FINAL RACE A WATERLOO.

SHAMROCK LOSING WAY IN FOG FAILS TO FINISH.

As Often Said of the Historic Contest When America Won the Cup "Ther Second"-Rellauce Over Eleven Minutes Ahead at the Oute Mark-Dangerous Sail Home in Dense Fog and Strong Wind.

New York, Sept. 3.-The Reliance, the American cup defender, to-day won the third and final race and the series for that famous sea trophy, the America's cup. In a dense fog which prevented vision beyond 200 yards she finished the race at 5:30:02 amid the acclamations of the assembled fleet. Shamrock III. after running for more than an hour in the fog, missed the finish line, passed by it and then returned to it from the opposite direction. As the Reliance was then being towed through the fleet, yacht ensigns fluttering from her truck and spreaders in celebration of her victory, the Shamrock III. did not cross the finish line. As often said of the historic race when the America won the "There was no second."

To-day's race was the eighth attempt to sail a race. After one fluke the Reliance won the two following races, one by seven minutes and three seconds and the other by one minute and nineteen seconds. A week ago to-day the first attempt to sail the third race falled, and attempts have been made every day this week. On two occasions the Reliance led the Shamrock III. to the finish line by about two miles, but failed to reach it before the expiration of the time limit of five and a half hours.

Rarely, if ever, has there been a more spectacular finish than the Reliance's to-day. After racing for more than an hour at terrific speed through a blinding fog the Reliance burst through the wall of mist upon the vision of the spectators on the fleet assembled at the finish line, and, heeling under a great beliying balloon jibtopsail until her lee rail was awash, she fled across the finline almost before the spectators could determine for a certainty that it

Details of Race.

The duel between the skippers began and continued through a series of brilliant manoeuvres in which Captain Barr again proved his splendid seamanship by outgeneraling Captain Wringe, until the boats went across the line.

Both were heading seaward but, as the Reliance from the lee bow of the giving the progress of the race. Shamrock was backwinding her headsails, the Shamrock III. promptly whirled about and headed down the Jersey coast. The Reliance held on for a minute and then followed. The manoeuvre placed the Reliance to windward but astern of the challenger. They went off at a swift pace in a freshening breeze. Captain Wringe attempted to outsail the defender by giving his boat a good full and letting her romp away at a fast clip while Captain Barr ninched the Reliance close to the wind and cleverly nursed her toward the turning mark. The Shamrock III. at first footed faster but the Reliance more than made it good by outpointing

For more than an hour they sailed on that tack down past the shore of Sandy Hook and the Highlands of Navesink to Sea Bright and during all that time the Reliance steadily worked up to windward of the beaten challenger, outpointing and outfooting her at the same time and passing to windward of her. When they tacked off Sea Bright, heading seaward, the American boat had gained a quarter of a mile straight to windward of the British craft. On this new tack Captain Wringe again gave his boat a good full and she cut through the Reliance's lead at an alarming gait, but all to no purpose. Pinched into the wind or with a rap full the Shamrock was hopelessly outclassed. After half an hour's turn off shore they satled towards Long Branch for half an hour. Captain Barr attempted to make a hitch off shore but the Shamrock would not follow and he took the Reliance about again to keep in her company. Meanwhile the Beliance had steadily gained and when at 3:10 both boats headed off to the mark six miles away, the Reliance was a good mile ahead and gaining.

The Reliance turned the outer mark

11 minutes and 3 seconds ahead of the Shamrock. As the boats started the run homeward under spinnakers and balloon fib topsalls a split about three feet long appeared in the foot of the Reliance's spinnaker, but as it drew well Captain Barr continued to carry it. For threequarters of an hour the only variation was a slow gain by the leading boat. The sky was clear and the slanting rays of the yellow western sun were painting a beautiful marine picture with the two yachts as center figures, when at 4:20, with almost half the course yet to be sailed, a thick bank of fog came rolling in before a southeast wind and enveloped the Shamrock in a blind grey mist that shut her out of the vision of the fleet as though she had been wiped from the surface of the sea. The Reliance ran along for five minutes longer with the sun glinting upon her sails until the fog bank reached and rolled over her and she, too, disappeared from sight. At is caught her she felt also a heavier wind from the southeast smotheast, smothered her spinnaker, and leaning to the wind, fled at a swift pace like a dim ghost through the grey

LIPTON KNEW HE WAS BEATEN.

Highlands of Navesink, N. J., Sept. 3, -When the Erin had discharged her passengers to-night and the re-echo of their cheers had died away Sir Thomas Lipton said: "Two weeks ago I was hopeful; last week I knew I was doomed to defeat and was disappointed, but to-day I am almost glad in my own defeat, that America has been such a thorough victor. I want again to thank the American people for their generosity to me in my defeat." Asked what his plans were, Sir Thomas said: "My crew it to return to England on Tuesday next, and I really ought to go back by that time myself. will post out my engagements in a day or two and then determine just what I shall do. I shall attend a dinner in New York to-morrow night and have half promised to be Mr. Woodruff's guest in Brooklyn and go to the New York State fair, but that is not absolutely certain. It is possible I may have to start for home next week."

Asked what he would do with the three Shamrocks, he said: "I am to meet some people to-morrow who desire to buy at least one of the bonts. After I have seen them I will determine

Regarding the defeat of Shamrock III. he simply said: "I do not care to dis-cuss it any more. The American was the better, that is all."

Designer Fife refused to talk. Cap-Wringe, while agreeable, still would not talk further than to say: We did the best we could, but the othr boat was best."

Captain Barr, of the Reliance, said after the race: "The Reliance is a beautiful boat; had all kinds of weather and won in it. Our adversaries did the best they could with the material at their ommand.

J. P. Morgan's yacht, the Corsair, stopped in at the Hook and took C. Oliver Iselin aboard. Mr. Iselin was all smiles as he replied to an inquiry as to the result:

"Of course I am proud of the result, A splendid boat, a splendid crew and captain, and all helped the result. Sir Thomas made a brave fight and deserved better luck, but every American should be glad that the cup is to stay

Sir Thomas and Mr. Iselin exchanged visits to-night and the former extended his congratulations to the latter.

BRITISH COMMENT ON RESULT. Now Hoped That Canada Will Build : Cup Chaser.

