ENGINEER'S DARING CHANCE

DASHES BY DANGER SIGNAL TO AVOID HOLD-UP.

Saw in Awkward Swing of a Lanternite Stop His Train the Work of a Novice-Suspecting Train Robbers He Opens Throttle of His Engine and Flies by-Trying Moment for Engineer Boss of the Consolidated.

Woonsocket, R. I., Sept. 25.-Because the trained eye of Engineer George W. Boss recognized in the awkward swing of a lantern the work of a novice, he pulled the throttle wide open and drove his train thundering by a danger signal set dead against him and frustrated what is believed to have been an attempt to hold up the boat train at Flumer's Ledge, a lonely spot a mile north of Whitens Station on the New York, New Haven & Hartford road last Four cars full of passengers uncon scious of peril met and avoided were landed safely in Providence and the engineer who had assumed an awful responsibility repaired to the office of Superintendent R. H. Whaley to report that he had matched his judgment against the iron-clad orders of the road's and won.

That there was a deliberate attempt by ten men to hold up the train there is little doubt but little was known of the matter until to-night, when the presence of Deputy Sheriff E. O. Bacon of Bridge was noted in the engineer cab of the same train. Deputy Sheriff Bacon was called into the case by Superintendent Whaley, and to-night fully armed took his place by the side of the engineer and accompanied the train from Worcester to Providence. He will ride on the engine again to-morrow night and meantime the police officials are scouring this section of the state in an effort to round up the gang described by the engineer.

The boat train drew out of Worcester at 6:10 last night and was due in Providence at 7:25. It had reached a point within an eighth of a mile of Plumer's Ledge, where Engineer Boss saw a green signal light indicating a clear Suddenly the light changed to red and the engineer closed the throttle and set the air brakes. As he did so a lantern was swung across the track but not in the easy manner acquired by experienced train men and it flashed across Boss' mind that the man who gave the signal was not a man who would stop the train for any good purpose. For a second he hesitated, balancing in his mind the chances of wrecking his train if he went on and the probability of its passengers being robbed and perhaps killed if he brought it to a standstill. As far as he could see an unobstructed track lay before him. Another second and his mind was made up, the throttle pulled wide open and the train rushed by the danger signal Leaning out of his cab Engineer Boss saw the man with the lantern jump from the track, two other men standing on the ladder leading to the stationary light and tampering with the signal while at distances of a few feet from each other seven other men lined the roadbed.

Immediately on reaching Providence he reported the matter to Superintendent Whaley, who took the affair very serious, at once starting an investigation and later giving Deputy Sheriff Bacon charge of the case.

The boat train is followed a few minutes later by an express and mail train, which was confused with the boat The recent lawlessness in this section including the recent and successful hold up of the paymaster of the Saranac mills, is believed to have encouraged more desperate measures on the part of dangerous characters.

Sir Christopher Furness is the head of Furness, Witting & Co. and the Furness line of tseamers, Hartlepool. He is thought that there must have been is a ship owner, ship builder and engine builder.

Although this condition is manifest in many lines, it is most clearly seen in fect of labor's exactions.

Nevertheless Mr. Schwab declares that there is no reason to expect industrial stagnation. The closing down of a mill here and there and the uncertainties that exist in the building trade, be says, do not indicate a deepseated condition that will mean an important slackening of the industry of

Mr. Schwab, as a question was propounded to him. "Why, I am an optimist. Wall street does not reflect the ndustrial situation. I do not feel competent to pass on the causes for the Wall street depression. I am in the steel business. But I do know that they cannot and will not directly affect the industry of the country. It is true that there is a temporary diminution of the great volume of business that we have been doing, but that does not mean stagnation. "Labor's exorbitant demands have done more than any other one thing to bring about this setback. This is especially true of the building trade. Of course, too, capital is not so free as it

UNITED STATS COURT.

The jury of the United States circuit court has been summoned for a session of the court which will be held beginning on Tuesday next to hear the cases that were unfinished at the April term of this court. This jury was drawn to try cases on the calendar at the term of the court last April, but when it came in the cases were not ready for trial and all went over. The holding over of a jury, in the United States circuit court and in fact in the state courts for such a lengthy period is an unusual experience. The April jury would have finished its labors earlier but for the reason that many of the persons interested in the cases to be tried before the belated jury session are as follows: Brown, Riley & Co. vs. Franklin Farrell; Thomas J. Finney vs. Greenwich Insurance company.

The trial of the Empire Milling & Milling Co. is down on the calendar for October 6 before a jury. It is intended to dispose of all the business now on the April calendar before the October jury comes in which will be on the second Tuesday of the next month, at Hartford.

