NOT READY TO GIVE TIME OF WITHDRAWAL

U. S. PEACE COMMISSIONERS UNPREPARED TO MAKE ANNOUNCEMENT TO CUBANS.

Step Cannot at Least be Taken Until the Time Arrives When Fair Elections Are Assured—Definite Statement by Secretary Taft as a Sort of Valedictory Address to the Revolutionists.

Havana, Oct. 12.—The United States, through its peace commissioners, is not ready to announce when it will withdraw from the island of Cuba, and surrender the reins of government to the Cubans, but this action cannot be taken until the time arrives when fair elections are assured. This statement was made by Governor Taft to-day as a sort of valedictory address to the revolutionary committee, with which the American commissioners dealt in inducing the rebels to cease hostilities and negotiate peace.

CAMPAIGN FORMALLY OPENS

REPUBLICAN RALLY HELD IN HYPERION THEATER.

Hon. Joseph L. Barbour Rattles Democratic State Platform and Characterizes Democratic Party as Socialistic and Decaying—Raps Democratic Nominees in Massachusetts and New York—Praises Administration.

The local campaign of the republican party was opened with a rally in the Hyperion theater last night at which the speaker was Hon. Joseph L. Barbour of Hartford. The attendance was good but not especially large. There were many vacant seats both on the platform, which was occupied by local republicans, and in the body of the theater. The meeting opened with two selections by the City orchestra. Then Colonel Theodore H. Macdonald, chairman of the republican town committee, called the assembly to order and introduced Prof. E. B. Reed as chairman of the evening.

In introducing Mr. Barbour Prof. Reed said that if the voters did their duty this fall our next governor would be our fellow townsman, Rollin S. Woodruff. He said that although once a Harvard football player, Senator Lake would have the loyal support of many Yale men this fall in his candidacy for lieutenant governor. He said it was a great pleasure for him to introduce the Hon. Joseph L. Barbour of Hartford.

Mr. Barbour said: The democratic party in its state platform adopted at a convention held recently in Hartford declared that the approaching campaign should confine itself to state issues, and that the national issues should be left until the national election two years hence. This is a curious statement in a campaign in which not only a governor and state officers are to be elected but a congressman-at-large and four congressmen from the four districts of the state. How can it be figured that national issues can be postponed two years beyond my comprehension. It is an absurdity that the campaign can be confined to state issues.

The democrats have nominated Charles F. Thayer as their candidate. He is a good fellow and a likely man. There is nothing against him personally, and comparing him with the candidates nominated in Massachusetts and New York he is rather to be commended. In his letter of acceptance he says that he is not the leader of a forlorn hope and tells us what he expects to do as the next governor of the state. Since he was chairman of the democratic state central committee I have had little faith in his predictions. On the eve of the election in that year he gave out the prediction that Bryan would be elected governor of the state, that Mr. Gilderleeve would defeat N. D. Sperry for congress and that fifteen democratic state senators would be elected. None of these predictions came true and I am not therefore dismayed in the trust.

Died at Dedication. Springfield, Mass., Oct. 13.—Lyman C. Converse, aged seventy-seven years, an inmate of the Odd Fellows home in Worcester, died suddenly this afternoon while attending the dedication of Hampden lodge of Odd Fellows new hall in Pinehill street. As one of the oldest members of the lodge he had been given a seat of honor on the platform.

Colleges and Preparatory Schools. Boston, Oct. 12.—Addresses by college presidents and other educators opened the twenty-first annual meeting of the New England association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools here to-day. President William J. Tucker of Dartmouth college, President William De Witt Hyde of Bowdoin college and Prof. A. F. West of Princeton were among the speakers.

PHYSICIAN SUICIDES. Wife and Daughter Struggle With Man in His Laboratory.

New York, Oct. 12.—Dr. Eugene Van Ness committed suicide by swallowing poison at his laboratory on West 31st street to-night while his wife and stepdaughter struggled with him in an effort to snatch the bottle containing the poison from the physician's hand. According to the police, Dr. Van Ness' wife and stepdaughter had gone to his laboratory and were endeavoring to persuade him to go home with them when the physician suddenly ran to a closet, procured a bottle of poison and swallowed the contents in spite of the efforts of the two women to take it from him. Mrs. Van Ness told the police that her husband had recently had heavy financial losses.

HOHENLOHE'S RECOLLECTIONS. Sensation Produced by Their Publication Still Continues.

London, Oct. 13.—The sensation produced throughout Europe by the "Recollections" of the late Chancellor Von Hohenlohe is fully reflected in the columns of the British newspapers, which daily reproduce long extracts from the memoirs. In editorial articles the papers express amazement that the German authorities permitted these "Recollections" to see the light. There are various speculations as to the possible reasons for the publication and curiosity whether some new development of German policy is not imminent, together with acid comment on this extraordinary unveiling of the intrigue of German policy.

WILL BITTERLY OPPOSE THE MODUS VIVENDI

NEWFOUNDLAND WILL RESIST IT TO THE ULTIMATE EXTENT.

Objectable Because It Attempts to Grant to Americans Rights Additional to Those Conferred by Treaty—Merchants Protest Against the Arrangement as a Gross Violation of the Rights of a Self-Governing Colony.

St. John's, N. F., Oct. 12.—The Colonial cabinet at its meeting last night to discuss the fishery situation decided, it is understood, to resist to the fullest possible legal extent the enforcement of the modus vivendi arrived at by the British and American governments. The Telegram, the premier's organ, published an exhaustive article to-day, in which it is stated that the modus vivendi is objectionable because it attempts to grant to the Americans rights additional to those conferred by the treaty of 1818; because it attempts to surrender the colony's right to legislate for the preservation of the herring fishery; because it attempts to nullify the colony's existing laws, which have in view the same subject; because it attempts to abrogate part of the fishery fishing vessels act of 1886, and because it attempts to violate the halt act. The article predicts that the Downing street authorities will be unable to enforce the law of the land, the wishes of the government, and the sentiment of the colony.

The article contains citations from the works of Hall, Anson and Dicey to show that it has a basis in constitutional law for the position taken. The merchants of St. John's in the resolutions adopted by them last night, with but one dissentient, protest against the modus vivendi as a gross violation of the rights of a self-governing colony. The resolutions declare further that the use of purse seines will be ruinous to the fishery interests, and that it will be attended by serious financial loss to the colony, and industrial embarrassment to the inhabitants of the west coast. The merchants express alarm and astonishment in the resolutions regarding the terms of the modus vivendi.

TRICK OF CONSCIENCE. Ordained Minister Surrenders to Army Officer as Deserter.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Conscience-stricken Rev. James R. Slayton, Jr., presented himself to the assistant secretary of the navy to-day and asked that he be arrested for deserting the navy five years ago. Slayton said that his conversion to religion and service as a minister of the gospel caused him to see the wrong he had done in leaving the service and he requested that he be tried for the crime. He was accompanied to the navy department by officers of the Salvation Army, with whom he has been associated in religious work.

Mr. Newberry referred Slayton to Captain Wilson, who is in charge of enlisted men. After hearing Slayton's story the captain ordered him to report at the Washington navy yard and surrender himself to officers there, who would put him in prison and hold him for court martial.

"Aye, aye, sir," Slayton replied as he saluted the officer and backed away from him. An hour later Slayton reported to the navy yard and was locked in a cell. Slayton was arrested at Myersdale, Pa., by a detective but escaped from the officer and came to Washington to surrender himself. He explained to the officers at the navy department that he is a regularly ordained minister of the Evangelical association and has charge at Myersdale. It is charged by Slayton that a woman in Cleveland, who is jealous of him and was angry because of his recent marriage to another woman caused the detectives to pursue him.

LOYAL WORKERS' OFFICERS. Election at the Annual Meeting in Bristol.

Bristol, Oct. 12.—The principal business of the afternoon of the State Loyal Workers' session was the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, Rev. C. E. Tyler, Bristol; first vice president, Rev. E. Z. Ellis, Danbury; second vice president, S. S. Atkins, Wallingford; secretary, Alice E. Strong, Yalesville; treasurer, Hannah Robinson, Danbury.

Addresses were delivered by F. J. Converse of Bridgeport and Mrs. Jennie E. Watkin of South Manchester. The closing services were held to-night.

Schreck-Hart Fight Called Off. Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 12.—The Schreck-Hart fight, scheduled for to-night, was called off this afternoon. The promoters had obtained an injunction against the city officials forbidding them to interfere, but Chief of Police Jones served notice that he would overlook any injunction that might be issued against it, and the promoters then decided to declare the match off.

Dies of Rugsby Injuries. Toronto, Oct. 12.—W. G. Ellis, aged twenty-one, of Toronto, fourth year modern history man at Toronto university, and manager of the third Rugby team last year, died to-night from injuries received in a practice football game on the varsity lawn Wednesday afternoon. He walked home after the game, and no serious results were looked for until to-day, when he suddenly collapsed. It is believed that he was kicked in the head.

WITTE HAS HAD ENOUGH. Never Again Will He Return to Power in Russia.

Paris, Oct. 12.—Count Witte, when questioned to-day by the Associated Press in the matter of the St. Petersburg reports of a movement in Russia to induce him to resume the direction of Russian finances, said: "Never, never, will I return to power. I do not desire to speak ill of the emperor, who is still my imperial master and to whom I owe everything, nor of the government nor of my country; but I have had enough. You cannot make that statement too emphatic."

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS IN SICILY. Causing Serious Damage to Dwellings and Churches.

Palermo, Sicily, Oct. 12.—The earthquake shocks in Sicily continue and are causing serious damage to dwellings and churches, some of which have fallen. Caccamo sustained particularly heavy damages, and the condition of the people of that town Termini and Trabia is extremely distressing. They have been camped in the open air for weeks past. In the last five days more than 100 shocks have been felt at Trabia.

WOMEN'S GOLF FINALS. MISS ADAMS AND MISS CURTIS TO COMPETE FOR HONOR.

Both Players Residents of Boston—Will Play Eighteen-Hole Contest To-day for Title of Women's National Champion—Miss Adams Outplays Mrs. Barlow in All Departments of the Game.

West Newton, Mass., Oct. 12.—Two well fought matches at the Brat Burn Country club to-day landed Miss Mary B. Adams of the Woburn Golf club of Boston and Miss Harriet S. Curtis of the Essex County club, Manchester, Mass., in the finals of the women's national golf championship. These two players, both of whom are residents of Boston, will play an 18-hole contest to-morrow for the title and also to see which of the two clubs, which they represent, shall have the custody for the coming year of the beautiful trophy presented some years ago by Robert Cox of Scotland.

