SETTLEMENT OF THE TABAH AFFAIR LIKELY

TURKEY NOW SEEKING AN ARRANGEMENT OF THE DIFFICULTY.

Balkan's Government Yielding to the British Demands—Has Offered to Evacuate Disputed Points But on Conditions Not Acceptable to Great Britain—British Naval Preparations Go On—Great Size of Fleet.

London, May 12.—Diplomatic activity seems to foreshadow an amicable settlement of the Tabah difficulty. Both at London and Constantinople, Turkey is seeking to make an arrangement. The grand vizier was to have an interview with Sir Nicholas O'Connor, the British ambassador at Constantinople, at 11 o'clock last night. The latest dispatches from Constantinople state that Foreign Minister Tewfik Pasha, the grand vizier and other of the sultan's advisory council are yielding to the British demands that the Sheik-Ul-Islam is neutral and that on Thursday Turkey offered to evacuate the disputed points, but on conditions that were not acceptable to Great Britain. It is understood that the decision now rests with the sultan, who is said to have ordered the documents on the subject translated into Arabic to enable him to pass upon them.

Meanwhile the British naval preparations are maturing. A dispatch from Athens announces that the Mediterranean fleet under Vice Admiral Lord Charles Beresford is read for immediate departure. Prince Henry of Battenberg's cruiser squadron left Phalarum bay last night for an unknown destination. The great size of the British fleet in Turkish waters is due to the probable necessity of providing landing parties should Turkey continue obstinate.

The nature of Lord Beresford's instructions is kept secret, but is practically certain that there will be no attempt to force the Dardanelles, or to make a demonstration before Constantinople. Rear Admiral Lambton's squadron at Port Said is in readiness to protect the Suez canal should the Turks attempt an advance along the El-Arish route. He has several light cruisers and torpedo boats. Rear Admiral Lambton has been on a visit to Cairo to consult the British authorities.

STATE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY Annual Meeting and Election of Officers in Hartford.

Hartford, May 11.—The adjourned annual meeting of the Connecticut Horticultural society was held here to-night in the county building. President A. C. Sternberg presided and a paper was read by Alexander Cumming of Hartford, describing agricultural work done by the society at the St. Louis exposition. Routine business was transacted, and the following officers elected:

President, A. C. Sternberg, West Hartford; vice presidents of counties: Hartford, R. A. Griffing; New Haven, G. X. Amrham; Windham, D. A. Lyman; New London, W. B. Colt; Fairfield, Edwin Hoyt; Litchfield, H. H. Bridgman; Tolland, O. A. Leonard; Middlesex, A. N. Pierson; secretary, Alexander Cumming, Hartford; treasurer, W. W. Hunt, Hartford; statistician and professor of vegetable physiology, Superintendent of Parks G. A. C. Parker of Hartford; pomologist, A. C. Sternberg; librarian, Alexander Cumming; executive committee, A. C. Sternberg, A. W. Deings, F. W. Davis, E. E. Geer, J. P. Huss, C. U. Fohn, Dr. G. L. Farneslee and R. A. Griffing. Contrary to expectation the Hartford Florists club did not join the state organization as a body to-night, although it was intended that the club might take such a step later. It was also to hold an exhibit at Hartford some time next fall.

ALL SALOON LICENSES REVOKED Unanimous Action of San Francisco Police Commission.

San Francisco, May 11.—All saloon licenses in San Francisco were to-day ordered revoked by unanimous vote of the police commissioners on suggestion of Mayor Schmitz, who decided that all saloons should remain closed for an indefinite period. He attributed the absence of crime and the presence of order since the fire to the fact that the edict against the selling of liquor has been rigidly enforced. In discussing this sweeping order the commissioners were a unit in voicing the sentiment that the future welfare of the city would be enhanced by a fewer number of drinking places. A number of saloon proprietors are building temporary structures in which they hope soon to be permitted to dispense liquor. To these the commissioners issued a warning advising them that in the future would be greatly curtailed and that it was unwise for them to incur any expense in the way of temporary building operations.

Eruption Diminishing. Naples, May 11.—The eruption of Mount Vesuvius is diminishing. The ashes have now taken the direction of Pompeii and Ottajano, while some ashes have fallen at Somma.

MANY PENSION BILLS.

House Passes 320—Point of Order Occupies Time.

Washington, May 11.—After passing 320 pension bills the house to-day devoted much time to the consideration of a point of order made against an appropriation for a new steel floating dock provided in the naval appropriation bill. The debate was participated in by Mr. Tawney of Minnesota, who made the point of order against the item, Mr. Elmsted (Penn.), Mr. Mudd (Md.), Mr. Gaines (Tenn.), and Mr. Butler (Penn.).

The chair held the point of order well taken in a carefully prepared opinion. Mr. Hepburn (Gowa) made a vigorous attack upon the court-martial system in the navy, and especially criticized the officers responsible for the accidents that have happened to ships of the navy.

INVESTIGATION OF BRIBERY.

Massachusetts Legislature Case Continued Until Next Month.

Boston, May 11.—The investigation by the Suffolk county grand jury of alleged bribery in the legislature will be continued at the June sitting of the grand jury. This announcement was made by District Attorney John B. Moran at the adjournment of to-day's session, which is the last of the month's sitting. It is expected that the grand jury will report to-morrow on nearly thirty routine cases which it has been considering. It is not expected that the jury will make any report on the legislative investigation to-morrow, as only thirty of the 250 legislators whom the district attorney has planned to summon before the grand jury have as yet been before that body.

EVANS STANDS BY HIS MEN

APPROVES OF THEIR BALL PLAYING ON SUNDAY.

Rear Admiral Explains His Attitude in Letter to Department—Men Better Engaged in Sports Than Roaming the Streets Idle—Urges Provincetown Mass., Selectmen to Withdraw Their Names from Petition.

Washington, May 11.—Rear Admiral Evans, commander in chief of the North Atlantic station, to whom was referred the matter of the opposition of the town authorities of Provincetown to Sunday baseball playing by the blue-jackets at that place, has made a report to the department in which he says:

"The department has full knowledge of the customs and conditions of the service where the working days of the week are fully spent in keeping the ships in proper order and ready for any duty for which they may be called and that Sunday after muster and inspection and church services on board those ships to which chaplains are attached is practically given up to any harmless recreation or diversion that will serve to engage the time and interest of the men and officers. It is well known that where several hundred men are confined in such narrow limits as the ship, where the means of diversion are few, that all are desirous of taking advantage of any opportunity which will enable them to have a run on shore. Knowing this, it has been my practice to order that the men should have as much liberty as consistent with their duties, and on Sundays wherever the opportunity offers, large parties from all the ships have been permitted to go on shore to engage in their field sports. The petitioners against having games on Sunday can surely have no objection to men going on shore provided they do not engage in sports. It seems to me that it would be far more objectionable to them to have 2,000 or 3,000 men roaming their streets with nothing to do than it would be if the men were collected at Evans field engaged in or witnessing sports.

"At the same time I have to earnestly request that the department will urge upon the selectmen to withdraw their names from the petition and to permit our men to have their sports on Sunday afternoon when they visit the town. If they will do so I will see that the games are carried on in the same orderly manner that has characterized them there and elsewhere. I hope that the fleet can visit Provincetown a number of times this summer, if it does not interfere with the wishes of the department, because the vicinity of Cape Cod bay is most excellent for tactical and other drills. But if this restriction is put on the few hours when the men can engage in sports on shore, I can only recommend to the department an itinerary that will take us to some other point where the authorities are more tolerant of the harmless and innocent recreation of their naval defenders."

Must Have Amnesty First.

St. Petersburg, May 11.—Members of the lower house of parliament have declined an invitation of the St. Petersburg municipality, which was desirous of organizing a soiree in their honor, on the ground that fetes are impossible until amnesty has been obtained for political convicts.

To Spring Coup d'Etat.

London, May 11.—In a dispatch from Tokyo to the Daily Telegraph, it is asserted that China is about to bring off a coup d'etat with regard to the organization of all the railways in the empire.

HILL DEFENDS HIMSELF BEFORE BAR COMMITTEE

HIS RELATIONS AS COUNSEL FOR THE EQUITABLE LIFE COMPANY.

Reasonableness of His $5,000 a Year Retainer—His Counsel Submits the Case Without Argument—Never Questioned That as Senator He Had the Right to Practice Before the Court of Any State—Law Makes No Provision Against It.

New York, May 11.—The sub-committee of the grievance committee of the New York State Bar association, which was appointed at the request of former Senator David B. Hill to investigate his relations as counsel to the Equitable Life Assurance society, met here to-day, heard Mr. Hill in his own behalf, took the testimony of prominent attorneys as to the standing of Mr. Hill in the legal profession, as to the reasonableness of his $5,000 a year retainer from the Equitable, and adjourned. Mr. Hill's counsel, Charles A. Collins, submitted the case without argument. Professor E. W. Huffcutt, dean of Cornell University Law school and chairman of the sub-committee, then announced that he and his associates would consider the testimony, and submit a report to the grievance committee at the earliest moment possible.

"During the course of his testimony to-day Mr. Hill said: 'I never questioned that as senator I had the right to practice in the courts of any state of the United States. The law makes no provision against it, except that a congressman shall not practice before the government departments. I was employed by the state attorney general to try a case against the United States in 1892, when I was a senator, and have tried numerous other cases while I represented New York state in the senate.'

"Who was superintendent of insurance when you were governor?" he was asked by Henry Galbraith Ward, counsel to the committee.

"John A. McCall was superintendent of insurance when I went in. He resigned shortly afterward to take a position as manager of the Equitable. I appointed Robert A. Maxwell as his successor. He served some years, when I appointed James E. Pierce to succeed him."

"Was Mr. Pierce superintendent of insurance afterwards, while you were counsel for the Equitable?"

"I want to explain. Please do not put this down. I just want your explanation to be given without going on the record, as I do not want to drag in any names. At the time Mr. Maxwell resigned he and I had a slight falling out. At that time the senate was heavily republican, and I had to have my appointment as superintendent of insurance confirmed. Mr. Pierce was a democrat with many republican friends in the senate. I felt sure that this appointment would be confirmed, so I appointed him, for this reason more than anything else."

At the afternoon session former Governor Frank S. Black, General Benjamin F. Tracy, former Judge John F. Dillon, DeLoane Nicoll and others testified before the committee that they had known Mr. Hill for many years, that he ranked among the first men of his profession and that the $5,000 yearly retainer paid him by the Equitable was a reasonable compensation for the advice and counsel he gave.

POLICEMAN SERIOUSLY HURT. His Team Struck by Trolley Car in Allington Last Night.

Frank D. Cook, a patrolman belonging to station No. 3, met with a painful accident in Allington last night. As a result he lies in the New Haven hospital with all the ribs on his left side and his shoulder broken. It is feared that he has sustained internal injuries also. The circumstances of the accident are not clearly known. The trolleyman who discovered him lying beside the tracks say they do not know how the accident took place. Another story has it that Cook and a companion named Mayo, a mason contractor of this city, hired a team of the Palmer stable on Crown street last evening to go driving. They went to Allington and that while out there were struck by a trolley car. The horse was killed, Mayo, as far as could be learned, was not hurt. The accident took place about 9 o'clock.

A sad circumstance is that Cook had been out of duty for some time because of sickness, and last evening was his first venture out of doors for some time. He lost his wife a short time ago, and this, too, adds to the weight of sorrow which falls on his family. He lives at the corner of Frank and West streets.

Died of Ptomaine Poisoning. Naugatuck, May 11.—According to a statement to-night by J. W. Robbins, the death of William Lins, which occurred yesterday and which was given as caused by meningitis, was due primarily, it is believed, to ptomaine poisoning resulting from Lins eating some canned lobster last Saturday night. This, it is believed, brought on the meningitis. Lins was twenty-nine years old and is survived by a widow.

Not Muentner. Springfield, Ill., May 11.—B. F. Carr, who was arrested by a deputy sheriff yesterday on suspicion of being Erich Muentner, wanted for homicide at Cambridge, was released this afternoon, the officers having come to the conclusion that he is not Muentner.

KILLED AT MIDDLETOWN.

Unknown Man Struck by Passenger Train on Berlin Branch.

Middletown, May 11.—An unknown man, apparently between thirty and thirty-five years old, was struck and killed by a passenger train on the Berlin branch of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, about half a mile above this city, early to-night. He was dead when picked up. The body was taken to a local undertaker's to await possible identification. It is said that he was walking along the tracks when struck. According to the police, the man applied for work at an automobile factory here, and at that time stated that he had worked in a revolver factory in Birmingham, England. It is said that he appeared to have been drinking. Beyond this the police say they know nothing about the victim.

YALE GOLFERS WIN.

Defeat Wee Burn Club Team on Lattin's Ground.

Stamford, May 11.—The Yale golf team defeated a team from the Wee Burn club on the latter's links here to-day by a score of 7 to 0.

The score: Yale—Abbott, 9; Phelps, 1; Clowe, 9; Partridge, 3; Holland, 2; Marcus, 1. Total, 7.

Wee Burn—Brown, Herreshof, Selleck, Schavoir, Sanford, Cummings. Total, 8.

DEFEATED BY PARTY VOTE

FATE OF SENATOR BAILLEY'S NON-SUSPENSION AMENDMENT.

Rayner's Amendment Confining the Court Review Feature of Railroad Rate Measure to Constitutional Questions, Also Voted Down—Anti-Pass Provision Discussed—Evidence That It Will be Modified.

Washington, May 11.—Senator Bailey's non-suspension amendment applying to orders of the interstate commerce commission as covered by the railroad-rate bill, which has occupied so much of the attention of the senate in connection with that bill, was to-day adversely disposed of by the decisive vote of 23 to 54, practically a party vote. The debate on the provision was limited to a brief political speech by its author, in which he said the president had changed his attitude on the question maintaining the rates fixed by the commission until the courts reach the final decision.

An amendment offered by Senator Rayner confining the court review to constitutional questions was also voted down, but not until after speeches had been made by Messrs. Rayner and Bailey in advocacy and Messrs. Allison, Fulton, Long and Cullom in opposition. The debate was in anticipation of the discussion that is expected to occur upon the Allison court-review provision to-morrow. Messrs. Rayner and Bailey contended that the Allison amendment authorized the broadest possible court review, and the Maryland senator urged that in it Senator Aldrich had achieved a signal victory. Senator Fulton stated that he had first suggested the language of the Allison provision.

A number of other amendments, offered in the main by democrats and by Senator LaFollette, were rejected. The votes were generally along party lines during the entire day, but the Wisconsin senator voted with the democrats on all propositions, and Messrs. Morgan and McNery, democrats, voted with the republicans on most of them.

The only amendments accepted during the day were those offered by Senator Allison striking out the phrase "fairly remunerative" in the provision allowing the interstate commerce commission to fix rates and limiting the operations of orders of the commissions to two years and making the interstate commerce commission the defendant in suits challenging the rates fixed by it. The anti-pass provision was again discussed. It is evident that it will be modified.

INCREASE IN PAY.

Granted to Freight Handlers of the Boston and Maine.

Boston, May 11.—The freight handlers of the Boston and Maine railroad employed at the Boston freight sheds and wharves were to-day granted an increase in wages which brings the rate of pay to $2 a day. The existing work-agency and rules will remain unchanged. Fifteen hundred men are affected. The freight handlers have been receiving $1.90 a day.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford freight handlers are now holding conferences with the management of that system regarding a demand for a similar advance. The Boston and Albany men have been receiving $1.85 a day, and it is understood that they have met with a refusal of their request and that a strike may follow.

Mrs. Catherine White Dead.

Mrs. Catherine White of 19 Redfield street died at the hospital early this morning of stomach trouble. Mrs. White was fifty-five years old and a widow. She leaves several children. One son is Francis White, a member of the fire department.

Child Dies at Hospital.

Celia Rosen, five years old, of 23 Gold street, died at the New Haven hospital last evening of meningitis. She had been in the hospital since May 1.

UNDERTAKING BUSINESS TIED UP IN NEW YORK

FIFTEEN HUNDRED FUNERAL DRIVERS GAVE UP WORK YESTERDAY.

Many Bodies Remains Unburied—Hearses and Carriages Driven Away from Churches, Mourners Kept Waiting All Day and in Several Cases Non-Union Drivers' Hearses and Carriages Are Attacked in Streets.