A gift unique and valuable. The proeramme of exercises is not yet completed, but will in a few days be given to the public who are invited to attend. The house is a fine example of the Connecticut Colonial style of architecture, and is in good condition. The paper on the walls of one room was brought from Paris by Judge Ellsworth. In this house lived and died one of our most distinguished statesmen. Born in Windsor in 1745, in 1774 when only thirty-two years old he was chosen a nember of the Continental congress. In 1787 he was one of the convention that framed the fedelal constitution. In 1796 was appointed by Washington chief justice of the United States supreme court. In 1799 was sent by Washington as envoy extraordinary to France. On his return, as he said, "to the best town in the best state in the best country in the world" he became chief justice of the state. He died at Windsor

The home of such a patriot and statesman will always be an object of interest, and the Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution congratulate themselves that they are counted worthy to be the recipient of the gift. It is greatly desired that the house be furnished with articles of Revolutionary date. Anyone who has a piece of furniture, china, glass or silver for which they desire a permanent and safe place of deposit can find it in the Ellsworth house that will always be open to the public, but will be in charge of custodians residing on the place. Attorney Newton was unable to be present, but a paper prepared by him was read by attorney Harrison Hewitt.

Among other things Attorney Newton writes:: "The picture which met my eyes upon first opening the door of Judge Hollister's office thirty years ago remains distinctly in my memory. A large open Franklin stove, the great pile of wood beside it, the brightly bluzing sticks upon the old-fashioned andirons seemed to typify the man beside them who gave his plensant greeting. And such he was always found, genial, kindly, honest, friendly and truette sort of man who says: 'My fire is my friend.'" MR. BEACH AGAIN HONORED.

Previous to acting on the death of Judge Hollister in the county building yesterday the members of the New Haven county bar held their annual business meeting. Officers were elcted, reports of the banquet held ast winter were made, and, mixed with his, the members poked fun at each other. John K. Beach presided. He was unantnously re-elected to the presidency, and in he same manner State Attorney William H. Williams was again chosen vice president. There are no other officers, voted to be spread upon the records of the court.

Attorney Mansfield presented the resolutions in behalf of the committee, and after reading them, concluded with a character sketch of the dead judge. He told his fine character and said it was remarkable that a man should keep the same office sixty-one years, live in the same house for fifty years, and serve as warden of his church parish for a like period, as Judge Hollister did. Mr. Hollister read an admirable pen sketch of Judge Hollister by former Judge L. E. Munson.

Judge Munson followed with a speech in which he stated he now stood practically alone in the county bar, there being only four lawyers in the county who have been practicing longer. They are ex-Congressman Kellogg and Mr. Kingsbury of Waterbury, United States Senator Platt of Meriden and W. E. Downes.

The resolutions adopted concluded as follows:

The slow development of electric car lines in Germany doesn't furnish a very strong argument for public ownership of public utilities. The total mileage is now 2,117. The explanation of this backwardness in getting transportation in so up-to-date a country is government ownership of the steam railroads and the consequent unwillingness of the authorities to grant franchises which would mean competition with the public

There is great plenty of unglance. Every article should be preceded by a brief resume and the frequent use of diagrams is advocated.

A POISON BILL FOR INDIA.

The British government, after long hesitation, has at last adopted a poison bill for India. Heretofore the only restrictions upon the sale of poisons in that country have been an old Bombay act of 1866, which owing to defects is practically inoperative, and an act of tions of the missionary chaplain as to the northwestern provinces and Oudh municipalities which is also almost a dead letter. Poisons of all kinds can fered to hang himself out of hand to be obtained easily in India, and are used get there. This sporting offer was not without let or hindrance. The man then ly employed for homicidal purposes, should be procurable in unlimited quantities in every part of India. The official reason for the absence of previous legislation is, "that since plants from which vegetable poisons can be extracted grow all over the country, and are readily accessible, any restriction on the sale and possession of mineral poisons might result in inducing criminals to have recourse to the more subtle and less easily detected vegetable poisons, which could in no case be placed beyond their reach." He now spends most of his time carrying into them such foods as will keep, that may not go hungry in the winter. A few days ago I called and he was out, but on the big root near his door a large heap of chopped apples, of which had been cut so recently that I determined to sit down and wait Five minutes passed, and then came a pattering of small feet in the leaves, home romped my chipmunk, his bob tail in the air, and a small, yellow apple in his mouth. He sat up on the root, and attacked the apple with his teeth. Piece after piece he bit off and dropped to the ground to swell the pile already there, but when he reached the core he did not go so fast. The seeds were what he was after, and these he deliberately stuffed into his cheek pouches until he had them all, and then he whisked into the burrow to add them to his winter store. Seeds of grasses, toe, he harvests at this time, as well as wheat and other grains. Later he will carry in nuts of various kinds, filling his cheek pounches so full that his face can scarcely be recognized. Like other chipmunks, he probbably aims at storing no particular amount of food; he will simply keep at it until the weather becomes too cold for his comfort. Then he will stop and retire to his bur row, to appear again on warm days during the Indian summer. But when the cold weather sets in to stay be will go inside, plug the Mouth of the burrow with soil and leaves, and we shall see nothing of him until the latter part of February or the early part of March, when the first warm days will probably induce him to come out for a breath of fresh air and a touch of sunlight on the see side of a stamp or a stone wall. IS THE BRIDGE SAFE?