Of the two matches in the semi-final to-day between Miss Adams and Mrs. R. H. Barlow of the Merion club, Philadelphia, was the most exciting and well rewarded the three or four hundred people who trailed along after the players over hill and over dale. Miss Adams was on the 17th green, 2 up and 1 to play. Miss Curtis was never headed in her contest with Mrs. Barlow. Curtis, of Springfield, Mass., country club, and although the latter came near catching her towards the last, Miss Curtis won, also on the 17th green, 3 up 1 to play. Miss Adams outplayed and outdrove Barlow in her possible strokes and twice Mrs. Barlow had two of her bad Philadelphia plays, but twice Mrs. Adams was on the 17th green, 2 up and 1 to play.

FRENCH NAVAL PLANS. Cabinet Supports Marine Minister for His Maritime Out.

Paris, Oct. 12.—A conflict has arisen between the minister of marine, Gaston Thomson, and the budget committee, the latter demanding that construction on the three last ironclads forming part of the naval programme of 1906 be not commenced. This programme comprised six battleships, of which three are now in course of construction. The cabinet at to-day's meeting fully supported M. Thomson's demand to carry out the complete programme.

M. Thomson, Premier Sarrien and M. Poincare, the minister of finance, later appeared before the budget committee in the matter. The members of the committee are largely socialists, committed to a specific policy not favoring preparations for national defense. M. Thomson made a speech in which he declared that the requirements of the navy admitted of no reduction in the programme, but he informed the committee that he had decided to give orders not to commence the construction of these three battleships until the chamber debated the subject again and gave a definite vote thereon. This probably would occur immediately after the opening session, as notice of an interpellation already had been given. In conclusion M. Thomson said he hoped the chamber would confirm its previous decision in this matter.

MINERS ENTITLED TO INCREASE. Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 12.—Commissioner Charles F. Neill announces that the price of white ash coal of sizes above pea coal sold at Perth Amboy and Edgewater for the month of September last was $4.75 per ton. Under the commissioner's ruling the anthracite miners are entitled to a 4 per cent. increase over the last award.

MORAN DETERMINED TO RUN FOR GOVERNORSHIP

FORMALLY ACCEPTS THE NOMINATION OF MASSACHUSETTS DEMOCRATS.

Brynism and Heartism Must, However, be Eliminated From Contest—The Fight a State One and Not National—Has Vetoed Suggestion That Bryan and Hearst Speak for Him—Remains Neutral as to Who Is the Right Man for Presidential Candidacy.

Boston, Oct. 12.—District Attorney John B. Moran late to-night formally announced his acceptance of the nomination for governor tendered him by the democratic state convention. For several days there had been considerable doubt as to whether Mr. Moran would remain in the field. The district attorney has not accepted the resolution endorsing William J. Bryan for the presidency which was adopted by the democratic state convention. He says that "Brynism and Heartism" must be eliminated from the contest. Mr. Moran made his announcement in a letter of acceptance addressed to John P. Feehey, chairman of the democratic state convention, and to the delegates to that body. The letter is as follows: "I accept the nomination tendered me by the democratic convention, and now express my appreciation of the high honor the democracy of the state has conferred on me in placing its standards in my care. "Your platform of principles coincides with that published by me in July. Every plank in it was known to the democrats who in caucus elected delegates instructed in my favor and for the platform. "The unanimity with which you nominated me demonstrates your faithfulness to the people whose representatives you were. "Upon some non-essentials in the present campaign you differed. I have no quarrel with you upon that. Every man is entitled to his own opinion as to who is the most suitable candidate for the presidential contest in 1908. "I believe it to be too early to make a choice, and therefore exercise my right to remain neutral until the proper time for a choice arrives. "I am attached in no way to either Mr. Bryan or Mr. Hearst. Mr. McFarland and Mr. Williams know that I vetoed the suggestion that Mr. Bryan speak for me in Boston. Mr. McFarland and Mr. Eddy know that I vetoed the suggestion that Mr. Hearst speak for me in Boston. This is to be a state fight, not a national one. Bryanism and Heartism must be eliminated from the contest. "The struggle is to be one for our principles against those of our common enemy, the present organization of the republican party. Let us keep this issue always in mind. Let past differences be forgotten. * * *

END OF CARPET STRIKE. Weavers to Furnish Men for All Looms in Brussels Department.

Thompsonville, Oct. 12.—A compromise agreement by which the Brussels carpet weavers will furnish men for all the looms in the Brussels department by January 1, 1907, and by which the company agrees to discontinue the new system of carpet weaving apprenticeship, brought to an end to-day the strike in the Brussels department of the Hartford Carpet corporation plant, in which some ninety-five men were involved. The resolution to that effect was presented to the company following a meeting of the strikers to-day, and was accepted by the officials of the corporation. The men return to work Monday morning. The strike began on Wednesday last, when the weavers went out in protest against the adoption of a system of apprenticeship, whereby one man was selected as an instructor. The weavers, under the new arrangement, will instruct new men.

PANAMA CANAL BUILDING. Two More Foreign Governments Show Interest in Contract Work.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Two more foreign governments showed an interest to-day in the proposed contract for the completion of the Isthmian canal. Representatives of the French embassy and the Swiss legation called at the office of the Isthmian canal commission, and obtained copies of the contract, and other information of interest to prospective contractors. Hundreds of inquiries from Americans who are interested in the contract have reached the commission already and information is being supplied to construction firms throughout the east.

WORLD'S SERIES AGAIN EVEN. EACH TEAM HAS WON TWO GAMES IN CHAMPIONSHIP.

Curiously Enough Both National Victories Have Been on American Grounds, While the White Stockings Have Earned Success on Their Rivals' Field—Story of the Game.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The world's championship baseball series is again even, the local National league team to-day defeating the American leaguers, 1 to 0. Each team has now won two games. Curiously enough, both National victories have been on the American grounds, while the White Stockings have earned success on their rivals' field.

Altrock, for the Americans, and Brown, for the Nationals, the pitchers who opposed each other in the opening game, which was won by Altrock's team, again contested to-day. Brown was at his best. He gave only two passes and allowed only two hits. He held the Americans hitless until the sixth inning, when, with two out, Hahn hit cleanly to center. Jones, however, promptly ended the inning by flying out to Schulte.

The Nationals looked dangerous as early as the second inning, when Steinfeld hit to center and reached third. Kling, always a formidable batsman, was up, and Altrock feverishly attempted to pass him with the hope that Brown would go out easily. Kling, however, reached for one of the wide ones and lifted a mighty fly into right field. Hahn raced back and saved the day, at least temporarily, by making a magnificent catch while bending back over the wire cable used to hold the crowd.

The Americans made their only real bid for the game when Robe reached first on Steinfeld's bad throw and third on a sacrifice and an out. Brown, however, showed his nerve by striking out Davis, who was again back in the game at short.

The Nationals earned the run which won the game. Chance sent a fly to short right field and reached third on sacrifices by Steinfeld and Tinker. Evers placed a pretty single over third base and Chance scored.

In the ninth McFarland batted for Altrock and went out, Steinfeld for Chance. Hahn flew out to Tinker. Then Jones raised the fluttering hopes of his supporters by waiting for four balls and going to second when a ball got past second and hit the umpire. Under the rules Jones was entitled to a base. A good hit would have tied the game. Isbell swung viciously at a waist-high ball and connected squarely. It went like a cannon shot right at Brown's face. Brown had barely time to get his hands on the ball and the force of the blow laid him flat on his back. He recovered and threw out the runner, ending the game.

Brown had pitched a mastery game and the usual crowd of enthusiasts swarmed onto the field and fought for a chance to pat him on the back. He had fairly to fight to get out of the grounds.

The weather was by far the best of the series, and, although heavy wraps were worn, they really were not needed. The attendance reflected the improved weather, the official count showing 13,385 paid admissions. This was the last game in which the players share the gate money. The total receipts for the

BRITISH CONSERVATIVES FREE AS TO HOME RULE

LORD LANSDOWNE MAKES AN INTERESTING STATEMENT AT NOTTINGHAM.

Declares Emphatically That Neither Ex-Premier Balfour Nor His Colleagues Ever Promoted or Participated in the Promotion of Proposals for Devolution or Anything Leading to Home Rule—Not Responsible for the Attitude of Sir Antony Patrick MacDonnell.

London, Oct. 12.—Lord Lansdowne, addressing 5,000 persons at Nottingham to-night, endeavored to settle the controversy concerning Sir Antony Patrick MacDonnell, under-secretary to the lord lieutenant of Ireland, and his devolution plan. The speaker declared emphatically that neither ex-Premier Balfour nor his colleagues ever promoted or participated in the promotion of proposals for devolution or anything leading up to home rule, and he said he was not aware of the existence of any documents compromising the liberty of action of the conservative party.

Lord Lansdowne added that Sir Antony had been appointed solely on the responsibility of Lord Balfour, George Wyndham, formerly chief secretary for Ireland, and himself, after they had fully satisfied themselves that he had completely dissociated himself from the home rule party and its methods. The speaker declared further that neither Mr. Balfour nor his colleagues had had any knowledge of the existence of Lord Dunraven's devolution scheme, or Sir Antony's connection therewith.

that your fellow townsman, Colonel R. S. Woodruff, will be elected governor this fall.

Mr. Thayer writes a spectacular letter of acceptance, and some of the things which he puts in that letter have nothing whatever to do even with the state issues. For one thing he declares in favor of the abolishment of capital punishment, a thing that has nothing to do with party issues. Men may vary in opinion on such subjects but they never make it a cause of party division. Then again he states that he is in favor of automobiles and goes on to express his views concerning their beauty, comfort and so forth. Some may accept these views, but they are not party issues. At this juncture Mr. Harbour took opportunity to make some scathing remarks about W. R. Hearst, the democratic nominee in New York and to denounce the methods used by him in getting the vote of the Buffalo convention. The democratic party he declared, made words of declaration the evils of which they complain. They are dead wrong, he said, when they hold that each town and city should elect its own judges and that the people should choose the county commissioners directly. If such were the case influences would be brought to bear, such as should not be brought to bear on the judge and commissioners. Think of the corruption it would bring about.

