ALDRICH CURRENCY BILL PASSED BY SENATE WITH FOUR NEW AMENDMENTS

Measure Before Senate Since January 9, Finally Put Through by Mainly Partisan Vote of
42 to 16.

MARKED CHANGES MADE

Four-fifths of Reserve of Bank
Not in Reserve City Must be Kept in Own Vaults—Jail for Officials Investing in Own Securities.

Washington, March 27.—The Aldrich currency bill was passed by the senate to-day by a vote of 42 to 16, in the main party vote. Previous to the vote on the bill, a vote was taken on the Bailey sub, authorizing the government, instead of the national banks, to issue the emergency circulation for which the bill provides. The vote on the substitute stood 42 to 13 and this vote was entirely partisan, even Senator LaFollette casting his vote with the Republicans. The bill has been before the senate since January 9. The vote was not reached until after 6 o'clock and the galleries were practically empty.

An interesting feature of the passage of the bill was a reiteration by Mr. Aldrich of his promise to bring in a bill for an investigation of the entire banking system of the country with a view to instituting reforms.

As passed the bill provides for not more than $500,000,000 of emergency currency to be issued to national banks upon deposit by them of state, county and municipal bonds to be approved by the secretary of the treasury. The currency is to be issued with a view of securing an equitable distribution of the currency over the United States and in accordance with the unimpaired capital and surplus of banks in each state.

Banks are to pay for this emergency circulation one-half of one per cent. a month during the first four months it is circulated and afterwards three-quarters of one per cent. a month.

The bill provides that national banks shall pay not less than one per cent. on government funds deposited with them.

As amended to-day the bill carries an important change in banking laws relating to bank reserves. This amendment provides that of the 15 per cent reserve which it is required shall be kept by banks not in reserve cities four-fifths must be kept in the vaults of the banks, and of that amount one-third can be in the form of securities of the kind required.

By another amendment agreed to to-day the period during which one-half of one per cent. interest is to be charged was reduced from six to four months after which three-quarters of one per cent. is to be charged until redeemed.

At the instance of Mr. LaFollette an amendment was adopted prohibiting any national bank from investing its funds in stocks or other securities of a corporation the officers or directors of which are officers or directors of the bank, and providing a penalty of imprisonment of from one to five years. In accepting this amendment Senator Aldrich said that he had not time to consider the amendment fully, but he was in sympathy with its general purpose. He said it could be perfected in conference.

The proposal that a provision be inserted for a government guarantee of deposits in national banks was the subject of an extended debate and was defeated by a vote of 11 to 46, most of the democratic vote being against the proposed amendment.

An amendment by Mr. LaFollette to punish by from one to five years imprisonment any falsification in bank securities was adopted but was protested against by Senator Knox as already provided for by existing law.

Following was the vote on the passage of the bill:

Yeas—Aldrich, Ankeny, Beveridge, Brandegee, Burdett, Burroughs, Burrows, Crane, Cullom, Curtis, Depew, Dick, Dillingham, Dixon, Dooliver, Du Pont, Ekins, Flint, Frye, Gallinger, Gamble, Guggenheim, Hopkins, Johnston, Keam, Knox, Lodge, Long, McCumber, Nelson, Owen, (Dem.), Perkins, Piles, Richardson, Smith, (Mich.), Smoot, Stephenson, Sutherland, Teller, (Dem.), Warner, Warren and Wetmore. Total 42.

Nays—Bankhead, Borah (Rep.), Bourne (Rep.), Brown (Rep.), Culberson, Frazier, Gray, Gore, Heyburn (Rep.), LaFollette (Rep.), McCraw, McEnerney, McClain, Overman, Payater and Taylor. Total 16.

It is generally conceded that the action of the senate in refusing to adopt the amendment offered by Mr. Nelson to provide for federal guaranty of national bank deposits will make it easier to pass the bill in the house, where little friendliness toward that feature has developed.

Friends of the bill in the bill in the house will be able to draw for support on the open attitude of the president in favor of the bill; and it will not be forgotten by them that some weeks ago Speaker Cannon expressed himself as generally favorable to the measure.

OBJECT TO "OPEN PULPIT"

Orthodox Episcopalians of Massachusetts Asks Revision of Canon.

Boston, March 27.—Resolutions disapproving of the so-called "open pulpit" canon adopted at the general convention of the Episcopal church held at Richmond, Va., last October, have been adopted by the Massachusetts Church union, an organization composed of orthodox Episcopal clergymen and members of the laity. The union asks for a revision of the canon, which as amended at Richmond, grants permission to persons not clergymen of the Episcopal body to deliver addresses in churches of the denomination on special occasions, providing the bishop of the diocese is willing. The officials of the Massachusetts Church union claim that the new regulation is causing serious trouble in the church at large.

CITY TAXES $1,667,668

Bills Calling for That Amount All Out Now.

Tax collector Francis G. Anthony finished the task of sending out the entire list of tax bills which are due April 1. There are over 13,000 of them this year and they call for an income to the city of $1,667,668.57. Of this sum part has already come in although the big payments do not arrive so early. About $3,000 was taken in yesterday. This sum is exclusively the new taxes which are just becoming due and do not include unpaid back taxes.

NEW GILLETTE PLEA

Family Advances Claim That Girl Was Drowned in Fit of Epilepsy.

THREE NEW WITNESSES

Governor May Grant Respite So That
New Evidence May be Heard.

Albany, N. Y., March 27.—Evidence to show that Grace "Billy" Brown suffered from epilepsy at Otsego, Chenango county, to support a new theory that the girl had a fit when she was drowned in Big Moose lake in the Adirondacks, it was learned to-night, will be presented to Governor Hughes to-morrow morning in an effort to have the governor grant a respite for Chester Gillette, condemned to die in Auburn prison next week for the murder of the girl. Gillette's father, mother and aunt who are here seemed to be confident the governor would grant the respite so that the alleged new evidence could be presented to a court in support of a motion for a new trial.

Three witnesses, said to be two women and a man, none of whom appeared as witnesses at Gillette's trial, are to testify before Governor Hughes in the executive chamber in support of the application for the granting of a respite.

It was learned that counsel for the Gillette family will endeavor to show that Grace Brown met her death accidentally; that while in the boat with Gillette she was seized with an epileptic fit and drowned and that the discoloration on her face when the body was found were due to her head coming in contact with the boat.

MAJOR TILSON IMPROVES

But He is Not Yet Out of Danger, It is Said.

It was stated last night that Major John G. Tilson, who was operated upon at Dr. Cheney's sanitarium for appendicitis the early part of the week, had made progress toward recovery during the day. His condition was considered to be satisfactory, although he is not even yet out of danger. Nothing can be said yet as to when the major will be out and around again. The keenest interest is being felt by his friends, legal, business, military, collegiate, and social.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

Kansas City, Mo., March 27.—School was resumed to-day at the Bryant public school in Wyandotte county, west of Kansas City, Kan., where, on Tuesday last, the entire staff of women teachers walked out and refused to conduct their classes.

New York, March 27.—This has been New York's warmest March 27 on the records of the weather bureau. At 2:29 o'clock the official thermometer registered 75 degrees, which was ten degrees warmer than the previous highest record of 65, which was made by the weather three years ago to-day.

Seattle, Wash., March 27.—Troops have been ordered from Fort Seward, at Haines, Alaska, to preserve order at the Tweedwell mine, on Douglas Island, where 500 miners have gone on a strike. They have threatened to blow up the mine if troops are landed. Ten barrels of dynamite were stolen yesterday from the mine stores.

Washington, March 27.—John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, the democratic leader in the house, today gave notice of his intention to introduce to-morrow a resolution to ask the committee on the judiciary to examine the record of the building standing on ground also owned by the society. The pastor is now in Japan and will bring back an image of Buddha, for which a place has been reserved in the chapel.

DISCUSS PUBLIC SERVICE EVILS

Business Men Hear That Commission to Regulate Corporations Should be Formed.

PRESENT COMPANIES O. K.

Recurrence of Connecticut Railway and Lighting Overcapitalization Must be Guarded Against.

A largely attended meeting of the New Haven Business Men's association was held last night in Heublein's banquet hall to hear the need of a public utilities commission for Connecticut discussed. Beside the members of the Business Men's association there were present several members of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Associated Civic societies.

Before the discussion in regard to the public service commission was opened, E. J. Atwater moved that Professor William B. Bailey of Yale be asked to come before the Business Men's association a date to be arranged for later, and to speak concerning the conditions in the New Haven stumps, as he did at the annual meeting of the Associated Civic societies in the United church chapel, on Thursday night. The motion was carried and an invitation extended to Professor Bailey.

In opening the discussion Sidney P. Butler, president of the association, stated that he wished it to be understood that the movement for the creation of the public utilities commission, so far as he was concerned was not a movement against the public service corporations of Connecticut. He said that those in back of the movement are not trying to work against the corporations, but are asking rather for their co-operation. He then called upon Col. N. G. Osborn as the first speaker of the evening.

Colonel Osborn said: "The public service corporations either fail to understand the purpose of the movement or are sadly mistaken in regard to it. It is not a reform movement. It applies to three parties, to give them all their equal rights, the corporations themselves, the state, and the people. It tends to prevent either of the other two from taking from the third its rights."

"The citizens of Connecticut ought to realize what Connecticut has done in regard to public service corporations. It has made of them private monopolies. It has abandoned as I believe is right here, the principal of competition in the matters of railroad, street car lines, telegraph, telephone and express. The state has acquiesced in this, rather than adopted the policy of making them private corporations. Certain people have tried to establish independent lines. From here railroads were built to Derby and to Middletown, but consolidation with the private companies from which an effort was made to save the lines was the result. It was logical that there should be but one railroad system in Connecticut."

"I concede to the monopolies which enjoy rights in Connecticut all honesty of purpose, but the power of any body is not to be exercised without some restraint. I do not want the power of these corporations to be weakened, broken or destroyed. But the corporations cannot be trusted with absolute power and we must protect ourselves against any possible abuse. The general assembly does not have time to attend to such matters, meeting as it does only once in two years and then for not longer than six months. There is so much public business before this session that nothing receives adequate attention."

"As an example of what a public service corporation can do, the Connecticut Railway and Lighting company got as wicked a charter as any body of men could ask or any legislature grant. It could issue stocks and bonds as it saw fit. Of the stock $20,000,000 of the $30,000,000 was, as Charles S. Mellen said, wind and water. On this stock in some way two per cent. had to be paid and now that the New Haven road has acquired the property, it will in some way manage to pay the bills. He continued to improve steadily and while the gains have been slight, his family and friends feel more encouragement. Dr. Winslow at 10:30 p. m. sent out the following bulletin:

LOCKOUT IN EFFECT

Cigar Manufacturers Make Good Threat to Close Shops.

UNION MEN ARE DEFIANT

Over Four Hundred Out of Work Temporarily—No Breakers Engaged.

As the result of the refusal of the employees of the John P. Kilfeather cigar factory to go back to work under the shop conditions which the management has decided to put into effect, the members of the Cigar-makers' union will find the factories of the manufacturers who are in the agreement closed to them this morning. It was decided last night to put the lockout alternative into effect this morning and 400 men are temporarily at least, thrown out of employment by this decision of the manufacturers.

The principal manufacturers who are in the lockout agreement, and who yesterday afternoon finally decided on this method of dealing with the men are: Frederick D. Grave, John P. Kilfeather, A. Katka & Co., Lewis Osterweiss & Sons, Thomas Cunningham & Co., John F. Schell & Co., Julius Laske, Martin J. Wholan, Edward Tobin and several others.

The action on the part of the manufacturers was decided upon only when it was found that by no other method would it be possible to get the employees at Kilfeather's, who are being supported by the other members of the union, back to work. The manufacturers once put off the date of the lockout in order to give the men more time to consider the matter, but the men refused to work under the shop conditions and so last night was set as the final time for the lockout. The men were paid off last night and at that time stated they would continue in their present course and at 5 o'clock the manufacturers declared the lockout.

At the Kilfeather factory last night there was a conference between the manufacturers and the national officers of the cigar-makers, G. R. French of Louisville, Ky., and J. C. Farrell of Chicago. Mr. Farrell and Mr. French, according to a member of the union, are trying to get the union men to go back to work under the new shop conditions, the employers granting a few concessions, but the union men have refused. This refusal, it is said, was not unanimous.

The lockout of these 400 men will seriously hit up the cigar manufacturing in this city as practically all the leading factories will be closed. Up to the present time no effort has been made to get strikebreakers and it will probably be a week before the manufacturers decide upon such action.

RAILROAD STRIKE NOW IMMINENT

Over One Hundred Employees in Spring Street Shops Discharged Yesterday.

FORCE IS REDUCED TO 25

Representatives of Local Unions in Boston Last Night—Mellen Said to be Prepared for a Strike.

At the close of the working day yesterday the New Haven road discharged 195 of its employees at the Spring street shops, this being the second largest cut in the number of workmen the road has made in the recent series of discharges. It leaves twenty-five men in the Spring street shops, just enough to keep the place open.

To-day the employees of the road were to give the officials their final answer in regard to whether or not they would work on piece work instead of a regular wage scale. This delay was caused by the road's request that the men wait until the 28th in order that it might more fully investigate the piece work and the present wage scale. The men agreed to wait until the 28th and the road did not put the men on piece work. Instead the road began to discharge the men in groups until the force at the Spring street shops had been reduced from 700 or 800 to 150. Then the reduction was more gradual, but in the past three weeks the force has been cut from the high water mark to twenty-five, the number which is left ready to strike if it is necessary. At the Cedar street shops the force has not been cut and there are still fifty men working there, all of whom will go out if a strike is called.

