A NEW OFFER TO STRIKERS

MADE BY THE READING COMPANY LATE YESTERDAY.

The Ten Per Cent. Wage Increase is Made a Net One-Concern Also Willing to Arbitrate Any Other Grievances -No Indication Yet That the Men Will Accept-Mine Leaders Hold Secret Conference-Mitchell Denies That Militia Leaving.

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.-There were no developments of special importance to- an increase of only 11.26 per cent., but day in the miners' strike. An interest- prior to 1860 the population more than ing feature was the Reading company's notice to its employes, posted late this afternoon, that in addition to its offer of a 10 per cent, increase it was willing to enter into arbitration with them relative to any grisvances they may have. None of the strikers, however, have yet indicated their intention to return to work.

A secret conference of the leading ofcalling a joint convention had not been considered. He added that out of 142,-600 mine workers, only about 5,000 are at work and these, he said, would be out in a short time. In an address to the mine workers at Hazleton to-day President Mitchell de-nied that he had reached any agreement with the operators or railroads and reiterates the statement that no agreement will be reached until after a convention of the mine workers. He urges the men to stand together and await further concessions. There are those who believe that some sort of a settlement is near at hand, but there is nothing on the surface upon which such belief can be based.

Affairs were extremely quiet to-day throughout the anthracite region, Gen-eral Gobin, in command of the state troops recently sent to Schuylkill county on request from the sheriff, to-day directed another of the regiments to return home to-morrow. One regiment left on Monday. There now remains but one regiment, a battery of artillery and a company of mounted troops.

The Reading's Notice.

Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 3 .- The following notice was posted here and throughout this region this afternoon by the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron

"This company makes the following announcement to its mine employes: It will adjust its rate of wages so as to pay its mine employes on and after Oc-tober 1, 1900, a net increase of 10 per cent, on the wages heretofore received and will take up with its mine employes any grievances which they may have (Signed)

be superior court was occupied yestertay morning with the case of Beers et d, vs. the city of New Haven. The ase is interesting many real estate nen about town because of the location f the property and the prominence of he witnesses who are testifying as to the value of the property.

At the hearing Tuesday afternoon, the property, which is situated next to the Washington building on Church street, was said by competent witnesses to be worth from $1,000 to $1,200 per oot. General S. E. Merwin and Burton Mansfield both testified to the higher valuation, while Charles H. Webb placed the lower amount as his valuation of Benjamin English was placed on the stand to testify to property on the opposite side of the street, where the First National bank building is now situated. He testified that at the time the property was bought the owners, hearing of the proposed sale, pushed the price up to $1,500, but he thought it was really only worth from ten to twelve hundred dollars.

Major Edward M. Clark, the owner of the Washington building, was placed on the stand and he testified as to the value of the rental of his property, which was on the site of the present Washington building.

touchdowns. Captain Brown missed three goals from touchdowns; contributing to the general loose play of the Yale team. Wear touchdowns. Captain Brown missed three goals from touchdowns; contributing to the general loose play of the Yale team. Wear and Cook fumbled badly, misplays by early giving Amherst the ball, once at the Yale 25-yard line, but as Amherst exhibited no drop-kicking ability the fumbles were not fatal. Sharpe made the most exciting run seen on the Yale field in years. McCoy punted for Amherst to the Yale loyard line and scotted the entire length of the gold for a rouchdown, completing a run of more than 100 yards. Sharpe's rushing was the the most effective of any Yale player. He scored three of Yale's five touchdown, and kicked one of the two goals. Couch and Swift of the Amherst team were badly injured in tackling the glants, both being carried from the field. No bones were broken in the case of either man, however, For Amherst Wiggin did the best backfield work. Hale of Yale ploughed through the Amherst center as if it were made of paper, but the Yale scored 15 points the first half, Sharpe touching behind the Amherst center as if it were made of paper, but the Yale scored 15 points the first half, Sharpe touching behind the Amherst line twice and Miller once. In the second half both teams seemed exhausted by the heat and no effective line-forcing was done. Captain Chamberlin of the '97 team arrived to day to assist in the coaching. The score:

HARVARD 12, WILLIAMS 0.

