POISONING THEORY

Brother of Woman Who Died While Under Doctor's Care Said to Be His Murderer.

PHYSICIAN WAS POISONED

Sample Bottle of Ale Sent to Him With Forged Letter Signed With Brewer's Name.

Philadelphia, June 29.—The laying bare of a most sensational murder is promised by the authorities in the case of Dr. William H. Wilson of this city, who died at his home on Friday night after drinking a portion of a bottle of ale which had been sent to him for trial through the mails.

An autopsy performed by the coroner's physicians and an examination made of the viscera taken from the body to-day, according to the coroner, proves conclusively that Dr. Wilson died of cyanide of potassium poisoning. The ale came to the physician on Tuesday a week ago by express and in the mail on the same day he received a letter in typewritten form purporting to have been sent by a prominent company of this city, informing him that a sample bottle of ale had been sent to him for trial.

Dr. Wilson put the ale in a refrigerator and went to his country home at Cornwells, just outside the city. He returned Friday and decided to try the pint bottle of ale which he had received. He had scarcely swallowed half a glass of the beverage when he was seized with convulsions and fell to the floor. It is declared that he immediately realized that he was the victim of poisoning either by mistake or design, for in his agony he requested his wife who had not yet touched her portion of the ale, to keep that which was left as it did not taste right.

That was the last thing he was able to say and he died before the hospital was reached. Unusual as are the poisoning features of the case more extraordinary is the motive which the police officials assign for what they are certain is a murder. Though Dr. Wilson had been living for more than twelve years in the house where he drank the fatal portion, he never put out a physician's sign and was not known in a general sense as a practitioner. What he had a large clientele, made up mostly of the police officials' assert, of prominent women. The police officials have learned, they allege, that Dr. Wilson attended during a fatal illness a member of the family of a young man who will be charged with being the poisoner.

The death, it is alleged, caused the younger man to brood until he could no longer contain himself, when he sought to put an end to the physician's practices by sending him poison, rather than go into court and have his family history exposed to the world.

This is the remarkable story which the police have unearthed in their three days' investigation of the strange death of Dr. Wilson. How soon the authorities will be ready to act in the case, they will not say, nor will they make public any names in connection with the matter.

SCHOONER THIEF TAKEN

Fired Upon by Revenue Cutter While Fleeing in Yacht. Chicago, June 29.—John Seavy, arrested on board his yacht "The Wanderer," seven miles north of Frankfort, Mich., by United States deputy marshals who had followed him for more than a week in the revenue cutter "Tuscarora," with a warrant charging him with stealing the 45-ton lumber laden schooner "Nellie Johnson" at Montague, Mich., on May 11, was brought to Chicago to-day and lodged in jail. Seavy and two companions seized the schooner while on shore, and abandoned her later at Frankfort. Seavy had started northward in his yacht when he was overtaken and fired upon by the "Tuscarora," and surrendered. His companions escaped.

NO PARDON FOR J. WASHELESKY

(Continued from First Page.) you put that woman on the stand as a full-fledged witness knowing that she was a morphine habituate?" Mr. Williams did not reply and this led Mr. Webb to say: "I will leave that open to its own criticism."

Mr. Williams then said: "We put her on the witness stand for what she was." This closed the episode and Mr. Webb began his argument. He gave a history of the case, laying especial stress upon the importance of the testimony of Mrs. McGraw.

The murder was committed on the night of December 3, 1903, and the body was buried, four inches below the surface of the ground, on what is known as the Farnham farm. It was not discovered until September 23, 1904.

Mr. Webb said that only the word of Mrs. McGraw could connect Washelesky with the crime and, taking issue with himself, he testified that Mrs. McGraw had made statements to him in an interview shortly after the body had been found which directly contradicted her testimony upon the witness stand.

Samuel H. Williams and Leonard W. Currier, two New Haven druggists, testified that they had sold morphine to Mrs. McGraw in quantities varying from 50 to 200 quarter grain tablets a week for a period of about twelve years.

Dr. N. R. Hotchkiss of New Haven, and Dr. O. R. Diefendorf testified as experts of the effect of morphine upon the mind, saying that the word of a morphine habituate was unreliable.

Dr. Hotchkiss said that he knew of a particular case in which Mrs. McGraw had made untruthful statements regarding him and she admitted the fact. The defense rested its case and the board announced a recess for lunch.

The board was composed of Governor Woodruff, Morris W. Seymour, Bridgeport, Judge William Hamersley, General Edward Harlan of Norwich, William H. Corbin and D. W. C. Skilton, of this city.