Ten representatives from the local branches of the national unions of machinists, boiler-makers, pipefitters, machinists' helpers, etc., went to Boston yesterday afternoon to attend the conference held last night at Fannell hall, held for the purpose of deciding whether or not the men will submit to the piece work scale and what means shall be adopted for resisting the scale if it is the only one offered by the road.

This latter point is practically the only one to be taken up for the men have already decided not to work on the railroad to-day. The road is equally determined upon introducing this new system of wages and a strike can be the only result.

The shophmen all over the system, the larger part of whom are at Norfolk, Readville, Roxbury, and Boston, will join the employees here in calling a strike which in magnitude the union men say will surpass anything the New Haven system has had to contend with in a good many years. The road has discharged a good many men at Readville and Boston, but no such number as have been dismissed from the shops here since the trouble began.

The road has had several months to prepare for trouble, and is said to have been signing a large number of men during the past four weeks since the matter reached an acute stage. The union men are relying on the fact that the road in all probability will be unable to get enough efficient men to work in their shops even long enough to tide the company over until a strike can be settled. Employees in eastern cities have been opened, one of which is in this city, but the number of men signed is said not to be nearly so large as the number of men dismissed.

The old steamboat "Connecticut," one of the boats of the New Haven road, is anchored off Pier No. 24 in New York, and it is reported that the captain of the Fall River line steamer "Puritan" has been ordered to come with the "Connecticut" to New Haven to-day. This is said to be in the event that the present employees of the road refuse to go on the piece work wage scale. It will be remembered that at the time of the last strike by the boiler-makers, hardly had the strike been declared when one of the steamers of the New Haven road sailed into the harbor loaded with strike breakers and anchored off Balie dock.

LAD PAINFULLY INJURED

Meets With Accident While Playing Around "The Old Mill."

Robert Tierney, aged nine years, of 214 Second avenue, West Haven, met with a painful accident while playing with some of his companions at Savin Rock, yesterday. Robert together with two or three other youngsters, were enjoying themselves watching the dismantling of the Old Mill. He was standing close to the large water wheel, when some of his playmates reached the wheel revolving. One of the paddle blades hit the boy on the side of his face, nearly severing his ear, and ended up by smearing the lad's collarbone.

The wounded lad was first taken to the Hotel Inne, then to Wood's drug store. Dr. Phelps dressed the wound, and the boy was taken home. Dr. E. R. Whittemore was called and further examination revealed the broken collarbone. Master Robert will be confined to the house for the three or four weeks.

JOHNSON IS WILLING

Democratic Governor Will Accept, But Will Not Seek, Nomination.

ISSUES SIGNED STATEMENT

Will Not Allow His Name to be Put Up for the Purpose of Defeating Bryan.

St. Paul, Minn., March 27.—Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota made a specific declaration to-day that while he had done nothing and will do nothing towards gaining the democratic nomination for president, he will not refuse the honor if it is tendered him. The governor made this statement in a letter to Swan J. Turnball, publisher of the Minneapolis Swedish-American Post, who had asked for a declaration on the subject. The governor's letter follows:

"I do not believe that any American citizen should be an active, open candidate for the nomination to the presidency. Any American would appreciate the high honor which could come to him in being selected as standard bearer of his party. While I recognize that the press has had much to say about me in connection with this high office, I have hitherto avoided any public or private expression regarding my position.

"Matters have progressed so far, however, that it seems to me that I should at least say in answer to your interrogation, that if the democratic party of the nation believes me to be more available than any other man and felt that by my nomination I could contribute any service to the party and to the nation, I should be happy to be the recipient of the honor which it would thus confer.

"I have done nothing and will do nothing in the way of organizing or bringing about this end and shall not be a candidate in the sense of seeking the nomination.

"In this connection I desire it understood that in no sense am I to be a candidate for the purpose of defeating Mr. Bryan or any other man; that the only consideration which would induce me to allow the use of my name would be the feeling that I might be necessary to the cause. If the democratic party should see fit to nominate Mr. Bryan or any one else the action would meet with my approval and the nominee certainly would have my unqualified support as I should expect his support if conditions were reversed."

NEGRO IS SHOT BY CONGRESSMAN

Southerner, on Way to Deliver Temperance Lecture, Objects to Negro's Drinking on Car.

BYSTANDER ALSO WOUNDED

Representative Heflin is Held in $5,000 Bail on Charge of Assault With Intent to Kill—Negro May Die.

Washington, March 27.—In an affray on a Pennsylvania car to-night a negro and a white man were shot by Congressman Thomas J. Heflin of Alabama. Thomas Lumby, the negro, was shot in the head and is in a critical condition, and Thomas McCreary, a New York horse trainer, is suffering from a wound in the leg. The shooting of McCreary was accidental. Mr. Heflin was arrested and taken to the Sixth police precinct station where a charge of assault to kill was lodged against him. Later he was released on $5,000 bail.

The shooting occurred shortly after 7 o'clock on a car bound for Capitol Hill. Congressman Heflin, accompanied by Congressman Edwin J. Ellerbe of South Carolina, had boarded the car at 12th street and Pennsylvania avenue. Mr. Heflin being on his way to deliver a temperance lecture at the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church, 4 1-2 street, and John Marshall place. Upon boarding the car he observed two negro passengers, one of whom was Lumby. Lumby was in the act of taking a drink from a bottle of whiskey. There were a number of other passengers, including several ladies.

Mr. Heflin remonstrated with Lumby and asked him to stop drinking, saying: "Don't take that drink, there are ladies here and it is not right. It is against the law for you to do this thing in a street car and I hope you will put that bottle away. The other negro, who was sober, attempted to take the bottle away from his friend, but failed. It is charged that Lumby became offended at Mr. Heflin's remonstrance and applied with epithets. Heflin and Lumby then engaged in a desperate struggle. Mr. Heflin succeeded in throwing Lumby off the car as it came to a stop. Most of the occupants of the car hastily alighted, including Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCreary. The negro began cursing Mr. Heflin again, and made a motion toward his hip pocket as if to draw a weapon, whereupon Mr. Heflin fired at him through the car window, missing him and hitting twenty feet from the car. Mr. Heflin fired once or twice again, one of the shots striking Lumby in the head above the ear.

Lumby, though badly wounded and unconscious, has a chance to recover. His skull was fractured but the surgeons are unable to ascertain to-night whether the bullet entered his head.

At the police station Mr. Heflin gave his reason for going armed. He is the author of a "Jim Crow" car bill in the District of Columbia, and he says that since he introduced the measure he has received many letters of a threatening character, and he obtained permission from the police authorities to go armed.

Mr. Heflin represents the fifth Alabama district in which is Tuskegee Institute of which Booker T. Washington is the head.

$7.50 would be a small price in other stores for a very smart but plain hat of rich Havana brown straw braid; a great, smashing bow of black satin ribbon and natural quills. These are the unique trimmings of this little masterpiece for $7.50.

From these you advance in easy stage prices, $10.98, $12.98 and so on, having choice of the stylish Jam Pot shapes—the Parisian novelty that has taken New York by storm—and all the other various fashionable hats elaborately trimmed or severely but richly and superbly simple.

ONE FINE DAY

Everything on the Sprout Yesterday—Aurora Borealis Observed.

The rare June day that the poet sang about was at hand yesterday over two months ahead of time, the occasion being one of the finest days noted in March in many a moon. The balmy weather started everything growing, caused the young ones to go bare-headed and put color into several hundred thousand blades of grass. The official thermometer ran up to 66 degrees about the middle of the day and the mercury hovered around that point for many hours.

During the evening the attention of a great many was called to a strange light in the heavens and a large number of persons were offered for the appearance of the light. At the Yale observatory where the conditions were noted, it was stated that the light effect was none other than the aurora borealis, and a good sample of it, too. The unusual climatic conditions existing yesterday had nothing to do with the display, according to the authorities on the hill.

The display began about 9 o'clock in the east the lights having the appearance of two streamers which traveled toward the west, gradually converging and lasting about half an hour. To-day, according to Mr. Tarr will be slightly cooler than yesterday.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS. PIAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded, 50c.

LIGHTS SEEN IN WATERBURY

Aurora Borealis Noted by Many in the Brass City.

Waterbury, March 27.—Many inquiries were made at the newspaper offices here concerning the display of aurora borealis over this section. There were no colors visible to the naked eye and many doubted that the unusual streak of greyish white which shot across the sky was the aurora borealis. The local weather observer attributed the display to the friction between warm vapors rising from the earth and colder strata of air.

WATERBURIAN GETS TEN YEARS.

Waterbury, March 27.—Leonardo Samelo, who has been on trial in the superior court here for the murder of Vito Summa in a Spring street saloon on the night of Dec. 26, was to-day convicted of manslaughter and given a sentence of from 10 to 15 years.

Canadian Pacific. The possibilities of this party out looking for stocks acquiring the New Haven road is very good and should he come into control the people of Connecticut would like some way to oppose him and protect their rights. The state should constitute some large powered body, if possible giving to the parties concerned the right of review by the courts. The supreme court of Connecticut has decided that it has not this power of review, Judge Baldwin dissenting.

"The alternative to a public service commission is government ownership. This seems hardly feasible and we must act in anticipation of the future in order that too great power may not be given the corporations. Their monopolistic rights without restraint must call to our mind the fact that human morals like human intellect have their limitations.

"There are three ways for the choosing of a public service commission. One is by popular vote, one by election of the general assembly and the other by appointment of the governor. Personally I would not trust the general assembly with the appointment, for there, with a membership of 250, the sense of responsibility, should the commission fall, would be too widely divided. Nor do I believe in a popular election, for the people could not discriminate and satisfy itself as to the fitness of the candidates for the positions. The man to appoint the members of the commission is the governor. The only question is whether he can rise above the temptation to assist his own party by the use of this power of appointment. In Connecticut we have elected many inferior governors, but since I can remember we have not elected a dishonest governor. The governors of the past twenty-eight years have all worked to raise the standard of the Connecticut bench until it is now incorruptible and in a model for others.

"The movement for the appointment of a public utility commission is a movement for the proper, honest and just investigation into the methods of the corporations. Such being the case what public service corporation can object to it?"

Senator Frank S. Butterworth was the next speaker. He said: "No relief can be given by the legislature in its six months' session every two years. The legislature is not equipped to take up such questions. Last year with all the story of the Connecticut Railway & Lighting company before us, we granted nearly every charter asked for. The legislature cannot get information about the applicants. The only way is to have a commission which can investigate and find out about the applicants.

"Objections are made by the corporations. First, that it would interfere with their business. This is hardly an objection to be considered by the public. Second, that such a commission would be political. Under appointment by the governor I do not think this would be so. That in New York is not. In New York the trouble is that the commission has to undertake an enormous work all at once, not that it is unable to undertake the work."

Col. Charles W. Pickett was the third speaker. He said: "The principal need for such a commission is that the railroad systems are so burdened with water that they have been irrigated to the limit. In Massachusetts the lines have cost $25,000 a mile. In Connecticut they have cost $15,000 a mile. Massachusetts has been conservative. The railroads there have been well built and the equipment in some parts of Massachusetts is better than in some parts of Connecticut. From the comparison of the figures it will be seen that at least $25,000 of every mile is clear water. It amounts up to $40,000,000 which will rest as a burden on the people of Connecticut so long as time lasts. This $40,000,000 has enriched several gentlemen from Philadelphia, and they have gone back to Pennsylvania to spend their money.

"The time has come when that door of opportunity and theft should be closed. The realization of this has brought the appointment of a public utilities commission up as a vital issue. We do not want any more such corporations as the Connecticut Railway and Lighting company, and no more such sums of watered stock as the last legislature provided for—something like $40,000,000. There would be no objection on the part of the present corporations, I think, if they thought the appointment would be above partisan politics, and so I think the state supreme court should be increased by three or five and the extra judges form a commission."

Colonel Osborn then stated that this was impossible, according to the decision of the Connecticut supreme court. Colonel Pickett continued: "I shouldn't have much trust in the chief executive appointing the commission. I have never known a governor who forgot his friends. I believe it was Governor Waller who said: 'Damn a man who doesn't stand by his friends.'"

Taking the other side of the matter, Attorney Arthur Graves opposed the appointment of the utilities commission and restrictions on the corporations, citing in favor of his contention the instance of Texas railroad stocks, which, he said, are very hard to sell, and whose securities are very seldom listed.

BLAMES LOSTRITTO

Coroner Holds Him Responsible for Father-in-Law's Death.

Coroner Mix yesterday afternoon made his finding in the death of Augustino Santoro, an Italian of the Seventh ward, who died as the result of a quarrel on March 22, and in the finding he holds Antonio Lostritto, son-in-law of the dead man, criminally responsible for his demise. The finding states that the dead man had an altercation with his daughter's husband, in the course of which he slapped him twice in the face and followed this up with two blows over the head with the handle of a small hatchet. These blows drew for blood and caused slight wounds on Lostritto's head, prompting him apparently to revenge. The finding states further that Lostritto thereupon drew a three-cornered stiletto and stabbed Santoro three times, and that as a result of these stabs Santoro later died at the hospital.

In preparing the finding an autopsy was held by Dr. C. J. Bartlett, the medical examiner, and thirteen witnesses were heard by the coroner. Lostritto is under arrest for the crime for which the coroner's finding holds him responsible.

HENNEY FOR GOVERNOR

Suggestion Meets With Applause from Danbury Republican Club.

Danbury, March 27.—The annual banquet of the Danbury Republican club of this place was held at the Hotel Green this evening. There were fifty members and invited guests present with Col. J. Moss Ives of the governor's staff as toastmaster. The principal speakers of the evening were Mayor Henney of Hartford, and Judge John H. Light of South Norwalk. State Attorney Stiles Judson of Stratford, who was to have been one of the speakers, was confined to his home by illness, and Rev. H. C. Meserve of this place, spoke in his stead.

