MR. LILLEY'S UNRELIABILITY AGAIN SHOWN

Ex-Attorney General Phelps Denies the Statements of The gubernatorial Candidate at Meriden

IS PLACED IN A BAD LIGHT

That He Should Use an Alleged Copy of Proposed Utilities Measure Considered Bad Politics.

At a republican mass meeting in Meriden on Tuesday night Mr. George L. Lilley, the republican candidate for governor, reviewed in detail and at great length what he stated was a bill drawn up by the special legislative commission for a public utilities commission. Mr. Lilley made this preliminary assertion:

"The bill is drawn and ready for presentation. I have been privileged to see it and can give you assurance that it justifies all the faith that we have been able to put in the able body of men who were given the work of drafting the measure. The bill fills more than eighty typewritten pages and shows a most exhaustive painstaking study of the question set out by the commission."

The foregoing words are not those of a reporter but taken from the advance sheet of Mr. Lilley's speech which was printed in the paper and was calculated to focus attention on the bill. The extract is practically as authentic as if it bore his signature.

That Mr. Lilley should secure for use upon the stump an exclusive advance copy of the public utilities bill upon which public attention has been focused for some months was calculated to focus attention on the bill. The extract is practically as authentic as if it bore his signature.

FATHER GETS GIRL

The holding of a pretty seventeen year old girl from Wilkesbarre, Pa. in this city ostensibly as a stenographer, but in the belief of the police here, for no ultimate good purpose, was interrupted yesterday by Detective Donnelly and the girl's father as the result of a letter written by the young lady to her father in Wilkesbarre. The girl left her home without notice last Friday at noon to accompany to this city J. J. Fuller, a young man who represents himself as a banker of the firm of Fuller & Co., and who has offices in the Knights of Columbus building. Fuller met the young girl through some friends of hers who know him. He became attracted by her and told her that he wanted a stenographer for his office here. He told her that it would not make any difference if she was not thoroughly up to date at the line of work as he would have an assistant for her until she got well under way and he would give her $10 a week. The girl was favorably impressed, and without notice to her parents she got away at noon time from her duties at the high school in Wilkesbarre, which she attended, and left there with Fuller.

The two went straight to New York, where the girl spent the night at a hotel in Manhattan while the young man stayed in Brooklyn. They then came to this city and spent one night at a local hotel where the man registered as Mr. Fuller and the girl as Miss Fuller, his sister. Since then she has been living here at a high class boarding house on George street. She was known as Fuller's sister.

The girl's parents knew nothing of her whereabouts and became distracted at her peculiar disappearance. They had no tidings until the girl's letter to her father fell into the hands of the father. He left home at once and hastened to this city. Arriving here yesterday he went at once to the police headquarters and told the story. Detective Donnelly was assigned to the case and found the girl in Church street on description.

The girl was not at all averse to a chance to go home again. She told the police that Fuller had gone away and after searching almost a day for the man the police gave it up. The father took the girl back home on a night train last night. Her disappearance has so seriously affected her mother that she is in a very critical condition, while the father was also quite broken up about the case. He was very much pleased to find his daughter all right as he had entertained grave fears about her condition when she had disappeared for so long a time. The police do not attempt to analyze the motives of Fuller but are satisfied that there were no improper relations between the two young people. Fuller's office in the Knights of Columbus building is directly fitted out, but according to the story of the girl little business has been done there.

BIG AUTUMN DISPLAY.

Charles Monson Company's Store Thronged With Women.

The Charles Monson Co had a busy first day at their store yesterday, for their annual fall and winter opening attracted crowds of interested women who were most generous in their expressions of delight at the showing of beautiful things dear to the feminine heart.

The opening is a week later than usual this year for the reason that the first models were so very rallied that it was considered wise to wait for a slight modification to take place and bring out a result better suited to the general American taste.

The dress goods and silks are as fine as any ever seen in New Haven. There are the Lussan royals, satin finished broadcloths and poplins, panama cloth, San Toy poplins, satin striped velvets and marquisettes. In the black materials there is an endless variety of weaves and fabrics.

The silk department is replete with beautiful messalines, crepe de chine, satin liberties, corded silks bengalines, fallies, peau de cygne and tafetas in all the day and evening shades, beaded plaids and Persian designs, and handsome rayon stripes for houses.

In the lace, embroidery, and glove department there is nothing lacking that goes to make up a most complete stock to choose from. Trimmings and buttons come in for their share of admiration and the ribbon are fascinating.

This is certainly the most up to date kind of an opening and should not be omitted by any woman who is preparing her winter outfit. There is a wide range of prices also, and even the less expensive things are most worthy. The opening continues today and the Monson Co extends a cordial invitation to all to inspect the large number of innovations in the styles of the year, to come and look at the various displays even if there is no intention to purchase.

Masses of white chrysanthemums and statly palms are used throughout the entire store, giving the necessary finishing touch for the festive occasion.

YALE GRAD. ON STAGE.

William Raymond '94 Coming Here With Fritz Scheff.

The fact that William Raymond is coming here as one of the leading members of Fritz Scheff's company soon to appear at the Hyperion theatre in a musical comedy, has aroused no end of interest in university circles. Raymond is the first Yale graduate, at least the first prominent Yale graduate to appear in musical comedy, and as he is the leading man there will undoubtedly be a large attendance at the performance to see him.

AT THE GRAND.
"Card King of the Coast" on at the Grand to-morrow.

The pennant winner of them all, the King Pin in fact in the world of melodrama is "The Card King of the Coast," which opens at the Grand opera house to-morrow, Friday, evening for the balance of this week with the regular Saturday matinee. This play has its setting in the famous Klondike and this offers rich material for scenic effects which has been used to splendid advantage by the producers of this rare drama of life among the miners.

Full of adventure, the play teaches a good lesson of the best side of human nature even when shown among uncivilized surroundings and beneath the rough coat of a miner. The Unwritten Law is the basis upon which the play is founded and never was it more clearly and truthfully demonstrated than in this play. The offering is at strictly Grand opera house popular prices.

Convict 999.
Coming to the Grand opera house for the first three days of next week is the famous scenic production, "Convict 999." Seats now selling.