New York, May 11.—The strike of 1,500 funeral drivers, ordered last night, tied up the undertaking business in New York city to-day so completely that about 150 bodies remained unburied. Hearses and carriages were driven away from churches, mourners were kept waiting all day in homes of the dead, and in several instances non-union drivers' hearses and carriages were attacked in the streets. Police protection had to be called.

In many cases undertakers appealed to the board of health for permits to postpone burial beyond the four day limit, while others asked for permission to convey bodies to the cemetery on trucks or street cars under police protection. In every case permission to use street cars for funeral vehicles was denied, but in cases where death had occurred from contagious diseases and immediate burial was required, undertakers were forced to make use of their coffin wagons or such vehicles as they were able to procure with drivers.

The strikers declared to-night their fight for $4 per week instead of $12 is on in earnest. Their employers, the Coach Owners association, met to-night and decided not to grant the increase.

HOPPE BREAKS RECORD.

Makes Run of 307 in Match With Schaefer.

Chicago, May 11.—The world's record high run, eighteen-inch ball, two in, was broken to-night by Willie Hoppe, who set the new mark at 307. The former record—355—was held by Louis Cure.

Hoppe made the record to-night in his game with Jake Schaefer, whom he defeated in eight innings, 500 to 132, in the professional tournament at Orchestra hall.

Schaefer won the bank and made a run of 12. Hoppe retired with a clipper, ran four in his next trial, then picked up 55. In the fourth inning Hoppe got the balls together and his long run, which resulted in the breaking of the world's record for this style of billiards was begun. He played fast and with confidence.

When Hoppe had reached within a few points of Cure's record, he executed several difficult shots to gain a better position. During the record-breaking run, Hoppe carried the balls around the table three times and after passing Cure's record gathered 629 more points. To make the 308th billiard he was compelled to shoot clear across the table at the object ball, go to the side cushion and thence to the opposite side to hit the red ball. He missed the second ball by the smallest fraction of an inch, and sat down, while the 1,800 spectators rose and applauded with vigor.

Up to this point Schaefer had scored 94 points. He made 10 on his fifth try, and Hoppe ran 40. Schaefer then gathered in 70, but was apparently suffering from nervousness, as he missed an easy carom. Hoppe then drew a clipper, but with a 26 in the seventh and a 68 in the eighth, he finished the game.

Hoppe plays Slosson to-morrow afternoon and Sutton plays Schaefer to-morrow night. Cure has concluded his play in the tournament, and finished in fifth position.

Score of to-night's games: Hoppe, 6, 4, 55, 397, 40, 26, 68—500 Average, 64 4-8. Schaefer, 12, 1, 79, 2, 10, 70, 5, 14—103 Average, 24 1-8.

DOWIE CRITICALLY ILL.

His Strength Reported to be Fast Fading.

Chicago, May 11.—John Alexander Dowie is critically sick in bed, and his strength is said to be fading rapidly. Dr. Blanks, who has been in constant attendance on Dowie since his return from Mexico, to-night said that Dowie might live ten days, but that a fatal termination of the disease within two or three days would not be surprising.

Students Shot.

Columbia, Mo., May 11.—Several state university students were shot and otherwise injured in a fight with employees of a circus last night. A show man was shot in the jaw, and several circus employees were hurt.

Attell and Hermann Draw. Los Angeles, Cal., May 11.—Abel Attell of San Francisco and Kid Hermann of Chicago to-night fought a twenty-round draw.

PALACE OF PEACE DESIGNS.

Awards in the Competition—Frenchman Gets First Prize.

The Hague, May 11.—Awards in the competition for designs of the Palace of Peace were made to-day. The first prize, $3,000, was awarded to L. M. Cordier of Lille, France; the second, $2,250, to A. Marcel of Paris; the third, $1,750 to Franz Wendt of Charlottenburg, and the fourth, $1,250, to Otto Wagner of Vienna. A prize of $750 was awarded to Howard Grey and H. S. Olin of New York, and the same amount to Franz Schwechten of Berlin.

The winning design is a splendidly executed conception in the style of a northern French chateau. The main building will be flanked at either end by high towers, with a facade, M. Cordier is about forty-eight years of age and already has won distinction by important works. He won in 1885 the first prize in the competition for the Amsterdam bourse.

CARL SCHURZ'S CONDITION.

Former Secretary of the Interior Critically Ill.

New York, May 11.—Carl Schurz, the noted publicist and former secretary of the interior, continues critically ill at his home in this city. He is suffering from a complication of diseases, and while it was thought early to-day there had been an improvement in his condition, it was felt to-night that the patient had lost ground. Late to-night the following bulletin was issued by the attending physicians:

"No tangible change for the better. Takes nourishment. Pulse of fair quality. Respiration rather more frequent. Two moderate attacks of pulmonary oedema during the day. No pain, but rather more restless."

TWO HUNDRED MEN LAID OFF

AT THE RAILROAD SHOPS YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

News Came Like a Thunderbolt—Cause Given, It is Said, Necessity for Reducing Expenses—Machinists, Blacksmiths, Boiler-makers, Car Builders and Others Affected.

Like a thunderbolt from out a clear sky and carrying consternation not only among those whom it affected but also among the rank and file of employees in general at the railroad shops came the news which was sent round yesterday that orders from headquarters have come to the effect that some 200 of the men employed in the different departments were to be laid off indefinitely. That the men were utterly astonished and dumbfounded is only putting it mildly, and they naturally began to speculate and look around for a cause. But up to a late hour last night none of them had been able to solve the problem. The only reason that has been offered, it is stated, is that the working expenses of the road had to be reduced. This may or may not be the cause, but the fact remains that the services of the number of men mentioned above has been dispensed with for the present. Those affected by the order are machinists, blacksmiths, boiler-makers' helpers, collier makers, boiler-makers' helpers, fitters, car builders, etc. Some of those laid off, it has been stated, are men who have been in the employment of the road for a long number of years and no discrimination of any kind, it has been stated, has been shown, married men as well as single men have come under the ban. In this connection a touching incident of the affair was related to a press representative. One of the men who was among those listed to go was the father of a large family who are depending wholly on his earnings for their support. He felt the position, it is stated, very keenly. A single man, who had no one to look after but himself, went to the foreman, interceded for him and resigned his position in order that the married man might retain his position. The action was highly spoken of by many of the men last night. Those who claim to know think that owing to the fact that all the departments are busy and seem to require all the men that have been at work, that there must be some other motive for the lay off than simply the statement which has been made that it has been done in order to reduce working expenses, and until some definite news comes from those in authority or an explanation is made public, the men affected remain in unhappy ignorance of the "why."

Killed at New London.

New London, May 11.—Frank W. Greene, aged twenty-nine, was killed here this afternoon. He was employed to care for belts at the plant of the Brown Cotton Gin company, and attempted to run a belt off the pulley of the main shaft with his bare hand when his clothing caught and he was whirled around the shaft. Greene was removed to the Memorial hospital, where he died in half an hour.

Bey of Tunis Dead.

Tunis, May 11.—Sidi Mohammed, bey of Tunis, died this evening at his summer palace of complicated hemiplegia, from which he had been a sufferer since 1904. His cousin, Mohammed El-Nash, succeeds him.

First Break in Cabinet Imminent.

London, May 11.—The first break in the new cabinet is imminent through the appointment of Attorney General Sir John Lawson Walton as lord of appeal in ordinary in succession to Lord MacNaghten.

RECEIVES PROFESSOR MOUOMTSEFF, PRESIDENT OF THE LOWER HOUSE.

Later Impressed With the Emperor's Earnest Interest in the Problems of the Country—Political Questions Not Gone Into—Question of Reply to Speech From the Throne—Commission to Investigate the Agrarian Problem.

St. Petersburg, May 11.—The hope of the establishment of friendly relations between the emperor and the national parliament was further strengthened to-day by the audience granted by Emperor Nicholas at Peterhof to Professor Mouomtseff, the president of the lower house. Professor Mouomtseff returned to St. Petersburg from the audience apparently much impressed by the emperor's earnest interest in the problems of the country. Though the radical hot-heads had been praying that Professor Mouomtseff would lay down the law to the emperor and make a scene, the half hour's conversation was skillfully guided both by the sovereign and the parliamentary chief so that friction was avoided. To the constitutional democratic members of the house who waited his return from Peterhof at the Constitutional club Professor Mouomtseff spoke only briefly, laying especial emphasis on the emperor's courtesy and consideration and his thorough knowledge of the sentiment in the parliament and society. Professor Mouomtseff said political questions were not gone into, as he had regarded it as not fitting that the president of the representative chamber should present at an official audience the views of any one group or body.

The burning subject of the reply to the speech from the throne probably will not be reached at to-morrow's session of the lower house, the time of which body will be taken up with the election of officers, the adoption of necessary rules of procedure and the appointment of a committee on credentials. A commission to investigate the agrarian problem perhaps will be appointed. Both the vice-presidents will be constitutional democrats, the peasants, though at first insisting that they be given one place, having been unable to agree upon one of their number. The vice-presidents probably will be Professor Grodeskul, of Kharkoff, and Prince Peter Dolgoroukoff.

GARDEN CITY TOURNAMENT.

Reaches Semi-Final Stage—Will be Concluded To-day.

Garden City, L. I., May 11.—The invitation tournament of the Garden City Golf club which began yesterday has reached the semi-final stage and will be concluded to-morrow afternoon. There are four prizes and four divisions of golfers are playing for them, but interest is centered in the main contest for the president's cup. Walter J. Travis, former international champion, Jerome D. Travers, who is ranked in ability to Travis in the Metropolitan district, and W. W. Tillinghast, of Atlantic City and A. L. Hicks of the Nassau Country club are the four survivors in the principal competition.

Neither Travis nor Travers played up to his usual form in the qualifying round yesterday, but both showed to much better advantage to-day. In the morning Travis had to play out twenty holes in order to beat his clubmate, Arden M. Robbins, but in the afternoon he defeated Charles H. Seely, the metropolitan champion, by 3 up and 6 to play, making the full circuit of the difficult course in 77, by far the best card of the tournament. He is picked to win the semi-final from W. L. Hicks to-morrow. J. D. Travers played steadily to-day in both of his matches, and if he defeats A. W. Tillinghast of Atlantic City in the semi-final to-morrow a revival of the old-time rivalry and clever play of both the acknowledged experts may be seen in the final match for the principal trophy to-morrow afternoon.

ARCHBISHOP OF NEW ORLEANS

Right Rev. James H. Blenk Receives the Appointment.

Washington, May 11.—Right Rev. James H. Blenk, bishop of Porto Rico has been appointed archbishop of New Orleans to fill the vacancy created by the death of Archbishop Chapelle. Archbishop Blenk left here this afternoon for Baltimore for a conference with Cardinal Gibbons.

To Find Out Exact Meaning of Edict.

London, May 11.—Replying to a question by Sir Charles Dilke in the house of commons to-day concerning China's edict appointing new customs officials Foreign Secretary Grey said that the government did not suppose the Chinese edict was intended to modify the functions of Sir Robert Hart, director general of Chinese customs, but that the British charge d'affaires at Peking had been instructed to ask the exact meaning of the edict.

Fire in Stamford Millinery Store.

Stamford, May 11.—The contents of the A. C. Pennell millinery store here was burned to-day entailing a loss of about $3,000. The insurance is about $1,300. The fire is said to have started from an oil stove and so quickly did the flames spread that some of the employees had to escape through windows. The damage was by water as well as fire.

Glorious Bargain News for Saturday, May 12

The Queen's English is almost insufficient to tell the important news. It is not ordinary bargain news, but extraordinary in the most extreme sense of the word. We have started at the front doors, at Chapel Street, and have gone straight through every department to Pitkin Street---upstairs and downstairs---never sparing the blue pencil---cutting prices almost recklessly. And the result is bound to be astounding. We expect a crowd with the opening of our doors, and if you are among those, you'll fare better than the late-comers, 'though in many cases there will be enough to go around.

Read Through all the Items---Don't Miss Any.

You truly cannot afford to let anything advertised on this page go by without careful consideration. It's a matter of dollars and cents. It means saving money on good, new, clean, reliable merchandise, which according to the natural laws of business, should be bringing regular prices. Now all ready---GO!

The Coat and Suit Section Is Ready for a Record Saturday.

Last Saturday was a remarkable day in this department. It truly was. But we're not going to let it stand as a record. This Saturday shall be even greater. And in order to accomplish that purpose we shall give the greatest bargains ever offered to any public. Many lots are limited; so come here early while the assortments are at their best.

JUDGES FOR PRINCETON DEBATE

The following men have consented to act as judges for the Yale-Princeton debate: Prof. Clark of Columbia university, Paul D. Cravath and John G. Milburne.

Mr. Cravath is a member of the law firm of Guthrie, Cravath & Henderson of New York city. In 1882 he graduated from Oberlin college and from the California law school in 1885. He is a member of the New York Bar association, having been admitted to the bar in 1886.

J. G. Milburne is a member of the law firm of Carter, Ledyard & Milburne of New York city. He is also a member of American and New York State Bar association. Mr. Milburne was president of the Pan-American exposition, 1901, and a delegate at the Universal Congress of Lawyers and Jurists at St. Louis in 1904.

RETURNS FROM THE COUNCIL

Forty New Haven Members at the O. U. A. M. Convention.

Louis E. Jacobs, state representative of the National council, O. U. A. M., returned yesterday morning from Bridgeport, where the annual meeting of the state council was held. Mr. Jacobs was accompanied by about forty members of the order from New Haven.

A large amount of business was transacted and a number of radical changes voted. The rate of admission was set at a minimum price of $10, the former rate being $5. It was also voted to secure a special car to accommodate the New England delegates to the national convention in Dayton, O., in September next.

UNIVERSITY TEAM GOLF SCHEDULE

Two more games have been added to the preliminary schedule for the Yale university golf team, which was announced early in the season. The revised schedule as it now stands is as follows:

- Friday, May 11—Wee Burn Country Golf club.
- Saturday, May 12—Montclair Golf club.
- Saturday, May 19—Williams college.
- Saturday, May 26—St. Andrews Golf club.
- Saturday, June 9—Englewood Golf club.

TAKES NEW POSITION

B. I. Lindley leaves Woodmont today for Woonsocket, R. I., where he has accepted a position as a department foreman in the employ of the Taff-Pierce Manufacturing company. Mr. Lindley has been a resident of Woodmont for more than twenty years and has had a prominent part in the growth of the place. His decision to leave is regretted by a large number of people most of whom hope that he will shortly decide to return to Woodmont again.

NEW QUARTERS FOR MR. LAULLESS

By reason of the expansion of his business Mr. M. J. Laulless has taken more commodious quarters in the Malley building, and is now located in suite 504. Mr. Laulless has had an experience of fifteen years in dealing in realty in this city, and now has the cooperation of two popular gentlemen in Charles H. Day, solicitor and local historian, and Henry E. Norris, for six years city clerk, and also favorably known in political and fraternal circles.

SHANNON OUTPUT

Company Estimated to Have Earned $45,000 During Month of March. It is estimated that for March the Shannon Copper company earned about $45,000 net upon a production of 922,000 pounds of copper. For April upon a production of 1,312,000 pounds, it is estimated to have earned about $60,000 net. The large April output gives the Shannon company an average of 1,000,000 pounds of copper per month this year—within 46,000 pounds of 4,000,000.

WOODMONT FIRE CO.

At the meeting of the Woodmont Fire company held last Monday evening a drill was held and a number of important matters were transacted on of which was the election of "Major" R. H. Hibbard to the position of First Assistant foreman, which position has been vacant since the resignation of C. H. Warner.

PRINCETON HERE TO-DAY.

DUAL TRACK MEET TO BE HELD AT YALE FIELD.

Ellis' Expect to Win Easily—Princeton Booked to Do Well in Sprints, Hurdles and Broad Jump—Officials for the Games.

The Yale track team will meet Princeton's track team at Yale field this afternoon in the most important home games of the season. Confidence prevails among the Yale men of their ability to make a score of at least 74 to 50 in their own favor, Cornell's every victory over the orange and black last Saturday confirms the belief.

Yesterday's practice at Yale field was very light. Tom Shevlin has been improving steadily, but he may not compete to-day. It is thought that Roswell Tripp, the football guard, and John George, the former end rush, can take care of the hammer throw. Yale is weakened somewhat, however, by the absence of Eli Parsons and the injuries to Hasbrouck, the high jumper, and Dray the pole vaulter. It will be a close contest at Cambridge next week and Yale does not intend to risk a single point by overworking her men to-day.