Colonel Ives, in introducing Mayor Henney, referred to him as a man of whom Hartford should be proud and said that he believed the time was not far distant when Mr. Henney would "serve the state as well as governor as he had Hartford as mayor." Applause followed this remark.

NEW HAVEN CASE UP

Commerce Commission Hears Charge of Terminal Discrimination.

Washington, March 27.—A case of considerable importance to railroads in the east was heard to-day by the interstate commerce commission. It was that of the Central railroad of New Jersey, the Philadelphia and Reading, and the Baltimore and Ohio against the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

Some time ago the New Haven road abrogated all through routes and joint rates with the complainants in this case at the New York and Harlem terminals of the New Haven line, maintaining that it could not physically carry the traffic offered to it through these terminals without disadvantage to itself and it maintains its right to make such arrangements with other lines as it may see fit.

YOUNG GIRL ASSAULTED

Assaultant of Waterbury School Girl Makes Escape.

Waterbury, March 27.—Genevieve Carlson, fourteen, was assaulted in the woods of Bishop street, while on her way home from school, yesterday afternoon by a young man about twenty years of age. Her assailant escaped, but as the police have a fairly good description they hope to be able to get him.

The assault was one of the worst that has taken place in Waterbury in many years. A man who happened along at the time looked on, and saw the assault committed, and made no effort whatever to capture the fiend.

PECULIAR DEATH BY FIRE

Farmland, Fighting Fire at Deep River, Falls Into Flames.

Deep River, March 27.—Edwin F. Mott, a farm hand of this place, met death in the western part of the town this afternoon, while fighting a brush fire with Socrates Bushnell. The fire seemed to be getting beyond control, and Bushnell left Mott, to go to an adjoining lot, some fifteen yards away, for the purpose of fighting the flames from that side. He was absent between fifteen and twenty minutes, according to his story, and when he returned to the spot where he had left his companion, found Mott dead, the body resting on the ground on the hands and knees, the clothes entirely burned off, and the corpse charred and blackened. Bushnell says he heard no outcry, and it is supposed that the victim, overcome by the smoke, in which he was fighting, dropped unconscious into the flames and perished. He was fifty-seven years old, unmarried, and lived all alone in a small hut in the Winthrop district of the town.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

A meeting was held yesterday of the High School Junior class. It was called to order by Dr. Cushing. The constitution was then read and accepted. Nomination for the presidency were then called for. Dustin of Boardman, and Comstock of Hillhouse being the nominees. While this was going on there was much cheering for the candidates. Dr. Cushing appointed as tellers Gillern, Keane, Myer and Stevenson. They departed from voting, all students having 2 Drs. Two hundred and fifty-one votes were cast for the candidates. Dustin received 149 and Comstock 102. Dustin was declared elected amid wild cheering. He was the captain of the basketball team, and did much good work as its leader. He will, doubtless, prove a good leader for his class.

The elections now are for temporary officers, the final election being in December, 1908. However, the present officers have good chances of being re-elected. Comstock being the defeated candidate for the presidency, a motion was made, seconded and unanimously passed that he be elected vice-president.

Many candidates were nominated for the secretaryship, they being the Misses Langley, Schneider, Lambert, D. Blakeslee, Leary, Coffee and Holbrook, the Misses Leary, Coffee and Holbrook declining. These girls were all from Hillhouse as the loser of the presidency was allowed to have a secretary, assistant treasurer and sergeant at arms, while the winners, the treasury and assistant. The result of ballot showed Miss Langley and Lambert having most votes. Another ballot was held, in which Miss Langley won out, being declared secretary.

Field of Boardman, was the only candidate for treasurer and he was unanimously elected. Myer was nominated but he declined. Nominations were then in order for assistant treasurer, from Hillhouse; but as it was late the meeting was adjourned, by Dustin, who had taken the chair on being elected.

Exercises were held in the Boardman Session room yesterday morning, the upper classmen of Boardman attending.

A meeting of the class of 1907 was held last night at the Boardman Session room.

HOPPE IS CHAMPION

Wins World's Billiard Title from George Sutton by Score of 500 to 272.

VICTOR PLAYS CLEVERLY

Sutton Fails to Get Usual Control of Ivories—Winner Has High Run of 99.

Madison Square Garden, New York, March 27.—While Hoppe of this city, won the world's championship at 15.2 ball line billiards by defeating George Sutton, of Chicago, by a score of 500 to 272, to-night at Madison Square Garden in the 24th round.

The winner played cleverly at times, especially in open table work whereas Sutton failed to get the ivories into position for his favored ball-line nurse.

Sutton won the bank and after choosing the white ball missed the opening shot by inches.

Out of the first ten innings Sutton failed to score in five whereas Hoppe failed only once. In his ninth inning Hoppe by beautiful open playing with an attempt to use the ball line nurse, made a run of 99 but missed a difficult spread draw.

Sutton added 54 to his score in the eleventh and Hoppe made 36 in the twelfth. Sutton worked the ball line nurse along the top of the table, occasionally making a little distance on the side line, but when he seemed to be perfectly set he missed a masse after a run of 83 in the thirteenth inning. Hoppe gave another brilliant exhibition of open table play in his half of this inning. He passed the 200 mark with a run of 88, missing a difficult full length two cushion carom.

Hoppe kept the ivories well under control in the next nine innings, although he made errors in two of them. He steadily increased his lead and at the close of the twenty-second inning was over 200 points ahead, the score being 462 to 253 in his favor.

Hoppe ran his score up to 465 in his twenty-third inning but played carefully taking a chance on a three cushion carom which he missed. Sutton drew a cipher and then Hoppe ran out with an unfinished five.

The score by innings:

Hoppe 1, 20, 5, 1, 0, 10, 12, 39, 5, 10, 35, 88, 6, 0, 22, 25, 14, 24, 29, 0, 42, 32, 5—500. Average 20-20-24. High runs 99, 88, 42.

Sutton 0, 7, 5, 0, 0, 1, 20, 0, 28, 0, 54, 2, 83, 0, 16, 9, 6, 11, 1, 6, 0, 7, 19, 0—272. Average 11-5-24. High runs 83, 54, 28. Referee Edward McLaughlin.

Something About Susie Cawthorne—The Land of Nod Latter Part of Week.

One of the most genial ladies in the world is Susie Forrester Cawthorne, the heavyweight comedienne of "A Yankee Tourist" company, coming to the Hyperion next Thursday, April 2. Susie is without a doubt possessed of more adipose tissue than any other American actress. Just how much excess baggage she carries in this way no one knows. It is doubtful if she knows herself, as she declares that she has long since sworn off on weighing machines, having had to pay for the demolition of one at Coney Island some years ago, the said machine being weak enough to succumb to her charms. Some people are mean enough to guess Susie's weight at 400, but, with a rippling laugh, she says, "They're jealous," and refuses to either confirm or deny the guess.

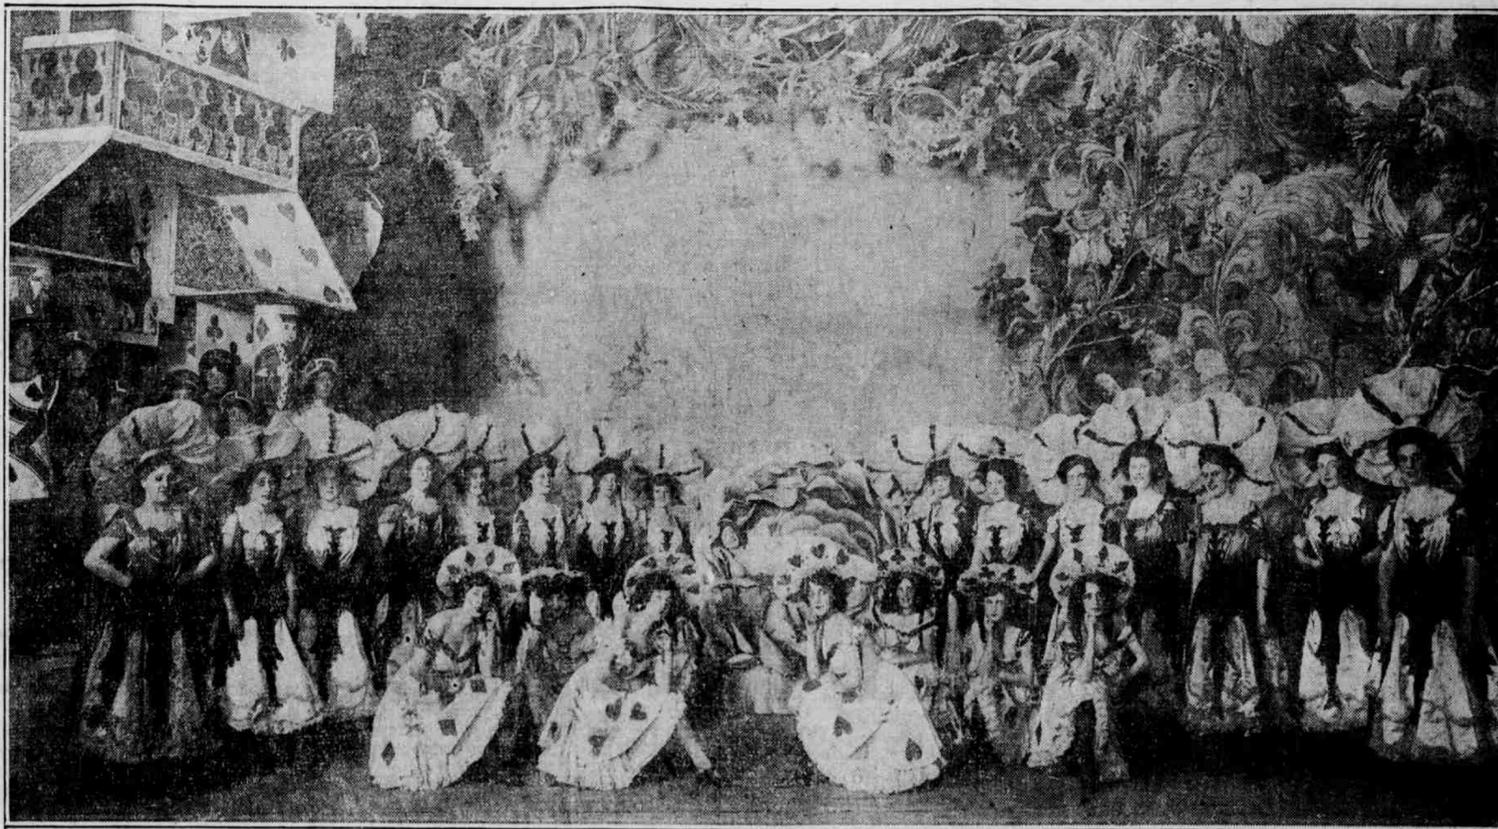

At times the weight carried by the comedienne is a serious handicap to her comfort, and Mrs. Cawthorne laughingly tells many humorous experiences she has had while traveling. During the southern trip of the "Yankee Tourist" company, there were several incidents, which though unpleasant at the time, are now laughable memories and nobody laughs more heartily over them than Mrs. Cawthorne herself. At Macon, Georgia, when she arrived at the station and called for a hack, the only thing in sight was a two-seated surrey, driven by a diminutive darkey boy. As he saw the gigantic actress coming, his eyes fairly bulged out of his head in astonishment, but he seemed perturbed and glued to the front seat. Susie threw in her satchel and then attempted to enter the vehicle. The attempt was vain. The effort, however, landed her between the two seats and there she stuck. She could neither advance nor retreat and the vehicle threatened to capsize with the one-sided weight. The darkey driver screamed with terror and held on with both hands to the seat. Finally, with the aid of all the station employes, Susie was extricated and the hackman whipped up his horse to get away from her as speedily as possible. Mrs. Cawthorne went to her hotel in a street car.

"One of the meanest things that ever happened to me occurred on this trip," said Mrs. Cawthorne. "We arrived in one of those awful Southern one-night stands and I went to the best hotel in the place. It reminded me of Kipling's 'Somewhere east of Suez, where the best is like the worst.' I was very tired, and, as soon as I was assigned a room, lay down on the bed to rest. I had hardly made myself comfortable when, amani! down went the bed. Gathering myself up from the debris and seeing that an effective repair was out of the question, I rang and asked for another room. This was given to me and I sought to get the interrupted, though much needed nap. Vain hope! In less than a minute, down crashed the bed in a more hopeless looking wreck than the other. The landlady herself came up this time. 'Haven't you got a decent bed in the house?' I queried.

"He was a typical Southern small-hotel keeper, tall, gaunt and sallow. His chin whiskers were dyed brown from the juice of tobacco, which he chewed as he ruefully gazed at the awful wreckage before him. 'Yass'm!' he slowly replied, 'I reckon I have. But I just tell you that you kaint have the chance to damage no mo' of them. I believe I'll have to put you out! And he did, the wretch. I had to pack up and seek another hotel, where fortunately they had good iron beds."

"The Land of Nod." It does not seem possible to overestimate the high character of the production of the musical comedy, "The Land of Nod," which will be presented at the Hyperion, Friday and Saturday with Saturday matinee, April 24.

