ITEMS OF INTEREST CONCERNING NEW HAVEN PEOPLE

And Other People Known in This City—Interesting Social Events Here and Elsewhere.

Miss Marie Reilly of 21 Bradley street gave a dance Thursday evening for the Saturday Matinee Whist club. The parlor floors were waxed and the house handsomely decorated in white and green. An orchestra furnished a delightful programme. An elegant supper was enjoyed at midnight. The ladies were charmingly gowned. As this was the last meeting of the season all the members were present, and a most delightful evening was passed by the guests, who were Miss Verney Kinney, Miss Helen Keefe, Miss Kathleen Keefe, Miss May Colt, Miss Margaret Fahy, Miss May Beecher, Miss Celia Lynch, Miss Agnes Beecher, Miss Besse Kenne, Miss Lillian Holbrook, Miss Prue of Holyoke, Mass., Miss Maude Reilly, Miss Alice Cronan, Miss Cathleen Fogarty, Thomas Fogarty, Gilbert Kinney, John Cronan, Stephen Cunningham, John Higgins, William Farrell, William Mulligan, A. Gallagher, Dr. Quinn, Dr. Hynes, Lou. Farrell, L. Branagan, Frank Kennen.

Colonel N. G. Osborn left yesterday for a few days' visit with friends on Long Island.

Harry Small of Whalley avenue is suffering from a badly sprained knee received while unloading some furniture.

A number of prominent young people went down to the Colonial Inn at Woodmont last night for an informal dance.

Mr. and Mrs. LeGrand E. Cannon have gone to their summer home at Pine Orchard.

The readers of the prize rhetoricals at the Morgan school, Clinton, are as follows: Miss May Johnson Stafford of Clinton, Miss Martha Stevens Lewis of Clinton, Miss Emily Rose Burt of Ivoryton, Miss Katherine Stevens of Deep River, Miss Florence Luthera Bliss of Clinton, Miss Marjorie Peet of Clinton, George Sylvester Hull of Clinton, Charles Addison Post of Clinton, Morton Homer Francis of Madison, Paul Whedon Redfield of Clinton, Harold Edward Chittenden of Deep River.

Mrs. Emma Bronson of Winchester is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. D. Tucker of Elm street, West Haven.

President Charles S. Mellen of the New York, New Haven and Hartford road returned to this city yesterday from a trip to Boston, where he has been negotiating the sale of several trolley roads in that section.

Miss Helen Austin of Whitney avenue gave a whist party Thursday evening.

Isaac Dickerman of Elm street, Westville, is quite ill at his home. He is under the care of Dr. Winne.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur F. McEwen desire to return their sincere thanks to the many friends who extended their sympathy to them on the death of their beloved son Le Roy.

The kindly calls, sympathetic letters of condolence and other tokens were so numerous that while they would like to thank each one personally, they find that this would be impossible, and, therefore, take this means of conveying to one and all their heartfelt appreciation of the great kindness shown them and their family in this their hour of trial and sorrow.

100,000 AT LUNA PARK.

There were almost 100,000 paid admissions at Luna Park Sunday. There were more people visited the park on that day than at any one time last summer with the exception of July 4. This fact speaks more plainly than anything else could, and demonstrates the fact of the enormous popularity that Thompson & Dundy's Luna Park enjoys. It is safe to say that every person who visited Luna Park last year had constituted himself or herself into a committee of publicity.

ANTIDOTE FOR THE RATTLER'S VERNOM.

An announcement of much interest was made by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, of Philadelphia, at the annual banquet of the Association of the American Physicians in Washington on Tuesday evening. Dr. Mitchell, one of the most eminent medical authorities in the country, read a letter from Dr. Nogochi, of Japan, who has been working under a grant of the Carnegie Institute, in which he declared that he had discovered a positive antidote for rattlesnake venom.

Few details are given in the letter but it was said that a serum had been obtained from the blood of goats—and the same could probably be secured from horses—which will nullify the toxic effect of rattlesnake poison. Dr. Nogochi is reported as believing that this discovery will shortly lead to the discovery of serums for other poisons.

For several reasons this is an interesting piece of news. It is so because it is a mistake, however, to speak of it as one of the first fruits of the great Carnegie gift for the Washington institution, under an appropriation from which Dr. Nogochi prosecuted his experiments. It is interesting also as an illustration of the rank which Japanese scientists and investigators are taking in the researches of our day. More and more the Japs are commanding the respect of the world for their intellectual keenness and progressiveness.