Princeton's best showing is expected to be in the sprints with Gamble, in the hurdles with Armstrong, in the broad jump with Simons, and the high jump with Tooker. No records are expected to be broken. Her team is in charge of Al Copland, the old Yale track coach, who succeeds Jim Robinson.

The officials are: Referee—Major H. V. Turpin, Sixty-ninth regiment A. A. Judges at finish—M. L. Pratt, B. A. A.; B. S. Weeks, N. Y. A. C.; T. E. Hull, New Haven.

Time—R. Stoll, N. Y. A. C.; A. B. Cox, '87; Dr. W. C. Anderson, Yale.

Field judges—H. H. Baxter, N. Y. A. C.; E. T. Glass, 1904 S. L. V. DeLaney, N. Y. A. C.; T. G. Wall, J. R. Truesdale, Princeton; G. B. Clark, B. A. A.; G. S. Munson, 1904, W. G. Graves, Harvard.

Starter—T. D. C. New York. Clerk of course—J. J. Dixon. Assistant clerks of course—C. Sumner, 1907; A. B. Walsh, Princeton.

Inspectors—C. E. Cox, '92; C. E. Patterson, Princeton; C. L. Duval 1906; L. B. Stevens; Colonel G. B. Billings, B. A. A.; J. B. Thomas, jr., '93; E. H. Sherrill, '89; E. J. Dives, Harvard.

Scorers—E. J. Thompson, Yale Alumni Weekly; H. M. Sedgwick, New Haven Register; J. B. Waterworth, 1908. Games manager—W. C. Motter, Princeton; M. B. Sands, 1906.

JOHN BROWN'S BIRTHDAY.

Immanuel Baptist Church to Celebrate It Tomorrow Evening.

The 19th anniversary of the birth of John Brown is to be observed tomorrow evening at the Immanuel Baptist church at Chapel and Day streets at 7:45 o'clock. The following programme has been arranged:

Doxology, Choir. Scripture Lesson and Prayer. Anthem, Choir.

"America," Choir and Congregation. Brown's Letter to His Family After the Harper's Ferry Raid, Mr. Benjamin Mitchell.

Brown's Last Letter to His Wife, Miss Martha Franklin.

"The Battle Hymn of the Republic," Choir.

"Some Elements in the Character of John Brown," an Address, A. Clayton Powell.

Solo, "The Star Spangled Banner," Miss Mamie Butts.

"Brown of Ossawatimie," Whittier. Mrs. S. E. Bookar.

"John Brown's Body," Choir and Audience.

NEW HAVEN DRIVING ASSOCIATION.

Under its new officials the New Haven Driving association is planning to hold its open meet at Elm City park on Memorial day. Entries have been asked for, and it is certain that the classes will fill in all the events. There will be a free-for-all trot. No admission will be charged to the park.

Frank C. Bushnell is president of the club, and under his administration some interesting meets are planned for this season.

A CANADIAN PARADISE.

Temagami is shaped like an octopus, with long stretched out arms, and its shores are indented with deep circling bays, island strewn and culminating in sharp points and curves that add to the beauty of this magical scene. The lake of deep waters in the meaning of the Indian word, and they lie very deep and cool in their bed of granite, in stillness a perfect mirror, in storm darkly menacing, with foam edged waves showing fanglike teeth.

Being a hundred square miles in area, Temagami forms one of Canada's great natural reservoirs. Mighty rivers from the height of land to the north flow in it; and it in turn feeds the streams that flow southward, carrying their life-giving waters through the forests to the peopled lands below. There are 1,400 islands in the lake, and the government has included the whole area in a magnificent forest reserve of a million and a half acres.—Four Track News.

PRISON NOT REFORMATORY.

None but a novice will maintain that punishment reforms. To reform must mean to change the "inward feeling," the real nature of the victim; the laws of physics and of human nature alike prove that this cannot be done by brutality and by degradation. Of course no one would assert that capital punishment can reform, nor imprisonment for life or beyond the reformative period of the prisoner's character. Likewise, no one who has the least knowledge of penal institutions can believe that the humiliation, degradation and brutality incident to all such establishments, the constant association with the hopeless and abandoned, can soften the heart or re-form the nature of the man or woman. On a very few can survive an extended prison sentence and emerge other than a complete moral wreck. Not only is the killing of the brute savage the more efficient, but it is the more merciful as well.

The theory of punishment and reform is utterly inconsistent. Punishment

YALE REPUBLICAN CLUB.

About twenty-five Yale students formed a Yale Republican club last evening at the Union League club. The officers elected were:

President—Alexander Cumming. Secretary—Albert J. Ewart, 1906. Treasurer—L. S. Olds, 1907.

GUESTS OF ATTORNEY CUMMING.

William R. Castle, Dean Henry Wade Rogers, George B. Martin, Clarence E. Thompson were the guests of Attorney Alexander Cumming at dinner at the Union League last evening.

NEW HAVEN BANK CLERKS

Have Formed a New Baseball Club—Officers Elected.

New Haven bank clerks have formed a new baseball club and elected officers as follows: President—M. M. Pratt, of the National Tradesmen's bank. Vice-president—Judson Terill, of the Yale National bank. Secretary—Malcolm Booth, of the First National bank. Manager—Samuel W. Tator, of the National Tradesmen's bank. Captain—George Tester, of the Union Trust company.

The team has purchased uniforms and is ready for the season. Among the several games already arranged is one with the baseball team from the National City bank of New York. This will probably be played at the Savin Rock grounds on the morning of Memorial day.

YALE'S BASEBALL DATES THIS AFTERNOON.

Yale's "variety nine" opens its series with Holy Cross at Worcester to-day, (when a rousing game is expected. Jackson will probably twirl for the blue. Holy Cross beat Harvard 4 to 2 last Saturday, and a smashing game is expected to-day.

The Yale freshman nine will be at home this afternoon for a game with Dean academy, of Franklin, Mass. This team beat Mercersburg easily last week.

$25,000 CAPITAL.

The Ultra Motor company, of New Haven, filed papers of incorporation at Hartford yesterday with a capital stock of $25,000. The incorporators are Joseph Schaeffers and John H. Connell, of New Haven, and John K. Brachvogel and Otto S. Jung, of New York. The company is to manufacture, build and construct engines, motors, motor cars and motor boats.

RESOLUTIONS ON J. D. DEWELL'S DEATH.

At the meeting of the directors of the New Haven Water company yesterday resolutions attesting the sense of personal loss felt by the officers and board of that corporation by the death of the late James D. Dewell were passed. No one was chosen to succeed Mr. Dewell in the board of directors at yesterday's meeting.

GENERAL GREELEY IMPROVING.

General Edwin S. Greeley, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia at his home on Trumbull street, continues to improve and it is thought he will be up in a few days.

FAVORS SUNDAY CIVIC MEETINGS.

The Yale Alumni Weekly in its news and editorial departments favors the holding of Sunday civic mass meetings at Woolsey hall.

THE LAST ROUND UP.

To-day in Eastern Washington, in the southern part of Douglas county, a small army of horsemen are engaged upon the last "round-up" which the state will ever witness, marking the final passage of the ranch and range and the coming of the new order of the farm and garden. These horsemen will round up all of the brands of horses which have been grazing in that portion of the state, some of which the owners of the brands have not seen for years; some of which are ownerless, in the sense that no one can tell with authority to whom belongs; and presumably the small band of wild ponies manesless for many generations, which is believed to range in that section.

Within a period which looks brief in the country east of Cascade mountains in this state was the open range, on which fed thousands of head of cattle and of horses. Individual owners of such brands ranged their herds from the Columbia river, at the southern boundary of the state line, to the British Columbia border, without encountering a barbed wire fence, and without trespassing upon land in private ownership.

The wheat field has taken the place of the range, and the vast herds of cattle have gone elsewhere, in greater part. The range has gone likewise, with the exception of a few bands such as now being rounded up. With the passage of the range; with the last round-up much that is picturesque passes from the state. What is left is more prosaic, and also more comfortable.—Seattle Post Intelligence.

means a penalty for an act. Reform means treatment, as for dismalignant the disease the more tender, patient and careful should be the treatment. Nor should any part of the treatment be humiliation, degradation, or mental physical pain. The strips, the silence, the hard work the number substituted for the name, the fixed term regardless of cure—all these have no relation to reform, and were never meant for reform, but are punitive and nothing more. The theory of reform only adds hypocrisy to the bitter, and heavy crime of cruelty that rests upon civilization for the prisons of the world.—Clarence S. Darrow, in "The Cultivist."

early in his career, prospered amazingly and, as far as can be learned, honestly. Even if he has given up housekeeping and is living on one of the craft enumerated, everybody is well aware that a yacht is an expensive plaything; and four yachts must be nearly four times as expensive.

WHY VESUVIUS IS FEARED.
Compared with Aetna or Mauna Loa, Vesuvius is not a great volcano, but the population clinging to its slopes is the densest in Italy. The ruined Boscoreale lies four miles southeast from the crater. Only a mile further Torre Annunziata, with 25,000 people, is in imminent danger. Portici, Resina and Torre del Greco, with 75,000 people combined, lie nearer, but to the southwest. Ottajano, with 30,000 souls, is threatened on the northeast. To complete the circuit, even Naples to the west, is not unalarmed. It is not the central crater alone that has latterly made trouble, but new vents breaking through the sides of the mountain.

The cinder-strewn slopes of the mountain are covered with vineyards from which the "Vesuvio" wine is produced. The bay shore is dotted with gay villas. Pompeii, which was buried 30 feet deep in ashes, is seven miles from the crater. A circuit of that extent today includes 200,000 people. Castellamara, between 11 and 12 miles from the crater, is a bee-line, was also destroyed in the year '79. A 12-mile radius about Vesuvius includes all the older and denser section of Naples and enough other thriving towns to make a total of 800,000 people.

An active volcano just back of Lynn Mass, destroying that city, threatening Salem and quieting Boston itself would be a fair American parallel to the situation that confronts the most beautiful and populous region in Italy.—New York World.

RINGS WITH SECRET LOCKET.

Pebbles Mounted for Sleeve Links and Other Jewelry Novelties. Some men's gold signet rings have secret locket tops, and the same idea is applied to gold sleeve links, with oval tops opening in like manner, to hold a tiny photograph.

All sorts of add links and knots are seen on fancy bracelets. A hairpin jar of crystal, of octagon form, has a cherub design on the silver top.

For unique effects, that of wearing uncut jewels, mounted as pendants or charms, is gaining favor. Toothbrush stands have the frame at the top tied with glass caps, made to slide over the brushes they accommodate, as a means of protecting them from dust.

There is a fancy just now of having pebbles mounted, not as heismos, but for their beauty! Mounted in silver or gold, being duly polished, they may be made useful as sleeve links. The narcissus is one of the prettiest designs seen on silver toilet sets, being a conventional arrangement in filling the space assigned with the natural form of flower and leaf.

For the debutante is an engagement book of pompadour design, or hand painted with rosebuds or forget-me-nots, and finished with gold clasps and a pretty gold pencil attached by a slender chain.

Among the taking frivolities of the moment are the useful little trinkets in miniature form which, if not indispensable, are as a whim of fashion, still worn while possessing for their beauty and grace.

A charming cross displays two emeralds alternating with a beautiful gold leaf in dull yellow, while another cross composed of pearls is finished with a group of light colored sapphires at each end of the cross.

The popularity of the old fashioned locket, which is suspended from a neck-chain, is the occasion for the introduction of something new in this line, which has been seen in the shape of a golden ball locket worn as a charm on a jewel set bangle.

Dog collars are fashionable for evening wear in jet, pearls, precious or semi-precious stones. Rose quartz, pink jacinth cut crystals and mother of pearl are appropriate for young girls in collars, necklaces or bands. Also pale blue and pink bead crisscross collarettes.

Women who wear other than lace cuffs, as a combination of linen and lace, have an interest in the revival of cuff links, which are of course of a variety of styles of the plain decorative order, as conventional flowers with a pearl or diamond at the heart or fancy knots of dull gold.—Jewelers' Circular Weekly.

If he lives to complete the awful task, ex-Senator William A. New Jersey has been shrewd. From 1893 to the end of 1905, New Jersey collected from miscellaneous corporations $16,847,499 in franchise taxes. The Lafayette Memorial Commission, through its vice president, Alexander H. Revell, has issued a report respecting the erection of a Lafayette monument in the Louvre, at Paris. The report says that the seeming delay in the completion of the monument is due entirely to the care and work necessary to make this statue correspond to its surroundings when it is finished. The French government accepted the plan of the statue, the report says, only on condition that its erection and execution should be supervised by two committees, one the architects of the Louvre and the other composed of well known French sculptors.

HONGYANJI. Go away from home to get the news. Ryoen Takagi, a Buddhist high priest, has been interviewed in Tokio, and he has given a very hopeful talk about the spread of and outlook for his religion in Europe and the United States. He is quoted as saying that he believed that thirty per cent. of the European people eventually would become Buddhists. The sect wished to spread its faith far and wide throughout the West. A noted Buddhist priest who had gone to the United States on the invitation of wealthy Americans has already secured many converts, who have promised to build temples. Another priest is now on the way to England. The war had given Buddhism another sect, called Hongyanji, which was making tremendous strides in America. Who has heard anything about Hongyanji in this country? Can it be that it is masquerading in the disguise of civic betterment?

A RESPECTFUL HOPE. There is going to be a meeting at Woolsey Hall to-morrow afternoon, and the indications are that it will be a big one. Anyhow, those who are managing it are enthusiastic about it, and it may be found that their enthusiasm has permeated the common people. The general subject of the meeting will be "The Public Use of Public Buildings," and the speakers are men who can talk well about that. Some good music will adorn the proceedings.

It is announced that this meeting will be "the last of the season." The next season will, we suppose, begin when people have got back from their vacations and are refreshed and ready to work and be worked again. There will be quite a vacation, and if we may be allowed to respectfully hope a little we hope it will be spent by some who will take part in it in getting back to their regular minds. We are ready to admit, for the sake of a New Haven argument, that Woolsey Hall ought to be donated to "the people" for anything from a musical performance to a legal boxing match, and we are also ready to admit, for the sake of a New Haven argument, that the Yale managers have a pretty good right to use Woolsey Hall as they think best. We will further admit, for the same sake, that it is an edifying spectacle to see the local Yale set torn up over something or other as it seems to be. But the whole business isn't half as big and serious as it seems to some to be, and therefore we respectfully hope that "the good old Summer time" will mitigate the anger that is now in celestial minds, and that "the next season" will be much less acrimonious. Does civic betterment consist in getting mad with each other and staying mad?

FROM GLORY TO GLORY. The new Galveston has been going from glory to glory since she got out of the tidal wave. A director of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company has been in the South with an idea of observing the conditions there with an especial view toward the possibilities of distributing through that territory a large number of immigrants that now come to New York. After three weeks of inspection he has been convinced that a line of steamers to a southern port will pay a good profit. Mr. Von Pills, the director, states that in his judgment Galveston would be a more eligible port than New Orleans on account of the superiority of the harbor and the accessibility of the docks. He has received assurances from officers of the national government and the local authorities at Galveston that satisfactory facilities for the handling of immigrants will be provided at Galveston. The South needs the immigrants and Galveston needs all the trade and prominence she can get and means to have them. So the establishment of the new line will please many who are not more interested in the prosperity and growth of New York than of Galveston.

ENGLAND IN INDIA. Some thoughtful Englishmen are worrying about the situation in India. The London Times publishes a striking letter from a special correspondent concerning the recent development in India of forces antagonistic to British authority. This antagonism, he says, has its chief source in the very classes which have been most carefully instructed in the ways of western civilization. "We have been engaged," he says, "for nearly a century in expanding the area of English education in India, and in every successive generation an increasing number of young Indians have been initiated through our language and our literature into a new world of thought. Yet so far the main result has been to breed in them a spirit of revolt against the political ascendancy of the race to whose superiority in the realm of knowledge their eagerness to share in the benefits of the education which it imparts is an abiding tribute." He finds an explanation of this phenomenon in a paper of Dr. Theodore Morrison, formerly the principal of All-garth college, who wrote: "The answer which almost all Indians give to the question, 'What has English literature taught you?' is that it has taught them liberty to think for themselves; it has freed them from slavery to authority. The characteristic of all Indian teaching in the past, whether Hindu or Mohammedan, has been reverence for authority. The young scholar has been taught to justify his view by citing a great Pandit or Maulvi, and when he had elected to follow a certain school of thought it was sheer blasphemy to question the teaching of any of its great masters. With such antecedents it is not surprising that the most wonderful and illuminating idea in English literature should have been the freedom and independence to which it introduced them. They found themselves suddenly introduced into a world in which independent private judgment was a duty and the conscious exercise of it a virtue." Dr. Morrison then proceeds to argue that the Indian government has encouraged this spirit without making any provision for its control.

