is toward a consolidation of competing enterprises for the achievement of greater economies and consequent greater results; and the dear public ought to be the gainer thereby. The Electrical Review holds that the economies to be realized by centering the production of electricity for city trolley lines, city lighting, power plants, etc., in one establishment are so obvious that it is bound to prevail in the future, and New York in particular may expect great changes. "In ten years," says the Review, "It is reasonable to think that the elevated railway, the new underground rapid transit system and the surface railways will be united under one operative management and, natu- nite-Now, Mistah Johnsfng, yo rally, operated throughout by electricity. A pretty variation of this effect shows a yoke at one side only, the side that laps over being high.

As dress goods panne velvets in solid colors are very handsome, and are being much used for calling, reception and evening gowns. The material is peculiar for carrying off successfully portions, but of distinct severity. The any amount of trimming, and for ap pearing to good advantage when made up with but little elaboration. So it allows much latitude for personal taste, bring, and was generally considered and presents few chances for falling into mistakes. Here is a handsome reblack. The tiny yoke and collar were smocked pale blue chiffon, the other trimming being cream lace set off with a large blue chiffon rosette that had fringed ends. As dress goods, black or some subdued shade of this material is preferable, though the beautiful light shades are tempting. They are better reserved for trimmings, wherein they can be made finely ornamental. The same is true of the cashmere pannee. For evening gowns white is admissible as a matter of course, and there seems to be especial favor now for this weave in turquoise blue and corn color. Unless women look out some one will corner the tulle market and send prices away up. All winter long it has been in demand for hats, and in so much as has been disclosed as to what women will wear for spring millinery, it apparently will be continued. Then it is One especially ating evening dresses. good use of it gives breadth prettily to the figure and takes away the bare effect of the usual off-shoulder sleeve. This is where a strap passes also over the shoulder. A coll of soft tulle in suitable color is draped about the edge of the cut-out and passes out over the arms below the shoulders. It is left loose enough so that the arm has all needed freedom of motion.

FUTURE OF HIS RACE. After nearly twenty years of unremitting work, hampered by the mass of to ; his people still dwelling in ignorance, Mr. Booker T. Washington, the founder and principal of Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, can point to results that prove how true are his theories. American who has a mission to all our as we are but beginning to see his imment of the State as far as we have distributed over the city's area, all, strings and give freely toward the sup- asts have tinkered for thirty years can show for it, and the bigger the show 754 GHAPEL ST- 320 STATE ST.

will no longer be need of thousands of carrying on. It is, indeed, the duty of each and every one of us, north and gines, for manufacturing purposes, in- means, that his field of usefulness asmuch as the electric company will among the ten million of his race in this country may be extended; that the cly-Hization he is carrying to all parts of the Black Belt may not be engulfed by the ideal toward which many social the increase of their numbers before it reformers have been working-the can reach them. He educates humble apostles to the black man and bringing the economical foundations of civilized life-a knowledge of agricultransit and with widespread use of the ture, first of all, principles of economy most advanced and highly developed and thrift, the science of housekeeping and the mysteries of the trades.

Millions have been spent in the last thirty years on the education of the negro, and much of them has been wasted. He must be a husbandman, a mechanic, a tradesman, before he can give profitable employment to the physician and the lawyer; the need of the professions follow. But for many years we taught him Greek and Latin, modern languages, "ologies" of all kinds-everything but the things that are of practical help to him. It was to remedy these conditions that Mr. Washington founded Institute. Agriculture is taught there, bricklaying and all the dressmaking-in short, the foundations which the higher culture rests. Thrift, especially, is taught there, that its principles may be carried into the abins of the ignorant negroes.

Mr. Washington explains the ma-chinery and aims of his institution in his book on "The Future of the American Negro," recently published, which covers, however, as its name implies, a wider field. For the condition of the negro is closely entwined with the political and material advance of the whites of this country, which is as strong as its weakest link.

