Challenges an Investigation on the Strength of the Civil Service Rules—Anthony Carroll Removed—Yandell Henderson of Yale College Makes Charges of Inefficiency Against Captain Covles and Detective McGrath of the Detective Bureau—Sergeant Bowers and Patrolman Taylor Mentioned but Not Accused—Letters from Professor Richards, S. P. Thrasher and Citizens.

As had been announced for a week or more, the first public hearing before the committee of three appointed by Mayor Studley to investigate the police department was held last evening in the aldermanic chamber at the city hall.

Long before the doors were opened the crowd had been assembling in the hall before the doors of the aldermanic chamber. The door was opened about 7:45 and within ten minutes the room was crowded to its utmost seating capacity.

At just five minutes of eight the investigating committee entered the room. Judge Lynde Harrison, the chairman of the committee, took his seat at the table in the front of the audience, with Dean Henry Wade Rogers of Yale law school, and George B. Martin, the other two members of the committee, seated on either side of him.

The meeting was opened promptly at 8 o'clock, Judge Harrison in a few words stating the object of the committee, appointed by Mayor Studley in holding the hearing. He stated that by citizen who had any communication in writing, or had notified the committee of his intention to be present.

The hearing was opened promptly at 8 o'clock, Judge Harrison in a few words stating the object of the committee, appointed by Mayor Studley in holding the hearing.

Mr. Deming had been sworn in and read the letter he had sent to the investigating committee in reply to its intimation inviting him to appear at statements at the hearing.

considerable time and labor in preparing certain statistics in regard to the civil service examinations. These statistics were to be very slightly amended by data from the public documents to bring the statistics up to date since they had been prepared some time ago.

Mr. Deming stated that at one time he had been on the committee having in charge the examinations for positions on the police department, and that he had prepared his statistics from his intimate knowledge with the department.

Mr. Deming's statistics showed that out of ninety-two citizens passing the examinations the average mark was 83.2. From these thirty-two appointments were made, but instead of the marks being considerably higher than the average, the average mark of 84.1, the appointments were made, the average mark being 83.9.

Mr. Deming said: "Supposing the applicant passed with a high mental mark, but with a low physical mark, the average of the two coming above the average mark, should the man be appointed in spite of his poor physical examination?"

HERMIS WINS SUBURBAN.

LOWERS THE TRACK RECORD FOR THE EVENT.

More Than Thirty Thousand Persons See the Twenty-first Running of the $20,000 Classic Event—The Picket Noses Out Irish Lad for Second Money—Proper in the Rear.

New York, June 16.—Hermis, owned by Edward R. Thomas, easily won the Suburban handicap at Sheepshead Bay today. The son of Hércules was on his toes when the barrier snapped.

A great crowd journeyed to the Long Island race course to view the twenty-first running of the $20,000 classic. Perfect racing weather prevailed and more than 30,000 persons had passed through the gates before the hour set for the first race.

The witness started to quote some statistics in regard to appointments reaching back to 1898 and coming down to date. Attorney Gunn objected to the evidence being submitted in regard to any appointments made in 1898 on the ground that such were under a different administration, and could not properly be considered at the present hearing.

DEATHS WILL BE ABOUT 700

HORROR OF GENERAL SLOCUM DISASTER INCREASES.

Police and Health Departments Place Number of Lost at One Thousand but This is Probably Too High—Grappling for Victims in Hulk of the Steamer—Divers at Work.

New York, June 16.—With unceasing effort, search is going on for the bodies of those who perished yesterday in the disaster to the General Slocum. What the list of victims will total scarcely one dare venture a guess.

Police and health department officials have placed the number at a figure as high as 1,000 and more, but to-night it would seem that the maximum fatality will not largely exceed 700.

All day long, from sunrise until darkness shut off even the melancholy satisfaction of watching for the dead, anxious watchers kept up their vigilance, and at dusk there has been recovered 517 bodies, for the great part women and children.

As far as it was within their power, the divers searched the wreck from stem to stern, but these were masses of broken timbers through which it was almost impossible to explore.

RUSSIANS ADMIT DISASTROUS DEFEAT

Are Compelled to Abandon Thirteen Out of Sixteen Guns and Officially Announce Losses as Heavy.