London, Sept. 3.-The final defeat of Sir Thomas Lipton's cup challenger at the sound of the preparatory gun Shamrock III, was received in London with absolute listlessness. Most of the afternoon papers published a special edition announcing the result of the cup race, but the announcement had already been discounted by the dispatches consensus of opinion is that Sir Thomas money could accomplish, and widespread sympathy for him is shown. The chief hope expressed in the streets is that Canada will enter the lists next year and possibly succeed where the nother country has failed. It seems improbable that, in view of the failure of Shamrock III., another challenger will soon be dispatched from England.

FOOLED BY SHAMROCK I.

Quite Evident Now That She Had No Improved.

Glasgow, Sept. 3.-The announcemen of the Reliance's victory was received here with a feeling akin to relief that the long-drawn contests were ended The most sanguine of the Shamrock's supporters did not exepect the challenger to make more than a fair showing in to-day's race. It is generally admitted that the whole fabric of British hopes was built upon the false assumption that Shamrock I, was a decidedly better boat at the time of this year's trial races than when she was beaten by the Columbia off Sandy Hook. Uniform regret is expressed at Sir Thomas Lipton's failure after making such a persistent effort to secure the America's cup.

FOR A WIRELESS TREAT

PROTOCOL ADOPTED BY THE BERLIN CONFERENCE.

No Distinction to be Made Regarding Systems in the Transmission of Messages to Ships at Sea-Precedence Must be Given to Requests for Help from Washington, Sept. 3.-The final protocol of the International Wireless Telegraph conference in Berlin last month was made public to-day at the state department. General Greely was chairman of the American commission. This commission had no authority to make any agreements for the United States, but the protocol embodies in most of pressed by the American commiss ers. Another conference will be held, and if all delegates have full powers the protocol no doubt will be emblodied in treaty for the government of international wireless telegraph communication. The following is the text of the Article I. The exchange of correspondence be ween vessels at sea and wireless coast tations open to the general telegraphic ervice is subject to the following conditions:

1. Any fixed station whose field of acion extends to the sea is styled coast station.

2. Coast stations are bound to receive and transmit telegrams originating from or intended vessels at sea without any distinction of wireless telegraph system used by the latter.

3. The contracting parties shall pub lish any technical information likely to facilitate or expedite communication between coast stations and ships at sea. However, each one of the contracting governments may authorize the station established on its territory, under such conditions as it may see fit, to make use of several installations of special arrangements.

(Paragraph four deals with the fixing of rates of traffic.)

Article II. Regulations which will be annexed to the convention that is to be perfected will establish the rules applicable to the exchange of communications between the posts and on board the vessels. The provisions of these regulations may be at any time modified by common understanding between the contracting states Article III.

The provisions of the telegraphic conention of St. Petersburg are applicable to the transmission of wireless telegraphis messages in so far as they do not conflict with those of the future conventions.

Articles IV. The wireless stations must, unless here should be absolute impossibility, accept in preference requests for help that may come from vessels.

Article V. The service of wireless telegraph stations must be organized as far as practicable, so as not to interfere with e service of other stations

The contracting governments reserve the right to make separate arrangements for the purpose of compelling the contractors working within their terri-tory wireless telegraph stations to obey only through other stations the modification of the future convention. Article VII.

SEPARATION OF THE RACES.

John Temple Graves' Solution of Negro

Chicago, Sept. 3.-John Temple Graves of Georgia delivered an address on "The Problem of the Races" to-day before the forty-eighth convocation of the University of Chicago. He said in

"Separation of the races is the waythe only way. If God hath made of one blood all the nations of the earth, he hath also established unto them the metes and bounds of their habitation. God did not intend that opposite and antagonistic races should live together.

"The prejudice is a pointing of Providence and the antagonism of peoples is the fixed policy by which God peoples the different portions of the universe and established the individuality of the nations. The act that brought these people together on this continent was a sin of the fathers-a sin of greed, an iniquity of trade-a sin against nature and a sin against God. The curse can be lifted only when nature is vindicated and God'ls obeyed. The problem will be solved only when the negro is restored to th 'bounds of his habitation.'

"It is neither impossible nor imprac-ticable. The elements are willing and the way is in reach. This is not a day of impossibilities. The hands of the Almighty is steadily opening the way.

"It may be that the islands of the seas were placed by Providence in our keeping to furnish an answer to the problem of the time.

"The south is neither cruel nor unpatriotic and the north knows it. orth is neither immovable nor vindicative and the south knows it. If either of us is mistaken, and if both of us are misunderstood, we are yet one people, and we must meet upon the plain of our brotherhood and our destiny.

"I appeal for Caucasian unity. I appeal for the imperial destiny of our mighty race. This is our country. made it. We moulded it, We control it, and we always will. We have done great things. We have mighty things yet to do. The negro is an accidentalan unwilling, a blameless, but an unwholesome, unwelcome, helpless, unassimilable element in our civilization He is not made for our times. He not framed to share in the duty and destiny which he perplexes and be-clouds. Let us put him kindly and humanely out of the way. Let us give him a better chance than he has ever had in history and let us have done with him. Let us solve his problemfrankly, fearlessly, nobly and speedily. Let us put it behind us."

BOILER EXPLOSION IN NEWARK Causes Pante in Business Section-St

Badly Injured. Newark, N. J., Sept. 3.-A boiler exlosion, which caused a panic for a time in the business center of the town, occurred this afternoon in the engine room of the Hanson Van Winkle company, manufacturers and dealers in acids, chemicals and dyestuffs, on Market street. Six men were badly injured as a result of the explosion and damage to the extent of $10,000 was done. The injured are: Joseph Winter, engineer, scalded; Charles Connelly, scalded; Howard Oliver, injured internally William Wicklehouse, terribly scalded may die; Albert Dixon, scalded and cut face and arms: James Thompson, contused wounds and bruises. Of General Colin McCrae Ingersall

General Colin M. Ingersoll, who is very ill at his residence, 58 Trumbull street, was so low last night that it was feared he might not live twenty four hours. General Ingersoll was taken ill about ten days ago when he took a severe cold which developed into grip and then into pneumonia. He was last out of doors the day before he was taken ill when he took a trolley car ride to Milford. Owing to his advanage his recovery is considered ver doubtful, General Ingersoll being in his eighty-fifth year. His health has not been good for the past year, or since the death of his brother, the late ex Governor Charles R. Ingersoll. The public will learn with sincere sorrow of General Ingersoll's critical condition, he having been so long one of New Haven's most distinguished citizens.