AT POLI'S.
Bertr Coote and Coy, together with Dan Burke, and the School Girls continue to draw and amuse large audiences at Poli's popular place of amusement. Cassell's midget dogs arrive very clever and their performance is well received. The remainder of the artists are also up to the average and the pictures shown are also very fine.

AMATEUR NIGHT.
Stars from Everywhere Made the Audience Merry Last Night.

Last night was "Amateur Night" at the Grand opera house and the biggest crowd of the season was at the theater to see the workings of the book. There was any number of different varieties of acts, but it all depended on the audience whether the performers were to be the future shining lights of the stage or were to sink into obscurity after the performance last night. Sam Speck, the genial manager of events, certainly knew what he was about when he brought beautiful Nell Brinkley all the way from New York to be the big feature of the bill, and she certainly went some, and her singing and dancing was so like the professional variety that it captured the first prize of $10 for her and Nell didn't have to walk back to New York. The young lady from Stamford's hotel who is hinted at, does the cooking act in the day time, made the bit of her life with the later stunts in dancing, but to lady from Bridgeport, who can whistle to perfection certainly has a bright future on the stage. Two waitresses from Child's, who had an idea that they would create a bigger sensation in the state than "Wanted by the Police" were also on the bill, and one of them will get by, according to Sam Speck, but according to the audience the other is liable to get the book if she ever tries to entertain an audience again. On the whole the performance created no end of fun for the audience, and was one of the best in its line ever seen in this city.

Geraldine—No, I cannot marry you, Gerald—But I know a minister, who will perform the ceremony for $125.
Geraldine—I am yours.—The Bohemian.

LAUGHTER A CURE WILL HAVE BOUT

So Said Artemus Ward, According to Dr. Russell Conwell.

HAS OTHER POWERS ALSO

Lecturer Tells of Its Scope Before Large and Enthusiastic Audience.

Laughter as a panacea for all ills and a good substitute for doctors was the central idea of Artemus Ward as brought out by Dr. Russell H. Conwell at his lecture on "Artemus Ward and American Wit and Humor."

This was delivered at College street hall last night to an audience which filled the auditorium nearly to the limit of its seating capacity. Dr. Conwell kept everyone convulsed with laughter most of the time while telling a wealth of anecdote and writings connected with Artemus Ward. The lecturer was half of each joke as he delivered the quips and jibes that Artemus Ward had written with an air of serious complacency that brought out the point of each sparkle of wit.

The lecture was the first of a series of public lectures given by the university extension.

In connection with the curing powers of laughter, Artemus Ward had said, "There is lot of good in laughter. There is no part of the body that does not feel its effects and improve. A good laugh lengthens any man's life. Rheumatism is cured by laughter as it shakes down the crystals that form the disease. The electric machines used for the same cure act in the same way by vibrations."

The lecturer told the story of the life of Artemus Ward, his sayings, jokes, writings for Punch and other publications, his editorial work, his sermons, and his diplomatic undertakings in international affairs.

In this connection he spoke of Ward in England and how the English could not understand his jokes, so he called on various ones of them the next day to explain the point.

Continuing on the line of the curable phases of laughter, Dr. Conwell spoke of an incident in which Artemus Ward cured a man of a crooked neck by telling him a joke. The joke was "The Mormons have a singular religion, but plural wives." This straightened the neck of the sufferer, and its effect on the people in the hall was largely stimulant.

Laughter could improve international and social conditions, according to the speaker, and it could also provoke litigation. Artemus Ward bought a watch from a New London watch company which gave him great trouble. In speaking of it he said, "It never deceived me because I never trusted it." He then mentioned the name of the maker. A slander suit was brought by the company, but it never came to trial. The company claimed that the diffusion of the story experienced hurt their business.

As a diplomat, laughter in the hands of Artemus Ward was unexcelled. He bantered his opponents with jokes until they agreed with his ideas through hearty "Ha-ha's."

Artemus Ward was sent to England at the time of the Alabama claim. This government was on the verge of war with England when America claimed $60,000,000 for damages done by the English ship Alabama. England was going to refuse payment and probably enter into war when Artemus Ward arrived. He made fun of the claim, telling many jokes about what the United States intended to do with the money. One was that "every woman in America was going to buy a set of false hair." The laughter over this and other things like it spread over to the ministry of England. American ally Napoleon III of France was spoken of in the phrase "Napoleon's Dynasty" as "Napoleon's Die Nasty." This spelling became an English national catch-word and was translated into French. Agra result of these things, England took a more pleasant view of the Alabama claim and war was averted. The London Times, the "Standard" admitted this. The president of the United States thanked Ward as an international agent.

Artemus Ward frequently amused President Lincoln, one of his best known jokes told Lincoln being, "I have a servant who is so black that a piece of coal leaves a white mark on him."

One of the most famous jokes that appeared in Ward's magazine, the "Epitaphic Review," so named because it appeared in fits, was about a little girl saying her prayers. Her mother spoke of the angels hovering around and the little girl replied, "Yes and one lit me last night."

Another joke from the same magazine was about a boy looking at a picture of "Daniel in the Lions' Den" and beginning to cry. His father inquired the reason and he rejoined, "The poor little fellow over in the corner ain't going to get any."

Artemus Ward made bold blows of humor at the English aristocracy that did much to help democracy there. In closing, Dr. Conwell touched on the sad ending of the life of the great humorist. He had become very intemperate and was frequently intoxicated. He developed tuberculosis and died with his hand in a Bible while on the way to America.

The lecture was one of the most interesting ever held in College street hall. Dr. Conwell is among the country's best preachers, orators and authors. Dave Dëshler and Jack Marto to Meet at Grand Opera House.

RUSSELL A. C. TO PRESENT

First Athletic Meeting of the Season Will Be Held on Evening of October 20.

One of the cleanest athletic exhibitions held in this city for a long time was announced last night when the Russell A. C. issued the statement that October 24-Jack Marto of New York and Dave Dëshler of Boston would meet here under their auspices at the Grand opera house.

Dave Dëshler is one of the best fighters in the country at his weight, 133 pounds, and will have up against him a boy who will make him look to his laurels. Marto has a clean record of eleven straight victories behind him, and Dëshler has never been defeated.