This brilliant spectacle has never been presented here, but all who have witnessed it never cease to extol its numerous distinctive charms and refer to it as one of the thoroughly enjoyable entertainments that have been presented in this country. It is a production which is generally regarded as the most beautiful, complete and altogether satisfying that has been devised in the line of musical extravaganza. The comedy is delightfully original and there is plenty of it, and the music, of which there is an abundance, is of a kind which lingers long in the memory by reason of its sweet melody and of its pleasing, "catchy" nature, and its character creations are so altogether original that they cause something akin to astonishment. "The Man in the Moon," "The Welsh Rarebit," "The Telephone Man," "The King and Queen of Hearts," "The Jack of Hearts," "The Weather Man," and the other unique personages have not hitherto been introduced into a stage work, and the author has given them material to work with which is at once reasonable and uproariously funny. The beautiful transformation scenes from earth to the Land of Nod, with a visit to the latter from "The Man in the Moon," is one of the most novel and beautiful of modern stage conceptions. The performance of this work is characterized by a company of comedians, singers, and dancers which is generally regarded as containing more gifted men and women than have ever been brought together upon the stage at one time. Among the principal names are Knox Wilson, Ursula March, William Fennell, Grace Drew, William Phillips and Lurella Drew, and the work of these clever entertainers is aided by a chorus of sixty, of whom upwards of fifty are vivacious, graceful young women who sing and dance pleasingly and who wear an astonishing array of beautiful costumes. From all points of view, the forthcoming presentation of the "Land of Nod" here must be regarded as one of the distinctly bright spots in the history of local theatricals. The sale of seats begins Wednesday.

ONE OF THE MAGNIFICENT ENSEMBLE SCENES IN THE BIG MUSICAL EXTRAVAGANZA, "THE LAND OF NOD," AT HYPERION NEXT FRIDAY, SATURDAY AND SATURDAY MATINEE.

AT THE NEW HAVEN

Girl of Eagle Ranch First Three Days—Royal Band of Sweden Friday Night.

A novel and strong feature of the big scenic production of "Girl of Eagle Ranch" with Mamie Fleming, the clever actress as "The Girl," is the advanced vaudeville presented throughout the show and between the acts. Four big acts are especially engaged for this purpose and include Tommy West, eccentric comedian of experience and ability to make people laugh to their heart's content. The Cowboy Quartet, in one of the best singing acts ever presented by a quartet. Mr. Gracey, who is a second "Musical Hale," playing on almost every instrument imaginable, including chimes, sleigh bells, rattles, tubaphone, etc., and introducing in his act four of the largest flags ever made, Miss Fleming, in her own peculiar style of singing and dancing, who has a most remarkable and strong sweet contralto voice, capable alone of commanding an immense salary in vaudeville. These features together with one of the greatest scenic presentations of the strongest and most sensational western dramas ever seen in this city, will be given with the production of "Girl of Eagle Ranch," at the New Haven theatre for three days, commencing Monday.

MAMIE FLEMING, in "The Girl of Eagle Ranch," at the New Haven.

day, March 30. A matinee will be given Wednesday.

Royal Band of Sweden. The military musicians of Sweden form a class by themselves, a rare combination of soldiers, musicians and gentlemen. Of this class the members of the Royal Kronoberg Regiment band are typical representatives, who have won distinction as musicians during their tours throughout the northern parts of the European continent and the admiration as gentlemanly soldiers from the country of Charles XII. They all hold the rank of officers, with or without commission, within a regiment that fought and died at Lutzen under Gustavus Adolphus, and upon whose colors are inscribed all the names of the bloody and glorious battles in Swedish history. They all have the training of officers and soldiers, combined with a thorough musical education.

The Royal Kronoberg Regiment band will give a grand concert at the New Haven theatre on Friday night, April 3. The sale of seats opens Monday at the box office.

"Hottest Coon in Dixie." The New Haven theatre was crowded last night to see Gideon's Colored Comedians in "The Hottest Coon in Dixie."

AT THE BIJOU THEATER

Du Barry to be Seen There Next Week—Fine Presentation Expected.

Another notable event at the Bijou theater will occur next week when the Bijou Theater Stock company will be seen in Jerald Sheperd's great play "Du Barry." The version of this play used by Mrs. Leslie Carter is not adapted for stock work but the version utilized by stock companies throughout the country is fully as interesting and fascinating. "Du Barry" is constantly in demand throughout the big cities in this country that maintain stock houses. The Forepaugh stock of Philadelphia is to play the piece the same week it is presented in New Haven. It is a play that never fails to appeal to theatergoers.

POLI'S NEXT WEEK

Little Hip, the Cutest and Smartest Little Elephant in the World.

Little Hip, the cutest and smartest little elephant in the world who weighs 600 pounds and is but eighteen months old, will be the headliner of the Poli bill all next week. Little Hip has been the novelty sensation of vaudeville this season. He was for a number of weeks the leading feature at the New York Hippodrome and is of interest to both old and young.

Little Hip will have an additional duty next week besides acting upon the stage. He will distribute the programs at the matinees to the ladies and children. He does not believe in giving programs to the men, being confident that they are able to take care of themselves.

The act of Little Hip upon the stage is a splendid one and will be no doubt one of the most talked about numbers on the coming bill.

As an added attraction Laddie Cuff, the sixteen-year-old English comedian and grotesque dancer, will be here. Laddie is the best of the many imported acts that America has seen in vaudeville. He has a distinctly novel number of songs and dances that will keep him uppermost in the minds of vaudeville devotees throughout the entire week.

Six Little Girls and a Teddy Bear, a spectacular act in which Everett Scott, the hilltop comedian, who has scored in so many Broadway successes, will appear, is one of the newest numbers of the year. The girls have been selected for their ability to dance and as for the antics of the bear it is only best to wait and see as Scott is promised as one of the best in this line.

The Exposition Four, with their music and melody, having an act that embraces songs, musical selections and a bit of minstrelsy as well as dancing, will be one of the strong hits of the bill. Beatrice McKenzie and Walter Shannon in "A Shine Fritation" are to introduce something new in vaudeville, a sketch built around some very good singing. Camille Trio on the bars will perform to the delight of the lovers of the art, and Barry and Wolford as the talkers will have a line that's new in the business.

The electrograph will show Need of Gold and A Tippler's Race, a combination that will be a closing number.

RETURNED HOME.

Arthur P. Hemingway, assistant treasurer of the New Haven Water company, returned yesterday from a trip to Panama and South American countries. Mr. Hemingway visited Venezuela and later went to Santiago. He charged up San Juan hill in an automobile, the famous battleground

AT THE HYPERION

Great Russian Actress Scores in "A Doll's House" at the Hyperion.

During the present transitory period of our American stage, fortunate is the one who attends from among the chaotic shoals of dramatic products, some presentation which is really of intrinsic historic value. When an artist of such generous talent, as Madame Vera F. Komisarzhenskaya, appears at the Hyperion, it is a distinct pity that New Haven should not respond liberally. The audience, however, among whom were a considerable sprinkling of professors, including also the chief executive of Yale, applauded each act with thrilling enthusiasm. They were indeed justified, for they were witnessing the most brilliant exposition of dramatic naturalness and technique set forth in this city for many a day.

Mme. Komisarzhenskaya's character portrayal of Nora in Ibsen's "A Doll's House," was splendidly natural. She was not tainted with the mannerisms greatness usually acquires. The scenes with her husband were gems in their tenderness and sweetness. Her scene with the children was not a strenuous rampage under and over furniture, but more subdued, suitable for a woman of Nora's age. She was the whole-hearted mother, loving her children with intensity. Her interpretation of this scene was vastly appealing. Her outbursts of merriment were a positive joy. Unlike many of her contemporaries she did not corrupt her realistic attitude with overdone emotion. At the height of mental stress in the second act, she restrains herself, making the part much more logical. The part of Nora might easily be made into a routine passage of bombastic melo-drama. Her moderate stand bears witness to the depth of her insight into the actual phenomena of life. Every detail of her acting was truthfully worked out.

Her convulsive grasps of the table, when Krogstad is threatening her exposure, conveyed in it the pining of her tortured soul. At times this great actress was the merry little doll, Forwald called her, flitting about in a sweet innocent manner, seemingly ignorant of the wayward world. In Forwald's absence, however, the brooding tendency of her nature seemed to weigh her down, and eradicate every vestige of her former self. This transition from a mere plaything to the revolutionary woman, when her assumed gaiety dropped off like a veil, could be no more satisfactorily portrayed by any living actress.

Madame Komisarzhenskaya's interpretation of Nora is original, and perhaps more probable than the other conceptions in vogue. Contrary to her contemporaries she does not suddenly become the crafty woman of the world at the very moment when she perceives her husband's cowardly nature, but she has been progressive towards this climatic point from the very opening of the play. Underneath her signs of exterior emotion, a film as of a second personality seemed to envelop her. She has known Forwald's contemptible nature from the first, but reveals her knowledge by a translucent something which though in itself indefinite, welds itself into her final renunciation of him. From her wonderful interpretation in "A Doll's House" we do not hesitate to place Mme. Komisarzhenskaya among the six best actresses of the modern age.

Mr. Bravich, as Dr. Rank, was incomparable. His walk alone should mark him as an artist of considerable ability. It was absolutely natural and yet conveyed unmistakably the impression of an injured spine. In the scene where he tells Nora of his love he fell not far short of Henry Irving. Mr. Feona's portrayal of Forwald Elmer showed the vacillating hero in a very strong light. The whole cast was very well balanced.

MEN'S CLUB, THE HOST.

The Church of the Redeemer was well filled, in attendance upon the entertainment given by the Men's club of that church, last evening.

David Stanley Smith, the organist of the church, was greatly enjoyed, especially in a composition of his own. Miss Ruth Palmer Phillips, who gave small selections, is a reader of superior natural ability and achievement. She held her listeners in closest touch and sympathy. Her voice is unusually well placed and the resonant line is sustained throughout, filling the large auditorium without effort and every word made intelligible. The selection, "A Cutting," from "A Tale of Two Cities," brought out a rich expressive undertone with fine forward ring. Miss Phillips responded to recalls.

The Nevin Quartet sang several selections in a delightful and artistic manner. The members of this quartet are all New Haven singers. It is doubtful if four women's voices have ever before been brought together in New Haven with such individual excellence. In quartet work their voices blend with utmost delicacy. Such shading and melting of voice into voice is rarely heard. The audience listened with closest attention to their exquisite singing, attesting their thorough enjoyment with vigorous applause. The most difficult part to fill in a quartet of ladies' voices is the first soprano. This part calls for a voice that sings high, true and with absolute poise. A false or forced note or the slightest discordant tone mars seriously the ensemble and the pleasing effect is destroyed. Miss Martha Spronger, who holds this position in the Nevin's, has a lyric soprano of the requisite type and her bird-like tones intertwine among the others and gives the listener the impression of dainty vocal lace work. The singing of the quartet rests upon the sure foundation of Miss Walker's low and rich organ-like contralto tones. New Haven is fortunate in the possession of such a splendid singing organization.

Miss Treast and Miss Walker sang solos. Both were warmly received and appreciated.

GOOD FIRE APPARATUS.

Inspector Mitchell Says Local Engines are in Fine Condition.

Inspector Mitchell of the Le France Fire Engine company of Seneca Falls, New York, who has been in this city for the last few days while the special investigating committee of the National Board of Underwriters has been testing the local fire engines last evening spoke very highly of the condition of the local fire fighting apparatus. Said the inspector: "I can tell a well groomed fire engine, so to speak, the instant I see it, and those in this city are in as good condition as any I have ever seen. The engines are kept looking spic and span, and are looked after with such a degree of care, that they run beautifully as smoothly as the day you received them."

Cushing May Relieve Him After Several Innings—Visitors Have a Strong Combination.

The first real test of the individual ability of the candidates for the Yale baseball team and the nine itself will be afforded this afternoon when Tad Jones' diamond stars play their opening game of the season with the strong Manhattan team.

The cancelling of the University of New York schedule for last Saturday gave the Ell nine another week to practice at the field before playing a game.

The Manhattan nine is always one of the strongest baseball teams in the country and reports show them to be in splendid condition this year.

Van Vleck will start the game for Yale on the slab unless the weather is too cold this afternoon.

Cushing will pitch for the visitors and will be relieved by several other pitchers.

NUTBEARER AGAIN

Hubinger Denies That the Gelding Had Been Given to Veterinarian.

IS NOT INVESTIGATING

Does Not Care Whether the Horse Died of Violence or Not, He Says.

Joseph Hubinger was seen at his home in Elm street last night by a reporter of this paper.

"Do you know positively whether the horse died a natural death, a death by accident, or one deliberately planned and executed?"

"The first I ever knew of Nutbearer's death was when I read a dispatch telling of it in a western paper."

"By that you mean that you did not think it a true report when you read it, Mr. Hubinger?"

"No, not that. I did not suspect the veracity of the report."

"Did you not institute an investigation of some kind to find out who the murderer, if any, had been who had killed the horse?"

"I did not. A dead horse is a dead horse and I did not bother my head about it."

"Possibly you could have instituted some civil action to recover."

"That wouldn't have been worth my trouble. Besides I don't do those kind of things."

Mr. Hubinger was asked if he would begin an investigation of the affair later.

He said he might but he doubted it. He did not consider the horse a valuable one at the time of its death.

His ever getting on the track again would have been very problematical.

He did not even expect to see the day when it would, Mr. Hubinger denied absolutely that he or Mr. Ely, who has acted as his personal representative while in the West had put Pinkerton or other detectives on the trail.

He said he did not know of any plans for the preserving of the animal's bones or skeleton.

Repeated inquiry at the police station has not resulted in any news of activity upon the death of Nutbearer.

Dr. Atwood, in whose stables the horse was at the time of his death, said that he now had the bones of Nutbearer at his stables and that they would be sent to Germany, there to be properly bleached.

Upon their return, he said, they will be set up, Dr. Atwood also denied that the horse belonged to any other than Mr. Hubinger at the time of his death.

He said there were no new developments in connection with the reported violent death of Nutbearer.

PROFESSIONAL JOURNALISM. Colonel Harvey of Harper's Weekly, a lecturer this year in the Bromley lecture course at Yale University, can least claim to have attracted more attention than the ordinary lecturer by presenting his idea of a professional school in which newspaper workers may be trained.