General Ingersoll has been attended for about two weeks past by Dr. Russell during the absence of his family physician, Dr. L. S. De Forest, who returned yesterday from a ten days' stay in North Carolina. Dr. De Forest visited him last evening, at which time General Ingersoll was very low.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Hyperion Theater.

"Mr. Pipp" is the title of one of the latest girl-musical comedies to make a bid for popular favor during the season of 1903-4. It will serve also to introduce to the theater-going public a new star in the person of one Charles Grapewin, who for the past three years has been cavorting in one-act sketches for the edification of patrons of the better class clever planning and carrying out of a of vaudeville theaters. Mr. Grapewin will have the assistance of thirty-five ladies and gentlemen, with good singing voices, fine clothes and good looks. As an artist Charley Grapewin can hold his own, and his manipulation of colors on the stage at the Hyperion this evening, when he and his company will be seen for a single performance of "Mr-Pipp," will fully bear out his assertion that "colors are like flowers, best when grouped as nature dictates, and the poorest eye is offended by wrong combinations." The offering promises to be one of the nost enjoyable seen here in a long time. Nothing but kind words have come from places where it has already been seen, and theater-goers may be assured of a decided treat in the coming of "Mr. Seats now on sale. Prices $1.50, Pip."

Number of Girls Have Gone to Beacon Falls to Work.

While there is no decided change in the strike situation at the shops of the L. Candee company, still, sixteen of the girls have gone to work at the works of the Beacon Falls Rubber company at Beacon Falls, and there is a prospect that a number more will go in a few days. This is the report as learned from a number of the girls last night, and they state that, as there are vacancies for about sixty more at this factory, that number of them may move there and begin work.

It is stated by the striking girls that none of the old hands will return, and that all who have thus far returned are inexperienced workers; also that it is still their intention to stay out until their demands were acceded to.

YALE'S COLORED ORATOR AD-DRESSES METHODISTS.

Spoke in Capitol City Last Evening-Big Audience Present-Yale Man Most Enthusiastically Received-Education, Work and Character Building for the Negro Race.

In the presence of a large and enthusiastic assemblage of colored people, and a goodly sprinkling of many Hartford's most prominent white citiin part, spoke as follows:

hundredth anniversary, a century of the tion. most laudable progress. To any man who says that the negro has no originality, no tenacity of purpose, no capability for organization, concerted action, efficient management and corporate power; to any who doubt his fitness to realize an ideal of ethics and child with a gold dollar, he saw no dence to be a coward, too much power religion; to all such sceptics and Philistines. I have one concrete and conclusive answer: The African Methodist

"Eighty-seven years ago in Philadelphia, the Rt. Rev. Richard Allen established the little church called "Bethel" and from this house of God there has flowed an ever widening stream of blessing and salvation. From this little congregation has grown a system beside which the governments of Liberia and Hayti stand in odious comparison is in such men as the elders and bishops of this church that we can anchor our hope for the future.

The three great essentials for our well being are religion, education and intelligence and work; heart, head and hand. These are the days of vast differences of opinion. Not in the days of Phillips and Calhoun was the negro seen inmore glaringly different lights. To some the negro is a monster others the situation is a crucifixion at than a generation. which the negro is the Christ; to some the negro has norightonAmericansoil. To one the negro is the root of all political, evil; to another he is the scapegoat of all political sin.

The intelligent negro disagrees with both of these extremists. He would creature would do. But the "revolumake the fitness of heart, head and tion" came, the "Invisible Empire" ishand the standard qualification for any place, except the social.

To-day there is no the doubt as to our capableness in the abstract intellectual gymnasium. But of hands and lays this flattering unction character the masses are solely in need. The arguments for higher education and industrial training are by no means contradictory, but in the last analysis the measure of all progress is character. Upon a broad economical and sound moral basis we must rear an intellectual superstructure that will deserve the respect of the modern world.

Real work implies more than the me diate function of a tool; it includes the independence and progressiveness of intelligence. Booker T. Washington has that he was working when he was sim-

The negro should be encouraged in every reasonable way to become posses sors of the soil they cultivate. Thi would create a sense of responsibility, reward and thrift, and it would foster good citizenship.

TOLD SECOND HAND. An Interesting True Tale of Feeding.

A bright young woman of Coin, Iowa, who keeps her eyes open, tells an interesting and true story of her chum's ex-

She says: "She had nervous dyspeptack came on she would go to a physician and get some relief up to last year when she had the grip which left her very weak, and then her stomach collapsed and refused to retain anything but the very simplest foods. Soon she could not eat even those, and for seven days she had no nourishment but raw egg and milk, and she was told by a physician that a change of air and scene might restore her to partial health, but would never again be well and would probably die of consumption of the bowels.

She always complained of terrible distress after eating which was soon followed by vomiting, yet she was so hungry all the time that she would try to eat. One day she read an article about Grape-Nuts and asked her father to get some, and he went out and bought a package. She took a tablespoonful moistened with a little milk. The taste was delicious and satisfying. and to every one's surprise there was absolutely no pain or trouble in her stomach after eating it.

After a couple of houurs she called for some more Grape-Nuts and this time the amount was doubled, and soon after eating it she fell into a sound natural sleep, sleeping for several hours, gard for the distinctions among oursomething she had not done since her illness without the aid of morphine. We can accomplish very little by "agitation." The thing that speaks loudest is not the orator's tongue, but his character. The thing that will help the negro race is not abstract argument, but concrete work. While some negroes of the north are busying themselves with "demonstrating" from the dry skeleton logic that Washington is wrong, Washington is in the south working upon and elevating the real negro of actual flesh and blood. We need works ers, not "agitators." Whoever preaches to negroes the doctrine of hate and revenge, be he black as midnight, he is the worst enemy of the negro race.