The Russell A. C. had planned to have Tommy Murphy here, but as he meets Joe Gans three days before the date of the meet here, it was decided to take no chances and to put the card on with Marto and Dëshler as a head liner. The rest of the card will be made up so that the exhibition will be not only strong, but varied.

HOWE & STETSON STORES.

New Millinery Department Opened—Handsome Suit Room.

The splendid improvements which the Schartenberg & Robinson Co., owners of the Howe & Stetson stores, have been making for some months are completed and to-day the various new departments will be ready for the great fall opening which will continue through Friday and Saturday. The store entire is very attractively decorated with royal purple and white, and hundreds of palms are scattered about making a handsome background for the new and fine selections of autumn goods displayed in every store. A new suit department has just been completed on the first floor opening into Pitkin street. It is a large, light room, perfectly adapted to the display of suits, gowns and coats, and the stock collected here for your inspection is worthy of its name.

The large space on the second floor formerly given over to this department has been entirely remodeled and a large number of show cases with heavy glass fronts handsome tables and shelves will be splendid to-day with the most attractive showing of the millinery art that has yet been offered you. The stock includes creations from the fashionable centers of the world and also a large stock of splendid copies and conceptions from the work rooms of the firm. The materials and trimmings are bewildering in color, and the wings, ornaments, feathers and shapes must be seen to be appreciated. There is no question about their being admired.

Some of the very handsome hats are made largely of gold cloth. One is a blue bengaline with a crown of the gold cloth, and is trimmed with three white plumes fastened with a huge cabochon of the gold cloth and blue, and faced with blue velvet.

Another is made entirely of the gold cloth, has a facing of black velvet, and is trimmed around the crown with marbled and ostrich feathers in black and white. A white broadcloth hat has the brim beautifully braided in white silk, with the crown trimmed with Irish lace and willow plumes and is faced with black velvet.

A woman's short skirt looks less than becoming in London. The members, according to Woman's Life, find their skirts in a year's time which will not sweep the floors and pavements, and are gathered up and microbes. This is not a new idea. In America there is a similar organization called the Five Inch League. Every member is pledged to at least five inches of clear space between skirt and floor. FOURTEENTH NAMES PAGE

Democrats Put Up Hunter in Third District—Rector Very Ill—Other Items.

Hartford, Oct. 7.—The body of the late Bishop Michael Tierney, who died on Monday afternoon, was borne this afternoon from the Episcopal residence in Farmington avenue, to St. Joseph's Cathedral, where he was placed on a catafalque to lie in state until the pontifical mass of requiem at which Most Rev. William O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, will pontificate Friday morning. In accordance with the expressed wish of the late bishop there will be no guard around the catafalque, although many of the societies of the diocese are anxious to do this honor. And in obedience to the wish of the deceased prelate the casket is a plain, black broadcloth covered one. As it rests in position before the altar the casket bears the vestments of the bishop. This evening the offices of the dead will be chanted by the priests of the diocese resident in Hartford and near by parishes.

Student Griswold Dead.

Hartford, Oct. 7.—Charles Darrow Griswold, son of Frederick A. and Mary Stillman Griswold, of Wethersfield, died at his home Tuesday evening after one year's suffering from injuries received at Yale college, where he had just entered with every promise of a bright future. Young Griswold injured his head while diving in the Yale swimming school. All the care and comfort that could possibly be given by his parents, brothers and sisters, were bestowed upon him, and he bore his helpless condition with unflinching patience and fortitude. Besides his father and mother he leaves four sisters and three brothers. One sister, Mrs. Wallace, died a little less than a year ago. The funeral will be held at his home on Wolcott hill Thursday afternoon at 7:30.

The total cost to New York county of the prosecution of Harry K. Thaw for the shooting of Stanford White has been $54,827, according to papers submitted by District Attorney Jerome to Justice Mills at Newburg, N. Y., Saturday. The purpose of Mr. Jerome's application to Justice Mills was to have the approaching trial on the question of Thaw's mental condition transferred from Westchester to New York county. Mr. Jerome said in the papers that the trial in Westchester county would entail much greater expense than if held in New York county. October 12 has been fixed by Justice Mills as the date for the trial. There will be no jury; the justice alone taking the evidence.

HUGHES ATTACKS BRYAN AT HOME

Declares His Theories Pretty But Unworkable, and Takes a Slap at Pandora Panaceas.

LINCOLN IS ENTHUSIASTIC

Governor Tells Neighbors He Believes in Bryan's Sincerity, But Is Glad Policies Won't Be Put Into Effect.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 7.—"Is it possible that Mr. Bryan can know anything of the principles of business?" Under this caption Gov. Charles E. Hughes of New York, in Mr. Bryan's home city, this morning attacked the industrial and labor policies of the democratic candidate for president. Greeted at the station by a large crowd, Governor Hughes was escorted amid an enthusiastic demonstration on to the opera house.

"Mr. Bryan has announced himself in favor of the extermination of trusts," said Governor Hughes. "To exterminate them he offers a variety of remedies. He has a large assortment of remedies, so that if you do not like one, you may try another, and so on until you find one that pleases your fancy. But, analyzing all of them, you find that he makes three proposals which he thinks suitable and practicable in limiting the power of corporations. In the first place, he says, let us prohibit the duplication of directors in competing corporations, that is, make it unlawful for a director in one concern from being a director in another. This is a very pretty theory. But is it workable? You know quite well that if a man owned a majority of stock in a number of corporations he would have such directors as he wanted, and whether there was any duplication or not, the effect would be the same.

"Well, if you don't like that," says Mr. Bryan, "there is another proposal. Let us go through the tariff schedules and put on the free list the things that are being manufactured by the trust. That will destroy them. True enough, but would it not also destroy the weaker manufacturers in the same line, who are fighting against the trusts, and who, being small, have the least power to resist?"

"Well, then," says Mr. Bryan, "there's another that's bound to win. Let's cut down the output of each monopoly to 50 per cent. Another pretty but wholly fanciful theory."

