London, April 13 .- The house of commons to-day by 270 to 61 votes adopted a resolution sanctioning the employ-

War Secretary Broderick in introducing the resolution read a telegram to the effect that Colonel Macdonald reached his goal, Gyangtse, Thibet, April 11, without the loss of a man.

Mr. Broderick said that while the Thibetans were trying to circumscribe their relations with India, they were attempting to open up relations with Russia. The British government could not countenance an attempt on the part of any foreign government to establish a predominant interest there.

Great Brtain, declared Mr. Broderick, had no desire to occupy the country or to establish a permanent mission in Thibet, but the government was absolutely resolved that if any power is to be predominant in Thibet it must be Great Britain.

Campbell-Bannerman Henry warmly criticized and condemned the mission and the "slaughter" of the Thibetans, declaring that Mr. Broderick's explanations of the reasons for the mission were wholly insufficient.

The debate ended with a short speech by Premier Balfour declaring the mission had no ulterior objects. The last hing the government desired, he said, was to add to its Indian frontier responsibilities.

(Continued from First Page.) the war buttletin boards. The grief of the crowds whose worst fears were thus officially confirmed, was touching. The ministry of marine was soon surrounded by thousands eagerly asking for more details.

Relatives of those who were on board the Petropaviovsky anxiously inquired as to the fate of their loved ones.

What occurred prior to the blowing up of the flagship was only vaguely known, except that Vice Admiral Makaroff with his flag flying on the doomed vessel sailed out to engage the enemy until his reinforcements appeared. It is thought possible that Vice Admiral Togo planned an ambuscade by sending in a small squadron in the hope of drawing out the Russian commander to the open and then cutting him off. The Associated Press learns that the location of six of the mines planted by the Yenesel were unknown, the charts having been lost when that vessel went down. Probably it was one of these mines that the Petropavolsk struck.

Vice Admiral Makaroff's death is really a greater loss than would be that of several battleships. He was the pride of the navy and enjoyed the implicit confidence of his sovereign as well as of the officers and men of the service. Speaking of his death officers here all remarked upon the strange fatality that he should lose his life on a heavily armored battleship, to which he had a particular aversion. This morning for the first time he raised his flag on a battleship, while previously he had gone out on board the cruiser Novik or the cruiser Ashold. It was at the urgent request of his friends that he did not risk his life in this fashion and so transferred his flag to the Petropav-

It is now an open secret that Vice Admiral Makaroff was not anxious to resign his command of Cronstadt, which necessitated his leaving his wife and family, but the emperor held such a high opinion of him that he declined to consider other candidates, although it was pointed out that Rear Admiral Rojestvensky, chief of the general staff of the navy, who had just been appointed to command the Baltic squadron, and who is now destined to succeed Makaroff, as well as others, were axious to distinguish themselves.

The emperor in his summons to Vice Admiral Makaroff said: "My choice has fallen upon you, and I will not take a refusal," and so the admiral went to the Far East. The emperor's sorrow is deeply keen on this account.

By imperial command, a requiem service will be celebrated at the admiralty church at noon to-morrow for the emperor's favorite admiral.

To-night the grief-stricken widow, according to the Russlan custom, had a requiem service celebrated at her residence. She had been much worried over the health of her husband, who suffered from diabetes, reference to which was made in a recent telegram from the admiral in which he said he was compelled to disobey orders as to taking regular sleep.

The coincidence is generally comment-ed upon that the ice breaker Yermak. one of Admiral Makaroff's greatest triumphs, steamed majestically up the Neva to-day, having cut through the ice from Cronstadt. "There's Stefen Oslpovich's ship," cried the moulks who knew and loved Makaroff so much that they called him by his patronymic. Rear Admiral Rojestvensky, who will assume command of the fleet at Port Arthur, is a man of an utterly different mould from Vice Admiral Makaroff. He is a very able sailor and a man of talent and ability, but he is not so popular with the Jackies as was the dead comnander-in-chief.

