PREPARING FOR FIGHT IN WEST

Unprecedented Conference
Which Chairman Hitchcock
Has Arranged Sure to Be Successful.

CONFERENCE AT COLORADO SPRINGS

National Committeemen and Chairmen from Every State West of the Mississippi to Attend.

Colorado Springs, Col., July 19.—When Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the republican national committee, arrived this evening to consult with members of the national committee and chairman of western states and territorial committees he was greeted by a large number of political leaders who had reached Colorado Springs during the day. He found assurances from others which made it certain that the two days conference which opens to-morrow will be a success. Those who are to meet Chairman Hitchcock include the national committeemen and state chairmen from practically every state and territory west of the Mississippi river. Senator Warren of Wyoming and a number of other republicans, and members of the committee will be here to-morrow.

Nothing of the kind now undertaken by Mr. Hitchcock was ever attempted in the history of national campaigns in any party. He announced on his arrival that it would be his purpose to have states which are certainly republicans assist in campaigning in neighboring states which may be doubtful. "To that end he is bringing the western leaders together."

To-morrow there will be a general conference, at which the various leaders will exchange ideas and formulate a system whereby one state may draw on the political resources of another. After that Mr. Hitchcock will hold individual conferences with the representatives of each of the states and territories which are sending men to the political gathering.

According to Chairman Hitchcock there has been a lack of coherence between western leaders in past campaigns. The representatives of each state are doing their best to pile up republican majorities, but not helping other states which have more difficult political battles to fight. He said that he wanted to broaden the responsibilities of each of the western republican leaders with a view of carrying the whole western region for Taft and Sherman.

When asked what western states he regards as safely republican and what ones he classed as doubtful, Mr. Hitchcock said:

LURLINE WINS

Race of Yachts from California Coast to Hawaii.

Honolulu, July 19.—After a computation of the time made by each vessel and taking out the handicap allowances, the officials today declared the yacht Lurline of the South Coast Yacht club of Southern California, the victor in the trans-Pacific yacht race from San Pedro, Cal., to this port.

The Lurline arrived here at 9:34 a. m. yesterday and the other three yachts arrived to-day within six hours of each other. The corrected time of the yachts was as follows:

Lurline, 43 1/2 days, 21 hours, 21 minutes, 43 1/2 seconds; Gwendolyn II, (Seattle Yacht club) 14 1/2 days, 14 hours, 7 minutes, 3 3/4 seconds; Lady Maund (San Diego Yacht club), 14 days, 16 hours, 51 minutes, 9 3/4 seconds; Hawaiian (Hawaiian Yacht club), 14 days, 23 hours, 46 minutes.

7,000 SOLDIERS REVOLT

Turkish Troops in Monastir District Again Cause Trouble.

Constantinople, July 19.—It is rumored that 7,000 Turkish soldiers in the Monastir district are in open revolt, and that 25,000 troops have been ordered to the scene of the outbreak. It is also reported that a number of officers of the third army corps have threatened that unless the officers now awaiting court-martial on the charge of assisting the "young Turkey" agitation are immediately liberated, all the generals in Macedonia will be killed and the army will then march to Constantinople and demand the re-establishment of the constitution.

IN COMMUNICATION

Manila Picks Up Battleships of Special Service Squadron.

Manila, July 19.—Wireless communication has been established with the battleships Maine and Alabama, composing the special service squadron, which left San Francisco June 5 in advance of the Atlantic fleet. The two vessels are expected to arrive here at noon to-morrow.

RESCUED BY CAMPING PARTY

New York, July 19.—While the Chipewagon, of the Clyde line, was pounding great holes in her side on the rocks off Montank Point life saving station, early today, twenty-four men were taken from her by a camping party, the members of which had made a four-mile dash in automobiles to aid in the rescue.

A notice to this effect has just been issued by the board of directors, through Charles H. Nettleton, the president of the company. A two-thirds vote of the stockholders shall be necessary to sanction an increase in stock. The amount to be voted upon is not stated in the announcement.

RECORD SESSION

Longest in History of Canadian Parliament Concludes To-day.

Ottawa, Ont., July 19.—The longest session in the history of the parliament of Canada will conclude with the prorogation at noon tomorrow. The supply bill for the current fiscal year put through the commons just before midnight on Saturday provides for a total expenditure of $140,000,000 exclusive of railway subsidies to totaling $20,000,000 on 4,000 miles of new roads to be built during the next two or three years.

TAFT A LABOR MAN

Elected Member of International Society of Steam Shovelmen.

NOTIFICATION ON JULY 29

Nominee Will Probably Go to Cincinnati from Hot Springs Next Saturday.

Hot Springs, Va., July 19.—When Judge William H. Taft goes to Cincinnati to be notified of his nomination for the presidency by the republican party, he will receive notice of his election as a member of a labor organization. He has been elected a member of the International Society of Steam Shovelmen of which E. J. Dolan of Chicago is president. Mr. Taft had a good deal to do with the steam shovelmen at Panama. His notification of his membership in the union will be made July 19. He will probably leave here next Saturday for Cincinnati and may not return until the following Saturday. Judge Taft has concluded that it will not be possible for him to attend any state fairs before the election. After September 1 he expects to remain in Cincinnati until the election is over.

Wills Moore, chief of the weather bureau, will be here to-morrow. Mr. Moore has some ideas concerning the treatment of the labor problem which he desires to talk over with Mr. Taft.

Judge Taft will attend the opening of court at Germantown, five miles from here, to-morrow morning and will deliver an address on the administration of justice.

MOTOR BOAT RACE

The Pleasance Probable Winner of Marblehead-New Rochelle Event.

New Rochelle, N. Y., July 19.—S. W. Granberry's power yacht Irene II, the winner of last year's race, finished 32 minutes after the Irene II, and she is the probable winner, for she has an allowance of 4 hours, 21 minutes, 10 seconds, making her corrected time 28 hours, 43 minutes, 50 seconds. This would make her defeat the Irene II. by one hour, 19 minutes, 30 seconds.

R. Hutchinson's Also Can finish 15 minutes after the Pleasance. Her corrected time is 30 hours, 44 minutes. The Fortuna and Barbara were the fourth and fifth boats to finish. The Kittoris has an allowance of 5 hours, 25 minutes, 20 seconds, and the Pollywog is allowed 7 hours, 11 minutes, 20 seconds, so it is possible for either of these boats to win the prize, if they arrive within their time limit.

Montgomery, Ala., July 19.—Because of the strike situation in Birmingham, the movement to Chickamauga of the Alabama National guard has been postponed for a week. This is the substance of an order issued to all the commanders by Adjutant General Bibb Graves to-day. The troops were to have left for the maneuvering grounds at Chickamauga park July 5. Nearly all the troops are under arms and ready for active service.

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT.
George Uizio, an Italian, was arrested last evening by Detective Dunlap on a warrant charging him with embezzlement of $89 from one Mariano Nicolosi. It appears that Uizio acted as agent for the latter, and failed to turn over the amount, which he had collected for him.

ADVANCE COLUMN WILL BE AERIAL

Army and Navy Officers Believe Airships and Balloons Will Constitute It in Next War.

GREAT INTEREST IN TESTS

One of the Results of Those at Fort Meyer Next Week Will Be the Establishment of Aeronautics State Corps.

Washington, July 19.—"In the next war that is fought the advance column will be made up of balloons and airships." This is the belief freely expressed by army and navy officers here. For this particular reason the army balloon tests which are to begin at Fort Meyer next week will receive much attention in military circles. It is understood that several of the military attaches of the diplomatic corps will be at Fort Meyer to take notes and report to their respective governments.

One of the most important results of the Fort Meyer tests probably will be the establishment of an aeronautics corps in the navy. Assistant Secretary of the Navy Newberry, will be one of the interested spectators. It is understood that the American airship and balloon corporation is building a dirigible balloon to be tried out before a naval board when complete.

Another enthusiast in the navy is Rear Admiral C. M. Chester of the bureau of equipment. Admiral Chester claims that aeronautics should be an adjunct of the navy because the mariner is specially fitted to deal with the conditions that are met with in the air. Lieutenant Robert P. Henderson, chief engineer of the battleship Missouri, has made extensive experiments, having for their object the application of the gyroscope to flying machines. He has the support of Admiral Chester and other naval officers in recommending the establishment of a corps in the navy to be devoted to the application of aeronautics to naval warfare.

The advantage to be derived from such a corps, properly equipped was clearly demonstrated in the Japanese-Russian war, when balloons were for the first time employed in naval defense. Without divulging the presence of the battleship, the balloon gives a radius of observation of sixty miles, instead of the ordinary range of twenty miles from the deck of the vessel. It also enables its officers to see objects below the surface of the water, such as mines and submarines, which cannot be located from the deck of a ship.

At Vladivostok, in the recent war, after a Russian destroyer and a cruiser had been damaged by Japanese mines, Admiral Yessen requested that a balloon detachment be formed to make observations around the harbor of Vladivostok. The results were so convincing that the Russian government equipped a fast passenger steamer as a floating depot for the balloon detachment. This ship, the Russ, is now a part of the Russian navy.

SITUATION AT TABRIZ

Town Now Entirely in the Hands of Revolutionists.

London, July 19.—The news from Tabriz coming by different routes is of a rather confusing and conflicting nature, except as indicating that Rachin Khan still has the upper hand in that city.

A late dispatch to the Times from Tabriz, dated July 19 says: "The town is now entirely in the hands of the revolutionists with the exception of one quarter. The withdrawal of Rachin Khan's horsemen from the occupation of the town is heralded as the failure of the Shah's endeavor to assert royalist supremacy."

The royal infantry regiment, sent from Teheran to this place, to restore order, left their rifles and uniforms here today and departed en masse to their homes. Rachin Khan's chief executioner was slain to death yesterday in the public square.

The leaders of the people on Saturday assembled in conclave in the Moeqeh and determined to attack the Mujtahid and royalist quarter and drive out the clerical influence by force but the Russian consul intervened and promised to telegraph to the shah and obtain amnesty and orders to disperse the Mujtahid assembly.

No answer being received the feeling ran high. The consul was accused of duplicity and proclamations were posted, calling upon the people to act on their own initiative.

Later in the day it was reported that the shah had replied to the Russian consul, and it may be that order can be established out of the present chaos.

"Hotting and street fighting however, still continue and individual royalists are murdered wherever they are discovered."

FOOTMAN ARRESTED

Jewelry of Murdered Banker Found in His Possession.

Paris, July 19.—Jewelry belonging to the murdered banker, Auguste Remy, who was stabbed to death with a desert knife in his home in Rue de la Peppiniere, June 7, was found in the possession of the banker's footman to-day. The footman, who was placed under arrest, denies any connection with the crime. He asserts that he discovered the jewelry and a purse containing a sum of money about a month after the murder, hidden in the cellar, having spent the money, he did not dare disclose the fact that he had the jewelry in his possession.

WALKER IS COMING

In Charge of Egan and Detective Hoffman, He Reaches San Diego.

IS ALMOST A WRECK

Makes No Reply to Pointed Questions Put to Him by Those Seeking Interviews.

San Diego, Cal., July 19.—When the steamer St. Denis arrived from Esenada this morning she had on board William F. Walker, the New Britain, Conn., abductor, who is in custody of State Superintendent of Police Egan of Connecticut, and H. J. Hoffman, a detective.

Walker was rather a pitiable object as he stepped ashore, stooped and haggard. The newspaper men who sought to interview him could get little more than a shake of the head and the remark: "It is a very fine day." He returned no answer to many pointed questions that were put to him. The fugitive and his custodians proceeded at once to the Santa Fe station, whence they soon left for Los Angeles.

MERCURY TAKES SPURT

Temperature Hovers Around 90, With Breeze Only at Shore.

Tired at staying in a comparatively comfortable position for so long, the mercury took a spurt yesterday and hovered around 90 all day. There was very little air in the city and the trolley company profited again. While there was only a moderate crowd at the harbor, the weather was very large, and Momanquin enjoyed the biggest day in his history in point of numbers. All of White's bathing houses were taken and Hoyt's as well, and after that several hundred went to houses at Mansfield's and then walked up along the shore. The tide was high at 3 o'clock and from then until 6 the beach was crowded.

PRESIDENTS INVOLVED.

Panama, July 19.—Central American who are now in Panama, and who are greatly interested in the situation brought about by the revolutionary movement in Honduras, are convinced that the presidents of several of the republics are involved in the affair, the ramifications of which reach far back.

ASTOR GIVES $5,000.

London, July 19.—Waldorf Astor has donated $5,000 to the Children's Fresh Air Fund.

YES, QUADRUPLETS!

Kansas Woman Brings Forth Three Boys and a Girl.

Kansas City, Mo., July 19.—Mrs. Susan Turner, wife of Louis C. Turner, of Argentine, Kansas, today gave birth to quadruplets, three boys and a girl. The girl died a short time after birth, but the boys are alive and apparently healthy. Besides the four children born today seven others have been born to the Turners.

MANUFACTURER SUICIDES.

New York, July 19.—Herman Unger, seventy years of age, a member of the firm of Unger Brothers, silver manufacturers of Newark, N. J., committed suicide to-day by shooting himself with a revolver on the shore of the Raritan river, near his home, one mile from Boundbrook, N. J. Grief over the death of his wife was assigned by his relatives as the reason for the deed. Mrs. Unger died six months ago.