FUGITIVE REACHES TEXAS

Wounded American Declares Diaz's Army Is Honeycombed With Revolutionists—Troops Take the Field.

Washington, June 29.—By direction of President Roosevelt, Secretary of War Taft has issued orders to the commanding general of the department of Texas at San Antonio, to send a sufficient number of troops to Del Rio, El Paso and other points in Texas, to aid the civil authorities in preserving order. This action was decided upon as a result of the request from the Mexican government that the United States do its utmost to prevent any violation of the neutrality laws.

Brig. Gen. A. L. Myer in command of the department of Texas, is authorized to ascertain the number of troops necessary at Del Rio and El Paso and also to send troops to any other points along the Mexico-Texas border if found advisable. The federal troops will act under the direction of the United States marshal and the United States district attorney.

The troops presence will also do much to prevent any outbreaks within United States territory and will be of material assistance in the event that revolutionists should cross the border. Del Rio is directly opposite Las Vacas, Mexico, where the principal disturbances have occurred.

Dallas, Texas, June 29.—Crying his arm in a sling, Samuel L. Harrison, for the last five years a resident of Blanco, a small town about fifty miles from Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, arrived in Dallas to-day with his family en route east to visit relatives.

Mr. Harrison received his wound from a shot that was fired through the window of his home after midnight three days ago.

"That is not a fake revolution," said Mr. Harrison. "It is a dead earnest affair. I am inclined to think that the soldiers of the president are aiding and abetting the revolutionists. I personally know that the president is greatly worried. It is my opinion that the Mexican army is honeycombed with revolutionists."

El Paso, Tex., June 29.—According to information from a reliable source, official advice have been received in Jarez, across the Rio Grande from this city to the effect that the 2,500 federal troops sent to Torreón, Coahuila, have taken the field in an effort

STROKE SAYS HE IS WELL

Griswood Looks Hollow-Cheeked, But Maintains He Feels All Right.

Rochester, N. Y., June 29.—A special from Alexandria Bay, says the report that D. T. Griswood, Yale's 1903 stroke victim, who collapsed on Thursday, is at the point of death, is not true. Although looking hollow-cheeked and weary, Griswood is far from being sick. Interviewed today he said: "Since recovering from the collapse in the racing shell I have been feeling very well and strong, and although my strength left me last Thursday before the race was half over, it was nervous shock rather than physical exhaustion that brought it on. I do not attribute my collapse to overtraining."

Griswood will leave tonight for New York. From there he will go to New Hampshire to spend the summer camping in the woods.

BROKE ARM IN FALL

While playing yesterday afternoon near her home at 19 Warren street, little Lizzie Solinski, six years old, fell and broke her arm. The child tripped in some way, and in falling her arm became twisted in such a fashion that she fell upon it and broke it. She was taken to the New Haven hospital, and her injury taken care of. Outside of the natural pain accompanying such an accident the injury is not a serious one.

BOYS' REVOLT SUCCEEDS

Forty-eight Escape from Baltimore Institution—Pistols Versus Beicks.

Baltimore, Md., June 29.—With a suddenness that took all the officers by surprise forty-eight boys at the Maryland school for boys revolted today and escaped from the institution. This was the second outbreak at the school inside of two months. Led by one of the larger boys who was armed with a crowbar they stormed the outer gate this morning, demolished the lock and streaming through the portal scattered in all directions. Two of the guards in attempting to stop the flight of the boys tried to scare them by firing their pistols in the air. The only result was a shower of bricks and stones. Captain Baker, one of the officials, was struck on the head with a brick. His injuries, however, were not regarded as serious. A general alarm was sent out and the police all over the city were soon on the lookout for the gray clad fugitives. Up to midnight only fourteen had been recaptured.

O'Meara was in the choir. Mr. O'Meara spoke of the number of times he had been taken for Father Curtin and of the complications which had arisen from this.

Mr. O'Meara compared the 25th anniversary of a priest's ordination to the silver wedding of two persons' lives. He said that the anniversary represented 25 years of giving up the society of the world and its attractions, and that length of time of faithfulness to the church. He hoped that the same people present last evening would be able to gather for the 50th anniversary of Father Curtin.

The next speaker was Father Jeremiah Curtin of Waterbury, one of the priests who was present at the ordination of the local Father Curtin. He said that the people of Waterbury joined with the people of West Haven in offering felicitations in the present anniversary celebration. The younger Father Curtin had at one time been one of the parishes in Waterbury and was fondly remembered there. The speaker called to mind how when he went to Waterbury, having the same name as his cousin, the people looked forward with pleasure to seeing the former pastor, and were much disappointed when they found that it was only someone with the same name. Going on, Father Curtin spoke of the love of the children toward the West Haven priest, and said that this love was shared by the priests of the diocese, and by the parishioners of the church, he believed.