"In the southern part of the United States," says Mr. Washington, "there are twenty-two millions of people who are bound to the fifty millions of the north by ties which neither can tear sunder if they would. The most intelligent in a New York community has his intelligence darkened by the ignorance of a fellow citizen in the Missisbottoms. The most wealthy in New York city would be more wealthy but for the poverty of a fellow being in Carolina rice swamps. The moral and religious men in Massachu-setts have their religion and morality modified by the degradation of the man in the south whose religion is a mere matter of form or of emotionalism. The vote of the man in Maine that is cast for the highest and purest form of government is largely neutralized by the vote of the man in Louisiana whose ballad is stolen or cast in ignorance. Therefore, when the south is ignorant the north is ignorant; when the south is poor the north is poor; when the south commits crime the nation commits crime. For the citizens of the north raise the character of the civilization in the south, or theirs will be lyowered. No member of the white race in any part of the country can harm the weakest or meanest member of the black without the proudest and bluest blood of the nation being degraded. And a little further on, referring to the differing theories as to the negro's future propounded from time to time, he says: "I know that whether the negroes are increasing or decreasing, whether they are growing better or worse, whether they are valuable or valueless, that a few years ago some fourteen of them were brought into this country, and that now those fourteen are nearly ten millions. I know that, whether in slavery or freedom, they have always been loyal to the stars and stripes, that for no school-house has been opened them that has not been filled, that the two million ballots that they have the wisest and most influential men in America. I know that wherever negro life touches the life of the nation it helps or it hinders, that wherever the life of the white race touches the black it makes it stronger or weaker. Further, I know that almost every other race that has tried to look the white know, despite all the conflicting oninlons, and with a full knowledge of all the negroes' weaknesses, that only a few centuries ago they went into slavery in this country pagans, that they came out Christians; they went into slavery as so much property, they came out American citizens; they went into slavery without a language, they came out speaking the proud Anglo-Saxon tongue; they went into slavery with the chains clanking about their wrists, they came out with the American ballots in

This is the critical point in the histo ry of the negro in this country. He came out of slavery the skilled workman of the south, Its carpenter, blacksmith and bricklayer, its wheelwright and nurse. His masters taught him trades, which helped him in earning a livelihood. But to-day all this practical knowledge, as well as his skill in agriculture, has been lost, through a variety of reasons which Mr. Washington sets forth. To him liberty meant license; he had learned to associate it, through the examples of his masters, with Idleness, Self-respect! was bound up in his untutored mind with a silk bat, patent leather boots, a cane and a cigar; labor he believed to be degrading, and he had no leaders except bad ones to teach him. Thus he lost the all-important place he held in industrial life of the south, and sank to the position from which Washington would raise him, that of the unskilled laborer, the untrained cultivator of a patch of hired ground, living can be extravagantly, in a one-room cabin. He is the hewer of wood and the BOOKER T. WASHINGTON ON THE digger of ore; Mr. Washington would make him follow the lumber into the carpenter shop, the iron into the foundry; and, above all, he would teach him ontre a stake in the welfare of his country, to own the ground he tills, to learn self-respect through prosperity. How this is being done, the reader may learn from Mr. Washington's book It is clear in argument, forcibly writ-This unassuming man of mark, this ten, with passages of striking elequence; on the whole, simply practical, nation, white as well as black, is but And this gives it probably its greatest beginning to see the fruit of his labors, value, for it convinces. be firmly established. There is much inthe negro's character to discourage the worker, as Mr. Washington freely points out, but he adds that this is not the result of racial peculiarities, but of slavery. For two hundred and fifty years the negro did not know the omnipotent influence of family life, during the same length of time he did not learn what it means to own property, to be his own master. The effects of slavery must be eradicated; the negro must be helped through the fundamental stages of all human life—the family and agriculture-to industrial occupa tion and trade, to reach the full measure of self-respect and liberty. And side by side with his material advancement must go his moral development, to Mr. Washington ascribes an equal importance.

The many phases of the whole problem are discussed in this book in successive chapters.-New York Mail and

HER FORTUNE IN HORNS.