Superintendent Brown of the John Hancock company said that the company would have to pay about $50 claims due to the tragedy. These range from $15 for children of two years of age up to amounts of $1,000 and $1,500 for adults.

This and other companies are waiving many of the formalities usually gone through before a claim is paid.

Many persons were injured in the panic that followed the breaking out of flames on the General Slocum, and at least 200 persons were taken to the hospitals.

Several of the men and women had the savings of a lifetime on them when they perished. Much jewelry, it is reported, the police have been last, but an explanation may be found in the fact that it was destroyed by fire, rather than stolen by thieves.

Major McClellan, day, after receiving messages of condolence from many sources, visited North Brother Island, and later visited the morgue.

MONTEVIDEO.

THE CAPITAL OF URUGUAY.

A Place of Great Natural Advantages—Not a Good Harbor—Uruguay's Educational System—The Army and Navy.

(Special Correspondence of the Journal and Courier. Montevideo, Uruguay, May 14, 1904. The real name of Uruguay's capital is Spanish for "I see the Hill of St. Philip," a queer title indeed, but worthy those plous old Spaniards who perpetrated their atrocities in the most devout, religious manner. Years ago the name of the saint was dropped in general conversation, presumably for the sake of brevity, and it now stands—Monte-video, "I see the Hill." The Hill which the discoverer saw is nowadays spoken of as merely El Cerro, with no reference to the forgotten apostle. It rises some distance back of the town and is topped by a lighthouse, a signal station and a picturesque fortress which was built for the protection of the harbor about a hundred years ago, but is now used only as a prison. It is Uruguay's boast that our revolutionary war first put her patriots in the mood to rebel against Spanish rule, that her republic owes its existence to the successful issue of that early contest, and that her constitution was closely patterned from that of the United States. Uruguayan history is older than ours, for it dates back four centuries—to the day when Don Juan de Solis sailed into the estuary of the majestic river that was afterward named La Plata, but which he called Parana-Guazila, the latter word signifying "sea-like," and landed about seventy miles east of the present capital. At that time the country was densely populated with Indians—the Guaranis, who ranked next to the Incas of Peru, and the Araucanians of Chili as among the best of the South American races. They were still numerous when the Jesuit missions were destroyed (in 1767), and having been trained by the priests to habits of implicit obedience, were a peaceful, industrious and patriarchal people. They are now almost extinct, having been supplanted by half-breeds (a mixture of Portuguese, Indian, negro and what not), from whose ranks come the class now known as "Gauchos." Not until 1830 was Uruguay formally proclaimed a free and independent state. And then her troubles began in earnest, for every patriot in the new republic wanted to be president, and during more than half a century revolution followed revolution in rapid succession. These intestine quarrels were at their height when Juan Manuel Rosas—the Dictator of Buenos Ayres—not satisfied with the enormous Argentine territory that he ruled, like another Alexander, and sighing for new worlds to conquer, besieged Montevideo for nine long years. During that time (from 1842 to '53), a new town sprang up some distance from the old one, with churches, shops, stores and factories, established for the convenience of the besiegers. After peace was restored the intermediate space between the two towns was laid out by French engineers after the most approved models of modern times, thus making one city whose central portion is by far the most beautiful. Geographically considered, few places have greater advantages than Montevideo, situated on a limestone ridge stretching far out into the river, something as New York occupies Manhattan Island. This ledge of solid rock rises in the center like the roof of a house, thus affording perfect natural drainage and giving to every class a splendid view of sea and river. Being constantly washed clean by rains, independent of the lax sanitary regulations of the people, perhaps accounts in part for the fact that it is one of the most healthy cities in the world. A few weeks' residence here is considered throughout all South America a panacea for invalids, especially for those suffering from nervous prostration, general debility and malarial complaints. If Montevideo had only a decent harbor one would see room for little improvement. As it is, ships at anchor in the roadstead just outside the cerra are entirely without protection from the frequent pampers, or strong winds that correspond to "northers" on the Pacific side.