Old Errors Die Hard. To Editor of the Journal and Courier: The truth of the above "old saw" is strikingly illustrated in these days by the general discussion of the life insurance problem which is now going on in this country, on the street, in the office, in conventions, in new books, in the daily newspapers, in magazines, legislatures and the courts. Among the hoary-headed errors thus discussed is "the deferred dividend scheme." Like many another rogue, it has been caught with the goods in its possession and fairly convicted as a fraud and a thief, but its actuarial fathers and managerial friends embrace every opportunity that presents itself to them to defend it, to praise it, to proclaim its wonderful popularity, and to affirm that it "meets a felt want," or demand, "that the insuring public want it, and have a right to it," etc. The same claim exactly could be made on behalf of the late Louisiana Lottery company and on behalf of every form of gambling conceivable—all are "just what some people want" and are bound to have either openly or clandestinely. Hence the preferred dividend error is going to die very hard. But it ought to die, for all that.

The whole-life form of insurance is another hoary-headed error which will die very hard, for it has hosts of prominent friends who are indefatigable in its defense. It is. Newspapers, magazines and books, orators and actuaries are busy crying up its incomparable virtues, regardless of the conclusive testimony of the arithmetic and common sense to the contrary. A new book just out, and avowedly prepared to expose the fallacies and sins of life insurance in general, and of certain forms of it in particular, gives this bit of ocular wisdom to its readers: "A combination life and endowment policy is where, in consideration of the policyholder paying both life insurance premium and endowment premium, the company agrees to pay whether he lives or dies." Then, after a sapient remark or two, he adds these words, whose fallacy I propose to demonstrate: "This combination policy is the costliest form of life insurance protection." A concrete case will be the most conclusive for our purpose here.

Mr. John Smith, a young man twenty-four years of age, having read Q. P.'s new book on life insurance, goes to one of our best Connecticut companies and takes out a $10,000 "whole-life policy," for which the company charges him $211.70 per annum, less annual dividends. His friend, Mr. John Brown, at the same age, takes counsel of his own common sense, goes to a company organized in another state and takes out a policy for $10,000 which will mature when he becomes sixty-five years of age, or at his prior death, and agrees to pay an annual premium of $210, less annual dividends, for it. Both men continue to live and to pay their premiums year by year until their heads are white and their families are scattered, and only themselves with their wives remain. Up to this time the situations of the two men have been apparently very similar. The annual premiums have been practically identical, and the amount of their insurance exactly the same. But when the forty-second anniversary of their policy arrives the situation changes wonderfully. Mr. John Smith with a heavy heart goes to the postoffice to mail his usual check for $211.70, less annual dividends, in order to keep his policy still in force. His friend, Mr. Brown, takes out of the postoffice a letter from his company containing a check for $10,000, plus his year's dividend, and is a happy man, we may well be assured, for he is now an old man whose earning power has become almost nil. But the $10,000 will enable him and his aged wife to feel tranquil, and really to enjoy the few years of life which may still be granted them. Poor John Smith, on the other hand, having taken Q. P.'s advice, is in hard luck. True, he has $10,000 of insurance in a good company, and when he is dead somebody will get the benefit of it; in the meantime he must keep on paying, or sacrifice. It has cash value, it may be, but how much? Only about one-half of what his friend Brown has received, although he has actually paid more for it. Moral: Do not choose a "whole-life policy" nor a twenty-payment life policy. Follow Mr. Brown's wise course. T. E. DAVIES.

Everybody Grats But Father. Everybody grats but father; He's up at peep o' day, Looping the loop of the "L" road To earn his monthly pay. Mother picks his pockets. When he's sound asleep; Sister plies the bills up Until he's buried deep; Cook she gets the rake-off From every grocer man; Everybody grats 'round our house But my old man.

Father's beard is growing gray, His hair is getting thin, His back is bending double With the strain of puttin' in, Lurching on beer and sandwich While she dines at the club, And mother's social climbing— No matter how he hustles, He's just where he began. Everybody grats 'round our house But my old man.

Now, when I get big and husky I'm a-going to help my dad, And you bet I'll let no woman Go and out me to the bad; I'll take the old man fishing And let him play and rest, And when I get the money, Dress him up to beat the best. I'll never forget how good he was, And I'll boost him all I can— Nobody'll grats 'round my house But my old man. —John Irving Pearce, Jr.

A HOME DINNER FOR TWO. Sage Soup French Stew of Hearts Potato Croquettes Spinach Puff Lettuce Salad with Radishes Sapsago Wafers Little Strawberry Puddings Coffee

There are many homes where the family proper consists of but two while in more populous households temporary absences from a variety of causes reduce the number at table to a single pair. For such occasions this simple dinner is selected; although it is sufficiently well-rounded meal to be served for any informal family dinner. Supposing that the meal is to be served at the end of the day have a part of the work done in the forenoon. Boil three large potatoes and when tender drain and mash them, beating in on tablespoonful of butter, a high seasoning of salt, pepper and onion juice, a suspicion of nutmeg, one tablespoonful of rich milk or thin cream and one well beaten egg. Place in a saucepan and stir over the fire until the mixture forms in a ball in the centre of the saucepan then set aside until cool enough to handle. Form into six small croquettes, dip each into slightly beaten egg and roll in fine crumbs. Lay an inch apart on a platter sprinkled with crumbs and set away until dinner is nearly ready. Wash one heaping tablespoonful of sage first in cold then in warm water. Place in a saucepan with almost three cups of clear beef or veal stock and simmer gently until the sage is quite transparent. This will take nearly an hour. Taste to see that it is well seasoned then put aside for reheating. Pick over and wash very thoroughly two quarts of spinach, discarding roots and discolored leaves. Five or six washings will be necessary to thoroughly remove all sand and grit. Drop into a large kettle of slightly salted water and boil rapidly for fifteen minutes then drain and drop into very cold water. This will preserve and brighten the color. When cold press out every drop of water, chop fine and set aside. Break a head of lettuce, wash all the perfect, blanched leaves; drain them, wrap in a square of wetted cloth, then in heavy paper lay aside in the refrigerator or some cool place until dinner time. This saves time later on.

A HOME DINNER FOR TWO.

and the lettuce will be crisp and freshened by the process. Lightly scrub the radishes—tiny red ones, wrap up with the lettuce. Butter half a dozen of any selected kind of unsweetened crackers or wafers, sprinkle them with cheese...

Two hours and a half before dinner put three table-spoonfuls of butter in a stewing kettle and when sizzling add the sliced hearts. Turn often until they are well browned and lift out as colored. To the butter remaining in the kettle (a little more or some dripping may be added, if needed, add two table-spoonfuls of flour and stir until well browned. Gradually add one pint of hot water or stock, stirring until smoothly thickened. Return the meat to the gravy with the slices of lemon, one half of a small bay leaf, one table-spoonful of mushroom catsup, one half table-spoonful of Worcestershire and salt and pepper to taste. Cover and simmer gently until the meat is ready; then serve on a deep platter, garnishing with pin olives and slices of lemon.

To the spinach add a high seasoning of salt and pepper, a few drops of onion juice and the stiffly whipped whites of two eggs. Heap this in two individual baking dishes or ramekin cases and bake in a quick oven from twelve to fifteen minutes, until well puffed and slightly browned.

In a small but deep saucepan put sufficient clarified dripping to more than cover the potato croquettes then draw over the fire until it is so hot that a thin blue smoke rises from the center as well as round the sides. Having ready at one side a flat pan spread with thin unglazed paper (smooth grocery paper is just the thing) put two or three croquettes at a time in to the fat, being sure that they are completely submerged. A small frying basket is extremely handy; if one is used dip it first into the fat before placing in it the croquettes that the wires may be greased and so not liable to break the coating on each croquette. As the centres are already cooked that are only left in long enough to brown them nicely. Lift and turn out carefully on the papered pan; let them drain for a moment then set in the open oven or at the side of the fire where they will keep hot while the remaining ones are being cooked.

For the dessert sift together one cupful of flour, a pinch of salt a teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat one egg, add to it two table-spoonfuls of milk and stir into the dry mixture, adding more milk, if necessary, to make a thick drop batter; lastly beat in one table-spoonful of melted butter. Have ready two well buttered cups and one quarter of a pint of hulled strawberries. Drop a few berries in each cup, add a spoonful of batter and so alternate until the cups are two thirds full. Steam for half an hour place in the oven for five minutes to dry off. Mash the remainder of the berries and press through sieve, make very sweet with powdered sugar and use as a sauce for the puddings.

Arrange the lettuce on two plates, over it place the radishes quartered. When at the table dress with a French dressing. The wafers should be placed in the oven just long enough to slightly melt the cheese.

In making the coffee powder it as finely as possible. Allow one table-spoonful to each cup and use a drip pot, making it clear and strong. The soup needs only to be reheated.

CORNELIA C. BEDFORD. RECITAL A SUCCESS. Pupils of Mrs. L. A. Huntly Give Interesting Recital. At the Grace M. E. church Thursday evening a good-sized audience enjoyed a splendid programme given by the piano pupils of Mrs. L. A. Huntly. Sixteen numbers were rendered, and the excellent manner in which the work was done called forth a number of encomres from the appreciative audience, as well as reflecting great merit on the careful and skilful training of their teacher.

Mrs. Huntly's pupils were assisted by Miss Josephine Flanagan, elocutionist, whose work was exceptionally fine. The room was tastefully decorated and the platform surrounded by ferns and palms. Ice cream was served after the recital. From a financial as well as an artistic point of view the entertainment was a success, and the proceeds will be used for the purchase of new song books for the Sunday school. Mrs. Huntly has been re-engaged as organist of this church for the coming year.

THE GENIUS OF GEORGE WESTINGHOUSE.

George Westinghouse has a creative mind. There is no country in the world where a train runs, or an engine works, or a dynamo turns, in which his name is not honored and familiar. He has brought new mechanisms and new industries into being; he has contributed largely to the progress in modern methods of transportation and communication which have shaped to such an extent the relation between individuals and communities; between nation and nation. The postoffice, the telegraph, the railway, and the steamship unite the most distant regions. Upon their modern life is wholly dependent in its social, industrial, and commercial phases. Stephenson gave us the railway; Westinghouse made the modern complex railway system a possibility by his inventions which control the movement of trains. Had he done no more than this his name would still stand among the great achievers. George Westinghouse will be sixty years of age next October; he is built on a massive scale, farsighted, quiet, sanguine, and untiring, with a constitution strong as nickel-steel. He is a most agreeable man to meet, and has a rare faculty for inspiring others with his own enthusiasm. A remarkable fact in his career is the early age which he became prominent. At the age of twenty-two George Westinghouse made his first great invention, the air brake. This was the source of his fame and fortune, and since that time his life has been so intimately associated with the history of engineering and of manufacture that it is impossible to think of many of the great advances of the past forty years without thinking of him.—Success.

STOLE MUCH HARDWARE.

Italian in Sargent's Packing Room Accused of Thefts.—Gatano Cruscuolo, an Italian of 491 Grand avenue, was arrested yesterday morning by Detective Colwell on three counts of theft from the Sargent company. Cruscuolo, who is a middle-aged man, has been in the employ of the Sargent company, in the packing room, for about twenty-five years. He is accused of the theft of hardware of all varieties, and quite a collection of articles was found in his house. About $65 worth of goods was found at the house, but this does not cover all that has been taken, the thefts, it is said, extending over many years.

TOOK PLACE YESTERDAY.

N. H. N. S. G. Graduation Exercises.

The class day exercises of the New Haven Normal School of Gymnastics took place yesterday morning at the Anderson gymnasium in York street. A very interesting programme of events was applauded by the large audience present.

The school orchestra started the exercises with several clever selections, after which Miss Nellie Taylor read a most humorous and interesting history of the class. A speech was then made by Miss Utter of the senior class. The address was neatly accepted by Miss Harris followed, and the class prophecy by Miss Biggar was then read.

The basketball used by the N. H. N. S. G. team was presented by Miss Potwine of last year's team to Miss Byrne of the 1907 team.

Miss Nellie Walter, the president of the class, made a few remarks that were timely and well received. Miss Walter's conduct of the entire programme was especially commendable. The programme ended with "The last will and testament of the class of 1906," very effectively given by Miss Elsie Troup. Thursday night the class gave a dance at the gym hall. Yesterday afternoon the graduation exercises took place.

THE COMING HORSE SHOW.

In addition to the exhibition classes for the horse show, which have been announced for the coming affair of the New Haven Polo club at Elm City park, a series of racing events has just been added by the committee. The first of these will be a quarter mile dash of polo ponies, not to exceed 14.3 hands in height, and carrying not less than 150 pounds. There will be a $10 sweepstake prize for this, the winner to take all, a cup being added by the New Haven Polo club. The second race will be a polo pony dash for 100 yards and return. This event is open to any polo pony owned by a member of any organized polo club. The entrance fee will be $3, the winner to take 75 per cent. The race will be at catchweights.

There will be also four events in gymnastics games. They will include a night shirt race, an egg and spoon race, an umbrella and a potato race, all on horseback. Entries will be posted and there will be no entrance fees. Cups will be given to the winners of these four races. One of the judges of the events will be Samuel Russell, Jr., of Middletown. The other judges have not yet been chosen.

THE CITY MISSION.

Rev. W. D. Mossman, missionary pastor. The public service in the auditorium of the City Missions, 201 Orange street, at 7:30 to-morrow evening will be in charge of the Christian Endeavor society of Dwight Place church. The principal speaker will be Rev. H. D. Pritchard of Shelburne, Ind., at present a member of the senior class at Yale divinity school and assisting in the work of the Dwight Place church. Other services of the day as usual. Meetings and exercises every day and evening of the week. All are welcome.

THE OLD CITY HOTEL.

The work of demolishing the old Globe hotel, formerly the City hotel, attracts many spectators. This old-time hostelry has long been a New Haven landmark.

FOUR PRIZES OFFERED

BY WEST HAVEN VILLAGE IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

Are Given as Incentive to Better Kept Lawns and Yards—Owner Must do Work Himself—Prizes are of Ten and Five Dollars Value.

The Village Improvement association of West Haven offers this summer twenty-five dollars in prizes for the best kept and neatest grounds—i. e., front and back yards, where the work is done personally by the owners or the occupants of the houses.

Those wishing to compete for these prizes are asked simply to send their names and address to Mrs. Frank L. Nason, chairman of the park committee, Lock Box 6, West Haven. The names of those competing will be considered confidential by Mrs. Nason, if so desired, only those who obtain prizes or honorable mention being made known at the end of the summer. It is of course necessary that the park committee should have the names of those wishing to compete, for our village is a large and straggling one, and many who have done fine work about their homes might escape special notice among the many who it is hoped will enter this contest, unless the attention of the committee is called particularly to them.

The money value of the prizes is not large, but it is hoped that those owning their own homes and those renting houses for the time being will feel a fresh enthusiasm in the improvement and beautifying of their places. The association wishes to emphasize the fact that no home is too poor or in too sad a condition at the present time to enter this contest. In fact, there is a special prize for the home that is the most improved during the summer.

Those wishing to compete are asked to send their names to Mrs. Nason on or before June 1.

The park committee, with several additional members, will act as judges and decide at the end of the season as to the successful competitors. They will visit the different homes at intervals during the summer.

The first prize of ten dollars will be awarded to the owner or occupant of the best kept and neatest grounds, front and back, provided the work is the personal work of the owner or occupants.

There will be a second prize of five dollars for the grounds ranking second in the estimation of the committee, and there will be many who will deserve honorable mention.

A third prize of five dollars will be given for the grounds which show the most improvement from the time of the first visit of the committee until the decision of the committee in the fall.

There will be an additional prize of five dollars for the most artistic grounds where the work is the result of the personal effort of the owner or occupant.

There will be a friendly competition and honorable mention for the two most attractive and best cared for grounds where the owners hire their work done for them.

Many further information desired will be gladly furnished by Mrs. Nason.

OBITUARY NOTES

Miss Georgia Kelsey will dispose of the artistic furnishings of her music studios and other furniture at a sale in the rear of 549 Campbell avenue this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

MISS GEORGIA KELSEY

Going to California to Deliver a Course of Lectures on Art.