One of the chief reasons why we are not distinguished into different classes by others is that we do not seem to have sufficient reseives. Our good and bad mingle together too indiscriminately. the County Oyer and Terminer court here to-day directed the jury in the larger hearts and less pain if we will trolley accident cast to render a verdict believe firmly and devoutly that it is favorable to the executive committee of the directors, the four operating officers of the North JerseyStreet Railway company. Nine school children lost their lives in that accident, and it was soight to hold the officers of the company liable on the charge of criminal negligence. In obedience to the court the jury rendered a verdict if acquittal. Thus ends an anomalous case. It had been argued in support of the motion to direct a verdict of acquittal that the officers under trial had not neglected their plain duty in a felonious manner, and that they had not shown an evil disregard of duty, or a reckless disregard of the lives of passengers. With this the three justices agreed. The state's prosecutor, they said, in the evidence offered, had not placed the fault for not sanding the tracks, which was the thing that would have prevented the accident, upon the company's directors or superintendents. It was also held by the court that if the rules made by them had been obeyed, the Clifton avenue disaster would not have oc-

There appears to be a popular disappointment over the outcome, but neither the judges nor, so far as can be learned the jury, could see, first, that negligence on the part of the indicted ficers had been proved; nor, second, that there was such a disregard of an imperative duty as to indicate an evil intention and a careless indifference to causing mortal injury. Emphasis was laid on the word "criminal" by the jus-tices. The decision, of course, has no bearing upon the liability in civil suits for damages of the men acquitted to-

The indicted men were Alexander J. Cassett of Philadelphia, John D. Crimmins of New York, Edward F. C. Young of Jersey City, Dr. Leslie D. Ward, Elisha B. Gaddis and J. Roosevelt Shanley of Newark, directors; and David Young, formerly general superintendent: Charles M. Shipman, former superintendent; Arthur W. Pratt, roadmaster; James Smith, division superintendent, and Richard Eick, assistant division superintendent.

Mr. Cassett's only comment on th result was that after all he as a railroad man had done in abolition of grade crossings, he had felt that his po-sition during the trial had seemed strange. Mr. Crimmins said that the defendants had been advised that the early motion to quash the indictments of the members of the executive committee was likely to prevail in view of precedents and decisions. In that event, however, the brunt of the trial would have fallen upon the three su perintendents and the roadmaster, and it was agreed that all should stand to-

The public prosecutor, when asked after the verdict if he would press the case against the subordinates of the company, said: "I am only following accident."

The Louisville Courier-Journal in commenting on a Chicago university professor's claim to have discovered a cure for locklaw says there are those who believe that what is more needed among Chicago university professors is something that will produce lockiaw.

The enormous labor which the biography of Mr. Gladstone has laid on Mr. John Morley's shoulders is indicated by the simple statement that he and his secretaries have, in the course of their long task, examined about four hundred documents.

A new scheme for doing away with negro labor is the Louisiana proposal to import Bohemians to develop the oyster industry, the Federal law about it being dodged by having the State itself import them instead of individuals. It is said that despite the law a State can cause it to be known to laborers in foreign countries that work at big pay is plentiful within its borders.

Habit is strong. The directors of an English woollen mill offered £1 to each of its thousand employes who would abstain from smoking and chewing tobacco for six months. Although the offer went into effect only a few weeks ago, over 300 operatives are already disqualified from receiving the sovereign, and it is thought that only a small number will be able to hold out faithfully during the half-year.

The government reports show that fn the last five years Germany's foreign trade has increased something like ten per cent, in imports, and exports show an even larger increase, especially in nufactured goods. A study of Germany's commercial relations with foreign countries shows that the trade with the United States is largest. Germany's exports to the United States have increased from $99,616,732 in 1901 to $114,-495,502 in 1902

In a letter to the New York Herald got away, first and last, with over $60,-000,000 of New York's money. "It must not be forgotten, however," he continues. "that some gain to the city was derived from Tweed, as he was really the creator of Central Park and sagaclously chose the opportune moment to secure the entire property for that purpose at a nominal price, which would have been impossible at a later period."

A thrifty Parisian has hit upon a new scheme of safety deposit. A visit was made to a police station in the Faubourg Montmartre by a M. Samuel V., who came to claim a parcel of jewels which he had lost a month previously, valued at 300,000 francs. The Commissary consulted his register. M. V.'s fewels had been found and taken to the station by M. Leon D. "It is very curious," said an employe, "these same jewels were lost on the same date last year and brought here by a M. Leon D., and claimed a month afterward by M. Samuel V." "It is very curious-too curious!" said the Commissary. "Explain this strange coincidence." After a slight hesitation M. Samuel V. explained that, being afraid of burglars while away for a month's holiday, he thought it would be difficult to find a more secure place to put them.

The Austrian Emperor's private life is characterized by soldier-like simplicity, says a writer in the Westminster Gazette. He is an early riser, a hard worker, and seldom attends theaters or other places of amusement. Shooting and hunting are still his principal recreations, and this doubtless accounts for the excellent health which he continues to enjoy. All who approach him on matters of business admire his inexhaustible patience and perfect good humor, his frankness and strict regard for truth, together with his marvellous memory and facility in grasping details. In money matters the Emperor's liberality is princely, and his munificence, especially where the poor are concerned, is proverbial. It may not be so well known that he is an excellent draftsman, and in his younger days was a prolific carlcaturist. The Emperor is also fond of building. He has created and supported a whole school of architects, and such things as the magnificent boulevard of the Austrian capital and some of the additions to the palaces in Vienna and Budapest will worthily preserve his name in this regard.

"The man behind the gun" in the United States navy is as popular as ever, but he isn't numerous enough the grade of enlisted men in the navy and recruits come in slowly. > This seems to be a rather feeble device, but perhaps it will do some good, When you come to think of it, it is quite a chore to make a life on the ocean wave attractive to those who don't like it or want it.

AT LAST. At last the agony is over, and all the people, including Sir Thomas, will heave a sigh of relief. Yesterday the time limit didn't win. The Reliance did, and the Shamrock was more hopelessly behind than usual. She didn't even finish.

In all the contests for the cup there has never been so complete and discouraging a failure as that made by the Shamrock. All that money and British skill could do were done for her. She came over with high hope. Not a few in this country became infected with the idea that she was dangerous. Now she is almost ridiculous, or would be if it were polite to speak so of the hard work and much money which she has cost Sir Thomas.

We suppose that by and by there will be another attempt to lift the cup that has so long been unlifted. But nobody is in any hurry for another "contest." This one has been so dull and uninteresting that it will take some time and new effort to get up another excitement But hope springs eternal, and somebody will sooner or later get the notion that the cup is movable. And perhaps the very next time it will be. Also perhaps it wont.

NOT EVER THE SAME.

There is some gentle excitement be cause Brother Bryan seems to be capable of changing his mind just a little. This capability appears in his announcement that he will support John H. Clarke of Ohio for the next United States senatorship in that State. Mr. Clarke is a Democrat who voted for McKinley in 1896 on account of his hos-Henry Clews says that the Tweed gang tility to the free silver idea, and has never changed his position on the money question. Mr. Bryan explains how he can bring himself to support a gold Democrat. He says that Mr. Clarke is with the masses in the great battle now going on with organized wealth; that he favors an income tax, and that he will probably be all right on the money question as soon as he understands it a little better.