Following Father Curtin of Waterbury, Rev. Mr. Squires spoke. He brought the greetings of the West Haven Congregational church to the celebration, and was glad to see so many of his parishioners in the audience. He was glad, he said, that the people of the two creeds could get together on such an occasion, and said that it was not many years ago when such a meeting would have been impossible.

From the north of Orange, Representative Watson Woodruff brought greetings. He said that that part of the town which was little heard of before elections and never after them took a keen interest in the events of the evening, and was very proud to number Father Curtin among its friends. He said that he personally had the greatest respect for clergymen of whatever creed they were, whether they were priests, rectors, pastors or rabbis. It was a noble profession and one in which the greatest self sacrifice was required. He expressed the wish that 25 years hence, the city of Orange will be able to take part in the golden anniversary of Father Curtin.

Following Mr. Woodruff, Rev. J. N. Skelly of Litchfield spoke. He described the ordination of Father Curtin 25 years ago, and complimented him on his work since then. He expressed to him the respect in which he was held by the other priests of the diocese, and wished him many more years of prosperous work in West Haven.

Daniel Colwell expressed himself as highly pleased with the work of Father Curtin in West Haven, and added if the borough grew as rapidly as the parish of St. Lawrence's church had since Father Curtin formed it, soon there would be a city of Orange of considerable size. Going on he said: "We in New Haven would like to have you annex yourselves to us, but we understand the feeling sentiment here is against such a union. I do not know but that if I lived here I would agree with you. It is a thought that here in West Haven, in the shadow of one of the greatest institutions of learning in the world, Catholics and Protestants can meet together to do honor to a representative of one of those creeds. And such a coming together is necessary in the present day when we are threatened by anarchy and socialism. We must overcome all prejudices, and unite for the protection of society."

Eugene J. Grimes, secretary of the jubilee committee, then read a communication from the Rev. Arthur J. Gammack of Christ church, West Haven, expressing his sorrow at not being able to be present at last night's exercises, and wishing Father Curtin long life and further success in his work in the parish.

Following the reading of the letter from Rev. Mr. Gammack came the presentation of the $1,000 by Mr. Boyle. After Father Curtin's response, the audience sang "Auld Lang Syne" and "America." The exercises closed with an informal reception by Father Curtin and the committee.

The town hall in which the exercises were held had been transformed from its regular barn like appearance to a bower of flowers and bunting. Crepe paper had been used with marvelous effect across the hall and around the chandeliers, and the ugly lamp globes had been covered with rolls of colored paper which cast a pleasing glow over the interior. The platform was a mass of flowers, roses playing a principal part in the decoration. Daisies and other wild flowers were used in the other parts of the hall. After the speaking the chairs were pushed back and in this transformed hall dancing was enjoyed until late in the evening.

That Father Curtin has the affection of many in West Haven outside of his parish was evidenced by the fact that the St. Lawrence R. C. church was taxed to the utmost to accommodate the large number of people attending the mass yesterday morning.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

There were forty priests present from all over the state.

The altar at the church was beautifully decorated with masses of gorgeous roses and cut flowers.

The musical program was an especially the one and the choir under the leadership of James Errico did ample justice to it.

The celebrant of the mass was the Rev. Jeremiah J. Curtin of Waterbury, who is a cousin of the Rev. Father Curtin. The sub-deacon was the Rev. Father Dullard of Mt. Carmel, while the master of ceremonies was the Rev. Father Peter M. Skelly of Litchfield, both of whom have been intimate friends of Father Curtin since boyhood.

The chaplains to the bishop were the Rev. Father Nihil of Bridgeport and Father McLain of Milford. The choir sang the "Missa Rexia," by Dumont, the offertory solo, "O Coronaris Victimam," was beautifully rendered by Miss Lulu Corcoran.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Father Duggan of St. Joseph's cathedral in Hartford, and editor of the Catholic Transcript.

After the services yesterday noon the priests were served with a luncheon in the rectory. Tables were laid for fifty, which included all the Catholic priests of New Haven and the Rev. Father Dullard of Mt. Carmel, Father Downes and McLean of Milford, Father Skelly of Litchfield and Father Duggan of Hartford. Throughout the day Father Curtin was the recipient of many telegrams and messages of congratulation from various parts of the country.

the same results. It is time Mr. Taft was studied from the point of view of his personality. That will help amazingly to dispel a ridiculous delusion as to echoes.