WHITE MOTHS INVADE CITY

A LIMITED ENGAGEMENT

One of the Most Peculiar and Interesting Invasions of Insects Ever Seen Here—Moths Quite Harmful, However.

The biggest invasion of white moths to New Haven in a long time, if not the biggest on record, elyately bore down upon the city last night. Like the army of Senecaarib their hosts arrayed in number and yet they came down on the city without the sound of a hoof beat or a fife. It was the army of the White Moth coming in like the advance guard of a mid-winter blizzard and filling the air around every available light post in the city with flying snowflakes. For the white moths are truly named and if you do not believe the tale and was not out late enough last night to see them arrive take a little peep at them to-day or this evening would be better before they break camp again and behold the whitest specimen of the insect kingdom that ever beelied its way into this town.

How many of them were there? How many are the snowflakes or the raindrops when a real storm, nothing such as we have been treated to this summer will do for comparison, however, and if you can count them fast enough go out and get a census of the millions of these little white wings who came last night to visit us. For that they were millions in number, strong as that expresses it is no exaggeration. Around every electric light pole they gathered with the customary moth and the flame attraction and they had not been more long before they had the poles about as white as newly-driven snow makes it.

The whole thing was of 'be sudden variety. No one prognosticated their appearance as far as there is any record. Neither did they send herald before to announce. But they came and anyone who was about town around midnight last night knew that they were here.

The white wings, or white moths, are apparently a harmless month creature whose only occupation in life is to keep traveling from one light to another until they fall by the wayside and the strange pilgrimage is continued by generations of descendants who may never have heard of New Haven or its electric lights. No; they are not likely to remain with us overlong. They are now on their way from New York state where they have proved quite an attraction. In fact their debut in Harlem was so popular that merchants gained considerable advantage in that town by reason of the number of people who came from places they did not visit to see the famous flame dancers.

The moths are pure white about the size of a small butterfly, and with bead-like eyes about the size of half a black pin's head. They have not announced any itinerary beyond this city yet so no line of march can be presented.

It is believed that the great drought from which this part of the country is suffering is the reason we have the honor of this visit. These white moths are not a thirly bunch and do not even take to the water wagon. They come where there is no liquid food at all. The farmers will hope of course that they preface storm and a good storm, too, but if they are being driven onward by cloudbursts in the rear, they refused to be interviewed on the subject last night.

The last visit of the white moths to this city was in 1888.

RUEF'S THIRD TRIAL

Begins on Wednesday—Has Many Indictments Against Him.

San Francisco, July 19.—Abraham Ruef, who was until two years ago the dominating political power in San Francisco, and who built up the union labor political organization which three times elected as mayor Eugene E. Schmitz, will be placed on trial for the third time next Wednesday for alleged bribery. Ruef is under seventy-eight indictments charging him with bribing fourteen of the eighteen members of the last Schmitz board of supervisors to grant franchises to various public service corporations.

SAW HUSBAND DROWN

President of Malden (Mass.) Common Council Loses Life.

Wells, N. H., July 19.—Walter D. Martin, president of the common council of Malden, Mass., who has been spending the summer with his wife and two children on Hone Island, in Lake Winnepesaukee, was drowned in the lake this noon while rowing in front of his cottage, and within eight of his wife.

Mr. Martin started out in a small boat for a row on the lake, his wife watching him from the piazza of their cottage. When about 50 feet from shore the boat capsized in a sudden squall. Mrs. Martin saw her husband sink and then she collapsed. Her condition to-night was said to be serious.

Police Get One Man Drinking at Congress Avenue Bar.

The sudden descent of Sergeant Marlowa and Patrolmen Landy and Prior of the Howard avenue station, about 8:30 o'clock last night, on Sullivan's saloon at 497 Congress avenue, resulted in one arrest and the obtaining of evidence which it is believed will lead to the successful prosecution of others for whom warrants will be issued to-day. The police took Edward Eagan into custody. They claim that he was standing at the bar drinking in most approved style when they entered and that behind the bar was Sullivan's brother attending to the wants of his customer. No other arrests were made last night.

Patch of Danbury was chairman of the convention. The resolutions included a declaration for an extensive system of public works by the national government; and one against injunctions, the latter especially denouncing William H. Taft, who "had first used this means of over-awing the working people."

An executive committee was named as follows: David Rabinow, Stamford; T. Millaney, Danbury; P. J. Cooney, Bridgeport; John McWhin, Bridgeport; Alex. Milway, Shelton.

BALLOONS ALL LAND

The Chicago Wins Both the Endurance and Distance Prizes.

St. Paul, Minn., July 19.—All the balloons which started from St. Paul yesterday in an effort to surpass the world's distance and endurance records have landed. The Pomern was the last balloon to report. It landed at Warsaw, Minn., at 10:30 o'clock to-day. The Chicago won both endurance and distance prizes.

The Chicago, the largest balloon in the race, owned by C. A. Zoey of Chicago, came down at noon to-day, near Blooming Prairie, Minn., seventy-three miles south of St. Paul.

A. Leo Stevens, director of the race, in explaining the failure of the aeronauts to sail a greater distance, said that the lighting power of the gas was not as great as they had counted on, and that consequently the balloons were unable to carry the amount of ballast necessary for a long flight.

A table of the air line distances covered by the balloons from St. Paul to the places of landing follows: King Edward, 24 miles; United States, 55 miles; America, 58 miles; Chicago, 73 miles; Pomern, 52 miles.

SIX-MASTER ASHORE

Schooner William L. Douglas Hard and Fast.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., July 19.—The six-masted schooner William L. Douglas, Captain McLean, of the Crowl's Transportation company, from Baltimore, bound for Boston, with a cargo of 5,360 tons of coal, is hard and fast ashore in Vineyard Sound on the extreme west end of Lucas shoal in 23 feet of water.

HARBOR DROWNING

Young Whitneyville Lad Swept Off Yacht by Shifting Sail.

Louis Jaenicke, Unable to Swim, Holds Up Friend Until She Is Rescued, Then Sinks.

Swept from his position on the bow of the auxiliary yacht Neptune on which he was one of a party of 17 out for a sail on the sound Louis Jaenicke, 17 years of age, of Anson street, Whitneyville was drowned in the lower harbor just inside the breakwater yesterday afternoon. The party which consisted of a group of young men and women who had been gathered together by two young men who own the Neptune and use it to take parties out for Sunday sails on the sound left City Dock early yesterday forenoon and had spent the greater part of the midday on the sound. The tragedy occurred on the return trip. The yacht had just sailed in through the channel used by the larger boats and New York steamer between the eastern and middle breakwaters and was heading for the dock. Jaenicke and a young woman companion were sitting on the bow when the boat tacked and the jib swung around catching the two on the boom. The boom of the jib struck them and knocked both off the boat and into the water.

There was momentary consternation on the yacht when the accident occurred, then everyone bent to the task

Sorrow That His Work Was Not Completed—Special Prayers and Hymns at Services of the Episcopal Parishes.

That there was great sorrow in all the parishes was certain, and the pastors in their sermons expressed the feelings of the congregation. Almost without exception those preachers who had differed at times from Rev. Mr. Haynes joined in the appreciations.

In the Episcopal churches there was a very unusual observance of the death of Rev. Mr

PASTORS JOIN IN TRIBUTES TO MR. HAYNES

United church among the sister denominations, the entire morning service was given the character of a memorial service. The pastor, Rev. Francis T. Brown, a personal friend of Mr. Haynes spoke with feeling from the text, Hebrews XI, 4, "He being dead yet speaketh." He said in part: "One thought this morning, is in all our hearts. We meet under the shadow of a community bereavement. To some of us, the news of the tragic death of Artemas Haynes has come with the solemnity of a personal sorrow; as one of that number and remembering the wider circle, almost as wide as our city life, that has felt some touch of his generous soul, I can only let the sense of our common loss in his death and our common heritage in his memory frame the message of this hour.

"It is hard to say to ourselves that we shall not look again upon his earnest, winsome face, that we shall not hear his sincere and arresting voice, that we shall not feel the pressure of his frank and brotherly handclasp. Our streets and assemblies and the pulpit of his power shall know him no more. And yet his quickening spirit will abide with us and many a man shall feel that 'He being dead yet speaketh.'

"His silent lips bring to us this morning an appeal to religious reality. The note of reality was in all his ministry. He was impatient of cant and tradition and convention. He sought a first-hand relation to the truth in all of its simple and searching power. He was not a systematic thinker; he was rather a poet. His emphases upon values were not always infallibly placed, but he had genuine and exalting intuitions. He knew God in personal communion, and he was loyal to his heavenly visions. There is, as the church has ever held and undoubtedly ever will hold, a unique mediatorial value in the work of Jesus Christ which our brother's teaching did not adequately reflect; but it was his passion for reality that led him to cling to the dogmatic tendencies of theology have too often robbed our faith. 'If we lose Him as a brother, we shall not feel Him as a Savior' is the needed lesson which the Unitarian protest taught the church and which our lamented brother did his part to make effective. He used to quote with significant approval the words of Phillips Brooks 'I would rather a man should believe that Jesus was not God and live as though he were, than have him believe that Jesus was God and live as though he were not.' After all, the test of faith is in doing as our Lord commanded and to this test our brother summoned himself and others with the ardor of a quenchless idealism."

Mr. Brown here spoke of Mr. Haynes' appeal for the wide sacredness of human life a sacredness that should transfigure in our eyes all man's work and play, the home life and hospitalities and "open-air ministries" of our common days. He continued: "But it is his fearless and loving advocacy of the social ideals of the gospel for which Mr. Haynes will be long remembered. He longed for the coming of the Kingdom of righteousness and peace upon the earth as those that wait for the morning. In himself he exemplified that spirit of brotherhood which he proclaimed. I had more than one frank conversation with him; I felt that he had not done full justice to certain aspects of truth, that he had made certain unfortunate mistakes of judgment, but through all I read his generous and noble heart, his pure and unselfish purpose, and I loved him as a brother. Indeed a more brotherly and magnanimous soul I never knew. Nothing could show a greater triumph of a kind and true heart than his holding as he did the affection of men to whom he often presented unpalatable truth. His handling of the question of private wealth was typical of his dream of the new order. He said, 'We as a people are coming to a recognition of the principle that wealth is a trust, not a possession. This is a judgment which is emerging from the complicated struggle of our modern democracy; and under it private fortunes will some day become the reserve fund of society. The idea of private property as a trust is already molding much of our legislation. Public opinion is crystallizing very rapidly. The day is at hand when he who regards his fortune as his own to be used by himself as he will, when he who refuses to recognize the principle that a fortune is a trust to be administered by him in the interests of the modern democracy, is not far distant when such a man will be held in general contempt. Today he is secretly despised; tomorrow he will be openly ridiculed; the day after he will be obliged to reckon with the people whose soiled hands created every dollar of his wealth, however he may have come into possession of it.' "When we remember the frequent selfishness of individualism in religion as well as in business, the sad cases of greed, heartlessness and unctious trickery which have made some churchmen a byword in the market place, when we find certain respectable citizens treating the brotherhood of man as an iridescent dream, gone glimmering down the ages, who shall wonder that an eager spirit like that now taken from us should have been impatient of programs which did not put in the foreground the saving of society rather than the individual. And yet those who shared with Mr. Haynes the service in Trinity church on the morning of the Fourth of July will remember his earnest warning against the grave danger besetting men who are consumed by dreams of social regeneration; it is the danger of forgetting that 'there can be no golden age with leaden people.' After all our first duty is to ourselves and to those whom we can reach around us one by one and bring under the transforming mastery of Jesus Christ. Such was this young prophet's final message to the city for which he hoped the Fourth of July would mark a social redemption—let them not be put asunder. But in the thought of that silent form yonder beside the fatal lake, in the thought of that near tomorrow which shall pass every busy hand of today, in the thought of the final passing of all which men shall build upon this earth, shall we not remember that we are but children modeling in clay, all the value of our work residing in its discipline for ourselves and in its influence upon our fellows? At the last not in houses and lands, not in laws and states and institutions, but in immortal spirits shall the permanent investments of time be found to have been made; may God give us all grace to make them while it is day before the night cometh when no man can work.

Rev. Mr. Squires. At the Howard Avenue Congregational church the pulpit was occupied by the Rev. Mr. Squires of West Haven who exchanged pulpits with Rev. J. E. Newton for the day. In the prayer at the morning service he paid a tribute to Rev. Mr. Haynes and spoke of the big loss which the death of such a man meant to the church and to the community.

Rev. Mr. Newton. Rev. Mr. Newton at West Haven, also spoke of the death of Mr. Haynes. He paid a high tribute to the character and personal worth of the dead pastor and said that his death was a loss to the community and to all of the communities in which he had ministered. He spoke of the large work Mr. Haynes had accomplished here and in his other pastorates.

Trinity's Resolutions. At the morning service at Trinity Episcopal church Rev. H. H. D. Sterritt announced the death of Rev. Mr. Haynes. He spoke of the loss to the community and of the sadness that such a man should be taken away before his work was finished. The following resolutions have been passed by Trinity church: Vestry Room, Parish House, Parish of Trinity Church in New Haven.