Crimson Makes a Poor Showing.
Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 3.—Harvard defeated Williams by a score of 12 to 0 on Soldlers Field this afternoon. The playing of the Harvard eleven was discouraging, there being no team play, little life and dash and absolutely no interference. Williams played a faster game and did some lively rushing, but the superior weight of the Harvard line alone prevented Williams from scoring. Harvard backs played rather poorly. E. H. Kendall played well and did some good punting.

THE YALE PUBLIC LECTURES.

In Co-operation With the New Haven University Extension Center.

The following circular was issued last evening: A series of forty lectures under the bove title has been arranged for the season of 1900-1901. This series is the outgrowth of the lectures given for the past six years by the New Haven University Extension Center, and of the courses offered to teachers by Yale university for the past four years, and is a popular presentarion of systematic instruction in literature, science, history, art and music The subjects in general are treated in more scholarly manner than in the magazines, although they are presented in popular language. A number of the lectures, especially those in science and art, are illustrated by lantern slides and apparatus. In this series there will be two dramatic recitals, and two lectures on educational theory. The latter will be of vital interest to the general public as ell as to professional teachers, Most of the lectures will be given in onnected courses of four, running through as many weeks. A syllabus for each of such courses, together with a selected list of books for collateral reading, will be issued. These lectures for the most part will be held in College street hall. Yale university. Those requiring the use of the lantern and specially deviced apparatus will be held in North Sheffield hall. As a general rule, lectures will be given on Wednesday and Friday evenings. The price of a season ticket is three dollars. This entitles the holder to admission to the entire series of forty lectures, and also to all afternoon lectures in Osborn hull, to the Dodge lectures, the Bromley lectures, etc.

Those persons who purchase season tickets before October 20th will be entitled to tickets to the Symphony concerts, to be held in the Hyperion the ater, at the students' rates of fifty cents for each concert.

The exhibition rooms of the Peabody museum, the collections of the Art school (except in times of special exhibitions), and the reading room the Chittenden library, are open to the holders of season tickets.

The season tickets can be bought only at the Free Public library, daily from 9 to 6, or at the door of the hall on the evenings of the lectures. Tickets to the single lectures or to

In Washington, whose asphalt payement is a great treat to owners of bicycles, the number of persons riding has greatly decreased. In Philadelphia the Fairmount Park tracks have not been used anywhere near so much this summer as last season. And in New Haven Orange street has been much more quiet than it was last year. Other evidence of the decrease in the use of the wheel is presented by the figures for the export of bicycles. In 1896 the thing. value of these articles of merchandise was $1,898,012. The next year the shipments were valued at over $7,000,000. The boom ceased then. Last year the American wheels sent abroad were valued at but $3,551,025.

UNDER AN IRON HEEL. Four years ago the air of Kansas was full of wailings which proceeded from farmers who were under the iron heel power seems to be under the iron heel of the Kansas farmers. Bankers in Kansas are complaining because they can't lend money. For instance, the Putnam bank of the town of Richmond. Kansas, has just notified the State Banking Commission that it has $99,-000 of deposits of farmers and others. while the loans and discounts aggregate but $8,000. The capital of the bank and over $90,000 of deposits are thus lying die, and there is "nothing in it" for the gold-bugs. Good crops have converted the Kansas farmer into a lender nstead of a borrower, so that bankers find their occupation gone. much talk and will make much more, and some of the talk is excessively stlly. Some of the talkers talk as if vonne Vanderbilt had condescended to work, when the fact is that he has risen to work. And the harder and more faithfully he works the greater long enough and hard enough he will and he will be better capable of handling his vast wealth. Work will have snob. He may even learn, as he works with others, that he isn't a great man just because he is rich, and he can learn by honest toll, if he will, how to value and appreciate the services of those who have honestly tolled to help make his family rich and are guarding and increasing his own wealth. We congratulate him on the opportunities that work will give him, and we hope he will take advantage of them in such a way that they will help him to be something better than a rich man.

A NEW WONDER.