Ten Thousand Pairs From the Heads of Buffalo, She Thinks, Should Make Het Rich.

ago of an eastern man now a resident of Minnesota, and his kindness and affection for his sister in this city, have resulted in placing her in a position of probable future affluence. She has become the proprietor of probably the most singular collection of wealth in the United States, nearly ten thousand pairs of buffalo horns, which once adorned the heads of herds of bison which occupied the plains of the west. Her fortune is made, for she is a trust, not a combination of capitalists, but a complete trust in herself without fear of any competition, for she has a monopoly of the product and there is no fear of competition from any source.

Nearly twenty years ago, when th plains of the west were covered with the remaining herds of buffalo, the wo man's brother was engaged in purchas ing the rights of way for the Great Northern railroad, and during his travels saw immense quantities of bones. skulls and horns of buffalo being collected for shipment east to be ground into fertilizers for New England farms. Two hundred carloads had been collect. ed and were being packed, when this sagacious man reflected that the slaughter of buffalo would extinguish the species and, buffalo gone, there would be no more buffalo horns, which right to cast are as potent for weal or he had seen converted into various articles of usefulness and decoration. With him, to reflect was to act, and he soon decided to purchase all he could buy Setting Indians at work he soon made arrangements for them to separate the horns from the skulls, which had lain bleaching on the plains of Montana for many years. Horns were a drug on the market then and were worth obout a cent a pound off the hoof. When he had got his horny collection together there were about ten thousand pairs of buffalo horns stored way up in a corne of the state, and he had cornered the market.

Other enterprises commanded his attention, one little diversion being the purchase of town sites along the line of the road which alone was sufficient to make him immensely rich, and ourse of time he almost forgot his collection of horns. Meantime, his sister in this city, a woman who has displayed onsiderable inventive genius in a small way, had heard of her brother's collection and wondered if she could make a market for the horns. Samples of horns were sent on to her and she has now found that there is a demand for the goods. Her brother has made her a gift of the entire bunch, nearly ten thousand pairs, and she has made an arrangement to place them on the market in several forms.

The buffalo horn is susceptible of the highest polish. After an outside covering has been removed, the horn in the rough is as black as ebony all through. This takes a brilliant polish, the method of obtaining which was at one time a secret possessed by the Indians. The Hartford woman, in arranging to market her strange collection, spent some time in Leominster, Mass., where there are twenty-three bone factories, studied the subject of bones and bone manipulation and soon learned the way to polish buffalo horns to her complete satisfaction and gratification. A proposition has been made to her to design many effects in which the horns may be used, and she has now under contemplation an offer to sell the entire lot of horns, which on storage occupies one thousand cubic feet of space, but she will probably make other arrangements. -Hartford Courant.

ontinental markets had only a passng effect on home securities market, the absorbing feature remaining the difficulties in which the Third avenue raction finds itself and the approaching date when the "Sugar Trust" is to declare its dividend. While, as we have remarked before, these conditions should not under ordinary circumstances affect the general railway list, but as they tend to disturb loans in financial institutions they indirectly do affeet all stocks. We think, that once the dealings in these unsavery properties be it either through their going into the hands of a receiver or otherwise coming to an untimely end, the railroads and such other properties as have not been under the control of vil-ainous politicians, will sell higher and more in accordance with their true merits, London and the continental bourses closed strong at best prices of the day. Foreign exchange did change much either in tone or rates actual 483% and 486%. Money on call unchanged but was more firmly held on time, 41/2 per cent, being freely bid, Eastbound tonnage was 154,670 tons against the unprecedentedly large one of last week of 212,312 tons. States Leather company declared dividends of 114 per cent, on the preferred to-day, prices closed 1-2 cent higher. Re-ceipts in Northwest are decreasing and It seems to us that at present prices the article deserves attention. Cotton continues strong in every position, and sooner or later this must show itself in an advance of prices which at this moment nobody dares to express in figures. The stock market, with the exception of traction and industrial issues had a firm undertone. It is only natural that the public at large should abstain from becoming interested as long as the disturbing factors are market leaders and are being used as the football of speculation. Towards was appointed for the Third avenue traction and without further comment we hope this is true. The market closes with a good undertone for the good or standard properties. BANQUET OF BUSINESS MEN