JOHN KENNEDY, COACH. Yale has had the good fortune to have associated with her rowing interests through many seasons a man whose devotion to the blue has been so unwavering that to criticize him unduly cannot but make for resentment. He is John Kennedy.

The Hartford Courant suggests that the Yale defeat of last Thursday was due to the lack of judgment of one man and adds: "The coach was that one man." The coach was John Kennedy. That paper argues that it was the breaking of a shoelace that necessitated a second start and brought about the unnerving of the crew. A shoelace (which somebody ought to have inspected and condemned before they entered the boat.) That somebody, it is implied, was John Kennedy. The Courant has it that the Yale crew was given instructions which were fatal. They were told not to let the Harvard crew get ahead of them at all hazards. In trying to follow this advice and get ahead of Harvard the Yale crew used up its strength. Had Yale swung along behind in her proverbial slower stroke," we are told, "who can say that she would not have closed up the gap at the critical end and have passed the pumped-out boys of Cambridge?"

If such advice was really given to the Yale crew, as it is said, it may be assumed that it was given by John Kennedy, and that those who have watched his crews row to victory so many times believe it the best advice, but there does not seem to be any positive information on that subject. The whole arrangement is based on a supposition and is correspondingly unjust. Upon this framework it is argued that Yale has "lived to learn." The counsels of war in connection with the development of the football teams, and the return of the innumerable heroes of past fields to coach the season's team, are the systems best for the crew as well. As it is, the Courant tells us, "the boating heroes are not in it. They cannot volunteer advice." We do not think that is so, but if it is, we are inclined to believe that the superior wisdom of John Kennedy is thought so highly of that none want to contradict him. A system of graduate coaching for Yale crews, such as Harvard has this season instituted, might be worthy of serious consideration. But that is another question. John Kennedy has done his work and does it well and he deserves all praise and honor, even in this hour of defeat.

STREET FLUSHING AGAIN.

A word more upon the very commendable suggestion of Director Foley that the streets of New Haven be flushed with water. The New York department of street cleaning has just been conducting a series of interesting experiments as to the practicability of this sort of work which must be of great interest here.

Atmospheric tests have just been made under the direction of Commissioner Crowell, of that city, and two professors from the Cornell Medical school. The apparatus used was simple, but it gave its testimony effectively. Sanitized plates were exposed for fifteen minutes each over streets that had been flushed with water and over streets that had not been cared for. During that space of time opportunity was given for the colonies of germs and impurities that hover about filth, circulating in the air, to be attracted to the plates. Later these plates were taken to a laboratory and the colonies were counted. Said a news account of the result: "Plates exposed over one street that had not been cleaned revealed some many germ colonies that it was useless to attempt to count them, while plates exposed over an uncleaned street that was still considerably neater revealed, respectively, eight, nine, and ten hundred colonies. When three plates were exposed over a street which had just been cleaned by the squeegee machine—squeegee is the technical term used in the department—they showed only 135, 140 and 150 colonies."

This is only another evidence of the effectiveness of the flushing system as used in street cleaning. The fact that New Haven has such a plentiful supply of water, more than is the case with the average city of its size, only commends the adoption of the system the more and that right away, since during the heated months of the summer season it can prove itself an excellent protector of the public health.

THE INDEPENDENT VOTER.

Mayor Lee of Bridgeport, who has announced his intention of vetoing the action of the city fathers of that city in directing the purchase of voting machines, is unlike Mayor Martin of New Haven in one critical connection. He tells the people of Bridgeport why he is opposed to the machine. Mayor Martin is to tell the board of aldermen why they meet next week. Mayor Lee is opposed to the machines because they destroy the independence of the ballot. He quotes the mayor of Newark, N. J., to that effect and adds that the registration of independent vote is essential to a free expression of the electorate. We take it that Mayor Lee arrives at this conclusion, because no voter has the visual proof that the ballot he casts is actually recorded. In speaking once of ox-tail soup, Isaac H. Bromley said it was going pretty far back for the soup. To question the integrity of the voting machine, because it withholds proof of independent or regular voting, would appear like going a long distance to find an argument against it. The machine gives the voter the opportunity to vote independently if he cares to exercise it. His chance is just as good as it is now with the voting booth, where to scratch a ticket he must take time to do it. Perhaps what those mean, who object to the voting machine because it interferes with independent balloting, is that it will deprive the man, who really wants to be reckoned regular while being independent, of the chance he now has of editing his ticket in the privacy of his home, which the past system lets him do.