Miss Georgia Kelsey, daughter of the late George L. Kelsey, of West Haven, is in town preparatory to leaving for California. Miss Kelsey has acquired much fame as a lecturer on art and other interesting subjects. In order to illustrate these Miss Kelsey has had nearly 1,800 slides specially made for her, and it is her intention to pursue her professional work in the west. At the family residence in West Haven this afternoon she will dispose of the artistic furniture and furnishings of her music studio.

EDUCATION BOARD MEETS.

Seranton Street School Building Now Nearing Completion.

The regular meeting of the board of education last evening did not develop any important business. The committee on school buildings made a report containing a recommendation that it be authorized to keep open as playgrounds for the children of the neighborhood such school grounds as seemed desirable on school buildings made a report days and all school holidays. The hours are to be fixed by the committee.

The special committee on the building of the new Seranton street school held a meeting after the board had adjourned. The new school is now well on in construction, the top floor having just been plastered.

BILLIARD TOURNAMENT.

An interesting handicap tournament at billiards closed last evening at the Quinipiac club, Dr. C. B. They being the winner of the first prize, and H. Grant Thompson of the second. Dr. They played scratch.

DURANT'S MEN TRIM MR. SLACK'S AGGREGATION.

Tuckey Has an Ascension—Allows

Enough Hits for Waterbury to Score Five Runs in One Inning—Springfield, Hartford and Norwich Land Their Games.

Harry Durant was at the Prairie at Savin Rock yesterday afternoon with his Brass Monkeys and they trimmed Manager Slack's men by a score of 7 to 4. Everything went well with New Haven until the sixth inning, when Waterbury scored five runs. Tuckey went way up in the air. Thacker, McAndrews, McCabe, Swander and Baker all got hits one after the other, and settled the game then and there.

FIRE IN THE DAY BLOCK.

Blaze Was in Ashbin and Did Little Damage.

A small fire broke out in the rear of the Day block on Broadway about 6 o'clock last evening. The blaze was in an ashbin used by several firms in that vicinity. It is thought that hot cinders caused the blaze. A still alarm was sent in to chemical No. 3, and it put out the fire before much damage was done.

AN APPRECIATION.

The world is divided into two classes, those who are —, and those who are not, the blank to be filled with that word suggestive of the view point of the writer: for the intent of this article we shall insert the word "artists." Yet in behalf of the class "who are not," we may claim for many of them the happy possession of an unsuspected artistic temperament and a therefore artistic enjoyment of artistic works, though unpossessed of technical knowledge sufficient for competent criticism.

Frequent visiting of galleries and long gazing upon familiar objects depicted on canvases, celebrated or otherwise, will produce an amount of certitude in reason why we enjoy them. It may be the representation of localities famed in history or verse, or a simple picture of local scenery, which will first catch the attention, and let the eye long dwell upon such, the artist's faithful message is outborne and the gazer begins to perceive beauties before undiscovered. Even those who from foolish following of what they deem a fashionable pleasure, visit "first views" or extended art exhibitions, must receive a benefit, for every beautiful thing is of God, and His meaning through it cannot fail in some sense to reach the soul. Any single or combined effort to speak his message of beauty is a help and upliftment to all who come within its atmosphere. In behalf of both classes I would wish to express appreciation and gratitude to "those who are." For the sea, the land, the flowers, the rivers, the lowly woodland or the forest depths, the faces of humans, the night, the day, all have their exponents on the walls of the Paint and Clay club exhibit, and there for many days have many come and gazed and gone away, each with a different message, and one can say the message was in vain. Therefore, our thanks to those patient, truthful and beauty-loving souls, whose hands have spread out for us pages of delight, on which we may read, each for himself, a word to inspire, or confirm, and to elevate.

CASTLE ON HAWAII.

INTERESTING LECTURE AT HENDRIE HALL LAST NIGHT.

Hawaii a Source of Profit to United States—Early History Shrouded in Mystery—Annexed to United States in 1898—Reception at Union League.

Hon. William R. Castle, former attorney general of the Hawaiian Islands gave a very interesting lecture on Hendrie hall last night on "Hawaii—Its History and Politics." There was a good sized audience. The speaker was introduced by Dean Henry Wade Rogers of the law school.

After giving a pretty picture of the impression made upon the visitor upon his first sight of the island, Mr. Castle gave a comprehensive review of the activities of Honolulu. Honolulu is as thoroughly up-to-date as any city in this country. She contributed substantially to the relief of San Francisco in her late disaster.

The speaker said that the annexation of Hawaii to the United States had been a most profitable investment. Besides the acquisition of public lands, buildings and other public property of a value of several millions of dollars, there is in the treasury at Washington in excess of all expenses incurred on account of annexation from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

The early history of Hawaii is shrouded in mystery, but it is certain that it was a very savage archipelago until the advent of foreigners. At the beginning of the nineteenth century many of the modern nations, including England and France, made their entry into the island.

Foreigners gradually gained the upper hand and American influence gained gradually, but not without strenuous opposition on the part of the natives. Mr. Castle gave a very full and clear account of the troublous times which seated David Kalakaua upon the throne, and which finally resulted in the annexation of the islands to the United States in 1898.

A reception was tendered to Mr. Castle at the Union League club after the address. About seventy-five persons were present.

THIRD ACT IN GREAT PARLIAMENTARY DRAMA

Ceremony in the Hall of Nobles at the Winter Palace—Only Surprise the Announcement That Count Witte is a Working Member—His Appearance at Door the First Intimation of the Emperor's Action—Signing of the Oath of Office.

St. Petersburg, May 11.—The third act in the great drama of Russian parliamentarism, the formal opening of the reorganized council of the empire, or upper house of the parliament, took place this afternoon in the hall of the nobles, at the winter palace. The pomp and ceremony characteristic of the old Russian official life, the absence of which at the opening meeting of the popular lower house of parliament in the Tauride palace yesterday was significant of the new spirit in Russian affairs, found vent in the consecration of the council of the empire which, with half the members elected and half appointed, forms the connecting link between the new and the old systems. The display of uniforms and orders, vivid ribbons and gold braid which was seen at its height during the ceremony at the winter palace yesterday was repeated on a smaller scale in the great white hall of nobles to-day. The majority of the elective members, indeed, who came from the landed nobility and upper ranks of commerce and industry vied with the appointive in the number and richness of their decorations. Only a sturdy, little group of liberal professors, pledged to move that the sentence of death be imposed upon the existence of the legislative body to which they were elected, came in democratic simplicity, their civil garb not being relieved by a ribbon or a medal. Though picturesque as a pageant the ceremony at the opening was uneventful and unimportant historically. After Count Skloby, president of the upper house, had declared the session open, the transaction of business was begun. It consisted of the announcement of the appointments of officers and the signing of the oath of office.

The only surprise was the reading of an announcement that Count Witte was a working member of the council, the omission of his name from the previous list having been interpreted as a deliberate slight, which the emperor evidently took pains to correct. The unexpected appearance of the tall form of the former premier at the door was the first intimation of the emperor's action and it created a buzz of excitement. The explanation of his appearance only came later when a ukase was read appointing Count Witte and M. Manukhin, former minister of justice, to be members of the council of the empire. The organization of the upper house, which followed the programme of the lower house yesterday, was presided at by a religious service. After the members had signed the oath the house adjourned.

STRONG OPPOSITION. Anti-Pass Amendment to Rate Bill Condensed.

Washington, May 11.—The senate was again to-day made aware of the popular opposition to the anti-pass amendment to the rate bill, being deluged with telegrams of protest, which came principally from railroad employes and were presented by Senators Cullom, Warner, Morgan, Foraker, McCready, Frye, Beveridge, Allison and Dick. The following, presented by Senator Cullom, is a specimen of several hundred offered:

"Chicago, May 11, 1906. "S. M. Cullom—One hundred and twenty-five thousand railway employes of Illinois vigorously protest against the senate amendment shutting out our families and dependents from securing free transportation. This will deprive us of the only privilege now granted and make it impossible for our families to travel without paying full fare. We have contended for this in our organizations for twenty-five years, and we certainly deplore the attitude of the senate in such uncharitable action. "William Clark, "Chief Conductor, O. R. C."

Among the telegrams was one presented by Mr. Frye from a railroad president saying that the practice of granting free transportation to employes is advantageous alike to the road and the employes, and another by Mr. Morgan from the president of the Brotherhood of Railway Cooks.

Direct Charges of Collusion. Chicago, May 11.—Direct charges of collusion between the Standard Oil company and the St. Louis and Iron Mountain railroad were made during today's hearing before the interstate commerce commission of the investigation of the relations between the Standard Oil company and the common carriers of the country.

London, May 11.—The inquest to-day on the body of Major John Nicholas Whyte, of the Lancashire Militaries, who distinguished himself during the South African war and who recently died under treatment of Christian Scientists, resulted in a verdict of manslaughter against Dr. A. D. Cook, a Christian science healer, who was committed for trial.

Gleesing With Snow. Catskill, N. Y., May 11.—High Peak and other points in the Catskill were gleesing white to-day with snow, while ponds along the shores of North and South lakes bore a skin of ice. A severe frost all through the Hunston Valley last night did more or less damage to budding fruit trees.

Passes Second Reading. London, May 11.—The extradition bill, covering the convention between the Balfour government and the United States for the inclusion of bribery among extraditable crimes, passed its second reading in the House of Lords to-day.

FIRST CLOCK WITH BELLS.

One of Wonders of Fourteenth Century—Clock of Chateau d'Anet. In primitive times a man was stationed at the top of the belfry to ring the bells at the indicated hours, day and night, writes Alfred Beillard in L'Horlogere. This watchman was called the horoscopus, that is to say, the observer of the hour. He had recourse himself, in order to fulfil his duty, to the study of the astral system, to the number of prayers he was to recite to the quantity of wax a candle had consumed, to the clepsydra, or water clock, and to the hourglass. The trade of the horoscopus was inevitably one of the first which the progress of mechanism was to cause to disappear.

The first clocks with bells known in France date back to the fourteenth century. Particular mention is made of one which was established at Caen in 1314, by Beaumont, and that of the Palais de Justice in Paris, which King Charles V. had constructed in 1370 by the German clockmaker Henri de Vic. This machine seemed so marvellous that the inhabitants of Paris, so goes the legend, asked permission of the King to go on guard at the door of the tower to assure themselves that it was the clock and not the watchman that rang the hours.

This astonishment of the people at a period when mechanism was but just born may well be conceived in presence of a machine capable of calculating and striking the hours, without the assistance of any human being, with the same precision that could be exercised by the most vigilant horoscopus. The custom was perpetuated until the seventeenth century and still exists in certain cities of Europe of placing alongside the clocks various automata which ring the hours. It is due to nothing else than the thought of recalling to memory the thought of the ancient watchman. And also the clocks with automata catered to the popular taste of that epoch. The people of that period preoccupied themselves but little with the more or less exact measurement of time. Railroads were not in existence and the exigencies of life were not as great as they are now. A cock which crowed and flapped his wings, some apostles who marched by, striking a blow for each hour, filled them with admiration, and in this respect no other clocks aroused so much enthusiasm as those of Lyons and Strasbourg. It was a clock of this character that Henri Deux placed over the superb portal of the Chateau of Anet.

Nevertheless this timepiece was distinguished from other clocks with automata by the originality of the figures that it set in movement. Here no longer was a woman or a man who struck the hours with a staff, standing erect, surrounded by four bloodhounds of natural size, which appeared to be holding it at bay, that one saw on the summit of the oval. One of the legs was movable, and as it was lifted it seemed to strike the hours. The four hounds opened their jaws at each striking of the quarters, and their voices were imitated by bells of different notes whose clappers were connected by wires with their long jaws, causing them to open and shut as long as the bell ringing mechanism continued.

This curious clock exists no longer. It was sold at auction with its finest dials for the sum of 505 francs when the chateau of Anet was confiscated as national property and sold with its furniture in Year Two of the First Republic. This ancient clock was replaced in 1856 by one entirely modern and made by Wagner. The stag and the hounds in bronze were also carried away. Those seen today are in bronzed terra cotta, and play no other part than to recall to memory the ancient ones, and to add to the decorative portion of the portal of the chateau, whose architecture, the work of Philibert Delorme, is one of the purest and most delicate constructions of the Renaissance.

Besides the clock of the chateau of Anet possessed, on the side of the court of honor, a magnificent dial, which indicated the position of the signs of the zodiac, the months, the days of the month and the moon's age.

On this dial, adorned with gold and enamel, was engraved the following curious couplet: Cur Diana, Oculis, Labentibus, Subjicit Horae; Ut Sapere Adversis Moneat Felicibus Uti.

BLIND PEOPLE'S QUEER HOBBIES. The writer recently had the pleasure of meeting a certain and highly gifted oculist who number among his patients some of the wealthiest people in the world, and who volunteered some interesting information relative to the different ways in which those who have their sight pass their time.

"One of the most curious hobbies among my blind patients," said the specialist, "is practised by a lady who lost her sight sixteen years ago. She is really a remarkable florist, and her flower beds, her vinerias and her hot-houses are worthy of a king's garden. Although she has, of course, some assistance, the majority of the work is performed by herself, and she was become remarkably expert in the selection of bulbs and seeds. "I have often watched her in one of her conservatories going from to plant picking off a dead leaf here, tying up a fallen branch there, tapping the pots to see if water were wanted, and acting just as any other gardener would act who possessed his full complement of senses. I have seen her 'pot out' a bed of young geraniums and 'set' the plants with remarkable exactitude. She measures the distance with a small rule and seldom is she out in her calculations. She gets an immense amount of enjoyment out of all her hobby, and she has told me over and over again that while pursuing it she almost forgets the loss of her sight. She is contemplating founding an institution where blind people may learn gardening, and when she does I am sure it will be a great boon.

"Then I have another patient, a man this time who lives in the country and who passes his time looking after a score or more of beehives. He manages them with marvelous skill, as remarkably successful and never gets stung; in fact, the bees appear to know him well and seldom attempt to molest him. During the last few years this gentleman, who, by the way, only lost his sight as recently as 1900, has secured several hundredweight of honey, which he never sells, but gives much of it to his friends and sends the rest to various blind institutions. "Among my child patients who have lost their sight I could tell you of many interesting hobbies. I have one little patient however, who has made some wonderfully good scrapbooks, and it is marvellous how clever she is in arranging them. Of course the scraps are of the colored kind, already cut out, and by the feel she can at once tell whether it is a bird, a flower, or an animal, and she arranges them with excellent taste. "Then among my young men patients there is one blind boy of nineteen who is wonderfully expert in making flies for fishing. If he were a poor boy he could make a lot of money, by his hobby, but he is wealthy and only fashions flies for his own amusement and to give his friends. Sometimes the young man himself goes fishing for he keenly enjoys the sport, and I have often met him coming home with a well-filled basket of fine trout caught by the flies which he has made."—Tit-Bits.

ADMIRAL TOGO'S PLAIN COTTAGE IN TOKIO.

My friend took him into the house to see the admiral's lady, on his suggestion of wishing to leave his card with the family. Most politely they were admitted. The young man who opened the sliding door was the admiral's second son, to their wonder, Mr. Minor by name. (The servant girl must have been busy dusting or sweeping somewhere.) "This is truly a red letter day in my life," the officer exclaimed. He was surprised on seeing the extreme simplicity of the interior. There was nothing to decorate the room to speak of, except a few yellow chrysantheums on the inkstone. (We Japanese appreciate the simplicity and sublimity of space, leaving nothing scattered around whatever.) The mat was whiteness itself, Madame Togo must have changed it to welcome the admiral's triumphant return. Every bit of the house was the symbol of simplicity. The pale, white, simple atmosphere in the house was like that in the Shinto Temple. Yes, the admiral's house is nothing but the sacred house where Admiral Togo and his family burn incense to the one hundred and eight gods of the empire. ("The rise or fall of the empire depends upon the result of this engagement; do your utmost, every one of you," is Togo's famous slogan, which will rank with Nelson's "God with us" and the British officer's "I am going to fight for my country.") And the British officer's surprise was still greater, my friend told me, on seeing Madame Togo. She was so simple in heart and speech. Surely she is the admiral's better half, and the reflection of her husband—the greatest hero of the wide world. In her courtesy and sweetness hide a great heart and strength. You would never take it for the residence of any high standing personage when you pass by. It is a plain cottage, such as you could surely hire for twenty or thirty yen. Can you believe that the greatest hero in the world's history should live in a house worth ten or fifteen dollars a month? The house (of seven or eight rooms) has a large garden attached, but this is not a distinction, since every Japanese house is adorned with some garden or yard, where a cherry tree blooms and a nightingale may call in the spring. But here in his house he finds the greatest rest with his two sons, the eldest named Takeshi, twenty-one years old, and with his little daughter of fifteen summers. Only in the home do his content and joy spread their wings fully, and his face—the brown face terribly beaten by the sun and hurricane—is ever turning toward it.—Yone Noguchi in the National Magazine.

