In one ase bonds were sold in anticipation of an imrovement that was never made, and the proeeds used for other purposes. At maturity they were paid from money received for assessment on other improvements. No separate accounts seem to have been kept, but all amounts received for assessments were credited to the general assessment account and paid tieman was photographed in thirty-three secout promiseuously for bonds and interest as onds, as short a time as would have sufficed they accrued. there seem to have been distinctions made by the Comptroller among purchasers. In some cases this distinction was made in the price of bonds; sometimes by an allowance as commission, and in some cases both. As an in stance, City Improvement was sold to one at 894, and on the same day another paid 94. Consolidated Improvement bonds have been sold at 91 to one purchaser and at 94 to snother on the same day. The operations of the Sinking Fund Commissioners were characterized by a fine disregard for the interests of the city. Between May, 1877, and the close of 1878 they purchased bonds of the city of Elizabeth at par when their value was far below par. It seems that many of these bonds were even purchased at par and interest when the market price was far below that figure, in some instances as low as 77, interest included. Some of them were sold by holders at 77 to 80, and only a few days before being purchased by the Sink-ing Fund Commissioners at par and interest. During September, 1878, and after, it was difficult to find a purchaser at over 75; yet pur-chases were made by the Sinking Fund Board as late as December at 90 and interest when bankruptcy was inevitable and soon followed. The Comptroller of the city was and is one of the directors of the National State bank.

From April, 1875, to March, 1876, the city's balance in that bank was never less than $109,000, and sometimes over $200,000. $109,000, and sometimes over $200,000. May 1st, 1876, it was $376,000. Till July 28th, 1878, it was $100,000 to $250,000. On these balances no interest was allowed by the bank during Comptroller Leggett's administration, though the city was paying 7 per ent. on the same, to say nothing of discount on bonds on which a portion of it was realized. It remains to be seen whether those guilty of thus mismanaging the finances of Elizabeth Olty will be punished. The report which reyeals their misdeeds has been laid before the grand jurors to act upon if they see fit. EDITORIAL NOTES

The Rev. Dr. Collyer tells this story of a wedding in Yorkshire: "As the man came out of church with his bride, he met an old companion, who said: "There, lad, I wish thee much joy; thou's gotten t'end of all thy trouble.' It was very good to be assured of that, and the bridegroom went on his way rejoicing; but by and by he found he had got married without getting a wife. It was a bad job; and so when he met his old companion on the street one day he said, with a very long face: 'I thought thou told me as I came out of Gruiseley church that I had gotten t'end of all me trouble.' 'I did tell thee so,' said his friend, quietly, 'but I did not tell thee which end.'"

OFFICE 400 STATE STREET,

A very sad story
I have to relate
Of what has now happened
In our dear old State.

A girl has been murdered, And that's very true, And who did the deed None of us knew.

They have tried him on knives, They have tried him on wood They have tried him on arsenic, They have tried him on blood.

They have tried him on stone With blood that grew in, And that was too thin.

They have tried him on boot-heels, Which seemed very queer, But the experts determined The State should pay dear,

For they sent off for experts, Which was a great pity When we had much better Right here in our city. We have Bacon, Sanford And Hubbard; all three Are doctors and surgeons As good as can be,

And the world will look on And say it's a shame When they think of our college And its wonderful fame, For they sent a young expert To England to see If arsenic was arsenids Or what it could be.

Our doctors and surgeons Knew before he was born
That our State ground up arsenic
With crystals round and long; For the crystals of arsenic
And the corpuscles of blood
To them were familiar
As most of their food,

O jurors, O lawyers, Mow can you see What's to hinder the parson From going soot free.

For all the evidence now given, So says an old spinster, Was just to condemn A poor Methodist minister.

The Moss Industry in Louisiana. [From the New Orleans Times] The Louisiana moss business is one of the important industries of New Orleans, and as such demands some attention at the hands of the press. In common with all Southern manufacturing interests, it has had its days of flush and its days of gloom in business. At present, however, the depression seems about over, and the trade is attaining its former respectable proportions.

The history of the manipulation of moss is very simple. It is gathered mostly by negroes, who devote a spare hour of the day to such work. After a tree is stripped it is allowed to rest for seven years, during which revised of time the week seven is allowed. period of time the moss renews itself. Cy-press moss is preferred, as it is the longest and most tenacious of all the varieties. After the moss is gathered it is placed on a sun-ny spot, and left a month to the action of wind and weather. At the end of that time the grayish bark peels off, leaving the hair al-most clean. Some of the moss requires no manipulation, while other assortments are, in weight, more than half dirt. After being thus dried the material is sold to the plantatwo cents a pound for it, according to its quality. The stuff is baled and brought to this city for manufacture.