There are objections to the voting machine and it is likely that they will be much improved within a short time. Skillful and inventive mechanics are at work improving them as their brothers are at work to improve every other mechanical device to reduce the item of labor in a given production. It is well to remember, however, that the demand for the voting machine sprang from corruption at the polls. Had political parties made an honest use of the original ballot, no one would have ever thought of inventing a voting machine which defies dishonesty. It was to cut the briber and the bribed to flight that the machine was originally conceived, and it was to eliminate an immense amount of money from the control of elections that provided another stimulant. It would seem as if this gain was far more important than the protection of a man who wants at heart to vote independently but who has not the nerve to do so and have the world know it.

In the consideration of the voting machine too much consideration is given possible mechanical weaknesses, and too little attention is given the real reasons why the professional politicians dislike it. The professional politicians fight with all their might the introduction of the envelope system of secret voting, and here in Connecticut they have successfully opposed every suggestion which in adoption would increase the secrecy of the ballot. The ticket peddlers and the various other election officials, who would be put out of business by the introduction of the machine, and who now offer a most specious form of vote buying and selling, are, in the practical judgment of these skilled manipulators of ward politics, still factors in popular elections. If the voting machine is ever adopted here and in Bridgeport, it will not be with the assent of the politicians, who smile as they see their chests pulled out of the fire by honest men, who deduce themselves with specious arguments.

BUSINESS BAROMETERS.

The interview obtained with Dr. John Pierpont Morgan of Yale, upon his departure for Europe, in reference to the financial conditions at present in this country calls attention again to the ever-increasing spirit of optimism that is being felt these days by commercial men.

For the speedy return of prosperity the times are unfortunately adverse. With summer, which is always more or less of a dull season commercially, and a presidential election approaching, it would not be unusual if the business tendency should be to remain unsettled until early winter. But business men believe with the winter and spring just past having had more than the usual dullness, that the summer season will have been robbed of its annual characteristic this year. As for the uncertainties of election day, they are by no means so foreboding as they might be. Says the Springfield Republican, speaking of our business men: "Many of them are not disposed to view the improbable success of the opposition ticket as so crushing a calamity as Bryan's possible election was regarded in 1906 or even in 1909. The two great parties are now so much nearer together on questions affecting property and business than they were then, that no good reason can exist for a great scare during the oncoming presidential canvass." Taking this view of the situation it may be confidently expected that even a change in the controlling party at the White House would not mean necessarily a great change in administration attitude toward business institutions.

There are two available barometers of present business conditions. They are the prospect of crops, and the activities of the railroads. The crop promise to be of the best. Says the conservative Tribune: "The attitude regarding the future is unquestionably one of hopefulness, and confidence grows with the crops this year even more notably than usual. Each day now takes millions of dollars' worth of farm products beyond the reach of damage by the elements and on this security the mercantile houses extend their operations with safety." No better evidence of approaching good crops and better business conditions can be offered than the activities of the railroads which will be called upon to carry these crops. Already the string of empty freight cars at Pittsburg is said to have been materially decreased, and many of the roads are keeping repair men busy preparing other cars for use. The Southern Railroad has postponed a wage reduction until October 1, with the prospect that it will not then be put into effect at all. The Mobile & Ohio has restored salaries to their former level. The American Locomotive company is not to reduce its common dividend. On July 1 it is estimated that $150,000,000 in interest and dividends will be paid out to American investors. The natural tendency will be to reinvest this money and then there will come the resultant demand for securities. Matters are surely "looking up." The resumption of many mills and factories on June 1 and since makes that more certain.

THE PRICE OF MEAT.

It is pretty warm weather and it is possible that the spirit of inquiry, which has absorbed the administration at Washington droops, but if still alert would it not be well for it to dip into the reasons for the increase in the price of meat and let a suffering world know about them? One of the rewards the New Haven Railroad company received for voluntarily reducing rates was to be proceeded against for restraining trade. The beef producers, who are moved by no such spirit of compassion, increase prices and are neglected by a fatherly administration. The beef producers say that they are up against fearful economic odds and that with beef at the prevailing prices is doing them up as fast as it is doing up the neighborhood butcher and consumer. The hard times of last fall drove down the value of cattle and cat-tle herders ceased to breed. There has been no encouraging outlook so affairs on the ranches are growing worse and worse. Try as they may, the beef producers tell us that the situation has got away from them and those who desire meat to eat must pay the prices asked; that they can think of no other escape.