PAY FOR THE M. P.

By the large majority of 238, the House of Commons adopted last night a resolution that members of Parliament should be paid salaries. The sum of £1,500 yearly was specified as the allowance members ought have towards "defraying the heavy expenses inseparable from their office." Similar proposals have often been made in the press and in Parliament, but no such emphatic record of opinion has before been made. It is one of the results of the great electrical upheave which displaced so many Tory gentlemen by labor representatives. And though the premier put his veto upon the project for the present, it seems clear that the movement will soon gather sufficient force to compel the government to give way. We may expect, therefore, in time to see M.P.'s drawing their pay like deputies and congressmen.

Argue as one will that this is only an inevitable development of English democracy, it comes as a sort of disagreeable surprise. In England, we may be sure, it will be a shock to many of the best people of the country. They will see in it the glory of parliament departing. The venerable theory has been that the Commons are simply the PAYING OFF THE CHEROKEES.

How the Indians Received Their Money and Paid Their Debts. The Cherokee nation literally rolled in money when the six and one-half million dollars received from the sale of the Cherokee strip was dispersed among the tribal citizens, writes a Bartlesville correspondent of the Kansas City Star. The per capita share was $265.70. The payment was made usually with two $100 bills, one $50, one $5 and 70 cents in silver. The money was disbursed by Zeke

Starr, treasurer, and Henry Efforts, assistant treasurer of the nation. Most of the Indians were in debt, and creditors swarmed in towns where the payments were made. T. A. Latta, who attended these payments, in recalling incidents lately said. "Much has been told of the dishonesty of the Indian, but in this payment there were many examples of integrity. At Tahquah an old fullblood woman, perhaps 60 years old, a widow, drew for eleven participants in the fund. She had traded with many of the merchants who sat at the tables between which she had passed. After the money had been counted out to her she swept the entire amount into her apron and, holding a corner in each hand, she passed from trader to trader, pausing before each until each had taken a sufficient amount to balance her indebtedness. Not once did she count the change or investigate the account. "She was honest, and conscious of her own integrity did not question the honesty of another. This was only one case. There were scores like it, and, though not pleasant to relate, the confidence thus placed was sometimes betrayed. There are cases where the greedy creditor took a handful and gave back no change. "A mixed blood of some astuteness came to settle his account with a trader. In looking over his account he discovered a charge for a side saddle, amounting to $15. He had not made such a purchase and had the bill remedied without trouble, the wily old trader merely telling his bookkeeper to place the item to John Doe's account. The bookkeeper himself is authority for the statement that in this way that selfsame saddle was collected for eighteen times."

In Claremore bankers were in attendance from Coffeyville, seeking deposits for their banks. Once store in the town had a safe of moderate dimensions and security, and this store was headquarters for bankers and collectors alike. The merchant had a mere bagatelle of some $120,000 on the payment. After supper the counting room was filled with collectors and bankers. A parlor table was called into use and money as high as one's chin was stacked on every inch. It was the minute for verifying the memorandum of the day. On one particular evening there was on this table at one time close to half a million dollars in crisp new treasury notes. Lapsful of money? There were wagon loads of it! It was no uncommon thing to change a hundred dollar bill for a 5 cent sale. And the scarcity of change was responsible for the custom of charging 25 cents for changing a bill of that denomination.

gentlemen of England, turning aside for a few months in the year from their ordinary pursuits and amusements, to transact the nation's business. The service lay in the fact that it has been voluntary and unpaid. So sharp has been the feeling of incompatibility between a place in the Commons and a paid office, that any member accepting an "office of profit" under the Crown has immediately to vacate his seat. He must then submit himself afresh to his constituents, who will say whether they wish him to go back as servant of the Crown.

Then there has been also the idea, admittedly more beautiful in conception than in practice, that the House of Commons was the finest club in Europe. Englishmen have clung to this even while it was pitifully vanishing. The 85 Irish Nationalists long since broke down the club convention. What sort of club courtesy could stand the strain of one-eighth of the membership rising at every meeting to jeer at the president and to denounce the board of governors as incompetent and knavish? It is the Irish, too, who have helped to undermine the tradition that a member of Parliament must be a man of independent means. Who would scorn the thought of a salary. Many of the Irish representatives are poor men, and their expenses have been paid—not, it is true, by the government, but by various Home Rule organizations. By so much, this has cut into the old convention. n.d.A some labor members, it is understood, have also accepted contributions to their support while at Westminster. So that the change had already begun. Fashion notes in the English press have remarked that the House of Commons is not nearly so well dressed as it used to be, and Tories who assert that the present House touches the low-water mark politically point gloomily in confirmation of their dependent view, to the unprecedented array of baggy trousers and shocking neckties. Clothes do not make the legislator but any indication, even an external one, of a falling off in the quality of representatives should arouse concern. What Englishmen have long contended is that the non-payment of members of the House kept out of it mere windbags and agitators, and thereby tended to make legislation more serious and informed. A salary, they will now say, will open the doors to empty orators and disturbers of the peace, who will be able to wheedle constituents into returning them. Doubtless the labor members could make a

All the secretaries will participate, giving brief talks of three minutes each. Special music will also be rendered by various members of the force. The meeting is to be held in the banquet hall and should be very helpful. All men, whether members of the association or not, are cordially invited to attend. The meeting is called at 4 o'clock and the social hour will follow immediately.

BIG MASS MEETING. Of the Associated Societies at Woolsey Hall To-morrow. The big mass meeting of the Associated Societies in Woolsey hall to-morrow afternoon will begin promptly at 2:30 and will end at 4 o'clock. Prof. Harry Jepson will play selections on the organ prior to the opening of the meeting and Mr. Zimmerman will sing a solo during the programme. The public is cordially invited to attend, and there will be no reserved seats and no charge for admittance. The subject to be discussed is "The Public Use of Public Buildings." Prof. Kent will make an interesting report and announce the programme for next fall when the meetings will be resumed. Rev. Mr. Havens will speak briefly upon the relations of the church to the city. Much interest centers around the address of John C. Dana of Newark, who will tell why may be done here to make the public library one of the finest in the country, and how it can best serve the interests of its owners, the citizens of New Haven. Mr. Dana is a popular speaker and understands well the art of enlisting the attention and the sympathies of his audiences. At the close of the meeting an opportunity will be offered to those of the audience who wish to remain to ask questions of Mr. Dana.

BERNARD SHANLEY FUNERAL. The funeral of Bernard Shanley, who was injured on the railroad in this city and died at the hospital, took place from his late residence in Frank street yesterday and with a solemn high mass at the Sacred Heart church. The Rev. Father McKee was celebrant; the Rev. Father Fitzgerald deacon, and the Rev. Father Plunkett sub-deacon. The funeral was one of the largest at the church in a long time. The flowers were numerous.

Brooks had been at the home for about three years. He was born in Brooklyn, but had lived in this city about eight or ten years. He had no relatives so far as is known.

THE LOUNSBURY STAFF ASSOCIATION held its regular annual dinner in New York last evening. This association includes not only the members of the staff of the late Governor George E. Lounsbury but others who have been admitted from time to time as honorary members, until it now numbers about twenty.

IN AND ABOUT THE COURTS

LIGHTHOUSE CASE FORECLOSURE PROCEEDINGS FOR $50,000.

The Grinnell Case—Foreclosure Cases—Four Suits Against Grocerman—Doctor Brings Suit—What Dr. Shepherd Says—Divorce Cases Being Heard—Grocer Falls—Commissioner Named—Estate Assets Good—City Court Docket.

Before Judge Shumway in the superior court yesterday the case of Ann F. and Augusta Stiles, of Southport, to secure a judgment of foreclosure on a note of $50,000 covered by a mortgage on the property of the Lighthouse Point Improvement company at Lighthouse Point, came up on the short calendar on a motion asking for a disclosure of the defense or a judgment to foreclose, but upon an agreement the matter went over for one week. The property in question is the land held by Captain Samuel Thrasher and others and which was offered to the city as a park, but declined.

THE GRINNELL CASE. In the case of Grinnell vs. Grinnell a report was made in the superior court yesterday that the property involved, located in Wooster street, had been sold for $2,200.

FORECLOSURE CASES. Judgment by default was given by Judge Shumway in the superior court yesterday in the case of Harrison Hewitt against Pasquale Riccio. It is a suit of foreclosure for $2,000. The property involved is located in Mt. Carmel.

FOUR SUITS AGAINST GROCERMAN. Sheriff Higgins has attached the grocery store conducted by Peter Quinn on Union avenue on three suits for sums aggregating $500. Attorney E. E. Lynch brought the actions. Rent bill, clerk's salary and grocery bills were grounds of the suits. Later Attorney Iberkan placed an attachment on the store in a suit for $138 brought by a local wholesale house.

DOCTOR BRINGS SUIT. Dr. Henry H. Smith, of 43 Elm street, brought suit against the city yesterday for $500 damages through Attorney C. E. Clarke. The action grows out of the loss of a horse just a year ago to-day. Dr. Smith was hustling out Dixwell avenue on a call, when the animal stumbled over a defect in the roadbed near the junction of Broadway, Goffe street and Dixwell avenue, and was killed almost instantly. The doctor narrowly escaped being pitched into the street.

WHAT DR. SHEPHERD SAYS. Regarding the $30,000 suit for alienation of her husband's affections brought Thursday by Mrs. J. M. Shepherd, wife of Dr. J. M. Shepherd, of Madison, against Miss Jennie F. Bushnell, also of Madison, Judge Edmund H. Zachar, counsel for Miss Bushnell, said yesterday morning that he considered the suit a most unfortunate and absolutely groundless proceeding.

DEATH OF MRS. PATTERSON, A SISTER OF PROFESSOR SUMNER. A dispatch from Ottawa, Ont., yesterday, says: Mrs. Joseph H. Patterson was found dead in bed here to-day, heart disease causing death. She was born in New Haven, Conn., lived twenty-two years in New York city and came here three years ago. She leaves three sons, Joseph R., George Edward of Chicago, and T. Sumner of Philadelphia. She was a sister of Prof. Sumner of Yale and a half sister of Mrs. Camp, wife of Walter Camp, the great Yale football authority. Her last act was visiting a poor woman, who was in need. Next morning her husband found her cold in death.

DEATHS OF AGED BRANFORD PEOPLE. Mrs. Thankful Bishop, widow of ex-Secretary John Bishop, died on Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Bishop at Ben Barker's hill, Branford. She was eighty-one years of age and was well known by all the older residents of Branford. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2:30 and interment will be in Damascus cemetery.

THURSDAY NIGHT AT HIS HOME AT STONY CREEK. Mr. Page was one of the old families of the Second district, and is survived by several brothers, including Dennis and William Page and Mrs. Paine, the postmistress of that district. The services will probably be held Sunday afternoon.

A TRIBUTE. In the death of Miss Margaret Hopson, which occurred at her home in East Farms, Wallingford, Monday morning, May 7, at the age of seventy-seven years, there passed away the last member of the family of Andrew Hopson of Wallingford and Grace Blackstone of Branford.

DIVORCE CASES YESTERDAY. Before Judge Shumway in the civil side of the superior court yesterday the following ex-parte divorce cases were heard: Sarah Myers against her husband, Solomon Myers, alleging intemperance since February 23. Both are of this city.

Mary H. Collins against her husband, Charles L. Collins, alleging desertion in 1895. The plaintiff is now in Essex. Sophie Heller against her husband, Morise Heller. Both are residents of this city. Mary E. Maher, of this city, against her husband, John E. Maher, alleging desertion in 1895. Herbert A. Lariviere against his wife, Ulrice Lariviere, both of this city. Allegation of intolerable cruelty since December 24, 1905. In the afternoon Judge Shumway granted a decree of divorce and alimony of $11,000 to Mrs. Collins, it having been shown that her husband had an estate of $33,000. Decrees were also granted to Sarah Myers, Felix Fisher and Freta Higginson.

CONGRESS AVENUE STOREKEEPER FAILS.

C. D. Fiske, proprietor of a confectionery store on Congress avenue, filed a petition in bankruptcy at Hartford yesterday, with debts of about $1,800 and assets amounting to about $1,400. Mr. Fiske's failure follows suit for debt and attachment placed on his store a week ago. C. E. Sparks was the former owner of the store and sold out a year ago to Mr. Fiske. He claims a balance due on the selling price of the store, and is the largest creditor. The New Haven Tobacco company, of this city, is also a large creditor. Attorney E. W. Lynch represents Mr. Fiske.

ASSETS GOOD. Upon the application of F. E. Stoddard, executor, Judge Cleaveland yesterday appointed Judge Jacob B. Ullman and Arthur N. Wheeler commissioners on the estate of Lewellyn L. Stoddard, the tobaccoist. Soon after the death of Mr. Stoddard an examination of the estate showed that it was insolvent, but it is now thought that the creditors may realize nearly 100 cents on the dollar. The amount of the claims against the estate is about $14,000.

CITY COURT CASES. In the city court yesterday morning Judge Tynor continued the original charge on which Gertrude A. Vaughan was arrested, that of attempting to procure an abortion, until May 23. A similar charge and also a charge of murder in the second degree against John Engstrom were continued until May 25.

John Fusco and Francesco Cappello were discharged on charges of breach of the peace. William Fogarty was given thirty days in jail on a charge of drunkenness.

A charge of injury to private property against William Kelleher was continued until to-day. Kelleher is a fifty-year-old boy, who lives at 105 Starr street, and who is accused of having thrown a stone through a window in Samuel Davidson's residence, 61 Starr street.

Michael Avington was given thirty days in jail on a charge of drunkenness. Charges of breach of the peace against Joseph Mastriano and John Bagnano were continued until next Monday. The men are accused of fighting at the corner of Congress and Howard avenue shortly after 6 o'clock Thursday evening.

OBITUARY NOTES

Death of Mrs. Patterson, a Sister of Professor Sumner. A dispatch from Ottawa, Ont., yesterday, says: Mrs. Joseph H. Patterson was found dead in bed here to-day, heart disease causing death. She was born in New Haven, Conn., lived twenty-two years in New York city and came here three years ago. She leaves three sons, Joseph R., George Edward of Chicago, and T. Sumner of Philadelphia. THE QUEEN'S DAUGHTERS

ENTERTAINMENT IN POLI'S NEW THEATER SUNDAY NIGHT.

Gives Promise of Being a Great Success—Reception and Other Committees—Places Where Tickets Can be Had.

Inspired to new activity by opposition the Queen's Daughters are pushing their plans for entertainment in Poli's new theater Sunday night.

The extra demand for tickets has made it necessary to give the entertainment in the new theater rather than in the Bijou as originally planned. Tickets may be obtained at any of the following places: Sheridan's drug store, Grand avenue; Thomas Lynch's drug store, Liberty and Portsea streets; P. J. Kelly, Church street; Crowley's drug store, Howard and Congress avenues; Loomis' Music store, Chapel street; Conway's drug store, Grand avenue, Mrs. McGowan, 42 Third street, City Point; Mrs. Cunningham, 257 Franklin street; Mrs. J. J. Carroll, Warner hall. The fifty cent tickets admit to the first floor; the twenty-five cent tickets to the galleries; the box seats at 75 cents may be obtained of Mrs. Cunningham.

The ladies have chosen the following gentlemen to act on the reception committee: Mrs. Thomas Cunningham, Mrs. John J. Carroll, Mrs. McGowan, Mrs. James Hogan, Mrs. Kinney, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. M. J. Powers, Mrs. Booth, Mrs. J. F. Jackson, Miss E. T. Malley, Miss Mary Wrinn, Mrs. Thomas Fitzsimmons, Mrs. W. J. Cronin, Mrs. M. F. Sullivan, Mrs. William Malley, Mrs. Maroney, Miss Kerna, Mrs. A. J. Clerkin, Mrs. Mayrand, Mrs. Cornelius Conway, Mrs. William Donnelly, Mrs. James E. McGann, Mrs. Joseph Ahearn.

