BOER COMMANDERS ACTIVE. BRITISH KEPT BUSY BY FRONT-MAN'S FORCE. Movements of Other Burgher Leaders—Train Captured Between Molteno and Stormberg—Whereabouts of General De Wet.

Cape Town, April 22.—7:30 p. m.—It is officially announced that the Boers in Namaqualand are still clinging to the hills northeast of Pella.

The commandoes of Scheepers and Malan have moved east to the districts between Pearson and Pietersburg. The British under Seneker and Scobel are in touch with them.

The Boers held up a train between Molteno and Stormberg last Thursday night. They looted the cattle and burned the trucks.

THE LATE A. D. HENDRICK. A Well-Remembered and Very Popular New Haven Man—His Sudden Death.

Concerning the late Augustus D. Hendrick, a former very popular New Haven and skilled mechanic and inventor, who for years resided in the brick block on Orange street, near Clark and Humphrey streets, and whose death was announced in our Monday's issue, the Ansonia Sentinel says:

Augustus D. Hendrick, an old and esteemed resident of this place, dropped dead in the street near his home on Saturday night, Mr. Hendrick, for some time past has been employed in Waterville, coming to his home here Saturday evenings.

His son Herbert has been employed in the same factory and the two usually came home together, but last week Herbert came down on Friday for the purpose of attending the funeral of J. A. Burke, leaving his father to come as usual, on Saturday, alone.

When Mr. Hendrick did not appear on the usual train it was thought by his family that owing to the storm he had decided to remain in Waterville over Sunday. In fact he did come on a later train.

He seemed to be in his usual health, complaining simply of feeling very tired, more so than usual. He was not seen again until half-past five o'clock Sunday morning, when Mrs. William Cushman, chancing to look out of the window, saw the form of a man lying on the walk, and calling to her husband, he at once went to the spot and found it was Mr. Hendrick.

The family was notified and Health Officer Shelton summoned. An examination showed that death must have been instantaneous, caused by an affection of the heart, of which Mr. Hendrick has been complaining for some time past.

The bill permitting saloons to be open after polls on election days was rejected.

The bill providing that licensees shall be given by the superior court was also rejected.

The bill rearranging the tax laws of the state so that such taxpayers as dodge their honest share of the general taxation may be forced to disclose the same under oath, or later be handed over to the criminal courts, was reported for rejection by the judiciary committee.

On motion of Senator Seely, of Bridgeport, the senate reconsidered its action of last Thursday in passing the bill to revise the statutes concerning the collection of the poll and military commutation tax.

The senate rejected the bill requiring that judges of city courts shall be attorneys.

At a meeting of the Astronomical Society, of France, M. Flammarion, the well known astronomer, said that by calming the human passions the study of astronomy seemed to have a very beneficial influence.

A queer case is engaging the attention of Ithaca (New York) attorneys. It is that of an undertaker, who is trying to recover a casket in which a body was recently inclosed and deposited in a vault in a city cemetery.

President Seth Low thinks that the new office of Controller of Sport at Columbia University will be a permanent fixture. In this connection he said: "I doubt a great deal whether the universities at large will permanently consent to the maintenance of a system which depends for its continuance on large game receipts and which is, in all its essential aspects, a business undertaking conducted under the wing of the university."

Some curious test cases arise under the Kansas prohibitory law. John Cairns is agent for an express company at Scranton. A jug of liquor came to his office addressed to a certain party, and it had a C. O. D. attachment. The man to whom it was addressed refused to take it out and Cairns notified the shipper at Kansas City.

Recent experiments carried on by railroad officials at Berns with an automatic ticket machine, invented by a Swiss, have given entire satisfaction. The machine is similar to the ordinary automatic machines, but the glass cases contain the tickets, on which are printed the names of the stations and the price of the ticket.

months, when the invention will be given a fair trial. As the machine does the work of three men the experiment will be watched with great interest. A somewhat similar system exists in the south of Germany for train tickets only, and it has proved a great success.

THE VISITING CUBANS
The Cuban commissioners are expected in Washington to-day, and there is much interest in their visit. They know what they want, if General Porruondo, one of the commissioners, speaks for them. He says that ninety-nine per cent. of the Cuban people desire absolute independence, and that "moral peace" with the Americans without the independence of Cuba is impossible.

The commissioners will be well treated in Washington, and they will be much impressed with the power and politeness of the United States. But so far as accomplishing any modification of the Platt amendment is concerned, they will have their journey for nothing, for the President will tell them that he is powerless to change the law in any way and that it must stand until amended or modified by an act of Congress.