An American writer who recently visited Uruguay declares that the Rio de la Plata is by no means the ideal river that many believe. Says he: "After every strong pompero you may count wrecks and ships aground literally by the score. For want of a port or protection of any kind, all business is interrupted while the pompero is blowing, communication being impossible between the shore and ships anchored in the roads. The necessity of loading and unloading by means of tugs and lighters renders the operation exceedingly expensive, so that in many cases the cost of landing goods at Montevideo is equivalent to the freight on the goods from Havre, Hamburg or Liverpool! Fully two-thirds of Uruguay's revenue is derived from customs duties, the rest from trade licenses, stamps and taxes on property. Within the last half-century the value of both exports and imports has increased twenty fold, and the former has always been largely in excess of the latter. A few years ago Uruguay's commerce was practically controlled by England, the imports from that kingdom alone amounting to nearly one-half of the whole, and at least one-third of all the exports went to England. Nowadays much of the produce that formerly went to British markets goes to Havre, Hamburg, Antwerp and Bremen, and the time is not distant when the United States will receive a respectable amount of it, in spite of the local misrepresentation of our jealous English cousin.

Though Uruguay's constitution was patterned after that of the United States, it necessarily differs from it in some important particulars, because—whatever sentimentalists may say to the contrary—the fact remains, proved again and again by sad experience, that the more volatile Latin, and especially those with a preponderance of Spanish blood, are not capable of self-government, and therefore republics, pure and simple, does not meet their requirements. The government of Uruguay is divided into the usual three departments, executive, judicial and legislative. The president is elected by a majority of the general assembly, for four years, and is not eligible to two consecutive terms. The five ministers composing the cabinet are appointed by the president and are responsible to him alone. The little republic is divided into nineteen departments, which answer for the state in ours; and each department sends one senator to the "Upper House" of the general assembly. The "Lower House" has fifty-three members, who are elected every year directly by the people, proportioned according to the number of voters in each department. Thus Montevideo, the most thickly settled portion, has twelve representatives, while all the other departments have only two each. The constitution regulates the annual session of the legislature from January to June, but renders that wise regulation practically null by providing for extra sessions—greatly to the disgust of country members, who are kept at the gay and expensive capital nearly the year around by the majority residing in Montevideo. The consequence is that outside the capital none but rich men dare aspire for the office. Judging from the few sessions which I have attended, the Uruguayan congress seems to conduct its routine business on much the same plan that at Washington. Indeed, looking down from the gallery upon the rows of shiny bald heads and listening to the spread-eagle flights of rhetoric, called forth on slightest provocation, such as chartering a tramway or bridging a back-country creek—one might easily fancy himself under the big dome capped by the bronze Goddess of Liberty, were it not that Spanish is spoken here instead of Americanized English.

South Americans incline by nature to eloquence, as ducks to water, and oratorical gifts are rated higher than any other. In no country of life compass and population can one hear on every hand and read in the local papers so much blarneying but empty gush concerning republican simplicity, paternal government, equal rights, veneration of habeas corpus and similar humbugs as in La Banda Oriental. The state religion is Roman Catholic, but other sects are tolerated—all except the poor Jesuits. Infidels, Mohammedans, Jews, heathens, are welcome to come and proclaim their peculiar faith, or their lack of any, at will; but the sister sect, once so powerful a rival, without whose pioneer efforts among the aborigines the government of to-day would never have existed—are most bitterly tabooed.