The discovery of an antidote for rattlesnake venom does not very closely concern the general public, since few, comparatively, suffer from the venomous fangs of that creature; but when a man happens to be bitten by a rattlesnake he wants an antidote very much and wants it right off. But almost every discovery of this kind leads to other discoveries, some of which are of the greatest public importance.—From the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH NAME.

The committee of fifteen, clerical and lay, appointed by the general convention of the Episcopal church three years ago to consider a proposal to change the title of the church is said to have determined to report to the next convention, in Boston next fall, adversely to it, as some newspapers do, as if it were a new proposition only broached three years ago. It has been more or less discussed and very strongly urged by many zealous churchmen for thirty years and more.

It is not without reason. "Protestant Episcopal church" is not very distinctive. The Methodist church is Protestant, and Episcopal also. The odd point to an observer from without is that among many suggestions nobody, so far as is remembered has ever suggested what seems the most obviously appropriate title.

Historically the church was once one, its administrative head in Rome. The division of the Roman empire divided the church into the Roman and Greek branches, and later further disintegration of the empire broke off another branch, the Anglican. The same kind of disintegration came very near to separating a fourth branch. The Gallican, but the partial separation was never made complete.

The Episcopal church in this country came with another disruption of the civil state and is, historically, doctrinally and administratively, the direct descendant of the third division of the old church, the Church of England, and the logical title for it would seem to be "The Anglican Church in the United States."

If it is to have a new name and nobody has a right to object if it so wishes, why not that which logically expresses its genesis?—From the Chicago Chronicle.

EVERY dry goods house in the United States is shrieking "Sweetser, Pembroke Auction Goods" just now. It is one of the "big things" of the season.

We are just as hot after "big things" as any store, but we do like to tell the straight facts about them. The truth about the matter is that the auction sale began on Monday last.

of the lots except those mentioned above---were touched till Thursday P. M. Yet a Providence store advertise "Sweetser, Pembroke Silks" last Tuesday morning---

Here are some FACTS. We bought carefully and not very heavily at the auction on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. More than a thousand buyers were present and the prices did not run especially low.

Flags.

We have the regulation or "Standard" bunting flags in all sizes from 2x3 to 10x15 feet. Prices on the are low. There are too many prices too quote in this space, but you will find it easy to save ten or fifteen per cent. by coming here.

father's adventures realize how young he was at the time of those early hunting exploits: He was only 23 years old when he started on his first expedition into the interior of South Africa. And, indeed, it required enormous nerve and self-reliance; it needed, in fact the ardor of youth, backed by his iron constitution to face the dangers and fatigues of such an undertaking. When he returned to England in the autumn of 1848 he brought with him such a collection of trophies as few believed could have fallen to one man's rifle. He was then 28, and with his long luxuriant hair, thick tawny and magnificent athletic frame, fully satisfied the popular conception of the "Lion Hunter."

tuna was slender. He resigned his commission in the army so that for him every thing had depended on the success of his venture. His share of profits from his book alone reached in the first year £1,000---and by the sale of ivory, ostrich feathers, etc., and the exhibition of his trophies, he made large sums of money. But the free, wild life of a hunter left its mark on his whole after existence; and in Port Augustus, where he finally settled down---with his museum of South African trophies and various collections and curios---he continued, as far as the Scottish climate permitted, to live as he had lived in his wagon in Africa---a rude and comfortable life which it was his lot to share with him till the end. He continued to sleep on the same narrow bed he used in his wanderings, and on it he died (in 1865) in the prime of life, his splendid hair untroubled by time and all his strong white teeth save one intact, and the one was discolored with dreadful decay, I think, some two or three years before he died. It was a somewhat extraordinary performance. Having feared excruciating torment from it, father ordered the village surgeon to extract it. Dr. Tolmie, who then resided all the dental skill of the tract, a young man of the most unusual proportions, shrunk from experiment, and, after being persuaded several times gave up the attempt hopeless, but my father sat patting and encouraging him to renewed efforts, and at last, after a lisle lasting three hours, the refractory molar yielded. It was as it appeared carefully preserved by him, for Christmas I found it along with a by pipe in my stocking as a gift against toothache from which I was suffering at the time. I was then little, but it must have greatly impressed me since I remember it so

SOUTH AFRICAN DIAMONDS.

Health in Discoveries Beyond The Dream of Avarice. The recent important discoveries of diamonds in South Africa draw attention to an industry more full of romance than that of gold mining...

The story of the finding of the first diamond has often been told—how an Irishman named O'Reilly, traveling south from the Orange river, sought a bit's rest at the farmhouse of one Clerk in the Hopetown district...