The modern wonder-workers are se busy and progressive that it is hard to keep track of them, as they leap from one discovery to another. Now it is announced that M. Willot, inspector of French telegraphs, thinks he has made a discovery which will do away with the present system of wireless telegraphy. During recent experiments with Marconi's invention at sea, he asked himself the question whether the signals left the masts from the top or from the botton. He conjectured in must be from the latter, as the signalling was not affected by wind or fog, while it was improved by giving the masta a good electrical communication with the earth. He concluded that the Indian tactics, which were to stamped earth, and not the air, really did duty as the outbound wire, and working on

THE FAMILY OF JOHN BROWN

How Part of Them as it Were Miracu lously Escaped Perils of Death on the

Miss Agnes Stuart Brown, of Salem, Oregon, daughter of Salmon Brown, who was the youngest son of John Brown of Osawatomie, publishes the following narrative of adventure in the Castilian of Castile, N. Y.;

In the year 1865 a little company of emigrants were making their way with oxteams toward California. It was a family train, consisting of but thre wagons, bearing westward the wife and a few members of the family of John Brown, of Harper's Ferry. One of that company was my father. At first a leutenant in the Ninety-sixth New York regiment, he had been removed from service, it being feared his presence would unduly excite the south and make the regiment a target for southern bullets. Hence he was free, with his little company, to seek the great west. In their long and toilsome fournes he little band, consisting so largely of women and children, were exposed to many dangers. An incident I can remay be of interest. Traveling alone till they reached the Rocky mountains, they here fell in one evening with a large train of forty wagons bearing deserters from the rebel army, who, with their families, were also westward-bound. Well did the renegade deserters know what family composed the little train, as news of the pilgrim venture had long preceded them, and marked them for southern vengeance; and it was the secret purpose of the larger train to exterminate the handful of travelers, whose only crime was the name they bore. With this end in view they asked the small train to toln them, urging dangers from Indians as a reason for consolidation.

As over four hundred emigrants had already that year perished at the hands of Indians, the move seemed advisable; and, though warned by a party who had joined the rebel train deys before that it consisted of deserting southerners, my people consented, not crediting the report, and the two trains united as one. A strange union it was, of factious sundered world-wide by hereditary principles-principles which the of civil strife had fanned into deathful antagonism. Yet, as it seems the union had a purpose almost miraculous. Scarce had the morning sun began to beat down upon the edesolate hills and lend its glare to occasional heaps of whitening bones, when a dust rolled up amid the dancing heat waves n the distance, and almost in a moment a band of Sioux warriers, learly five hundred in number, swooped down upon them in all their horrid, fantastic trappings of war. For some distance they rode along with the train, their rifles, knives and lances gleaming in the sunlight as they wound in and out among the wagons. Understanding the animals and then engage in ruth less butchery, the captain of the train ordered a hait, and all available weap one were brought out. Seeing the prep rounded by the treacherous brutes, the women and children crouched.

One woman among them showed no fear. She who had laid away three children in a week, she who had met the loss of two brave sons in a day, she who had seen her husband led away to gallows to die a felon's death. Mary A. Brown, my grandmother, was not the woman to filnch now; nor did my own dear mother shrink. babe in her arms, quieting the shrick of an older child as a hideous arm reached out and caught the child's curls with a motion as if to scalp, she stood sliently prayerful.

Suddenly, as if overawed by the threatening movements and the line of guns, the savages dropped back. At a sign they fell into line-each swarths nead dropped till the chin touched the naked breast, and the whole line stood motionless. Several moments passed there was no motion to attack. ly, then, the train resumed its march, still with arms in readiness; and most as far back as they could see the savage line still stood unbroken. But for the rebel reinforcements of he night before, the little train from the Empire state, with their three lone must inevitably have fallen victims to Indian rapacity, and mingled their blood and bones with nany who had preceded them. That ulone saved them. A strange coinci was-perhaps more strange. Chance, some may call it. To me it has a deeper meaning-Providence guiding his blinded wayfarers or their journey. Their further march I must pass lightly over. Again and again rumors came to them as to the identity of the deserters, who had saved them from one fate only treacherously to inflict another. At last warned by a young physician, himself a rebel, that wholesale destruction was oon to be their lot, the little party made a night escape. Deterred by an accident to one of their wagons, the de-serters could not follow immediately, but, the accident repaired, they pushed on, traveling all night in hot pursuit. Then followed a terrible race, losting six days, a race in which shod oxen proved their superiority of endurance over footsore cavalry horses, and so saved the fugitives from their pursuers till Soda Springs with its garrison of Union soldiers was reached. few hours later, the baffled deserters arrived. Imagine their wrath, when, disclaiming their connection with the south they were compelled as a of their assertion to take the oath of allegiance to the United States One man bitterly informed my fathe Written Examination .- "That Boston | that had they overtaken his party there would have been bloody sport. For several days following, the rebel was held at the garrison, whill my father's train, accompanied by tw