At a special meeting of the rector, wardens and vestrymen of the parish of Trinity church in New Haven held July 19, 1908, it was voted: That the profound sympathy of the vestry and the parish of Trinity church be and is hereby extended to the church and the society of the United church, in the sudden death of its late pastor, the Rev. Artemas J. Haynes, an irreparable loss not alone to them but to this whole community. Also voted: That in loving tribute to the memory of Mr. Haynes Trinity church unite with the other central churches in the rolling of its ball at the time of the funeral Tuesday, July 21, and that a copy of the foregoing resolutions be transmitted to the North church and to the family of the deceased. A true copy of record. Attest: EDWARD C. BEECHER, Clerk of the Vestry.

At Calvary Baptist Church. Rev. Donald Duncan Munro, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church said in the services there: "It is always a calamity when a community is deprived of a messenger of the truth, and a church deprived of an admired and loved pastor. The only remedy is to recall the message which he delivered and put it into practice and to recall the life that backed the message and copy it wherein it approximated that of the Master. 'In the sudden 'off taking' of Mr. Haynes we of the community feel the loss keenly, and extend to the bereaved church and family our deepest sympathy."

Church of the Redeemer. Rev. Dr. Watson L. Phillips spoke very feelingly yesterday morning of the loss of his brother minister at the morning service at the Church of the Redeemer. He spoke of the death of Rev. Mr. Haynes as a public calamity that we cannot understand and characterized Mr. Haynes as a man of large power who had been gaining great influence among all the classes of the people in this city. A man of radical temper but sane in thought with many qualifications for leadership which would undoubtedly have influenced the life of this community to a very considerable degree if he had been spared to complete his ministry here. In closing Dr. Phillips expressed his own and his church's sympathy both for the intimate family of the deceased minister and for his church.

Davenport Church. At Davenport church the pulpit yesterday morning was occupied by the Rev. Charles E. Underwood who is filling the pulpit during the month of July. He referred to the death of Rev. Mr. Haynes as a great loss not only to United church but to all the city churches. He said he was a man who had made a place for himself here as a preacher of righteousness and while all might not agree with his views at all times he had won all hearts by his earnest, honest ministry for righteousness.

WOODRUFF URGED ON ALL SIDES

Republicans of State Tired of Effort to Ram Congressman Lilley Down Their Throats.

MACHINE GOES RUSTILY

The stand taken by The Journal-Courier for the renomination of Governor Rollin S. Woodruff, and the setting aside of Congressman George L. Lilley of Waterbury who is springing after the office, is being commended on all sides and communications to this effect are coming daily into the office of this paper.

The feeling against Mr. Lilley is widespread and is being more and more spoken of as the days go by. Not only in the cities, but in the farming sections there is strong opposition to Mr. Lilley and Mr. Woodruff is becoming more and more openly demanded.

A prominent federal officeholder of New Haven, who is held in respect by the entire community, favors the renomination of Governor Woodruff, and accuses Mr. Lilley for his manner in seeking the office. The communication follows:

To the Editor of The Journal-Courier: It is as true of political work as of public enterprise, that "What is everybody's business is nobody's business." Under our American political system, or laissez faire method of dealing with current politics, few men feel impelled to take an active interest either mentally or physically in the affairs of a political campaign, however important the issues involved.

The men who are personally active in political affairs apparently affiliate with one or the other of the potential aggregations which go to make up what is known in common parlance as "the machine." These men are busy here and there, by day and by night, buzzing in the cars of one another, spinning threads, connecting the machinery at various points, laying pipe, counting noses, fixing things, and modulating the condition of the political elements to suit their ultimate purposes. The people know very little of what is going on. It is sub rosa, private and confidential, but carried on earnestly, continually, systematically, fashioning, strengthening, broadening, cementing, creating "public sentiment," selecting delegates in advance whose votes can be counted on at the right time.

The central figures of these clandestine combinations are the hubs round which the spokes and tires systematically revolve. The machinery moves as one. It is braced and bound together as with bands of iron. The public has neither lot nor part in it, nor knowledge of its intricate workings and composition. But the machine is so contrived as to lead the public on to do its will.

The men who are the hubs of these organizations are professional politicians. By this I mean men who make politics a business for the returns they personally receive therefrom. If they are seeking the governorship, it is because the governorship will bring them, personally, honor, power, credit, and incidentally, pecuniary profit for themselves and their friends.

There are positions to be filled and honors to be conferred, some of which will not be unacceptable to the spokes and tires. But above and beyond, further on, are higher possibilities, United States senatorship, cabinet positions, federal appointments to diplomatic or consular positions, very attractive. The professional politician does not lose sight of these, however great he may be in speech.

The good of the state of Connecticut, the welfare of the people, the development and protection of the general interests of the commonwealth, are not in it with these people. They will pledge their "word of honor" to do "everything within their power" to promote the well-being of the state and the people, because that is expected and every governor says it. But when the time for performance comes, they are keeping their eye on the possibilities of the future for themselves personally.

to George L. Lilley, and asks for the renomination of Governor Woodruff. The communication:

To the Editor of the Journal-Courier: I hope you will keep hammering on the gubernatorial situation. I hope you get encouragement and co-operation from strong and influential sources. I hope that you and other editors of the state may be able to shape and to crystallize a movement that will send Governor Woodruff back to the chief executive's chair, when the time for such action comes.

I believe that quite a lot of us sick-and-tired-of-the-situation people are advancing steadily toward the fighting and firing line. We need marshals for the shattered forces. A goodly number of citizens have been passive partisans, for some years, because we couldn't stomach the repulsive tactics of impudent party leaders. We have voted our tickets, or such portion as were fit to vote. We have kept out of efforts to correct abuses, because abuses seemed to be on the throne. Local trading and bargaining and trifling with the right and privilege of franchise is bad enough, but to think of our beloved commonwealth being subjected year after year to this abominable political chicanery, simply makes the blood of a patriot boil. Now when political manipulators become so bold as to defiantly flaunt their pre-arranged bargains in the face of the voting people, it seems to me it is high time for the people to get together and down this thing. I have scarcely any acquaintance with any of the men talked of for governor, unless it be a newspaper acquaintance. But Governor Woodruff acts and talks like a patriot. He appears to place the people's interests first. Party and self interest second. He is like Roosevelt and Taft and Hughes in this sense. The people of this state who think straight are crying out for such a governor. Are there enough people who care and think about the future honor and integrity of this commonwealth to elect him? Let's find out.

VOTER.

George B. Martin speaks of the popular preference of Mr. Woodruff over Mr. Lilley. In a communication to an evening paper in answer to an editorial entitled "Is It On the Square?" Mr. Martin writes:

In reply to your editorial of last evening, "Is It On the Square?" It can be said unequivocally that it is. Republicans almost universally would prefer Woodruff to Lilley. They know of no reason why Mr. Lilley should be pledged as nominee for governor before the delegates whose duty it is to make a choice have themselves been chosen. It is made doubly ridiculous when the qualifications of the men are considered. Woodruff has made a record as governor and the people know what to expect from him. Lilley has made a record as congressman-at-large and has made a sorry spectacle of himself. Republicans are anxious to have Mr. Taft elected. Why should they deliberately elect the ticket with a man for governor, a very ordinary man, who has shown himself unable to stand for common sense and decent judgment at critical moments? Without going into his disgraceful fiasco at Washington, the question arises: Why should we make fools of ourselves in Connecticut by the suggestion of such a nomination? Let us get together and nominate some man that we shall not be obliged to apologize for, like Woodruff or Lilley or Henney. It is time to wake up in Connecticut and let it be known that we are thinking people and not dumb driven cattle. Ask nine republicans out of ten, who have heard of Lilley, if they want him and they will say, "No." There is nothing "mild" about this sentiment. It may stop short of positive action at the caucus meetings if the people allow the meetings to be packed as usual. If the people express their sentiments there will be no more grandstand plays by Mr. Lilley, either in Washington or Connecticut.

DROPPED COFFEE.
Doctor Gains 20 Pounds on Postum.
A physician of Wash., D. C., says of his coffee experience:
"For years I suffered with periodical headaches which grew more frequent until they became almost constant. So severe were they that sometimes I was almost frantic. I was sallow, constipated, irritable, sleepless; my memory was poor, I trembled and my thoughts were often confused.
"My wife, in her wisdom, believed coffee was responsible for these ills and urged me to drop it. I tried many times to do so, but was its slave.
"Finally Wife bought a package of Postum and persuaded me to try it, but she made it same as ordinary coffee and I was disgusted with the taste. (I make this emphatic because I fear many others have had the same experience.) She was distressed at her failure and we carefully read the directions, made it right, boiled it full 15 minutes after boiling commenced, and with good cream and sugar I liked it—invigorated and seemed to nourish me.
"That was about a year ago. Now I have no headaches, am not sallow, sleeplessness and irritability are gone, my brain clear and my hand steady. I have gained 20 lbs. and feel I am a new man.
"I do not hesitate to give Postum due credit. Of course dropping coffee was the main thing, but I had dropped it before, using chocolate, cocoa and other things to no purpose.
"Postum not only seemed to act as an invigorant, but as an article of nourishment, giving me the needed phosphates and albumens. This is no imaginary tale. It can be substantiated by my wife and her sister, who both changed to Postum and are hearty women of about 70.
"I write this for the information and encouragement of others, and with a feeling of gratitude to the inventor of Postum."

and tenderest sympathy. Mr. Haynes was a man of very decided convictions and of unswerving courage in the promulgation of those convictions. He had a soul that was sensitive to human need and that responded readily and fully in eloquent utterance and practical deed. He was not a "rut" man, but absolutely independent in thought and utterance.

Rev. Stewart Means.
Rev. Stewart Means at the morning service at St. John's church announced the death of Rev. Mr. Haynes and expressed his sympathy for the congregation and the family. He said: "It is a public disaster that such a man should be taken away in the time like this. He was a worker for the best interests of the city, and his loss will be keenly felt."

Rev. Dr. Sneath.
In referring to Mr. Haynes' death, Rev. Dr. Sneath in the Grand Avenue Congregational church yesterday morning said: "Of course, we are all touched by the tragic death of the pastor of the United church, and our hearts go out in sympathy toward the bereaved family and the sorely afflicted church. The one lesson I desire to leave upon your minds in connection with this life is for the young people. Mr. Haynes struggled for an education. He went before the eyes for seven years to provide himself with the means with which to educate himself. He toiled in various ways while at Harvard to aid himself. And while he never received a degree in course, he so fitted himself that he was not only successful in his work, but Yale honored him with the degree of Master of Arts. Many people can succeed if they will, although it means hard work and great sacrifice. This church will always remember the excellent sermon on prayer which he preached at our seventy-fifth anniversary."

Account of the Drowning.
Rev. Mr. Haynes lived for the summer at a camp on the shore of Long Lake, and was finishing a book which was to be published this fall. Friday in his canoe he paddled with Dr. Charles J. Foote of this city, who had been visiting him, to the Littleton railroad station, and then went back across the lake to fish. It is thought that Rev. Mr. Haynes had his gun and anchor overboard, and then reaching for the rope, which was not joined to the canoe, upset. Last night it was stated that he probably became entangled in the seaweed and the anchor rope, and that his strength was not sufficient to break away.

The funeral services will be held at Harwich at 1 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, and burial will take place there. A large number of New Haven people have signified their intention of going, and for the benefit of those who expect to attend, it is stated that by taking the express on the Shore Line leaving this city at 12:05 this noon, Harwich may be reached at Providence at 3:32 this evening. Leaving Harwich at 3:45 on Tuesday after the funeral, New Haven may be reached at about midnight. There are first-class accommodations at Harwich and Harwichport.

Professor Bacon to Officiate.
Professor Benjamin W. Bacon of the Yale Theological school will officiate at the services in Harwich to-morrow. He will be assisted by the Rev. Robert E. Brown, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church in East Grand avenue, who was a close friend of Rev. Mr. Haynes. Rev. T. T. Munger, pastor emeritus, is at Lake Sunapee, N. H., and it is not known yet whether he will be able to attend the services. Rev. Herbert J. Wyckoff, the associate pastor, has wired from Vermont that he will be at the funeral.

The officers of the church and of the society held a joint meeting Saturday evening in the United church chapel and action was taken with reference to the church's being represented at the funeral. A committee was appointed to attend the funeral, as follows: Walter B. Law, Albert S. Holt, Judge Livingston W. Cleveland, Frederick E. Hartshorn, Andrew H. Smith, Talcott H. Russell, John W. Townsend, Professor John W. Wetzel, Clarence W. Bronson, Lewis S. Welch and Sidney P. Butler. From the above list the bearers will be selected. The officers appointed Dr. Charles J. Foote to draft a letter of sympathy in behalf of the church to Mrs. Haynes and her family. A committee appointed to draft resolutions upon Mr. Haynes' death is composed of Justice Simon E. Baldwin, Walter B. Law, Walter O. Whitcomb and Rev. Dr. T. T. Munger. Justice Simon E. Baldwin, Rev. Herbert J. Wyckoff and Judge Livingston W. Cleveland were appointed to arrange for the memorial service which will be held in September.