A special meeting of the Queen's Daughters was held last evening in St. Joseph's convent. On May 13 the Lehigh Valley Railroad company will put in operation a new through train, New York to Buffalo and Niagara Falls, leaving New York at 9:55 a. m. The equipment of this train will be modern in every respect, and the service will afford passengers a delightful trip through the Switzerland of America region.

SPECIAL BARGAINS.

Great Chance for the Boys To-Day at J. Johnson & Sons'. This article should appeal to all parents of boys, as it relates to all "little men" from two and a half years and upwards. There will be an exceptional fine display of children's and youths' suits to-day at J. Johnson & Sons', the exclusive clothiers. And the values will also be exceptional.

You will find good, durable and stylish suits for the small boy, ranging in price from $1.50 to $6.50, and youths' suits from $7.50 to $15. Each and every suit will have all of the characteristics which are found in men's suits at J. Johnson's. That means that the materials are first-class and the workmanship, style and finish are perfect. One of the many bargains to-day at Johnson's are the washable suits which can be bought from 45 cents to $2.48. They will sell on sight; also the celebrated "Rumpers" for the "kiddies" at 75 cents.

Everybody in New Haven should know that the boys' department at 85 Church street is unequalled in the whole town for choicest goods and moderate prices. One visit will convince anyone. Just walk down the central aisle to the rear of the store and you will see a children's department which is as full and complete as the most particular could desire. Bring your boy down and he will be fitted out in a way that will delight him and please you.

Remember, to-day is special bargain day in the children's and boys' department. ATLANTA UNIVERSITY COMMENCEMENT. The thirty-seventh annual commencement exercises of Atlanta university, Atlanta, Georgia, will be held May 27 to May 31. The Rev. Ozora S. Davis, of New Britain, Conn., will preach the baccalaureate sermon, "Health and Mortality Among the Negroes" is the subject to be considered by the eleventh Atlanta conference, which will assemble May 23. WAYLAND DEBATE POSTPONED. There was no debate at Hendrie hall last night. The Wayland club met, but immediately voted to adjourn until next Friday. The action was taken that the members might attend the lecture given by Hon. William R. Castle.

THE NEW PUBLICATIONS

SOME OF THE LATEST BOOKS OF THE SEASON.

"Rahab," a Poetic Drama in Three Acts, by Richard Burton—Notes of Forthcoming Books—The Magazines.

"Rahab," a poetic drama in three acts by Richard Burton, author of "Lil Cray Likings," "Forces in Fiction," "Lyrics of Brotherhood," "Life of Whitlir," etc., 119 pp. 12 mo., $1.25 net, published by Henry H. Holt & Co. in this his new and most ambitious literary effort, Dr. Burton has produced a drama of much power, and the simple dignity and beauty of the verse make it a distinct contribution to American poetry.

From the lines (Hebrews xl. 31) "By faith the harlot Rahab perished not with them that believed not, when she had received the spies with peace," Dr. Burton drew the central idea of the drama, as set forth in Dr. Burton's works:

It is ordained by God, through Joshua, That Jericho shall fall by fire and sword.

For seven days—so spake the Lord of Hosts To Joshua—the city shall be compassed; But on the seventh, it shall come to pass Seven trumpets of rams' horns shall blow Long blasts, and Jericho's so mighty walls Fall flat.

In the drama Rahab is the daughter of Nathaniah, the Canaanitish prince in power with the king. She has left her family to live a life of wantonness, but she is beautiful, witty and of noble soul, and she has learned even before the Hebrew spies come that Jehovah is the true God and must prevail. Dreams of the night confirm her belief and love for Salmon, one of the spies, only strengthens her confidence. For her faith to them and for her belief in the true God she knows that she is to be honored instead of despised, that children are to be at her breast, and that she is to be honored in history.

Of "Rahab," the Boston Advertiser remarks: "In view of the fact that, excepting the work of Stephen Phillips, modern dramatic poetry in English is hardly over dramatic and only occasionally truly poetic, this drama, by Mr. Burton comes as a pleasant surprise. It is poetic and it is actable. The play is well balanced; action and text are harmonious; there are no Wagnerian monologues; in the highest flight there is feeling for what the critic has called 'the songless melody of the common soul.' A keen sense of word values and the pictorial force observed in all this author's strongly characteristic productions are evident in lines such as these descriptive of wanton women:—

Mere butterflies that sport them in the sun Of license, dying at the feet of night, Wherein are stars that search the soul, and—Hoseb's reference to the sounds of battle, when — * * * all the winy air Hums like a mighty hive of golden bees With arrows * * * * *

We hope to see "Rahab" staged with Julia Marlowe in the title role. She is pre-eminently qualified to act the woman described in Lela's song:

Rahab is queen of love; her dress Betrays the beauty clasp within; Her mouth is made for tenderness; Men lose their souls her grace to win; She stands like a pomegranate tree, Straight, beautiful, and proud to see.

The warm dusk-splendor of her eyes Might wreck the councils of a king; Not steller the Jordan flies Than do her feet in pleasuring; She doth enthrall with magic three; With doubt, and hope, and glamour.

The Hartford Courant in its elaborate review says: "This poem is far the most ambitious of Dr. Burton's quests of the muse. Its heroic measure, classic and magnificent theme and setting, its elaborate and polished phrasing betoken the bold assault on Olympian battlements which challenges and requires the homage of the reviewer as expressed in such judgment as is the due of the greater poets."

The Hartford Times says: "It is not merely a poem in dramatic form, but a true drama, in which the action is the main thing, and the felicities of phrase of minor consequence. It comes as a surprise, because its author has done nothing like it before, but his friends have seen something of the dramatic quality in him, and know that he is indebted to his father (the late Dr. Dr. Burton of Hartford, and many years ago of Fair Haven) preacher as he was—but also something more than that."

In addition to the one volume edition of Mrs. Ward's latest novel, "Fenwick's Career," which every one is reading now, Harper's will bring out in a few weeks an edition de luxe limited to four hundred and ninety-eight numbered sets, with an autograph of the author and photogravure illustrations on Japan paper by Albert Sterner.

"The Flower of France." Justin Huntly McCarthy's new romance, was published by the Harper's on May 3. The story is constructed around the life of Joan of Arc, and, with the exception of certain imaginative touches which emphasize the dramatic interest and bring out the strangely mystical quality of the character and mission of the Maid of Domremy, the author has presented truthfully the historic facts of this stirring episode of history.

Henry Holt and Company have just issued a volume which "points a moral" and furnishes a "rebuke" for the "folies of society." In "The Misses Make-Believe," Miss Mary Stuart Boyd tells of the experiences of two English gentlewomen who try to get into society on very slim means. The John C. Winston Company of Philadelphia has in press for early issue two books for "thoughtful" readers—"Poems of Light and Life," by Jennie Harrison, with a preface by Dr. Floyd W. Tompkins, a volume of religious verse, and "The Double Search," by Professor Rufus M. Jones of Haverford

THE FASHIONS.

PRINCESS GOWNS ARE MADE WITH TRAINS.

New Model for Street Gowns—Boilers and Peleries—Some Attractive English Umbrellas.

A new and decidedly pretty idea in walking gowns has developed. The princess skirt has taken such a firm hold that ingeniously has had to be exercised to vary the model. The newest princess skirt for informal wear is short, plaited in one way or another, has a high, swathed girdle or corselet, and a modish little coat of different material. This a checked blue and white foulard skirt was accompanied by a plain blue taffeta coat. The skirt over the hips, and suggesting great width of material at the hem. The corselet was high and unpunctuated at the waist line to keep an empire effect, and the short coat of taffeta was trimmed in thin strips of the foulard and small gilt buttons.

Another gown was brown and white shepherd's plaid taffeta, with a fancy tone of brown satin faced cloth trimmed with white braid and gilt buttons. The skirt was sun plaited. These gowns were worn over lingerie waists, lace trimmed and flimsy. With the brown gown the blouse was cream-colored batiste, and with the blue white linen, inset with crocheted lace in heavy motifs.

Some of these little separate jackets are not jackets at all, strictly speaking, but peleries. A suggestion of the old-fashioned cape is in these little affairs, but they are extremely smart and very becoming. As accessories to thin gowns they will be very fashionable. All sorts of embroidered and lace-trimmed muslin peleries are shown in the shops, to be worn with cotton gowns. They will not furnish much warmth, it is feared, but they are decorative enough to justify their existence.

After looking at princess gowns in elaborate models one wishes that some other form of street gown could be enforced. The princess robe should always be long to be really beautiful. The handsomest of the new silks crepe are finished with long trains, which of course, puts them in what some one calls the carriage class. There is nothing more ridiculous than to have to hold up one's skirt, and besides, it spoils the gowns. The trained princess and Empire gowns are meant for the house, as a matter of fact. When they are skilfully built, even stout women find them becoming. The difficulty is to convince stout women that their size is not increased by a loosely fitting garment. The Empire gown does cling snugly to the figure, but not in the old skin-tight fashion. The beauty of the gown is in the long, unbroken, gently curving line from the bust to the very foot of the skirt. It is wonderful what an effect of slowness is often obtained in these gowns.

Some of the muslin princess gowns are fascinating in the extreme. One seen this week was a fine white muslin with a fancy figure in black dots. It had a deep yoke of Valenciennes lace, with a fold of black velvet at the top of the collar and another, pointed front and back, about half way down the yoke. The gown itself was little more than a corselet skirt, although the corselet was high enough to pass for a waist. It had shoulder straps or bretelles outlined with velvet folds, and the same folds trimmed the top of the skirt, which had a deep, pointed scallop in the front. The seams of the skirt were put together with inch-wide Valenciennes, and the hem was trimmed with lace. Underneath was worn a slip of maize-colored taffeta. The sleeves of the gown were lace, trimmed at the short cuff with velvet folds.

A charming muslin gown was white with rose violets scattered over the surface. The flowers were pale colored, but beautifully designed. A yoke of very fine, thin white lace was a part of the gown, and the same lace appeared in the deep sleeve and in Empire motifs which trimmed the skirt. The blouse was simply shirred to the yoke, with a little beading edged with the narrower lace. The girdle of pale violet liberty silk was in the form of a draped sash starting from the back, showing high and wide under the arms and crossing in front, the narrow ends tucking under at the sides. The skirt was full under a point just above the knees, where Empire wreaths of lace were inset in a decoration which was carried completely around the skirt. Under this to the bottom of the skirt was a wide, shaped flounce of muslin, showing immense bunches of violets somewhat deeper in tone than those on the body of the gown. The effect of this different material was admirable.

This combination of materials in one costume is a special feature of this spring's fashion. Two or three kinds of silk often enter into a composition, and when skilfully managed are very good indeed. As for lace, all kinds are combined, often with all-over Valenciennes as a foundation. Cluny, Irish crochet, and guipure are the favorite heavy laces.

Parasols and umbrellas are beginning to interest shoppers. A group of English coaching umbrellas attracted attention in a Broadway establishment. They were in colored taffetas, and had long wooded handles original in design. A green umbrella, for example had a light colored wooden handle with a little green stain rubbed into it. The handle curved at the end into the long neck of a swan, skilfully carved, with jeweled eyes and a scarlet bill. Another, pale green in color had the same kind of handle ending in a carved rose stained bright crimson. A maize-colored umbrella had a yellow rose at the end of the yellow-tinted handle, and a blue one showed a pink rose. Another blue umbrella had a blue and gold parrot crouching on the outer curve of the handle. A violet umbrella also was decorated with a parrot in bright and crimson.

Painted parasols have been revived but the handsomest of the white and pale-colored parasols are embroidered and lace-trimmed. Any amount of money may be spent on these lovely things. Amber, shell, ivory, and jewels are wasted on their handles, and real lace is lavishly used in the trimming. Many of the chiffon and mousseline parasols are frankly decorate, and nothing else. They are built on skeleton frames, and provide no shade at all. Of course, these are not meant for town wear. For service, parasols matching the costume in color are preferred. There are many white and colored pongee parasols, which are very pretty as are those of checked silks. Linen parasols are attractive, and will undoubtedly be popular, but white does not answer very well as a protection from the sun. A few white linen parasols have green, silk linings, which makes them practical.—New York Evening Post.

In her younger days, Mrs. Donovan of this city was a resident of Georgetown and Danville, Ill., and it was there she knew Lincoln. He frequently passed through Georgetown and, attracted by the quiet, clean, and attractive house kept by Mrs. Donovan, and above all by her excellent cooking, he made it a point to stop at her place. In the little sitting-room Lincoln prepared many of his speeches, told his stories, cracked his jokes, and spun his yarns and anecdotes. "Abe Lincoln was a mighty good man and a mighty good lawyer, and he made a mighty good President, and I am proud that I have often cooked him his dinner," declared Mrs. Donovan.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

A GREAT FAVORITE. "Val." Laces.

Dame Fashion has decreed that this is to be a white season and that Val, laces are to be the leading trimming for the summer girl's gown; already the demand is greater than the supply and there is a great scarcity of these much wanted laces. Fortunately for New Haven there is one store in the city that saw far enough ahead for the wants of the people and provided a great quantity of Val, edges and insertions. The great demand for these laces in Europe, together with the labor troubles, which have interrupted the production are the cause for the scarcity of laces in America and the lace buyer who did not place his order six or seven months ago will have great difficulty in finding enough to satisfy his trade. Many stores are trying to force Mechlin and Cluny laces as a substitute, but they fall very far short of taking the place of Val. Mechlins are too delicate in the mesh and not serviceable. The Cluny laces are too clumsy and not suitable for trimming. Valenciennes is the "Queen of Laces." The name is derived from the beautiful town of Valenciennes, France. It is the real leader among laces this year. It is light, airy and effective, as well as well priced. Its advantages that it may be used in quantities upon low priced cotton materials, it may also be had in better grades for the adornment of fine cotton and silk materials, for which they are most desirable. Vals, will also be used almost extensively for the trimmings of summer hats. The Chas. Monson Co. foreseeing the great demand there would be for these laces; accordingly placed large import orders several months ago. They are now showing a good assortment of edges and insertions to match in all widths from one half inch to two and one half inches wide. Women contemplating using Val, laces should not fail to see this beautiful collection.

A WOMAN WHO COOKED FOR LINCOLN.

Mrs. Sarah Cooper Donovan of Elders, who to-day is celebrating her eighty-fifth birthday, in her younger days had the distinction of having cooked dainties for Abraham Lincoln. That was in the day when Mr. Lincoln was a poor, struggling lawyer in Illinois, before he rose to fame and before he became President. When Mrs. Donovan knew Lincoln he was commonly known as "Abe" Lincoln, and he had pretty hard sledding to make it go, as a young attorney.

In her younger days, Mrs. Donovan of this city was a resident of Georgetown and Danville, Ill., and it was there she knew Lincoln. He frequently passed through Georgetown and, attracted by the quiet, clean, and attractive house kept by Mrs. Donovan, and above all by her excellent cooking, he made it a

PRICES CONTINUED TO MOUNT UPWARD.

Heavy Covering by Shorts and Sharp Bull Manipulation—Banks Gain Large Amount—Time Money Easier Also—Wheat and Corn—Gossip.

The stock market was again strong yesterday, and prices mounted upward again under further covering by shorts and active manipulation by the bulls.

Most of those who had been fighting the rise succumbed to the onslaughts of the bulls.

The market seemed to have forgotten that there was an earthquake and fire in San Francisco.

The average gains in stocks in the last few days amounts to 5 points.

A theory advanced was that the extent of the short interest had been underestimated.

As a whole the market was very broad.

The ease in money helped the bulls. Call loans were lower and time money was so freely offered that the price broke to 5 per cent.

Leading issues—such as are held by insurance companies—have risen 10 to 15 points, St. Paul, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Great Northern preferred being cases in point.

In fifteen of the most active stocks, where the declines were largest, the rally has averaged 13 points.

News developments during the day were of no great importance, but they were mostly favorable. The banks have gained considerable cash since a week ago, and are expected to make a good showing in to-day's bank statement.

A prominent tendency in the market yesterday was the shifting from one group of stocks to another.

It was the talk that one speculative house had covered a line of 100,000 shares in the general list.

After a moderate reaction in the last hour, stocks rallied sharply before the

YESTERDAY'S STOCK MARKET.

Further Demonstration of Its Recuperative Vitality.

New York, May 11.—The stock market was a further demonstration of its recuperative vitality to-day in the further striking advances effected in prices of a large number of important stocks.