A COMPLIMENTARY DINNER

Given at the Republican Club by Republican Town Committee. be complimentary dinner given last night to Republican club hall by the republican town committee brought together all the party workers from the various wards of the city and was a most successful affair. The dinner was tendered by the town committee to the members of the ward committees and the registrars of voters. About two The speakers hundred were present. of the evening, the registrars and the guests were sented at a table at the ead of the hall. After the menu had been thoroughly attended to the tonst-master of the evening, Chairman Thedore H. Macdonald of the republican town committee, grose and addressed the assemblage. He spoke of the work to be done in this campaign and urged that all co-operate. He asked all the ommitteemen and registrars who had uggestions to make to meet him at the town committee headquarters and discuss them with him.

Mr. Macdonald called upon the following men, who made brief speeches: Hon, N. D. Sperry, F. L. Averill, Judge Livingston W. Clenveland, Dennis A. Blakeslee, George E. Hall, John F. Gaffey, Frederick A. Betts, George B. Martin, General Registrar F. S. Hamilton, E. L. Isbell, Eugene C. Hill and Frank

General Registrar Hamilton made an interesting statement concerning the registration of new voters this fall. He said that up to the present time approximately 3.450 names of voters "to be made" had been secured by the deputy registrars. The time for putting names on the "to be made" list expires October 15, and Mr. Hamilton is of the opinion that by that time at least 3,600 names will be on the list.

An orchestra furnished music for the occasion and F. S. Hamilton, jr., led the singing. Two rousing campaign songs were sung, one, "McKinley, the Pride of the Nation," sung to the tune of The Red, White and Blue," and another to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia." Before the gathering adjourned enthusiastic cheers were given for all the candidates on the national and state tickets.

RECEPTION TO MRS. KINNEY

By Mary Clap Wooster Chapter, D. A.

R., Yesterday. A brilliant and delightful reception in honor of the return of Mrs. Sara T. Kinney, state regent, D. A. R., and Con-necticut representative at the Paris exposition, was given yesterday afternoon at the Church of the Redeemer parlors by Mary Clap Wooster chapter, D. A. The reception lasted from 3:30 until 4:20 and was wholly informal. Mrs. Kinney gave a delightful talk concerning her five months' trip abroad, and especially concerning the Paris exposition. The reception committee included Mrs. Champion, Mrs. Phillips, wife of Rev. Dr. Phillips; Mrs. George S. Barnum, Mrs. John H. Platt, Miss Helen Merwin and others. Refreshments were served and a very pleasant social time was enjoyed.

Mrs. Kinney during her trip abroad visited France, Germany, Holland, England and Scotland. Mrs. Kinney represented the state of Connecticut at the Paris exposition, having been appointed to the position by Governor Lounsbury. She was a guest at a reception pressed with some features of the ex-position and not so favorably with others, as viewed in comparison with the world's fair at Chicago. Her welcome home was a very enthusiastic one, and suit all. was greatly enjoyed by all of the 150

YALE DEMOCRATIC CLUB MEET-

Held at Osborn Hall-Joseph Johnson and Judge Blydenburg Spoke. An enthusiastic meeting of the Yale Democratic club was held at Osborn hall, last evening, at 8 o'clock. There were about one hundred students present at the opening of the meeting. Joseph Johnson of New York was the first speaker and delivered a very able and interesting address, contrasting the condition of other countries at other times with the condition of this country at the present time. The speaker was frequently applauded and produced a great impression upon his hearers.