Taft's Announcement

Bryan Expresses Himself on Statement Regarding Campaign Funds.
Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., July 19.—The statement of W. H. Taft at Hot Springs, Va., yesterday that the republican national committee was to accept any contributions from corporations in his campaign was viewed here with more than ordinary interest. Mr. Bryan gave it his especial attention. In fact, so impressed was he with the announcement that he broke his usual silence and dictated the following statement:

"We welcome him to this advanced ground and bid him to go further and announce that all individual contributions above a reasonable minimum will be made known before the election."
The fact that to-day was Sunday did not deter a number of persons from coming to Fairview. The most important caller was Mayor James Dahlman of Omaha, who was closeted with Mr. Bryan for some time, but neither of them would discuss the subject of the conversation.
Twenty-five years ago there were 2,000 miles of railroad in Canada. To-day there are 23,000, with three transcontinental lines. The total trade of this part of the British empire has grown from $14,000,000 in 1881 to $55,000,000 at present, and the great impulse has come in very recent years.

STRICT CAMP RULES

Colonel Hickey Issues Sanitary Orders for the First Regiment.

THE CHRONICALLY TIRED

Surgeons Will Deal With Them—Regiment at East Haven To-day.

Strict orders regarding the sanitary arrangements at the First Regiment camp at the East Haven rifle range this week have been issued by Colonel John Hickey. The orders include the following:

The following instructions issued upon the recommendation of Major John B. McCook, surgeon, assigned to this command, are published for the information and guidance of all concerned. As soon as practicable after the receipt of this circular, commanders of companies will cause it to be read to their several commands.

There having been much typhoid in and about New Haven in recent years, all water is to be regarded as infected. No soldier will be permitted to drink unboiled water, and obedience to this order is to be compelled. Milk, being a good medium for the growth and increase of typhoid germs, must be regarded as unsafe, all drink and ice cream, save such as sold at the post exchange, is prohibited. Lemonade, soft drinks and beer, if made with infected water, are as dangerous as ordinary water. Men on pass should be particularly warned against possible infection from these sources.

The Arcthus water and the distilled water bottled by the Hygienic Ice company can be looked upon as safe. Only steamed bottled beer should be drunk. No fresh milk, cream, or ice cream, shall be introduced into camp.

No vegetables shall be served which have not been cooked, and only such fruits are to be served as have skins that are removed before eating.

Typhoid and other diseases can be conveyed by flies. Flies thrive in dirty places and any spot harboring large numbers will be looked upon as unclean, and the officer to whose command it falls will be regarded as remiss.

Lime can be obtained of the quartermaster and its judicious use is to be encouraged, but nothing can take the place of scrupulous cleanliness.

There must be no throwing of solid or liquid kitchen refuse on the ground. Men must not throw water from washings on the ground in or about the company streets.

Cooks will be held responsible for their kitchens and their surroundings, and food must not be left unprotected by fly screens. Food as issued is to be carefully inspected and any that is deemed suspicious should be at once reported to the captain and by him to the surgeon.

Sick men are not to be taken to camp. Each case of sickness occurring in a company should be carefully looked into by the commanding officer to insure prompt care of the truly sick and for the proper disposal of the malingering and the chronically tired.

About 125 members of the First Infantry of Hartford, constituting an advance working force to make camp preparations for the 650 members of the Infantry regiment who will arrive in this city to-morrow morning, are at the East Haven rifle range. The boys of the First regiment will practice the same maneuvers as the New Haven militia did at Pine Camp. The First regiment band of Hartford has accompanied the boys and the rifle practice, bivouac work, etc., that will constitute the program for the first day will be changed to-morrow. The advance men who arrived yesterday, spent the day in putting in the tents and making every preparation to receive the men when they arrive to-day. It is expected that the first two companies will arrive between 8 and 10 o'clock this morning and before noon every one of the remaining 650 men will reach this city. In all with the advance guard of 125 men that are at the present time in this city there will be about 750 men. The following are the officers of the First regiment: Colonel John Hickey of Hartford; Major Goodman, Hartford; Major Moran, Hartford; Captain Earl D. Church, Hartford; Lieutenant Baulen, New Britain.

A visit will be made to the camp by Inspector General Colonel Edward Scholz of the Connecticut National Guard.

HILLIS SPEAKS ON DEMOCRACY. London, July 19.—The Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, of Brooklyn, addressed a meeting in the Whitefield tabernacle this afternoon on "Democracy in America." He also preached at the evening service.

MONNATT FOR BRYAN

Former Republican Attorney-General of Ohio to Support Him.

Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., July 19.—Late tonight Frank S. Monnatt, formerly republican attorney general of Ohio, who conducted the prosecutions in that state against the Standard Oil company and later was employed by the Interstate commerce commission to gather material upon which to base the government suits, arrived and held a lengthy conference with Mr. Bryan. Mr. Monnatt announced that it was his purpose to actively support Mr. Bryan in Ohio in the campaign.

Mr. Monnatt said he was authorized by Mr. Bryan to say that because of republican defection in prosecuting the alleged wool combine, whose headquarters, he says, is in Ohio, Mr. Bryan had announced that if elected to the presidency he would at once put all the machinery of the government at work to destroy any combine that might exist.

"It will be his policy," said Mr. Monnatt, "to destroy the wool monopoly that prevents competition as promptly as the courts and himself can do it. The American Woolen company has destroyed so far as the producer is concerned, the entire benefit supposed to inure from the protection on wool."

Mr. Bryan and Mr. Monnatt were agreed that the Sherman anti-trust law as it stands today is sufficient for any anti-trust action necessary.

IS NEARLY LYNCHED

Young New Jersey Man Has Narrow Escape from This Fate.

HAD KIDNAPPED A CHILD

Only the Quick Action of the Police Authorities in Removing Him Prevents Mob Violence.

Glassboro, N. J., July 19.—Charles Hemphill, a young man whose home is in Clayton, near here, narrowly escaped being lynched late last night by excited residents of this vicinity who had been wrought to the point of fury because Hemphill had kidnapped Cora Garton, a seven-year-old child whose home is in Millville, N. J. Only the quick action of the police authorities in secretly removing Hemphill to the Woodbury jail, it is believed, saved his life. Hemphill on Thursday last, joined a Holiness camp meeting here and became, it is said, infatuated with the child. Yesterday when it became known that the Garton girl had been taken away by Hemphill hundreds of persons joined in the search.

Nothing was seen or heard of her until nearly midnight, when Hanley Beckett, a summer cottager at Pilgrim, heard screams and, leaving his home met Hemphill and the child. Hemphill said he and the girl were walking to camp. He then moved off, saying, "I can't do anything with her, so I'll leave her with you." Beckett took the girl to her home and notified the police. Later Hemphill was captured at the Pitman railroad station. Word of the capture was telephoned to Glassboro and men armed with clubs, baseball bats and some carrying ropes, gathered about the jail. Word was sent to Pitman of the temper of the crowd and it was decided to detain Hemphill there. At 2 o'clock this morning he was arraigned before Magistrate Paulin and held in $1,000 bail. During the hearing a large crowd of Pitman residents gathered and threats against Hemphill were made. The physicians say the girl is not seriously injured.

WAGES ARE HIGHER

Government Reports Show That Men Earned More in 1907 Than in 1906.

FOOD WENT UP, TOO

Average Price Higher Than in Any Other Year During Eighteen-Year Period.

Washington, July 19.—The average wages per hour in 1907 were 3.7 per cent higher than in 1906, the regular hours of labor per week were 0.4 per cent lower than in 1906 and the number of employees in the establishments investigated was one per cent greater than in 1906.

These are some of the facts of interest in a statement issued to-day by the bureau of labor as a result of an investigation of the principal wage earning occupations in 4,129 establishments, representing the principal manufacturing and mechanical industries of the country.

Investigations covering the sales of 1,614 dealers in 68 localities show that the retail prices of thirty principal articles of food, weighed according to consumption in representative workingmen's families, were 4.3 per cent higher in 1907 than in 1906. As this advance in retail prices from 1906 to 1907 was greater than the advance in wages per hour, the purchasing power of an hour's wages, as measured by food, was slightly less in 1907 than in 1906, the decrease being one-half of one per cent.

The average hourly wages in 1907 were higher than in any other year of the eighteen-year period from 1890 to 1907, and more than 20 per cent higher than the average in any year from 1890 to 1900. As compared in each case with the average for the ten year period, 1890 to 1900, the average hourly wages in 1907 were 28.8 per cent higher, the number of employees 44.4 per cent greater, and the average hours of labor per week 5.0 per cent lower.

The average price of food in 1907 was higher than in any other year in the 18-year period. The average price of 39 principal articles, weighed according to family consumption of the various articles, was 29.6 per cent higher in 1907 than the average price for the ten years 1890-1899. Compared with the average for the same ten year period the purchasing power of an hour's wages in 1907 was 6.8 per cent greater. The increase in the average hourly wages in 1907 over 1906 was quite general. The greatest increase was in the manufacture of cotton goods where the average wages per hour in 1907 were 12.6 per cent higher than in 1906.

Of the 39 articles of food, 29 were higher in price in 1907 than in 1906. The articles which showed the greatest advance in price were flour, 4.9 per cent; butter 5.0 per cent; evaporated apples 7.8 per cent; milk 7.3 per cent; corn meal 6.8 per cent; cheese 4.7 per cent; and potatoes 5.4 per cent. The only article which showed a decrease was tea, the decrease being 0.2 per cent.

AMERICAN SHIPS TO THE ANTIPODES

Achievements on Lonely South Atlantic Will Be Revived in Cruise of United States Battleships.

ROUTE OF THE FLEET

Great Preparations Made to Welcome Officers and Sailors at New Zealand—Tommy Burns Again.

Melbourne, Australia, July 20.—The Stars and Stripes have crossed sights and achievements in by-gone years on that wide and lonely ocean, the South Pacific, which will be really revived in the general mind by the cruise to the Antipodes of the American battleship fleet. American ships are growing more and more infrequent in the southern ocean, but something of the old nautical prestige remains and this decadent renown the big men of war will doubtless re-animate.

The fleet will practically follow the regular mail route from Honolulu to Sydney. But Pago Pago, the coaling station in the Samoan group, which it is popularly said in Australia owes its American ownership particularly to the state craft of John Hay, during the negotiations which ended in the division of the archipelago between Germany and the United States in 1899, will not be touched at by the battleships, but only by some of the fleet auxiliaries.

From Honolulu to Auckland the distance is 3,750 miles; from Auckland to Sydney, N. S. W., across the Tasman sea, the distance is 1,381 miles; from Sydney to this city, the metropolitan of Victoria, through Bass strait, it is 567 miles, and from Melbourne to Albany, West Australia, across the Great Australian Bight, it is 1,340 miles. Admiral Sperry's command is due at Auckland on August 10 and is to spend four days with the New Zealanders; it is due at Sydney August 20, where it will stay a week; on August 28 it will reach here for another week's sojourn and on September 5 it will leave for Manila stopping at Albany only long enough to coal. On July 10 Vice Admiral Sir Richard Poore, commander-in-chief of the Australian station, will leave Sydney for Suva, capital of the Fiji islands, which lie close to the route of the Americans, and thence he will intercept them with two British warships and officially greet them prior to their reaching New Zealand. At Auckland the Americans will be further welcomed by the flagship of the Australian squadron, the armored cruiser Powerful.

The New Zealanders have made elaborate preparations for entertaining the Americans. Auckland will be decorated with flags from every city in the dominion and illuminated at night. The parliament sitting at the capital, Wellington, will adjourn for ten days so the members can participate in the festivities. The government has arranged for the employment of 15,000 officers and sailors including the crews of the three British warships. Six hundred and fifty American and British officers will be guests at an official banquet and there will be a state ball which will be attended by upwards of 3,000 persons. A beautiful casket will be presented to Admiral Sperry containing addresses to himself and President Roosevelt. A conspicuous part of the entertainment will be the jaunt of the American officers to Rotorua, in the heart of the famous thermal lake region of New Zealand. There scores of Maoris, New Zealand's big strapping natives will go through their rhythmic and graceful dances for the visitors.

At Auckland Admiral Sperry will meet Thomas T. Ewing, minister of defense of the Australian commonwealth, who will consult with him about the commonwealth's reception of the fleet. Australians will not let the New Zealanders outvie them in the warmth or variety of their welcome of the Americans and Sydney and Melbourne also old-time rivals will strive to surpass each other as hosts.

Alfred Deakin, premier of the commonwealth, members of the federal cabinet and representatives of all parties in the federal parliament make up the federal committee of arrangements. The program at Sydney includes a federal and state reception to Admiral Sperry and his brother officers; a big review at centennial park in which Australian troops and British blue jackets and probably American sailors will take part; special excursions and entertainments for the enlisted men of the fleet; a dinner to the fleet's senior officers by Governor Carmichael, a dinner at parliament house by the commonwealth government and a reception to the officers by the state government. There will be 7,000 guests at this last which will be held in the exhibition building. There will, of course, be varied entertainments for the American sailors.

At the noted Lismington race course, where 75,000 people are wont to gather on Melbourne Cup day, a special meet will be held, and the card will carry such events as the Stars and Stripes handicap, the Roosevelt handicap, and in honor of the visitors.

