SCRAP OVER LILLEY

Commissioner Fyler and Joseph L. Barbour Clash at New Haven House.

EXCITING MIDNIGHT HOUR

Fyler Says Barbour Is Paid for Oratory, and Latter Returns Compliment With Interest.

One of the incidents of the night before the main session of the convention was the wordy set-to which occurred between Railroad Commissioner Fyler and Attorney Joseph L. Barbour in the corridor of the New Haven house around the midnight hour.

Whereas, It is feared that the republican state convention may nominate George L. Lilley as the candidate for governor of Connecticut, and

Resolved, That we solemnly protest against the nomination of Mr. Lilley as inimical to the best interests of Connecticut and disastrous to the supremacy of the republican party in the state.

TAMMANY DEFEATED

McCarren, Democratic Boss of Brooklyn, Wins Out at Primaries.

New York, Sept. 8.—By carrying eighteen of the twenty-three assembly districts of Brooklyn in the primaries Senator Patrick H. McCarren today maintained his political control of Kings county, only four of the seven revolted districts returning anti-McCarren leaders.

In the 23d, 10th, 11th and 22d districts the insurgents were successful. This, however, will not affect the situation and leaves McCarren in control of the democratic county committee.

More than ordinary interest attached to the democratic primaries in Kings county today by reason of the fact that Senator Patrick H. McCarren's leadership was at stake, and the battle involved, McCarren claimed, the latest effort of the Tammany "tiger" to "cross the bridge," and at last get a foothold of control in Brooklyn.

SETH LOW OUT FOR TAFT

Former Mayor of New York to Take Stump for National Ticket.

New York, Sept. 8.—Former Mayor Seth Low of New York visited republican national headquarters today and concluded arrangements to make a number of speeches in middle western states in support of Taft and Sherman.

He will begin his engagements about October 1. Just as he was leaving headquarters, Mr. Low said:

"I am heartily in favor of the re-nomination of Hughes for governor of New York state. Failure to renominate him would be interpreted disadvantageously not only in this state but throughout the country."

TAFT AGGRESSIVE IN OHIO CAMPAIGN

Affirms His Intention to Clinch 'My Policies' on Constructive Lines and Sails Into Mr. Bryan.

MRS. RICE WITH CANDIDATE

Big Crowds and Much Enthusiasm Confirm His Determination to Tour the Entire Country.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 8.—That William H. Taft will make a complete and extensive tour of the United States before the November election may be announced tonight as the personal determination of the candidate. Mr. Taft will rely on the record made by himself today as proof complete of his ability to make good in a campaign of travel.

Besides the physical capacity of speaking from north to south through the state of Ohio, Mr. Taft made himself the aggressor in the political fight. He said in his first and principal speech of the day at Sandusky that if elected president he would devote his best energies to constructive recommendations to congress for legislation which would clinch the Roosevelt policy of business honesty.

Later in the day Mr. Taft declared that the republican party had made the best record in labor legislation during the past seven years of all previous records since Washington's time. Still later in his flying trip through the state he declared with great emphasis that Mr. Bryan and the democratic party were responsible for at least two years of fighting in the Philippines which would have been unnecessary in the absence of opposition in this country.

Mr. Taft, who is comfortably ensconced to-night at the home of his brother, Charles P. Taft, began the day with an address to the veterans who are quartered at the Soldiers' home at Sandusky. He talked patriotically.

Then came the principal speech of the day to an audience which filled the Sandusky opera house. At 1:40 o'clock the start was made in a special train.

GOV. CUMMINS DEFEATED

Republican Stand-Patters Foll His Plot to Break Into Senate.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 8.—By defeating both houses, the stand-patters today declare they have defeated Gov. A. R. Cummins for election to the short term as United States senator from Iowa. The house today voted for the first time, giving Cummins 44 (the strength of the progressives), Claude Porter 21 (the strength of the democrats) and the stand-patters scattered their votes. The senate voted later. Cummins received 21 votes, and Porter 14. As in the house the stand-patters scattered their votes. A joint ballot will be held Wednesday, at which time, the stand-patters declare, they will be able to make their victory today permanent.

Seventy-six votes are necessary to elect and the stand-patters claim Cummins will get more than the number he was able to poll today.

BRYAN TO COMMITTEEMEN

Candidate Talks to 1,200 Chicago Politicians on Their Duty.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Twelve hundred precinct committeemen recently elected in the primaries were addressed by William J. Bryan tonight. The meeting represented an innovation in politics in Chicago and was to put into effect the call of the democratic national committee for a campaign club in every voting precinct in the United States. Mr. Bryan emphasized the importance of the position which the committeemen occupied and declared that no candidate will win success if the work of organization is neglected.

"We may have a majority, as I believe we have," he said, "but if that majority is not made effective at the polls it counts for nothing. It will be your business to see first that every democratic vote is registered, second that every democratic vote is cast, third, that every democratic vote is counted and fourth that false registration and repeating are prevented."

POSTPONE BOYCOTT CASE

Bucks Store Hearing Likely to Go Over Until October.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The hearing in the contempt proceedings of the Bucks Store and Range company against labor officials who are alleged to have violated an injunction to discontinue a boycott, may not be held until October. Justice Gould of the district supreme court has intimated the matter should go over until the regular court term in October. The Federation today was allowed an extension of time for filing its answer to the Bucks company's bill, pending which the hearing may be postponed.

MRS. RICE AGREED TO KILL RUSTIN

Woman Says Nerve Failed and Doctor Secured Bank Clerk to Do the Deed.

YOUNG MAN DENIES IT

But Admits He Tried to Take His Own Life on Night of Shooting—Mrs. Rustin Testifies at Inquest.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 8.—The coroner's inquest into the death of Dr. Frederick H. Rustin, who was found fatally shot at the door of his home in this city, developed several sensational stories today. Mrs. Abbie Rice, the woman who was last known to be in Dr. Rustin's company on the night of his death, declared that Dr. Rustin had been talking of committing suicide, but that he wished to disguise the act so as to protect his life insurance for the benefit of his family.

After much importunity he induced her to promise to kill him, and then take her own life. Arrangements to this end were made for Friday night, August 28, but her nerve failed. On Tuesday night following, Dr. Rustin pointed out to her on the street car a man who, he said, had promised to do the deed, saying it would be done that night.

Later she identified Charles E. Davis, a clerk in a local bank, and a member of a prominent family, as the man referred to by Dr. Rustin.

Davis was placed on the stand and testified that he attempted to commit suicide on the night in question, by taking drugs furnished him by Dr. Rustin, but denied that he had promised to kill the doctor, or that he had anything to do with the latter's death.

CASSIDY TURNED DOWN

Senator Who Went Back on Hughes Falls of Nomination.

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Owen Cassidy of Schuylter county was defeated for re-nomination to the state senate by the republican senatorial convention in the Forty-first district held here today. He received only five votes of the delegates from his own county; those of Chenango, Tioga and Tompkins voting against him. Senator Cassidy, who has served during the past two consecutive terms, announced immediately after his defeat that he intended to run as an independent candidate.

The candidacy of Senator Cassidy for re-nomination attracted more than local interest because of the fact that his vote was generally regarded as that which decided, temporarily at least, the fate of the anti-gambling bill at the time of its defeat by the senate last spring, and that he was the recipient of the so-called "John and I" telegram from Congressman Fassett and Dwight, regarding his vote on the bill, which was alleged to have been tampered with by a Washington telegraph operator.

DYNAMITE KILLS THREE

Twenty Pounds Placed on Steam Pipe in Springfield Reservoir.

Agawam, Mass., Sept. 8.—Three men were killed and six others injured by the explosion of twenty pounds of dynamite on Provin mountain, near the place where a contracting company is building a distributing reservoir in connection with the Springfield water supply system.

The explosion was at first thought to have been caused by a spark falling into a box of caps, but after an investigation, announcement was made that the dynamite was placed on a pipe that supplied steam for a drill, and became overheated.

TWO MORE ARRESTED

Italians Held for Connection With Hill Street Shooting.

Two further arrests were made late yesterday by Patrolmen Matt Powers and Cassidy in the shooting affair in Hill street, which occurred Monday night. Giuseppe Morino and Antonio Lombardi were the two who were taken in, and these two were charged with breach of the peace. They are supposed to have been concerned in the quarrel which led to the shooting of DeStefano. The latter is doing well at the hospital, and no serious results of the gun play are now expected.

HUGHES TEST VOTE IS CONTRADICTORY

New York County Primaries Show Six Districts for His Renomination and Three Opposed to Him.

BROOKLYN THREE AGAINST

Strength of Opposition in Foreign and Tenement House Districts—Woodruff Mum on Result.

New York, Sept. 8.—Results of the application of the "Hughes test" in thirteen of the assembly districts of New York and Kings counties in the republican primary elections today were decidedly interesting and decidedly contradictory. According to figures obtainable late to-night six of the New York districts cast majorities for the re-nomination of the governor; three against. All of the three Kings county districts cast decisive majorities against his re-nomination. The Kings county totals showed a net vote of more than two to one against the governor.

All kinds of inferences were drawn to-night from the figures by advocates and opponents of the governor's re-nomination. Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff, of the republican state committee, declined to make any comment at all to-night.

Representative Herbert Parsons, chairman of the republican county committee, who received reports from the districts where the test vote on Hughes was taken at county headquarters said to-night:

"The vote shows there is a strong Hughes sentiment among certain elements and among others a bitter opposition to him, the opposition being in the foreign born and tenement house districts. In the districts that Governor Hughes carried the delegates to the convention will, of course be for his re-nomination."

Mr. Parsons figured that Governor Hughes will have 72 delegates out of 187 in Manhattan and the Bronx.

Chairman Jacob Brenner of the Kings county committee said that the four districts in that county selected for the test were all democratic districts there was no attempt to ascertain the sentiment in the heavily republican districts.

Mr. Brenner declared that the organization had exerted no influence over the result, the only thing done in the way of canvassing, having been, he said, the action of the Young Men's Republican club which is committed to Hughes, in circulating the voters in the "test" districts, urging them to come out and vote for Hughes' re-nomination.

The districts in Manhattan selected for the "Hughes test" represented a great variety of political and national complexion and the results were as varied.

DECIDE NOT TO STRIKE

Conference Board of Trolley Men's Union Defers Action on Present Situation.

The conference board of the Trolley men's union of the New Haven railroad system held a meeting in this city yesterday at which Charles W. Minnix and T. Deskin, the two local members of the board, were present, the former acting as chairman of the meeting.

The board is composed of nineteen members and all of the fifteen unions are represented. The meeting was held for the purpose of receiving the result of the strike vote which was taken during the past week. Chairman Minnix would not give out the result of the vote, but said that at present there was not the slightest possibility of a strike in this city. This has been his conviction for the past few weeks despite the rumors that have been circulated about town.