Of late years the Uruguayan government has paid unusual attention to the education of the masses. It required a hard struggle to separate the schools from denominational control; but the late President Santos accomplished it by measures that at the time seemed brutal, but are now generally acknowledged to have been for the public good. Rudimental education is gratuitous and compulsory upon children between the ages of six and fourteen. Though the total population of the republic is barely seven hundred thousand, there are no less than three hundred and eighty public schools, with a staff of eight hundred teachers, two-thirds of whom are women. Besides these, the small republic has upwards of five hundred private schools, with a thousand teachers and nearly twenty-five thousand pupils. There is a military college in Montevideo supported by the government, whose cadets are graduated with the grade of lieutenants. The University of Uruguay averages five hundred students and has a distinguished corps of professors. There are also two English academies in Montevideo. The special pride of the country and hobby of the government is the new School of Arts and Trades. It occupies a handsome building near the Plaza Ramirez, and is supported by the state. Its aim is to afford poor boys an opportunity to learn good trades or professions, and thus become useful citizens. An applicant for admission must—first of all—be of Uruguayan birth and an orphan; he must not be more than thirteen years old at the time of entering, and he must have been previously vaccinated, and his guardian or sponsor must contract for him, in writing, that he shall remain six years, under the absolute control of the principal of the school, with no interference from home or elsewhere. The school is conducted upon a military plan, and discipline of the strictest sort is observed. Its expenses are borne by the Department of War and Marine, paid out by the products of students' labor. Sales of the work accomplished take place at regular intervals. The most powerful gunboat in Uruguay's navy was entirely constructed by these young workmen and launched by them in the bay. To the great delight of the institution, this gunboat, the Rivera, was immediately called upon for war and did excellent service in putting down the last revolution. Speaking of the navy, it consists of only three gunboats and seven small steamers, manned by about two hundred marines, fifty engineers and a dozen officers, with ten jefes or chiefs. The standing army is composed of four battalions of infantry, four regiments of cavalry and one of artillery, and has an astonishing number of superior officers. It is the fashion for aristocratic young gentlemen to get "into the army," but by no means to carry a musket. The rank and file are a wild, brutal-looking lot, largely negroes and Indians. They are not formidable in appearance, but ought to fight well if there is anything in heredity, having descended from fighting fathers and grandfathers through many generations. Their uniform consists of white canvas trousers of immense proportions, fastened around the ankle, more like feminine "bloomers" than French zouaves; white canvas gaiters, red forage caps and blue flannel ulster reaching nearly to the ground, ornamented with innumerable brass buttons. They carry rifles with sword bayonets, knapsacks, blankets and tin plates. The officers are very handsomely costumed in dark broadcloth, the mounted officers having beautiful horses, gorgeous saddles and silver-plated spurs and stirrups. One reason why the common soldiers are such ill-looking fellows is because they really are the off-scourings of the country, being mainly recruited from the penitentiary. The law provides that after a criminal has passed a specified time in prison, under certain conditions, he may serve the remainder of his term in the army. It is said that the discipline of the army is even more severe than that of the prison, but were it ten times as strict, most men would prefer it to prison life.

WALLINGFORD

Work on the trolley line down North Haven way is progressing finely. The track is laid nearly a mile north of Shady corner, and within five hundred feet of the bicycle bridge. The grade of the track is on the proposed later grade of the roadway, and at present for several hundred feet is way down below the roadbed level, in some places nearly four feet below. Later the roadway will be graded down to the level of the railroad track. A change has been made in the original survey where the trolley leaves the highway and goes along near the railroad track, through the lots for over two miles. The present survey made the change across the highway into the lot just north of what is known as the sand hill. The new layout is just south of the sand hill about four hundred feet further south.

D. B. Pierce and Frank Hastings of the B. D. Pierce company of Bridgeport were in town yesterday morning, and went over the lines of the proposed trolley to Montowese, where they have contracted to build the four bridges, besides the big bridge near the North Haven line, and tunnel under the Air Line railroad below North Haven. They intend to begin work early next week. They went from here to Berlin to arrange for bridge material.

The regular monthly meeting of the County club board of governors will be held this evening at the residence of Henry L. Davis on North Main street. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Roach will attend the graduation exercises at the State Normal school in New Britain to-day. Miss Josephine Roach will graduate from the kindergarten department. Charles H. Beaudoin and Miss Eva Marion Roberge will be married at the Holy Trinity church on Wednesday morning, June 22, at 9 o'clock. The first of a series of seven outdoor concerts by the National band was given uptown last evening and drew out a large concourse of appreciative listeners.

The board of managers will hold a meeting at the Masonic home to-morrow morning. Captain Walter M. Carr and bride of Bristol, R. I., are the guests of Phillip Carr of Center street. Robert L. Gaines and Miss Alice Devery were married Wednesday evening by Rev. J. Owen Jones. They will reside at 49 Ward street. J. Henry Page of Portland, Oregon, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Lyman Beckley of North Main street. Thomas H. Barry is home from the University of Pennsylvania. Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Thomas will attend the graduation exercises of the 1904 Normal Training school this afternoon. Their daughter, Miss Annie L. Thomas, is a member of the graduating class. The Misses Edwina and Eva Parmelee arrived home Wednesday evening from a visit to Mexico. Morton Griswold returns home next Tuesday from Williams college for the vacation. Mrs. R. H. Cowles left yesterday morning for Lewiston, Maine, to visit Mrs. Wells and the Misses Wells. The probabilities are, according to a statement made yesterday by one of the foremen, that the work on the trolley road will begin to-day, going south from Shady corner, North Haven, and the work on the north end will cease for the present. There may possibly have been a change made in orders last night, but otherwise the south end will be worked to-day. Malcolm Hall of this place and Miss Annie D. Paddock of Meriden were married in that city Wednesday evening by the Rev. J. H. Grant.