Another sporting event to mark the week will be the fight between "Tommy" Burns, the American heavyweight, and Lang, Australia's best man in the same class. Burns will also fight "Bill" Burns, in Australia. Three fights in all for Burns during the fleet's stay in Australian waters have been arranged by an Australian syndicate, which has guaranteed the American pugilist $25,000. Burns leaves England for Australia July 7.

COLD FIGURES SHOW

Effective Work of Information Bureau of Immigration.

Washington, July 19.—Cold figures show in a striking manner the effective work of the division of information of the bureau of immigration and naturalization in diverting hundreds of poor aliens from the crowded centers to fertile centers and other places where there is a big demand for that class of labor.

The method employed is to send out cards to all persons unable to secure necessary help, and whatever kind of help is needed is indicated by the replies on the return postal cards.

About nine hundred thousands cards have been scattered broadcast over the country and it is estimated that altogether about four million cards will be sent out in the near future. From the first of February last to the close of June nearly one thousand aliens and others had been sent in response to applications to various parts of the country. The employment secured was principally farm work. The distribution among New England states was: Connecticut 7, Massachusetts 2, Vermont 227.

STRANGE MURDER CASE DEVELOPS

Bullet Wounds Found in Woman's Body Cut in Twain by a Passing Train.

NEPHEW UNDER SUSPICION

Daughter, Also Wounded, Drags Herself to Farmhouse—Understanding That She Was to Wed Cousin.

New York, July 19.—A strange murder case developed today when officials of Hackensack, N. J., examining the body of Mrs. Otella Eberhard, which was found early today lying on the tracks of the New York, Susquehanna and Western railroad near Coalberg, N. J., discovered bullet wounds. A passing train had cut the body in two. Otella Eberhard, a daughter of the dead woman, was wounded three times by bullets and dragged herself a mile to an isolated farm house.

The police are hunting for August Eberhard, a nephew of the murdered woman, believing that he may know something of the crime. Mrs. Eberhard and her daughter arrived from Vienna last Thursday on the invitation of August Eberhard, her nephew. The Eberhard girl states that there was an understanding that August was to marry her. Yesterday Miss Eberhard says she and her mother were invited by August to go to Rochelle Park, in New Jersey, and that they wandered around there until evening. At the Coalberg Coal pockets the girl says she saw a flash between two cars and heard a revolver shot, followed by a series of shots. She started to run and felt that she was hit. Her cousin, she says, ran up to her and urged her to hurry away. After running with her a few steps he turned back. Then she states, she heard more pistol shots.

Miss Eberhard says her mother had $3,000 in United States currency and $300 in German notes when they left for their excursion. The $2,500 was missing when the body was found. The German money was untouched. The shooting was heard by John Platt, a farmer, whose land is near the coal pockets. He said he noticed two well dressed young men hanging around the coal pockets about 7 o'clock in the evening.

Young Eberhard had been working in Manhattan but left a week ago and had been seen at his place of employment but once since, on Friday, when he made a casual call. The police say that Eberhard, too, may have been murdered, and his body disposed of. Meanwhile, however, they are making every effort to locate him if he is alive.

Consciousness left her then. She had been struck three times by bullets, one of which, however, caused serious wounds. She saw her mother fall, she says, when the shots were fired. Recovering consciousness shortly afterwards, she found her way to a farm house whose inmates bound up her wounds and escorted her into Hackensack to-day. By that time the coroner was working on her mother's case.

The wounded girl was taken to the police station, where her story threw light on several phases of the affair. Mrs. Eberhard was found to have been shot over the heart. This wound was probably fatal. A second bullet wound under her chin was inflicted, the authorities think, after she had fallen on the track. A train afterward cut her body in two.

The prices range from 28 to 42 cents per pound and the aim is to obtain a brand of tobacco best adapted for the use of sailors.

CANADIAN PROGRESS

Increase in Imports for the Year Runs Into Big Figures.

U. S. CAPITAL INVESTED

Advance Cost of Living Will Result in Raise for Civil Service Employees.

Washington, July 19.—Canadian progress is outlined in the country and it is estimated that altogether about four million cards will be sent out in the near future. From the first of February last to the close of June nearly one thousand aliens and others had been sent in response to applications to various parts of the country. The employment secured was principally farm work. The distribution among New England states was: Connecticut 7, Massachusetts 2, Vermont 227.

The total trade for the calendar year of 1907, according to Canadian statistics, was $646,150,000, of which $372,825,000 were imports and $273,325,000 exports. The increase in imports over the previous year was $52,758,000 and in exports $2,849,000. The United States exported to Canada in the calendar year goods to the value of $222,824,000, which was an increase of $75,455,000 over the previous year. This increase was maintained in the face of the preferential tariff which gives the United Kingdom an advantage of about 30 per cent in the customs duties. The imports from the United Kingdom were $96,849,000, an increase of $19,204,000 over the previous year. Exports to the United Kingdom decreased $8,458,000.

Capital from the United States has been invested in Canada in 150 important industries since 1897. The immigration from the United States since 1907, was $58,183,000, an increase of $4,132,000 over 1906. The wheat crop now averages approximately 100,000,000 bushels annually.

In 1907, 1,500 miles of railway were constructed and the total mileage in operation was a little short of 58,000. Substantially all the importations of electrical apparatus are from the United States, but the United States only supplies 12 per cent of the textile supplies. The importation of woolen goods from the United Kingdom increased from $10,000,000 in 1906 to $11,000,000 in 1907. Coincidentally the number of Canadian woolen mills declined from 157 to 103. As an illustration of the increased cost of living, it is said that the royal commission has recommended an increase for the civil service employees of 12 1/2 to 15 per cent in eastern Canada, and 20 to 25 per cent in western Canada.

QUEBEC ALL AGOG

Quaint Old City Excited Over the Coming of the Prince of Wales.

OTHER NOTABLES THERE

Lords and Dukes Will Be on Hand to Celebrate Three Hundredth Anniversary of Founding.

Quebec, Que., July 19.—This quaint old city is in a flutter of anticipation over the arrival of H. R. H., the prince of Wales, who will sail into the harbor next Wednesday, aboard the new British battleship, the Indomitable, to inaugurate the 303rd anniversary of the founding of Quebec, by the French navigator, Champlain.

The coming of the future king of England is a significant event in which all Canada is deeply interested, for aside from the pageantry of a royal visit, it is a notable expression of the strong bonds now existing between the imperial government and its American colony.

Great masses of troops are being assembled here to do honor to the future monarch and to take part in the champagne exercises. The harbor already presents a stirring naval spectacle, with the British battleships Exmouth, Albemarle, Russell and Duncan, and the cruisers Venus and Arrogant, the French battleships Leon Gambetta and Admiral Aube, which will soon be joined by the United States battleship New Hampshire and later by the Prince of Wales squadron, the Indomitable, Minotaur, and other ships, the whole presenting an assemblage of the latest Dreadnaught types of three foremost naval nations.

Although the founding of Quebec is the primary purpose of the celebration, the coming of the prince of Wales, field Marshal Lord Roberts, the duke of Norfolk, and many other notable personages, is proving of far greater interest than the historical exercises. The prince was in Canada before, when a young naval officer, commanding the gunboat Thrush. But this is his first visit since he reached his exalted rank of prince of Wales and future king. During his earlier visits he was most simple and democratic in his habits, strolling about the streets of Halifax and Quebec and mingling with the groups at the officers' clubs. But his official station now surrounds him with all the pomp of the royal family and he comes here with a lengthy retinue of titled attendants and all the splendor of a future king. He will be quartered in the Citadel, a grim old fortress perched 400 feet above the St. Lawrence. It is called by courtesy the Gibraltar of America, and outwardly its massive walls still present a formidable appearance. But its antiquated guns and equipment are no longer a reliance of defense and more modern batteries, screened on the opposite shore, guard the entrance to the St. Lawrence.

The Citadel is surrounded by old time boats and bastions, in the midst of which the governor general's residence will be the royal establishment during the prince's stay. The quarters of his highness have been elaborately prepared with comfort and elegance within, and with gardens and promenades without, commanding a superb view of the old city and harbor lying hundreds of feet below. From the king's bastion can be seen a panoramic view of the warships of England, France and America lying abreast of the prince's quarters; the streets and squares of the city crowded with strangers and gay with flags and triumphal arches; the historic plains of Abraham and other camping grounds dotted with the tent of 10,000 troops and as many more civilian campers and dimly in the distance the Laurentian mountains and the towering peak of Cape Tourment.

Lord Roberts is also quartered at the Citadel. The grizzled old hero of Kipling's ballads and South African campaigns is already the idol of the assembled soldiery. Many of them served under him in the Boer war and he is quick to pick out and welcome his old comrades in arms. He has visited the monument erected here to the Canadians who fell in South Africa. The presence of that fine body of picked men, the North-western mounted police and the cavalry, artillery and foot from all parts of Canada, brings together again many members of the Strathcona Horse and other bodies which followed Roberts to Pretoria. Lord Strathcona in person will be here next week, coming from London where he is Canadian high commissioner.

Vice President Fairbanks, who is to represent the United States government is expected to arrive next Tuesday, in time to be present at the welcome to the Prince of Wales. The vice president is to be quartered at Spencerwood, a beautiful wooded estate on which is the official residence of the lieutenant governor of Quebec. The American battleship New Hampshire is now down the St. Lawrence, the understanding here being that she may not come up to the city until Tuesday, in which case she will probably have an opportunity to extend the first salute of welcome to the Indomitable, bearing the prince.

The anchorage of the New Hampshire is just off the Citadel, between the British and French warships, thus offering an opportunity to compare the latest type of ships of these three first naval powers.

The French ships are low and squat, with fierce fighting tops and two low stacks forward and two aft. The British ships look ungainly and their dull slate color does not give them a smart appearance. One of them, the Venus, ran amuck, as she came to her anchorage, crossing the bows of the flagship by a hair's breadth and then slamming her stern into the bow of another battleship. When the Indomitable and New Hampshire arrive together they will give naval experts an opportunity to study the latest products of British and American naval architecture.

The Indomitable has eight 12-inch guns in four turrets which swing 'round about, thus massing a broadside of eight big guns and realizing the "all big gun" ship.

Among the other notable figures gathered here are the representatives and lineal descendants of Wolfe and Montcalm, the heroes of the battle on the Plains of Abraham. The former is represented by George Wolfe, a retired English gentleman of means, and the latter by the young Count de Montcalm. The two have met and both have visited the battlefield on which the exploits and deaths of their ancestors have given a stirring pace to history. The French warships have also brought an official embassy headed by N. Herbette, councillor of state, and including the mayor of Brouage, France, the birthplace of Champlain.

The formal opening of the week's exercises began to-day with a monster parade of the young French Canadians, who assembled at the foot of Champlain's monument, heaping it with flowers and singing hymns in his praise. The gathering was suggestive of the status of these young French Canadians. They are a sturdy lot. They are about holding their own in population against the Anglo-Saxon element. They are a powerful and almost dominant factor in eastern Canada, and they tenaciously cling to the French language and customs.

Earlier in the day Lord Roberts, accompanied by Earl Grey, the governor general, attended the Anglican cathedral, while a special service was being given at a Catholic basilica in honor of the Duke of Norfolk, head of the English, Catholic, and the officers and crews of the French warships.

The scene from Dufferin terrace to-night is one of striking beauty, with the feet of warships dimly outlined below, their searchlights flashing and the lights of Lewis and the shore towns sparkling in the distance, while great crowds surge about the kiosks and hand stands to hear the concerts during the week's festivities.

of saving the two in the water. Although he could not swim Jaenicke bravely worked for the rescue of the girl who had been swept off with him and he succeeded in holding her up so that she was able to grasp the side of the yacht and be pulled aboard. Jaenicke could not swim however, and the last seen of him was his hand with which he had helped the girl stay up as it disappeared into the depths following her rescue. The party attempted to save the lad and even put out a small boat which hung about the spot for some time before the hope of his coming up again was abandoned. Then the party put in to Lighthouse Point a detected and unhappy pleasure throng.

At the Point two of the young men in the boat disembarked. They were Robert Egan of 425 Columbus avenue and Homer Beal of 299 Dixwell avenue. They found Supernumerary Officer White who was on special duty at the shore and told him the news of the drowning. He notified the Grand avenue police station.

The remainder of the party in the yacht put up the harbor and arrived at City Dock where excited and almost entirely unnerved they disembarked. Most of the party accompanied the man who was captaining the boat and who is said to be a half owner of it, by the name of Maubas, to the home of the drowned lad's parents in Whitteville to bear the sad tidings to them.

Attempts were made from the time of the accident until late into the evening to locate the body but this was not done last night. The boy went down in the deep channel between the breakwaters and it will be a very difficult task it is believed to obtain the body until it comes to the surface itself. Dredging was resorted to and members of the Naval Reserve assisted in the search to recover the body.

The Neptune is an auxiliary yacht about 28 feet in length and of good and commodious appointments. It has a fair sized cabin and a boating man who saw the boat when it put in to the City dock did not think that it had been at all crowded holding the party which had been taken out. The yacht belongs to two young men who work at Winchester's factory and who use the yacht to take pleasure parties out for sails every Sunday. One of the young men was in charge of the boat yesterday afternoon and he was nearly prostrated by the tragedy.