Judge L. N. Blydenburg of this city, who took the place of Mr. Webb, next spoke to the students. He gave his reasons for being a democrat. Then he spoke of the existing conditions as regards representation in this state and said: "If you vote for McLean, you vote for a continuance of the present conditions; if for Bronson, you vote for constitutional reform and equal rights to all men." The judge asked them to read the pamphlet recently published by Justice Baldwin of the supreme

A better day could not have favored the promoters of the fair, and the contrast to fair day of last year was very marked. This of course, had a good deal to do with the large attendance, as an unfavorable day is almost certain to ison fair is probably one of the largest of the smaller fairs held throughout the state during the year. The exhibits are always very large, and the class of goods and live stock shown is not to be surpassed in any of the Connecticut tairs, with the exception of the one in Danbury. The competition for the premiums is of the keenest sort, and each resident of the town does his utmost to make the best showing. The result is that the exhibits in fruits and vegetables, etc., comprise an excellent lot of goods. As has been the custon in other years, the garden products were shown yesterday in the basement of the new Memorial Hall, just off the green. The cattle were fined up in stalls along the fence, and near the center the poultry were shown. All the athletic events with the exception of the running races were held on a level space near the en trance of the green, and the crowd that congregated around the athletes in an endeavor to see their performances was very large. The interest in these events was much greater than in previous years, and it was said yesterday that a more elaborate program in this line would be arranged next year. Nearly 700 people viewed the exhibits in the hall, and it was estimated that there were on the grounds during the terror of all the superstitious woodsagain been seen, and this time under ever before. A bicyclist came close to the monster in the road between Sherman and Macahoe, and was obliged to abandon his wheel and climb a tree into the woods, while the wheelman sat perched high in the tree and had a nearby view of the fabulous animal that for nine years has been roaming man being that ever got within sight of

for the best pair of working cattle was and many people profess not to believe in the startling statements of his size, rubber boots, offered by William R. but from reports brought to Bangor by reliable men, not given to exaggerating the truth, it is certain that no moose ever killed in this state, or, so far as known, anywhere else, has approached in stature or weight, much less in and seventy-five years old. It was of Lobster Lake." He is called "the spectre moose" because of the weird appearance which he presents at night, his color being a dirty gray.

It was in 1891 that this moose was first seen in Maine, by Clarence Duffy of Old-Lobster Lake. Duffy did not get near enough to the monster for a shot, but he could see him plainly, and gave a detailed description of the animal when he came back to town. Everybody laughed at the story, and Duffy was set down as the greatest romances of his time. Not many months after that, however, John Rose, a prominent Bangor lumberman, was at Lobster Lake, where he had camps, and one day, while crossing between Big Lobster and Little Lobster Lakes in pany with the foreman of W. L. Maxfield's camps, he saw the big moose Mr. Ross is no romancer, and when he told his story of the monarch of the woods people began to believe that there was something up there worth

For some years hunters searched the oods in vain for the big fellow, for it man to bring him down. Not until 1895, however, was the monster seen again. In that year Granville Gray, a Bangor taxidermist, got sight of the moose, at some little distance, and since then he has had a second visw. Brown, in company with Harry M. Pope, of Hartford, Conn., James Busfiffeld of Haverhill, Mass., and E. W. La Croix, of Lynn, Mass., hunted in the Smith, Mrs. C. H. Scranton, Miss Alice three moose and seven deer. It was on Nash, Mrs. H. E. Scranton, Mrs. Geo. the last day of their two weeks stay that Brown saw the big gray moose, cock's house. Mr. Truella is superin and he declared that he would never forget the sight. He everred that the that he had antiers ten to swelve feet

Like most of the others who had a sight of the monster, Mr. Brown saw the moose at dark, but the animal's gray coat showed plainly and Brown High school got several shots at him, none of which, however, inflicted serious injury. He was so close to the animal that he could count twenty-two points on one side of his antiers, and thought at the time that there were more. This is a greater number of points than has ever been known on any moose here or else-

This year the first sight of the big moose fell to George Kneeland of Sher-man, who is taking charge of his brother's lumber comp on Guilliver Brook. In telling of his expérience, Kneeland said:

"I had to go to Macwahoc on busi-ness last Thursday and procured a bicycle and started about four o'clock in the afternoon to go down through the woods. As I was riding along I saw a fox come into the road, and before I had gone much further two more made heir appearance. When they saw me they started straight down the road. I gave a whoop and started in pursuit. I kept so close that they tumbled over each other in their efforts to escape, until at last they went end over end out of the road. I laughed to myself at their fright and kept along.