The current belief in the financial district continues to be that the operations which cause these advances are largely in the hands of professionals or habitual speculators formed into market combinations and made up of men of great wealth. Commission houses report that there is small evidence of any widespread general interest in the market.

The action of stocks, from whatever source, went on with great apparent confidence, however, and prices were pushed upwards without meeting selling orders sufficient in volume to overcome the upward tendency. Boardroom traders professed their distrust in the movement at times and tested its force by opposing short sales and by attempts to offer prices down. These efforts to turn the market were uniformly unsuccessful and the traders were forced to shift their position and buy back stocks, thus helping on the advance. Their distrust of the rise was based upon the extent to which it has reached and was not occasioned by an unfavorable view of any actual occurrences bearing on values. They professed their scepticism also of the capacity of the market to afford profits at the higher level of prices on the speculative accumulations which have been made, owing to the light general demand for stocks which has shown itself thus far.

The action of the market, however, indicates a digestion of profits going on from time to time in the course of the advance. Thus the stocks which are strong one day are either reactionary or held only stationary during the next day under the influence of the steady selling, while advances at new points serve as a sustaining influence. This course of procedure has justified itself up to the present time, despite the distrust professed towards it by a considerable speculative element. The broad underlying basis for the movement is the effective decline in interest rates. This was further evident to-day in the rates both for call and time loans. Foreign exchange rates also eased off to-day, and it was reported that some remittances to New York were being made on account of the British fire insurance companies.

An advance in the price of copper was an incident of the day and many rumors were revived of intended dividend increases and projects for consolidation of financial readjustment. The occasional irregularity caused by the unusual profit-taking was in evidence again when the market closed, but the strong undertone was not materially altered and, in fact, seemed to gather force throughout the day.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,780,000.

United States old four declined 1/8 on tall.

Michael Moran, a teamster employed by Peck & Bishop, was taken to Grace hospital yesterday morning by the police ambulance suffering from uraemic poisoning. Moran was standing at the corner of Wooster and Union streets when he was seized with a fainting spell and fell to the ground. It was stated at the hospital yesterday morning that his condition was serious.

THE TASHI LAMA OF TIBET. The young man, with closely shaven head and a pale, beardless face. He wore the severely simple dress of an ordinary monk, but his Lama robe was perhaps a shade darker maroon than that by the others, and a broad hem of embroidered gold braid which edges the kind of undershirt that Lamas of high rank usually wear just showed above his robe. His expression is particularly amiable, and he appears to be greatly revered and beloved by his subjects. It is safe to say his prestige and reputation as the embodiment of transcendent holiness are even greater in the Buddhist world than that of the Dalai Lama, who from all we heard at Lhasa was more feared than loved.

His holiness having expressed his pleasure at meeting the British officer, Captain O'Connor tactfully opened the conversation by reminding the Tashi Lama of the long standing friendship between the government of his majesty, the King-Emperor and the Tashi Lama. He added that, now our differences with the Lhasa government had been settled, he who had been appointed British trade agent at Gyantse had made haste to come and pay his respects to a ruler who had long been on terms of friendship with his majesty's Viceroys in India as incarnate Lamas never die, the present man is merely a reincarnation of the third Tashi Lama, the friend of Bogle, who visited Tashilhumpo more than a century ago.

The Tashi Lama courteously replied, expressing his appreciation of what Captain O'Connor had said, and added that he personally had always been opposed to hostilities, and that, now the unfortunate differences between his majesty's government in India and the Lhasa government had been settled by a solemn treaty, he trusted that the friendly relations which had existed between his own capital and province and their powerful neighbor would extend to the whole of his country. After asking our respective ages and informing us that his own age was only twenty-two, the Tashi Lama wound up the proceedings of our first formal visit by expressing regret that etiquette compelled him to receive us with so much state and ceremony. He said it would give him pleasure to make better acquaintance with us, and that at the next visit he hoped it would not be necessary to occupy his throne, and he would be able to receive us with less formality. We then got up and bowed to the Grand Lama and withdrew.—C. Vernon Naglic in the Nineteenth Century.

The services at the Grand Avenue Baptist church include preaching morning and evening by the pastor, Rev. C. G. Smith; subject of sermon at 10:30 a. m., "The Golden Rule," and in the evening at 7:30, "Playing the Fool."

Rev. E. C. Tullar of the East Pearl Street M. E. church will preach in exchange Sunday evening with Rev. W. Wilson of the Grace M. E. church. The annual election of the borough of Fair Haven East will take place at the engine house in East Grand avenue next Monday, and the polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 1 p. m. It is expected that the only ticket in the field will be that which was selected at the citizens' caucus Thursday evening. The new burgesses nominated are Harry Leigh, James J. Horan and Andrew R. Bradley. At the close of the election it is the custom to adjourn the business meeting to the first Monday evening in June.

H. L. Ellenberger of Quinipiac avenue is visiting his sister, Miss Emma Ellenberger in Washington. Thalberg & Co. have taken the contract to paint the Rowe & Hemingway building in East Grand avenue. The building in Quinipiac avenue, formerly known as the Long building, and now known as the Thalberg flats, has nearly all been rented. There are a dozen tenements in the building.

Andrew H. Turner of Baltimore is visiting H. R. Chidsey of Exchange street. Mr. Turner formerly resided here, but afterwards was engaged in the oyster trade for many years in Baltimore. The Annex fire department held a meeting Thursday to see about new uniforms. Both Beacon Hose company and Dayton Hook and Ladder company will appear in their new uniforms at the State firemen's parade in July. It is expected that both companies will send teams to compete in the athletic contests.

Ice formed as thick as window glass in Fair Haven yesterday morning, and it was the general opinion that it was a pretty cold eleventh of May. Pleasant and warmer weather is likely to be in evidence Sunday. The last meeting of the Charly Whist club this season was held at the home of Mrs. Anderson in James street Wednesday, and prizes were awarded to Mrs. T. Nolan, Mrs. Tatro, J. J. Tierney and Mrs. Clarke. Miss Josephine Brown of Quinipiac avenue, who has been ill with rheumatism for several months, is now able to be out again.

Miss Stella Johnson and Miss Hannah Goodman are visiting in Cambridge. The burial of little Ruth Pedmore, who was burned to death at her home on State street Wednesday, took place in East Lawn cemetery, East Haven, yesterday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Pedmore formerly resided in East Haven. Rev. E. C. Tullar of the East Pearl Street M. E. church officiated at the services.

Mrs. F. E. Fowler of 123 Grand avenue underwent a successful operation at her home Thursday. Drs. Verdi, L. N. Bacon and Roberts were the attending physicians. At the State firemen's convention at West Haven in July Foreman L. A. T. Blake and Assistant Foreman William Hadley will attend as delegates from the hose company.

There was a little excitement down at Grand avenue drawbridge yesterday just after 4 p. m., caused by two young boys getting adrift in a sharpie. They had been playing in the boat at a wharf just above the bridge, when the craft got detached from its moorings, and was carried by the high wind into the middle of Quinipiac river. The boys had no oars and knew nothing about navigating even a row boat, and were thoroughly frightened and set up in great outcry. Several men rushed down to the dock and gave them directions to sit down in the boat, as they were rushing about the craft, and were in danger of getting overboard. They were told to be quiet, and they would soon be rescued. As the boat drifted under the drawbridge, some boys fishing on the pier tried to reach them with a line, but did not succeed. Two boats set out from the shore, and one of them reached the shipwrecked young mariners before the craft had gone below the bridge. Quite a number of the people assembled on the bridge to witness the rescue.

About fifty people connected with the East Pearl Street M. E. church where Mr. and Mrs. Marcus E. Butterfield are members, paid, then a surprise sit Thursday evening at their home in Welome street, on the occasion of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The couple were taken completely by surprise, but were pleased to greet their friends. During the evening there were games, and the liberal quantity of good things brought by the callers was spread in the dining room and furnished an excellent feast. John S. Sanford, 23, made a lile speech, and said he had been delegated by the callers on their behalf to present a gift in honor of the occasion. He then presented a set of solid silver teaspoons. Mr. Butterfield replied and expressed the thanks of himself and wife for the remembrance. The evening was much enjoyed, and the callers upon taking their leave expressed the hope that Mr. and Mrs. Butterfield would be able to enjoy many returns of their marriage anniversary.

ENTERTAINMENTS

Hyperion Theatre.

Our citizens will have an opportunity at the Hyperion on Monday and Tuesday night, May 14 and 15, with daily matinees, of viewing accurate and graphic pictures of the awful havoc wrought by the earthquake and flames in the Golden Gate city. Milles Grotto, a firm of moving picture experts, had a branch office there which was destroyed during the reign of the fiery elements, but which did not prevent their corps of operators from securing a vast number of excellent pictures of the conflagration. These films have been rushed to New York and developed. It is said they are remarkably true to the graphic descriptions telegraphed from the scene of horror. The operators who took them suffered severely, not only from hunger and thirst—going three days with scarcely a morsel to eat, little water to drink—but were further handicapped by the boldness who did not take kindly to their risk in risking life and limb by venturing too close to the danger line.

As a result one valuable machine was smashed and one of the employees of the firm was sent to the hospital with a bullet in his leg. The latter victim had endeavored to rush into the building occupied by the firm in an effort to save some of the valuable material stored there and was commanded to halt by the militiamen. He did not do so and as a consequence a marksman sent a bullet into his anatomy. Fortunately he was not seriously wounded. Considerable distress is laid on the fact that these pictures are genuine. In horrors of this kind there are always a lot of fakirs who make great claims, but who deceive the public by base forgeries. The Bliss Brothers, however, are realistic and are willing to risk their reputation on the genuineness of their pictures, each and every one of which was positively taken at the scene of the fire. Some capital views were taken of the aristocratic precincts of Van Ness avenue, where the wealthy residents lived. Several of these show the dismantling of costly mansions to stay the progress of the flames, and so vivid are they that the painful expression upon the faces of the victims may be distinctly seen. Men, women and children in the attitude of despair are depicted with graphic realism and many incidents which the newspapers overlooked in the wild rush to inform the world of the awful happenings are given with marked fidelity.

It is claimed that not a feature which was telegraphed during the horrifying days was overlooked by the ambitious photographers, so that the exhibition is a reflex of the awful period in which so many lives are lost and so much terrible suspense was provoked among the friends and relatives of the victims. The exhibition is one that commands interest from every one who has either had an interest in the catastrophe or who has read of the occurrence. Seats now selling.

THE JEFFERSONS IN "THE RIVALS." Joseph Jefferson and William W. Jefferson will appear here in Sheridan's famous comedy, "The Rivals," at the Hyperion Theatre, May 17. "The Rivals" has had a very interesting history. Written by Richard Brinsley Sheridan (son of Garrick's friend, Tom Sheridan), it was produced at Covent Garden, London, January 17, 1775, when its author was in his twenty-fourth year.

It was first produced in America at the John Street Theatre, New York, June 9, 1785. Since 1880 the late Joseph Jefferson has made many productions of this play, notable for strong names in the cast. These productions were in what was known the great "All-Star-Cast," a combination of stars that toured the country one month a year, traveling in palatial palace cars, on board one which they lived, and appearing as a rule but once in each big city. This venture was remarkable for its financial success. The receipts averaged six thousand dollars a performance, which the uninitiated may be interested to know exceeds what is considered a great week's business by successful shows. The version of "The Rivals," which is to be presented here is by the late Mr. Jefferson. The supporting company includes Messrs. John Jack, Arthur Stanford, Richard Lytle, Harry Odlin and Misses Rosa Rand and Blanche Reader, all members of the late Joseph Jefferson's company.

Seat sale on Tuesday at 9 a. m. "THE LAW AND THE MAN." Local play patrons will be given a dramatic sensation when Wilton Lackaye comes to the Hyperion Friday and matinee Saturday, May 18 and 19, with matinee Saturday. In his own dramatization of Victor Hugo's masterpiece, "Les Miserables," which Mr. Lackaye is presenting under the title of "The Law and the Man," Mr. Lackaye, aside from dramatizing this novel which overturned the penal system of France, has practically staged the thing himself. W. A. Brady, who still manages the star, has mounted the piece in his usual lavish manner and nothing has been done in point of scenic equipment, cast nor careful attention to dramatic consistency and detail to make "The Law and the Man" one of the greatest dramas ever presented on the stage.

The whole story of "The Law and the Man" is found in the preface of "Les Miserables." "So long as the three problems of the age—the degradation of man by poverty, the ruin of women by starvation and the dwarfing of childhood by physical and spiritual right are not solved, plays like this cannot be useless." Hugo took five novels, "Fantine," "Cosette," "Marius," "Saint Denis" and "Jean Valjean" to tell the story of the former galley slave which overturned the penal system of France, and really was the cause of the present republic. Mr. Lackaye has taken the most salient incidents, grouped them in four acts and a prologue and made a play of marvelous strength, fascination and intense human interest.

Without departing from the story as written by Victor Hugo, the actor-dramatist, has logically and naturally followed the fortunes of Valjean, the unhappy Fantine and of her child, the beautiful Cosette, and her lover, Marius. With rare power has he drawn the character of the chief of police, Javert, who tracks him and returns him to the galley.

The repulsive Thonardier and his wife, the inn keepers, who prey on Fantine's love for her child, cause her to sell her hair, then knock out her teeth, that the baby may live, still live in every large city, but are growing less as humanity grows broader.

The fourth act of the play shows a barricade in a street in Paris, and the recent May 1 trouble in the gay capital of France is too recent to need comment. This is the "big" act of the piece in the point of sensation, and when Jean Valjean carries the wounded Marius on his back through the great sewer to a place of safety, realism has reached its height.

The character of Jean Valjean gives Mr. Lackaye full sway for his undoubted talents, which are close to genius. The part calls for the gamut of human emotions. Imagine a man serving nineteen years as a galley slave at Toulon for stealing a loaf of bread. His discharge, the robbery of a bishop of his silver plate, his capture, then forgiveness by the man of God.

In eight years the ex-convict is mayor of Montreuil, and rich. He learns that an old man is accused of his crime and is to be sent to the galley for life. Valjean attends the trial at Arras and frees the innocent by declaring his own guilt. Again the galley, and an escape. Then comes the revelation, and when his children, Cosette and Marius are wed he dies.

As Svengali in "Trilby," Mr. Lackaye had a death scene which made the country shudder. As Jean Valjean dies in a manner which brings tears to the eyes of the audience and lead to its heart. Seat sale Wednesday at 9 a. m.

The cast includes the following known New York players: Misses Gertrude Fowler, Helen Young, Anna La Shell, Messrs. Harry D. Carey, George L. Kennedy, Harry J. Pearson, Royal Tracy, Wade L. Morton, C. Stuart Johnson, Walter Chester, Henry Etzel, George Halpin and Bruce C. Mica. The production is under the personal direction of Harry J. Pearson, who was for a number of years stage director for the famous Lester Wallack Stock company.

New Haven Theater. "Shadows of a Great City" was presented to a large audience at the New Haven theater last evening. Sadie Connolly as Eddy Ronan carried off the honors of the production. Her characterization is that of a clean, wholesome nature, such as we all like to see, and she keeps the audience in a roar of laughter all the time she is on the stage. The production itself is a marvel in realism. Forty thousand gallons of real water is used in the beautiful river scene. The performance will be repeated again to-day matinee and night.

"MONTANA." "Montana," a new western melodrama in four acts by Harry D. Carey, will be offered at the New Haven theater on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights next week and at the matinee Wednesday. All the scenes of this play are laid in Choteau county, Montana, and the story depicts life on the Buckhorn Ranch. In casting this play actors have been chosen for their ability in the several roles. "Montana," has been aptly characterized as the strongest western play since "My Partner," and judging from the crowded houses which has greeted it on the road it will be as popular as Bartley Campbell's masterpiece.

Delaware and Hudson rose rapidly, with blocks of unusual size for that issue. The trading operations were chiefly for the professional class. The advance of 1-8 per cent, in the price of crude copper around midday did not help the copper shares much. Traders at once concluded that the metal was put up to help sell the stock, and some of them went short. Atchafson sold ex-dividend and partially recovered its 2 per cent. Many believe the next dividend off will be 3 1-2 per cent. Wheat rose sharply on unfavorable crop advices, selling 1 1-2 cents above Thursday in this market. Corn was higher at Chicago, but cotton declined fractionally here on liquidation. Interborough-Metropolitan was considerably active. The stock has jumped into a great deal of speculative favor this week. It is being "upped" for 60 to 75. Obviously an effort is being made to distribute it.