His plan is being discussed from one end of the country to the other, but nowhere is it being more intelligently considered than in the columns of the Yale Alumni Weekly. In its current issue a correspondent who signs himself "A Newspaper Man," while talking with Colonel Harvey and Editor Pulver, says that a school of journalism can be founded and made successful, even in a town where there is no newspaper, if the school is equipped with the best of equipment and if all workers in the class are to be popularly regarded as professional in character.

It is not that a school of journalism can be founded and made successful, even in a town where there is no newspaper, if the school is equipped with the best of equipment and if all workers in the class are to be popularly regarded as professional in character.

He says that of all the professions, that of journalism stands alone and is unprotected by the restraints and restrictions which hedge in the others. He gives this as an illustration of what he has in mind from the reparatory point of view: "How much more intelligently could a political correspondent at Albany, Hartford, or Washington, handle questions of the day had he had any definite education in the political history of his state, or of the United States, supplemented by a thorough and independent course in current politics." Such a correspondent would of course be better equipped for the work assigned him than the correspondent who is obliged to learn the business of newspaper corresponding while learning the political history of the country, provided the man in charge of the educational machinery had succeeded in imparting to the better prepared correspondent that sense of news which determines one's usefulness in the unartificial.

The writer in the Alumni Weekly takes a good point when he declares that the reporter who has a knowledge of the elementary facts in the common law is a better equipped man than his fellow, and when he adds to that a somewhat clear idea of the laws of libel his value in the office increases. In an editorial writer a very clear and comprehensive idea as to the industrial history of the country, of inter-state commerce, of international law and the history of treaties, and of civil service is most desirable if not essential to influential work. It is equally desirable if not essential that the editorial writer should have a broad foundation in such a school of definite knowledge of these subjects and of finance, sociology, economics, municipal government, the mastery of English is also included among the things Yale can teach. All of these subjects and such other subjects as may be regarded as collateral are taught at Yale and can be, the writer believes, so organized into a department as to practically establish a school of preparation for journalism, under the direction of a first class newspaper editor. "The best editorial writers," he says, "city editors, dramatic critics, copy readers of New York and New England could be brought into touch with instructors in such a school and give to it that professional character that the law school acquires from its instructors who are active lawyers and judges, and that the medical school gets from its instructors who are busy physicians."

It would appear as if this newspaper had hit upon the plan by which it could offer itself as the developer of the best journalistic talent. It has the merit of demanding little in the way of a new annual fixed expense, as the great burden of the instruction could be carried by departments and professorships already in existence, at least only those will sniff at it who find it impossible to throw off the traditional theory of Bohemianism as the font of newspaper wisdom.

A Texas paper has discovered that Democratic harmony is on the wane. It should now discover when it was on the wax.

IMPERATIVELY!

Does this country need a system of postal savings banks? The President says it does. He says such a system is "imperatively" needed for the benefit of the wage-workers and men of small means. Imperatively is a good word, but we don't believe it quite fits this case. The savings banks of the country seem to be adequate to the situation, and if they are not they can be made so. They certainly are in this region, and in all the thickly settled regions. The postal savings bank idea is being strongly pushed, and much is said of its working in other countries, but we do not notice any clamor for it from those for whom, according to the President, it is imperatively needed. They find the existing facilities for taking care of their savings sufficient and satisfactory. As long as they are the postal savings bank notion seems to be rather excessively paternal.

WILLIAM J. FORD.

The news was received in this city yesterday of the sudden death of Dr. William J. Ford of Washington, Conn., and it brought sorrow to a number of residents of this city who knew him and who realized his great worth. All through a busy life he was one of the most enlightened and earnest citizens of that characteristic Litchfield county town. He made an honorable record for himself and his fellow townsmen in the state halls of legislation. As a member of the commission to inquire into the need for a state reformatory his services were of the highest value. An intimate personal friend and professional adviser of the late United States Senator Orville H. Platt, he was made a member of the commission which has in charge the erection of a memorial in honor of that Connecticut statesman. He was always interested in the best things in life and possessed in consequence a nature which can only be described as fine, fine in its outlook and fine in its appreciation of the human heart. Dr. Ford was a quietly spoken man, as becomes a modest one, but the iron of the old Litchfield hills was not lacking in his temperament. No man could be more resolute than he in the performance of his duty nor more determined when the obligations of life confronted him. He will long be remembered as a representative product of the town conditions of Connecticut, which have produced so many men of character and influence and which have done so much to make this state what it is. Connecticut to-day indeed mourns the loss of one who was a man before he was a physician, a legislator or a partisan.

THAT DENVER MONEY.

It is announced that the $100,000 promised the Democratic National committee by Denver in return for the convention has actually been paid. It is further announced that when Senator Teller of Colorado pledged the $100,000 he had in his pocket a guarantee of $250,000 if that sum should be needed. The poet says, "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: 'It might have been.'" If the Democratic National committee thinks it might really have had $250,000 instead of $100,000 it is sad enough. The difference between $100,000 and $250,000 is perceptible, to put it mildly. But the committee is lucky to get even $100,000 in real money, and it should take as much comfort in that as it can. Perhaps it will yet have reason to be glad that it didn't have the $250,000 to play with or work with. It may turn out, too, that the convention will not be worth more than $100,000 to Denver or anybody.

The fact that Switzerland is the center of the small-cultivating industry doesn't indicate that she is slow. They don't cultivate snails in Philadelphia.

COLORADO'S CELEBRATION.

Colorado is young yet, but she feels proud that she has reached the age of 50, and she is going to celebrate her 50th birthday this Summer. She will have much to celebrate. She can celebrate her mines and some of their workers and promoters. She can celebrate her great agricultural development that is now going on. It is said that more than twenty-five families a day are taking up their abode in the State. The bulk of the immigration movement is from the Middle West, Alaska and Florida, and it is greatly stimulated by big irrigation projects soon to be completed. The Gunnison tunnel, which is being bored by the United States government to reclaim more than 100,000 acres of land in the Uncompagnie valley, will be finished early next year; 60,000 acres of land in the Montezuma valley district will be made ready for this season's crops, and numerous other projects are under way. Of course some of Colorado's people haven't behaved just as they ought to while she has been growing, but there are indications that there is going to be a better state of things there in that respect. Before long she will have many more settlers, and will probably be more more settled. Fifty is an age when it is time to settle down a little.

Chancellor von Buelow says Germany has no desire to deprive England of the mastery of the seas. Germany's polite consideration will be warmly appreciated in England.

A GREAT CIVIC WORK.

A great deal could be said about the work of the Associated Civic societies as it was described in the various reports at the annual meeting Thursday night. Indeed, with the telling of what has been accomplished, and the foretelling of what the societies will accomplish in the future well in mind, one cannot do aught but invoke blessings on the head of him who first conceived the idea of this organization of organizations, which, in a few months growth, has shown itself a great force in New Haven and the very essence of civic patriotism.

Necessarily the greatest amount of interest will center about the report of the civic committee, which was made by Prof. Bailey, of Yale. This is the committee which does things, although it must be said that there are other committees equally as important for the successful fulfillment of the mission of the societies, even if less spectacular. Prof. Bailey's report was a thorough one. Furthermore it was a conclusive one. Facts were not told of, they were brought to the audience by means of excellent lantern slides. It was a case of when the mountain would not come to Mahomet, Mahomet went to the mountain. But while making semi-religious references, is it not so that we are given to being like the Pharisee of old in matters civic, namely, giving thanks that our New Haven has no such slums, no such tenements as have New York and other large cities? If a city like New Haven, which has every direction of the compass but one to broaden out in, has its tenement-house districts, it is to be doubly regretted in that there is no reason for it whatever. The Journal-Courier foretold that there would be some food for thought for the city officials in the talk of Prof. Bailey. There was, plenty of it, and enough to take some time to properly digest.

In the opinion of the civic committee the most important work which can be done by it for some time is to endeavor to improve the living condition of the tenement-dwellers of the city. Accordingly its annual report was made upon that subject. The report should be read in full. It tells a story of crowded, insanitary, ill-ventilated, ill-ventilated tenements. One street told of has one garbage can to 171 persons and toilet accommodations that are entirely inadequate and unhealthy. It told a story of poorly constructed fire escapes, so littered up with an accumulation of things that it would take some time to make them available in case of fire; of wooden tenements, five stories high, regular fire-traps, without any fire escapes; of loathsome back yards, at least two of which were in back of bakeries with the danger of infection from the piles of garbage and filth draining toward them very certain.

The professor had his recommendations. In no uncertain language he called upon the city officials to do away with all tenement-house privies, at least in those streets where sewers have been laid. He urged that the garbage be ordered kept in cans and that it be collected regularly and often; that the yards be ordered cleaned up and kept so; that the tumble-down shacks be torn down, burned, or done away with in the best available way; that the keeping of goats within the city limits be forbidden, except, perhaps, where a license is obtained, as is now the case with chickens; and that there be regular inspections of, and regulations for, the keeping of lodging houses. It will be readily seen that the departments of not a few of the city officials have been approached and that these gentlemen may easily find much food for thought in these suggestions.

Rev. Artemas J. Haynes' report for the program committee was significant in one respect, namely in that he recommended the minimum number of mass meetings held under the auspices of the Associated Civic societies. He showed, and rightly so, how the civic effectiveness of the mass meeting is seriously lessened by its misuse or overuse. It is the old story that "Familiarity breeds contempt." Mr. Haynes said the attendance at the Woosley hall meetings had been small, much less than had been hoped for. He urged that these large meetings be saved for discussions of extremely vital subjects. As for the work of the coming year with the societies, the report of the president, Prof. Kent, coupled with the suggestions made by Prof. Bailey, may give some idea. Prof. Kent spoke of the societies' activity toward a more general use of the public school buildings for clubs and public lectures. He said:

"The securing of a suitable contagious hospital, and of an incinerating plant for the disposal of garbage and refuse, the further development of the public play grounds and bath, especially in the congested districts, and the appointment of a public utilities commission, are some of the ends for which the Associated Civic societies is working through its committees."

Surely here is a great organization, working among us without political, religious, business, or social distinctions within its ranks. It has a great and ever-widening mission. Realizing that "the city is the hope of our democracy," it is indeed doing a work of national scope. It will not be long before, as in Los Angeles, as Prof. Kent suggests, a paid secretary will have to be secured, who will be "able not only to execute but also to outline and direct at each step the policy of the civic organization." It has been a successful and promising experimental pioneer-year. And the best that New Haven can wish for its sister cities, especially those in this State, is that they, too, may each have an associated civic organization and that right soon.

An instrument to measure the music in the human system has been devised in New York. It will be useful if it will indicate when there is music enough in a human system to warrant it being let out on the friends and neighbors.

A MASSACHUSETTS MESS.

The real estate business in Massachusetts has been not a little disturbed by an opinion of the Supreme court of the State giving a contractor's lien priority over a temporary mortgage, or construction loan. In the case an oral contract was entered into before the record of the mortgage and the claim of the contractor was held to take precedence of the claim of the lender on mortgage. This decision has made a situation which, as the Boston Transcript points out, injures at once land owners, builders, dealers in building materials and workmen, and as well the community in general. Normal land development is hindered, the manifold building trades and supply houses lose business, workmen fall of employment and the community falls to receive increased taxes from new construction. The Transcript further points out that the relief from so grave a situation is a simple one. If contractors are obliged by law to file notices of building contracts in registries of deeds, as in the case of attachments, conveyancers will be duly warned. The absence of such notices will be sufficient to warrant the construction loans and an important business, now tied up, will proceed normally as before. Land liens would not be affected by such notices; contractors, if they desired to enforce claims ahead of construction loans, would be put to the trouble of sending notices to registries of deeds. In the case of construction loans contractors expect to be paid as their work progresses out of the instalments of such loans and they would naturally trust to the usual methods of business as in the past, rather than hinder the enterprise by registering notices of contracts.

The legislature has been asked for relief, but a committee has recommended reference of the matter to the next legislature. There is a good deal of what seems to be just complaint on account of this action. The Massachusetts legislature ought to be careful about hurting business in these times.

The prospect of tariff revision—some other day—continues to brighten.

ONE OF NEW HAVEN'S INTERESTS.

When the Spanish fleet was supposed to be hovering around the eastern entrance of Long Island Sound there were thrills all along the shores of that Sound. There was a thrill in New Haven which was felt at least as far back as Wallingford. We saw then how important it was that that entrance should be suitably defended. The managers of the coast defense see it now, and they do not feel comforted by the prospect that they are not to have some experiments with automobile torpedoes which they wanted. It is believed by them that the automobile torpedo would be valuable to send against an enemy seeking to get into the Sound by the eastern entrance. The automobile torpedo used by the navy is fired usually on board battleships by a small charge, which expels it from the discharge tube. After it has entered the water it is propelled by its own power, and, therefore, is called automobile. This power is supplied by compressed air, and with the first type made they used 1,500 pounds a square inch to give a range of about 1,250 yards at a given speed. The latest type used about 2,250 pounds of compressed air to the square inch, and it is asserted that these torpedoes have a range, at the same speed as the first type, of approximately 4,000 yards. It is said that they will run 3,000 yards at a speed of about 20 knots and 4,000 yards at a speed of 26 knots. They are set for a uniform speed when they are discharged, and the distance run depends upon the amount of power or the compressed air pressure available. These torpedoes are fitted with a gear which makes them keep the same course on which they are fired, in spite of currents that would otherwise deflect them from their course.

It certainly does look as if a few such torpedoes might be made useful for the defence of New Haven and the other places interested. There is no warlike fleet around just now, but goodness knows how soon there may be one.

OUR CONTEMPORARIES.