"Well, I went to Macwahoo, got through with my business there and started to return. As I reached the stretch of woods which is about eight miles long, and neared the place where I had seen the foxes, I saw a fox in the coad and had some fun chasing him. Then, coming to a long piece of rising ground, I dismounted and walked. had got to the top of the hill, and was just about to remount when I saw what I took to be a horse standing in the road some distance ahead. Won-dering what a horse could be doing there I stopped and gave him a good lock, when I found, to my surprise, that it was not a horse, but a moose—and an immense one, too. I waited a bit to see what he was going to do, but I hadn't long to wait, for he lowered his head and came straight for me with the E. Whedon, Mrs. Frank B. Discovery Miss Lizzie B. Lee; superintendents of stocks, C. H. Redfield, Joseph D. Kelbied for a tree was enough to make those foxes laugh, for it was my turn to get scared.

"The first tree I came to was too small to hold a man up. I tried anoth-er, and the limb broke under me, and I landed on my back on the ground. I got into a good stout tree as quickly as could, and climbed high, where I antiers, and be able to see what was

"Meanwhile the moose had lost no time. He came tearing down the foad at terrific speed, and his antiers reached clear across the road at that place, brushing the branches on either side. I should think they would measure eleven feet all right enough. Well, as I said, he came tearing down the road, making straight for the bicycle, and, planting his forward pawe either eide of it, he stopped to examine the wheel, smelled of it to his earls faction, then raised his head, gave a tremendous snort, and raced off into the woods, breaking down the small growth of caplings as though they were rushes. The wind was blowing toward me, and that is probably the reason he did not discover me. I waited ten minutes in the tree, and then, finding that he had really gone, I sled down and mounted my wheel, and the way I streaked it for home was a caution The average size of moose shot in Maine is eight to nine hundred pounds. with antiers spreading four feet to The enormous moose that has been four and a half feet, and not often the wonder of all sportsmen and the more than eight to twelve points on a side, while the bell, as the appendage men of northern Maine since 1891 has under the animal's neck is called, is generally eight or nine inches long who have seen the big moose of Lobster Lage, however, aver that he must weigh at least twenty-five hunabandon his wheel and climb a tree dred pounds, that his antiers spread for safety. AEOLIAN and PIANOLA Recital, Saturday, Oct. 6, 11 a.m.

Soloist, F. E. PIERCE, Baritone.

It is needless to say you are cordially invited to attend this complimentary combined recital in Steinert's Hall, second floor of our building, next Saturday morning, October 6th, at 11 o'clock. The popularity of these Acolian and Planola recitais in New York have made them society events. Supplemented as ours will be by F. E. Pierce, soloist, the recital will appeal to and entertain lovers of instrumental and vocal music. We hope to see you there.

Attending the recital, you will also have an opportunity of seeing the extensive alterations which have taken place during the past two months in our store, especially in the front, so that now it compares favorably with any music store of its size in the country.

LOVELY FRENCH HATS.

CENTS; ONE WEEK, 15 CENTS: SINGLE FALL OPENING AT THE GAMBLE-DESMOND CO. STORE

> Discloses Charming Modes-Admired by Thousands of Visitors Who Yesterday Thronged the Emporium,

The fall and winter season in the vorld of millinery and dry goods was shered in yesterday at the large, handome establishment of the Gamble-Desmond company with a gorgeously beautiful and bewilderingly lovely display of imported and domestic wearables for men, women and children. Aside from the fine display, the Gamble-Desmond company offers special bargains at every counter for the two opening days, and they certainly are bargains, if one can judge anything by the crowds that have thronged the store all day from pening until closing time.

There were several "Meccas" evidently, for the crowds distributed themselves all over the store. The largest crowds, however, gathered in the mil-Hnery room, where the hats and bonnets were on view.

There is nothing more futile in this world than to attempt to describe a hat in cold type. Now, one of Virot's hats, for example. It is all black, made of chenfile sewed on a maline foundation, a Tam O'Shanter crown, the height achieved with a high bandeau at the left side and just one Justrous half-long plume caught there with a huge cut steel buckle. Then this lovely one of chinchilla, with white cloth under brim, with mink fur finishing the brim and turquoise velvet bows with Egyptian ornaments, for no hat is without some ort of buckle this year.