Consider the Tomlinson Structure. The committee on railroads and bridges of the board of aldermen held a public hearing in city hall last evening in reference to the petition of the Manufacturers' Railroad company to be allowed to run their cars over the Tomlinson bridge. This is the second hearing which the committee has held on this subject, and since the last hearing the committee went to the bridge and made a personal investigation, so that they were thoroughly familiar with the situation last evening.

FOR FREE BATH HOUSE.

Committee Hold Public Hearing or

This Subject. The committee on ordinances held meeting in city hall last evening for the consideration of rules to govern the public bath house on St. John street, and also to consider the matter of charging of five cent fee to the bathers. The first speaker was Anthony Carroll, who spoke in favor of having the bath houses free.

Joseph Manning next spoke and said that one of the reasons for the establishment of the bath house was to get the foreign element to wash themselves and by charging anything for this purpose would be defeated. He thought that every one should be given a fair chance, C. A. Rich then spoke and said that as the bath house had been started as an experiment it should not be hindered by having a fee charged. Charles Camp, the next speaker, said hat he did not think that a tax should e placed on cleanliness.

Alderman Charles C. Spreyer, who is on the committee, spoke and said that the duty of the committee was only to draw up general rules and that the specific part would be done by the board

Ex-Alderman Trueman took the floor and made a strong speech urging the necessity of having it a free bath house. The committee then went into executive session, but said that nothing definite had been decided upon, and that an executive session of the committee would be held next Friday night to give the matter further consideration.

It was stated last evening after the meeting that two of the committee favfree baths, two others were against them, and Alderman Spreyer refused to dissolve the tie.

horror and indignation, and fully unerstands the desire to give expression in public meeting to the sentiment of reprobation which recent events have justified. Mr. Balfour theh proceeds to analyze the situation. He says:

"We have not now to deal with simple case of misgovernment and of oppression by Turkish officials, but with a problem complicated by the fact that the Christian population of Macedonia is rent in fragments by differences of race, aggravated by differences of religion, and, in addition to the ills inflicted by a corrupt and incapable ad-ministration and by an ill-paid and undisciplined soldiery and by a detestable system of taxation we have to reckon with all the ills which in a population not imbued with western ideas of humanity, rival nationalities and sects do no scruple to inflict on one another." Mr. Balfour adds: "The instrument whereby the situation may be dealt with is the concert of Europe. But this, even were they all in harmony, is necessarily slow and may easily be ineffective if the problem is complex. "It was a matter of congratulation when Russia and Austria, acting with the authority of Europe, proposed to press the scheme of reforms which, while lacking in theoretical perfection, came within the circuit of practical politics and would, if more earnestly pressed by the porte and more frankly accepted by the Macedonian population, have spared the world the horrors it has since witnessed. Neither of these conditions were fulfilled. The porte, as usual, was dilatory and failed to see that a policy of humanity was a policy of wisdom. The revolutionists have de liberately done their best to drive the Turk to excesses and furnish him with an excuse for deferring the execution of reforms, meeting horrors with horrors and brutality with brutality, for the deliberate purpose of driving the Turk to crimes against the innocent, and thus lay upon the sympathies of the world. "Such methods as these are no more norally tolerable than the misgovernment which is their excuse."

Coming to the question of the attitude of Great Britain, Mr. Balfour points out that Russia, Austria and Turkey cannot be indifferent to a territorial redistribution in the peninsula, while Greece, Bulgaria, Servia, and Roumania are all interested in the fate of the province whose Christian population is made up from all the nationalities. These external complications are doubled by internal ones, because religious differences, the Mohammedans fearing Christian rule while the exarchists and Christians persecute the patriarchists. The Greeks, who are patriarchists would sooner find protection under the rule of the sultan than be lest to fight the matter out with the Bulgarians, who are exarchists, "It is with a problem such as this that ne has to deal," says Mr. Balfour, "and cannot but believe that the best hope of dealing with it lies in the continued co-operation of Russia and Austria, strengthened with the support and aided by the advice of the other signatories of the treaty of Berlin,"

These countries possess, Mr. Balfour asserts, incomparable influence over the antagonistic forces in the peninsula. In fact, no other nation or group of nations could do it at all if Russia and Austria were hostile. Great Britain was not precluded by the policy outlined from offering suggestions, which had already been done and she will continue to do so. But, it would be folly to forget that there are occasions when the powers are stronger than three, and that an addition to the number carries a diminution of efficiency.