Makaroff is believed to have been in the conning tower when the Petpaylovsk was blown up. Grand Duke Cyril owes his life to the fact that he is a fine athlete and a splendid swimmer. Count Grabbe, aide de camp to Grand Duke Vladimir, will leave to-morrow to bring the Grand Duke Cyril home. Nothing s known as to the character of the Grand Duke's injuries.

St. Petersburg, April 13,-According to later reports Grand Duke Cyrll was more seriously injured than at first believed. He has been removed to a hospital at Port Arthur for treatment. Despite the statements in the dispatches the Grand Duchess Vladimir believes that her son is dead, saying, Everybody has been killed and I can not believe that Cyril was saved."

It is stated that Viceroy Alexieff will issume command of the naval forces in the Far East, presumably pending the arrival of Rear Admiral Rojest-

THE LOVE OF NATURE. The more man has become engaged in the conflicts of civilization, in intelectual disappointment, the more he has felt the uselessness of knowledge, the more he has turned to certain expressions of art as an escape. He has addressed poems to Nature, has painted landscape more and more, has shown in every way that such an escape was a dream. I do not mean that such records of art have begut late, only that the more complex forms, especially such as those that paintings give, are more evident to us. Art has existed from the very beginning, even before the first man stuttered out his naming of the animals and expressed their character by the sound of their name. But she qualified her statement by the explanation that her position was possibly exceptional, her practice being in the upper part of the Bronx among people who have moved to that locality because their familles were too large to live comfortably in the more crowded parts of the city. "A female physician, who has kept exact records of cases, said: 'The desire to limit or eliminate family is universal. Children are no more, or scarcely more, desired among the poor than among the rich, though the poor are often less successful in avoiding them. I am consulted professionally in regard to this every day.'

"Another woman doctor said: 'It is thoroughly American to restrict the population. It is a mistake to suppose that the foreign people keep up the population rate after they come here. Not to do so is one of the first things

"Dr. Shrady, while he deplores the dalling birth rate among native Americans, says: 'The Irish, the Germans and the Italians go ahead and have children.' I therefore included among the physicians visited six practicing almost entirely among foreigners, and of the other six had a sonsiderable num-

Mrs. Commander continues: "So far I have spoken exclusively of women in relation to the checking of population, as they are the ones most intimately and immediately concerned. But it does not appear that American men are more desirous than women of large families or to any considerable extent oppose the present tendency. Fewer in than women seem to be satisfied with no children, but few, if any, have any desire for a large family.

MY BIRTHDAY UMBRELLA.

Like most people, I have only on birthday a year. Susan Intended to celebrate the event by giving me a present. Susan is my wife. We had been married a year, but fortune had not smiled upon us, and we were terribly hard up. Consequently Susan's spending capacities were limited.

She was going to buy me an umbrella. The present was saved up for and talked about a good deal before the auspicious day. We went to the shop together to secure the gift.

Susan's idea of the amount to be expended-heaven bless her!-was, think, about a dollar and a half. The keeper of the umbrella shop looked pained and concerned at the idea of respectable customers daring to purhase one of his cheap ginghams. He had a two dollar and a half article.

now, a really decent thing. We saw it. The handle was very plain. It did not please Susan so much as that of a three dollar one produced simultaneously. There was no pushing to open it-the thing was a patent, There was no fumbling in a shower of rain to open this umbrella. One had only to release a little spring in the handle and the umbrella opened itself half way. This last luxury completely over Susan. The bargain was

We left the shop arm in arm, Susan proud and joyous that she had been able to make me "such a beautiful birthday present"-one so much nicer than she had had at first intended.

On the way the elements, as if bent pleasing Susan, sent up a sharp shower of rain. Her eyes dilated with pleasure and triumph as she produced the umbrella.