Then again they say that we are a corporation ridden state. The Hartford Times, a strongly democratic paper, takes no such position in an editorial printed in the issue of September 24. President Mellen of the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R., appeared before the legislature at its last session and said that that company would take no ill-derided means to obtain legislation favoring itself. Even the contradictions of a democratic assertion. To the claim that Connecticut is a lobby-ridden state I again refer you to the Hartford Times.

There is the complaint that the finances of the state are not being managed economically. There is only one answer to this statement and that answer is in the report of the treasurer of the state. This shows that under ten years of republican management the state debt of Connecticut has been reduced from $2,117,000 in 1897 to $275,061 October 27 at the present time. (Applause). There is certainly nothing in the financial record of the republican party that would call for any change and no reason why the voters should prefer Mr. Thayer to a man of clear moral character—a man in whom both your fellow townsmen and the people of the state have full confidence—Colonel Rollin S. Woodruff (Applause).

The democratic tendency as shown by the nomination of Mr. Moran in Massachusetts and that of Mr. Hearst in New York has been disgusting to good democrats. The party is being dragged into an awful state of discontent and party hatred. The wavering tendencies of Mr. Bryan who can formulate a different paramount issue for each campaign is certainly little encouragement for republicans to go over to the democratic party. It is true that no party can be without error, but the tendency of the republican party has always been to up-lift while that of the democratic party has been to ward decay and socialism.

Now that I have accommodated my democratic friends by treating state issues I want to say a few words on national issues. Surely there can be no state election in which five congressmen are chosen where national issues do not come up. Let us first consider the tariff. Protection has come to stay because the interests of the country and the prosperity of the people demand it. It may and does need revision from time to time but the principle of protection is eternally right and is justified by the logic of self defense.

Mr. Harbour then went briefly over the expenditures of the national government showing each to be necessary and wise ever if large. He spoke particularly of the great amount paid out in pensions to the veterans of '61 to '65, and said that it was but little return for the services they rendered to the government. His remarks were applauded.

The issue, he said, was not so much economic as an approval of the whole administration. He recounted the services of President Roosevelt in stopping the conspiracies of the trusts and in getting through the pure food laws and the establishment of honest inspection on meats. He said in closing that American had always raised up men to meet crises and mentioned the names of Lincoln, Grant, McKinley, Roosevelt, Hay, Taft and Root. The mention of the names brought forth enthusiastic applause. America, he said finally, always would have men on hand to meet the crisis.

NOT LIKE OTHER GOATS.

A cloud of tales hovers about the Prince of Wales on his return from his long tour of India. Something happened during his second visit to Gwalior. The Maharajah had established some lion cubs in an enclosure. One morning the Prince strolled out to see them fed. He found them baying an unfortunate live goat, with which they were playing as cats with a mouse. It was not all a pleasant sight for an English sportsman's eyes.

After watching the performance for a while the Prince exclaimed: "I can't stand this any longer. He's a jolly plucky goat and we must get him out somehow." General Stuart Beaton thought of a lasso and the work of salvage was commenced.

They had just got the noose over the goat and were about to hoist him up, when a lioness went for him in earnest and it looked all up with him. But the goat charged her and sent her flying, and before she could return to the attack the rope was over him and he was hoisted up to safety.

On examination he was found to have escaped injury bearing a slight cut on one leg, and he now roams about a pensioner for life, adorned with a massive silver collar with an inscription explaining how the Prince of Wales, future King of England and Emperor of India, saved his life.—Boston Transcript.

EVERY LITTLE NOISE

Coffee Nerves Easily Irritated.

Ever notice how cross and irritable a coffee drinker is when he has not had his usual drink?

Trifling noises that a naturally healthy person would never notice sound like a boiler factory or a brass band to a nerve poisoned coffee slave.

But there's a big difference when such a one finally learns the cause of his trouble, quits coffee and uses well-made Postum.

"For twelve years I was afflicted with stomach trouble, loss of appetite, my food distressed me and caused heartburn. Every little noise disturbed me, but all advised me to stop drinking coffee. About two years ago my husband brought home a package of Postum and we gave it a fair trial—followed directions about boiling it fifteen minutes—and liked it.

"Very soon I noticed a change in my condition. Now, with Postum as my beverage, I sleep better, eat without distress and enjoy life, since every little disturbance or noise does not shatter my entire nervous system.

"To-day, thanks to Postum, I am a well woman, and every member of my family has been benefited by it. A friend, while taking dinner with us a while ago, remarked on the delicious coffee I served. When I told her it was Postum she was surprised, saying she had tried it, but did not like it.

"When I told her that boiling it fifteen or twenty minutes gave it that rich flavor she followed directions and then knew for herself.

"In addition to the great relief I have experienced from distressed stomach and irritated nerves since using Postum, I find I am more 'level-headed,' and every little noise does not disturb me as it used to." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

RUNGS IN THE LADDER OF SUCCESS.

There is always plenty of advice floating around on how to get a job, but I'd like to see more suggestions on how to hold one, says a writer in the Saturday Evening Post. "I shall always admire William for the way he managed his present position."

In those days William was Bill, and editor of a trade journal. He had little trouble landing the job originally. A trouble landing the job needed an advertisement big corporation. It was not the sort of corporation that advertises for one in the Sunday papers. Bill just put his ear to the ground and listened and found out what they needed, and went up and had a talk. They considered the matter for a week. Then Bill went to work.

He had little difficulty in getting in, but when he did get in he found this job he'd landed was a good deal bigger than he'd imagined. The company was young and had started about six years before with its product in a very small way, the mainstays of the business being two brothers. These brothers had worked nights, Sundays, holidays until the product got going so big that they eventually capitalized it up in the tens of millions, one brother being president, the other vice-president. They had built a good deal on advertising. The vice-presidential brother had been the soul of this advertising—he wrote it, superintended the display and pictures, picked out the publications, and everything. Now he was going higher up. Bill was to take his place. They had liked Bill because he was not the hustler type of advertising "expert" and gave him a trial.

Bill was a little scared at the very beginning of his chance. The product being something that appealed to people of more than ordinary education and, at the beginning, he had to read up on a line of thought that he'd fudged in college. He had to go about two, and get acquainted with the sales forces at several branches, and study processes in a half dozen factories, planted down wherever the brothers had found room for them in growing. In a few months it was necessary to learn as much as the younger brother had learned in growing up with the business, and at the same time turn out advertising copy as fast as he had turned it out.

If you could have seen this younger brother, you'd understand better what Bill was up against—a little man, not over five feet five, weighing one hundred and twenty pounds, but a bundle of nervous energy, working like an electric vibrator until his wife had to come down to the office with a doctor and carry him off to the woods. Bill was twice as big, but at the start had only half the speed. It took him only a short time to see that he had a job too big for one man to hold. And when he found this out he decided that if one man couldn't do the place, then two could, or three, if necessary.

He said nothing to the brothers, but from the first silently gave them to understand that no matter how much work they diverted his way it would always be done, and done on time. Handicapped by lack of knowledge, it was impossible for him to write the advertising as fast as it was needed. So, being an editor, he picked out a man he knew, coached him, gave him outlines of stuff to write, and paid him out of his own salary. This second man was never seen around the place. He talked with Bill nights, and his work came in by mail.

This took half of Bill's salary, but he says, since that he would have paid the other half to a third man if necessary that first year, and considered it well invested. Within six months he had matters more thoroughly in hand, and the pace did not tell so greatly. By the end of the year, which had been roughly set as the period of probation, he was not only doing as much work as the vice-president had ever done himself, but had taken the bit too, and was originating policies of his own.

Bill had a brief spell of stage fright and nervous anticipation when the year was drawing to a close. But the brothers called him into the office one day and insisted that he must sign a long contract, and have more salary, and also an assistant, and admitted that several times during the year they had wondered how in thunder he had turned out all the work.

What Bill had landed as a job he'd nursed into a position. William is now a stockholder in that corporation.—New York Commercial.

TESTS FOR MUSHROOMS.

All the Popular Methods for Telling Poisonous Kinds Found Wanting.

The distinctions between edible and poisonous mushrooms are usually based on empirical grounds, with the result that mistakes of a serious nature may, and often do, occur. The subject has recently received the attention of Prof. Labesse, who has described the characters whereby edible and poisonous mushrooms are distinguished in various localities. Many popular tests for determining the wholesomeness or otherwise of a mushroom are based on color, odor, taste and texture; on the presence of rose colored lamellae or a milky juice; on the situation in which the fungus grew, and on the action of the mushrooms on various substances, including gold and silver coins, milk and onions.

Thus, according to one popular notion, mushroom having a blue, violet, green or red color are unfit for food, but this test would exclude many wholesome fungi, including the green Russula and the green Clitocybe. It has been said that only mushrooms which do not change color when cut are good to eat, but Lactarius delicious some species of Boletus, and many other mushrooms which change color are perfectly harmless, while, on the other hand, Amanita muscaria and some other fungi which do not change color when cut should be avoided.

Prof. Labesse points out that the presence of an agreeable odor is not an infallible test of a good mushroom, as a species of Amanita (Amanita phalloides) is especially dangerous in spite of its pleasant odor. There is a dictum among certain amateur gatherers that a good mushroom has a grateful taste. This test is useful in many cases, but not in all—e. g., Amanita phalloides and la fuscus Orange (Amanita muscaria) are scarcely bitter, but quite unfit for eating.

As regards texture it is generally regarded that compact, brittle mushrooms, with a dry skin, are edible, but Prof. Labesse considers this to be a mere prejudice, as the eating of certain species of Russula would seriously indispose any one placing confidence in these characters. Mushrooms with rose colored lamellae are usually considered to be edible, but this is a false notion, some species of Volvaria and other poisonous fungi possessing this character. Mushrooms with a milky juice are regarded as dangerous by some collectors, but this rule must be followed too literally as many excellent members of the genus Lactarius would thereby be excluded.

The situation in which mushrooms grow is a very uncertain criterion of edibility. Thus, it would be dangerous to regard all mushrooms growing in meadows, open fields and roadsides as good, since many suspected kinds grow in such places. On the other hand, mushrooms growing in coniferous woods and under trees generally have been condemned, but the succulent Lactarius deliciosus grows in coniferous woods and the edible Pholiotia grows under poplars, while species of helvella and Hydrium, which flourish in shady woods, form a wholesome dish.