Useless to Kill Authors. (The Saturday Review.) There is really no use in killing an author to prevent the country from producing others like him. A man with a book in him is like the bird who must lay eggs. We might start a new organization to discover people likely to write books and arrange them before they find a publisher, but even that would fail, because it is not possible to tell who can write a successful book until it is written. The literary faculty arises in the most unexpected ways, and even dogma cannot anticipate its uncertainties.

The Go Tungsten Lamp.

(Exchange.) The production of filaments of rare metals has effected a material advance in lamp efficiencies, and has culminated in the greatest achievement in the art of lamp manufacture—the Tungsten lamp.

This lamp gives a good commercial light at the remarkable efficiency of from 1 to 1.4 watts per candle, or practically three times that given by ordinary carbon incandescent lamps for the same power consumed. This striking result, surpassing all previous discoveries and developments in electric incandescent lamps, has become possible through the production of a filament of the rare metal tungsten, a particularly suitable material for filaments by reason of its very high fusing point—about 2650 degrees C.

In the District of Columbia. (The Springfield Republican.) The one spot in the United States and its dependencies where the president's political influence is practically nil appears to be the District of Columbia, which is the seat of his administration and his personal residence. The test has arisen in the District over the election of delegates to the Republican national convention, the voters in the Republican primaries being, of course, permanent residents. There are two tickets campaigning, and both have declared for Senator Foraker for the presidency. The Burt-Patterson ticket was first in the field with Foraker as its candidate, and such headway did it secure that the Fletcher-Horner combination was obliged also to come out for the Ohio senator. Owing to the large negro population in Washington the Brownsville issue has been the dominating one, and General Andrew S. Burt, the old-time colored of the Twenty-fifth colored infantry, has made a strong campaign. The District of Columbia will have two voters in the national convention, but right there its political influence stops.

When Freda Wakes. When Freda wakes, the day's bright eye Has scarce illumined the eastern sky. The busy swallows 'neath the eaves Are just starting, and through the leaves The morning zephyr steals and quakes. When Freda wakes.

When Freda wakes—her maiden charm Being startled by the clock's alarm— She goes down in her brief attire And hustles up the kitchen fire. With hunky arm the furnace shakes. When Freda wakes.

When Freda wakes she starts a song And leaps it up the morning long. My pillow's wet with bitter tears, 'Tis vain for me to stomp my ears, I even hear her mixing cakes. When Freda wakes.

Have you played Imperio?

Imperio is the American imitation of the French game of "Diabolo" which was the craze in Europe last Summer. It looks too easy for grown-ups but you'll change your mind after trying it. It's worth trying, too, and it doesn't require much of a layout. Let us show you how it's played.

As the name Diabolo (not the god) is copyrighted, we are able to sell Imperio, which has no royalties, at lower prices than the others. 25 cent s to $1.25 a set.

The Electric Review considers that the transatlantic cables are in no immediate danger from the competition of wireless telegraphy. One of the pressing problems which wireless experts must solve is the development of commercially practicable selectivity. Until a number of stations can work side by side without affecting one another the usefulness of the new system will be very limited. Until the problem is solved and an equally good transmission by day and night assured the wireless position will occupy a very minor position.

The efforts of the Congo State authorities to domesticate the African elephant have brought out some interesting peculiarities of these animals. During the wet season which lasts four months the elephants are not worked but are turned out into the forest. Instead, however, of retiring their wild kin they seem to keep apart, and are conscious of the difference that their training has produced. On being brought back to the station they show no disposition to stick their work. Their presence sometimes attracts wild elephants in the vicinity of the scene of the labor, but these wild elephants are usually too old and intractable to be used as recruits.

logical society making the response. An address on "The Clover Crop on Our Connecticut Farms and How to Grow It Successfully," was by Prof. L. A. Clinton, director of the Storrs Experiment station. There was a discussion on the subject, "Spraying as a Factor in Fruit Growing, Market Gardening and General Farming," in which Prof. W. E. Britton, State entomologist of this city; J. Norris Barnes of Yalesville, Dr. G. P. Clinton, of this city, and E. Rogers participated.

During the afternoon the program was as follows: Discussion, "What Are Some of the Present Opportunities for Profitable Fruit Growing in Connecticut?" Pertinent Suggestions by Prof. A. G. PUBLIC PLAYGROUND Committee Probably Will Select Clinton Avenue Site, There Being No Opposition.

If the report of the special committee appointed by the board of aldermen to hear the opinions of the public on the use of the city land in Clinton avenue as a public playground that much discussed piece of property will soon become the scene of athletic combat and recreation for Fair Haven's rising generation. For the report of that committee will be a favorable one. The site was purchased back in the dim past for use as a contagious disease hospital plot but since that plan was thwarted by the determined opposition of the inhabitants of that section it has remained unimproved property.

It was Alderman Healy who presented the plan ground order. Last evening he introduced the subject suggesting the great need of such a playground and the value of utilizing the city's land.

There was no opposition. E. L. Warden emphasized the need of a playground. Referring to the hospital site he said: "I don't think there is any danger of the contagious disease hospital ever going on that ground."

Several others also approved. Then the committee in executive session decided on its report.

KANTLEEK INNER TUBES.

Made By Seamless Rubber Co.—Exhibit at Recent Show.

An exhibit at the recent auto show which created as much genuine interest among auto owners as any was that of the Seamless Rubber company of this city.

The name is familiar to most residents but it will be news to some to know that the firm is one of thirty years standing and was the first firm on this continent to make seamless rubber goods. Its first product was infants' nursing nipples, gradually branching into various other rubber goods and recently making a specialty of auto inner tubes.

These tubes are made of the purest Para rubber and the splice (one of the vital points of the tube) is as perfect as skill, workmanship and cement can make it. The tubes are vulcanized carefully to withstand the heavy pressure and heat to which they are subjected. They are made both in red and gray rubber.

They bear the firm's trademark "Kantleek" and are one of the finest inner tubes made in this country. Get a "Kantleek" inner tube and anxiety is minimized and economy increased.

Edward Malley Must Pay on Largest Personal Property This Year, With Henry English Next.

WINCHESTER'S IS $2,152,616

List of All the Properties Appraised by the Assessors as Above $50,000 for the Present Tax Year.

The records of the board of assessors, neatly written, show something over 13,000 persons whose holdings in this city are liable to taxation this year for the maintenance of the work of the city. Of these the majority, of course, are small estates ranging under $10,000, but it is remarkable how many estates of real magnitude are quietly held in this city.

The largest individual estate is that of Edward Malley, while the estate of Henry English also goes into seven figures. The Malley personal estate is $1,155,000 and the English property is $1,058,000. Many of the large estates are held by manufacturing firms and companies but there are also a large number of private estates that are very large.

A perusal of this list, showing all owned here which are $50,000 or upward in assessment valuation will be of interest and information: Alderman, Theodore J. $53,510; George A. THE COME AND SEE SIGN... PUBLIC INSPECTION INVITED FROM 8 A.M. TO 4 P.M. SATURDAY. LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.

This sign is permanently attached to the front of the main building the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass. What Does This Sign Mean? It means that public inspection of the Laboratory and methods of business is honestly desired. It means that there is nothing about the business which is not "open and above board."

It means that a permanent invitation is extended to anyone to come and verify any and all statements made in the advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Is it a purely vegetable compound made from roots and herbs—without drugs? Come and See. Do the women of America commonly use as much of it as we are told? Come and See. Was there ever such a person as Lydia E. Pinkham, and is there Mrs. Pinkham now to whom woman are asked to write? Come and See. Is the vast private correspondence with sick women conducted with women only, and are the letters strictly confidential? Come and See. Have they really got letters over one million, one hundred thousand women correspondent? Come and See. Have they proof that Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured thousands of these women? Come and See. This advertisement is only doubters. The great army of women who know from their own personal experience that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female will still go on using and being benefited by it; but the poor doubt-suffering woman must, for her sake, be taught confidence, for she might just as well regain her health

Matters of Interest to Women

HELPS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Methods of Removing Stains, Cleaning Tins and Marble.

Be prompt with home repairs and the house will look ten times smarter than when little damages are permitted to be in evidence.

Mother of pearl should never be washed with soap, for it discolors and destroys the brilliancy of the shell. The right method of cleaning is with whitening and cold water.

When sprinkling clothes that have become too dry for ironing use warm water. It penetrates more quickly than cold and less of it is required, so that the ironing may be begun sooner.

Stains on blankets and other woolen materials may be removed by using a mixture of equal parts of glycerin and yolk of egg. Spread it on the stain, let it stay for half an hour or more, then wash it out.

Both time and trouble can be saved in scaling fish by first pouring hot water over them until the scales begin to curl. Then scrape quickly and wash in several waters, taking care that the last water is cold and well salted.

A tablespoonful of alum well stirred into four gallons of water will cause all impurities to settle to the bottom, when the water will be fit for use. Of course, the water must not be touched during the settling process.

When ironing handkerchiefs begin ironing in the middle. Ironing the edges first causes the middle to swell out, and makes it very difficult to iron and fold them properly. Test the iron on a piece of rag or paper, to prevent any accident by scorching.

Clean tins with soap and whitening rubbed on with a piece of flannel. Wipe them with a soft, dry and clean cloth, then polish them with a leather and a little dry whitening. Take care that the cloth and the leather are both free from grease.

To clean marble take two parts of soda, one of pumice and one of salt (all in powder) and mix to a paste with water. Rub this on the marble, not forgetting to add some "elbow grease," and wash off with salt water. Finish with clean cold water and a soft cloth.

Every housekeeper should have an emergency shelf. On the day when company arrives and you have only a "pick-up meal" ready, it is convenient to go to the "shelf" for a can of potato chicken, olives or sardines, canned beans, etc. Every can should be replaced as soon as possible.

Cut off the feet of old stockings and then sew two leg parts together to use as rubbers. These will answer the purpose of excellent house flannels and useful polishers for furniture, etc. The cut-off feet are good for applying beeswax and turpentine and other polishes to wood and metal.

Teacups, even when carefully kept, sometimes have dark stains at the bottom, caused by the action of the tannin in the tea. Salt, slightly moistened, will remove these, but in the case of very fine china sometimes scratches it a little. Powdered whitening will be found quite harmless and equally good.

RICH WEDDING GOWN

The princess dress of rich white material, a soft weave made over a lustrous silk foundation, is one of the prettiest arrangements one could select for a white wedding gown. It can be made with a princess lace, yokes and collar and princess lace insertion for the shoulder effects. While straight lines are extremely stylish, yet the bride is permitted to have the wedding skirt made entrain with a good sweep and rich lace trimming that sets well over the silk. No difference how much good lace is used, it never makes a thin white dress too elaborate, since many really have a lace appearance. Of course, if one can purchase the lace robes to wear over the silk foundation, something gorgeous can be had. These robes are made of chiffon, richly and beautifully bordered with the best lace. They are very expensive in the finer materials, yet what is properly known as the wedding-robe material. Some of these sheer robes are shown over foundations of striped silk, the lining silk being a lustrous and dull stripe of white that looks pretty beneath the chiffon, giving this season's pattern scheme in stripes.

PASSING OF WHITE

White, that beautiful and always becoming color, has gone out of fashion, for in the new cloths shown for early spring stripes and huge embroidery dots have taken its place, and even white linen suits will not be worn this year. Of course all of the suits such as have been worn will be discarded for dresses with gumpes and cuffs of white lace and eton jackets of some contrasting color or material. Thus a white flannel skirt will be worn with a striped three-quarter jacket, or a blue-and-white stripe linen semi-princess dress will be finished with a coat of dark blue. This new fashion will be very convenient for those who wish to wear the same coat with several dresses, but it is not so becoming as the white of last year.

Some suits are made of the natural pounce, with the skirts of the plain material, while the coats are eton shape, embroidered by hand in large blue dots. The same idea can be carried out in silk or wool, or even mohair, and, at least, if the fashion is peculiar, it is new and smart.

TONE TALKS

Voices should be trained on individual lines because the vocal organs vary in different persons; the vocal cords being longer or shorter, the larynx larger or smaller. The air passages more or less elastic, and the resonating walls stronger or weaker. Every voice, then, has a natural compass, governed by the above conditions. It is the teacher's first business to find out the compass of a voice and train it carefully upon individual lines, within the limitations of this compass.

At first only those tones easily produced are to be exercised. Not until the voice positively indicates, as it will, sufficient endurance and strength, should tones outside the natural compass be attempted. The ruin of a voice is certain to follow forcing methods, which try to extend the upward range too soon.

ABOUT SWEET PEAS

When Ground is Dry Enough to Dig is the Time to Plant.

CHOOSE THE SUNNIEST SPOT

Trench One Foot Deep and Six Inches Wide, Running North and South.

As soon as the ground is sufficiently dry to dig is the time to plant; but do not dig or work the ground when it is wet. Choose the sunniest spot you have, preferably having the line running north and south. Dig a trench one foot deep by six inches wide, put in four inches of well rotted manure and two inches of soil, which leaves the planting surface about six inches from the top; sow the seeds about an inch apart, not in a single line but scattered over all the surface; cover over and leave a slight cavity at the top. This will probably hold sufficient moisture from the rains till the plants are well developed. The vines should be supported when only a few inches in height. The old fashioned pea brush is probably the best support, but is rather unsightly and often difficult to procure in the cities; wire netting is cleanly and economical, as the netting can be cleaned of the vines when the season is over and put away for another season's use. If the plants later in the season are troubled with the green fly (aphis) a liberal syringing with strong tobacco water is the most effective remedy. Should the vines become infested with mildew, a copious dusting with sulphur is the best cure.