In a well proportioned man the distance between the tips of the middle fingers when the arms are stretched out laterally should be equal to the length of his body.

AGED WOMAN DEAD

Mrs. Humiston, Centenarian, Had Faculties Until the End.

(Special to the Journal-Courier.)
Cheshire, July 19.—Mrs. Fannie Humiston, the oldest resident of the town and one of the oldest in the state, died here to-day. She was born in Cheshire 161 years ago this coming August and had lived there all her life. Up to one week ago she had had possession of all her faculties, but in the past few days she had been gradually losing her mind.

Years ago Mrs. Humiston was an active church worker, and after the death of her children the Congregational church cared for her, providing her with a housekeeper, Mrs. James Reynolds. She is survived by a grandson, Albert Brooks, of New Jersey. Her children, two daughters and a son, died some years ago. A son-in-law, Darius Stebbins, lives at the Masonic home in Wallingford.

The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and burial will be in the Cheshire cemetery.

THE LILLEY CANDIDACY.

It is at least refreshing to find some of the newspapers of the state at last willing to take notice of the rising tide of opposition to the proposed nomination of Congressman Lilley, though abuse of the Journal-Courier is scarcely an effective way of bearing Lilley wares to the market. It would be more helpful if some of our ever esteemed contemporaries would tell their readers why Mr. Lilley should be made governor, if that is possible, and why the people should be asked to ratify a bargain made more than a year and a half ago at the deliberate sacrifice of a man in office, who has kept the faith and has work yet to do?

The Waterbury American tells its readers that the conduct of the Journal-Courier is "irritating and unfair enough to blind all the republicans of Mr. Lilley's home together in his behalf, and to drive even the lukewarm and the unfriendly into his band wagon." We shall expect at once to read in the columns of the excellent American a list of the business and professional men of Waterbury, who believe that Mr. Lilley should be the candidate of his party for governor this fall, or at any other time. The Journal-Courier is laboring under no delusion at all as to the opinion of the representative men of Waterbury as yet only privately expressed. Whether later it will find public expression, or be reserved for adverse application at the polls we do not know. We do feel confident that the American will never print such a list as we suggest. It would have as hard a time as the Register will have in demonstrating that the demand for Woodruff is a sly movement to land Lake. It was this same Register, which chided "the Yale clique" for advancing what it then held to be a doubtfully planned candidacy of Mr. Taft, a gentleman vociferously today in the good graces of that newspaper.

The Hartford correspondent of the Springfield Republican is another who labors under no delusion as to the popularity of Governor Woodruff and the undesirability of Congressman Lilley. He asserts that in his judgment, which is based as ours is upon the speech of men, the people would nominate Woodruff for a second term if they knew how to beat the politicians at their own game, which is not an easy thing to do. Says he: "The whole situation is a reflection on the political machinery of the state. It lends itself readily to the purposes of political schemers and it hampers enormously the honest expression of public opinion. A good primary election law would remove much of the difficulty."

It is the merest hypocrisy to attempt to confuse the issue raised by the Lilley candidacy by wondering if the Woodruff movement is a Lake movement in disguise. So far as either Mr. Woodruff or Mr. Lake is concerned both could be eliminated without disturbing in the slightest degree the demonstrated unfitness of Mr. Lilley for the office of governor. That is the main question at issue, which is made more conspicuous by the demonstrated fitness of Governor Woodruff and the probable superiority of Mr. Lake as a candidate. There is nothing personal in the uprising against Lilley. He is alone responsible for that. His lamentable experience at Washington last winter, which seriously humiliated the state of Connecticut and exposed him as a dangerous man to be entrusted with political power, is reason enough to save the state against his threatened candidacy. If, however, in the opinion of his friends he is entitled to a vindication from the people of Connecticut, he should seek it through another candidacy for congress and not through a movement to drive into private life men who are in every conceivable way his superiors as faithful servants of the people.

The candidacy of Mr. Lilley under the circumstances would not stand a moment under a system of caucusing which gave the people the chance to freely express their feeling. It would not under those conditions stand a minute upright in any of the social clubs of Waterbury, or business offices. And no one but Mr. Lilley is to blame. To swallow him whole because the machine dictates it preconceives a better stomach than many New Haven republicans have. Connecticut is entitled to as much consideration as Mr. Lilley.

CAMPAIGN METHODS.

The Democrats undoubtedly had considerable of an advantage in having the "last fling" in the convention line. With a complete record of the Republican platform spread out before them, they could set to work to checkmate what had been created and done, rather than create or do themselves. Yet that there are distinct advantages in having a party convention out of the way, the platform selected, the national committee officers chosen, and the active campaign started before the rival party has scarce begun its fight, is today even more evident. Where the Democrats are "all at sea" as to who will be their campaign manager and treasurer and where they have not made the many necessary and important decisions as to the methods of attack to be adopted, the Republicans, under the able leadership of their nominee and Mr. Hitchcock, have already secured a very material and valuable head start.

It is quite possible, even at this early date, to get a valuable bird's-eye view of what campaigning methods the Republicans will determine upon. First reports had it that President Roosevelt was planning to take to the stump for Mr. Taft. Such news would have aroused far more protest had it not borne on its face the earmarks of inaccuracy. The spectacle of the chief executive of the land, leaving his business at the White House or at Oyster Bay, as the case might be, to go campaigning for either party would not be a pleasant or an agreeable one; and, in view of the many uncalculated newspaper insinuations that Mr. Taft is the President's personally chosen successor, it is probable that such speech-making by the President would tend to fix that feeling more firmly. The President will not even consent to deliver campaign speeches into a phonograph, in spite of the continued urging of many.

Mr. Hitchcock is planning, it is said, to open the active campaign in the far west, which, by general consent, is taken to be the district where Mr. Taft is weakest. The manager will make a good move if he does that. Next week Mr. Hitchcock is to hold an important conference with the Republican leaders of the states west of the Missouri and will then plan an extended campaign right in the very district that Mr. Bryan is counting on as his own. Aside from the New York headquarters, which will be opened about the first of next month, Mr. Hitchcock is planning to open subsidiary headquarters in Chicago and Colorado Springs—an excellent idea.

He is evidently a firm believer in "Johnny-on-the-spot" campaigning. With immediate and personal access to the inside facts of the campaign methods used by Secretary Cortelyou, who, as Mr. Roosevelt's manager, obtained for him the largest majority on record, Mr. Hitchcock has a distinct advantage. Mr. Cortelyou used many new methods and they worked well. Following out his ideas, Mr. Hitchcock is said to be planning a "literary campaign" for Mr. Taft, a campaign of newspaper and magazine publicity, and of instruction rather than one of red fire, marching clubs and wagon-tail oratory. It will be a campaign of instruction. The reasons why voters should cast their ballots for the Republican candidate will be set forth in the high-class magazines and newspapers of the country in permanent form, where they can be repeatedly read and referred to. It is an excellent plan and does Mr. Hitchcock credit for adopting it and Mr. Taft credit for favoring Mr. Hitchcock as his manager.

CORPORATION CONTRIBUTIONS.

The country has become so used to the "merry-go-round" methods of formulating new laws, and then of exercising every faculty until some legal way is found to operate in spite of them, that one unconsciously looks for a possible means by which those corporations that wish to avoid the recent congressional act that makes it illegal for them to contribute to political campaign funds may do so. Why Mr. Bryan and Mr. Taft should feel it necessary to announce that neither they nor their party will accept contributions from corporations under any conditions, is not understood in view of the recent law on the subject. The latter makes any corporation that contributes to campaign funds liable to a $5,000 fine and every official of any corporation, who consents to such a contribution, liable to a fine of $1,000 and a year's imprisonment. Even still the feeling lurks in the public mind that, if the political battle waxes hot, those corporations that are most intimately concerned will find a way, perhaps, of sending their contributions in such manner that they may be credited to others in the public accounting, but yet so that the candidates themselves will know who is aiding them, if need be.

Whether that will be done, time will show. A writer to the Evening Post, who appears to be well posted on his subject, says: "There will be publicity, but the kind that will let the public have a 'look in' cannot be expected this year." Continuing, he says: "All manufacturers of products protected by the Dingley act will contribute indirectly to the republican campaign fund. They will re-employ the idle men. The resumption of work on the part of the United States Steel corporation has the same object in view. Railroads will add new hands on the payroll in view not only to summer traffic, but also after the season—to election day. Publicity the cry is too late."

It cannot well be denied that the resumption of work at the manufacturing plants, the re-employment of men and the re-establishment of prosperity upon the eve of election day, would mean much to the republican party, seeking, as it will be, to continue its administration in the White House. In a sense, then, it is possible for corporations in this way to contribute materially to the republican campaign without violating the federal law of 1907 making it incumbent upon the republican managers to make a public accounting of what they have done. Yet it need not be forgotten that the return of prosperity would mean much to the whole country, regardless of party affiliations. If the democrats should be successful in the fall, it would be to their advantage, could they begin their labors with the country on the "high road" again. Substantial proof has been offered at times of former presidential campaigns to show that corporations have contributed funds to both the big parties. This year the corporations may legally aid both parties and the country at large by using their every effort toward the re-establishment of prosperous times.

THE THIRD PARTY FOLLY.

The verbose cablegram of Mr. Hearst to Mr. Bryan has, as might be expected, caused little surprise. In spite of the sweet assurances of friendliness, published by Mr. Bryan in his Commoner shortly before the democratic convention, and the urgent message of Samuel Gompers that called upon Mr. Hearst not to put a third ticket in the field since it would not only tend to make Mr. Taft's prospects the brighter by drawing heavily on the democratic vote, Mr. Hearst cables back that he has no intention of amalgamating his interests with the democratic party. He has lost faith in it and no longer can trust the sincerity or even the integrity of its leader, he says.

How Mr. Bryan or Mr. Gompers could have expected a reply in another vein is not clear. Mr. Hearst has, or thinks he has, good grounds for opposing their party. In 1904 he was a candidate for the democratic nomination for president. Mr. Bryan opposed him at every turn then. In 1905 came the McClellan-Hearst fight for mayor of New York and Mr. Hearst has not got it through his head until this day that Mr. McClellan could have been elected legally. Mr. McClellan was running on the democratic ticket. The New York state fight over the election of a governor in 1906 did not heal matters. As the Springfield Republican says, speaking of Mr. Bryan and Mr. Gompers: "The persistence with which Mr. Hearst is invited to turn to the fold is surprising. They cannot know the man. So far as he is personally concerned, there are too many old grudges and hatreds left over from his experience as a democratic nominee to permit Mr. Hearst to make even Mr. Gompers happy."

And so there is sure to be the third ticket—that of the Independence league. And what will be the result. The fact that the independents had but twenty-two persons present exclusive of the band, at their state convention held in this city Saturday, need be taken as no criterion of the strength of the party. True it is they may probably not carry a single state, but that they will make inroads on the Taft vote some and on the Bryan ticket to a far greater degree, is undeniable. Quite generally where Mr. Bryan will be weakest, Mr. Hearst will be strong. In New York, for instance, this will be the case. There last fall the independence party polled 120,000 votes on a separate ticket. In Massachusetts the party tallied a vote of 75,000. It is perfectly apparent that Mr. Hearst's newspapers have a great control over the masses—enough, indeed, to prove a serious factor in the running. The New York Tribune freely acknowledges the party even more powerful than the populists and the socialists.

The folly of this third ticket is apparent. Mr. Hearst cannot hope for success. In the west his strength is infinitesimal. Even in Chicago, where there is a Hearst paper, and in California, which was his first home and where his family is an important one, this is the case. Mr. Hearst is at heart a democrat. It had been far better for him to put his efforts toward bettering that party, which he says has fallen to such depths. Now his whole scheme is taken by the public as a gigantic and audacious bit of yellow newspaper advertising of the most insincere kind.

ARTEMES J. HAYNES.

The loss involved in the death of a man of Mr. Haynes' character cannot be estimated from an individual point of view. He was more than a man of character; he was an uplifting force in the communities in which at different times he resided. When such a force is silenced, the community loses something not easily replaced. The unselfish search for truth for the love of truth is not so inherent in human nature that the occasional investigator of the Haynes type can be treated either lightly in an estimate one may feel moved to make, or emotionally because of the sense of personal loss. Due regard must be had for the spiritual power of the crippled force.

Mr. Haynes had not been long a resident of New Haven but he had lived here long enough to impress himself upon the community in an extraordinary way. Those who did not come under his ministrations, those who knew him only as he was revealed through the conventional sources of publicity, and even those who thus knowing him at a distance worshipped in another church, or did not worship at all, felt instinctively that there stood a man, who had convictions and the courage of them, a man who yearned eagerly for the truth that he might enjoy the knowledge of it and interpret it for the good of others. No one had to give him this character and certificate. No seat of learning had raised him to an honorary state in recognition of his achievements and longings. There was no occasion for such conventional and more or less arbitrary approval. There was that about the man that naturally brought him near to the understanding of the people, and unconsciously convinced them that he was in the fight of life for their betterment. It was this quality, which was neither learned in the university nor acquired in the school of life, but which was a part of his very nature, if not his nature itself, which gave him an understanding of the struggles and hopes of the masses of people and them an assurance of his sincerity.