"Let me open it!" she cried vivaciously, as the raindrops came pattering down. She touched the spring, and lo! the umbrella partly opened of his own accord. How ingenious! To run it up to the top of the stick was the work of a second, and we sheltered snugly unstation door, and of whom questions are der its ample canopy, side by side, arm

The rain descended in torrents. We had not far to go. The district rallway station was only a hundred yards ahead. Yet, before we arrived there, the silk of the umbrella was soaked office an' another exit frum de same through and through by the deluge. We were just in time for a train, with a minute to spare. THE BUGS OF PANAMA.

Forty Bugkillers Sail With the Commission With Apparatus and Chemicals.

About 40 bug killers, 20 engineers and contractors, and the Panama Canal Commission sailed from here for Colon yesterday on the Panama Steamship Company's vessel Allianca. The but killers are going to the Isthmus to kill all the bugs in the 10-mile strip; the engineers and contractors are going to see if there is not some part of the work for which they can secure a contract, and the commission is going to learn all it does not know of the Isth-

Several of the bigkillers appeared on the deck garbed in tropical attire-tourist's hat and linen duster. Each had with him the apparatus with which he is going to rid the Isthmus of the dread germs of elephantiasis, herriber-ri, and many more tropical diseases, and the working of which he insisted on howing to Admiral Walker, head of the commission.

The admiral kept moving about the steamship from the time he went on board of her until she salled, looking after his fellow-commissioners and their friends. Everywhere he went there was a string of these "bugologists" after him, and every time he got into a blind allow or a corner he had to into a blind alley or a corner he had to submit to a rehearsal of now his followers were going to do the world instimable good by killing off all the corner, but without success. Forty times the 40 bugkillers accosted him. and whiskers seemed a shade whiter, while the kindly look in his eye had given place to an anany gream.

"But let me show you its workings. It is simplicity itself and absolutely re-liable." So saying he would draw forth his aparatus and explain it in detail to the admiral, who about that time was looking for some of his friends to rescue him.

Then in desperation the admiral would say: "Yes, by all means, do any-thing you want."

If variety and oddity of apparatus and the smell of chemicals can kill the bugs on the Isthmus, the party which salled yesterday will surely be successful. They carried all khids of sprays explosives and bug foods, and each man with his subject. One tall, lean fellow. with blonde hair and hung in ringlets on his shoulders, exhibited to the reporters a revolver, by the explosion of which a chemical dust was liberated. which floated through the air and was guaranteed to kill all bugs within a radius of 100 yeards. The scientist ex-ploded his weapon, and after the reporters had received one whiff of the themical they took refuge in another part of the vessel to escape the prospective fate of the bugs.-New York

My dear Sir: I am just in receipt of your invitation to attend the twenty-third annual banquet of the Iroquois club to be held on the 13th inst. I thank you for the invitation and regret to say that I shall not be able to attend. I trust, however, that those present will take advantage of the occasion to present to the country the importance of maintaining democratic principles as they were set forth in the platforms of 1896 and 1900. The merger decision shows how closely the Supreme court is divided and how easy it is for those who sympathize with corporate wealth to find plausible reasons for staying the hand of the government when it attempts to rebuke those who exploit the people. Under our constitution the president appoints judges, and those who have watched the decisions in the Hayes and Tilden contest, in the income tax cases, in the trust cases, and in the cases involving the policy of the government in the Philippines cannot doubt that it is as important to have judges who sympapowerless to protect the people. I trust that those that are honored with an invitation to speak at your banquet will raise a note of warning against the attempt now being made by the money magnates to control the democratic convention and to secure tha nomination of a democratic candidate who will be obliged in advance to betray the hopes of the democratic mass-

thize with the people as to have judges

UNLOADING!

See What the Backward Season Has Brought You From Weary Wholesalers and Manufacturers.

HIS has been a season cold and wet and backward. Winter has "lingered in the lap of Spring" until the matter became a public scandal, and the Spring business on which the manufacturers and jobbers and wholesalers relied.

It has been a good for us and other retailers, for a backward season always brings bargains out as sunshine brings flowers, and bargains are the making of a retail business. But the wholesalers and manufacturers have suffered and for weeks past there has gone up a Macedonian chorus from New York jobbers and importers of "Come over and help us."