Watering during the hot dry summer is sometimes necessary, but on no account sprinkle the foliage; soak the roots thoroughly, give them a generous watering or not at all. If your space for sweet peas is quite limited, a supply of the very best mixed sorts will be all that is necessary, but if the area is good size, always plant the separate named varieties; you can thus select your special favorite colors, the effect is more striking and in picking and arranging a great advantage is gained.

Buy your seed from some reputable seed house, from some one who has a reputation to keep up; we should say the nearer your own city the better; but the great facilities in mailing seeds makes it easy to procure from any distance. There is such an extended number of varieties in market and many of the names are almost synonymous that it is difficult to make a perfect selection; but we think the following list includes as good as any one can desire: For white Mont Blanc is the earliest but rather dwarf for general use; for the main supply take either Emily Henderson, Blanche Burpee or Dorothy Eckford; there are none better among the white varieties; among the dark maroon sorts, Black Michael stands pre-eminent; the same can be said for Navy Blue among the dark blues, Mrs. Higginson is the clearest pure blue variety yet sent out. The crimson and scarlet shades are well represented by Queen Alexandra and Salopian, while in the lavender shade Lady Grisel Hamilton excels any other. Blanche Henry yet stands alone as being one of the sturdiest and most prolific varieties in existence; the color is deep rose and white, an improvement on the old favorite Painted Lady. Among the clear pink and rose shades there is a great variety. If you plant either Lovely Katharine Tracy, Countess Spencer, Mrs. Dugdale or Her Majesty you will find very few to exceed them. We are gradually nearing a color that may almost be called yellow, Henry Eckford and Hon. Mrs. Kenyon are the two most promising kinds that approach clear orange or yellow. The shaded and tinted varieties are almost without number, but unless one desires a very large collection it is better to hold to the self colors. Some of these tinted varieties are very pleasing and among the lilac mauve shaded we would recommend Butterfly, Lottie Eckford, Lottie Hutchins and Maid of Honor. The best of the pink shaded kinds are Golden Rose and Grace Greenwood. It may be difficult to procure all these varieties at one place, but if you are dealing with a reliable seedsman, one that grows sweet peas and knows what he sells, it would be well to let him substitute other names of the same general coloring.

PINS FOR JABOTS

The girl who persists in using her handsome brooches to pin her tie to her stiff turnover collar will sooner or later mourn her favorite bit of jewelry.

The ordinary brooch is not made to have its pin bent out of shape, as is inevitable with the through as many thickesses. Instead one should get one of the regular jabot pins one or two inches long, and made with a slightly curved or bent bar, the pin also bent so as to hold the jabot or knot of the tie firmly in place.

ECONOMY IN SLEEVES

The Old Ones Can be Made Into Handsome New Ones With Little Tact.

While the newest styles in gowns show long and simple lines, the sleeves and yokes are most elaborate and some of them intricate in detail. Therefore, in making over an old blouse, the most important question is "How can I remodel the sleeves?" One thing is certain, you cannot depend on the skimpy pieces left from the old sleeves, and you do not think that entirely different material will do. Here you are mistaken.

Rip up the old sleeves, sponge and press them. Then buy a little new material and make elbow sleeves contrasting in weave but harmonious in color, using the pieces of the old sleeves for tiny bias bands about the cuffs, or shaped circular ruffles at the top if there is enough. If not enough for the latter, the bias bands will be sufficient. Now insert a little yoke of the same and this will give you an up-to-date blouse. Nets are used with cloth, silk, linen and cotton fabrics.

The prettiest gumpes can be made of scraps of lace a woman always tucks in the lacebox—if only you had enough for sleeves! This is a question easily solved. Make the gumpes on a foundation lining, and use your precious bits of lace only where they will show under the jumper blouse. As to the sleeves, match the lace in edging of some inexpensive quality in same weight and tint. Make the foundation sleeve of white muslin and sew the lace on this in three ruffles. This is one of the most popular sleeves this season.

Perhaps you have a dress with short sleeves and now that the freshness has worn off you wish it had long sleeves, so you could "get the good of it" for informal wear. This is easily accomplished. Some of the smartest new models are showing sleeves which reach above the elbow or just below it, made from material like the waist itself. Then the long sleeve effect is procured by making a tight-fitted lining of white lawn and over this a mosquito net or tulle under-sleeve of net or lace. This sleeve must come to the wrist. It may even form a point that runs down over the hand. You must put touches of the same lace on the blouse. Perhaps a little lace tie made of the net, or a V-shaped dickey, but lace must be introduced in the blouse as well as the sleeve.

To illustrate the use of a variety of materials in making sleeves, I can describe a gown I saw the other day fresh from the hands of a French modiste. It was the simplest little lavender mull, with a full tucked skirt, absolutely devoid of trimming. The blouse was a surprise and the sleeves—they were marvels. The body of the sleeve was made in a little puff of all-over val lace. Over this was a cap of Irish lace, edged with batiste medallions, and each medallion was edged with a tiny frill of val lace. Let me add that this gown was worn by a tall, willowy girl. It would be impossible on a short, stout girl—but it will suggest to readers the idea of using up odds and ends of lace. By combining two or three different kinds at hand you can often evolve a charming sleeve without buying any new material.

If your tailored shirt waist is perfectly good except that the lower part of the sleeve is worn out, cut off the sleeve just below the elbow and wear long white underclothes of some plain material like batiste, dimity, etc. Take the old piece of the sleeve and patch under the arms and where you may see the waist about to break and you will find that it will look new and fresh again.

TABLE DECORATIONS

Nothing makes a prettier table decoration than to own five of the glass baskets with handles that can be found now quite reasonably in the stores.

The one for the centerpiece is larger than the other four, which go at each corner.

The broad mouths of these baskets allow the flowers to spread gracefully and without stiffness.

Of course, they come in handsome cut glass or rock crystal, but those of colonial glass, either plain or with a gilt rim, are lovely and quite inexpensive.

If one cannot afford to buy flowers for these baskets for the winter they might be planted with Wandering Jew or nasturtiums or some of the aquatic plants, like parrots feather or water hyacinth. These grow in water, trail over the sides or else stand above the surface, thus giving a dainty bit of green through several months that is more novel than the omnipresent fern dish.

As the water, of course, must be filled up as it evaporates and should have pieces of charcoal in it to keep it from getting stagnant.

IN NARROW HALLWAYS

To improve the appearance of a very narrow hall place large mirrors on both sides. This gives a very good effect. A large mirror, one the length of the wall, if placed opposite the landing of a half-curved staircase, will add wonderfully to the appearance of the narrow hall and make a wide one more handsome. Avoid striped paper in the narrow hall. Use a plain paper and also plain carpets without figures, or a geometrical design in very small broken lines. Terra cotta is a good hall color, also a good grade of olive green can be used. A cream paper, toned to oak, is hand. A cream in a new house, though a color scheme is usually needed. A light paper is preferable in a narrow, unlighted hall. Green paper fades very easily and red soon loses its original color.

THE JOURNAL-COURIER FASHIONS.

From Louis Lang's Parisian-New York Models.

A Spring Suit.

This suit is made with a short jacket, the lower part of which consists of a satin gilette closing with hooks in front. The jacket is then left open to the throat where it is fastened by a satin tie. The material is a black and white stripe, and black silk braid is used to trim it. The skirt has a band of the goods cut lengthwise with the braid set between the stripes.

Children's Dresses for Spring and Summer.

Two little dresses which will be suitable for spring and summer are sketched here. The smaller of the two is made of plain and tucked lawn trimmed with embroidery insertion and val lace. The outer dress is a variation of the one piece kimono idea. A pleat is laid at the neck on each side, back and front, and the fullness thus caused at the waist line is cut and stitched as shown. The bands are plain, matching the color of the figure in the gown.

NIMBLE FINGER NOTES

Many girls are making tobacco pouches of suede, the design cut out and filled in with red or green satin pasted on the wrong side. This contrast in color is very attractive and one clever maiden used the green satin for her fiancé's initials, which were first cut out in block form. The idea is quite new and it is a far easier way than the old and difficult method of embroidering chamois skin.

A very attractive sofa cushion may be made of huck toweling embroidered in silk. The looms threads of the linen are used to hold the fluff, so that when the whole cover is finished it looks like a silk cushion. The threads are woven at equal distances apart, and it is very easy to work out all sorts of complicated designs by arranging the fluff at regular intervals. The best colors to use for this work are red and white or old rose and green, for the pillow is not so effective when embroidered in only one shade.

Ever since the bright-bordered handkerchiefs were ushered in, there have been a great many articles made from them. Strange to say, these handkerchiefs launder remarkably well, holding their colors when laundered every few weeks. One of the new handkerchief bags is made to hold a pair of slippers. It is made with two handkerchiefs. The two are placed together, sewed across one end, then the upper one is turned back half-way to form a strong pocket. If it stitched down both sides and through the center, it is stayed at the top with a piece of herringbone stitched on the under side and the case can be trimmed with ribbons or left very plain. One handkerchief is stitched into a long narrow bag and fastened at the top with a white tape, drawn through a heading which, when closed, forms a small ruffle. Into this little bag is thrust the box of shoe polish, cloth and taw brush. The case can be lined with rubber cloth, if desired.

FRAMING PICTURES

Narrow frames are just now preferred. Dutch oak or mahogany finish are most used in dining rooms. Gilt frames are proper for drawing and sitting rooms. The newest gilt frame is known as gold antique and is employed in elaborate forms on French prints. Water colors are inclosed in rather plain narrow frames of the gold antique.

Mahogany and gilt are both prescribed for the library. Posters and many of the bizarre pictures of the den are framed in plain black wood of the "mission" style. Gilt is much used around the pictures hung in bedrooms. White frames have gone almost entirely out of fashion. Gilt corners on wooden frames and other fancy effects are absent from late designs.

HOMEMADE TRIMMINGS

A beautiful trimming that is possible for the girl who embroiders is made on bands of pale pink satin with trails of tiny roses, and foliage in different shades of pink and green crossing to form a series of oval wreaths joined together. The bands may be any desired width and the embroidery should be done in Kensington stitch with the edges of the design slightly padded to give a raised effect. Wherever there is a turned over petal it should be heavily padded and worked in satin stitch. If a soft satin is used it is better to baste the banding on tissue paper before working, or it may pull. MONEY BY MAIL Write your order and fold the top page into a pyramid. Slip the coin in the point and turn the point over the depth of the coin. Next fold the letter to fit the envelope and there is no danger of the coin slipping from the sheath, providing the paper is of suitable thickness and the sheet is folded in thirds to fit a business envelope.

HEALTH HINTS

By Keeping Well Appearance and Disposition Are Improved.

One method of acquiring the "fragrant tresses" of fiction is to perfume the soft curlers on which the hair is rolled.

The juice of a half lemon squeezed into a teacup of strong black coffee and drunk without sugar is very good for a sick headache.

Lotions, such as brillantine or tonics, should never be applied with a sponge or with the palm of the hand, the correct method being that of sprinkling a few drops on a toothbrush and rubbing this well into the roots.

A simple hair grower and one that is often very effective, is made by combining eight ounces of cologne, one ounce of tincture of cantharides, one-half dram of oil of English lavender, one-half dram of oil of rosemary. Apply to the roots of the hair once or twice a day. It is positively necessary that the scalp should be kept clean. Shampoo at least once a week.

A pound of yellow cermeal, with an ounce of powdered orris root makes a satisfactory lotion for rough hands. The mixture should be applied with the same motion as that used in washing the hands, and should be rubbed on after washing with a soap that is not too drying. The mixture is used in place of a towel and soon absorbs the moisture on the hands.

The ice-pad is the latest device for the production of red cheeks. The pad is a little larger than a silver dollar, and is made of thick flannel covered smoothly with linen. Soak two-thirds of these in ice-cold water, and while they are in the water wash the face in warm, not hot, water. Dry the face immediately and apply the pads to the place where the color is desired. They should be allowed to remain at least ten minutes and should be dipped in the ice-water as often as they become dry. At the end of this time the face should be rubbed briskly with a towel.

Garlic eaten raw will cure a cold in the head, grippe or influenza in the first stages, but in cases where protracted people refuse to test its virtues Irish moss lemonade made after the well-known flaxseed lemonade recipe and taken for both meat and drink stands next on the list. Pineapple juice will relieve inflammation of the throat in the most advanced and chronic cases, and will cure all ordinary attacks. In both membranous croup and diphtheria pure pineapple juice either raw or from the canned fruit, will cure when the entire apothecary shop has been tried and found wanting.

For softening rough or coarse skin on the hands common yellow cermeal is an excellent cure. It should be mixed in the proportion of one ounce of orris root, powdered, to a pound of meal. To apply it the hands should be washed as usual, taking care to use a soap that is not drying; then the meal is poured into one hand and this is rubbed over the other with the same motion used in washing, using again the grains that should have fallen on a towel, box, etc., until the skin is quite dry. The operation is much more thorough in its drying effect than can be secured with a towel and the action of the meal is beneficial.

RAW EGG TONIC

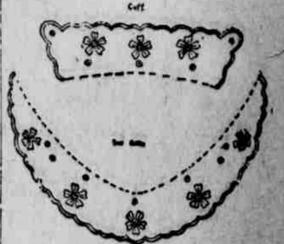

Raw eggs are bloodmakers and may be taken in any quantity one wishes. The simplest method of getting them down is to take a shallow wine glass, put in a drop of clear lemon juice and then break the egg in this, taking care not to injure the yolk. Over this put about four drops of lemon, scattered to make the egg go down easily with one swallow. This is readily accomplished if the head is held back and the contents of the glass tossed into the back of the mouth. Eight eggs a day are none too much when one is trying to recuperate.