Regarding the future conduct of the unions represented in yesterday's conference, Mr. Minnix said no action had been taken. This means that for the present the Providence Trolley men will have to affect a peaceable settlement with the officials, if possible.

At all events the trolley going public of this city may rest easy, satisfied that they will not be compelled to walk to business some fine morning owing to the lack of trolley cars.

REDUCING EXPENSES

General Registrars Plan Special Election to Save Many Hundred Dollars.

ESTIMATE COST AT $1,100

Cut of 100 in Counters and About 90 in Other Polling Place Officials Is Decided Upon.

General Registrars Knollmeyer and McPartland met their deputies last night in city hall and went over with them the plans for the special election which is to be held next Monday.

The principal point of interest about the plans is the fact that they have been so made as to materially reduce the expense of the election to the city, despite the cry that the special election would cost as much as a regular election. The registrars estimate that they will be able to cut the usual election expenses of between $1,600 and $1,800 down to about $1,100. To do this the number of workers at the polls will be very materially reduced.

The most sweeping part of the reduction will affect the number of counters. The law allows as many as ten counters at each polling place, but the numbers this time will be kept so low, largely because of the comparatively light vote expected and the fact that all will be straight ballots, that about one hundred less counters will be employed than is usual. Assistant box tenders allowed by law at each of the polling places will be among those less officials at the polls throughout the city. This will bring about the reduction in expenses which is figured upon.

The registrars are figuring that there will be around fifty per cent. of the normal general election vote cast at the special election next Monday. This will not only materially lessen the amount of counting, but will require less attendance at the polling places to keep up to the time.

FIGHTS DOWN FOR TO-DAY

Lilley-Lake, Walsh-Tilson and Several Other Bouts Promise to Enliven Convention Hours—Scenes at Delegates' Headquarters.

The republican state convention opened last evening at the Hyperion theatre when a temporary organization was effected and committees to take charge of the permanent organizations were appointed. Senator Frank B. Brandegee of New London was chosen temporary chairman and later the committee on permanent organization decided that he should be the presiding officer for the entire convention. In his address, which is printed in full in another part of this paper, Senator Brandegee gave a history of the republican party and finally satisfied the delegates that he was a Taft man. During the delivering of the speech there was little enthusiasm. The names of Grover Cleveland, William McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt and Judge Taft each received short ovations.

The theatre was decorated in flags and bunting. Over the boxes on the left was a large picture of Judge Taft and over those on the right was one of similar size of James Schoolcraft Sherman. Only a part of the boxes were occupied. Congressman Sperry was in one of them, and another was occupied by Mrs. I. M. Ullman of this city and Mr. George L. Lilley of Waterbury.

Michael Kenealy, chairman of the republican state central committee, called the meeting to order and introduced Senator Brandegee amid considerable enthusiasm. Then came Senator Brandegee's long address and then the committees which are appended below were announced. The committees will report today.

Just before adjournment Judge Garvan of Hartford attempted to present a resolution. Mr. Kenealy was on his feet in a second and grabbed the resolution, thinking that it was a part of the Lake movement. Then he heaved a sigh of relief. The resolution merely asked that in the future delegations to a state convention be not chosen until after the convention has been called. Mr. Kenealy remembered that the delegation from his home town, Stamford, was chosen last spring before the snow was off the ground.

Then he told Senator Brandegee and the convention that the state committee had passed a rule to that effect yesterday afternoon at its session at the New Haven house. Judge Garvan then withdrew his resolution and Mr. Kenealy allowed Senator Brandegee to adjourn the meeting.

When the Lake delegation entered the hall there was an ovation from the galleries. The delegation with the other Hartford delegates taking seats in the front of the theatre. None of the candidates was mentioned in the theatre last evening.

Windham for Gates. Only one caucus was held last evening. That was held by the Windham county delegation, which passed a resolution endorsing Senator Charles A. Gates of Willimantic for controller. Pedigree in Pianos. The pedigree of the piano runs about thus: Dulcimer—psaltery—clavichord—harpsichord—spinet—piano-forte. Strings were first gut, then brass. They were first struck or plucked by hand. Then came key-boards with "tangent" stroke on the string, then crow-quills, and finally (about 1,710) hammers, with the invention of the piano-forte. The family that has had most to do with the development of the piano to-day has also a remarkable pedigree, descending from Henry E. Steinway, born late in the eighteenth century. They have been born into and bred in the craft, inheriting both the gift and the acquired knowledge of their antecedents. Eight men of Steinway blood are actually engaged in the Steinway house to-day. It is also worthy of note that the majority of people of proud pedigree on both sides of the water are possessed of Steinway pianos. This is due to the world-wide conquests made by Steinway quality. A better piano than the Steinway cannot be produced to-day. When it is produced it will be produced by the Steinway house. Steinway prices are not much higher than those of other high-class pianos. The Vertegrand sells for $550; the Miniature Grand for $800. The M. Steinert & Sons Co., 777 Chapel Street, are their sole representatives.

ITALIAN STRUNG UP. Apparent Attempt at Lynching Frustrated After Man Was Up Two Hours. LURED TO SECLUDED SPOT. Lafayette Street Man Claims Three Men Overcame Him When He Kept Engagement. What is believed to be one of the most dastardly crimes that has come to the attention of the authorities of the town of Orange in a long time was discovered yesterday when the limp and almost lifeless body of Nicholas DeSotta, of 373 Lafayette street, this city, was found tied to a tree in the woods at the rear of the Pardee place at the junction of Forest street and Campbell avenue, Allingtown. A net work of rope was wound about the man and becoming exhausted, DeSotta slipped through the ropes in such a manner that his neck was caught in a noose and his life would have slowly ebbed away had it not been for the timely arrival of George E. Chadwick, a mason, living at 933 Campbell avenue, who heard the groans of DeSotta, as he was going to work. Chadwick followed the sound of the voice and found the victim of the brutal plot tied to a tree as related.

When the ropes were untangled, DeSotta dropped almost lifeless to the ground and Dr. John F. Barnett was immediately sent for. When the doctor arrived he ordered DeSotta carried to a nearby house and after working over him for over an hour, the man was revived. Dr. Barnett stated yesterday that doubtless DeSotta would have been dead had he been found half an hour after the time Chadwick came along. When DeSotta was able to tell his story he unraveled a plot that would have done justice to any melodrama. DeSotta, who works in the mattress factory, said that he received a note from an unknown man on Monday, asking him to meet him yesterday morning on Campbell avenue as he had something of great importance to show him. Not suspecting a plot of any sort, DeSotta told his foreman that he was sick and unable to attend to work and later met the man as arranged. After a short conversation the stranger told DeSotta that what he wanted to show him was in the woods back of the Pardee property and the two proceeded there. On the way up the bank, and not 100 yards from the trolley track, three men sprang upon him and bore him to the ground. DeSotta immediately realized that he was the victim of a plot of some kind and made a struggle for his freedom. The strength of the three men was too much, however, and DeSotta was garbled and taken to a stout tree, where he was tied to it and left to his fate. He became exhausted in his efforts to free himself and slipped toward the ground, to be discovered two hours later by Chadwick. DeSotta claims to have received a note from a friend sometime ago, instructing him to cease paying attention to a young woman, and through this the authorities hope to trace the originators of the plot against him. The matter was immediately turned over to First Selectman Walter Main, who detailed some of his able sleuths on the case. Thinking they needed help the Orange authorities appealed to this city and the Howard avenue station agreed to give the neighboring town what aid it could. Up to a late hour last night no arrests had been made.

The local detectives have been called into the case and are working along the theory suggested. It was their opinion last night, however, that the case was not one of attempted lynching but that the man had attempted to commit suicide.

Mr. Palmer replied that his past record disproved any such intention, but that he did intend if possible to save the state from the discredit of Lilley's election. The discussion was getting very warm and it was easy to see that Mr. Fyler and the other disinterested Republicans could not be influenced. Chairman Michael Kenney ran around with his oil can. He tried to soften the words of Fyler and did what he could to make the remainder of the call pleasant. The resolutions were referred to the committee on resolutions, and will probably be smothered without being brought before the convention today. The opposition of the manufacturers and business men, however, is a very severe blow to Mr. Lilley's interests on the eve of the campaign, and this accounts somewhat for the worried expression which was noticed on the face of Andrew F. Gates, patriot, last evening.

He said the drugs taken made him sick, and he vomited, thus saving his life. He gave no special reason for wishing to end his life, except that he had no desire to live. He said he had made previous attempts at suicide. Davis had not been arrested. The inquest was not finished to-day. Mrs. Rustin described their financial troubles, saying her husband had a note for $3,200 coming due at the First National bank on the day of the shooting. She admitted he carried $75,000 life insurance, some time back, but that a considerable amount had lapsed for non-payment of premiums. At times she would hesitate in order to refresh her memory and then declare "I can't tell for my life, because I was wrought up at the time." Mrs. Rice in her testimony said Dr. Rustin first asked her to kill him about two weeks ago and finally she consented and agreed to shoot herself afterwards. She said: "I was to shoot him in his office. He wanted me to shoot him through the abdomen so his family could get his insurance money. He thought he could trust me. He wanted me to give him two or three days to settle his business affairs before killing him." Mrs. Rice said Dr. Rustin then said she could kill herself. She said a cunning scheme to avoid her suicide being connected with his murder had been broached by the doctor. She was to shoot him through the abdomen. Then she was to remove the empty cartridge and dispose of it. Then she was to take the revolver away with her, reload it and kill herself. In that way only one empty shell—not two—would be found when she died by her own hand and his death and hers could not be connected to bring shame and humiliation upon his family. The following Friday night she accompanied Dr. Rustin to his office and he loaded the pistol and asked her to shoot him. "I lost my nerve and backed out," said Mrs. Rice. This made Dr. Rustin very angry and they debated the murder and suicide scheme for some time, finally agreeing to go to his home and commit the double tragedy in his barn. Dr. Rustin told her it would make it look as if he had been murdered by some burglar or footpad if he was shot in the barn. "He was to go into the barn and let me in the back way. He gave me the gun and I walked up to the alley back of his house, while he went in the front door of the house, intending to go out the back way to the barn. All this happened Friday, August 28. "While I was in the alley, some one drove along and I lost my nerve again and went back to Farnham street," said Mrs. Rice. "I walked east on Farnham street to get away from him and waited on the next corner for a car," said the woman. Dr. Rustin was on that very car, according to the woman's statement. She said Rustin was very angry at her desertion and insisted on her coming back to his place, but again she broke down and refused to shoot.