"I say that an attempt to regulate manufacturers by percentages would entail such a complicated system of bureaus that government would be obnoxiously bureaucratic. All these schemes are an attempt to bring about reform by magic. I recognize the oratorical powers and believe firmly in the sincerity of the democratic candidate, but I believe just as firmly that an enforcement of his principles would end in disaster. The best of it is that he is not likely to be able to put them into operation. The workman's interests are best protected by the increase of industry, by the correction of abuses which a sane and wise enforcement of the statutes provide for. Great reforms have already been begun under the republican administration and they will be carried on under a continuation of it. That's why I have come to Lincoln to speak in behalf of Mr. Taft."

At Havelock, Neb., Gov. Hughes addressed a crowd of workmen from the locomotive shops. "You can't tell me any one can deliver the average vote," he declared. "The average American workman is best protected and independent to how to dictate. It has been said that Mr. Taft is not a friend of labor. That is a cruel and unjust accusation. No man in public life has shown himself to be more friendly to labor. At the same time he has not tried to get your votes by offering remedies calculated merely to please your fancy."

WHY ROBBINS WON

Election of Sheff. Senior President Caused by Societies' Recent Action.

WOULDN'T RUSH FRESHMEN

So Grover Fels Was Defeated, Chanut Downed and Fusion Ticket Went Through.

It developed yesterday that the election of D. B. Robbins to the presidency of the senior class was the first setback to the steps taken by the Sheff. societies, Book and Snake and Berzelius, better known perhaps as the Cloister and the Colony, for better conditions in the social life of the Sheffield Scientific school, a movement which has been encouraged by the Yale Alumni Weekly and by the faculty of the school.

Last June it was announced that instead of rushing freshmen during the first few weeks the Cloister and the Colony would wait for several months before electing any members from the lowest class. This was against the agreement of the Sheff. fraternities which decided to continue the rushing and which tried to get the societies to agree to do the same. The societies declined and the first result was seen Monday.

Up to this year each fraternity or society has generally put up a ticket of class officers for the general election early in the year. Last year the ticket which Tad Jones headed won. This year following out the custom the Cloister nominated for president Grover Cleveland Fels, the hockey and baseball player and the Colony put up William O. Chanut, the football player, both men of wide popularity. The fraternities combined and made up a ticket headed by Robbins, a St. Anthony's man with Burnham in second place, a York Hall man, and Frank G. Burke for third place, a St. Elmo man. Naturally the fusion ticket went through with flying colors and the fight will be kept up to the end of the year.

AMERICANS ARE CILQUEY

Rich and Poor Alke Are Exclusive, Says Prof. Zuehlke.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Americans from the rich down to the poor do not care much about the slum life and are growingly exclusive, according to Charles Zuehlke, formerly of the University of Chicago, and now a settlement worker of Boston. The sociologist addressed a gathering at Abraham Lincoln Centre, a Chicago social settlement, last night, on "The Common Life." He said: "The average American, no matter who he is or where he lives, does not care much about the common life. Usually his aim is to belong to some exclusive set where he will have no responsibilities. It makes no difference what his pocketbook is. The millionaire is not the only American who seeks an exclusive set. It is universal. There are some who seek the intellectual life, but this is quite as exclusive as any, and is as much a menace to democracy."

Nervous women should profit by Mrs. Barton's experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound. Mrs. Helen Barton, of 27 Pearson Street, Chicago, Ill., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I was all run-down, and on the verge of nervous prostration from overwork and worry, and ill in bed, when I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken it a week I commenced to get better. I continued its use, my nervous trouble disappeared, and I am completely restored to health. I hope Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will benefit other women as it has me."

THE NEW COMET NEARER

The Position of the Planets and Constellations—The Sun Spots

Plainer.

In the month of October this year but one bright planet is visible in the evening sky—the planet Saturn. It rises before sunset and may be seen in the east as soon as it is dark enough each evening. It is lonesome, as far as stellar companions are concerned, for it is in the constellation Pleiades—a group whose faint stars can be seen with difficulty except on nights unilluminated by moonlight or by the artificial lights of our cities. The nearest conspicuous star-group is the great Square of Pegasus, which lies north of it. The planet is moving among the stars, accomplishing 2 degrees this month, but the absence of neighboring stars for comparison prevents its motion from being readily detected, says Winlow Dutton in the Boston Transcript. In the telescope the planet shows its ring system inclined to our line of sight by about 6 degrees only.

The early morning sky is made beautiful by the presence of the two brightest planets, Venus and Jupiter. The former rises on the 1st at a few minutes before 2 o'clock, and the latter an hour later. As the month advances Venus rises later and Jupiter earlier, so that before the middle of the month they appear at the same time. On the 15th they are nearest together. Venus on that morning being less than a degree south of Jupiter. The planet in brightness is vaster than the Venus has grown a perceptibly fainter in the past six weeks. It is much brighter than its rival planet. The two brilliant planets, added to the stars of the constellation Leo, and the bright groups of Gemini and Orion not far distant, make a picturesque sky picture. The moon passes through this region on the 20th and 21st.

Mercury may be seen, but with difficulty, early in the month after sunset. On the 4th it sets at 6:08 p. m., or but 45 minutes after the sun, although on this date it is at its greatest apparent distance from the sun, more than 25 degrees. It is 12 degrees farther south, and, therefore, only about one-half as high, as when brightest. Before the end of the month it passes between us and the sun, going south of the line joining earth and sun, and will rise earlier than the sun for nearly two months.

Mars is unfavorably placed for observation. It rises on the 1st at 2:18 a. m. and on the 31st at 1:14 a. m. It is faint, not brighter than the stars in Virgo, among which it is journeying, but distinguished from them by its red color.

Uranus is in the constellation Sagittarius and may be found on the first in right ascension, 18 hours 37 minutes, and declination S. 23 degrees 14 minutes. On the 31st it is 30 degrees east of the sun, and sets at 10:24 p. m.

Neptune is in the opposite part of the heavens and may be found with a telescope in right ascension 7 hours 13 minutes, and declination N. 21 degrees 26 minutes, which is in the constellation Gemini on the 10th. It is 30 degrees west of the sun, rising at 10:43 p. m. On the 20th it begins to retrograde or move westward among the stars.