The blackening of a gold or silver coin or ring does not prove a mushroom to be poisonous; the blackening is generally due to more or less decay in the mushroom, as fresh mushrooms, whether poisonous or not, fall to blacken on these metals. The curdling of milk by mushrooms is another property which has nothing in common with toxicity, the cause of the curdling being attributable to the presence of an acid or a ferment. An old custom consisted in dipping a white onion or a clove of garlic into the cooking vessel containing the mushrooms and noting whether the latter turned brown or not. The presumption that only noxious mushrooms are turned brown by this treatment is not justifiable, since some non-poisonous varieties do change color in this way while some poisonous varieties do not. It is a common belief that slugs and insects attack edible mushrooms, but this is by no means universally true, as the deadly Amanitas are attacked by slugs, while many wholesome fungi are respected by these predators.

Unfortunately, in rejecting mushrooms possessing this character some excellent varieties are rejected in addition to the commonest poisonous varieties. Amateurs should know the characters of the mushrooms which grow in their neighborhood, restrict themselves to certain kinds which they know to be edible, and in cases of doubt should abstain altogether.—From the Lancet.

Driver and Helper Thrown and Badly Injured.

Car No. 32 ran into one of Smedley's double trucks about 7 o'clock last evening, near the corner of Franklin and Chapel streets, causing the driver of the truck, John Matthews of 278 Washington avenue, and the helper, J. D. Knowlton of 24 Olive street, to be thrown to the ground. Matthews had two or three ribs broken and was taken to his home in the police ambulance. Knowlton was also hurt pretty badly. The car was thrown off the track and the truck was badly damaged.

Potato Soup Croutons Gristle Cream Sauce Lobster Cutlets

As a color luncheon nothing could be prettier or better carried out than this menu.

For the soup take one cupful of light bread dough. Work into it the slightly beaten white of an egg and a tablespoonful of soft butter.

Cut two or three thin slices of state bread into tiny floes and fry golden brown in a little butter.

The day before make a thick sauce with one quarter of a cupful each of butter and flour and a half pint of milk.

Raw potatoes are pared, cut in half inch slices then in long half inch strips. These are soaked in ice water for half an hour.

The entree will need two thirds of a cupful of finely chopped cold boiled ham and a large pint of well seasoned tomato sauce.

Clean and truss the squabs in the same way as chickens. Over the breast of each bird tie a thin slice of parading pork.

Order one pint of very heavy sweet cream. Mix with it three tablespoonfuls of strawberry jam (cherry or raspberry may be used instead) and one tablespoonful of sifted powdered sugar.

Use a drip pot and serve the coffee clear and strong, passing sugar and cream with it.

MEN'S GORGEOUS ATTIRE.

No Color Too Vivid and No Cheek Too Pronounced for London Fashionables.

The windows of the West End outfitters are any real criterion as to the autumn fashions the mere man is going to revel in gorgeous colors.

For the last half dozen autumns the pendulum of masculine fashion has swung between brown and green for the lounge suit.

It is in the color of the necktie and the new knitted motor scarf that the brilliant hues most manifest themselves, and here, again, every tone of green, from the most delicate Nile to the rich deep shade of meadow grass.

As many as half a dozen colors are introduced in the new silk motor scarfs which are also intended for evening wear.

Diamonds Our stock is carefully selected and always kept very complete. Only the most perfect stones. Our mountings exclusive designs, widest range of price.

Braces are correspondingly magnificent, and almost every color known is used for the up to date sock.

Last season the handkerchief with a colored hemstitched border was in vogue. The new season's handkerchief has a striped border the design, of which from three to four colors are introduced.

There are one or two novelties in waistcoats, all in the direction of great elaboration. The silk moire evening waistcoat which is made in both black and white silk, is making a big popular favor.

Most important fashion note of all—the autumn overcoat must fit closely at the waist of its wearer.

The Todd corsets positively reduce the waist and hip measurements without discomfort. Each corset is made to the wearer's measurements and fitted with the same care as a dresswaist.

THE EVERYDAY LIFE OF THE KAISER.

The everyday life of the German Emperor is rather severely systematized. He plunges into his day's work with cheerful and vigorous alacrity. He is an early riser—in the summer often at five and in the winter rarely after seven o'clock. During the hunting season he gets up even before those hours. He regularly braces himself with a shower bath, and when he slips into his undress uniform (for, as William I used to say, "dressing gowns are not worn by the Hohenzollerns") and goes straight to breakfast.

His meals, as a rule, are simple rather than otherwise. His breakfast is of the "English kind," consisting of coffee or tea, toast, eggs, beefsteak or a suttler. Luncheon is served at 2 o'clock, and he partakes of soup, one meat dish with greens, one roast and several entremets. Dinner at 6 o'clock is a more elaborate meal. Kaiser and the Kaiserine both insist on carefully and wholesomely prepared food, and although she never cooks dishes for her husband or family—as has been erroneously stated so often—she does frequently supervise the preparing of this or the other special course. The Kaiser is fond of baked meats and not roasts, and like-wise of fish, oysters, macaroni, rice, forcemeat balls and of what is commonly called Mamberger steak. Usually, unless pressure of business prevents, he plans with his wife at breakfast the menu of the day.

At table the Kaiser prefers young Moselle wines; they and the Rhine wines in his cellars come from his own vineyards. He also frequently drinks a glass or two of Bordeaux or German meuseux; the Rhine wines of older vintage and the French champagnes make their appearance only at larger dinners or for guests. In Rhine wines and Moselle the cellars of the Emperor are probably unrivalled. As a good Teuton, the Kaiser is naturally very fond of beer. His favorite tipple is the dark Bavarian beer, Munich, Cumbach or Wirzbacher. For many years he drank of this deep position—after supper, in the midst of congenial invited guests, so-called Bierabend; also at his card parties (for he is rather fond of taking a hand at skat, a very interesting German game, which is played by him, however, only for low stakes), and at the Liebesmahl, or regimental banquet, which take place almost every day in the year at the various garrisons within the empire.—Wolf von Schlerbrand, in Lippincott's Magazine.

DISEASE AND THEIR ODORS.
The acuteness of the sense of smell is far greater in many of the lower animals—dogs, for example—than in man, and they employ it in guiding them to their food, in warning them of approaching danger and for other purposes. The sphere of the susceptibility to various odors is more uniform and extended in man and the sense of smell is capable of great cultivation. Like the other special senses, it may be cultivated by attention and practice. Experts can discriminate qualities of wines, liquors, drugs, etc. Diseases have their characteristic odors. Persons who have visited many different asylums for the insane recognize the same familiar odor of the insane. It is not insane asylums alone but prisons, jails, workhouses, armies in camp, churches, schools and nearly every household that have characteristic odors and by the exercise of the sense of smell they could be utilized in different diagnoses.

For examples, favus has a mousy odor rheumatism has copious sour-smelling, acid sweat. A person afflicted with pyaemia has a sweet nauseating breath. The rank unbearable odor of pus from the middle ear tells a tale of the decay of the osseous of the tissue. In scrofula the odor is putrid in chronic peritonitis in miasmata, in scrofula like stale beer, in intermittent fever like freshbaked brown bread, in fever ammoniacal, in hysteria like violets or pine-apple, measles, diphtheria, typhoid fever, epilepsy phthisis, etc., have characteristic odors.—Philadelphia Record.

Directions for Cooking Virginia Hams.
Soak the Ham in cold water the night before cooking; then wash thoroughly in cold or tepid water. Place in boiler of cold water sufficiently full to cover it. Then let it boil slowly, or simmer one-half hour in every pound of Ham. In baking be very careful in taking off the skin (which should be done when the Ham is hot) not to tear the fat. Then sprinkle thickly with cracker dust, and let it stand in the oven until it becomes thoroughly brown. Have your carving knife very sharp, and cut in thin slices. They are particularly good cold.

WHY IS NOT IN THE ABBEY?

The question has been raised again in England, and with it something of a whirlwind, whether that country can afford to rest content under the decision of the Dean of Westminster that Herbert Spencer cannot have a memorial tablet in Westminster Abbey.

Spencer died three years ago, and the refusal of a place to him there came soon afterwards. Since that time room has been made for Sir Henry Irving the actor. Prof Edward Poulton of Oxford declares that future generations will point to scorn to the age that placed an actor, "great as Irving was in all that he did to elevate his noble art," before "the original and stimulating teacher who made the world think." Prof Reid of Cambridge, too, thinks it extraordinary that a memorial to Herbert Spencer was refused while burial was accorded to Sir Henry Irving. Prof Sorley of Cambridge points out that as a Valhalla cannot be built to order the decision of the Dean of Westminster has "closed against us the one entirely suitable form of memorial." But the London Chronicle does not intend to give it up so, and it has started with instant success, a protest leading men of England the Chronicle observes editorially with patience. It is difficult to understand why the church which threw open the Abbey with considerable motion and ceremony for the burial of Charles Darwin should boggle at a memorial tablet to the man who was undoubtedly one of Darwin's greatest disciples.

Why cannot the religious world subscribe to the late Dr. Richard Garnett's broad claim for Spencer, "upon every class of thinkers, upon the moralists as one of the first of ethical writers, upon the theologian inasmuch as his reverence for the Unknown is but a mode of affirming that man does not live by bread alone."

1060 PASTOR'S CALLS

A Sturdy Minister.

A N. H. minister thought he would have to quit the ministry because of a growing misery from undigested food. He was induced to try Grape-Nuts, and is now well and hearty, and says: "For four years I suffered severe agony at times, as a result of improper food. I could not do much work and was in misery much of the time. I had made up my mind that I would have to leave the ministry, but one day a friend advised me to try Grape-Nuts, and I am thankful that I did, for to-day I am well and can give God better service than ever before."

"Last year was the hardest of my ministry, but by the daily use of Grape-Nuts I stood up under the strain with comfort. I attended fifty-seven funerals, was in the pulpit every Sabbath, except three, made 1,000 pastoral calls, and the best part of it is I do not have any more 'Blue Mondays.'"

"There is hardly a day passes that I do not recommend Grape-Nuts to some person who is suffering as I suffered for nine or ten years, and who might be well."

SCARCITY OF GLOVES.

Glove Factories Closing for Want of Skins, and Prices Advancing.

"As will be seen by reference to our glove report of this week," says the Dry Goods Economist, "the difficulties that have for some time confronted buyers are becoming intensified rather than decreasing. Due to the shortage of skins, the scarcity of kid gloves is becoming more and more acute, and many small manufacturers have shut down their plants on account of inability to obtain raw material. Some of the leading houses are averse to accepting orders for spring deliveries, even at the recently advanced prices. On long gloves, which require especially perfect skins, the situation is particularly serious, and there is no sign of any marked decline in the popularity of the short sleeve, which has so greatly increased the consumption of these gloves."