He said the drugs taken made him sick, and he vomited, thus saving his life. He gave no special reason for wishing to end his life, except that he had no desire to live. He said he had made previous attempts at suicide. Davis had not been arrested. The inquest was not finished to-day. Mrs. Rustin described their financial troubles, saying her husband had a note for $3,200 coming due at the First National bank on the day of the shooting. She admitted he carried $75,000 life insurance, some time back, but that a considerable amount had lapsed for non-payment of premiums. At times she would hesitate in order to refresh her memory and then declare "I can't tell for my life, because I was wrought up at the time." Mrs. Rice in her testimony said Dr. Rustin first asked her to kill him about two weeks ago and finally she consented and agreed to shoot herself afterwards. She said: "I was to shoot him in his office. He wanted me to shoot him through the abdomen so his family could get his insurance money. He thought he could trust me. He wanted me to give him two or three days to settle his business affairs before killing him." Mrs. Rice said Dr. Rustin then said she could kill herself. ### A Republican Midway.

The hallway in many ways resembled a midway at a shore resort. On either side were the headquarters of the candidates for the other offices on the state ticket. Two that were crowded nearly all the time were the headquarters of the rival candidates for congressman-at-large, Major John Q. Tilson of this city and Judge James J. Walsh of Greenwich.

A Legislative Reunion.

In Major Tilson's room everything was lovely. Early in the evening a legislative reunion was held there and most of the republican representatives who had been under him as speaker at the last session of the house came in. He received many promises for support in today's convention and last night was confident that he would be the nominee. Friends of the major distributed buttons bearing his picture and fully half the delegates wore them.

Walsh Equally Sure.

In the room next to that of Major Tilson, Judge Walsh received. His right hand man was Judge Elmore S. Banks of Fairfield who ran for speaker against Major Tilson two years ago. Senator Stiles Judson of Stratford also spent considerable time in Judge Walsh's room. Judge Walsh said to the Journal-Courier representative: "I certainly expect to be nominated to-morrow and believe I have enough delegates pledged to guarantee me the nomination. I do not know how much of a majority I will have, but will be satisfied just to be nominated."

Friends of Judge Walsh were more sanguine and said that he would get in by fifty votes. But the crowd which poured in and out of Major Tilson's room was disconcerting. Late in the evening Mayor Edward W. Hooker and several Hartford friends called in their brief tour of the New Haven house.

The Three Secretaries.

Down the hall a little way the three candidates for the nomination of secretary of state had separate quarters. Theodore Bodenweh, who has served two terms, received his old friends and said that he was a candidate for a third term. He claimed that New London county was practically solid for him, but this claim was controverted by Eli Gledhill of Stonington, who in the next room was telling that he had been endorsed by the county. He said that he had received assurances for support from all over the state and did not doubt that he would be nominated. Matthew H. Rogers of Bridgeport had quarters at the end of the hall and was as sanguine as Mr. Gledhill. The general impression prevailed that Mr. Gledhill would be the choice.

Want Renomination.

State Treasurer Freeman F. Patten and Comptroller Bradstreet occupied adjoining quarters near the end of the hall. Both are candidates for renomination, but last night it did not look as if either one of them would land. Each was visited, however, by a large number of friends.

E. J. Emmons' Reception.

E. J. Emmons of New Milford, who is a candidate for the nomination of state treasurer, and who is supported by Gates, Fyler, Roraback and Co., had a reception, too. Earlier in the day it had been reported that he was willing to pull out for Patten, but when night came this was found to be a canard.

Many See C. A. Gates.

Next to the receptions held by the candidates for congressman-at-large, the best attended gathering was that in the rooms of Senator Charles A. Gates, who is running for comptroller. Winham had been pledged early in the evening, and Senator Gates was later assured of the support of New London, Middlesex, Fairfield and the greater part of New Haven.

A New Deal All Around.

While it was very hard to tear last night whom the sentiment favored, it generally looked as if there was to be a new deal all around on the state ticket, and that all the old officials known to go. Nothing certain was known, but apparently on the state ticket the names of Gledhill, Emmons and Gates will take the places of Bodenweh, Patten, and Bradstreet.

At Lake's Headquarters.

At the Lake headquarters last night after the preliminary session of the convention had closed was a scene of animation and optimism. The followers of the lieutenant governor thronged the halls of the Tontine hotel and visited the headquarters of the candidate on the second floor talking in a sanguine mood of the prospects of winning in the convention this morning. There was no special campaign program carried out last night, Lieutenant Governor Lake holding what might be termed an informal reception in his room. When interviewed he said there was little to say on the matter and little he felt that he could say at the time. He did state emphatically, however, his own belief that he would be nominated at the convention. The Lake campaigners claim a large share of the votes which are set down in the schedule for Lilley, and claim that while they are listed that way they are known Lake men. Instances are cited in which known Lake men were put on the delegation after a compromise fight at the caucus and yet the entire delegation was counted for Lilley.

While the Lake men do not expect to win on the first ballot they felt hopeful last night of springing a big surprise in the hall to-day and winning finally for their candidate. Among the visitors at Lieutenant Governor Lake's impromptu reception were four past department commanders of the G. A. R. In this state, who all came over from their quarters in the New Haven house to visit him at once. Most prominent among them was Senator Bulkeley of Hartford, and the other three were Colonel Horn, editor of the Winsted Herald; N. Burton Rogers of Danbury and George Griswold of Guilford, who is the present department commander.

The Convention To-day.

The convention will be called to order this morning at ten o'clock by Senator Brandegee and after the committee reports nomination will be called for. Governor Woodruff will speak last night if he had withdrawn from the contest and he replied: "No; why should I?" so that three names will be presented to the convention for governor.

Light for Lilley.

Judge Light of Newhall will nominate Mr. Lilley and the nomination will be seconded by Frank T. Brown of Norwich, who represented Lilley at the time of the relations between him and the congressional committee. Others will be heard from in favor of his nomination.

Garvan for Lake.

Judge Garvan of Hartford will present the name of Lieutenant Governor Everett J. Lake, instead of Mayor E. W. Hooker, Carl Hartstrom, principal of the Hartstrom school, will second the nomination. It has not been decided yet who will nominate Woodruff.

Then the Balloting.

From any canvass which could be made last night it looked as if Lilley would easily win out on the first ballot. But it is equally certain that he will not have as many delegates as his managers claim for him. Lieutenant Governor Lake last night claimed that he would be nominated, but that it would take more than one ballot.

Ullman to Name Tilson.

Col. I. M. Ullman will nominate Major John Q. Tilson for congressman-at-large and Judge Banks will probably present Judge Walsh's name. The other nominations will run off rapidly.

Kenealy Treasurer.

At the meeting of the state central committee held yesterday afternoon it was voted that Chairman Kenealy should be treasurer of the campaign fund this fall. The other matter taken up was that of not electing delegates hereafter until a convention had been called.

THE TWO INVINCIBLES, Cod Liver Oil and Iron.

Cod Liver oil and iron in some form or other are prescribed by physicians the world over, more than any other two remedies the world has ever known, for anemia or poor blood, weakness, convalescence, and all wasting and pulmonary diseases.

Iron, because it is the basis of the blood and without a sufficient amount the blood is impoverished, watery, pale and impure.

Cod Liver Oil, because it contains curative and reconstructive qualities greater than that possessed by any other one medicinal agent.

In Vinol, modern science has given to the world a combination of these two world-famed tonics—Cod Liver Oil and Iron, but short of all useless or disagreeable features.

Vinol is made by a scientific, extractive and concentrating process from fresh cods' livers, combining with phosphate-of-iron all the medicinal, healing, body building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

As a body-builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, after sickness, and for Chronic Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, and all throat and lung troubles, Vinol is unexcelled.

We ask New Haven people to give Vinol a trial. It won't cost anything unless it gives satisfaction. Hull's Corner Drug Store, corner State and Chapel streets, corner Howard and Congress avenues, New Haven, Conn.

SEN. BRANDEGEE'S SPEECH

Address of Chairman at Opening of State Convention.

The speech of Senator Brandegee, chairman of the convention, was as follows:

Gentlemen of the Convention:

It is an inspiration to look upon this magnificent body of republicans, party in every town of our beloved state. That you do actually represent it is no rhetorical fiction. Every elector of this state who took interest enough in his government to enroll as a republican and to attend his primary meeting has had his voice in your selection.

We have gathered here to ratify the platform of principles promulgated at our great national council; to renew our allegiance to the cardinal and enduring principles of our party; to select our candidates for those positions on our federal and state tickets whom we have been duly warned to choose. This is the fourteenth gathering of our party in a presidential year. Organized in 1856, more than half a century ago, our party has been doing things ever since. Its glorious achievements, all condemned at the time by our opponents, have been repeatedly approved by an intelligent and patriotic electorate and are now imbedded in the foundations of the republic. Its great leaders, all attacked and abused at the time, have long since been awarded illustrious rank in history and are enshrined in the affections of a grateful people.

The record of the republican party for the last half century constitutes the history of this republic. Every existing statute passed during that period is the product of its wise and far-sighted statesmanship. Our party was organized as a protest against the infamy of human slavery. It struck the shackles from four millions of our fellow citizens; preserved the Union against the assaults of secession by the successful conduct of the greatest military struggle in history; restored the national credit; pensioned the veterans of the Civil war; passed the homestead act; resumed specie payments; passed the Sherman anti-trust act; established the gold standard; established and maintained the policy of protection to American industries and American laboring men; maintained the authority, dignity and power of the courts; enacted the railroad rate bill; the measure providing for the inspection of meats; the pure food bill; the bill providing for free alcohol in the arts; the bill reforming our consular service; the legislation providing for the construction of the Panama canal; and the measures throwing additional protection about the subjects of naturalization and immigration.

Every one of these measures was of vital importance to the growth, the prosperity and, possibly even, to the existence of this nation. If our opponents had controlled the government in 1860, our country would have been dismembered; our southern borders would have been Mason's and Dixon's line. From thence to the Gulf of Mexico a rival government, based upon the institution of human slavery, and governed by an aristocracy, would have existed. That artery of commerce, the Mississippi river, would have been controlled by one government at its source and another government at its mouth. Each government would have made its own treaties with foreign powers, and political chaos would have existed on this continent.

If our opponents had controlled this government in 1896, our judiciary would have been rendered lame and impotent. The protective tariff, the handmaid of prosperity and the guarantor of thrift and high wages, would have been abandoned. A tariff for revenue only, which means "free trade," would have been substituted. Our industries would have been paralyzed; wages would have been thrown out of employment, and the market for the manufactured products of this country would, to a large extent, have been handed over to our foreign competitors. Instead of every dollar of the nation's currency being as good as gold the world over, this value of every dollar would have been reduced to 50 cents. Financial disaster would have followed "repudiation" and the progress of our nation would have been turned back a half century.