A BEARISH SAGE
Russell Sage doesn't often openly figure as a "bear" on stock market prices, but he is talking right out in meetings nowadays. The "bulls," of course, will say that he is "short" of the market, or behind the times. Perhaps he is both, but whatever he is or isn't this is what he says: The longer this financial condition continues, the greater will be the sacrifice in the end, for prices have got to come down. There can be no other way. They must come down.

NOT SO VERY DANGEROUS.
It is now known that the forthcoming census reports will show that the proportion of negroes in the country has decreased somewhat during the past ten years as compared with the whites. Instead of a ratio of one to seven, as it was when the last census was taken, the proportion will be nearer one to nine. While the census force has not yet completed the tabulation of the population statistics by color, enough progress has been made to enable the authorities to make an estimate of what the final results will be.

THE COSSACKS OF THE DON.
Few things are what they used to be. Even the Cossacks of the Don are not the splendid beings they were. A Russian committee was appointed some time ago to investigate the whole subject. The fact appears to be that the burden of military obligations upon the Cossack has been growing heavier and heavier without any corresponding increase in his income. In order to provide himself with the regulation equipment, the young Cossack, or, more frequently, his father, has to mortgage, let, or sell his property. The lessee of the land is naturally anxious to get as much as possible out of it in a short time. The consequence is that it loses much of its fertility, a circumstance which has proved highly unfavorable to the rearing of cattle, and especially to horse-breeding.

Mr. Ferris said that, at the lowest calculation, he should say the birds would produce at least twenty-five flocks of young quail before the next game season. The average size of a flock is twelve, he said, and ordinarily there are two litters in a season. Mr. Ferris said that the increase in the number of quail would probably be between three and four hundred the first season. The first litter will be produced early in July, and will be in good condition by October. The second litter should be in good condition before the close of the game season.

Sound Steamer Sinks Schooner Which Sailed from Here Sunday.
New York, April 23.—The Fall River steamer Pilgrim and the fishing schooner Samuel Ricker, of this port, collided off Cornfield at 1:20 o'clock this morning. The Ricker sank almost immediately, carrying to death her master, Captain Allen. The Pilgrim lowered a boat and picked up a Norwegian sailor, the only other occupant of the schooner. According to the crew of the Pilgrim, a very heavy fog enveloped them and they were going ahead cautiously sounding the whistle at shorter intervals.

Suddenly the Ricker appeared on the starboard beam and came smashing into the Pilgrim's side amidships. The smaller craft suffered by the impact, and as she settled back after the blow began to fill and sink. The Pilgrim was stopped and a boat hurriedly lowered over the side. The boat found one sailor struggling in the water and picked him up. He was unable to speak English enough to give his name, but he indicated that he and Captain Allen were the only ones on the schooner.
A portion of the Pilgrim's rail was carried away, her wheelhouse was stove in and several stanchions were smashed. The Ricker was a sixty-four-tonner and hulled from this port.

The schooner Samuel Ricker sailed from this port early Sunday morning with a cargo of 3,000 bushels of seed oysters shipped by the Smith Brothers, of City Point, for S. D. Greene, of Warren, R. I. The oysters were to be used for transplanting in Warren river. The Ricker was loaded and ready to sail on Friday, but the continued period of northeast winds and rough sea prevented the Ricker, with a big fleet of other small vessels, from sailing to the eastward. Captain Allen, impatient because of the tedious delay, hoisted sail and weighed anchor on Sunday and started for the eastward.

Captain Allen, the master who was lost, is not known here. The vessel was built at West Haven in 1870, but hailed from New York. Her cargo of oysters, valued at $1,000, was insured, the risk being held by the Security Insurance company, of this city.

CHORUS CLUB ENTERTAINMENT.

One of those present at the chorus club entertainment in Harmonic hall last Friday writes as follows: The entertainment given by the Harmonic chorus club in Harmonic hall last Friday evening was a success. The first part consisted of songs and readings. A farce, "The Marble Arch," concluded the affair. Cast: Jack Merewether (newly married), J. Webb Dillon; Captain Trentham (in pursuit of a wife), W. Richard Smith; Constance Cameron (running away from an unknown husband), Annie Lane; Marion Merewether (Jack's wife), Neva Russell Benham. Mr. Dillon has a good stage presence and a pleasing voice; these, combined with a natural talent for acting, enabled him to carry out the part of the husband excellently. Miss Benham as Jack's wife portrayed the part to perfection and showed fine dramatic ability. Miss Benham is considered the best amateur actress in the city, and may go on the professional stage next season. We predict success and a bright future for her. She has true genius.
W. Richard Smith as Captain Trentham carried his part admirably throughout; the play, and kept the audience in good humor. Mr. Smith has accepted a position with the Grover-Dramatic company, and starts on the road very soon.
Miss Annie Lane as Constance Cameron made a charming young widow. Her pleasing presence and graceful manners were much admired.