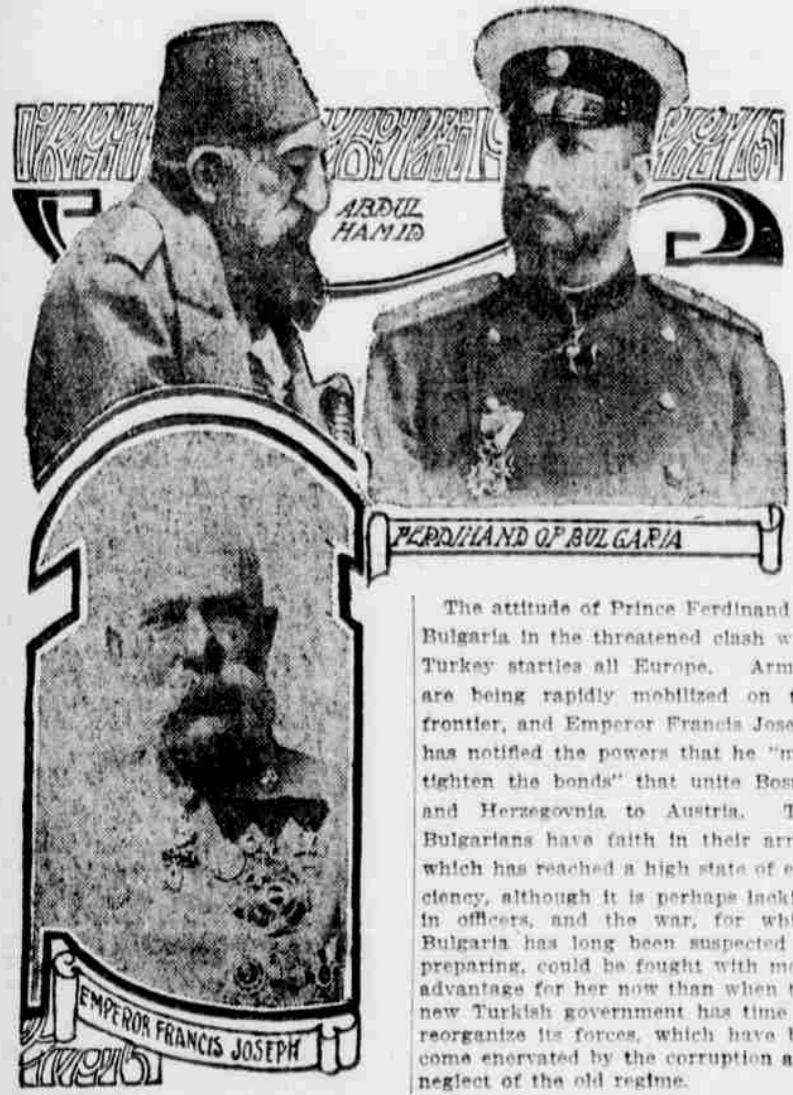

The moon passes near Saturn on the 21st, Mars on the 23d. Full moon comes on the 31st and is that sometimes called the hunter's moon. There are eight eclipses after the full phase by which the moon rises before midnight. In the opposite month, April, there are but five. The first half of the month will have moonlit evenings.

The constellations visible in October evenings include six of the zodiacal belt; Sagittarius, Capricornus, Aquarius, and Pisces, Aries, Taurus, from the meridian to the east. At the southwest end is the Milk Dipper of the first named group and at the eastern end the Pleiades and Hyades of the last named group. North of the first three and west of the meridian are Orion, Lepus, Boötes, Antares, Delphinus, Corvus, Hercules, Lyra, Cygnus, Cassiopeia, Ursa Major, Ursa Minor, north of the last three and east of the meridian are Perseus, Andromeda, Perseus, Auriga, Cepheus, Cassiopeia. In the southeast below the zodiac is Cetus.

Two astronomical events of the last month deserve notice—the discovery of a comet and the visibility of certain sunspots. The comet was discovered at the Yerkes Observatory by photography and proves to be an interesting object. It must be quite a large one, for it does not come as near the sun and earth as many others which are brilliant. It is not visible to the naked eye, and in a visual telescope does not show peculiar structure, but the photograph already taken shows at least two tails with irregular structure. It will be photographed at every opportunity during its period of visibility. The orbit of the comet has been calculated. It is moving around the sun in a path whose inclination is forty degrees. It is now approaching its nearest point to the sun and passing by the earth. It is in the northern sky in the constellation Cepheus. After passing around the sun in December and retreating into space, it will pass the earth once more, but will then be far in the south as seen from the earth.

Sun spots have been unexpectedly numerous the past few weeks. The time of maximum frequency has passed according to the regularity of the cycle, but the time when few or none will be seen. But recently there has been a revival of the term of solar activity which is revealed by sun spots. A recent addition to our knowledge of these invaginations of the sun's surface, which the widespread forest fire has caused, it has been easy to see the sun spots, and the sun's surface, by the smoked glass or other device for reducing the glare. It is rather surprising that the primitive astronomer, who was acute observer, did not discover the existence of sun spots before they were revealed by Galileo's telescope. A person who is connected with the appearance of the spots is that the sun's spot seems to have a different position in the disk in the morning and in the afternoon. One might say at first that this is due to the sun's

EMPEROR FRANCIS JOSEPH

The attitude of Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria in the threatened clash with Turkey starts all Europe. Armies are being rapidly mobilized on the frontier, and Emperor Francis Joseph has notified the powers that he "may tighten the bonds" that unite Bosnia and Herzegovina to Austria. The Bulgarians have faith in their army, which has reached a high state of efficiency, although it is perhaps lacking in officers, and the war, for which Bulgaria has long been suspected of preparing, could be fought with more advantage for her now than when the new Turkish government has time to reorganize its forces, which have become enervated by the corruption and neglect of the old regime.

PETERSBURG CHOLERA WORSE.

Seems Having Given No Positive Help Are Discontinued.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 7.—The cholera shows a slight increase today. For the last twenty-four hours there were 124 new cases and forty-one deaths.