Happily these dire effects of democratic ascendancy were averted by the intelligence, the innate common sense and the patriotism of the American people. The republican party comprises in its membership the majority of all the voters of this country. That is only another way of stating that it has the confidence of the majority of the people of the United States. It believes in legislating for the greatest good of the greatest number. It has done this in the past and that record is its sure guarantee that it will continue to do so in the future. We get this record of successful and patriotic accomplishment against the dangerous heresies and fatuous promises of our opponents.

In November hundreds of thousands of young men will cast their first ballot. The great majority of these young men were infants when the last democratic administration came into power. To them the ruin and disaster wrought in this country by that democratic administration, from 1892 to 1896; is not a matter of experience and of history, but their fathers and their families remember it with a shudder. The want, the paucity, the soup houses, the loss of employment, the closed factories, the financial chaos; the lack of coordination in the government at Washington, the distress, panic and desperation are still fresh in the minds of the unfortunate people who survived that awful period. Will the voters of this country and especially the educated electorate of the good old state of Connecticut record their ballots in favor of a return to those conditions? We have every confidence to believe that they will not. Such action upon their part would be not only the extremity of folly; it would be willful suicide. In 1896 this country was rescued

BEATEN AND THEN ROBBED Victim Carried Large Sums of Money With Him—Crowbar Did the Work.

New London, Sept. 8.—Dyer Copeland, a civil war veteran, who lived a recluse's life at 20 East street, was found dead this morning at 6:30 in a barn near his house. His pockets were turned inside-out and there was no money or watch in the clothing.

Copeland's head lay almost beneath the hind feet of his horse. Several ragged cuts and abrasions were found on the head but a large swelling on the top of the head does not appear to have been made by the horse's hoofs.

The finding of a crowbar partially covered by blood it has been proved conclusively that Copeland was murdered. The bar was found, standing against the wall of the barn by Coroner Brown immediately after several officials had walked by it.

AT LOCAL THEATERS

Richard Carle in Mary's Lamb at Hyperion Last of This Week—Other Attractions.

Richard Carle brings "Mary's Lamb" to the Hyperion, Saturday, matinee and evening, Sept. 12. In this musical comedy, of French origin, but of American rejuvenation, the tall comedian has again scored a tremendous success. "Mary's Lamb" ran for three months in New York and for long engagements in Boston and Chicago. Mr. Carle brings a splendid cast of principals, including Cecilia Rhoda, Julia Ralph, Nellie Brewster, Rita Stanwood, Winifred Gilmore, Henry Montgomery, Sylvain Landais, DeWitt Mott, George Bogues and Abbott Adams. The chorus is one of the largest, showiest, nimblest and dressest in musical comedy.

AT THE GRAND.

Last Performance of "Shadows of a Great City" To-night.

The last performances in the appearance here of "Shadows of a Great City" will be given at the Grand Opera house this afternoon and evening. This fall's return of this favorite melodrama has aroused more enthusiasm than ever before and justly so for the production is more elaborate and better staged than at any time in its history. It is truly one of the best melodramas on the stage today. Regular matinee prices this afternoon.

"When Women Love"

"When Women Love," a fascinating story of sensational adventure, love and humor, comes to delight and thrill the patrons of the Grand Opera house for three days with a matinee. The opening performance will be tomorrow night.

Many of the regular habitués of this theatre remember with pleasure former presentations of this successful melodrama and will welcome with delightful anticipation its return to the Grand Opera house.

A notable feature of this "survival of the fittest" of modern stage stories, is the lavish manner in which it is mounted, regardless of expense, for the current season. An entire new scenic equipment, elaborate electrical effects, and a specially selected company of players, all combine to insure a graphic interpretation of surpassing interest.

Fidelity in its portrayal of modern conditions, holding in wrapt attention

AT POLI'S.

The olio at Poli's this week is certainly one of the best produced here for a long time. There is plenty of variety. There is a circus which creates lots of fun. The crowd took to "Christmas on Blackwell's Island," Sidney Deane's sketch. As soon as the drop lifted, showing the tier of cells the applause began and it kept right up through "Adeste Fideles" down to the final chorus. "You're as Funny as a Crutch" got its usual heavy hand, and "Turkey Bone" brought two big encores. The act has been slightly renovated since last year and goes now better than ever.

The Sharp brothers, familiar to all through their association with the inimitable Eddie Leonard, reappear in a sketch of their own, entitled "Dancing on the Levee." It's a good sketch, too. The Sharp brothers are excellent dancers and the patter of their hard shoes weaves a pleasing accompaniment to their songs. The act is well-staged and last night the brothers won several recalls. The work of the chorus is excellent too, and the entire act deserved every bit of applause it took.

"The Ward Healer" has a fearful and wonderful line of talk, and is ably assisted by Miss Ruth Francis, who

ORANGE FAIR CLOSES IN GLORY

Exceedingly Large Number of Prizes Awarded Competitors in Tenth Annual Exhibition.

HORSE RACES POPULAR

Many Followers of Sport Line Fence. Intently Watching Favorites—Peg Race Proves Very Interesting.

The second and closing day of the tenth annual Orange fair proved to be as great a success as the first, both for the management and for the patrons who journeyed to the grounds.

While the attendance figures did not reach the record-breaking numbers of the previous day, nevertheless, it is estimated that at least 3,500 people passed into the grounds.

Aside from the horse races, the interest of the afternoon was centered in the magnificent floral parade, which was led by Watson S. Woodruff, president of the Orange Agricultural society, and Walter S. Hine, vice-president of the same organization; following these came the other officers of the society on horseback. Then came the Second Regiment band of twelve pieces. Following this array came an assortment of pony-carts, dog-carts, goat-carts and floral floats, seldom seen anywhere but in a country fair, and it is not to be wondered at that the judges were considerably perplexed when it came to a question of deciding winners for the various classes for which prizes had been offered.

The following is a list of the prizes of the different classes in the floral parade:

Best Trimmed Wagon (Artificial)—A. J. Woodruff.
 Best Trimmed Float (Natural)—William G. Hine.
 Best Trimmed Float (Artificial)—George Hine.
 Best Trimmed Double Carriage—Mrs.

has a couple of good songs and an engaging manner. Thomas J. Keogh did the character work. Fred Sosman sings "Ma Broth' Sylvester" and got a roar of applause for one of the best songs which have come over the footlights for many a season. Annie and Edmie Conley give a good song and dance act, and Arthur Huston opens with a juggling act which had the house with him from the time it started.

Many sufferers from nasal catarrh say they get splendid results by using an atomizer. For their benefit we prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Except that it is liquid it is in all respects like the healing, helpful, pain-relieving Cream Balm that the public has been familiar with for years. No cocaine nor other dangerous drug in it. The soothing spray is a remedy that relieves at once. All druggists, 75c, including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren street, New York.

Edwin, aged four, owned a picture book in which a fierce looking crow was running after a small boy. He looked at it a long time, then carefully closing the book he laid it away. A few days later he got the book again, and turned to the picture. Bringing his chubby fist down on the crow, he exclaimed in a tone of triumph, "The bird caught him yet."—The Delineator.

WHY WE HOLD TO THESE LOW RATES:

The old Durant House (now closed) was perhaps the last of the old time local taverns to close its doors. As far back as the oldest resident can remember it was a tavern. Eighty years ago it was run by Mrs. Canfield. Later it was the Upson House, the Baker House, the Parker House and afterwards the Durant House. I had been associated with it for eighteen years, for the past fourteen as proprietor. When I took it, it had seven rooms for transients. Going into the adjoining buildings I added ten, then eight and later twenty three, making in all forty-eight, at which time I was paying rent, each month, to three different landlords. I built up a loyal trade for the house. My rates were always low. While the new Durant is modern in all its appointments I am still holding to these popular rates.

In the new Durant the office, waiting-room and buffet are on the ground floor. A new elevator has been put in. All the old plumbing torn out and the most modern new plumbing installed. From top to bottom, building has been remodeled and renewed. Most of the rooms are outside rooms, most of them single, some of them en suite with baths. All the rooms have been newly papered, carpeted and furnished. All are spotlessly clean. There is a nice dining room on the second floor and a newly equipped modern kitchen in the rear. The building is modern, built of brick. Its six large fire-escapes are ample for the egress of its fullest capacity of guests in ten minutes. While we are not having any formal opening we would be pleased to welcome our friends and patrons and solicit a show of their trade. Respectfully Charles E. Bush, proprietor.

tion in session in this city to present this machine made program to the electors of the state? What theory is there but the one that the people will walk humbly to the polls, as they have done time and time again, and eat the cake prepared for their consumption? Not a very pleasing picture, The Journal-Courier will await with increasing interest the effect of this political enterprise upon the voters of Connecticut, upon the men who have their capital invested in local industries and upon the men who do the toiling in the shops and foundries. There would be no question of the answer to be returned if it were an off year. So the only influence which can possibly turn discredit into power is the fascinating personality of Judge Taft and the stupidity of democratic leadership. The leaders in today's convention are walking in a dangerous direction.

A FAITHFUL SERVANT. Today marks the retirement of Justice Hammersly of Hartford from his seat on the bench of the supreme court of Connecticut. Justice Hammersly retires not for the lack of physical and mental vigor but because he has reached the age limit set by the law of the state.

It is both a duty and a pleasure to extend to Justice Hammersly the courtesies of such an event. From the moment he entered into the service of Connecticut his conduct has been notable for the dignity it has expressed and the usefulness it has typified. He has seen but one way to look and that ahead; he has had but one master to serve and that the state of Connecticut; he has had but one ideal and that the just interpretation of the constitution and the laws as he understood them.

Connecticut will not lack for eminent servants to take the place of those who for good and sufficient reasons are withdrawn from its service, but it will find no substitute more suited for such service than Justice Hammersly has shown himself. A learned jurist, a gentleman of rare cultivation and refinement, may he have before him many years of that calm and serenity which are said to add such a delicate flavor to advancing years.

MR. TROUP'S LEADERSHIP. The spontaneous tributes paid the memory of Alexander Troup's personality explain the power which he exercised while a dominant force in the political and newspaper life of Connecticut. Men denied him the power he possessed and conspired to weaken it, but until the hour of his death he was a potent force and influence along the line he elected to follow.

So much for the past. How about the future? It is already realized by many that the death of Mr. Troup removed from active political life a factor which made amazingly for results. Absolute in his convictions, determined in his conclusions and firm in his relations, he stood like a rock for progress as he saw it. It is undeniably true that he was more frequently opposed to the views of the people of Connecticut than he was favorable to them, but that is of only passing significance. The impressive fact is that with his enthusiasm and his sincerity he carried men along with him, who could have been carried out of their natural course in no other way. His prejudices became the prejudices of other men, his likes became the likes of other men and his affections became the affections of other men. Even Mr. Bryan himself little realized the truth of his remark to the editor of this newspaper but a few weeks ago, in speaking of Mr. Troup: "I really believe Troup would die for me."