You should have direct, frequent and rapid communication with all the leading foreign ports by steam vessels, These facilities you can secure only by the united action of all your business men. The key to success is intelligent, harmonious and persistent co-operation. The success of your industries adds to the wealth and consuming power of your citizens and thus adds to the prosperity of the community. You cannot secure the prosperity of New Haven without contributing to the well-being of other cities and communities. The more you extend the field of co-operation the greater will be your prosperity and the resultant benefits to the con munity. As a New Yorker, therefore, I wish the business men of New Haven the largest degree of prosperity obtain-

The question of the American Mer chant Marine is now being seriously considered. For years I was not in favor of the government subsidizing American shipbuilding. I considered any donation made by the Government to any corporation for business purposes as a tax on the people from which they would derive no benefit. I have come to the conclusion, however, that I was mistaken, and I am more thoroughly convinced of it since the Spanish-American war. In regard to outlay made by the government in assisting the building of the ships controlled by the American Line, as one of the very best investments the government has ever made. In time of peace the ships are kept in repair by the company, while in time of war, they are subject to the call of the government. It would have been more economical for the government to have subsidized the building of such ships than to have paid out millions of dollars for tugs and indifferent vessels, picked up all over the world by government agents, for the purpose of assisting in the conduct of war, and I am quite sure that you will agree with me when I say that the services rendered by the steamships St. Paul, St. Louis, Paris and New York during the Spanish-American War, were of greater value to the government than the combined services of the tugs and vessels which were purchased at an outlay of more millions of dollars than it would have cost the government to subsidize the building of a dozen or more first-class merchant ships. Foreign nations subsidize ship building, England, France and Germany, Japan and other countries, contribute largely to the building of merchant If it is good policy for older overnments to encourage shipbuilding it is also good policy for our government to encourage it. England would not have the great prestige which she now enjoys upon the seas, were it not for her merchant marine and powerful We ought to have the greatest merchant marine in the world, and it appears to me that none oppose it excepting those who do not fully consider the importance of it and the good in store for the country at large in the future, or that class of men who are interested in foreign enterprises.

The time has arrived when the American people should seriously consider their own interests and seek legislation to that end and be prepared at all times to protect their own interests. We not only want a fleet of merchant ships which will compare favorably with those of any other nation, but we also want a navy that can successfully meet any other navy in the world, and to attain it we should supplement our navy by a large merchant marine subject to the control of the government to increase the American building of shipa and thus accomplish the desired result. Then, too, we should consider the importance of using our own products, giving employment to our own labor and keeping all the money we can at home. This is the policy practiced by other nations, and why should we give opportunities for building ships for our use on the other side of the Atlantic, which could, if the government gave encouragement, be built at home? *

There are gathered here to-night democrats and republicans, expansionists and anti-expansionists. We may differ as to the correct idea of the government extending its territory; we may also differ on the economic and financial questions, but there is one thing upon which we are all agreed, and that is that the government of the United States is the grandest in the world and that it is our duty to preserve it, sustain it and protect it.

No matter what our political affiliations or inclinations may be, as good citizens we should sustain the law of the land. If a majority of the people elect to adopt the principles advocated by either of the dominant parties, those principles should be accepted in good faith by all, and instead of finding fault with the administration we should do everything to strengthen it in order that other nations will respect us in proportion to the respect we show our own institutions If the conditions of the peoples of all nations were alike, if their manners of living were similar, if their necessities and requirements were the same, if their productions and resources were such that commodities should be exchanged on equal terms in all respects, then free trade would be the inevitable law, but according to my judg-ment our country is not yet in a condition to adopt that theory. I believe that our interests are best conserved by adhering to the policy of protection.

The best people of the country are commencing to realize the importance of supporting the government. The government must be supported either by internal taxation or by levying duties on imports or both. If the duties on imports are removed, internal taxation will be higher, and it is therefore to the interest of all classes to encourage the payment of duty on imports. When the law was first enacted many tourists failed to understand it: our best people will not evade the payment of duties on imports whether they bring them home in their luggage or ship them by express.