What next? - If Brother Bryan can support Mr. Clarke why can't he support almost any Democrat? Why, for instance, can't he support Mr. Cleveland? The Hartford Times puts the case thus: It is true that he has recently stigmatized Mr. Cleveland as a bunco steerer, but perhaps that was only a sort of exclamation point of Bryanite rhetoric, and it may be that we shall soon hear Mr. Bryan saying nice things about the ex-president, and telling what a good Democrat he will be as soon as he understands public affairs a little beiter. It will be remembered that Mr. Cleveland favored an income tax at the time of his last election, and approved the law establishing it, which law was soon upset by the United States Supreme court.

Watch for the next step of Brother Bryan toward common sense and practical politics. Perhaps he will yet consent to run for vice-president with Cleveland at the head of the ticket. That would be a strong combination.

SOME WATER POWER WAITING. The water power of the world is-only just beginning to be utilized. Cassier's Magazine points out that in South America, where coal is wanting, the rivers which flow down the western slopes of the Andes will form a fruitful source of power. In Argentina a beginning has already been made at Cordova. Many of the rivers from the Andes are now absorbed in the arid deserts of the western pampas, and their regulation will serve the double purpose of irrigation and power. Brazil has one grand fall, that of Paulo Alfonso, 147 miles from the sea on the Rio San Francisco, which is navigable to the fall. By some who have seen both, this fall is regarded as a finer sight than Niagara. Africa, with its four great rivers and notable waterfalls, has a vast amount of water power in store for the future. Notwith. standing the requirements, of irrigation, some water should be available for

"The Man I Knew I Killed." Being the Bloody Reminiscence of Valorous Hart of Mosquito Croek,

Valorous Hart of Mosquito Creek
Was the next old soldler asked to speak.
He did good work in '61.
Both in charge and 'on the run,'
And we settled back to hear him tell
His reasons for thinking 'War is Hell.'

Dear comrades of Bell-Harman Post, and ladles of the Corps,
I thank you for the lavite and I'm proud to take the floor.
I was thinking as I set here of the battles that I've fought,
Of the suffrin' and the slaughter, and the sudden awful thought
Came across me that I'd taken very likely scores of lives—
Taken fathers from their children, taken husbands from their wives.
While mad with heat of battle I was pumping reeking lend,
Not knowing, no, not caring, where the bullet found its bed.
Now people they will ask us if we really, truly know,
For a fact, that while a fightin' we have ever killed a foe.
But it's rare you find a soldier who has seen, in heat of strife.
That the builet he had fired was the one to take a life.
Now, to-night I'm going to tell you, though I hat to, boys, I swan,
That I know I done my murder; that I know

I hate to, boys, I swan, That I know I done my murder; that I know I've killed my man.

Twas when we got our rapping at the fight of Hatcher's Run; I was running hard as any; yes, I threw of Hatcher's Run;

I was running hard as any; yes, I threw away my gun

And the rest of my equipment, and proceeded, friends, to steer.

Just as fast as legs would help me for protection at the rear.

I was quite a nervy sprinter—bont as swift as you will find.

But I couldn't shake that Johnny who came slammin' on belind;

For he had the Georgy straddle and was sort of razor-edged,
And if nothing special busted, I was spoke for, so I jedged.

He was hanglug to his riffe, but he didn't try to shoot;

He see he had me solid, but I gave the blame galoot
A standard mile or sech-like, and had druv him "in the list."

When I stepped upon a stubble, fell and give my leg a twist.
And the tumble sort of stunned me, so I laid there quite a spell,

Expectin' that he'd grab me—just a harkin' there quite a spell, Expectin' that he'd grab me—just a harkin'
for his yell.
But things stayed calm and quiet, so I pecked; he laid there sprawled
'Bout a dozen yards behind me, and he looked so queer I crawled
Slowly buck to reconnotire; got where I Slowly back to reconnoitre; got where I could see his head, Saw his face was black's a stovepipe—apoplexy; he was dead.

And I stood and wept above him, stirred, dear comrades, to the peth
With the awful, awful pity for that man
I'd run to death!
And my conselence always related we are my conscience always pricked me, and my heart with grief is filled, there sin't no question, comrades. And there ain't no question, comrades there's a man I know I killed. —From the New Yorker.

SAM PARKS.

The Story of the Walking Delegate-Brave and Virile-All Feared His Fist. Sam Parks is 39 years old. He was an illiterate Irish boy of 20 or there-abouts when he came to America, big, strong, brave, and with much of the magnetism which has since made him such an idol with his followers. Parks drifted out West as a tramp, almost, and wound up in the lumber country, where men fight their way to the front with their fists backed by their courage. In such an enivornment Parks was bound to forge ahead. His fame as a slugger still lives in the lumber camps of Canada and Minnesota, and all through the power at Assuan, on the Nile. Above Northwest to say that a man fights like

Parks dissipated. He wearled of one section after another, and led parties of the trade of an ironworker simply bewill soon be accessible by rail. Its cause he happend to run into a camp of work is dangerous, they drink heavily they live on the ground most of the time and they fight. Parks could fight. when he worked. He was a good ironworker, and the bridge builders who worked with him, say that he was the

Ten years ago Parks drifted into Chicago and went to work quietly at his trade. He joined the union and became more or less prominent in it, but reservoir, which was made for irriga- was hardly a leader. He went to Louisville, where he worked on the bridge over the Ohio River. When the bridge collapsed and carried some 40 men to death in the river, Parks and his then friend, but now bitter enemy, President Buchanan of the Interntional Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, were on it, but managed to save themselves. Parks went back to Chicago and seven years ago came to New York. He was a stranger here. He found 11 different unions of ironworkers. He joined as many of them as he could and then proceeded to consolidate them all. He accomplished this mighty task in the end, as New York knows to its cost. When he joined his first union in New York, Parks borrowed ten cents from Judge McConnell, the president of the Fuller Construction company, to ride uptown to the meeting hall. With all the unions merged into one, Parks became a dictator. He encountered rival after rival, but thrust all aside. His favorite weapons were his fists. the salary of a walking delegate Parks lived in a fine apartment house, wore diamonds on his fingers and in his shirtfront, paid $1,000 for a sealskin overcoat, rode to the meetings of his unions in a cab and kept a bank account of $35,000. Parks' influence is said to lie in the fact that he has forced employers to pay iron workers $3 a day more than they got before he came to New York. The extra pay that the men have made, however does not nearly make up in some instances for the loss they have sustained in wages because of the strikes constantly ordered and maintained by Parks.