Here is a Caroline Raboux picture hat, the crown of steel on lace; a great bow of velvet dashed up at the side front tion of the head-that is one of the smartest hats imaginable

Miss Doran, the head of the department, showed some of the firm's own handiwork, and many of the Gamble-Desmond company's hats were hand-somer than the imported models. They were practical and yet stunning enough dictown; vice presidents, Ellhu Olm for any one. Here is one-a toque, the brim and crown of chinchilla fur, a scarf of rose pink panne velvet embroidered in crystal, pearl and steel Gist of Frovidence, Elijah Tracey of twisted about the crown and gathered Norwich, Orrin S. Rix of Voluntown. up at the left side and held in place by an ornament made of the same materi-nl. Another Gamble-Desmond company hat was a turban of brown velvet, the soft crown gathered high at one side and fastened in a fan-like shape and caught in an eagle's claws. brim is outlined by a pelican's breast lifted at the left side to disclose a bandeau of mode panne satin and velvet. Audubonites will be interested to and feathers are in use, they are not those of the song birds. Most of these now used are manufactured and the effect of both color and form is most beautiful.

Then in the costume and tailor gown department there was a most interested throng of shoppers, all intent on the stylish garments. Space prevents a detailed description of the many elegant suits and top coats shown. showing a choice line of cut flowers and Aiglon, a military coat worn by Sara Bernhardt in her latest play, found loth with Russian blouse, with panne stitched velvet bands.

The Gamble-Desmond company's fur department is again as large as last year, and the showing of practical-priced furs is most comprehensive.

In the dress goods department the choicest materials are broadcloths, Venetian, camel hair, zibelines, poplins. homespuns, whipcords and cloth. The show windows promise well for the display at the silk counter and never were the evening silks more gor geous than this season. Immense plaids are shown for shirt waists in colors and designs more beautiful than ever. Each and every department is in the gayest of gay dress. In the glove department there is an endless show of Trefousse gloves, considered the best gloves made and which glove the Gamble-Desmond company has the exclusive right to sell in New Haven. The men's store, where the showing of all that is worthy and good and destrable is simply inexhaustible; in the fiannel and blanket departments, where snowy blankets and choice flannels are piled ceiling high; in the basement, where the housekeeper finds all she needs and only the best quality; and in the china department, where the show is to many the most fascinating of all.

The custom tailor department, too, starts the season with a most distinguished collection of woolens, imported and domestic, and while it is the youngest of all the departments in the store, it has more than proved its usefulness and value as an adjunct of a perfectly equipped store.

Especially noteworthy is the show ilks in one of the windows. There is point duchesse lace shawl in this winow that you can carry home in exchange for three hundred and fifty dol-lars, and while on the subject of lovely aces the superintendent offered the reporter a pair of curtains marked two hundred and fifty dollars. These jast vere shown in the spacious uphoistery oom slong with hundreds of pairs of all kinds and conditions of draperies,

The Big Store's Fall Opening Season of 1900

AS we come face to face with the opening of the fall of 1900 we have before us the splendid, inspiring records of nearly half a century of successful merchandising. We turn over the pages and see "success", and aga'n "success", written in indelible characters across the years. Prestige and power in the markets of the world: the widespread favor and the unswerving confidence of the people—a great and growing store—those are the causes and effect. We believe the public will understand us completely when we say as we do to-day: we offer for your pleasure the season's very newest and worthiest in Millinery, Cloaks and Suits, Dress Goods and Silks.

Points About the New Fall Goods Dress

COMEONE you know believes you read the news from the Big Store from day to day and that therefore you are posted on all that concerns the new and correct in dress. She asks what materials women are going to use most in making up fall and winter costumes. In the order of preference as shown by the demand, the answer would be first, plaid backs, second, broad cloths and then venetians and homespuns.

CCEPT our word for it--the prices which these famous and splendid ribbons brought at auction produced the sensation of the season in the ribbon trade. The facts are these: The manufacturers of the "La Mode" ribbons saw an opportunity to get ahead of France in the making of velvets. They have decided to give their exclusive attention and the facilities of all their factories to the new plan. As a necessary consequence of the haste they were under to produce velvets in time for the season, they had to dispose of their ribbons at once. The auction room is the place for such an emergency. And these fine, soft finished ribbons were put up and went to the highest bidder- We saw in the sale a chance to offer our public unexampled ribbon bargains with the manufacturers standing the entire loss. We acted upon it. The result will be seen Thursday morning on the counters opposite the regular ribbon section. 40c Ribbons, 25c. 38c Ribbons, 19c. IOC. 5c Ribbons, 2c-3c Ribbons, 2c. "Connecticut's