It is estimated that four hundred thousand Americans will visit Europe this year, and that they will bring in on an average five hundred dollars each in excess of the one hundred dollars limitation. Think of the enormous amount of foreign goods which will be brought into the country, If the legitimate duty, averaging forty per cent., is eighty million dollars and every American will be satisfied. A man has the right to spend his money wherever he pleases, but when he brings goods into this country of foreign production he which have attained a world-wide should conform to the law of the land, reputation, can be shipped direct to the should be compelled to do so, and the sist upon the government officials doing untily contract his position, and at he benefits derived from it.

MAYOR HART'S LUCK.

Mayor Thomas N. Hart, of Boston, conducted his own campaign in a masterly manner. The situation was pe culiarly delicate. Normally, Boston is democratic, but at the December elections there was a bolting wing of the democracy that threatened at the first sign of a mistake or utterance of an unwise sentiment, to return its allegiance to the democratic candidate. Mr. Hart therefore planned for a short campaign with few speeches. There were no mistakes, and the bolting democracy elected Mr. Hart.

When it was "all over but the shouting," Mr. Hart, in conversation with one of the republican leaders, said: "This campaign reminds me of the old southern darky who was brought before the court for stealing chickens." "In what way?" some one asked. "Why, the judge asked the old man, looking at him sharply and speaking in his sternest manner: 'Were you ever in court before for stealing chickens?' 'No, sar," said the colored brother with a grin; 'I'se been mighty lucky, sah. "And so have I," said Mr. Hart with a hearty laugh.—Philadelphia Post. YALE NOTES OF INTEREST.

The Law School trials for the Harvard debate were neld Monday evening in the Law School Building. C. P. Kitchel presided and the judges were Professor George D. Watrous, Professor James H. Webb and Professor Fox of the Hopkins Grammar School.

The subject for discussion was "Resolved, That Puerto Rico be included within the custom boundaries of the United States," Sixteen men presented themselves for trials from whom three speakers and three alternates will represent the Law School in the final debate at Osborn Hall. The men chosen were H. G. Eastburn, R. L. Munger and J. T. Smith; the three alternates are F. A. Lord, E. M. Sullivan and R. P.

A number of graduates of Bethany College, Lindsborg, Kas., who are now taking post-graduate courses at Yale were called together by Dr. Granville recently, for the purpose of organizing a Bethany Graduate association of Yale University, A committee with Dr. Westlurd as chairman was appointed to prepare the details. The main object of this association will be to courage graduates of Bethany College and other western colleges to come to Yale for graduate work. James Campbell, M. D., the University has received a fund for the maintenance of the Campbell gold medal. Dr. Campbell was a member of the Medical faculty of the University from 1886 until hie death in November, 1899. The medal was first offered by the Medical faculty to the class graduating in 1888 and has been maintained since that time by the generosity of Dr. Campbell. It is a source of much satisfaction to his friends of the Medical School that it may be continued as a memorial of one who was an earnest friend to the cause of medical education

The medal is awarded to that member of the graduating class who has maintained the highest rank in all of the examinations of the course leading to the degree of Doctor of Medicine.

While the afternoon papers all comemnt on this happy coincidence they do not forget the splendid bravery of the enemy. Further details of the dramatic sur-

No one who did not know of General Cronie's surrender would suspect from the appearance of the town that London was to-day celebrating the chief victory of the war. Not a flag is flying, and in front of the place where bulleting are displayed scarcely more than a dozen people stop at a time to read the news. Outside of the war office there is the same absence of enthusiasm, due, doubtless, to the drizzling rain.

observed in Memorial Hall on the evening of the 22d. A large number of people took dinner at seven; then a fine programme and a match by the pupils of the different public schools occupied the time, ending with ice cream to start out for a cold walk or drive home. The hall decorations were under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Munson and done mostby them; they were elaborate and handsome, consisting largely of flags and bunting, but the identical cherry tree was there, hatchet and all; and if one of the two or three who represent-ed George Washington very well had only kept a place by that hatchet, the picture would have been complete. Lieutenant Linsley made a good Lafayette. Several others represented differ-ent famous men and looked well in their costumes. Rev and Mrs. W. G. SERIES OF LENTEN LECTURES.

By Professor Frank K. Sanders in St.
Paul's Parish House.