Contrary to published reports the experiments with various anti-cholera serums have given no positive results. These new methods have been discontinued at several of the hospitals, where the physicians are treating all cases in accordance with the customary system. The sanitary board has committed itself only to preliminary preventive vaccination or inoculation, and many experts doubt the efficacy of even this measure.

"Yes, sir," said Brother Dickey, "I race what wants to live in Illinois, but I don't care how it's done. I'll be there for you, I'll star what I'll be—most of the folks I raise, an' 'bout wid, an' of I is lynched, please God, I'll be lynched, please God, I'll be lynched by my friends!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Keep Up With The Times

Are you keeping up with the times? You cannot do it unless you keep your eyes open to the opportunities that are presented from day to day. If you see them, and don't take advantage of them, you are unjust to yourself. If you can buy a dollar's worth of groceries, meats or provisions for eighty cents or less, and don't, you are losing money. You remember the old adage "A penny saved is two earned." Apply that doctrine to your own case, and you will quickly appreciate what it means in the course of a year.

If you are not a customer of our stores, you are not keeping up with the procession. Our goods are of top notch quality, and our prices are regulated by the figures we have to pay. And the prices we pay are based on the demands created by a long chain of stores. We buy in large quantities, take advantage of every discount, and leave no stone unturned to place within your reach the world's best food products at the lowest possible prices.

JEROME THROUGH WITH THAW.

Refuses to Take Part in Hearing on Question of His Sanity.

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 7.—After charging that Harry K. Thaw was still a dangerous paranoiac and recently had threatened to kill himself, District Attorney Jerome withdrew from the case today when Justice Mills refused to transfer the hearing on the question of Thaw's sanity to New York county. Thereupon Justice Mills declared that he would name two experts to examine Thaw as to his sanity between today and Saturday and settle the case upon their report on Monday.

The trouble began when Jerome demanded that unless Justice Mills transferred the case, he Jerome, would take no part in it. He declared that Thaw was a dangerous paranoiac and since his incarceration at Matteawan had threatened to take his own life.

Justice Mills then refused to transfer the case, saying that he did so because a trial of the question of Thaw's sanity would not be a long one and would not cost the county much.

NOTABLE PAINTINGS.

Five Exhibition by Herman Sodersten at Ticeman's.

The exhibition of portraits in oil by Herman Sodersten in the gallery of F. W. Ticeman & Co., 327 Chapel street, is attracting a great deal of merited attention. There are eight in all, all large and all excellent portraits. They are numbered in sequence as follows:

Hon. Rollin S. Woodruff, governor of Connecticut. (Mr. Sodersten was commissioned to paint this portrait for the capitol at Hartford.)

Hon. Joseph B. Sargent, former mayor of New Haven. Painted for the collection in the City hall, New Haven.

George Dudley Seymour, (a common-law son, Morris W. Seymour of Litchfield.)

Edith, daughter of the artist.

Mrs. Fort, copy from the painting done in England by John Singleton Copley, and now owned by the Wadsworth Athenaeum, Hartford.

Rev. James Pierpont, copied from the portrait by Simbert in the possession of Dr. John P. C. Foster for Hon. Eli Whitney.

The portraits will be on exhibition only a few days longer and ought to be seen by all citizens interested in the portraits especially as they are the work of a New Haven artist.

Herman Sodersten has been a resident of New Haven for a number of years. His first years (like many other fine artists) was a hard struggle for recognition. His skill in portrait work especially is now generally admitted to be of a very high order. This collection is only a few of the many prominent New Haven people he has been commissioned to paint. Invariably his portraits have been very satisfactory. Time again persons who are up in art have spent an hour or more studying critically the portraits in this collection.

The Great Feature of these View Days is the Formal Opening of the New Millinery Parlors on the Second Floor.

This new section is the most beautiful of its kind in Connecticut. The generous space devoted to it, the richness of its fittings and the care taken in every detail, bespeak our desire to make the surroundings as pleasing and artistic as possible for those who are viewing and selecting Millinery.

The initial Display of New Fall Millinery unfolds an assemblage of Headwear that expresses the thoughts and style conceptions of the World's Foremost Artists. The New Suit Room with its Magnificent Collection of Modish Fall Apparel.

A happy blending of all that Fashion dictates in the Old World with the richest and best ideas of American dress forms the chief characteristic of the superb collection of apparel in the New Suit Room. After a century of sleep, the Directoire and Empire periods seem to have been re-born. The American designers with these ideas as a foundation have produced raiment hitherto unexcelled for beauty of line and graceful draping.

Original and Distinctive Suits, $50.00 to $125.00.

The majority of broadcloth, the favorite fabric for Fall and Winter wear. Some of the suits within this price range are made on the Directoire model with the graceful, long sweeping skirts. The trimmings which are quite elaborate are composed of rich satins, heavy cord, braid and buttons. The coats of these suits are lined with heavy satin in colors to match or in some cases shades that lend a striking contrast. A color assortment consisting of the new shades of Violet, Wisteria, Catawba and Hunter's Green is offered.

Pretty Separate Skirts, $3.95 to $25.00.

The range of styles in the Separate Skirt stock includes the new gored flare, the cape and the modifications of the sheath models. The full gored flare designs come with or without folds. The materials used in these are broadcloths, serges and worsteds in colors and black. Some very handsome 18 and 20 gored models are shown in rich black satins and crisp voiles. These are prettily trimmed with narrow bands of self material and buttons.

The New Waists, $1.98 to $25.00.

Waists of net in cream and ecru, tulle waists in all colors, waists in pretty silk or wool plaids and the natty tailored waists of linen. Here we have mentioned a list that covers everything that Fashion has pronounced correct. Some of these waists have round or pointed yokes with Baby Irish insertions and beautiful medallions, all have button backs and new, long mosquito sleeves finished with dainty tucks. The tailored models are prettily plaited and have laundered collars and cuffs.

Gloves of Correct Style and Good Quality.

MISS TIERNAN WEDS. Elizabeth Irene Tiernan of this city to Rev. Hervey Boardman Vanderhoeght of Middletown, curate of the Holy Trinity P. E. church of that place; the couple were married by the Rev. E. C. Acheson, rector of the Middletown church who accompanied his assistant and Miss Tiernan to New York. Before the marriage could take place, strenuous opposition on the part of the bride's people had to be overcome for they are all ardent Catholics. Miss Tiernan's father-in-law, who is a very serious sufferer from typhoid, was recovered in his home very much attached to her and their marriage yesterday was the result. They will reside in Middletown.