This condition was foreseen last February by the Charles Monson company glove buyer, who accordingly placed large orders for long and short kid gloves.

By placing orders so far ahead he not only had the pick of the best skins on the market, but saved from $5 to 100 per cent, and is now in a position to offer the very best quality of gloves at the same prices asked elsewhere for inferior skins that have been made up in a hurry.

The glove question is a very serious one at present. It is advisable that every one should anticipate their wants and take advantage of the present complete stocks and low prices at Monson's.

THE HIRSH STORES.

Last Subscription Wholesale Tailoring Begins Monday.

Beginning Monday, October 15, the last subscription wholesale tailoring at the Hirsh stores will begin, clean sweeps being made of overcoats and suits of all broken lots in each section of the store. The sale will be a notable one and the public's attention is called to it in order that they may derive from it a means of saving money on their winter clothing. The prices of everything are almost cut in half, and if you miss this opportunity you will always regret it.

For instance, men's black mixed suits and raincoats, usually selling for $15, are to sell for the ridiculously low price of $3.89; youths' suits, usually $7.50, will be sold at $3.55; men's $2 and $3 trousers are to sell at $1.55.

Thus all the other prices of the Hirsh stores are reduced greatly. Their goods are of the very best quality, equalling and in most cases overtopping the goods of other stores throughout the city.

Remember, Monday morning the great sale begins, so be on hand and be one of the first to get their share of the marked-down clothing.

ARRANGING SONG RECITAL.

Director Weld Planning Fine Entertainment at Foy Auditorium.

Frederick Weld, the baritone and musical director of St. Paul's church choir, is arranging a most interesting programme for his song recital in Foy auditorium on Friday evening, November 2. He is to sing Liza Lehmann's song recital "In Memoriam," which though sung a number of times in America by David Bispham, the great baritone, has never been heard in this city. About Tennyson's beautiful words Madama Lehmann has written some wonderfully beautiful music, and the singing of the cycle by Mr. Weld will mean a rare musical treat for New Haven.

Walter Ruel Cowles, the pianist, is to assist Mr. Weld at the recital, and in the song cycle will have an opportunity to display both technique and temperament. The piano part in this charming group of songs is a most important part of the cycle.

Mr. Weld will also sing several classic numbers including songs from Handel and Franz. His programme will close with a number of the old ballads for which he has become famous.

HEARING IN THE BIRNEY-NORTON DIVORCE CASE.

Carrie F. Scott Wants $5,000 From Former Husband—Hearing on Italian Lottery Case—Inventory Filed—Jailed for Carrying Concealed Weapons—Grocer's Assistant Fined—City Court Cases.

A hearing on a motion that the complaint be made more specific in divorce proceedings being taken against Mrs. Josephine Birney Norton, of Blatchley avenue, by the parents of Edwin Kenneth Norton, the Sheffield Scientific school student, was on before Judge Thayer in the civil side of the superior court yesterday. Norton's parents are represented by State Attorney H. A. Hull, of New London county. Attorney Goodhart, of this city, appeared for Mrs. Norton.

In making his argument yesterday Mr. Hull alleged that the girl had committed a statutory offense, and referred to her past record in everything but a complimentary manner. Attorney Goodhart asked the court to compel the plaintiff's attorney to show where and how the alleged offense had occurred, and stated that Norton's parents had persecuted the girl by having her constantly followed by detectives in both this city and Hartford. Mr. Goodhart also asked the court to believe that young Norton was perfectly able to look out for himself, and that he was in a sane condition of mind when he married the Birney girl.

WANTS $5,000 FROM FORMER HUSBAND.

Mrs. Carrie F. Scott has brought suit against her former husband, Herman A. Scott, who conducts a Chapel street suit-making emporium, through Attorney Jacob P. Goodhart, the case being returnable to the November term of the superior court. Mrs. Scott recently secured a divorce from her husband, who married again shortly afterwards.

She alleges that on February 29, 1904, she drew $1,200 from her deposit in a local bank and gave to her husband to invest in his business. She also alleges that on various other dates she furnished him with funds to the amount of $3,000, which he later invested in the business. Mrs. Scott asks for damages of $5,000.

He was arrested for flourishing a revolver on some children in Westville.

HAVE STARTED FOR HOME.

Chief Fancher and Party on Their Way to This City.

Acting Chief Gladwin has received a telegram from Chief Fancher and party which stated that the party left Dallas yesterday morning for this city and are expected to arrive here next Sunday evening. It was not planned to start for home so soon, but the convention of fire chiefs which they were attending was brought to a sudden and unexpected end by the death of the wife of the president of the convention. The president is Fire Chief Stages, of Paterson, N. J., and out of respect to him the convention adjourned.

"I notice you always stand on both sides of it," said the dissatisfied constituent.—Chicago Tribune.

SKINNER SCHOOL.

Parents' Day Yesterday—Large Number of Visitors.

It was parents' day at Skinner school yesterday, and there was a large number of the parents of the children in attendance. This large number of visitors was gratifying to Mr. Nichols, the supervising principal, as well as to the teachers in the various rooms. Each room received its full quota of parents, and they were much interested in watching the exercises, and undoubtedly were delighted at the spectacle of teaching the young idea to shoot. The scholars proved themselves very apt in all of the rooms, testifying to the excellent corps of teachers in that district. After school was over the visitors were taken on a tour of inspection by Mr. Nichols, and Miss Briggs, the principal. All were pleased with the clean and sanitary condition of the building, the excellent lighting, and in some instances the modest adornment of the walls with beautiful pictures, and flowers around the teachers' desks.

The new toilet room was inspected, and its perfect ventilation was commented upon. Mr. John Dillon, the popular janitor, escorted the visitors to the new furnace room, and the furnaces, which are up to date and modern in every detail, are splendid specimens of heating apparatus. Everything in the furnace room, as well as the play rooms in the basement was spick and span, and Mr. Dillon should feel proud of the showing.

The parents were also treated with a fine luncheon of lemonade and cake, the luncheon being prepared by Miss McKinnon of room No. 6, and was as refreshing as the wafers were toothsome and fitting.

All in all parents' day at Skinner school yesterday was a great success.

READY FOR HOLY CROSS.

Yale Expects Easy Victory This Afternoon.

After a thorough drill on the forward pass yesterday afternoon the Yale varsity team got it going in fine shape. Walter Camp was out to coach for the first time in a couple of weeks. Winsler, of the second team, was brought through the "varsity line" and blocked the kick, after which he picked up the ball and ran almost the length of the field for a touchdown. The double pass was practiced by the "varsity," but at first it did not work. Rockwell went in at quarterback and after a long practice the pass worked successfully.

Neither Roome nor Tad Jones will get in the game to-day. Stuart and Dines will take their places.

THE LEMON SUPPLY.

Where It Comes From—How the Valuable Essence is Obtained.

Lemons have become quite a domestic "question." The housewife is discovering that lemons are scarce and dear. The explanation of the shortage is a simple one. This has been a record summer for the use of lemons, and the supply has not equalled the demand; prices have gone up and the end of the summer finds a great inroad made into the autumn stock.

Our lemon supplies are mostly gathered by Sicilian summers, says the London Daily Mail. The Messina and Palermo crops begin in November and sometimes last through the whole year, so that the same ship may bring the last cases of the old crop and the first of the new. But this has been a lemon summer, and so the last shipments from Sicily did not provide more than enough to meet the August heat wave.

Next to Sicily we depend upon Naples and the Neapolitan crop, which begins in the early spring, usually lasts until October, but this year, again, Neapolitan lemons have lasted only until the beginning of September. Then comes sunny Spain, with Malaga, Murcia and Carthage lemons, and the groves of Lisbon practically complete the tale of our supplies.

California has, during the last thirty years, supplied some portion of the American demand, but the United States is not independent of the lemon groves of Europe, and it is the largest consumer of European lemons, with Great Britain a good second.

The confectioners take their share, though most of their supplies come in the form of pickled rinds and citrate of lime. The Messina lemons, having the most acidity, are the best for the purposes of acid, and it is in Messina that the lemons whose products are wanted by the confectioners are dealt with.

The pulp is there turned into powdered citrate of lime, as it is more convenient to export than the concentrated lemon juice from which the manufacturers here derive their citrate of lime; and the rinds are put in brine and sent over to England to be turned into that adjunct to Christmas cheer, candied peel.

The essence of lemon is squeezed out of the peel by hand. Sicilian girls stand with a pile of peel, cut into quarters at their side, and before them is a sponge. That is all their apparatus. They squeeze each quarter of the rind and a jet of essence issues forth and is soaked up by the sponge. Then the sponge is squeezed and the costly essence is bottled, and thousands of lemons are necessary to fill a tiny vial.

The hardy tree is a trail plant and not so hardy as the orange. It is so used to the genial kindness of the sun that a nip of frost is fatal to it. One hour of frost on January 30 last year almost destroyed the Neapolitan crop, and though many of the trees recovered enough strength to put forth fresh leaves this year, they had not the strength to bear fruit, but by having rested they will be all the better next year, so that the crop of 1907 may be expected to reach a high level of abundance and quality. Last year, too, the fragrant lemon groves of the French Riviera were "untimely nipped by the bud." The valleys showed the black and leafless skeletons of trees that should have been in leaf and blossom.

THE YOUNG ARCHITECT.

Trials of a Pioneer Artist in the Rural Districts.

Among the graduates that every year leave an architectural school are the lone plucky fellows who elect to start out of their own will and set up shop for themselves. Of this small body of the plucky there is a hardier and pluckier figure yet—a figure who might inspire a novel all to himself—a figure it is not impossible to conceive of as sublime in his way...

Beautiful designs he made and not costly. They only bewilder those good people, or perhaps insult them with suggestions of matters beyond their comprehension. And the good people go across the street to Jones, the carpenter-architect. Jones has always been able to draw plans for the new summer kitchen or the new gable on the roof. Jones will know exactly what they want. Church committees get up unfair competitions, as they always do, and the young graduate labors nights, and draws a handsome Tudor Gothic chapel, with a door, in his best manner and all the detail in key. His plan only stupefies the committee, and the contract goes to Jones, whom the committee had in mind all along.