In Canada Parks drank whiskey, in Chicago he was a beer drinker. In New York Parks drank champagne, and boasted that he made a practice of buying two quarts to every one that any other man bought.

BLUES WIN FROM WHALERS IN THE FIRST INNING.

Trumbuli's Good Work-Two Double Plays by the Local Team-Details of First Inning-Results of Other Games -Norwich Here on Saturday in

The first inning told the story of the baseball game at Savin Rock, yesterday, between the Blues and the Whalers. After the initial inning, the visitors outplayed the Champions, but not to a sufficient degree to pull out a victory. Several times the New London team had men on bases and things looked dublous for the New Haveners. Trum-bull, Manager Canavan's Litchfield was in the box for the home team and his good work accounted in large measure for the team's victory.

New London excelled in the field and at the bat after the first inning. Mc-Laughlin had a shade the better of the pitching as he struck out four men to Trumbull's three and allowed the Blues but four hits as against seven made off

In the opening of the game the New London team started the ball rolling by Fallon hitting the first ball pitched for two bases, Murphy was thrown out at Hackett and O'Neil. first and then Fallon scored on a single

BRIDGEPORT 5, MERIDEN 2. Meriden, Sept. 3.—Although Rogers outpitched Waller to-day he lost his own game to Bridgeport in the third inning by giving two bases on balls and two wild throws which combined with two hits scored the visitors five runs. Outside this inning he was invincible and gave the visitors but one hit. Waller had good control throughout, especially with men on bases. Meriden had eleven men left on bases. Score by Firemen's Parade Feature of Old Home Week-Yesterday's Races.

Old Home Week in Bridgeport reached its height yesterday when the grand firemen's parade was held, it being decidedly the best parade of its kind ever held in Connecticut. Ever since early morning people were pouring into the city by special trains, boats and trolley cars, and it is safe to estimate the normal population of 82,000 was more than doubled. The fine weather prevailing secured for Bridgeport every one of the sixty fire companies expected, so that the parade was an assured success by noontime.

Colonel M. H. Rogers, the grand marshal, had sixty fire companies in line ging of the Corsair and the whistles of when he gave the word to advance at 1:30. Each company appearing in line wore an attractive uniform from the red shirts and dark trousers of some of the the missing Shamrock. Then the Reliance, heeling low before the wind, her sails bellying hard and her lee rails dragging up the spindrift, burst through the veil of fog and upon the startled vision of the expectant watchers on the little fleet. Hardly had they recognized the familiar features of the American craft when, with her great balloon ilb topsail fluttering into the arms of the nimble members of her crew out on her bowsprit she fled across the line down through the lane of yachts to victory. The whistles of every craft in the flee opened wide in recognition of her achievements. The delighted yachtsmen danced about the deck of J. OH! THE BACHELOR GIRL The life of the bachelor girl in great city is the most interesting of all

It is a new type, for until within a very few years the bachelor girl was unknown. If a girl was sent out into the great world to earn her living she chose a boarding house as her home, or, more usually still, she went into the home of a friend, there to lead out a tame, gray existence until too old to work, or until rescued by marriage-In those days "old maid" was the term for the bachelor girl, and very soon she looked the part. She aged very young, and at thirty she was too appearance to be attractive while at thirty-five she was so old that she occupied a seat along the wall as a wall flower, glong with the grandmothers and the very ancient maiden aunts.

But to-day there is a new kind of old maid—the bachelor girl. And she is not an old maid at all. She is a young maid, no matter what may be her age. And she is attractive into the forties and into the fifties, for as long as she remains a bachelor girl there is a fasci-

The bachelor girl, who is supposed, by the way, to be very masculine or nondomestic in her taste, is really the most domestic woman in the world. She loves her home. And as soon as she gets into the life of a big city she looks around to find a home; and if she does not espy one ready made she makes one or herself. The bachelor girl is a flat, which whether it be large or small, she calls, by courtesy, an apartment. It is sometimes one of many in a large building, and the girl settles down to live her own life in a great structure which holds many lives, all united in little bunches called families. But the bachelor girl has no family.

It is that which makes her a bachelor girl and which also makes her position peculiar. She lives alone, and her companion, at most, is a canary or a household pet, for seldom does the bachelor girl keep a maid.

The bachelor girl, if she be a professional woman, and usually she is, so arranges her flat that she can do her own work. In the morning the butcher the baker and all the other home makers call and get their orders, and the bachelor girl hurries away to her professional duties.

Her noonday meal she takes at some restaurant; and possibly her dinner, too, on busy nights. But, as a rule, six o'clock finds her at home, ready to get out her little dining table and put forth the feast of dinner.

And this brings the bachelor girl to the first of her day's lessons in eti-Practically every company brought a to north of the line. Captain Wringe quette. The bachelor girl, it will be seen, has abundant opportunity for doing the wrong thing, even as she has abundant opportunity for doing the right thing And she must make no mistake, She must possess always that name ess charm called "manner." She must know how to receive peo-

She must have the gift of light conversation. She must have tact, presence of mind and the ability to say the right thing at the right time. These are the personal qualities of the bachelor girl if she is to be the popular girl, the attractive girl. In addition to these she must have a home in which to entertain; and this must be sufficiently large to afford a parlor or recention home. It must be furnished so that it appeals o good taste. A washstand, only partly concealed, a bed couch which as if it were always open, a table which suggests a constant line of cookeryone of these things are admissible in the reception room of a bachelor girl.