These principles, concludes Mr. Balour, direct the policy of the British government in the Near East and he has no doubt that they are in accordance with British interests and in obedlence to them lies the best hope of improving the condition of the Macedonians and the security of European

WALLINGFORD.

There was quite a little criticism heard last evening over the moonlight schedule plan practiced on the street electric lighting. The small part of a moon, which promises to be bigger in a few nights, was discernable in the southwest, preparing to set, but there was no sign of an electric light on the streets, and, outside of where the streets were lighted by the illumination from one o'clock at night until sunrise in the morning. Yet it was called moonlight, and economical plan of saving a half bushel of coal or less was adopted and the residents who happen to live on some streets where the stores and saloons, with their brilliant lights inside, do not abound have to feel their way along the streets until the little on goes to rest and the electricity is turned on. It seems to be the general pinion that the moonlight schedule plan is at times carried too far. The street lights were turned on at just three minutes of eight, after at least an hour and a half of darkness, as the moon was not much more brilliant than the comet which was in the heavens a short time ago, but was seen by only a few. The borough's electric light plant is all right and appreciated, but for heaven's sake do not try and do too

The executive committee of the Spanheld a meeting in the city hall last evening to complete plans. All the minor details have now been arranged and everything indicates a most successful convention.

It was stated last evening that Monday, the day of the parade, a number of the shops had signified their intentions of giving the men a half holiday, and it is earnestly hoped by the committee tha: all show owners who can conveniently do so will do likewise.

It was voted that all bills should be approved by a committee of three consisting of Postmaster Howarth, B. F. English and Colonel Post, before being paid by the treasurer.

A committee of three, consisting of Mayor Studley, Thomas I. Kinney and Alderman Montgomery, should meet the governor at the depot on his arrival in this city and escort him to the city hall. General Ford, president of the Quinniplack club, extended an invitation to all visiting delegates to visit that club during their stay in this city. It was stated that the general orders for the parade would be issued sometime to-

It was stated that Congressman N. D. Sperry would be one of the speakers at the banquet at the Tontine hotel. Also that Professor Lounsbury would speak in place of Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, , who could not attend. General A. H. Embler arrived at the Tontine hotel last evening and will also speak at the banquet. Colonel N. G. Osborn will act as toastmaster.

Word was received by the committee yesterday that Mrs. Anita McGee, president of the Spanish War Veterans' Nurses, that she would come to this city to take part in the parade accompanied by at least fifty nurses. They will be in full uniform and will likely ride in 'busses in the procession.

Yesterday Mayor Studley invited Dr. Maurice F. Dr. Linguist is made a special guest because he is a veteran of the Maxican war, the only one in New Haven. He served in the navy in 1848-49. He was an officer aboard the United-States ship Powhatan, which for a roops from New Orleans to Santa Cruz, Mexico. At the outbreak of the civil war he was appointed by Surgeon General Barnes a surgeon in the army to examine troops before they were enlisted. All veterans of the Spanish war not belonging to any association are invited to parade. The meeting place will be announced later.

The city now bids fair to blaze with flags and bunting before the arrival of the visitors who come to the reunion. The citizens are putting up many decorations and flags in honor of the coming gathering.

barm incited to efforts. to counteract it. There was strong protective measures adopted in the stock market to check the precipitate decline in prices which threatched the violent shrinkage of credits. There were feverish and erratic fluctuations during the greater part of the morning, but the supporting measures finally proved of effect and the market culeted down and became steady at a level of values substantially above last night. There was some unsettlement again in the final dealinus, but the pressure was again, resisted and the market closed steady and dull, but below the best. Liquidation was continued with considerable force this morning, especially in the United States Steel securities. Both classes of stock and the second mortgage bonds opend at new low records and kept the early market unsettled in spite of support by powerful financial interests at other points. When the fact developed that the buying to support the market did not follow the advance in prices to any extent, the bears made a determined drive in an attempt to regain the upper hand. They centered the attack upon United States Steel preferred, apparently equipped with siderable stop loss order in that stock at siderable stop loss order in that stock at about 62. The uncovered hears took alarm at this evidence of effective support and bought largely to cover their shorts. The principal active stocks afterwards goyt from 1 to 2 points over last night.