A course of live lectures will be given by Professor Frank K. Sanders upon "The Prophets of Israel, and Their Messages," in St., Paul's parish house, on Mondays in Lent, at 4 o'clock, beginning March 5. The lectures will trace the history of prophecy, giving an account of its origin and development. The prophets will be given their times and pinces in the sacred history, and the meaning of their messages to their own generation and to all generations will be set forth. The object of the lectures is to help persons to teach or to read the Old Testament more intelligently. The lectures represent the latest and best work of the lecturer upon a subject of very great interest.

Judd, or Mr. Augur, or at the parsa nouse. The subjects of the lectures will be as follows:

March 5—Prophecy in Israel; its origin and growth, importance, historical and literary development and distinctive themes.

March 12—The First Group (750-700 B. C.): The Prophets of the Assyrian Conquest of Israel,—Amos, Hosea, Isalah and Micah.

Micah.

Murch 10—The Second Group (627-586 B. G.): The Prophets of the Decline and Fall of Assyria and Judah.—Nahum, Zephaniah, Jeremiah and sinbakkak.

Murch 20—The Third Group (586-538 B. C.): The Prophets of the Rabylonian Extle,—Obediab. Ezeklei and Isalah 40-55.

April 2—The Fourth Group (520-300 B. C.): The Prophets of the Persian and Greek Supremacles.—Isalah 56-66, Haggai, Zechariah, Maiachi, Joel and Jonah. The Messianic Significance and Fulfilment of Prophecy.

immense collection, or, rather, collec-tions, of art objects which belonged to the late Professor O. C. Marsh of Yale university was begun yesterday after-noon at the galleries of the American Art association, Broadway and Twenty-third street. There was but a small attandance, and the prices realized were for the most part low.

Professor Marsh was a collector of almost every class of object which comes under the head of either rare or curioue, and it is possible that his very catholicity of taste is responsible for the low prices which his collection-or that part of it at present sold-has brought. He was not able to pay sufficient attention to any one class of objects to become an expert in the knowledge of it, and in consequence his colections contain a number of second-rate pieces. There are also, however, many ine specimens, but apparently these are being sold at very low prices because of the presence of the less desirable

With the mercury flirting around the zero mark yesterday afternoon, the weather so cold that even the hardlest human felt its keen onslaught, a pack of sea lions and seals played puss in the corner and tumbled over each other in a big tank in the basement of Poli's theater-happy as clams.

They are the pack of mammals brought here by Captain C. T. Adams to do curious tricks this week for Mr. Poli's patrons. On the stage they are wonderful, for no one imagined that in environment so different from their natural home they would display obedi-

Despite their appearance they are as gentle as so many house dogs. Indeed, their docility and love of fondling and attention closely resembles the characteristic of the dog.

A great many requests have come to Manager Poli for a near view of these strange creatures, in response to which he has arranged for a brief lecture and exhibition in the theater on Friday morning, which will be given free of charge. The visitors can, if they wish, go on the stage and within hands' reach of the pets. Outside of the nov-elty of this exhibit, it is an instructive and interesting one for young and old.

WATER COMMITTEE'S MEETING. Held a Hearing Last Night on Alder man Shepard's Resolution There was a meeting of the joint standing committee on water last night to hear the resolution of Alderman Shenard concerning the question of furnishing water for the city by the system of sunken wells. The meeting was a public one and was quite well attend-

Alderman Shepard was called upon and gave some interesting figures regarding the use of the system in different towns and cities of the country and said that Brooklyn, N. Y., was the pioneer in adopting the system. That city adopted the system in 1882 and now over two hundred cities and towns are supplied with water from gravel. The first advantage, Alderman Shepard said, was that it was cheaper than any other system and could be instituted here at cont. Tokker 1894 (1994) garding the use of the system in differa comparatively small cost when com-

about the size of New Haven, was $250,000. This plant is capable of profucing 10,000,000 gallons a day. The water from the driven wells in Lowell is much purer than that from the surface system used before the wells were driven. Mr.
Shepard said that the probabilities were that New Haven was better adapted for the artesian well system than any of the citles he had mentioned. In answer to a question by Councilman Walsh, Mr. Shepard said that there was hardly a chance for the scheme falling if it was once recommended.