We started our buyers out with ample funds and carte blanche to pick up every bargain they would find. They found them in carloads. We have added some from our own stock, and this page tells a part of the story.

The act shows the home of William Allen, a sturdy New England farmer. The time is Christmas eve. The event to be is the marriage of his daughter Edna to Jack Waiters. The wedding ceremony is about to occur when Dan Matthews, the wayward son of a country minister, enters and openly accuses Jack Walters of unfaithfulness to the girl he is about to wed. Matthews suceds in convincing Edna of the truth of his statements, and she for revenge elopes and marries Matthews. The second act shows her in New York, where she has been deserted by Matthews. Horace Fletcher's New Book "The A. B.Z. of Our Own Nutrition"-W. H. Ride. ing's "How Tyson Came Home"-"Around the World With a King"-Botany Note Book"-Caming New Horace Fletcher's new book, "The A. B. Z. of Our Own Nutrition, published by Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York, is in truth a book of vital interest, and should be read by all who are interested in having a good digestion and good health. And it is not a dry treatise on health by any means. Mr. letcher writes clearly and even entertainingly. He presents his theories vigorously and backs them up by his own experiences in eating and diet. Mr. Fletcher has lived for five years on one-third of the quantity of food eaten by a healthy working man. At the age of fifty-four and after this economic diet he can ride one hundred miles day on his bicycle without fatigue. He began his experiments with food five years ago, when he was refused life inurance on account of stomach trouble. He eats only what his appetite craves and he chews his food thoroughly. He averages thereby thirty-two chews to every mouthful of food. He frequently eals candy as a substitute for breakfast, A sample meal consists of baked brown potatoes and coffee which was fourfifths milk without trimming. Mr. Fletcher took at the Yale gymnasium the exercises prescribed for the 'Varsity crew. He suffered no muscular fatigue. At Yale he lived on two meals a day. His food was cereal milk and masugar and never exceeded twelve ounces a day. For himself he has solved the problem of economic nutri-

Ginn & Co., Boston, among their many new publications this season have just issued a very useful work entitled "Botany Note Book." It is to a tow-er home by way of the North and speckled, belonging to the neighschools. It is by Joseph Y. Bergen, formerly instructor in biology, English high school, Boston.

Bergen's notebook was prepared with the particular view of minimizing the amount of routine dictation for both teacher and pupil without doing any of the latter's thinking for him. Not only will it save time and trouble, but it neat and accurate work.

The experiments with their comprehensive directions, the special directions to the student for using the notebook, the blanks for review summaries and for review sketches, together with the convenient ruled and blank sheets, provide adequately all that the modern teacher of botany will require in a botany notebook.

The author has everywhere insisted on accurate and careful observations, and he has taken especial pains to pro-

In its review of William N. Armstrong's new book, "Around the World With a King," published by Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York, an extended review of which was given in our columns recently, the New York Times says: "By deferring the publication of his book describing the trip around the world taken by King Kalakaua I. of the Hawaiian Islands until after the death of that monarch, Mr. William N. Armstrong has permitted himself greater freedom in 'painting the wrinkles' on the royal character, and has succeeded in producing a very interesting and amusing volume. The fact that Mr. Armstrong is an American, although born on the islands, may account for the levity with which he describes the antics of his royal master.

Throughout the narrative one has the impression of a very child-like and bland sort of king, Mr. Armstrong's personal observations on persons and things, his witty descriptions of their trials and their mishaps, the frank manner in which he 'pokes fun' at his royal master and at royalty in general, all make excellent light reading. Indeed, the further one goes into the book the more one agrees with that American paper which likened the party at the time of its visit here to the 'royal family in an opera bouffe.'

This company was known as the Gianticus Clam Butchercus, on account of the great size and strength of its men. From their boyhood they had stood in their dugouts and tongued the unwilling bivalves from the vasty deep. Laying over their entire frame of iron, muscle like the cordage of a ship, Saxy and Mose, who were sent down among the spectators to know why the water did not flow freely to the engine, returned answer that some soap-locks were healing the hose and were full of sass. (Eil's boys wore long hair, soaped to hake it long, smooth and curl under.)