On the other hand, the contention is made that the beef producers are in a trust or a gentleman's agreement and determine the prices to be charged according to the need there is for dividends; that they are meeting harsh economic conditions by taking full advantage of their situation; that they would soon be brought to their feet if the tariff on foreign meat was repealed and the product of other countries, especially those to the south of us was given a free entry. The belief is widespread that a beef trust, with all of the selfishness of a trust, is at the bottom of the whole business.

One of these contentions is true and the sooner the administration finds out, or the state of Illinois, if it is a state undertaking, the better. The facts should be known. If the meat producing business is the victim of circumstances over which it has no control, let's know it. If it has a power of protecting itself against common adversity through special legislation, let's know that too.

VICTORS.

Her face was scratched and battered. Her hair was matted and matted. Her dress was torn and tattered. From her form. The maid was almost strangled. Her pompadour was tangled. Her hat it hung and dangled. So forlorn. She surely was unrightly. She'd been posted most unrightly. But she held her bundle tightly. Without fail. Lo and when the strife was vented. Though her pocketbook was wanted. Still, she walked away contented. From the "Sale."—Bohemian.

SAVINGS AND DOINGS.

Now it is the city of Buffalo that wants to have the proposed monument erected to the memory of Grover Cleveland. It was in Buffalo that he first made a name as "The veto mayor." Certain it is that there should be no objection if there were several monuments about the country to the memory of good kind able Grover. But best of all there will surely be the monumental admiration that all who have known him will continue to have for him.

They say the two big parties are getting nearer together all the time. Here is more evidence of it. Mayor Dahlman of Omaha, leader of the Nebraska delegation now says that Bryan will get 703 votes on the 3rd ballot at the convention. Mr. Taft's manager prophesied that he would get 704 votes and he did get exactly 702. They even nominate their candidates with almost exactly the same unanimity.

A contemporary tells us that when they built the first power-house in the city of Denver they put a large white stone in the side of it bearing the inscription: "One mile above sea level." Thus it may be seen that the nearer the democratic delegates get to their convention city, the more will they be "up in the air."

The Journal-Courier desires to add its congratulations to those being offered Father Jeremiah Curtin upon the completion of twenty-five years of faithful service in the priesthood of the city. Father Curtin has impressed himself in many useful ways upon this appreciative community and it is thankful to him.

bonfires on the night of the Fourth. It was like adding insult to injury.

OUR CONTEMPORARIES.

Looks His Only Claim! (New London Telegraph.) Tilson of New Haven is handsome, they say. Well, the house needs a little more beauty to keep even with the senate, where Beveridge has held the spotlight as the only "Gibsonian" statesman in congress.

The State Police. (Hartford Post.)

The Sunday raid and shooting affray in a Savin Rock saloon, in which the state police figured and fired, is having the effect of reviving the discussion as to the advisability of abolishing the state police department. It is intimated that each party will put plans into its state platform for the fall, demanding its abolishment. It is unfortunate for the state police force that its personnel generally embraces men who lack judgment or ordinary horse sense, and who on slight provocation may be depended upon to manifest their stupidity and incapacity at the critical moment.

That Prohibition Resolution. (Hartford Courant.)

It seems that Mr. Davis drew the resolution about Cleveland, and was ready, like a man and a patriot, to stand by it, but he foresaw that with the opposition that this would create the result might be doubtful, and so to avoid a contest he withdrew the paper. All this is creditable to Mr. Davis. But it does not seem to relieve the controversy generally which had led to a narrow hot-head slip it up. Intemperance in judgment and language is too often characteristic of those who profess temperance and rally in its name.

The Man for the Place. (Norwich Bulletin.)

The president of the United Mine Workers of America is a true friend to union labor, because he tells it the truth, which is something it seems often to be least interested in hearing. He told the assembled host of miners at Canton, Ill., the other day, that organized labor has the worst enemy he ascribed the slow progress of unionism in recent years to two causes, one of which he says is the following: "To find fault with their leaders instead of commending their virtues, and the other to the abnormal appetite of some union members for strong drink."

Mr. Taft and the Yale Spirit. (Washington Herald.)

Of all Mr. Taft's utterances since his nomination at Chicago, none has a better ring or is more promising for the future than that at the Yale dinner in which he said: "The Yale spirit is the spirit of progressiveness without the spirit of destructiveness." Mr. Taft is a Yale man. He is full of the Yale spirit, and if that Yale spirit characterizes his course in the campaign, and characterizes his administration in the event of his election—which is the interpretation Yale men give his speech—how will it appeal strongly to his fellows the country over and his career attuned to the American heart.