FIRST HEARING IN THE POLICE INQUIRY

The department are as good as the taxpayers of the city have a right to demand.

Since an attack was made upon a member of my family, in a public street in a good residential neighborhood, I have listened to reports of the general sense of insecurity felt by women, for themselves and for their children, because of numerous offenses against them which seemed, up to within a very short time, to be of increasing frequency.

I have expressed my belief that such a state of affairs indicated demoralization, want of harmony, or want of efficiency in the police department.

I have, however, no knowledge—except from hearsay—of facts which would enable me to make, specific charges against any official or member.

While I hold the belief indicated above as to the general condition of the department, it is just to say that recent acquaintance with some members of its working force has given me confidence in the ability, energy and honesty of purpose of these particular men.

With hearty appreciation of the willingness of your committee to undertake the valuable but unpleasant task assigned to them, I remain, Yours respectfully, C. B. RICHARDS.

Statement as to Police Service. After the reading of the letter Judge Harrison said: 'If any one here has any knowledge or wishes to make any statement in regard to the assault on Professor Richards' daughter the committee will hear him now.'

Attorney Gunn stated that he would like to make a few statements in regard to the condition of the police force at the time of the assault. He stated that 123 patrolmen were on duty in New Haven, and gave the number on duty in each ward.

At night seventy-four were on duty in the city, nine of them being in the Eighth ward and three in the Ninth. Since May 19 six extra men had been put on duty in Ward 8 and four extra in Ward 9.

measures that night. The New Haven police, it seemed, were in their beds, and we had to wait until after breakfast before they could do anything.

When the New Haven police did not look for traces of the criminal he did so himself and hired private detectives at his own expense to help him. They had searched the premises about his residence at 290 Prospect street and had found numerous traces, such as blood on the pavement, blood on the wire fence over which the assailant had dragged his victim, foot and heel prints in the ground near by and torn pieces of garments.

The city authorities paid no attention to such traces, and even when he told Detective McGrath about them no attention was given the matter. Later the witness had requested the keeper of the Yale Forestry school grounds to make a thorough search of the grounds in the hope of finding further clues.

When the witness made a baseball bat was found, which witness suspected was used by the assailant against his victim.

Witness stated that on May 25 he walked up Edgewood avenue in the rain, in company with Detective McGrath and a man who was introduced to him as Detective Clark of New York, who had come to help the local authorities in the case.

On cross-questioning Mr. Henderson said he did not know if the liquor saloons about the city were closed or not at the time he suggested to Sergeant Bowers to search through them for the criminal.

Of course, if we are to employ counsel some opportunity should be given us to select him and to permit him to prepare for such proper examination of these gentlemen as the circumstances may indicate.

A succession of brutal assaults upon unprotected women in the streets of this city has arrested the attention and aroused the indignation of great numbers of our citizens.

There have been in recent years also a number of burglaries committed in certain parts of the city. This deplorable condition of affairs in New Haven has existed for a long time and has become substantially a chronic condition until the indignation of our citizens recently drove the police department into belated activity.

A condition of affairs that compels the mayor of our city to acquiesce in the statement that no woman should be upon the streets after nightfall without protection is the highest proof of inefficiency of the police department, and of its neglect of duty.

Our information is largely composed of knowledge common to all, and our belief is founded upon facts of public notoriety, and upon such information and belief we criticised the police department as illustrative of the inefficiency of the department and of the neglect of the officers to enforce the laws.

Cuba continues to prosper. Minister Squiers, representative at Havana, says the island is in excellent condition, the first crop of cotton proved a success and the government has disappointed those who did not believe in its stability and wisdom.

Referring to the Department of Agriculture's report on the beet-sugar industry in this country, the San Francisco Chronicle observes: "It is silent on the one point in which farmers are most interested—an explanation of the reason why our factories, which sell refined granulated sugar around four cents per pound, cannot pay much more than the farmers receive in Germany from factories which sell raw sugar around two cents per pound."