Obviously we are not speaking of Mr. Troup in these connections in a critical spirit. On the contrary we admired him for the spirit in which he clung to his views and his friends. We speak of them because his death cannot but affect the political party which he so surely influenced in its main conduct. There is no one to succeed him because there is no democrat in the state who has as yet at least evolved the spirit he possessed and expressed. The men who agreed with him and followed him have, in other words, lost their leader and must on that account disintegrate and make new alignments. This is the way of the world of business. Strong personalities are never duplicated in exactly the same way as the administration of President Roosevelt has shown us as compared with that of either President Cleveland or President McKinley. Mr. Bryan in the president's chair would not be Mr. Roosevelt, though he claims the authorship of "my policies," nor would Judge Taft.

It would be unfair to say that Mr. Troup opposed the reconciliation of the gold with the silver democrats. It is not unfair to say that while favoring the reconciliation of the two wings of the party, Mr. Troup believed that the gold wing should not expect to control for a time at least. He was of course largely instrumental in making that policy the policy of those in control of the party. Being now withdrawn from the active councils of the democratic party and leaving no logical successor in them, it may be expected that the influence which have worked in the way suggested will cease to operate. A most interesting chapter in the political history of Connecticut closed with the death of Alexander Troup.

THE SPEAKERSHIP. Anti-Cannon-itis, anti-Joe-Cannon-itis, is spreading over the country like an epidemic. Mr. Bryan and Mr. Kern have each had their little fling at the veteran speaker from Danville, but he bobs up again, like one of the proverbial summer-resort dodgers, smiling and happy. Whether Mr. Cannon will continue to be as happy is a question highly problematical. The democratic candidates would be pleased, could they make Mr. Cannon an issue of the campaign, but they cannot. The speaker is himself receiving a frosty treatment at the hands of the Taft followers. In the west, where Mr. Roosevelt has been more idolized than in the east, Mr. Cannon, as a persistent opponent of Rooseveltian legislation, is in especial disfavor. In many republican congressional districts in the west to-day there are movements on foot to pledge candidates against voting for Mr. Cannon as speaker of the house for another term, if they are elected.

But Mr. Cannon's troubles are not ended there. The announcement of the republican congressional committee's campaign has brought forth another storm of protest. This campaign will simply attempt to bring about the election of republican congressmen favorable to Mr. Cannon as speaker. To-day there are many local republican committees that are sparing no pains to make it perfectly clear that they do not want Mr. Cannon, or any of his associates to come to them to take part in their coming republican campaign. Then, too, Mr. Cannon himself must secure his own re-election in his own congressional district, the eighteenth Illinois. That district is being stirred from end to end by the efforts of the opposition to effect his defeat. No argument is rejected to bring that about, even his well known perversity for cross-words having become an issue.

The present troubles with the speaker in the house will not be eliminated with the selection or rejection of Mr. Cannon at the time of the next session of congress. It is quite as possible that any other man as speaker of the house could and would become quite as dictatorial. For these reasons Mr. Cannon cannot be made a national campaign issue. The trouble is not so much in Mr. Cannon as in the speakership. It is because the rules which create speakerships are at fault that, as the Washington Herald has said, the office is second in power and influence only to that of the president, and that, as the Springfield Republican observes, to unseat a speaker has become as difficult as to amend the constitution.

The time was when the cry was for a larger house of representatives. The larger house has come, but with it has developed this grave problem of the speakership. One solution would be to decrease the number of congressmen. The constitution provides that the speaker shall be elected by the house. At times it has seemed that an officer of such arbitrary powers should be elected by a direct vote of the people. That would be another solution. Still others may be offered. They will be hastened, at any rate, by the present shifting of the searchlight of public opinion upon the reachable details of the speakership as at present constituted. For that reason the present prominence of Mr. Cannon should be a source of satisfaction to all good citizens.

THE CRY OF FRAUD. Speaking of the Cleveland letter to the American people which was published in certain New York, Chicago and Providence papers a fortnight ago, Marse Henry Waterston said in Chicago Monday, when interviewed: "I think that letter was a 'fake.' I do not believe Mr. Cleveland wrote it, and I am now having the matter investigated by persons who were friends of Mr. Cleveland and believe with me that the letter was a 'fake.'" After reviewing a great amount of "internal evidence" in the Cleveland letter, Marse Henry's newspaper, the Louisville Courier-Journal, says of it: "In our opinion it is bogus."

This is a serious charge, even for the veteran Kentucky editor, to make. When the Philadelphia Record also takes up the same slogan, it becomes nationally interesting, especially in view of the fact that among the papers that published the Cleveland letter were the New York Times and the Providence Journal. Grover Cleveland's published last words to his fellow citizens have made a profound impression and one highly favorable to Mr. Taft. It is most natural, for that reason, that the cry of "Fraud! Fraud!" should come from the democratic camp, if at all. Yet, if the charge can be proved, which seems highly doubtful, the incident cannot redound to the discredit of Mr. Taft or any of his management, but rather, as the New York Tribune has put it, as "a substantial grievance against the publishers of the article." They should have satisfied themselves beyond the shadow of a doubt that the last word of the late ex-president was a genuine appeal to the country at large. The Journal-Courier for one is inclined to the belief that these papers did satisfy themselves and that the cry of "Fraud! Fraud!" can soon be hurled back into Marse Henry's camp with increased force and meaning.

This case of hyper-criticism had its initial start with a correspondent of the Indianapolis News, who argued from certain internal evidence that the article was not at all in Mr. Cleveland's well-known style and that it contained several apparent anachronisms and apparent references to events that did not happen until after Mr. Cleveland's death. Therefore he concluded that the whole was not bona fide. But perhaps it is significant that the Indianapolis News, the very paper whose correspondent started the whole discussion, has been most vehement in its defence of the authenticity of the Cleveland letter. It admits the letter's style is far from being that of the palmy days of Mr. Cleveland. It concludes that a counterfeiter would have made a better job of his imitation. The very awkwardness of the letter proves to the News its authenticity. As with many men, mistakes of style are apt to become more noticeable as years advance. If, then, as was most probable in this case, an aged writer near to death has not the opportunity or the strength to make a revision, it is more than probable that blemishes of this kind should appear. As for the anachronisms, they may be easily explained on the ground of Mr. Cleveland's general knowledge of the political situation and his ability to prophecy in a degree what would happen at the various conventions.

Internal evidence and its arguments are flimsy at best. Marse Henry is making serious charges. He better be sure of himself before he says more on this subject.

The month of the country fairs is upon us. In spite of the development of our many later-day amusement resorts, the sphere of these country fairs has not been impaired with the passing years. Their usefulness cannot be questioned. Not only do they tend to encourage excellence and friendly rivalry in agriculture, animal breeding and the thousand and one other activities of the state, but they are potent as a means of getting "Nutmeg-staters" together in bonds of fellowship. It may be hoped their day will never pass. As farming methods improve, there are no better places than at these fairs to teach the farmers the good points and practicability of the latest improvements.

The news comes from the land of the Young Turks that the latter propose to force the Turkish sultan, Abdul Hamid II, to depose unless he voluntarily abdicates within a month. It is a pleasant thought for Americans to think of any people adopting the democratic form of government. But there are times when that is highly inadvisable. The Young Turks have thus far advanced their cause of liberty with admirable judgment. It is highly questionable, however, whether Turkey is today prepared for such a monstrous democracy. Monarchy has not tended at all to develop the executive thinking powers of the masses as voters. The change may well be contemplated but not planned as immediate.

OUR CONTEMPORARIES. ALEXANDER TROUP. Various Press Tributes to the Veteran Editor. (New London Day.) His editorial utterances have made an impression far beyond his own city and the work for his party would have brought him most any official honor in its gift had he sought such honor.

and respected citizen of the United States. (Naugatuck News.) In his death the state loses one of its most prominent citizens and the newspaper fraternity an able and distinguished writer, from whom he considered his duty, no matter what the effect would be.

(New London Telegraph.) He was an optimist as well as a fighter. His side was always the bright side; his enthusiasm always hearty and sincere. His love for Bryan and his policies was the wonder of the political world, but such devotion showed his determination to stand, as he always stood, for what he believed to be right. Connecticut may well mourn Alexander Troup, for she has lost a man like him.

Expensive Foolishness. (Springfield Republican.) The proposition to send the men employed on the trolley lines controlled by the New Haven railroad company out on a strike at this particular juncture in industrial affairs will stand as one of the most expensive bits of foolishness ever seriously suggested. No wonder that the proposed strike is falling of its own weight. At a time when the managers of street railways, wherever located, have been receiving numberless applications for work from men employed in mills and elsewhere who have been reduced to half time or less, to talk strike is senseless indeed. The result of a strike would be to put many hundreds of men out of a job in short order, and at a time when other jobs are hard or impossible to get. In the result of a strike, it does not seem possible that sensible men, however led, could proceed so foolishly, and no one need wonder that the talk about going out is waning to the vanishing point.

Just Imagine. (Springfield Republican.) Imagine the eulogies of Mr. Taft sincerely sounding the praises of Mr. Lillie! Imagine them turning to the candidate for governor and admiring his discretion, his poise, his searching penetration, his superb judicial character! Imagine them emphasizing his steadiness of action, his sense of responsibility—all those Taft-like qualities, in short, which are thought to fit a man to occupy the executive station. To appreciate the absurdity of such an antithesis as these two candidates present to the voters of Connecticut, it is necessary merely to examine the story of the submarine boat scandal which Mr. Lillie precipitated in the recent congress. It is hard to conceive of Mr. Taft promoting such a fiasco. Mr. Lillie was sincere and honest—let it be admitted; but is a man qualified for the governorship of a populous and populous state by charging his colleagues with corruption and then falling utterly to substantiate his accusations? Does it qualify a man to govern Connecticut, to command its militia, to make suitable nominations to office, to resist corrupt influences upon the interests of the people, to preserve law and order—does it qualify a man for serving his commonwealth in these high official functions to keep in his employ a private secretary who has circulated fraudulent letters in his behalf? Can a man so lacking in Taft with a record of a "fiasco" or can we conceive of a man with Mr. Lillie's talent for the indiscreet, the inept, the reckless, being a successful candidate for president of the United States?

PROFANITY-PROOF. I'm not mild or meek or lowly, loving, patient, pure, or holy; I've a temper that is touchy, yet I wish that I never, never lost it, undue license I refuse it; I indulge in some strong language— I never do trouble if I should. Maledictions are forbidden; I must keep my choler hidden. I must stifle all emphatic words beginning with a "D," "dunce," "damnation," "donnerwater" ("thunderation"). And even when mild expletives like "jimminy" and "gee" are eschewed by me is lingo like "Great Scott" and "jumpy jingo" and "Shucks" and "sugar" and "fudge" and "middle" they are vocable taboo; it would border upon folly to ejaculate by "jehosophat" or "pooh!" Or to seek relief in "ginger" "kosh" "jehosophat" or "pooh!" Do you ask, why this repression? Then I'll offer a confession: I don't swear because you must know, by my own choice, I wouldn't. My address: Grand Central Station, at the booth marked "Information." When I answer fourth questions every day the whole year through.—Frank M. Bicknell, in Lippincott's.