This is old history; but much that is really romantic in the story of South African diamonds is remembered now few. It was only two years later—Farmer Nicker's way, when a native hunter chanced to show him a large pebble looking like a lump of alum...

It is a striking illustration of the vicissitudes of fate that these were the only diamonds of any value that were found near Hopetown; although a little later, 10,000 miners were ransacking banks of the Vaal river...

It is a striking illustration of the vicissitudes of fate that these were the only diamonds of any value that were found near Hopetown; although a little later, 10,000 miners were ransacking banks of the Vaal river...

fortein and Dutoitspan mines, were later salable at £200 representing the grafting return of £30 for every sovereign originally invested. In spite of the marvelous harvest yielded by these South African diamond companies...

Some of the very finest diamonds the mines have ever produced have been recovered from "boys" who have stolen them. Fifteen years ago a native working in the De Beers mine discovered a magnificent diamond, which proved too much for his honesty...

The most dramatic feature of this discovery was that the stone was found on the very day on which the contract of the syndicate whose property it became expired—London Tit-Bits.

BIRDS OF PREY DO GOOD. I wish I could make a naturalist's plea for the preservation of birds of prey. Must these species, even in our enlightened land, still be the butt of all classes of humanity...

Even when the bird of prey gets game birds, it is probable that his victims are most commonly the less vigorous or wounded specimens, so that his influence invigorates the breed by eliminating sickly propagators.

It is not hard that we naturalists must lose our beautiful herons and the wild-voiced kingfishers, and you your trout, because you will not think and understand before you act?—Forest and Stream.

If not rapid, water, is less liable to carry any sound of disturbed stones or foot movement to the fish. This is reasonable enough, and many fish are killed in that way. Other anglers scold the idea of working against the stream, and say "Against the direction of stones and other sounds. The fish always lie with their noses up-stream and their eyes looking for what the water brings down, as the real fly would come."

So far as I know, there are few trout which will so thoroughly alarm trout as the shadow of a man, or of his arm and rod shifting over a pool. When the complicated shadows of a lot of breeze-strirred branches are playing all over the surface, the addition of a few extra shadows may not greatly matter; but those days are comparatively rare, and even then it would seem that any unusually large shadow would of necessity be noticed. This suggests that upon the typical winding stream, alternate sections of which needs must trend toward widely apart points on the compass, a man will have a considerable trouble to keep control of his warning shadow.

And now in regard to bait-fishing—that shockingly plebeian sport which your bigoted flicker of humbugs deems a sorry old crime. I believe in scientific bait-fishing for several reasons, chief of which is its likelihood to catch fish, and the biggest and bulkiest fish there be. I don't mean a whole lot of fish, but say a couple—Edwyn Sandys in Outing.

WALKING WITH BROKEN LEGS. Experiments have recently been made at the London hospital with new splints which enable a person with a broken leg or thigh to go about his business within a few days of his accident. The invention hails from the continent, where it has been in use for some years. The principle of the splint is that round the seat of the fracture is fastened a hardened leather case, which fits the leg closely everywhere, and prevents any movement of the fractured bones.

YESTERDAY'S STOCK MARKET. Volume of Selling Exceedingly Light. New York, May 27.—The volume of selling in to-day's stock market was exceedingly light, but was sufficient to incline the balance towards lower prices.

The promise of a growth in cash resources of the banks to the extent of nearly $10,000,000 stimulated no interest in stocks. Of this amount, the sub-treasury has contributed $1,645,000 as the residue of the $3,000,000 paid to the banks last week for the account of the Panama republic and since deposited by the recall of government deposits.

The official announcement of inability to meet June interest charges on the Detroit Southern first mortgage 4 per cent. bonds caused a slump in the low-priced stocks and had a disturbing effect on sentiment. The road is a small one growing out of one of the belated combinations, and the nominal market for the bonds indicated the narrow margin of security for their interest charges.

on the egg awhile himself if she wants to go out to enjoy a swim. But in this case, as in many others, virtue is not "his own exceeding great reward," because the lady penguins grow so fat and sleek under the good care of their faithful husbands, that they are "the more eagerly hunted at that particular season. The old birds are too tough and fishy to be relished by man or beast, but the tender young maîtres are in great demand, both for their flesh and oil. When eaten, the eggs have an oily and fishy flavor, and taste as hen's eggs might if cooked in kerosene. Egg-hunting during its season (commencing in October), is the greatest fun of the Falkland Islanders, and is sure to be attended with brilliant success. Millions of penguin eggs and those of other wild birds are sold in the Falkland markets at an average rate of ten cents the dozen.