WALL STREET NOTES

Early Selling of Orders for Foreign Account of Nearly 40,000 Shares.

$11,000,000 IN THREE DAYS

Market Breaks Under Pressure of Foreign Sales—Some "Cash" Transactions, Too.

Along with the morning's somewhat less favorable cable dispatches in regard to the Bulgarian situation, came heavy selling orders for foreign account, variously estimated at 30,000 to 40,000 shares. This would make the total arbitrage sales for three days between 110,000 and 135,000, which would mean $11,000,000 of par value, and probably quite as much in actual market value. Two of the best authorities on the subject said that present holdings of our shares in the hands of European speculators would not total half what they were a year ago, and that they were scarcely a quarter of the volume held in 1906. The foreign investment holdings of many standard American shares, however, have been enlarged by the purchases made during the panic period.

On the first transactions here, and on those during the first ten minutes there was a rather abrupt bidding up with Erie, Smelting, and Union Pacific leading. The market soon gave way, however, with the appearance of large selling orders ascribed to foreign account. Northern Pacific broke sharply and others followed. Rock Island was pressed for sale, and supporting orders seemed to be suddenly withdrawn. Besides the foreign selling, sales of 3,000 shares of Union Pacific, Reading and Pennsylvania "for cash," usually 1-8 to 1-4 point below the previous sales, caused some uneasiness and helped to depress values.

There were some "cash" transactions on the exchange during the morning, which in part accounted for the early weakness in some stocks. These sales, by three firms, it was reported, were the closing out of some stocks that had been carried since the A. O. Brown & Co. failure as a result of an account of that firm's transactions, and they were closed out during the day because of the appointment of the referee in bankruptcy for that defunct firm.

Current predictions that the directors of the Northern Pacific intend to declare an extra dividend, possible at today's meeting, caused some study of the company's preliminary annual report, just published. With an increase of $750,000 in gross earnings and an increase of $1,127,000 in "other income" the surplus for dividends amounted to $19,893,000, compared with $23,473,000 for 1935. The loss was caused by higher operating expenses and interest charges, but there are other considerations also. Had it not been for the extra business secured by hauling material for its rival, the St. Paul, and the extra income obtained through lending out the proceeds of shareholders' subscriptions to new loans, the Northern Pacific would have made a worse showing in gross. As the figures stand, they do not suggest extra dividends.

Among the many stories current about Erie were two of more than ordinary interest. One was that Knobloch & Manning who have been very bullish on the stock sold their holdings during the day, and the other was that Harriman interests had accumulated 200,000 shares of the stock. It is said that there is a short interest in the stock of nearly 200,000 shares, with a floating supply of about 300,000.

Flower & Co. bought 5,000 Black Island preferred late in the forenoon. There is still much curiosity exhibited as to the cause of the recent advance in this stock. It was understood, however, that the insiders are much encouraged by the improvement in the business the company is doing, as shown by the reports of earnings published Tuesday, and the generally successful operation of the company.

The agricultural department's estimate of the country's yield of wheat and oats is the first of the season in which definite quantities are named; in previous months only the "percentage condition" was given, leaving the trade to calculate indicated yield for itself. The department's figures emphasize the season's disappointing results, compared with the expectations of midsummer. It placed the wheat crop at 459,230,000 bushels, whereas the "indicated" yield was reckoned last June at 527,000,000. Even last month, the grain trade computed 568,700,000 bushels from the government's September percentage.

The final decision, however, is dependent upon the situation in Europe. The new loan will be issued equally in London and Paris, and the term is to be thirty years. The security will be the Imperial government and certain designated revenues of the provinces of Che-Kiang, Kiang-su, Ho-Pei, and Chi-Li.

CORRECTION BY CARROLL. Makes Statement Regarding His Petition to Admiration. To the Editor Journal-Courier: The undersigned observed in the reports of the doings of the board of aldermen published in the morning and evening papers of the city the misrepresentation of the substance of his petition to said board of aldermen as follows: "A petition of Anthony Carroll referring to the request he made for compensation from the board of education for his services as inspector on one of the local schools was tabled indefinitely. Substance of the petition was a protest against the unjust dismission of actions of the committee on claims of said board of aldermen in executive session Friday evening, October 2, 1935. Said committee held a meeting. The last claim heard was the undersigned's, having all his evidence placed in a book which was placed before them. Their action showed they were not there for that purpose. When I went to state the facts Assistant Corporation Counsel O'Meara suggested to the undersigned certain suggestions to ascertain whether or not they corresponded with the facts the undersigned claimed. The undersigned admitted in substance they did. After said conversation was finished a member of the committee, known by title or commission J. Edmund Miller, as alderman at large, small in stature and size, smaller still in the qualities which respectability and honor demands, void of principle and honor, asked me what I would take for my claims, having at the same time a sneering and a laughing countenance. I said a lemon. What I always get. Chairman of the Committee Patrick J. Collins shared in said sneering and laughing. Said petition stated positively there were no objections on the part of the undersigned in getting all the information possible but he protested against the methods the committee adopted in securing information. As said methods were contrary to and in violation of the constitution and laws of the United States of America and the constitution and laws of the state of Connecticut, 'equal protection of the laws,' and that the man or set of men are entitled to exclusive public privileges and emoluments from the community contrary to and in violation of the charter and section of city ordinances by making said board of education privileged by instructing the clerk to communicate to the board certain information when the rest of the citizens would be required to appear at a meeting and have their testimony taken under oath, etc.

THE DISABLED AIRSHIP HURTLED THROUGH space and landed in the top of a tree, whence the unfortunate aviator descended through the foliage and leaped plunked upon the sward. The shocked spectators rushed to where he lay, and presently he came to. 'Air! Air!' he gasped, waving his arms. 'Give me air!'

"Good Lord!" ejaculated a raw-boned countryman; "air! you had enough of that!"—Boston Transcript.