So the poor fellow works on. He has to create his market before he can sell it his goods. Meanwhile the tailor sews at him from across the street. His landlady becomes an oppressive personality. The walls of his office come to be plastered with his rejected perspectives. He views them fondly of his cobwebbed window, and wonders if he shall ever teach these people what are really is.

A LONG WOODEN PIPE.

The Glastonbury Power company has awarded a contract to J. G. White & Co., Inc. engineers and contractors of New York, for the construction of a hydro electric plant on a branch of the Connecticut river near Glastonbury, current will be transmitted probably at pressure of 11,000 volts to Hartford or light and power purposes, and also be supplied in Glastonbury and vicinity. A hydraulic filled dam, 60 feet long and 60 feet high will be thrown across the river, from which a 54 inch wooden stave pipe nearly two miles long will lead to the power house, which will be a modern stone building. The pipe will be constructed of California red wood as this is the best wood obtainable in long clear lengths. Twenty carloads of this lumber will be brought from California for the purpose. Two spiral Francis turbines, of horse-power each, will be installed, working under a 200 foot head. Work will be started immediately and it is expected that the plant will be in operation by the first of April next.

that of Representative Waller. Both were among the youngest members of the house during the last session; both were staunch republicans and both held important positions in committee work. Both will find interesting fields of work in the senate during the coming session and new political distinction and honor. George H. Hall has received the republican nomination for the senate in the Fifth district, and will be the successor of D. Newton Barney, who represents the district at the present time. Mr. Hall has been in the legislature two terms from Bristol and was a member of the state convention in September which nominated Woodruff and Lake. While Bristol was anti-Lake, Mr. Hall voted for his nomination in the convention. He is superintendent in one of Session manufacturing in Bristol and will take to the senate large business experience and judgment. It is regarded as a misfortune that Senator Barney allowed his name to go before the convention as a candidate for renomination. He has great wealth at his disposal and is a director of the Consolidated railroad company. His public spirit in the town of Farmington has been expressed in numerous ways and it is to be regretted that he could not have foreseen defeat in the convention and kept out of it. That would have been the wiser course. Had he been nominated ex-County Commissioner Beers of Bristol would have run against him on the democratic side. Now Mr. Beers will avoid the nomination of his party.

The wedding of Edward Balf, one of Hartford's most widely known contractors, and Miss Rose Welch, of Suffield, daughter of John Welch, will be solemnized in the Roman Catholic church in Suffield on Wednesday morning, October 17. The nuptial mass will be said by Rev. John A. Creedon, of Windsor Locks. The wedding will be attended by large numbers from Hartford and Suffield. The bride-elect is a charming young woman and is a favorite in Suffield circles. Mr. Balf is a man of personal popularity in Hartford, and has won great business success in his field.

OLD ARCHITECTS.

Interesting Paper on Early House Builders by R. W. Hill.

Robert W. Hill read a paper before the Waterbury Historical society on the afternoon of October 10 in the First Church (Congregational), entitled, 'Incidents in the Lives of Some of the Early Architects and Builders of Connecticut.' He mentioned William Spratts, a Scotchman, architect of the J. Deming Perkins house in Litchfield, and others; Ethel Towne, of New Haven, an English architect, who designed the state house, and Center and Trinity churches, in New Haven; Henry Austin, an architect of New Haven, who designed the Yale library in that city, and St. John's church (which was burned); and Rose Hill cottage in Waterbury; Sidney M. Stone of New Haven, a designer of many churches, including the original Second Congregational church in Waterbury; Judah Woodruff of Farmington, a designer and builder of a church and many notable houses in Farmington; David Hoadley of Waterbury, who built the North church, and designed and built the Don De Forest house, and many other houses in New Haven.

Other prominent builders mentioned were Governor English of New Haven; Elial Stevens of Naugatuck; Theodor Wheeler of Southbury; the Layton family of Middlebury; Sylvester Ellis and William Upson of New Britain, and Captain John Tuttle of Waterbury, all of whom were superior builders, and built many notable buildings.

The paper was interspersed with interesting and humorous anecdotes of the lives of the different architects and builders mentioned, showing them to have been exceptionally bright and intelligent men, and the peers of any professional men of those days.—Waterbury Republican.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL.

Action of Principals in Chicago Toward Discouraging the Sport.

The physicians and educators who investigated the game of football last year were nearly unanimous in opposing it as a sport for secondary schools. While there is something to be said on both sides of the question of college football, the opinion is general that it is too dangerous a sport for boys under the college age. The friends of college football themselves brought forward statistics to prove that most of the accidents reported by the daily papers were among the younger boys who were not able to stand the strain. Weakened hearts, broken ribs, legs and arms, and other injured members were to be found, especially among the high school boys. Moreover, instances of brutality due to excitement were more common among the boys too young to have learned self control or to feel their responsibility.

For these reasons alone the action of the high school principals in doing all they can to discourage football in their schools is to be commended. When the injury to the studies of the school year is added, when one considers the demoralization of a public school on account of the excitement of the series of games, there is more than ample justification for the view of the principals.

The refusal to offer a pennant is in itself a trifling matter, but this refusal is taken by the students, the public and undoubtedly by the principals themselves, to be an indication that football will no longer have the special privileges which have formerly made it the chief thing during the first three months of the school year.

The cheerful optimism of a parent who believes that his own son is an exception to the general law of chance is the greatest obstacle with which principals deal. Statistics cannot penetrate it.

FINE ROQUE PLAYER.

Rev. W. H. Kidd, of New Haven, was in Danbury Tuesday, a guest of the local roque club. He played a few games on the grounds of the Danbury club, having for his opponents E. M. Baldwin and F. M. Thompson. Mr. Kidd is member of the Bridgeport Roque Club, in which city he was formerly the pastor of one of the Methodist Episcopal churches. He is said by the Danbury Roque enthusiasts to be a fine player.—Danbury News.

ENTERTAINMENTS

Hyperion Theater.

George Ade's latest comedy "Just Out of College," will be played at the Hyperion to-night with Joseph Whellock, Jr., as the star. Report credits it with being an exceedingly laughable play. It concerns the way in which a young man fresh from college but with money says $20,000 given to him by a wealthy pickle manufacturer, whose laughter he loves. He gives the old man the time of his life in fighting a rival which springs up suddenly in the pickle market.

THE PRESS AGENT.

By virtue of his many successes and his resultant high standing in the fraternity of stage comedians, Peter P. Dailey, better known as Pete, possesses the right of airing, at long intervals, his opinions concerning the stage and its varied phases of entertainment. Especially do his views claim attention when they have a bearing upon styles in comedy since he is known as one of the most notable purveyors of the latest fashions in these.

PETER DAILEY AT HYPERION.

"There are all sorts of comedians and all sorts of comedy," says Mr. Dailey, "but for purposes of comparison and profit they may be divided into two general classes, the broad and the subtle. A synonym for the former is horse play, while the latter, having its foundation humor, or what is generally accepted as humor, may be so termed. The classes that follow the two distinct lines thus laid out, have for their symbols respectively the starburst and the peacock feather; which means that one style makes lots of noise without doing much injury, but now and then causing a roar, while the other is productive of a genial chuckle, giving way in feminine cases to a giggle, and an era of general good feeling. I naturally hesitate to class myself; but I hate to be considered with the wielders of the barrel stave and the syphon bottle. For many years the slapstick comedy was the only brand recognized as genuine. The monologist with a repertoire of really humorous stories, no matter how well they were told, could not vie in popularity with the pair of buccaniers, Irishmen or clowns, who set the audience in a roar by slapping each other on the necks with rolled newspapers, or beating inoffensive strangers on the heads with hog bladders. Until a few years ago, stage entertainment was a good deal like politics and religion. Sons followed in their father's footsteps. Having been taught that certain things are laughable, they laughed at them furiously, and the fathers voted for the old style of laugh-making because they had not been given an opportunity of witnessing any other kind.

"Gradually, however, the strenuous comedian lost his hold. He found that his wit, if he possessed such a thing, was a more valuable asset than a set of unusual blimps, while a pair of great lungs were hardly to be counted as aids. Those who could not reconcile themselves to the changing condition dropped back from their once exalted stations to secondary positions and finally out of sight altogether, their places being taken by the men whose quieter methods appealed more to the intelligence and collective sense of humor of an audience. And this style of comedian has risen higher in the public estimation than did any of the old style. Theatergoing people have realized that it requires no special talent to kick furniture or stick one's finger in his partner's eye, while the ability to put a large audience in a good humor with itself and everybody else in sight, is recognized as an indubitable gift.

"There are a few—but a very few—of the old style comedians on the stage to-day. They are never seen in the latter day productions that are expected to earn no little fame on account of their magnificence. Their methods are considered too much of a handicap to the offering's chances of success. The several who are still to be seen are valuable when associated with others of the newer style, chiefly because of the comparison thus afforded. Now, that's not a knock at anybody; I am simply speaking in a general way."

Mr. Dailey has made the greatest success of his comedy career as the star of "The Press Agent," the Shubert's newest musical comedy production. Much of his success is due to his quiet and subtle methods of producing a laugh from the other side of the footlights.

This is the attraction at the Hyperion on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

PETER PAN.

For one of the first times on any other than a New York stage J. M. Barrie's fairy fantasy, "Peter Pan," now made famous throughout the country by Miss Maude Adams' wonderful interpretation of the title part, will be performed at the Hyperion theater next Thursday night under the direction of Charles Frohman. There will be four performances in this city. The evening performances will be on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. The single matinee which has been arranged for the last day of the performance, was the suggestion of the management of the theater in response to the demand for seats, which will undoubtedly be very great.

The cast and production of "Peter Pan" will be precisely those which all last season charmed the audiences which thronged the Empire theater, New York.

Particular pains is being taken to open this season for Miss Adams as auspiciously as she began last year's. There will be a full dress rehearsal at the theater on the day of the first performance. As this will be Miss Adams' first visit to this city in two years, and perhaps her final season in "Peter Pan," there will naturally be a very heavy demand for seats. In order that everybody may have a perfectly fair chance it has been decided not to accept any orders by RULED OFF THE TURF.