Because he possessed those qualifications in a high degree of efficiency we again refer to him as a force in the life of New Haven, a power which was doing New Haven an immense amount of good at the moment of his tragic death. Reference has been made to the fact that he was not in the best of health. His was not the temperament which made excellent health possible. Had he lived to a ripe old age he would have been physically an under-reinforced man. He was a man of deep feelings. Men of deep feelings give up more in the search for knowledge than nature with all of her generosity can supply. To Mr. Haynes the struggle of the masses of the people to better themselves was something definite and real, and he shared with them in the distress of failure, and literally mourned when through mistaken leadership they were made to unduly suffer. We have never known a man more unselfishly devoted to the welfare of the people, nor one who would have served them more sacrificially had it been his lot to enlist among the wage earners in shop, mill and factory. Little heed is given to the men of Mr. Haynes' stamp, who are to be found here and there throughout the country in all too small numbers, but who represent the leaven which ripens the lump and hold in check the sordid forces which care nothing for the rights of man and seek only the privileges of the dollar.

We profess to no understanding of the mystery involved in the taking off of a man who was doing such a splendid work in life, beyond the powerful reformation it gives the fact that we are all subject to the laws of life and no one is immune. We may seek in various ways, some magnificent, some less altruistic and some supremely selfish, to bend those laws to our uses but the power is not ours. Nothing interferes with their sure operation, not even the need the children of God have for men of the Haynes type. They can, however, be thankful that for the short while he had his home among them.

The appearance of the great battleship fleet at the Hawaiian Islands had its lights and shadows. The pathetic side of the news that the wretched lepers of Molokai Island were the first to sight the boats, must be apparent to every reader. The remarks that have been passed relative to the establishment of a more important naval station at Honolulu than the present one, give some little insight of the importance the islands will undoubtedly hold some day as a naval basis in the Pacific.

What it means to the poor of the city, during these excessively hot nights, to be allowed to sleep on the ground in the green and in other of the public breathing-spaces of the city, may not be realized. How sleepless must be the nights in the ill-ventilated tenements, where they live, cannot be imagined by those who have never been called upon to endure them. Not only should they be allowed to sleep in these places, but their peace and quiet should be guarded by the proper authorities.

It has been a long time coming but the charge has arrived. The Journal-Courier is in the pay of the Lake forces. Lacking the vocabulary of an esteemed person whom we have in mind, we will rest patient under the attack, except to say that it is thoroughly characteristic of a political movement which seeks to raise to the greatest state office within the gift of the people a man notoriously unfit for it.

We are taking pride in our sporting "dope." Not long ago we suggested that their Honors, Mayor Hooker of Hartford and Mayor Martin of New Haven, face each other in the pitcher's box in the coming baseball game between the two sets of city fathers. Now rumor has it that they are going to do just that.

"Walker will be turned over to the United States authorities to-morrow" run the latest reports from Mexico as to the New Britain embezzler. To-morrow" ever remains the day of our dreams, where are bulled castles of air. One of the latter perils now in being that of a courtroom interior in Hartford, where is arraigned William F. Walker.

On the twelfth of August next the Hawaiian Islands will celebrate the tenth anniversary of the transfer of control to this country and of the raising of the first American flag over the islands.

The New Haven Saturday Chronicle deserves to be complimented upon its understanding of the Lilley movement and to be loyally supported for its evident love of state.

The Willimantic Chronicle needs sadly a lesson in good manners. With that may come a desirable love of the truth.

OUR CONTEMPORARIES.

First in Seven years.

(Meriden Record.)
The accident to the White Mountain express at Greenwich resulted in one death, which is said to be the first fatality among passengers carried by the New Haven road in seven years. This is a record of which the road may justly be proud. It is a mistaken idea which some people have when they claim that railroads have no consideration for their patrons and do nothing to preserve life and limb.

Lessons of the Greenwich Accident.

(Providence Journal.)
Among the lessons to be drawn from the railway accident at Greenwich, Connecticut, is that of the superiority of parlor car construction. Although the Pullmans suffered more than the passenger coaches at the rear of the train, this was merely because the parlor cars struck the defective track-way first. If the regular coaches had occupied a forward position they would probably have been smashed toinders, where as the resisting power of the Pullmans was so great that only one occupant of them was killed. Much attention has recently been given to the invention of non-collapsible coaches, and it is confidently believed that eventually great cars will be built that can be depended upon to retain their shape intact in any except the most extreme circumstances. Another lesson from the accident is that the electric motor is superior to the steam locomotive in lessening the danger from fire when a mishap occurs. A Pullman may roll over and over and yet deposit its occupants with minor injuries where it stops. At any rate the Greenwich accident was far less serious than it might have been, considering the speed of the train and the place where it occurred.

An Alliterative Allegory.

Serene Susanna sits beside the stream
Where timid trout are trying to attain
The gourmet glory of the golden gleam
Of flies for which the foolish fish are vain.
She baits her bended barb and bends
Her back to the tempting tidbit in the tide.
Of lily-leaves there is a lasting lack,
But bitless beauties boldly there abide.
At last the lass, alas! allured by love
Of angling, avid in the ancient art,
Out-bends the brooklet's beetling bluff
Above.
And strains her strength the struggling stunt to start.
Susanna slips, so slick the slimy sod;
She smites the surface with a smooth,
Sered shriek;
She weighs the hundred pounds, and,
By the rod,
She splashes all the fishes from the creek.

Sunday afternoon I overheard Mary and Bert discussing the morning's Sunday school lesson.
Bert, who has all faith in his sister's superior knowledge, eagerly inquired, "Mary, what does God look like?"
I was surprised at Mary's prompt and solemn reply, "Bert, God looks like a potato."
Upon asking the child where she had received such an impression, she replied: "Why you said God has eyes on all sides, and a potato is the only thing I know of that has eyes on all sides."—Delineator.

AMERICANS' PLIGHT

Our Athletes at Olympic Games Contending With All Kinds of Trouble.

CLIMATE IS RESPONSIBLE

Men Suffering from Effects of Changeable Weather—Hopes of Getting Lead This Week.

London, July 19.—The United Kingdom, which before the opening of the Olympic games at the Stadium had a big lead over all other nations in the number of wins in the contest for supremacy in all sports, most of which, however, were scored in competitions in which no other nation took part, almost doubled that lead during the past week, and, furthermore, overtook the American team in the count for track and field events. But this has not served to dishearten the American athletes and those of their countrymen who accompanied them to England. James E. Sullivan, the commissioner representing the United States, said to the Associated Press this evening:

"We have come here to win the championship in field sports and we are going to do so despite the handicap from which we are suffering. This handicap has been twofold. In the first place the men came to a country having the most possible climate for those unused to it, and this affected them very seriously, more seriously than those not engaged in the games have any idea of. It is not only that the men cannot get into their best form, but the weather conditions make them low-spirited. They thought to get a little 'sunshine at Brighton, but it has been as bad there as in London.

"The other handicap against which we have had to contend is the manner in which the heat drawings have been conducted. The drawings have gone against us in the 1500 metre race, when our best men, Sheppard and Halstead, were pitted against each other, and the same thing occurred in the 800 metre event, the heats of which will be run off to-morrow. Sheppard and Halstead having been drawn against each other for a second time, Bromlow and Ramay also have been put into a heat together in this event, while in two other heats of the 800 metre not a single American has been drawn. It is either extraordinarily bad luck or the manner in which the drawings have been made that has resulted in such unfavorable conditions for the Americans. We have tried to find out how the drawings are conducted but have not been able to get anything from the Amateur Athletic association officials except the reply, 'the drawings have been made in the usual way.'

"As soon as I saw the drawing last evening I went after the secretary of the Amateur Athletic association and pointed out the injustice of these, and the matter is to come before the committee. We do not care what representatives of other nations our men have to run against, but it is unfair to pit them against each other in the heats."

"Mr. Sullivan concluded by saying: 'The United Kingdom had its innings in the distance events last week; the Americans will have their turn this week in the sprints, hurdles and jumps.' The men who are to uphold the supremacy of America in these sports have been training at Brighton. They came up to London this evening, although suffering from the effects of the climate, still they are determined to gather in the great majority of the prizes. It is impossible to surpass the United Kingdom's total of wins in all sports, but the Americans expect very early in the week to wipe out the lead of 14 points in the score for field sports which the representatives of the United Kingdom at the present time hold over them.

"The figures up to Saturday night counting by the American method in the field and track events are: United Kingdom 54, America 40. Eleven events still remain to be contested, exclusive of the Marathon race. In all of which the American team will attempt to equal their score. These events are: Standing broad jump; running broad jump; high jump; pole vault; 100, 200, 400 and 800 metres flat races, 110 and 400 metre hurdle races and the relay race.

"While of course the Americans realize that none of these will be a walk-over, they do not fear the European competitors as much as they do the two Canadians, Kerr, the sprinter, who has easily beaten everyone he has met in England, and Archibald, the clever pole vaulter. If the Indian, Longboat, is allowed to run in the Marathon, which it is believed he will, the committee having already decided not to allow the protest filed against him by the American committee, it is likely that the prize in this event will go to Canada. There have been reports in circulation of accidents to the Indian runner and also that he is not well, but those who know the ways of Longboat's manager do not give these much consideration. There is a lot of money being bet on the result of the Marathon, the Englishmen freely backing A. Duncan, of the Salford Harriers, who covered the course at the trials in two hours, 15 minutes, Beal, who ran second to Duncan, and T. Jack, another smart long distance man, while the Canadians are ready to support their many almost to any amount.

"The Americans who will compete in the Marathon are: Joseph Forshaw, Missouri A. C.; Sidney H. Hatch, First Regiment A. C.; Chicago; John J. Hayes, Irish-American A. C.; T. P. Morley, Mercury A. C.; M. J. Ryan, Irish-American A. C.; Lewis Tewanina, Carlisle Indian School, and A. R. Weston, Y. M. C. A. Tewanina is thought to have a good chance of winning, but he is feeling the effects of the climate and is also complaining that his knees are giving him trouble. The race will bring together the most cosmopolitan lot of competitors of the whole Olympic games. Aus-

CONNECTICUT LEAGUE MAGNATES GATHER AT HOTEL GARDE SATURDAY NIGHT.

Hartford, July 19.—The directors of the Connecticut league of baseball clubs held a special meeting in the baseball room at the Hotel Gardes Saturday night with President Tracy in the chair and Secretary O'Rourke in charge of the dope. The sale of the New Britain team to William Hanna was ratified and Mr. Hanna was made a director of the league.

The first business that came up was a black eye for New Haven though, and it was said that Hanna entered the league inauspiciously. On June 24, New Haven played in New Britain and Umpire Rorty forfeited the game to New Haven because the New Britain team refused to play out its half of the ninth inning. It was very dark and the New Britain men claimed that the game should have been called one before, when New Britain had a lead. The New Britains were very wrathful about the forfeit and Manager Hanna received about a bushel of letters protesting against what they called a robbery. President Tracy was at the game and in an interview backed up the umpire. The New Britain team appealed from Rorty's decision. President Tracy made an investigation, that is, he asked himself what he thought about it, and he decided that the umpire did right. Then, the New Britain manager appealed from the president's decision. The directors last night by a unanimous vote upheld the president and the umpire.

The following directors were at the meeting: Clark of Hartford; O'Rourke of Bridgeport; O'Neil of Springfield and Hanna of New Britain. O'Neil held a proxy for Waterbury. Meriden, New Haven and Holyoke were not represented. Chief Kennedy was present. The change in ownership of the New Haven team was to have been straightened out, but as there was no representative from New Haven present nothing was done.

Dan O'Neil was in one of his raging fits the other day and a Springfield reporter who thinks it is his duty to print everything that Dan says turned out a yard or so about O'Neil. O'Neil was going to do at the meeting about kicking Padron of New Britain out of the league on the ground that he was not a Cuban but a baseball player. As a matter of fact, O'Neil was very angry at Padron because the Cuban was responsible for two or three Springfield defeats and O'Neil was afraid that he might win a few more. A pitcher who can defeat Springfield has no place in the league, according to O'Neil's ideas, so he thought he would trump some kind of a charge and see if he could have him disbanded.

Mr. O'Neil denied all knowledge of the matter when spoken to about it yesterday and it was supposed that he had been stringing the reporter but the latter said that the manager was really and truly in earnest and was so angry that he had difficulty in expressing himself. Just why Mr. O'Neil did not bring up the matter at the meeting is not known, but it is supposed that he was afraid that some of the other directors would get back at him for some of his moves in the baseball business which would not look very well if shown up. The funniest thing about the matter was the statement that Albie Paige had made an investigation and discovered that Padron was not a Cuban, but as the investigation was not made until after Paige was discharged from the team it was not believed that the investigation was of much importance.

GAMES AT LIGHTHOUSE.

Israel Putnams Handily Capture Both Contests from Franklin Team.

Fully one thousand people went down to Lighthouse Point yesterday to witness the double header between the Israel Putnams and the Franklins.

The first contest was a hair-raiser, the Putnams pulling out ahead by the score of 3 to 2, while the other game was easy for the same team who ran away with it by the score of 13 to 5.

Doepensmith in the first contest, pitched gut-edge ball, striking out twelve men and allowing but four hits. In this game both of the amateur teams put up a high class article of ball and the fans were well pleased.