Yet it may be cosy. There is the pot f palms and there are small fancy articles, the candlesticks, the fans and the

In the bachelor girl's parlor there may, with the utmost propriety, be the chafing dish equipment; and over its oubbling mysteries the bachelor bends in the evening at one of the little frolics which is sure to creep into her ife. In her parlor there is, the cosy corner, and into this the bach-elor girl may bring her souvenirs. And if she be a bachelor girl of the pro-nounced type her room will contain not one, but four corners, all cosy. If a bachelor girl can afford to keep a maid her task of entertaining is much simplified, for she has some one to open the door, bring in the tea and serve dinner. But even without the maid she can give her little 5 o'clock teas by having her table set beforehand. From a clock tea standard will hang the teakettle giving forth its cheering fumes or over an alcohol lamp the kettle wil bubble ready for the 4 o'clock coffee which is coming to take the place of the o'clock tea. The tea table must be set beforehand and concealed by a screen, so that when the caller comes the bachelor girl has only to remove the screen, and there will stand the table with its equipment of dishes. The proper settings for the 5 o'clock tea table are slices of bread, all but tered and either laid flat in sandwich fashion or rolled, and small sweet cakes. It is not actually necessary that anythe bachelor girl can easily prepare the little tea table, set the kettle and conceal all with a small screen, which is drawn only part way across the table to await the advent of the chance

The afternoon tea is the prettiest form of entertainment for the bachelor girl. It is so simple, so informal, so thoroughly indicative of good spirit and good fellowship that it is deservedly the most popular way of entertaining for the single woman.

When the caller arrives and is seated the maid brings in the tray. If there is no maid the bachelor girl may remove the screen and either draw up the table or ask the caller to take a seat by its Here he may assist at the tea pouring, and, together, the gentleman caller and the bachelor girl may enjoy a

The 5 o'clock tea caller is expected to leave before 6, and when he rises to go the bachelor girl rises also. It is etiquette, when a caller goes, to shake hands with him, and the bachelor girl makes the first move by extending her hand. If she does not do this her caller simply bows and departs. The bachelor girl must not help a man on with his overcoat, for it is not good form ever to do this. She must not hand him his hat or otherwise assist him with his belongings, cane or umbrella. He is supposed to take care of these himself and it is the worst of poor taste to aid him. When taking leave the caller may ask if he may call again. But it is taken for granted that he may drop in any afternoon, for a 5 o'clock tea invitation, once extended, is a permanent one and need not be repeated each time. Or. if she so desires, and if she feels that the invitation has not been general enough, the girl bachelor may ask him to come again or make some remark to the effect that she is always at home at five o'clock.

The bachelor girl who keeps house in a little flat is allowed certain leeway which is not extended to a young girl in high society.

She can receive callers alone in her flat without a chaperon. She can come and go at all hours the night without question. She can—and often must—perform her own household tasks, "doing her own work," from the setting of her table and the washing ofthe dishes to the scrubbing of the floor.

"All of these things the bachelor girl can do without losing her place in socicould be secured. The hall has been secured, and the occasion of the birth of the great Swedish inventor will be observed with a public entertainment in the hall Thursday evening, September 12. Governor Chamberlain has been into be present. An invitation has been extended to Congressman N. D. Sperry of New Haven to be present at the celebration, and it is thought he will accept. Congressman Sperry gave bonds for the inventor, when he built his first monitor. The speakers at the celebration will be Hon. M. S. Chapman, Dr Ludwig Holmes of Portland, and Judge Olin R. Wood. Jude Wood will deliver the eulogy. There will be music, interspersed through the programme by the Swedish quartette from New Britain, in which Dr. Joshua Larson, David Ohman, John Ericsson, and Alex Bergeron There will be violin selections by Professor Peterson of Hartford and piano selections by local musicians.

Who Makes the Money? The Man Who Keeps in Touch 3

Do you know that the losses in the Industrial and Raffroad stocks in the past few months would pay the national debt? You do not hear of any failure of this magnitude occurring in Gold Mining, do you? Panics, labor strikes or any other calamity can never bother the gold mine. Why? Because they produce money. Get wise and buy a good gold mining stock such as I have placed before the New Haven public. They furnish money to run the government. We sell stock in producing mines that hold up through all hard times and increases in value every day you

Do not take 3 per cent. when you can make 12 per cent. Now is the time to invest your savings in mining stocks.

L. L. SAWYER ON NOME.

The Colonel Has Had Enough of Piercing Cold Weather.

The Meriden Journal of September : has the following in reference to L. L. Sawyer, who is pleasantly remembered by quite a number of old friends in New Haven:

Colonel Ludovic L. Sawyer, whose reelection last spring as a member of the school board in Nome, Alaska, was duly married to George Lyman Dickinson of chronicled in the Journal at the time Hartford, Miss Lovewell is well known the news first reached here, has written to a Meriden friend and the letter just received is highly characteristic of the old warhorse of democracy in his palmfest days as a resident of the Silver degree of Ph. D. she had made many City. That the colonel has had about enough of the hardships of the "hyperborean land" of Nome is quite evident from the tone of his epistle.

'I don't know," he says, "if I will be able to go out this next fall or not. Three winters are quite enough at my age up here, and no change. My serious sickness last spring admonished us to make a change.

There are times in winter-the blizzard times-when the thermometer tells a story of intense cold. But, if shelterwith supplies and fuel, and not obliged to be out in the intense cold and caught in a blizzard we have to stand it and make the best of it. I was caught out and badly frozen last winter. Mrs. Sawyer got her face and nose skinned just going out for a few

"But the isolation is less bearable than the weather-to be shut out from the world and imprisoned in ice and snow, to have to wat for more than two months for the mail to come, and then get no letters. Why by the time mail reaches us in winter a man might make two trips around the earth. He might have taken the Lunar Limited express, traveling at the rate of thirty miles an hour and completed a trip to the moon.

"Yet there is a big store of gold locked up in these frozen hills. This generation will not see the mines exhausted. If I could get the hands of the clock Among the guests from out of town back ten years I would be assured of a 'pile'-a big poke of gold.

'We up here-where there is not a tree-all barren-long to be in the 'land Mrs. S. M. S. Warner and daughter, that is fairer than this.' When after being imprisoned — ice bound — eight Mrs. Lewis Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmonths, we see the ice go out from the liam H. Reed, and Mrs. Chapman, all beach to the Behring sea, we breathe a of Hartford; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rice, sigh of relief. For eight months we of Boston, Mrs. F. V. DeCosta and have looked out over the sea and real- daughter, Washington, D. C., Mrs. Lauized that the expanse of ice, stretching ra B. Lindsley, Roundout, N. V., Miss as far as vision reached, was the barrier that closed us in and shut us out from the balance of the world; and Hills, pupils of Miss Lovewell. to see the ice go makes on feel like a prisoner, whose fail door has been unbarred to admit him to lige and liberty." The colonel sent along a set of election tickets, such as used in Nome, and on this subject he had the following interesting comments:

"Voting is by secret ballot. There are no party political organizations. We do not know what our neighbors' national politics is and care less. There are no primaries-no nominations. Candidates by petition filed run for office. The seven getting the highest votes are elected to the common council and the three for the school directors.