The captain of the engine, who was by nature a true gentleman, says, "My men, what shall we do with such boys?" "Jug them, Captain; jug them,"

"All right, but do no striking, for this is a frolle day, you know." Six red shirts, each a colossus weigh-

Fa-vorites for Methodist Episcopal honors often stay on the lists for 4, 8, and even 12 years, or over three general confer-ences, before they at last reach the goal. Some have been so old when they do reach it that there is often heard the cry for bishops who have not passed the dead line of 50 years of age. President Bashford, of Ohio Wesleyan University, and President Raymond, of Wesleyan University, are mentioned, but on some lists as men who can wait. Rev. D. P. R. There will Epworth Herald and secretary of the Epworth League, was named years ago, and he is named again this year. It is said he wants to quit one or the other of the posttions, whether elected a bishop or not but nobody seems to know just which position he wants to keep and which give up. Rev. Dr. C. B. Mitchell, of Cleveland, has been permitting some mention of his name in connection with the office of bishop, not that he expect ed to win such honor, but in order, fall-ing it, he might slip into either one of manufacturing plants of the book | the places which Rev. Dr. Berry gives up. As good a list as any, as those likely to be chosen bishop for the home field, follows: President Day, of Syracuse; Secretary McDowell, of the Education Society; President Bashford, of Ohio Wesleyan, and Book Agent Jennings. These four will be supplemented by about two for the missionary field, probably in the Far East, leav ing Bishop Hartzel the whole of the guess on names for the missionary work. Rev. Dr. Jennings is not at all unlikely to fall in favor of Rev. Berry. Rev. Dr. Spellmeyer has had, as chairman of the general conference committee, exceptional advantages to become known, but it is not at all like ly that a pastor will be selected. It is true that pastors often have been, as in the case of the late Bishop Newman but the Newark divine is not on the tituous liquors in the District of lists that are made very far from

It is the famous amusement prohibition, drawn to fit absolute, and yet there it stands to be disobeyed. The opinion seems to pre-vail that it will be modified, perhaps, but not expunged. The most that now seems expected to be accomplished is the wiping out of the clauses mentioning card playing, theatre going and possibly dancing, but retaining the more sweeping restrictions against ownership of property rented for liquor selling, etc.

Prof. B. P. Bowne, of Boston University, belongs to the New York East Conference. That body meets a tip, but it is as large as both of few days hence, and will take up the charge of heresy. The book concerns would be retained in New York and Cincinnati as heretofore. The general conference dodged a hot discussion, possibly a mild row, and if it carries will result, eight years hence, in a general overhauling of the book business. The cry is that the concerns do not make enough money. Profits of the concerns go to aged and infirm ministers, called conference claimants, and net about $125,000 a year, a sum far too small even when suplemented by local funds, for the increasing number of claimants. There is a vast scheme of consolida tion of benevolence before the Methodist Church, It includes the doing | Center Street, New Haven, Conn away with the one missionary society, which now administers missions both at home and abroad, and the organization of separate home and foreign boards, and a third organization to have charge of education. It is a comprehensive plan and is favored by many leaders, but the missionary interests them-selves are saying that the present is a favorable moment for offerings for missions and are deprecating changes

CAST SELECTED.

For Yale Dramatic Association Entertainment.

The cast which will represent the Yale Dramatic association in the presentation of the modern comedy, "New Men and Old Acres," at the Hyperion theater on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week, has been piceked to bring forth the best acting qualities which the association is capable of producing. Edgar Munson, 1984, the president of the association, will take the part of Mr. Brown, a Liverpool. the part of Mr. Brown, a Liverpool merchant, who has fallen in love with Lillian Vavasour, a member of an old aristocratic family. F. C. Brown, 1965. will again portray the leading comedy role as characterized by the part of Old Bunter, the self-made man. The English chappie, Fitz-Urse, will be taken by R. C. Dobson, of the Art school. H. S. Hartwell, 1904, will once more appear in a feminine role as the Lady Vavasour, the mother of Lillian, who will be played by Buell Hollister, 1905. D. F. Fox, 1904, will take the gay thoughtless character of Funny Bunter, while J. M. Minor of the Scientific school, will appear as Mrs. Bunter, "her mother." The whole cast will be made up as fol-

YESTERDAY'S STOCK MARKET Violent Break to U. P. Regarded as Due to a ttatel.