STOCK MARKET REVIEW. Selling of Thousands of Foreign American Shares Upset Market. New York, Oct. 7.—The political complications in the Balkans threw a shadow of depression over securities markets to-day, directly on those of Europe while our own market came within its scope by sympathy. The influence was contested here with varying success, but the modifying effect of the European situation on the efforts to support prices was very obvious. No wide knowledge was required, to read the significance of orders by cable from London and from European centers to sell thousands of shares of American securities in the New York stock market. This and other means of establishing credits in New York have had its effect on the foreign exchange market, where the call for remittances to foreign points makes itself evident. At the same time holders of about testified to their doubts over the European prospect by their disposition to part with their holdings and sell orders showed corresponding desire to purchase their securities. The foreign selling of securities converged on a number of stocks which have held a leading place in all recent speculative movements and the sentimental effect of their weakness on the general list was correspondingly great. The improved tone of the local market after the hours for activity in foreign stock exchange had passed was further testimony to the part played by foreign influences in the early movements. The abrupt collapse in Rock Island preferred from its buoyant rise of yesterday threw some discredit on what is regarded as an attempted new leadership of the speculation. The choice of stocks to form the medium for operations towards raising the market fell on those of a lower grade and lesser price. Erie was conspicuous and there was a steady and determined accumulation of U. S. Steel. News to account for these special movements was not given. The closing hour of the market exhibited much uncertainty. Bonds were firm. Total sales per value, $3,420,000. U. S. bonds were unchanged on call.

NEWS OF THE COURTS

Dr. Hemingway to Be Tried October 20 for the Death of Mrs. Shearer.

NUTILE JURY DISAGREES

Suit by Harry Brown Against a Former Nurse Entered in the City Court.

The case of John Nuttle, administrator, against the Connecticut company for $5,000 for the death of his three-year-old son was not finished in the civil side of the superior court last night. The jury had been out since 11 a. m. but had failed to agree up to 7 o'clock last night and so court was adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning by Judge Wheeler.

The case of Dr. George I. Hemingway, arrested Tuesday as responsible for the death of Mrs. Robert E. Shearer, was continued until Tuesday October 20, by Judge Mathewson in the police court yesterday. The doctor did not appear in court and the postponement was made on City Attorney Hoyt's recommendation.

Superior Court Cases.

In the criminal side of the superior court John French of New Haven pleaded guilty to a charge of theft. He admitted taking a watch from Lyman Law worth $75. He was sentenced to six months in jail.

Patient Sues Nurse.

A suit was filed in the civil side of the city court yesterday brought by Harry F. Brown, son of Harry B. Brown, secretary of the Melagion foundry company, residing at 45 Avon street, against Frances Hunter, a trained nurse of 14 York square. Papers attaching Miss Hunter's body have been prepared, but it was stated yesterday that she had left town and that her present whereabouts were unknown.

World's Student Christian Federation.

Today a big delegation of members of the New Haven Business Men's Association will go to the Danbury fair.

The condition of the patient grew worse as the disease progressed and it was decided that two nurses were necessary. Without consulting Dr. Sanford Miss Hunter is alleged to have secured a friend of hers from an adjoining city, and when Dr. Sanford suggested that he was the one to secure the additional nurse and Miss Hunter's friend was rejected, she is alleged to have endeavored to procure the Hunter family against Dr. Sanford and his treatment of his patient, and to have purposely made false entries of the temperature and condition of the patient on charts provided for that purpose with the effect that Brown's recovery was greatly retarded.

City Court Cases.

Charged with an attempt to burglarize the store of M. C. Ferguson at 28 Center street, John Reugels, colored, was remanded in the police court yesterday until October 9. James Johnson, the janitor, saw a man coming down the street and keep looking around and then go into the doorway. A few moments later he came out and looked around again and then went back. Hearing a crash, Johnson ran down and met Reugels coming up the street. He accused him of breaking the window, but Thomas denied it. On examination it was found that a piece of glass had been cut out by means of a diamond, so the intruder might reach in and unfasten the lock.

Giuseppe Silvestri, a plaster of paris ornament peddler, charged with breach of the peace and assault on two little girls, one white and one colored, was remanded until October 8.

The case of Harold W. Hartney, charged with the theft of a gold watch from Frederick Holmes of 13

Woolsey place, was called upon the payment of $13.18 costs.

Santello Avallone of 88 Wallace street, charged with selling liquor to three minors, had his case continued until October 14.

Haynes Inventors.

The appraisers of the estate of the late Rev. Arlema Jean Haynes report a value of $15,921.39, of which two insurance policy claims are for $19,225.55.

Through A Shop Window

Pins for the back of the hair are absurdly large, and most of them curved in shape.

The rival to the summer scarf of gauze which has been so very popular is one of baby Irish lace, two and a half yards long.

The shops are selling the director's ash in soft liberty silks; these are three yards long, in all colors and have crocheted silk slides and silk tassels.

Mushroom, in the shape of hats, are still shown. The straw affairs have given way to stiff satin-covered frames. Green satin is the covering for a mushroom that has a black grosgrain band around its crown. Gray and black is another combination and two or three shades of tan with black or brown bands constitute another variety. The price mark is $1.75.

For coats, fur turbans, fur muffs and stoles displayed in the windows of the shops forshadow the winter that will soon be here. One long coat of mink is accompanied by a turban composed of the same fur and ermine. Mink forms the crown, ermine the sides of the turban, which is so large that only a woman with a great deal of hair elaborately pulled out could wear it.

The Florence Chittenton mission at 423 Oak street is equipped to launder window curtains of all kinds and delicate patronage of the public. Their prices are reasonable, and they guarantee to do satisfactory work, which they sell for and deliver in the city limits.

A collar supporter, new and neat, consists of a flat piece of an opaque white substance resembling the usual semi-transparent materials called bonnet that are used for this purpose, and near the ends are slotted plates that have two prongs at top edge, to be placed in the collar top after which the bone is bent slightly, and the other end with prongs is placed at the designated position at lower part of collar. The bone then supports its full length and the collar is held taut and trim without a wasted stitch or a moment of unnecessary time taken. They are made in seven sizes, from 13.4 inches to 21.4 inches, and are practically indestructible.