"My friend, John C. Byxbee, the most shrewd politician ever in Connecticut and my tutor, couldn't hold a candle to me up here in the way we run an election. Every man is for himself and the d-l take the hindmost."

The election is described as the liveliest ever seen in Nome. A large vote was polled, 1,185, out of a registration of 1,266 and the Nome Nugget, in giving the result of the election, said: "All the candidates had teams on the streets to carry the free and independent voters to and from the polling places in the city jail."

A PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING.

At the Dwight Place church at o'clock yesterday Miss Bertha E. Lovewell, daughter of Dr. Joseph Taplin Lovewell, professor of chemistry in Washburn college, Topeka, Kan., was in New Haven, and in her post-graduate course at Yale university, when in 1898 the faculty conferred upon her the warm friends. Her special work was English literature, and for the past five years she has been a member of the English faculty at the Hartford High school. Mr. Dickinson is well and favorably known in Histford, and has been for years on the staff of the Hartford Courant. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William W. Leete, D. D., pastor of the church. William A Graham, city editor of the Hartford Courant, was best man. Miss Elizabeth principal of Washington Hodgdon, school, New Haven, maid of honor. The ushers were Harold B. Colton of Hartford and Frederick W. Campbell of New Haven. Winfield N. Abell, direc-

YESTERDAY'S STOCK MARKET

As Reported by Jacob Berry & Co. New York, Sept. 3 .- The market received a setback this morning on the unexpected announcement that the Bank of England had raised its rate of discount from 3 to 4 per cent. This was evident with the purpose of protecting the gold reserve in the British banks and it certainly makes imports here much less probable. All stocks were weak in London and the market responded very easily here. Trading was quiet and at the decline showed the same drift toward duliness that has been noted at such times as the market has fallen away of late. The government monthly report on cotton came out at noon and showed a decidedly better condition of the plant than had been expected. In response to this prices broke sharply. The day's satisfactory condition of the crop indicated a plentiful yield and the break in prices may relieve the congested condition of the cotton goods market and also increase our shipment abroad and make exchange in our favor. As to the outlook for our own bank statement at the end of the week indications are not favorable unless there is a decided reversal in the tendency of the loan ac-promptly halted after the market got started and there was quite liberal profit taking by yesterday's buyers. The decline was not far extended and only a few of the principal active stocks were depressed as much as a point. Erie was potably under pressure, the selling was supposed to be the unloading of some pool holdings taken on in anticipation of a rise in the price as a result of the favorable annual showing by the company.

The principal event of the day in the financial world was the advance in the Bank of England discount rate by a full 1 per cent. from 3 to 4 per cent. This is one of the customary measures to oppose an outward movement of gold. The advance is not unusual in the fall months, but is generally delayed later than this. But the drain upon the Bank of England gold supply has become so considerable as to suppest the interposing of some obstacles. Over $4,000,000 was taken from the bank to-day and of this $3,500,000 went to Germany, which is the principal source of the drain. The London market was decided depressed in consequence of the advance of the rate, the pirce of consols falling lower than during the Boer war. The depression reflected in New York from that source, however, was but slight and sales for London account were small. This may have been due to the fact that New York is likely to join in the demand on London for gold before long. Our foreign exchange market responded to the increased bank rate in London, but our money market was practically unaffected.

The heavy liquidation in the cotton market was due to the complete surprise at the condition of that crop reported by the agricultural department and this was naturally a favorable influence upon stocks. The effect, however, was scarcely perceptible. The continued firmness in the corn market attracted more notice. The slump in Colorado Fuel was the consequence of the passing of the dividend on the preferred stock and the heavy requirements for additional capital which are impending over the corporation. Met-ropolitan Street Railway reflected the continued unfavorable view of the significance of the turning back by the nderwriting syndicate managers their holdings of the stock to the dominant interests in the property. The market became practically stagnant late in the day and closed heavy about The bond market was very dull and irregular. Total sales par value, $1,060,-United States 2s advanced half and the new 4s 14 per cent. on the last call.

APPROPRIATE THE MONEY.

Board of Finance Vote to Give the Fire Commissioners an Additional $1,-072.28 for New Engine House.

A regular meeting of the hoard of finance was held in city hall last evening. The two newly appointed members, Robert H. Nesbit and W. F. Porter

Chairman Weil of the fire commission ers and Chief Fancher attended the meeting and asked the board to give them an additional appropriation of $1,-072.28 for the new Fourth ward engine house. The fire commissioners have a balance of $8,750 left from the original appropriation for this purpose and as the lowest bid for which the work could be done was $9,822.28 they could not award the bid until they had the money. The board voted unanimously to grant the request of the fire commissioners and work on the new building will be commenced at once. The director of public works asked that $500 be transferred from the new work on account to bridges, repairs, planking, etc. This was granted. The money will be used to repair some of the bridges about the city. A new bill was presented to the board last evening. It was from Probation Officer Sherwood O. Preston. He applied for thirty-six day's pay at $3 a day. He also asked for $5 as money which he had expended for the case of some of the children. It was voted to refer the bill to the corporation coun sel as there has never been any appropriation made for this matter. The regular weekly pay roll was signed, after which the board adjourned.

Meriden Silver Thief Prominent at Time of Townsend Bank Robbery. John H. Booth, arrested by Detective Donnelly last week for Meriden silver thefts, was a prominent figure at the lime of the famous Townsend bank robbery in this city in 1864. Booth was intrusted with a package containing $6,000 of the stolen money by Jeremiah Townsend, who walked off with 190,000 of the funds of the bank. The police had him for a number of days, but he refused to give any information in regard to Townsend. Through a slip made by his tongue when he was drunk the hiding place of the money was revealed.

Townsend was caught afterward in Scotland and served seven years in prison, then going west. He had been riendly with Booth's sister and the $6,-00 was intended for her.

the last two weeks.

It is only in serious emergencies that the family in average circumstances can afford to send for a doctor. The family newspaper, through its advertising columns, takes the doctor's place, and informs its readers of meritorious articles for the cure of common aliments. It was in this way, for example, that Cascarets, Candy Cathartic, the well known medicine for stomach and bowel troubles, were introduced into millions of families, and, through newspaper advertising, built up a sale of over a million boxes a month.