"Ruled Off the Turf," a sporting melodrama, will be presented at the New Haven theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights next week with the clever young actor George Mack in the leading role of Jack King, a wideawake jockey. His skill as an actor has full scope, and his cleverness as a comedian enables him to handle the humorous side of the character with telling effect. "Ruled Off the Turf" is a play of rapid action and intense situations, abounding with thrills and exciting moments. Its story deals with evils which exist on the race track and it makes a strong appeal for clean racing and races run on the level. There is abundant heart interest and some of the comic scenes are side-splitting. There are plenty of songs and specialties, and an unusual feature for a play of this kind is a levy of pretty show girls who appear at intervals in pleasing evolutions, which are not dragged in, but are introduced in a natural manner. "Ruled Off the Turf" is told in four acts and ten scenes. The action of the play takes place in and about New York city, and its characters are flesh and blood men and women that one encounters in every day life. "Ruled Off the Turf" is said to be the best piece of its kind since "In Old Kentucky," the former is, however, built on a more massive scale and is more up to date. Manager A. H. Woods has spared no expense in providing everything necessary to insure a satisfactory representation which will be pleasantly remembered by all who see it. The cast engaged to support Mr. Mack has been carefully selected.

The olio will have Miss Daisy Harcourt, the English comedienne; Crawford Ford, in "How Did He Do It?"; Orletta and Taylor, a musical team; Kreisel's dog, cat and monkey troupe, and the electrograph with the new motion pictures of a very interesting nature.

tion are becoming equally popular, for her rich soprano voice does justice to the numbers.

A splendidly balanced olio makes up a pleasing bill.

A few good seats still remain for the last performance.

JOE WELCH COMING.

Joe Welch, the famous "Fiddler," in his new special number, a study from life in which various characters will be faithfully reproduced, as only Welch can do it, will be the headline of the Poll bill next week.

As a special feature Bert Leslie and company, in a special ideal of the slang classics entitled "Hogan's Visit," will be seen. One of the special features of this act is the appearance of Mae Sailor and Burrel Barabette. Miss Sailor, it will be remembered, is the dainty Pajama Girl who made such a tremendous hit here last season. A large supporting company in this act will make it a big success.

Bijou Theater.

The dramatization of Hall Caine's famous novel, "The Christian," will be offered by Manager Poll as the attraction next week at the Bijou. The leading roles will be assumed by Lawrence B. McGill and Miss Gertrude Shipman. Both of these New Haven favorites have been seen in the parts of John Storm and Glory Quayle to great advantage, and their interpretation of the roles is said to be of great merit.

The proper production of the piece is attended by considerable expense, but Mr. Poll has given orders for a production complete in each detail, and complete it will be. Nothing of the effectiveness of the play will be lost through the staging.

For the past two weeks the Bijou company, under the direction of Mr. McGill and assisted by a company of forty additional people, has been hard at work on the preparation of the piece. "Only perfection" is Mr. McGill's watchword, and it has proved to be the basis of existence for those who will appear in the production next week.

Careful and painstaking in all his productions, the final touches to "The Christian" show that he has outdone himself and that the Bijou will give the best production of the classic ever seen at popular prices.

A number of well-known New Haven actors will be seen in the piece, including the Fairchild children, whose talent is well known to local theatergoers. In fact, in every detail the utmost

HIS FATAL ERROR.

Consequences of Pius X's Dealings with the Church in France.

Since the principles of Voltaire were applied by the policy of Gambetta, the Catholic Church in France has never ceased to retreat. It has retained, nevertheless, among the greatest institutions in the world, and by the bold acceptance of the Disestablishment Act, which it is too late to reverse—by entering into the spirit of free State—it might have embarked upon a new career of vitality and influence. This is what has been hoped for by the foremost leaders of the who have fought for a losing cause with admirable devotion and courage. This is what has been rejected by the Vatican. Against the mind and instinct of all that is best in Catholic opinion across the Channel, in spite of the disastrous rout of the opponents of the Separation at the polls a few months ago, the Pope threatened ineffectual war upon the government of the third republic by a belated ultimatum. In M. Clemenceau he has to deal with as formidable and brilliant an enemy as Clericalism has ever had in practical politics; and we very much the irreparable defeat of religion in France has been ordained by one of the most estimable and least statesmen might well cause the late Pontiff to turn in his grave; and Cardinal Rampolla, plunged from power into obscurity, waiting in retirement for the opportunity to him if he lives, but may come too late, must watch with sombre meditation the situation that he alone might have averted. Leo XIII was a saint, but a saint. Pius X is a saint Catholic without the subtlety. It is in the highest degree unlikely that the French Catholics can ever obtain better terms and the probability is that they are being led to disaster without the aid of the whole struggle in which Pope X, remained silent and irresolute while the French Catholics were making and death. No note of ringing and decisive leadership was sounded before the elections. Now the Vatican is uncompromising in asserting that it refuses the terms of settlement, which there is no hope of improving. In the long history of papal diplomacy it would be difficult to find a more ineffective chapter.

The encyclical will simply renege the blue, and this following the loss of strength by all moderate elements in the recent general election, will make the position of the Catholics in the Chamber utterly hopeless. Throughout the departments parochial life will be plunged into anarchy, and scenes of deplorable and even dangerous disorder are only too likely to be witnessed, in spite of the Pope's warnings against violence. The imagination of Englishmen will be dominated by concern for the future of the great cathedrals whose miracles of Gothic inspiration in architecture in which the genius of the age of the Crusades sprang from crypt to pinnacle like some vision of medieval prayer realized in stone. Beauvais, with the wonderful group of lancet windows, and the mighty vault suspended at the perilous height, which overwhelms man with the sense of his mortality; the sculptured front and lovely choir of Amiens, which Rugin thought the Parthenon of Christ; Chartres of the twin towers and ancient gloom, looking down upon the lazy windings of its river; Notre Dame rising like a citadel, solitary yet impregnable, out of the human surge of Paris. They dreamed not of an earthly shrine who thus could build," says our own poet. If the possession of these historic shrines is jeopardized by impotent fulminations, Pope Pius X, adding another to the number of good men who have ruined great causes, will have given his mortal stroke to the weakening life of French Catholicism.—London Telegraph.

SAYS THE CLIMATE IS VILE.

And That for Saying so We Would Call Him a "G-d Darned Britisher."

It is no use arguing with the average American about the weather, says a writer in the Strand. You might as well try to convince the untrovelled Englishman that all Americans do not speak down their nose.

Now the Americans are quite certain they have got the best climate in the world, despite folks being killed in blizzards or fried in torrid heat. "God's own country," finest in the world, sir! Why attempt to put them right? It is a mere matter of national temperament.

Besides, if you did put the American right, what an unkindness you would be doing him! It is his special privilege among all men on the earth to be ever engaged in comparison, to the advantage of the "Land of the Free" and the disadvantage of "Johnny Bull."

He compares what is best in his land with what is worst in ours and draws deductions. He compares four cents a mile trains in America with one cent a mile trains in England; the residences of Fifth avenue millionaires with the dens of the poor in the East End; the charm of the India summer with the fogs of London, which we have about five times in five years.

He never tells you about the cheap, safe and fast traveling on our lines and the dear, unsafe and dawdling traveling in his own land; about the happy content of English life and the sweatshops in Chicago's Little Italy; the beautiful fragrance of an English summer and the vile rain, sleet and snow of an American winter.

A NEW LINE TO BRAZIL.

Some Interesting Facts for Subsidy Hunters to Consider.

We invite the attention of our friends the subsidy hunters to the announcement of Ambassador Geiscom, telegraphed from Rio de Janeiro, that a new steamship line will be started with fortnightly sailings to New York. The first boat was to sail on Saturday, and fourteen new boats are to be added to the Lloyd Brasileiro's fleet of some thirty steamers. As the boats are to return direct from New York there will be cargo room which can take back our products cheaply. But the trouble is that the return cargo cannot be supplied cheaply. That is the main fact at the root of our small exports to Brazil, and the explanations why Brazil, with a title of our resources, starts a steamship line which we could not afford to subsidize. The subsidy hunters started at the wrong end. They aimed to supply profits from the public funds instead of to supply freight which would provide private profits and make a subsidy unnecessary.

How true this is appears from the fact that for three calendar years we bought from Brazil $55,000,000 worth and sold to her $33,000,000. We bought so much because we could not get coffee, rubber, hides and so on to good advantage elsewhere. But we did not pay in kind, in cotton manufactures, products of iron and steel, paper, leather, wood and other Yankee notions, because Brazil could buy them cheaper elsewhere, and because nations habitually buy where they borrow.

Brazil, having large financial debts to Europe, naturally had credit and banking connections facilitating buying there. Moreover, Brazil naturally buys in the cheapest markets. That is why Brazil buys $2,000,000 of cotton goods from England and less than a million from us. England supplies Brazil forty-two per cent of ironware of all descriptions, Germany twenty-seven per cent, and the United States ten per cent. Although we are the world's leaders in agricultural implements, England supplied to Brazil sixty-seven per cent, of her total requirements. We take almost half of Brazil's sales, and supply only some ten per cent, other purchases. Naturally steamers had no inducement to come here for cargoes, and naturally Brazil had every reason to supply cargoes for her exports. Differences in freight, which were slight before, will hereafter be in our favor, and the subsidy policy will have lost one striking halting point.

From now on the chief obstacle to improvement in our present languishing trade with Brazil will be in our tariff, which makes our goods so dear, and to the excellence of our home markets, which makes our merchants indifferent to foreign custom. When at last production overtakes consumption, and our traders seek profits now thrust upon them, Brazil's imports from here ought to show a large growth.—New York Times.

Charcoal Kills Bad Breath.

Bad Odor of Indigestion, Smoking, Drinking or Eating Can Be Instantly Stopped.

Sample Package Mailed Free.

Other people notice your bad breath where you would not notice it at all. It is nauseating to other people to stand before them and while you are talking, give them a whiff or two of your bad breath. It usually comes from food fermenting on your stomach. Sometimes you have it in the morning; that awful sour, bilious, bad breath. You can stop that at once by swallowing one or two Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful gas and odor absorbers ever prepared.

Sometimes your meals will reveal themselves in your breath to those who talk with you. "You've had onions," or "You've been eating cabbage," and all of a sudden you belch in the face of your friend. Charcoal is a wonderful absorber of odors, as everyone knows. That is why Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are so quick to stop all gases and odors of odorous foods, or gas from indigestion.

Don't use breath perfumes. They never conceal the odor, and never absorb the gas that causes the odor. Besides, the very fact of using them reveals the reason for their use. Stuart's Charcoal reveals the reason for their use. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges in the first place stop for good all sour breath and belching of gas, and make your breath pure, fresh and sweet, just after you've eaten. Then no one will turn his face away from you when you breathe or talk your breath will be pure and fresh, and besides your food will taste so much better to you at your next meal. Just try it.