It is estimated that in 1903 the United States produced 18,000,000 long tons of pig iron and consumed 17,700,724 tons. In the same year the estimated production of Germany was 10,017,900 tons and of England 8,811,200 tons.

German missionaries in Africa are possibly more humane than discreet. The German Kolonialbund has addressed to the imperial chancellor, Count von Buelow, a petition praying for the establishment of a system of state control of missionaries in German colonies.

Here Italians are in the majority, though the field is not exclusively their own, as the Irish are still a close second.

IS THERE A PIE ISSUE?

Judge Parker, who may be the Democratic nominee for President, doesn't say anything yet, but it is believed that he can talk, and it is thought possible that he may talk after he has been nominated and defeated.

Probably the voters in this country who eat pie are more than those who do not. But this doesn't indicate that Judge Parker will be elected.

TAKE SERIOUSLY.

The members of the New Haven Civil Service Board have made a pertinent, proper and pointed inquiry of the earnest gentlemen who wrote a letter to Mayor Studley in which they rather carelessly and indefinitely said: "We certainly do not object to the appointment of a Republican to office, but the appointment of a man who is actively working in the interest of one of the appointing Board is a very different thing."

So we shall soon know what member of the New Haven Civil Service Board the earnest and honest gentlemen are willing to charge with having helped appoint a man who is actively working in his interest.

THE TEXAS STEER

Hoyt's play still lives, but the Kansas City Journal says that the Texas steers are all gone. There was a time when the Texas steer breed of cattle covered the grazing grounds of the Southwest.

The longhorns have now practically all disappeared. Their place has been taken by graded and thoroughbred cattle of a much larger size and value.

The change is for the better, and though there are no more Texas steers there are still many steers from Texas.

LINCOLN ON THE CIRCUIT.

Following the court about on the circuit was, no doubt, the joy of Lincoln's life. He was so fond of it that he declined a flattering offer to enter a lucrative law partnership in Chicago, because, as he contended, it would necessitate more or less confinement in the office and therefore keep him off the circuit.

Side Light on History.—Romulus and Remus were having a pillow fight, when the wolf, who would not be kept from the door, happened in.

"Don't fight," said the wolf, admonishing, "it's naughty." "This is only a sham battle, said Romulus, as Remus hit his again. This cheap wit was too much for the wolf, who went out and made Rome howl.—Chicago Journal.

Wrong Diagnosis.—Not long ago and old colored woman of Virginia visited a doctor and informed him that he husband was seriously ill. The doctor hastened home with her, and upon making a diagnosis of the man's case informed the wife that he had a hopeless case of gastritis.

"Gastritis!" ejaculated the old woman. "De Lawd knows I don't know how he ever got gastritis, 'cause I don't burn a thing but coal fire in dis house, an' but powerful little of that."—Philadelphia Ledger.

She was well known in this city, and her many friends will be grieved to learn of her demise. The notice of funeral will be published later.

JAMES F. ROCK.

The funeral services over the remains of the late James F. Rock, son of Mrs. Catherine and the late Thomas F. Rock, will be held this Friday morning at 8:30 at the residence of the mother, and there will be services in the Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock.

JOHN FLANNAGAN.

John Flanagan, an old citizen, died at his residence, 52 Ann street, Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, after a short illness of about a week.

Mr. Flanagan came to this country from Ireland about thirty years ago, and was well known in the business part of the city, having been in the employ of Robert B. Bradley & Co., at State and Court streets, for over twenty years. The deceased was also a prominent member of St. John's R. C. church. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow and eight children, Thomas J., of the Merchants' delivery; John V., of the Howland company of Bridgeport; John E. and Frank B., Mrs. M. E. Bowen, Miss Martha, Miss Katherine and Miss Elizabeth.

Funeral will take place from his late residence, 52 Ann street, and from a solemn requiem mass at St. John's R. C. church to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock.

STATION AGENT SAVED A LIFE. John Avery, station agent at the Union depot, yesterday morning saved the life of Alfred A. Partridge, of 835 Chapel street, by rescuing him from a perilous position in front of a locomotive, which had struck him and knocked him down.