SAVINGS AND DOINGS. The houses of England, if placed in a line, would reach 27,000 miles. Conversation is a good form of exercise for those afflicted with heart disease. Of the 361 sorts of birds found in Great Britain, only 141 are residents all the year around. "I find a great many more crimes traceable to gambling and betting than to drinking," said the recorder at the Old Bailey, London. Experiments are being made with new machinery on the Chilean nitrate fields which are expected to decrease the cost of production 50 per cent. According to Dr. Even Hedin, the Swedish explorer, the famous Asiatic river, Brahmaputra, rises from an enormous glacier in the northernmost Himalaya mountains. The aggregate production of anthracite and bituminous coal in 1907 fell but little short of half a billion tons; in exact figures the product was 450,000,000 tons of 2,000 pounds.

LOCALS GO FISHING.

New Haven Ball Team Will Take Rest To-day—Will Attend Outing.

Instead of hiking to the Brass City today to play the Waterbury nine, George Bone has decided to call the game off and have a doubleheader here on Saturday, when the Authors come down for the last game of the season. The day's rest will probably prove of great help to the locals, who have been playing a miserable game in their last few contests at the Savin Rock grounds and they will have a chance to recuperate and jump right into the game at Holyoke tomorrow.

Jack Loomis, who owns a boat jointly with Mr. Cameron, the manager of the local team, has agreed to take the local ball-throwers on a little outing. George Bone will chaperone the party and the husky diamond followers will spend the day fishing along the break-water and cruising around the Sound. Racket lunch will be barred and the local players will have to be content with whatever fare is offered them and whatever they are fortunate enough to catch. If a landing place can be found suitable to the fancies of the nine, the party will disembark and a game of ball will prove the chief event. After the ball game a fat man's race will be held and the only entry at present time early this morning was John Reisman, the big first sacker, "Bill" Fergie and "Kid" Sherwood will then fight it out for the marble championship of the city. Either pug or ring will be played, according to the wishes of the participants.

Simmons will furnish the entertainment and will sing a few duets. He will introduce the new hit "I Can't Always Knock in the Run." Bloddy Zacher will then discourse on the benefits of eating a fat man's cheese. Following the captain, Waters will occupy the south booth and will charge all comers $1 per kiss. The money received will be divided among the players, Waters and Clyde.

Joe Stoup, under the hypnotic influence of Havel, will be in a trance all day, and will awake when the next baseball season opens. Sam Weidenheimer, as usual, will be at the gate and "Big Andy" Herbat will watch the catch, while Phil Corrovan will watch Andy. The spectators will include Jerry Connell, Carrick and Palge.

City Bowling League Arranges Plans for Coming Season at Hotel Davenport.

STRONG TEAMS THIS YEAR

Argument Over Number of Teams to Be Admitted—Officers Elected for the Season.

A lively City Bowling league meeting was held at Hotel Davenport last night and six alleys were represented. F. F. Goode, Westville; George Weber, Tuxedo; C. G. Johnson, Academy; Al Powell, Y. M. C. A.; Frank Slupper, Sterling, and W. E. Ford by proxy for the Winchester alleys. Mr. Keitchell put in application for the Turn Hall alleys and will probably be accepted provided the Aschenbrodel will enter a team, making an eight-team circuit; if not the six teams represented at the meeting will bowl a three home and home series commencing September 25, with thirty weeks of bowling, finishing week of April 19, 1909.

The officers elected for the coming year were: T. F. Goode, president; W. E. Ford, secretary; Al Powell, treasurer.

The league this year will be much stronger having dropped the rule barring all players with an average of more than 150, and give the best available a chance, thereby making more interest in the game.

Twenty dollars will be assessed each team as prize money and will be divided among the teams and individuals as the prize committee report.

A rules committee of three was appointed by the president, consisting of J. P. Jacobson, C. G. Johnson and W. E. Ford.

The proposed schedule will be prepared and ready for adoption at next meeting, which will be held at the Academy Bowling alleys, Friday afternoon, September 15.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

from that democratic administration and from the impending threat of a worse one by the imminent election of that Christian gentleman, that wise statesman, that sainted martyr, William McKinley. Again in 1906 Mr. Bryan, who had advocated in season and out of season all these pestiferous heresies, was repudiated at the polls by the indignant uprising of the American electorate. In 1904 our present matchless leader again overwhelmed the cohorts of Democracy. In 1901, in the first year of his second term, President McKinley fell under the hand of the assassin, and that time for a continuous period of seven years President Roosevelt has been at the head of this government and of this nation.

Never in the history of civilization has any man at the head of the affairs of any country so endeared himself, not only to the hearts of his own people, but to the people of all nations, as has our great leader, Theodore Roosevelt. He has not only continued the policies of his predecessor and of the republican party, but by his courageous and broad-minded statesmanship he has amplified and given new life to them. He has suggested and in large measure secured all the progressive legislation enacted during his term of office. He has been fearless in standing by the right. He has been uncompromising and implacable in his opposition to the wrong. He has brought evil down to matter how wealthy or powerful, to respect and obey the law. He has helped the weak and defenseless. He has given a new meaning to the doctrine that "all men stand free and equal before the law." He has made the people understand that in this country of equal rights no honest man has anything to fear and no dishonest man can expect any quarter.

The one overwhelming issue in this campaign is "shall the policies of the republican party, of William McKinley and of Theodore Roosevelt be continued?" We believe that the people of this country without respect to former political affiliations, and that they shall be continued. Theodore Roosevelt thinks that the best, and now the only instrument by which they can be continued, is his great cabinet minister, William Howard Taft. I am sure we all agree with him.

Secretary Taft by nature, education, training and experience, combines every quality necessary to a great leader of men. His noble qualities, his magnetism, and his capacity for leadership were demonstrated in his youth—while he was a student at this grand old Yale university, of which we are all so proud, and of which he is the most popular and most distinguished living graduate. Since leaving college his life has known no idle moment. Whether as a practicing attorney, as a judge upon the bench, or as a cabinet minister his conduct and character have been faultless and his record and achievements have excited the admiration and wonder of all observers. The people of this country know that with Taft in the White House prosperity will continue; that the progressive policies, tempered with the conservatism of his nature and disposition, will prevail, and the affairs of government will be conducted upon the same high plane that is so characteristic of the present administration.

Democratic Insincerity.

While the republican party during its entire history has consistently and continuously kept its faith with the people and obeyed their mandates, the democratic party has always been in an unseemly scramble to hit upon some pretext for obtaining popular support. In 1896 their platform and their candidate, Mr. Bryan, in advocacy of the "free and unlimited coinage of silver," and 50 cent dollars, filled the air with the declaration that the farmer could never obtain a fair price for his crops unless the currency of the country was debased. Although proclaiming that this was a fundamental issue, as soon as it proved to be a losing one it was abandoned ruthlessly and without explanation. Whether or not Mr. Bryan still believes in this financial heresy no man can tell.

In 1900 one of the great issues was the alleged imperialism upon which this country had entered. Mr. Bryan and his followers claimed that the republic and the constitution were in peril and that unless he should be elected, the downfall of the republic was imminent. When this claim was repudiated by the people of the country, the fictitious issue was forthwith abandoned, and is now dead or moribund. Upon his return from his foreign travels Mr. Bryan announced to an astonished country that the government ownership and operation of all the railroads of the United States, doing an interstate business was the issue; but when this socialistic proposition was immediately denounced by the leading men of his own party, it was at once withdrawn, but whether temporarily or permanently no man can tell.

It must be evident to every man of common sense that a man who can play "fast and loose" with questions of this magnitude in a frantic search for votes, no matter how brilliant or versatile he may be, is no looking in for sound judgment, in stability of character, in continuity of purpose, and in broad, conservative statesmanship, as not only to render him entirely unfit for the office of chief magistrate of this nation, but as to render his candidacy a positive menace to the prosperity of the country.

The Tariff and the Trusts.

In two things only has the democratic party been consistent. It has always denounced the republican policy of protection to American industries and American laboring men, and it has continuously assailed the business interests of the country under the pretext of hostility to the trusts. The attitude of the two parties upon these two great questions is the same today as it was six years ago. The people of the country and the people of this state passed upon these two questions at that time—passed upon them decisively—and their position remains today as it was then.

I cannot do better at this time, in stating these issues, than to recall to you the words addressed to the republican state convention in September, 1902, by its presiding officer, my honored and sainted predecessor in the senate of the United States, Orville H. Platt. He said: "The republican party stands for a protective tariff. The democratic party is against a protective tariff. Protection has brought prosperity and filled our land with happiness, and when the time comes for either a complete or partial revision of the tariff the interests of the country require that it shall be revised along the lines of protection and not for the establishment of free trade. Whenever and wherever there shall be tariff revision, it should be a revision which should not destroy our home market or take away work from our own workmen to give it to the workmen of foreign countries. Tariff revision should be attempted only when it will not seriously disturb the business of the country or check our developing activities. When that time shall come, and the need shall be apparent, the republican party may be relied upon to undertake this work. Tariff schedules are not sacred. The principle of protection should be held sacred in the United States. The democratic cry for tariff revision which is sounding through the country is pitched upon one key—the destruction of protection, which is the main factor of our prosperity."

"With regard to great aggregations of capital, indefinitely called trusts, all men know that business cannot now be successfully conducted in the United States with the limited capital of former times; that to attempt it would result in widespread disaster and misery, and that even if it were possible to re-establish old trade conditions the consumers would necessarily be compelled to pay enhanced prices for the needed articles of consumption. Other nations were first to seize the opportunities which steam and electricity offered in extending business operations throughout the field of the world which had been previously limited by slow correspondence and transportation. The United States was forced by the changed conditions of trade to do business upon a larger scale, and that could only be done with augmented capital. "Business thus conducted, honestly and fairly according to the common judgment of mankind, is not only a necessity but a blessing."