Charcoal does other wonderful things, too. It carries away from your stomach and intestines, all the impurities there massed together, and which causes the bad breath. Charcoal is a purifier as well as an absorber.

Charcoal is now by far the best, most easy and mild laxative known. A whole boxful will do no harm in fact; the more you take the better. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made from pure willow charcoal and mixed with just a faint flavor of honey to make them palatable for you, but not too sweet. You just chew them like candy. They are absolutely harmless.

Get a new, pure, sweet breath, freshen your stomach for your next meal, and keep the intestines in good working order. These two things are the secret of good health and long life. You can get all the charcoal necessary to do these wonderful but simple things by getting Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. We want you to test these little wonder workers yourself before you buy them. So send us your full name and address or a free sample of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. Then after you have tried the sample, and been convinced, go to your druggist and buy a 25c. box of them. You'll feel better all over, more comfortable, and "cleaner" inside.

Send us your name and address to-day, and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 50 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

KUBELIK TO HIS ADMIRERS.

Tells About Himself and What Beethoven Would Have Done.

Kubelik has been taking his admirers into his confidence and telling that about himself and his art which is doubtless of great interest to many—including particularly those feminine worshippers whom he classes among his "best listeners." Inasmuch as "they have an innate feeling of sentiment." As might be imagined from his own restrained and dignified manner on that form, Kubelik has no sympathy with the mountebank antics of inferior practitioners, while he finds Paganini easier to play than works like Handel's Largo and Schumann's "Traumerei," which tax the soul as well as the fingers.

Kubelik has ideas of his own, moreover, on the art of composition. "Had Beethoven lived twenty-five or thirty years longer and progressed in the direction of his last compositions he would have effected radical changes in music, abolished many old forms and established some new and free form." It is quite an interesting suggestion.—London Truth.

Such a play as "Peter Pan"—so pertinent a topic of dramatic interest and general comment in England and in America—scarcely demands additional exposition. It has probably been performed before the greatest and most enthusiastic English speaking audiences of any play written in the last decade. The charm and originality of its story has won it high praise in prose and poetry from famous writers.

St. Paul Active Most of the Day—Close

Irregular and Low—Break in Copper Stocks—Steel Common Reaches a New Level—Better Bank Statement Indicated.

The market yesterday was professional and for the most part uninteresting. St. Paul was actively dealt in during the day and led the late trading. Prices dropped somewhat at the close with Reading noticeably selling at the lowest figure of the day. Under this influence the market became heavy, displaying little resistance to the downward tendency even in quarters where support was offered earlier in the day.

bookmaker has done any business on that particular horse or not, he varies the prices in obedience to the index of the forehand, thus keeping up the guessing hurrah.

Ninety per cent. of the wild rumors as to trials, the condition, the chances of certain horses in each race have their genesis with the book-makers, who know that nearly every man, even those of long years of experience, is looking for information.

So, from time to time, wild rumors are precipitated. Where from, no one knows. There comes an apparent plunge on two or three horses no one thought seriously of.

The prices are cut from fifty to one to ten to one, some one starts a whisper "from the stable," and the weaker of the visitors are hooked. Take up any tabulated chart of any day's racing and note the long shot horses played down which finished nowhere.

One can never find a central figure of such a vortex. "Stables" do not put their money down that way. It is to the interest of the bookmaker, to keep any such legitimate transaction as much from the notice of the public as possible.

YESTERDAY'S STOCK MARKET.

Strong Points Not So Well Sustained as Recently.

New York, Oct. 12.—The strong points in today's stock market were not so well sustained as recently, and there were fewer of them. It was not easy to distinguish what the weight upon the market was. The unidentified character of the selling, however, did not lessen its influence on speculative sentiment. It was especially imposing in Union Pacific and deflated attempts to lift that stock to a higher level. As the Harriman stocks have been recognized leaders of the market for some time past the apparent determination to sell indefinite amounts of Union Pacific when the price showed any disposition to advance had a sinister effect. Another feature of sentimental effect on the market was the continued difficulty of advancing the price of United States Steel. The stock sold at 50 1/4 today, thus disposition of the supposition that irretrievable amounts were for sale at 50. The passing of that barrier seemed to give no additional facility to the advance. This disappointed a hope that a belated movement in that important stock was about to take the leadership in the market.

Persistence of the rumors that early dividend increases were in prospect for Pennsylvania, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting were responsible for such strength as was shown by those stocks. The New York public utilities reflected the views of operators with a political bent, who thus expressed their ideas on the probable outcome of the coming election and its bearing on those properties.

As efforts to lift prices in different stocks proved abortive there was a decided falling off in the activity of the market and the movement became very sluggish and irregular. Some influence was allowed to the money market as a restraining force on speculation, although the immediate condition remains one of ease and the estimates of the week's currency movement point to a strong bank return to-morrow. Much interest attaches to the showing of the loan item of to-morrow's bank statement for the light it will throw on how far the pay-off of foreign obligations this week has involved recourse to new borrowing here.

The easing tendency of money was sensibly checked to-day, but there was no actual stiffening of rates. The reactionary tendency persisted as often as efforts were made to lift prices, and the market closed heavy.

Bonds were firm. Total sales, par value, $2,292,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

THE NEW HAVEN ORPHAN ASYLUM.

Donation Day, October 13, 1906. Since 1833 the annual recurrence of Donation day has brought gladness to the hearts of the children and managers of the New Haven orphan asylum. Thursday, the 13th of October, has been appointed for the "Feast of Inauguration" of 1906. For thirty-three years the city has been canvassed by a volunteer committee of gentlemen, whose collections have been a large factor in the asylum's prosperity. It has been thought best to dispense with such services this year and trust to free will offerings from the many friends whose interest in the institution will doubtless prompt to unsolicited giving. For this purpose the managers will keep open house at the asylum, 610 Elm street, from 2 till 6 o'clock, on the afternoon of October 13. They greatly desire that donors of money or merchandise shall themselves accompany their gifts, inspect the premises, hear the exercises of the children in the school house, visit the dozen babies in the Nina-Lynette nursery and by their presence add to the joy of the occasion. Friends who cannot make it convenient to do this are asked to send their donations to the treasurer, Miss Josephine S. Newton, 238 Prospect street, or to the asylum. In behalf of the board of managers, Caroline L. Curtis, President.

Atterbury System Clothes

Ready-to-Wear, $18 to $45

The standard of excellence once vested in the exclusive tailor's products is now shared--and shared creditably--by these best of all ready-to-wear garments. The undisputed value of being able to try on a complete garment to observe its effect, its style and fit, without being called upon to pay for it unless acceptable, at once secures an advantage over made-to-order garments that appeals to every thinking man.

But--add to that advantage the quality, style and fit of the best tailor's products at about half the tailor's charges, and the argument becomes unanswerable.

It has always been the unswerving aim of the Lambert Stores to give the best obtainable in Men's Apparel--best in quality, style and tone, and at the lowest consistent prices.

Fall and Winter Suits and Overcoats $18 to $45

Are now ready in complete variety, including Full Evening Dress Suits and Prince Albert Coats and Waistcoats.

QUEER LABORERS.

Lonely Curio Gatherers--Dragons' Legs

The west is full of men who earn a living in strange ways. For instance, there are the curio gatherers of the Santa Catalina Islands off the coast near Los Angeles.

They outfit at Avalon, where there is a large curiosity business, and are taken to the various islands, often being left several weeks, spending their time in opening the graves of the ancient people of the Santa Catalina Channel. The island of that name has many old town sites from which tons of stone implements have been carried away. At San Nicolas Island there are shell mounds a mile in length and eight or more feet in height, which the collectors open carefully, taking the material--skeletons and implements--which later are sold to the dealers or to some museum.

San Nicholas is the most desolate spot to be imagined, buffeted by wind and the sand blowing like rain or snow. But here a single man lives--a herder of a few sheep--with two dogs as companions. A writer for the Craftsman says that when he went ashore, after great difficulty and danger in the heavy surf, this one inhabitant was seen walking away and did not display any sociability until held up.

He was a Basque, utterly ignorant of the news of the world for the last year and apparently had but one desire unfilled--beans, which he was given. He had abundance of provisions, red wine and tobacco, and in his daily ten or fifteen mile walk up the island he shot sea birds to supply his larder. Robinson Crusoe could not have been more alone than this man, who said his only fear was that some day he might be blown into the sea, though he confessed that he also feared that the spirits of the ancient islanders, so often disturbed, might haunt him.

In the cities of the Pacific Coast strange fields of labor are found. The most remarkable laborers among the Chinese are those who form the legs of the dragon. The latter is an extraordinary object resembling a dragon, often two or three hundred feet in length and of the most gorgeous make-up.

Each large city has a dragon. There is one in San Francisco and one in Los Angeles. Each is estimated to be worth $20,000 of $30,000, being made of the most expensive silks and satins, with gold, silver, ivory and glass trimmings.

When times are hard the dragon is brought out to appease the evil spirits, and it is always exhibited at the first of the year processions and with the tournament of roses of Los Angeles. When it appears it invariably creates a sensation, winding down the streets jaws from side to side, its evil eyes glistening, its antennae quivering.

The legs of the dragon are Chinamen, concealed beneath it, their heads being under the back. Being well trained they give the beast the natural undulatory motion that real dragons are supposed to have. The legs are some two hundred in number, depending upon the size of the creature; and the men are very proud of their work, especially the big man who bears the head and make the jaws open and shut.

Another important position is the one filled by a Chinaman who precedes the dragon, who dances along taunting it, just escaping from the vicious snaps the hideous fangs make at him. The legs are trained for the positions which they hold from year to year.

The track walker, common in the West, represents an important field of labor. His business is to walk over a certain number of miles of track every day and see that it is in perfect order. The traveler may see the walker on the Royal Gorge sitting on a rock overlooking the mysterious river, eating his dinner preparatory to taking up the silent tramp through one of the most remarkable canyons in the Rockies.

One would scarcely expect to find laborers in the California desert, where the temperature is often 130 degrees in the shade. Yet here, in a sink or depression nearly 300 feet below sea level is carried on an interesting business--that of ploughing salt.

The plough is hauled by a cable attached to an engine. The salt is then heaped into piles and later taken on carts to storehouses.