Roy L. Baker of Proyldence, R. L. an

Roy L. Baker of Providence, R. I., an expert on artesian and driven wells, was asked to give some opinions concerning the advantages of the system, and did so. Mr. Barker said that he had looked over the ground around New Haven and thought that three plants located within four or five miles of the center of the city, having about two hundred wells in each, would furnish the city with the necessary 15,000,000 gallons a day and have four or five million gallons remaining in the wells.

At the conclusion of Mr. Barker's talk the committee went into executive session and voted to have another hearing Friday, March 9.

THE STOCK MARKET. Handsome Profits Taken in a Few Minutes by Professionals. New York, Feb. 27 .- The violent fluctuations of prices of a limited number of stocks on the exchange to-day realized the professional trader's dreame of Elysium. Handsome profits were realized within a space of ten minutes, and, by the same token, heavy losses had-to be pocketed. But it all added to the excitement and interest of the hazard, and the board-room traders kept the speculation at the boiling point, working in and out of the market many times during the day. The commitments were made almost entirely on the bear side of the market, but the taking of profits by covering of shorts worked frequent and violent rallies, keeping the market for the specialties in a state of | Eric feverish uncertainty. Third Avenue sale of 2,100 shares at the opening, quotations were practically lost, simultaneone sales being made all the way be. tween 68 and 63, against 711/2 at last night'e close. The limits of the total stock seemed to be no bar to the volume of the transactions. The detailed record of the stock's erratic course during the day would be without interest. At the lowest price it was 2014 points below last night's quotation, and a final fractional rally was spasmodic and without Sugar maintained its significance. prominent place in the market, but reflected much doubt and uncertainty on the present large outstanding short in terest. It was forced down to 101 % and in the late dealings railled strongly to specialties, notably in the local traction group and Tobacco. An active demand for some of the railroad stocks on reports of large earnings and covering of chorts in the specialties brought the market to a high level and a quiet tone. During the hour after noon the market seemed to have divorced itself entirely from the demoralizing influence of the movement in Third Avenue. But in the next hour the bears fell upon the whoe list, tooth and nall, forcing down Western Union 3% and Baltimore and Ohio 2%. Weakness spread from these to other points In the railroad list, and wide Josses were effected throughout the industrials. The local traction stocks were down from 24 to 54. United States Leather 2. burg, Chicago, Cleveland and St. Louis dropped 4. The bears rushed to cover at the decline, causing a rally of from 1 to 21/2 in the stocks which had shown greatest weakness. The final downward plunge in Third Avenue was offset by a sudden rice in Sugar, leaving the tone in the general list confused and unsettled, but with losses at some points in the railroad list practically recovered. Strong showings of net earnings for the month of January were made by Atchison, with an increase over last year of Il per cent., Erie with an advance of 44 per cent, and by Pittsburg, Chicago, Cleveland and St. Louis and Buffalo, ochester and Pittsburg. Something New Every Day.

The selling event that is absorbing the attention of "our city." This means all that part of Connecticut that is enclosed within a circle thirty miles around New Haven.

For every day our visitors come from all the big and little settlements within that territory. And every day we send out load after load to points dotting that circle. We sometimes doubt if our public realize just how big a store this is. But with the throngs that daily crowd the store, there is no room even for doubt.

McIntyre Linings-At 5c.

We haven't room for them-either behind or on our counters. Not a corner for them. Haven't stopped to figure on them. Five cents seemed a popular price and we just put it over the big heap of linings that you'll see on the table in Daylight Square.

AT HOWE & STETSON'S NEW HAVEN, Wednesday, February the twenty-eighth,

A Big Sale of Cameras and Supplies.

Have been through our entire Camera stock and picked out the ones, twos and threes of Cameras left over from last season's selling, and beginning to-day you may buy them at prices that are simply ridiculous. Not a thing the matter with them-all have fine lenses and are of standard make.

The reason of this tremendous mark-down is that we do not wish to carry so large a variety, and hence you reap the benefit. You'll not appreciate their value now, but you will in the vacation days, when opportunity for picture making is constant.