"But great aggregations of capital result in enormous power, and there comes with that power the temptation to do business unfairly, and without due regard to the rights and interests of the great body of our people. The difference between the republican and democratic parties in the matter of trusts may be stated thus: The democratic party proposes to destroy trusts and the business conducted by them so that no unfair advantage shall be taken of the people of the United States, and to the full limit of its constitutional power it will carry out this policy. The republican party does not set itself against capitalistic monopoly or extortion. The democratic party, true to its traditional policy of destruction, has apparently by this, and only one, remedy for the evils arising from the improper management of business carried on by great corporations, and that is to put all articles manufactured by corporations which have the supposed ability to control prices on the free list, thus restoring at one blow protection to our industries and the business pursued by the trusts. No more famous policy could be conceived. We deny that the tariff is the mother of trusts. We affirm that the tariff is the parent of prosperity. Upon the republican policy of regulation against the democratic policy of destruction we appeal confidently to the good sense and sober judgment of the thinking people of the United States. It will be a sad day for our workmen, if ever in an attempt to punish and destroy our trusts the work now performed by them shall be transferred to the workmen employed by foreign trusts. And right here let it be observed that no plan was ever proposed by the democratic party relating either to tariffs or trusts which would result in the employment of a single additional workman in the United States, or in the enhancement of the wages of labor. What then can be said of democratic professions of sympathy for wage earners but that it is a hollow pretense, in a word travesty. Upon this subject the republican party has no more courageous, intelligent, or honest exponent of its principles, and policies than Theodore Roosevelt. Read his utterances upon this subject and be assured that he speaks for the republican party. From the attempt to sway the people of the United States by appeals to prejudice, the republican party appeals to reason."

The appeal to reason was not made in vain. The people of this state and nation endorsed the views of the republican party as expressed by Senator Platt by enormous republican majorities. They have had no reason to change their mind and will repeat the verdict with still greater emphasis in November.

Friendly to Labor.

The republican party has always manifested the utmost friendship and most sincere sympathy for the laboring man who earns his living in the sweat of his brow. The present administration has been especially so in his behalf. There has never been an administration during which so many measures have been passed for the special safeguarding of the rights of laboring men as there have been in the present administration. Striking instances of this are furnished by the passage of the employers' liability bills; the bills compelling the use of the most approved and modern safety appliances; the bill providing for the compensation for injuries sustained by workmen employed in the mines; the bill regulating the employment of children in the District of Columbia, and many other bills of like character.

The Writ of Injunction.

There has been for some time a demand by certain of the more radical labor leaders that no writ of injunction should be issued by a court in a labor dispute without notice first given to the defendant. Various other demands have also been made upon congress for legislation concerning the issuance of this writ. In response to this demand, the democratic platform states: "Questions of judicial practice have arisen especially in connection with industrial disputes. It is deemed that parties to all judicial proceedings should be treated with rigid impartiality, and that injunctions should not be issued in any cases in which injunctions would not issue if no industrial dispute were involved."

It is submitted that this Delphic declaration is drawn for the purpose of allowing anybody to read into it whatever meaning he may choose. Secretary Taft in his conservative and frank letter of acceptance, in reference to this question, says:

"Our position is clear and unequivocal. We are anxious to prevent even the appearance of any injustice to labor in the issuance of injunctions, not in a spirit of favoritism to one set of our fellow citizens, but of justice to all of our fellow citizens. The reason for exercising or refusing to exercise the power of injunction must be found in the character of the unlawful injury and not in the character or class of persons who inflict this injury. I come now to the question of notice before issuing an injunction."

Secretary Taft then reviews the rule governing the issuing of injunctions, and states:

"I have suggested the remedy of returning in such cases to the original practice under the old statute of the United States and the rules in equity adopted by the supreme court, which did not permit the issuing of an injunction without notice. In this respect, the republican convention has adopted another remedy, that, without going so far, promises to be efficacious in securing proper consideration in such cases by courts, by formulating into a legislative act the best present practice. Under this recommendation a statute may be framed which shall define with considerable particularity, and emphasize the exceptional character of the cases in which restraining orders may issue without notice, and which shall also provide that when they are issued, they shall cease to be operative beyond a short period, during which time notice shall be served and a hearing had unless the defendant desires a postponement of the hearing. By this provision the injustice which has sometimes occurred by which a preliminary restraining order of widest application has been issued without notice, and the hearing of the motion for the injunction has been fixed weeks and months after its date, could not recur. * * * * * With respect to notice, the democratic platform contains no recommendation. Its only intelligible declaration in regard to injunction suits is a reiteration of the plank in the platform of 1896 and 1904 providing that in prosecutions for contempt in federal courts, where the violation of the order constituting the contempt charged is indirect, i. e., outside of the presence of the court, there shall be a jury trial. This provision in the platform of 1896 was regarded then as a most dangerous attack upon the power of the courts to enforce their orders and decrees and it was one of the chief reasons for the defeat of the democratic party in that contest, as it ought to have been. The extended operation of such a provision to weaken the power of the courts in the enforcement of its lawful orders can hardly be overstated. Under such a provision a recalcitrant person, who refuses to obey a subpoena may insist on a jury trial before the court can determine that he received the subpoena. A citizen summoned as a juror and refusing to obey the writ when brought into court must be tried by another jury to determine whether he got the summons. Such a provision applies not alone to injunctions, but to every order which the court issues against persons. * * * I say without hesitation that such a change will greatly impair the indispensable power and authority of the courts. Those who advocate this intervention of a jury in such cases seem to suppose that this change in some way will inure only to the benefit of the poor working man. As a matter of fact, the person who will secure the chief advantage from it is the wealthy and unscrupulous defendant, able to employ astute and cunning counsel and anxious to avoid justice.

"I have been willing in order to avoid a popular but unfounded impression that a judge in punishing for contempt of his own order may be affected by personal feeling, to approve a law which should enable the common juror to apply to have another judge sit to hear the charge of contempt, but his, with so many judges as there are available in the federal court, would not constitute a delay in the enforcement of the process. The character and efficiency of the trial would be the same. It is the nature and the delay of a jury trial in such cases that those who would wish to defy the order of the court would rely upon as a reason for doing so. The administration of justice lies at the foundation of government. The maintenance of the authority of the courts is essential and we are prepared to embrace and cherish. Never in the history of the country has there been such an insidious attack upon the judicial system as the proposal to interject a jury trial between all orders of the court made after full hearing and the enforcement of such orders."

I regret that I have not the time to quote every word that Secretary Taft says in his comprehensive and able letter of acceptance concerning the right of labor. No fair minded man, be he laboring man or capitalist, can read the secretary's words without having the conviction borne home upon him, that with William Howard Taft as president the rights of every citizen of this great republic will be ample and jealously protected.

Democracy Will Help.

In former times the Democratic party had convictions and stood for them. It believed in a strict construction of the constitution, in sound money and in national expansion. Democracy today is a nondescript patchwork of wild and inconsistent dogmas snatched from the fevered ravings of populism, socialism and anarchism. Fortunately for our country whenever heretofore its institutions have been imperilled, large numbers of our democratic friends have not hesitated to place patriotism above partisanship. In the Civil war, they marched by the hundred thousand, shoulder to shoulder with us and by their heroism and self-sacrifice contributed in large measure to the preservation of the union.

In recent campaigns they rallied nobly to the rescue of our common country from the forces of secession, disunion, dishonor. They will do so again next November. The most conspicuous representative of the safe and sane old line democracy during the last generation and the only president elected by that party since the outbreak of the Civil war, was Grover Cleveland. The last service he rendered his country was to compose an address immediately preceding his death which has just been made public in the New York Sunday Times of August 20, 1908. It is prophetic, dispassionate and patriotic. It is well worth the serious consideration of every member of his party who may be in doubt as to his duty in the present crisis. He says:

"There is no suggestion of a sentiment of disloyalty on my part to the older principles of democracy under which I have striven always to do my public duty in matters large and small, when I say that there is a large indication that the coming years will bring forth a new ascendancy of those same principles, perhaps under a different party, and perhaps with a reorganization of the decayed fragments of an organization that failed to serve its purpose. No political party in any country has ever been wrecked by continued consistency with the principles that originally made it a power, the rocks on which it fell invariably being the errors of opportunists. The present campaign as a side feature will have a long step in the progress to the readjustment to first principles, and it is propositions, indeed, that there is no issue of such gravity that those principles are needed to determine. Never has there been a safer time for the rehabilitation to proceed."

"When it became apparent that Mr. Taft would be the nominee of his party, that Mr. Hearst and his party would make a clean-cut effort for emplacement as a national factor and endeavor to gain any immediate advantage for themselves by any such process as fusion—in fact, would seek to destroy Bryanism, or rather Mr. Bryan's hold on the democratic party, not by forcing the hold to relax, but by lessening that which he had to hold, conjecture as to the result in the November conclusions could be of but one sort among sensible men. With the several other parties disorganizing, redeveloping and procreating, the republican party is certain, though with a considerably lessened strength, to move on to a safe victory sustained by the popular support of reforms which should not rebound to its glory solely, whose reforms having been the work of decent men of all parties."

"There is fear on my part of being

The republican national platform pledges our party to revise the protective tariff schedules at a special session of congress to be convened immediately after the 4th of next March. There is no state in the union which, by reason of its diversified industries, its manufactures, its skilled artisans, and its great business enterprises of every kind, is more vitally concerned by the revision of the tariff than is the state of Connecticut. Our state is a veritable bee hive of successful manufacturing enterprises. The prosperity of every investor depends upon what the new tariff shall be. The success of every producer will be determined by the schedules of that bill. The wages of every laboring man in this state will be affected by that legislation. We know that if the republican party succeeds in the coming election and has a republican majority in both branches of congress and a republican president, the tariff will be revised by its friends upon lines which will protect every legitimate industry and the wages of every laboring man. We know that if the democratic party succeeds in November, assuming that they will carry out their pledges to the people, the tariff will be revised by its enemies. The free trade south will control the house of representatives and the democratic speaker will compose the ways and means committee, which originates tariff legislation, in the interests of tariff for revenue only. Do the people of Connecticut want the tariff revised by its republican friends under the leadership of William H. Taft or by its enemies under the direction of William J. Bryan?

Republicans Will Succeed.

The republican party for a half century has demonstrated its capacity for honest, able, and progressive legislation. It is a united and coherent political force. It is composed of the majority of the people of this country. It promises more than it can perform. It always performs what it promises. The democratic party has demonstrated its inability to conduct the business of this great nation. It is disunited, disorganized and inharmonious. It is an opportunist party. At one minute it catches at whatever it thinks may appeal to the popular fancy; the next minute it abandons it. It has lost the confidence of the country. Its young men, discouraged and disheartened by its lack of principle and its fantastic exhibitions, are daily casting its torch with the only political force which has the honor of the party, and the courage to stand like a rock for law and order, for the constitution, for the upbuilding of the army and navy, for equal and exact justice to all men, for progress at home and prestige abroad, for the elevation of American manhood and womanhood, for lofty ideals and purposes in public and private life, for a "square deal" in business and politics, and for the flag of our country everywhere.