The Physique of Rowers. (New York World.)

Curious studies of the rowing physique are presented by the statistics of the seven university crews in the two regattas. Of the fifty-six men at the pairs only twenty-three were less than six feet tall, and most of these were within an inch of that mark. Yale was criticized for accepting a stroke who carried but 155 pounds to his six feet and an inch, and the point seems confirmed by the failure of Wisconsin with a stroke an inch taller and only two pounds heavier. Yet, right in the eye of the Columbia boat, pushing Syracuse to the limit, sat Renshaw, six feet two, 169 pounds. The argument for the heavier build lies with Syracuse, whose eight men averaged five feet ten and seven-eighths inches in height and 172 1-4 pounds in weight.

The parlors of the house were artistically decorated with field flowers, daisies and ferns making the chandeliers and mantels look as if formed entirely of the flowers. An arch of palms was arranged in the parlor and under this the ceremony took place. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and she was a beautiful bride indeed in her gown of rich white lace over silk, and a veil of tulle caught to her dark hair with lilies of the valley. ### MARCH 40 MILES ON 2 PILLS.

Condensed Food Capsules Used With Success in Army.

Denver, June 29.—Returning yesterday from a forty-mile march, which occupied two days, and being fed on nothing during that time but two condensed meat pills each, the members of the Third Battalion of the Twenty-first Infantry, stationed at Fort Logan camp to be in almost as good condition as if they had the regular marching rations, according to the post surgeon.

On Friday morning the battalion was ordered without warning on the march. Major Buffington was in command. Ration wagons and cooks were left behind, and each man was given a capsule containing the condensed food.

"Here are your rations for to-day," said the major, "and to-morrow you'll get another one. You can drink all the water you want, but you get no other food."

The man returned to the fort none the worse for their unique diet.

WASHED WINDOW WITH FLAG

Panama Army Pursues American Who Attacked Offender.

Washington, June 28.—The Americans in Panama have had cause for heated protests recently, not on account of the Panama elections, but because of the following incident: A foreign commercial house in Colon insulted the American flag, using it to wash the windows of the establishment. Wayne O. Adams, of the canal zone, as the story goes, witnessed the desecration of the Stars and Stripes, and engaged in a fight for the possession of one of the flags which was being used to clean windows. He was pursued, according to reports, by a section of the army of Panama, consisting of two policemen and a lieutenant-general in full uniform. In consequence of the disrespect shown the flag by the commercial house in question the canal zone, from one end to the other, is hung with boycott signs, and the offenders have found less expensive wash rags.

WEST HAVEN HAS $1,000 FIRE.

A fire that may have been of incendiary origin, destroyed the cigar factory, stand and some bathing houses belonging to Michael O'Connell and located in Beach street, at the foot of Savin Rock hill, West Haven, at an early hour yesterday morning. Although the West Haven fire department responded promptly to the alarm from box 85, the fire in the larger building had gained such headway before it was discovered that the firemen gave up all hope of saving any part of it and devoted their efforts to saving the bath houses and other adjoining property. Mr. O'Connell, who is also proprietor of the O'Connell house, which is across the street from the scene of the fire, was unable to estimate his loss this morning, but stated that he was confident that his place had been set on fire by someone. The loss is figured at $1,000.

FIRE DANGER PASSED

New York Chief Says City Need No Longer Have Fear of Conflagration.

ENGINES TO BE DISCARDED

Great Pressure in New Salt Water Hydrants Obviates Necessity for Auxiliary.

New York, June 29.—The days of the picturesque fire engines in this city may be numbered, according to Chief Croker's enthusiastic prediction of what may be expected from the new high-pressure hydrants which had their first test yesterday. These are the hydrants fed by salt water drawn from the river.

Yesterday's test was made on West, between Bank and Gamevoort streets. The high-pressure system already installed extends from Chambers to Twenty-third street. Eight hydrants were used, most of them feeding three lines each. On the first test they got a pressure at the nozzle of sixty-five pounds on a two-inch nozzle, and of eighty-five pounds on an inch-and-a-half nozzle. On the second test, when the men were "blamed," two lengths of hydrant into one nozzle, they got a pressure of 175 pounds on the two-inch nozzle and 195 on the one-and-one-half-inch nozzle. This, the firemen declared, was a greater pressure than could be utilized under average circumstances. It would take a small army of firemen to handle a hose pouring out water at that rate. The nozzles yesterday were held in regular tripods, each manned by three men. The two-inch streams were driven up above a twelve-story office building at West and Bank streets, and carried down for almost two blocks.