The feature of this game was the batting of Woodcock and Rogers, each getting two bingos good for two sacks. O'Connell, who was behind the timber for the Putnams, caught a great game and the whole team played with a dash that put the opposing nine out of business at the get-away.

In the second game Warner and Jones were matched, the latter receiving hard treatment from the Putnams. O'Connell's club hit the ball like veterans and from the first inning there was no question about the result. In the first game Jones, McKay and Pendergast were in the points and worked to perfection. "Dasher" Kelly's work in left field delighted everybody and all in all the exhibitions were good.

Jones has twirled for the Tuxedos, while McKay is a well known pitcher throughout the state. The Putnam's catcher worked in both both games and caught eight men at second in the first game and nine in the second, which went but five innings, much to the relief of the crowd. The first contest was especially worthy of notice, but the last game was a joke. Tommers, Torgenson, Stowe and other well known amateurs, starred for O'Connell's team while "Dasher" Kelly was the big chief of the Franklins.

The result of these games places the Putnams in a tie for first place with the Butler A. C. and these two clubs will meet in the near future when one of the best games of the year is promised. The score by innings of both contests follows:

First Game. Franklins 0 1 0 1 0 0 0 0-2. Israel Putnams 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 2-13.

Second Game. Israel Putnams 4 3 4 0 2-13. Franklins 0 9 0 0 5-5.

BACK HOME AGAIN.

New Haven Yacht Club Returns to Quarters After Successful Cruise.

The yachts of the New Haven and Sachems Head clubs which have been away on a cruise for two weeks, returned Saturday. The 30-footer Mashion of William S. Pades arrived at Morris Cove late Saturday afternoon.

Vice-Commander R. B. Tyler's Gamecock put into Pine Orchard and Commander Farnelle with the Rosalie put in to New London. The yachtsmen report a most enjoyable cruise, encountering no storms of foggy weather. The cruise extended as far as Buzzard's Bay. Returning the squadron arrived at West Harbor, Fishers Island sound, Friday night, and disbanded there at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. There were 19 yachts on the cruise. On Friday an especially good run was made from South Dartmouth, Mass., to Stonington, Conn., a distance of 50 miles. All the boats made the run with ease in a strong northwest wind.

Director Foley Getting Busy on Artesian Well.

Director Foley of the department of public works has started work on putting into commission the artesian well on the green, providing an analysis of the water in the deep well shows that it contains nothing deleterious. A deep well pumping machine has been installed near the pipe that was driven and water will be taken by the machine from the lowest depths of the well and subjected to analysis.

It is probable that if the water is found satisfactory, the well will be given to public use. It may be connected with an electric pump so that water will be supplied through a stand pipe or modest fountain or it may be decided to connect the well with the Bennett memorial fountain. There is a likelihood that if the artesian well is suitable for public supply that the famous old pump on the green will be dispensed with. During the heated spell, as on many occasions before, the old pump has been very popular with the public. Its cool water has been greatly appreciated.

FIND STOLEN BOAT.

Elsa is Found to be a Wreck; Bertha in Good Condition. A party of City Point yachtsmen sailed across the sound to Mattituck, yesterday and recovered all that was possible from the catboat Bertha, which was wrecked. The boat is owned by James Swift of 48 Third street. The sloop Elsa, owned by Henry T. McFoster of Hallock avenue, which was also stolen, was found to be all right. It is believed that the pirates ran into a gale and were forced to abandon the boats.

SOME GREAT PITCHING.

Not More Than Three Men Face Ewing in an Inning Up to Sixth. Cincinnati, July 19.—Cincinnati bunched two singles, a triple and two stolen bases with three errors by Philadelphia in the first inning, scoring three runs. Not more than three men faced Ewing in any one inning up to the sixth. Score:

Cincinnati, ab r bh po a e. Huggins, 2b, 3 0 1 4 5 1. Kane, cf, 4 0 0 1 0 0. Lobert, 3b, 4 1 0 1 0 1. Schiel, c, 4 2 5 1 0 0.

THREE CENT FARE A FAILURE?

Monthly Reports Show a Deficit in Cleveland Traction Returns. Cleveland, O., July 19.—Cleveland has had nearly three months of three cent street car fare, and two of the monthly reports have shown a deficit. A similar report is predicted for July. The Municipal Traction company, which is operating the local lines under a lease, also is under a promise to give free transfers to July 28. Of course, the transfers have been about $30,000 a month, a cent each having been charged. Several weeks ago President A. B. Dupont of the operating company stated that he expected the company to lose money during the first year. The officials of the company still express the belief that the three cent fare will pay in time. An important meeting of the directors will be held Tuesday to consider the inauguration of free transfers and other vital points. The transfers will be made free for a time, but it is not clear if it will increase the patronage.

Go Too Fast.

(Springfield Republican.) It may prove that the electric motor had nothing to do with the accident, but for the moment an impression seems to prevail that somehow a relationship exists, however tenuous, not one which would militate against the use of the electric motor under any conditions. Evidently, however, the new motor requires more careful handling in the matter of speed. What was observed in the Harlem accident near Brewster is again being remarked among engineers—that the electric motor is constantly being exposed to the danger of being driven too fast from its inability to impress upon the driver, as by the piston strokes of the steam locomotive, a notion of the speed being made. A closer watch upon the speed gauge evidently needs to be enforced upon electric motor drivers, for railroad tracks as now constructed is not made to stand up under any possible speed of which the steam locomotive or the electric motor is capable.

Conspicuous in Game in Which Boston Defeats Chicago.

Chicago, July 19.—Bases on balls and errors were mainly responsible for all the runs scored in to-day's game, Boston being the most fortunate in hitting in two innings after the misplays. The visitors also did some

UNUSUALLY BUSY WEEK

Yacht Club Cruises and Cycling Events the Most Attractive for All Sport Lovers.

The schedule of the fifth Olympiad for this, the second week, consists of events in which the American team is especially strong, and points in the shorter runs, hurdle races and sprints are expected to swell the American total to a safe margin of victory.

Glidden Tour.

The Glidden tourists will resume their progress from Boston to-morrow in the direction of Saratoga. Chairman Frank Hower has announced that he intends to give the motorists a couple of days of hard run this week.

Cycling Events.

The first motor-paced cycling event to take place in Madison Square Garden since the last six-day race will take place to-morrow evening on the saucer track. Jimmy Moran and Nat Bueller will meet in a ten-mile race, which is to be the first of a series for the American motor-paced championship. It is planned to have Hughie MacLean meet the winner of to-morrow night's race in a fifteen-mile contest on July 27.

Yachting.

At Larchmont there will be yachting and motor-boat races this week. The program of yacht races was started successfully on Saturday and will be continued throughout the week. A particularly speedy motorboat race is promised on Tuesday. Among the entries are the famous speeder, Den, which made a record of 28.71 statute miles per hour in last year's races on the Hudson river, and the Vim, whose forty horse-power engines drive the propeller at the rate of 1,000 revolutions per minute.

ON TO CONEY ISLAND.

Steamer Bridgeport Will Run to Famous Resort Every Sunday. Beginning next Sunday and continuing every Sunday thereafter until September 6 the steamer Bridgeport of the Bridgeport line will make an excursion trip from Bridgeport to Coney Island, landing at Dreamland pier. The steamer will make a brief stop at pier 70, New York, and then hurry on to Coney Island. The excursion is under the management of the New England Navigation company, which is all that need be said in regard to the service. The round trip rate from Bridgeport to New York is 75 cents and to Coney Island $1.00. Connecting train leaves New Haven at 7:52 a. m. Dreamland with its innumerable free shows and the exciting spectacle of a horse and lady rider diving from the park tower, is more popular this season than ever before and this excursion offers a special opportunity to people to visit this attractive resort.

Eighteen-years-old Anna Bruntz was saved from drowning in the harbor at Lanfair's beach, West Haven, Saturday, by William Jacques, also of West Haven. OAK STREET BARN ABLAZE. The barn is occupied by Abraham Silver and Jacob Diontak and owned by Lawrence Eagan. Two horses and several wagons were quickly removed before the apparatus arrived. The Howard avenue company's engine soon had a couple of hose streams working on the blaze, which was extinguished after about $50 damage had resulted.

CAMPAIGN FIGHT BY DEMOCRATS

George M. Wallace Points Out How It Should Be Made by the Party.

ATTACK AT WEAK POINTS

Favors a Constructive Rather Than a Destructive Propaganda—Must Attempt Something Really Worth While.

The democratic party should attack at the weak points of its opponent, and should make a constructive rather than destructive propaganda, and must attempt something really worth the while if ever it would get there and achieve success.

First—It should promise that its presidential candidate if elected will call together at the Hague as many as will come of the nations of the world to form a permanent international congress and court of arbitration, the first to declare and codify the existing law of nations and to make new international laws, the second to arbitrate all disputes between the nations concerned except on matters of national honor and territorial integrity. All to concern only those nations voluntarily going into the arrangement, and the ball to be started rolling if only U. S. and Venezuela join the game.

Second—It should move in the direction of placing federal taxation upon natural resources and taking them off eventually from everything else. Legitimate subjects of taxation are land, coal, iron, oil, minerals in the land, railroad rights of way and public service street franchises over and in the land, water and natural water powers, etc. A proper tax on the water powers of the country alone, beginning with Niagara and down the line, would now or soon support the federal government and be a burden to no one. Some great reform of this sort, cutting special privilege to the roots and freeing the white man must be achieved to give democracy the lease of life that freeing the black man has given the republican party.

Third—The democratic party should try at the topmost a determination to reduce the tariff on the raw materials of industry, on the necessities of life, and on goods sold abroad more cheaply than at home.

Fourth—It should promise a banking and currency system severed from government, freely permitted to develop by its own principles and laws, its institutions, business methods and legal restraints based upon the banking experience of the world and history, freely confessing its banking goal to be some such successful system as the Scotch or Canadian systems.

Fifth—It should attract attention of course to tariff beneficiaries, but also to the special privileges of the landlord and raw material owner class. Land or raw material, labor and capital, unite to form a product which is divided up into rent, wages and profits. If normality is to be, each should get a third, then, if the raw material man gets four ninths, labor or capital must take up with two instead of three ninths, and to see which shall take up with less than its legitimate part produces the war between labor and capital. They should unite and fight the landlord and raw material men.

Sixth—Now while democracy should fight special privilege everywhere and all the time it should not, supposedly under the same reform flag, pitch into economic development and the laws of nature. This is how it is that President Roosevelt has struck terror to all business including legitimate business, and done the country to a panic. When legitimate and illegitimate business alike is to be hit then panic and reign of terror is the logical outcome. The Boston and Maine and the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroads should have been permitted to consolidate as should have been the Northern Pacific merger. Let the democratic party ally business fear by making the distinction between punishing special privilege and fixing and destroying economic development.

Seventh—A permanent international congress and court of arbitration which can be achieved as soon as unanimous action of all the nations is no longer thought necessary; taxation placed upon the natural resources and social assets, such as the coal trusts coal, the steel trust's iron, the Standard's oil, the Actors' Wearied Investment, the New Haven Water company's water, the Southern New England Telephone Co.'s franchise, the part of Niagara Falls now privately owned by Mr. Morgan, the Vanderbilts and the Actors, the New York & New Haven road's right of way; reducing the exorbitant monument of special privilege, the tariff; reforming our banking and currency system, so it will not offend and offend strike down solvent concerns, curtail production, labor, time, wages, and profits, and turn prosperity into adversity; striking a blow at the special privilege of earth ownership, at landlordism and raw material monopoly; allaying business fears and depressions by punishing special privileges and encouraging economic development instead of visiting the wrath of the powers upon the just and unjust alike; along such lines should the democratic fight be made and by such achievement it, the democratic party, will merit and will gain the respect of the country and a long lease of power. GEORGE M. WALLACE.

IN WATER A LONG TIME. Girl Found Drowned Probably Met Accidental Death. The body of the girl found on the beach at Sayin Rock was buried in the Oak Grove cemetery in West Haven yesterday afternoon without being identified. The hurried burial was by order of the selectmen of the town of Orange on account of the rapid decomposition of the body. Medical Examiner Barnett of Orange says that he did not entertain any theory of murder, but thought that it had been a case of accidental drowning. The body had been in the water a long time. Dr. Barnett has heard of only two women who have been drowned in the waters of Connecticut within the past month. One was a girl who fell overboard from a boat in the Connecticut river near Haddam and the other fell from a coal barge in the sound off Milford. The body was headless and armless, and Dr. Barnett thinks that these parts of the body may have been cut off by having come in contact with the propeller of some steamer or launch. A CHANGE IS GOOD. Give the good wife a chance to get away from the monotonous daily grind of dinner cooking and yourself a change by dining at Bishop's Colonade, Sayin Rock, some evening this week. If your taste leans toward a meal made up exclusively of fish the shore dinner's the thing—served until 9 o'clock at night. If a special diet is a carte, is fancied, the Frenchman Bove can produce the specialty in a way both artistic and appetizing. The prices are reasonable—compare them with the menus of other shore places. Miss Chandler's orchestra plays every evening until 11 o'clock.

The last herd of antelopes in the United States has been located near Hoker, in Oklahoma. This was formerly a part of the great American desert, and called No Man's Land.