New York, April 13 .- The dull and uncertain stock market of to-day was the natural outcome of the course of the The rather violent previous market. break in Union Pacific with which the market closed yesterday was regarded to-day as due to a raid. The more careful consideration of the part taken by ful consideration of the part taken by the attorney general in the Northern Securities proceedings at St. Paul modified the first impression that the government was opposing itself on principle to the Union Pacific's effort to recover its former holdings of Northern Pacific, But the action of the stock yesterday on that supposition caused a deeply grounded impression that the recent mysterious accumulation of Union Pacific is based on the hope of advantage to the stock from the ends sought in the suit. The uncertainty thus caused and reflected in the hesitating fluctuations in Union Pacific unsettled the whole market. To add to the hesitation, reports were circulated of the formation of a formidable party for a bear campaign, which had been selling its holdings and putting out short lines at the high layer in preparation for an oneither that Paragraph 248 should be ernment was opposing itself on princiideas, obtaining many years ago. It is Pacific, But the action of the stock yesholdings and putting out short lines at the high level in preparation for an onslaught upon values. The effect of these reports was to intimidate traders from attempting to advance prices or from buying stocks. The influence of foreign markets was also on the side of reaction. The cancellation of an option. on 67,000 tons of pig fron by the United States Steel corporation was not of reassuring effect on sentiment regarding the iron and steel trade. Renewed strength in the wheat market pointed to yesterday's weakness as due to profit-taking on the government report. On the other hand, reports were current of a large export of steel products for March, and the very cheerful view of the trade outlook expressed by the It is expensive business maintaining Iron Age and published near the close manufacturing plants in the hearts of | had an important influence in rall ing New York and Cincinnati. It is pro- the market. So did the increase in the dividend on Reading 2d pf., which gave point to the reports of large accumulations of anthracite at the reduced price schedule. The failure of the threatened bear demonstration to appear prompted some covering of shorts by room traders and the closing was firm.

His followers, who were known as Sikhs, were compelled to fight for their faith. and for that reason were organized upon a military basis. Their leaders were warlike men, and when the Mogul power began to decay they struggled with the Afghans for supremacy in northern India. They have ever since been renowned for their fighting qualities, have always been loyal to British authority; for fifty years have furnished bodyguards for the viceroy of India, the governor of Bombay, Bengal and other provinces, and so much confidence is placed in their courage, honesty and fact they are employed as policemen in all the British colonies of the east. You find them everywhere from Tien-Tsin to the Red sea. They are men of unusual stature, with fine heads and faces, full beards, serious disposition and military airs. They are the only professional fighters in the world. seldom find them in any other husiness. and their admirers declare that no Silkh was ever convicted of cowardice or disloyalty. Amritsar is their headquarters, their religius center and their sacred city. Their temples are more like Protestant churches than those of other oriental faiths. They have no idols or altars, but meet once a week for prayer and Their preacher reads passages from the "Grath" and prays to their God who may be reached through the intercession of Nonak Shah, his prophet and their redeemer. They sing hyms similar to those used in Protestant worship and celebrate communion by partaking of wafers of unleavened bread. Their congregations do not object to the presence of strangers, but usually invite them to participate in the worship. The great attraction of Amrisar is "The Golden Temple of the Sikhs which large building, being only fifty-three feet square, but is very beautiful and the entire exterior covered with plates of gold. In the treasury is the original copy of the "Grath" and a large number of valuable jewels which have been collected for several centuries.