ABUSED ELBOWS

How many women find themselves using their elbows as props when resting or reading! The elbows are a very important feature in this day of short sleeves and it is impossible to take too much care of the dimpled arms with which nature is supposed to provide us. Soft, white elbows may be cultivated and kept in condition by soaking them every day in very hot water and then rubbing with cold cream or some other skin food. These details in the care of the appearance do take a great deal of time, but in the end they are worth the effort spent upon them. Calloused elbows are one of the first signs of age and she is lucky who has begun to care for her arms before the dimples of youth entirely disappear.

SPRING FLOWERS

How to Take Cuttings and Promote Their Growth for New Plants.

To the novice the oleander presents difficulties. The propagation thereof is simple enough to one who knows how. One of the most successful ways ever tried by the writer is this: Take the cuttings from any place desirable. The branch that is undesirable is the one to cut off. Usually there are young shoots that can come out below the tree top proper of the plant. These young shoots would grow to be anywhere from three to eight or ten inches in length. Remove from plant and put into a wide-mouthed glass bottle, so that two-thirds of the shoot is immersed in the water. Put glass in a sunny place and let stand. In about two weeks the shoots should have formed. If they are not, then let remain until they do form.

First there appears a little knobby formation. This is the healing over of the broken wood. Then above this comes the thread-like roots and the plant may be left until a good sized root is thus formed. Fill the water in with sand, and let stand awhile until you can see the roots coming through the sand. Do not keep in a place so sunny that it will bake the roots. When a good ball of roots is formed, take the bottle and break it away, leaving the netted ball of roots intact. Have ready a small pot with charcoal drainage and a bed of sand. Put the young plant in this and keep it constantly moist and in a very short time it will begin to grow. Let remain in this pot until it is filled with roots, then it may be again repotted, this time into good, rich soil. You will soon have a fine oleander.—Floral Life.

The calla likes moisture and tepid water is the best for it. If the window flowers are growing too rapidly and have long, weak-looking branches they should be pinched back, or removed to a cooler room. Often the temperature of a room will cause rapid growth and a plant poorly nourished and in poor soil will take a freakish growth and be as colorless as a potato sprout.

Nicotiana or tobacco plant is a favorite winter bloomer, as it is one of the few plants that do well without sunlight. One of the best varieties is Decurrens, which is more dwarf in habit than the Affinis and does not require constant pinching back to keep it from getting too ungainly for the window.

KEEP COLORS FROM FADING

Here are some of the things which will tend to keep colors from fading: For blue use a handful of salt, for green a lump of alum. Ox gall will keep gray or brown from fading. When washing tan, brown or linen color use hay water, which is made by pouring boiling water over hay.

WALL STREET NOTES

Volume of Trade Drops Off—Union Pacific and Reading the Leaders.

CANADIAN PACIFIC UP

Lawson's "Yukon Gold" Scheme Apparently Drives Public Away from Stocks in General.

The volume of trading in stocks was a third smaller during the morning, but became larger at midday, as a result of increased operations in Union Pacific and Reading, which were recognized as the leaders. Prices opened lower and developed considerable weakness. But the selling pressure was small, and there was a gradual recovery. Dullness again developed on the rise, and it was plain that the improvement was being used for further distribution of holdings.

According to trustworthy authority, there are likely to be some interesting developments shortly in connection with the receiverships for the two Gould roads which may not be pleasant for Mr. Gould. It is said that the alleged reasons for placing one of the roads in the hands of receivers were not entirely true; that arrangements had been made for taking care of the maturing loans, and that the whole business was simply a scheme to get rid of the minority stockholders.

The sharp rise in Canadian Pacific, had all the appearance of the former manipulation in it, such as occurred when a considerable short interest accumulated. It has the advantage—and disadvantage—of an international market. Foreign traders often sell it, when they think it is high enough, and in doing so have to borrow stock on this side until the actual certificates shipped from Europe have time to reach New York. During the interval a large short interest sometimes collects and a good chance is given to make a raid on the bear party. Such a condition of things seemed to be at the bottom of yesterday's movement in the price.

American Smelting, which sold ex-dividend, very nearly recovered the 1 per cent. disbursement in the forenoon trading, getting up 3-4 of a point to 73-8. Its strength was sympathetic with the general improvement in the metal shares led by Amalgamated Copper stocks started in London, where buying for New York and Boston was reported, including some American orders for Rio Tinto.

The bringing out of the "Yukon gold" scheme unquestionably caused a great deal of talk, but, curiously enough, it tended to drive many persons away from stocks in general, on the principle, as some put it, that when the Boston man advises purchases, it is well to be wary and let stocks react before buying. It has frequently happened on previous occasions that when the public was anxious to buy that was the time to sell.

Early Washington dispatches stating that the prospects looked good for the passage of the Aldrich bill yesterday helped along the advance. Another factor was the marking up by the Metal exchange of copper prices 1-8 of a cent all around. The preliminary figures regarding the money movements for the week indicated a gain in cash by the banks of $1,460,000.

American Locomotive, for all practical purposes, has made good on its advertised tip for 50, for it touched 47 early yesterday, or about 8 points higher up from the time the tip came out. This was 7-8 of a point above its closing of Thursday.

London bought in all about 20,000 shares, including Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, the Erie, and about 5,000 United States Steel common. It is said that New York houses with London connections have recently bought calls on Steel common for periods, running up to the end of the year's settlement.

The top prices were made in the last hour, the highest of the movement in most cases. The close was buoyant.

BIG FUND GOES ABROAD.

Immigrants Sent $300,000,000 Home During 1907.

Albany, March 27.—Important information concerning immigration into this state for the last few years has been given out from the State Department of Agriculture in connection with a bill introduced in the assembly yesterday by Mr. Merritt of St. Lawrence. The measure proposes a state department for the collection of such information, both industrial and agricultural, as would be of benefit to the immigrant in informing him where his labor is best needed, where conditions will be best adapted to himself, and family, and to enlighten him generally.

According to the statement, immigrants to the number of 1,075,463 took up their residence in New York state, for the time being at least, during the last three years, as follows: 1905, 315,511; 1906, 374,709; 1907, 285,244. A large part of these immigrants are credited with having come here from southern Europe, where illiteracy is prevalent. It is claimed that during 1907 they sent to their native homes savings estimated at $300,000,000, which had they been informed of conditions in this country, it is contended, would have remained and been invested here.

MILLION DOLLAR FINE STANDS.

Austin, Tex., March 27.—The mandate of the Civil Appellate court, affirming the judgment of the trial court in the case of the State of Texas against the Waters-Pierce Oil company, was received yesterday and execution at once was issued on the property in the state of Texas, belonging to the Waters-Pierce Oil company, for the amount of the judgment and costs of the suit. The judgment is for $1,025,000.

RIDGELEY RESIGNS.

Tennis Cabinet Member Expected to Succeed Comptroller.

Washington, March 27.—William B. Ridgeley called at the White House today to hand the president his resignation as comptroller of the currency. Mr. Ridgeley is awaiting the receipt of a telegram to-day advising him that he has been elected president of the National Bank of Commerce of Kansas City, which position he will accept.

The Illinois Congressional delegation, including Senators Cullom and Hopkins and Speaker Cannon, is anxious that an Illinois man shall succeed Mr. Ridgeley. The delegation has urged the appointment of Frank L. Smith, United States collector of internal revenue for the Peoria district. It is generally believed, however, that Lawrence O. Murray, assistant secretary of commerce and labor, will be Mr. Ridgeley's successor. Mr. Murray is one of the "rising young men" of the Roosevelt administration, and a member of the so-called "tennis cabinet."

BANKING SENSATION.

Pittsburg Bank Official Charged With $1,105,000 Misappropriation.

Pittsburgh, March 27.—A sensation was caused here to-day when the bank examiner, W. L. Poldos, made a third information against Henry Reiber, paying teller, and John Young, auditor of the Farmers' Trust National bank, charging them with misappropriation of the bank amounting to $1,105,000.

The previous amounts named were $55,000 and $300,000. Reiber and Young are in the county jail, where they were placed on their arrest last Monday night. They are held in $25,000 bail.

YALE BANK'S DIVIDEND.

The regular semi-annual dividend of three per cent. was declared by the Yale National bank at a meeting held yesterday morning.

STOCK MARKET REVIEW.

Speculative Element Confused by Continuous Price Movement.

New York, March 27.—Prices moved continuously in to-day's stock market, but the course of the movement changed so often as to leave speculative sentiment thoroughly confused. In one important stock would be discerned signs believed to point to distribution going on while in another appearance would indicate accumulation. The action of Union Pacific had an important influence on the whole list by sympathy. The bad impression created by yesterday's announcement of a coming bond issue seemed to pass away, after a period of early depression. Banking officials credited with the financing intimated that first reports of the dimensions of the immediate proposed issue had been exaggerated. Stories were thereupon revived of the imminence of the plan for segregation of Union Pacific investments for distribution to stockholders. The stock turned strong again and carried the whole market with it. The heavy tone of U. S. Steel in the early dealings weighed on the whole market and the source of the selling aroused suspicion. The copper securities had the advantage of another rise in the price of the metal here and abroad and reports from London of an improvement in the general market condition for the metal. The vigorous measures towards publicity adopted in the pursuit of a speculative campaign in mining stocks outside the stock exchange had some reflected influence on securities connected with mining of metals. Reports regarding conferences over wage conditions in the soft coal trade varied widely as they came from different districts, and this may have accounted for some confusion in the price movement of soft coal carriers.

The special strength shown by the Canadian group of railroads was attributed to a foreign origin and the reason for the advance was not stated. Some sustaining force in the general list was an effect. The compilations of the weekly currency movement indicate a cash gain of probably between one and two million dollars. The strong banking forecast helped the later stock market and the earlier uncertainty was largely discarded in a vigorous upbidding of prices to a strong closing.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales par value $2,472,000.

U. S. bonds were unchanged on call.

CHOICE OF FINE CHINA AND CUT GLASS.

If seeking unusual pieces in fine china and cut glass we can help you. Salted nut sets of seven pieces—comport and six smaller ones, in cut glass—are very neat. Also sherbet glasses with plates in iridescent and amber tints. China with rich gold decorations are also very beautiful.

Paint is Important.

Good paint is as important as fire insurance. A building may never burn, but unless constantly protected by good paint it will surely decay. Decay is slow burning; paint is insurance against decay, if properly and well applied.

We are users of pure lead and oil paint. Our workmen are competent and our charges reasonable, consistent with good work. Let us tell you the cost of good painting.

Rev. H. A. Jupp will deliver the Divinity school alumni lecture on "The Scientific Church," in Marquand chapel at 2:30 o'clock.

The big athletic event of the week comes Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the Yale baseball team plays its second game of the spring.

To Owners of Bad Breath--

Foul Odor of Indigestion, Smoking, Eating or Drinking Stopped at Once With Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Billious breathers, onion eaters, indigestion victims, cabbage consumers, smokers, drinkers and those with gas on the stomach are in a class all by themselves, distinguished by a powerful bad breath.

They all breathe, and as they breathe they whiff out odor which makes those standing near turn their heads away in disgust.

Charcoal is a wonderful absorber of gases and odors. It absorbs 100 times its own volume of gas.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges will put a stop to your bad, offensive breath, and to your belchings, whatever the cause or source, because the charcoal quickly absorbs all noxious, unnatural odors and gases.

If you suffer from indigestion and belch gas as a result, Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges will absorb all the gas and make you stop belching.

If on getting up in the morning you have such a bad, bilious breath that you can almost smell it yourself, Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges will get rid of it for you quickly.

If you have been smoking or chewing, or have been eating onions or other odorous things, Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges will make your breath pure and sweet.

Charcoal is also the best laxative known. You can take a whole boxful and no harm will result. It is a wonderfully easy regulator.

And then, too, it filters your blood—every particle of poison and impurity in your blood is destroyed, and you begin to notice the difference in your face first thing—your clear complexion.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made from pure willow charcoal, and just a little honey is put in to make them palatable, but not too sweet.

They will work wonders in your stomach and make you feel fine and fresh. Your blood and breath will be purified. You will feel clean inside.

Through A Shop Window Fancy meshed veils with pin size chenille dots have superseded those with the huge spots and the eyes will be saved great strain in consequence.

The Parisienne wears a veil, or rather a simulated veil, in plain gauze, bound with a tiny roll of velvet, which sticks out crisply all about the edge of her hat like a scant ruffle.

Volles, light-weight panamas in light colors and all of the imported serges are trimmed in colored braids and cretonne buttons. In fact the cretonne buttons and gay braids are observed on some of the thin lace waists.

Panels for waist arrangement are new adornments and they certainly fill a place of distinction as far as the attractiveness is concerned. Their chief place is upon the front of the bodice and upon the sleeves.

Supple bands of metal, gold copper or silver, the first plain, the second incrustured with designs of enamel; the third set with semi-precious stones, are being worn in the hair for evenings.

Already the stores show beautiful Easter greetings. There are lovely cards, rabbits and tiny teddy bears in a basket of eggs, all of the usual novelties in candies and quaint little baskets.

OLD FARM FUND INCREASE. Auditors Report Addition of $26,769 for Year.

The board of selectmen at a meeting held yesterday afternoon received the report prepared by the committee from the board appointed to audit the accounts of the Old and New Town Farm funds.

The New Haven Paint and Clay Club will give a free exhibition on Sunday afternoon, from 2 until 5 o'clock. This will close their exhibit and those who have not yet had a chance to attend will get an opportunity on Sunday.

E. Shoemaker & Sons have bought a piece of land at the corner of East avenue and California street, Savin Rock. There is a large house on the property already, but it is said that within a short while the new owners will build three other houses on the extra land.

The investigating committee of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, yesterday. The tests were very satisfactory when the fact is taken into consideration that these steamers are old, one being purchased by the city in 1871, when fire engines were first turned out.