As representatives of all these things we pledge ourselves and our best efforts to the election of William Howard Taft for president, whom Joseph H. Choate, late ambassador to the court of St. James, and for a generation the leader of the bar of New York, has declared to be "the best equipped man who has ever offered himself for the presidency of the United States of America."

GAMES TO-DAY

New Haven-Waterbury game postponed. Springfield at Meriden. Holyoke at New Britain. Hartford at Bridgeport.

Had the ping pong or hop, skip and jump teams put in an appearance at the Prairie yesterday the odd 300 fans (including, of course, the ball players, managers, scribes, bat boys, etc.) would have been wild with joy and excitement and would have considered their exhibition a royal treat.

The empty bleachers were practically the only ones who suffered the witnessing of the poor performance. Along with the slow, listless and uninteresting contest came the dozing half-sleeping spectators.

Giants Simmons has been preparing for a grand sport in the 300 sticker class, and has let himself loose since Labor day, smashing the pill all around the greenwaded.

Palge, who lost five, and won one game, added another victory to his record yesterday. He was in fine form and reminded one of his first stellar exhibition in this game.

George Bone's men scored their first tallie in the first inning on Herbert's single. Zacher's sacrifice and Simmons' two-bagger. That lasted them for a while, the Park City players tying the score in the fourth on Herbert's booting of Hill's fly and Phalen's fielder's choice and Water's error. Miller was at the bat and two strikes had been charged against him.

The next game out the plate in two days, Waters, thinking surely it was a strike, tossed the ball towards the infield.

In the meanwhile Palge had also started to go to the bench and was not near enough to intercept Waters' throw, with the result that Hill tatted. The sixth, seventh and eighth safely stowed away the game for the locals, they getting six tallies, two in each inning. Romer was wild and walked three men, but three was connected with for seven safe swats.

Hill's error was responsible for one tallie. The Orators made a feeble attempt of getting even in the eighth when they scored one run. The summary:

OFFICIAL AVERAGES

Simmons Among Seven .300 Sticklers—McCabe Leads—New Haven Third in Batting.

With the league season four days to run, a new leader appears in the batting column of .300 men, now reduced to seven. McCabe, of New Britain, continuing that steady advance which was started the sixth week of the season, has now forged to the front and is the leader by one point over Maggert of Springfield, who keeps up his good hitting. Rising of Springfield, had his worst week of the season and he fell away ten points. Most of the others lost ground, and another poor week will reduce the final list still further.

McCabe has a fine chance to hold the lead, if he can continue his work this week. Only Maggert and Padron are likely to dispute with him, although there are others not so far away but what a sudden spurt would land the honors. Here is the list:

TEAM BATTING

McCabe's individual work was of material assistance in boosting his team to the premier rank in team batting. For the first time this season the Hannatas passed to the front. They did some heavy sticking last week. Bridgeport continues to lose ground, although not position, the others, excepting New Britain, tumbling, too. The record:

TEAM FIELDING

Springfield fell off during the week on account of that seven-error game in New Haven, and is now tied with Hartford at the top. The race for fielding honors is as close as that for the championship. Bridgeport continues to improve and may yet get out of last place, as New Haven is but one point off. The record:

WALL STREET NOTES

Manipulative Campaign Forecasted by Yesterday's Market.

CROP REPORT DISAPPOINTS

Erie Shares Make a New High Record—Dividend Reduction Possible in American Locomotive.

The market moved wholly on the basis of "tips" and no pretense was made of explaining the advance in Erie, Reading or the Steel issues by any new developments affecting the value of these properties.

A large part of the early buying was commission house orders which accumulated over the triple holiday. The strength, however, in the early trading was re-created by the advance at London Monday and yesterday morning.

Little or no attention was paid on the stock exchange to the government's September crop report, though the figures were generally considered disappointing.

The business in American stocks in London was light yesterday as the fortnightly settlement begins to-day.

Erie shares made a new high record for the year. The advance, running to 2 1/2 points in the preference stocks, with a volume of activity which made Erie easily the leader of the market.

There was no new developments affecting the price of Consolidated Gas stock, but the day's movement was accompanied by the familiar reports of pending sales of real estate with handsome bonus for the stockholders.

American Locomotive's 3-point break, after a brief early advance, was accompanied by rumors that the next quarterly dividend would be passed or reduced.

NEWS OF THE COURTS

"White Slave" Dealer Sent to Jail—Girl's Case Remanded—Nicolet Proprietor Held.

After telling Judge Tyler in the police court yesterday how she had been shipped from New York city here under a sort of "white slave" agreement 20-year-old Florence Golden was remanded until September 15, 1908, in the care of the probation officer, while Antonio Cerchio, with whom the girl was found by the police in Franklin street, was sent to jail for 15 days and fined $5 with costs of $10.68, charged with improper conduct. Antonio is alleged to have "bought" the girl from a man named Louis Dest, who is known to the police force.

Nicolet Proprietor Held. Luigi Floria, who enlisted Labor day by some revolver shooting with Antonio De Stefano as a target on Hill street was held under $5,000 bonds on a charge of assault with intent to kill in the police court yesterday. Floria is proprietor of a Nicolet in Hill street, and the shooting occurred near it after a wordy row over something which the police have not yet learned.

The moving pictures man pulled out a gun and fired, the bullet clipping off a piece of De Stefano's ear.

Action for Divorce. Through an attachment filed yesterday it became known that papers for divorce had been filed by Daisy E. Newport, the wife of Walter K. Newport, an insurance agent, at 42 Church street. Mrs. Newport alleges intolerable cruelty and asks damages of $15,000. Two pieces of property, one in Chapel and one on Dwight streets, have been attached. The couple were married on March 7, 1901, and have one child, Hazel.

Other Cases.

Patrick A. Moran was fined $5 with costs of $5.56 for assaulting Giuseppe Asposito.

Morris Smullen was remanded until Sept. 15, charged with gaming and frequenting a gaming house in Commerce street, which the police are now endeavoring to secure evidence against.

A charge of violation of the auto speed regulations against Walter H. Goodrich of New York city was noted on the payment of costs of $7.84. The cases of Max Eby, Harris Scholder, Barney Roschowitz and Redd Cohen, peddlers, arrested yesterday morning for making stands in the public streets were all continued until today.

Hats are worn more and more flat on the head. The bandeau has been conspicuous for its absence for many months, but the latest chapeaux have crowns that are immense, and consequently, when posed upon the head, sink low over the pompadour.

The new chiffon broadcloths shown in the shops are, if anything, more beautiful than last year. They come in the most exquisite colorings and are as soft and lustrous as it is possible to make a broadcloth material.

Hand-painted chicken-skin fans are prime favorites of the moment, designed on Louis Seize lines, while a pompadour model, almost round in shape, is accounted of the utmost elegance. The hand paintings usually depict some dainty Watteau design.

Venetian bead necklaces are having a great vogue, the delicate colors and combinations serving to enhance any costume to which they are allied. Smaller beads, worked after the old-world style into chains and necklaces, are also in great request.

A novelty for wear with tailored waists is the "Phyllis" stock. They are merely well shaped, close-fitting bands of fine mull, corded, tucked, or lace trimmed, fitting over a narrow neckband. They are exceedingly comfortable and youthful looking. Sometimes they are finished at the base with a butterfly, bow of muslin.

A very pretty arrangement of the hair for girls on hot days is an adaptation of the coronet style now so much the vogue for their mothers and elder sisters. After the hair is braided smoothly in two braids, it is coiled around the head flat and held in place with a few hairpins; there are an especial delight to the young lady, and the hair is drawn away from the neck and ears in a delightfully comfortable fashion. The usual bow may be tied at one side of the back or in front.

Ten Thousand Hungarian Birds Will Be Set Free in This State Soon by Game Wardens.

The state game wardens held a meeting in their rooms in the state capitol in Hartford yesterday and summarized a deal to purchase 10,000 Hungarian partridges from the firm of Wenz & Mackenson of Pennsylvania, the largest breeders and importers of birds in this country.

Mr. Mackenson of the Pennsylvania firm was present at the meeting and through him the matter of purchasing the Hungarian birds, which was first talked of some time ago, was finally decided upon. The firm will deliver the birds before the first of January and the game commissioners will see that they are evenly distributed to the different game preserves throughout the state. It is believed that the effort to breed the Hungarian partridge in this country which was started only recently will be a complete success. A year ago there were several hundred pair of these birds set free in this state and from the reports received from other states where they have been distributed the game commissioners believe that the Hungarian birds are unquestionably the birds for this state and that there will be plenty of game if the hunters do not kill off the birds as fast as they are set free.

The Duchess of Marlborough says:

"I have great pleasure in recommending Mrs. Mason's treatment of the head and hair, which I think is most excellent. I have used her tonic several years and can find none better."—C. MARLBOROUGH.

Mrs MASON'S Old English HAIR TONIC

The superiority of Mrs. Mason's Old English Hair Tonic over all others is clearly demonstrated by the fact that it is used and recommended by the most distinguished ladies of New York, London and Paris, among whom are: Her Grace the Duchess of Marlborough, Mme. Melba, Baroness Ramey, Lady Lillian Churchill, Mrs. Levi P. Mouton, Mrs. Richard Mansfield, and many others of distinction.

Mrs. Mason's Old English Hair Tonic and Shampoo Powder constitute a Complete Treatment for the hair, which positively stops it from falling out and makes it grow thick, lustrous, wavy and curly. For Sale at Drug and Department Stores, THE PAXTON TOILET CO., BOSTON

Grey Tones, Gray and White and Grey and Black Stripes all follow Fashion's Laws. And mark it well! BLACK has come into its own again.

In new plain long tight sleeves, in trim waist and hips, long graceful clinging lines of skirt, modes that are universally becoming.

Madame "La Directoire" Arrives

And is chez-vous at Malley's. In the "Directoire" crops up that oddity, the high standing "Incrutable" collar of Robespierre remembrance. Buttons here! Buttons there! Buttons everywhere! But such Buttons! But mere Buttons no longer. Rather rich ornaments of size and beauty, designed especially to match the Gown and often covered with similar material.

STOCK INQUIRY NEAR END.

Effort to Formulate Definite Rules Touching Abuses.

New York, Sept. 8.—The report of the special committee appointed to investigate the methods of business on the Stock Exchange will probably be completed about the end of the week. Albert O. Brown and Lewis Ginter Young of the suspended firm of A. O. Brown & Co. were again before the special committee today, as were several other witnesses.

A prominent Stock Exchange authority said that the committee had done an immense amount of work and that it had every intention of going to the bottom of the Brown failure, not for the sake of learning about that firm alone, but in the effort to formulate some definite rules touching various abuses.

work will be rushed so that the leaves may be cured and cut before the appearance of cold weather.

lack of copious rains has resulted in the waters of the northern section of the state being at a very low mark, and thereby interrupting industrial operations which depend upon the streams for their operating power.