Under the present system of fighting fire with engines the firemen can get a pressure of 300 pounds. The pressure at the plug in the second test yesterday reached 290 pounds.

Something like 18,000 gallons of water a minute were delivered at the eight hydrants. Six motors and pumps were driving this at the power station at Thirtieth street.

Chief Croker said that the new system would do away with all danger of a conflagration in this city, and added that as soon as a valve for regulating the pressure at each hydrant could be perfected the engines would be unnecessary.

PRINCE'S TRIAL BEGINS.

Zu Eulenburg Taken to Berlin to Face Perjury Charge.

Berlin, June 29.—The trial of Prince zu Eulenburg, who is charged with perjury and with inciting another person to commit perjury in connection with the "round-table" revelations of last summer, began here this morning. Soon after the selection of the jury the prosecuting attorney moved that the public and newspaper correspondents be excluded throughout the trial, and the court decided accordingly.

Prince zu Eulenburg, who was carried into the court room on a portable chair, half an hour before the court opened, chatted cheerfully with his wife and sons while waiting for the court to open. He appeared to be composed and confident. The trial is expected to continue for at least a week.

After that neither side was able to get a man across the plate until the fourth inning when Springfield scored one. Both pitchers did good work. Score:

PEOPLES BANK AND TRUST CO. 799 CHAPEL STREET

WALL STREET NOTES. Opening Heavy, Market Broadens and New Stocks Take the Lead. LACKAWANNA TAKES SPURT. Crop Forecast by Vice-President Brown, of New York Central, Attracts Attention.

Following the lead of London prices stocks were generally heavy at the start, and they continued to sag off under small offerings during the first half hour. Before 11 o'clock, however, the pressure became less heavy, and it was apparent that not much long stock was coming out. The early sales appeared to be offerings for short account. An effort to buy back stocks in the second hour caused a sharp rebound around 11:30 o'clock, which was carried up to early in the afternoon.

The early afternoon strength in the market was said to be partly due to purchases for investment account in anticipation of the first of the month disbursements for interest and dividends, and also to an accumulation of stocks on the assumption that Bryan will be nominated. The estimate and forecast of the crops made by Vice President W. C. Brown of the New York Central railroad attracted a great deal of attention. This was thought to have induced some buying of leading stocks.

A jump of 19 1/2 points in Lackawanna, Lackawanna and Western stock to 520 on a single transaction called attention to the fact that this sort of thing occurs on an average three or four times a year, without any news developments to account for it. A close observer suggested that these periodic movements usually occurred when influential interests wanted to make the general market attractive, and perhaps to lead people to believe that if one stock could jump that way advances might occur in other stocks.

The excessive poverty of railroad earnings was shown by Atchafalaya's report for May, with a decrease of $1,750,502 in gross and a decrease of $729,877 in operating income. For eleven months operating income fell off $6,215,599. The London trading was on a very small scale, the sales slightly exceeding the purchases.

A gold engagement of $200,000 was announced by Goldman, Sachs & Co. for Germany. This brings the total of the movement since April to date to $46,050,000. CLOSING PRICES. REBUILDING SUMMIT HOUSE. Carpenters Put to Work While Ruins Are Smoldering. Bretton Woods, June 29.—C. G. Barr, president of the Mt. The ruins of the Summit house were still smoldering when over 200 carpenters and laborers were put to work on the job of rebuilding. The damage included the complete destruction of the hotel, printing office, and of one of the stables of the Mount Washington stage line, as well as 300 feet of trestle work at the Summit terminal of the Mt. CHICAGO WOMAN ATTORNEY CONDUCTS WILL CASE SUCCESSFULLY. Chicago, June 29.—Miss Mary E. Miller, a Chicago attorney, has just received a fee of $30,000 for successfully prosecuting a suit on behalf of the grandchildren of the late William Bross for the distribution of his $3,000,000 estate. Under the will the estate was to be held in trust until the youngest of the grandchildren reached the age of thirty years. That was the construction placed upon it by Justice T. Gray, the administrator, who contested the suit for immediate distribution. Miss Miller argued that under that construction the estate might never be distributed among the heirs it was intended to benefit. The youngest of the grandchildren, John Bross Lloyd, is now twenty-two years old and the oldest, William Bross Lloyd, is thirty-three. Miss Miller argued that should any of the heirs die before the youngest reached the age of thirty years an injustice would be done them. Judge Carpenter ruled that the trustee's construction of the will would make the estate vest at too remote a period, and ordered a distribution of it now.