Partridge ran in front of the Shore line accommodation due here at 7:45 o'clock to get to a Bankers' express car on the outside track. He was hit by the engine, but his clothing caught on the pilot and he was dragged along about ten feet. As he fell off the pilot, Station Master Avery grabbed him and pulled him out of danger. An instant later and the man would have rolled under the ponderous wheels of the locomotive. He was not much hurt, but had to give up his trip to New York.

MR. STEELE RETIRES.

Had Been With Sargent & Co. Twenty-seven Years. David Steele completed twenty-seven years of service with Sargent & Co. yesterday. He resigned several weeks ago, but did not sever his connection with the company until yesterday afternoon. Mr. Steele has been in the square department of the factory, and the employees there gave him a diamond stud yesterday as an evidence of their esteem. Mr. Steele was regarded as a very valuable man by the officials of the company.

YESTERDAY'S STOCK MARKET.

Speculative Sentiment Continues Unsettled. New York, June 16.—Speculative sentiment continued much unsettled today by the proposed preferred stock issue by Southern Pacific. The feverish tone of Union Pacific and Southern Pacific in the early dealings kept traders out of the general market, and those two stocks almost monopolized the trading. When they settled down to about last night's level the rest of the market took on a better tone and was inclined to advance slowly on light transactions. Opinions were greatly mixed over the relative benefits or burdens of Union Pacific and Southern Pacific of the preferred stock issue. Union Pacific was somewhat erratic in the early dealings, in accordance with these uncertainties regarding benefits to accrue. The stock sold 1/8 under last night at one time. There was less contrariety of opinion over the effect of the plan upon Southern Pacific, and traders were inclined to sell that stock. The buying was attributed to supporting measures by insiders, and was effective in checking the decline and inducing some covering in the stock. It did not become known until late in the day that a privilege of retiring the preferred stock at 115 from July, 1905, to July, 1910, was to rest in the company. There was an active demand for Southern Pacific fours in the bond market on the ground that the funding of the floating debt into contingent dividend capital instead of into fixed interest-bearing bonds added to the security of the bonds. Southern Pacific preferred, when issued, sold on the curb at 121 and the rights to subscribe at par at 3 1/2 to 4%. There was very little in the general market. The advance in Consolidated Gas was on the execution of a large single order and was not explained. The reduction in the dividend rate of Lake Erie and Western preferred and the semi-annual net earnings by the Vanderbilt railroad were not stimulating factors, but the market ignored them. The tone of the market was indeterminate throughout and the closing was heavy and below the best.

Reynolds, of Crown street, the well known importer of wines and liquors, will sail on the 18th of this month on the steamship Romania, of the White Star Line, from Boston for Gibraltar, stopping at Spain and Portugal; from Gibraltar to Tangiers; from Tangiers to Cadiz; from Jerez Port St. Mary's and Madrid; Madrid to Lisbon and Oporto; Lisbon from Oporto to Bordeaux, Eprany, Cognac and Paris, France.

The Edw. Malley & Co. The Edw. Malley & Co. THE TEMCO SHOE. THE next time you need shoes, come in here and be fitted to a pair of the "Temco" at $3, or the "Temco Special" at $3.50. If you do not admit that you get more wear, better looks, a prettier shape, a more comfortable fit and more general satisfaction than these prices ever secured for you before, you will be the first woman we have known who hasn't acknowledged it. The "Temco" is a shoe that we have made exclusively for our own selling. It is a shoe that we worked on for two years before we put it on the market. Instead of putting on sale any one of the well-advertised $3 shoes, we had this "Temco" made-up to beat any $3 shoe in the market. And it does it. The styles are the custom styles set by the highest priced boot-makers of London, Paris and New York. They are the styles of NOW—not of six months ago. The sales of the Temco have more than doubled in a year. That shows what New Haven women think of the make. If you try it once, you'll get the Temco habit, and be glad.

"My niece's little baby boy, two years old, was so badly afflicted with eczema that he needed constant watching. It was all over his face and he scratched the sores constantly. Mornings his clothes would be stained with blood, and his face and hands would be covered. His family never could take him out, as his face was always full of large sores. They had medical treatment, and tried everything they heard of. She commenced using the Cuticura Remedies last spring and found that at last she had a wonderful healer. The sores left his face, and he was entirely cured, and now his face is as smooth and rosy as though no sore had ever been there to mar it." MRS. L. J. ROOT, JERUSALEM, N. Y. Feb. 12, 1898.