The gatherers of late seem surprised at the

Mr. Hackett was no doubt one of the bes shots living with the pistol, and was scarcely less skillful with the rifle and shotgun. In using the latter his perceptions were as swift and sure as those of an Indian. When chatting quietly in the act of passing through a thicket, he would often throw up his fowling piece and suddenly fire. His companions would be at a loss to know at what he had aimed. But the result always justified his act. The tremble of a leaf, "a sound so fine that nothing lived 'twixt it and silence," or some other delicate warning, unheeded by a duller sense, had taught the unerring sportsman where to send his fatal charge. Nor did he lose his subtle faculties as he graw older. The same skill that in earlier days he showed in California where his skill is memorable to this day, as shown by achievements in San Mateo, Oakland and San Jose, was as brilliantly illus trated for many a year afterward in the covers of Winchester and Long Island. The experi-ments for which Mr. Hackett became famous ments for which Mr. Hackett became famous—such as splitting an apple resting on another person's head, or striking small coins from the fingers, with a pistol shot—have been censured as foolhardy, and it cannot be denied that such hazards should not have been incurred by either of the parties to them. Yet it is fair to say that, since no accident ever happened from those critical trials that were probably thousands of times repeated, Mr. Hackett's confidence was to that extent justified. His self-trust in this respect was almost miraculous; and we are able to exemplify it by an anecdote never before, if we mistake not, seen in print. The story may plify it by an aneodote never before, if we mistake not, seen in print. The story may be accepted as that of an eye-witness, and is as follows: At the Mission Dolores, close to San Francisco, a Western lad of twenty years of age had often supported apples and held coins for Mr. Hackett to practice upon in this perilous fashion, and one day on the occasion of a little dinner party, a special exhibition was to be had. The marksman was to cleave an apple on the youth's head at exhibition was to be had. The marksman was to cleave an apple on the youth's head at ten paces. Before the time came, however, an ingenious gentleman, celebrated in the East as well as the West for his practical jokes, bribed the lad to go through a carefully rehearsed scene. He was provided with a clot of blood-colored paint, and instructed to secrete this in his hand just before the show. At the report of the pistol he was to spin around, clap the paint to his forchead as he turned his back to Mr. Hackett, give a yell, yaut high in the air and fall to the ground. turned his back to Mr. Hackett, give a yell, vault high in the air and fall to the ground. All this was actually and carefully done in the presence of five of six persons who had dined together. The expectation, of course, was that Mr. Hackett would be stricken with remorse and horror, and rush forward instantly to his weltering victim; but when, instead, the marksman quietly sat down where he stood, and, with his own peculiar smile, proceeded to light a cigar, a tale was told that the amused witnesses have never forgotten. William Tell was less positive of his results with the crossbow than John K. Hackett with his

The Funded Assessment bonds were issued to provide for the refunding of amounts paid in for patent improvements, which had been set aside. The carriage was literally knocked into kindling wood, and the horse had his leg broken at the hip. Mr. Richards was very seriously injured, his skull being fractured at the base so badly that he lived only three hours after the accident, and during that time was unconscious. On the one hand it made its appropriation $2,000 as before, and on the other, it took a dollar a week from its allowance for each patient, and so changed the rules for admission, undoubtedly too lax, that about 75 per cent. of the soldiers were removed. The effect of these measures was suddenly to lessen the income of the institution by at least $20,000. The appropriation of $5,000 has since been restored and the rules for admission have been made somewhat less stringent. The weekly payment, however, was again reduced, being now $4.50 instead of $6.00 as formerly, and during the year only between $4,000 and $5,000 was reserved for State retients. A considerable year only between $4,000 and $5,000 was re-ceived for State patients. A considerable part of the income of the hospital from this source may therefore be regarded as perma-nently lost, and unless the loss can be made nently crippled.

2. Inadequate provision for the hospital as a charity.—The hospital is not a business enterprise any more than it is a State institution; it is, first of all, a charitable establishment. It is, indeed, less so than it ought to be, for it can give free treatment to but few of its inmates. But this is an acknowledged defect, and only makes the evil now com-plained of more apparent. Nevertheless the hospital does an extensive work of charity, giving most of its inmates more than it re-ceives for them individually. The weekly ceives for them individually. The weekly cost is not uniform, varying with the number of patients; at present it is between $6.50 and $7.00. The regular weekly charge, in the wards, is $6.00, the State pays $4.50 and the towns $4.00, while a few are received, in emergencies, without promise of payment from any quarter. The State's charity ($5,000) is used in bringing its own payments and those of the towns up to the regular charge of $6.00, any balance being used for the charity patients proper. But $6.00 being less than the weekly cost, there is still a deficiency. The regular charge cannot be increased, for it now excludes many who ought to be received; the State pays what it pleases, and the towns can send their sick to the poor house. The hospital must therefore be administered in some degree, as it ought to be in a far larger degree, as a charitable institution, and, so far, it cannot be required to pay its own expenses; its outlay will always exceed its earnings. The difference must be made up by gifts, and at present these are inrangements for Mr. Parnell's reception in this

REV. HENRY G. SPAULDING: Dear Sir—We learn with pleasure that you propose to give in New Haven a course of illustrated lectures on Pagan and Christian Bome and the Destruction of Pompeii. We have heard of the remarkable success of these lectures as given at the Lowall Institute in Boston, the Peabody Institute in Baltimore, in New York, Hartford and other places. Fully illustrated by the aid of stereopticon views, your lectures are said to unite instruction with delight to an unusual degree. The late S. S. Ward was strictly a man of his word. Some years ago, when the project of buying a new site for the Orphan Asylum on Washington street was first set seriously under way, a number of citizens subscribed $5,000 each, and a still larger number a somewhat less sum. But the hard times suddenly began to be felt, and nothing, for a while, came of the plan—though it has since been magnificently carried out, in the spacious and beautiful new establishment now completed, amidst such fine surroundings, on Russ street, west of Broad street. The "pressure" led the subscribers to fall off and disregard the agreement. But Mr. Ward put his $5,000 at good interest, and gave the whole to the directors of the Orphan Asylum, which institution has since had the benefit of it. The principal and interest now amounts of it. The principal and interest now amounts to $7,500.—Hartford Times.

The Situation-Continued Exciten Proceedings in the Assembly-Repu Chamberiain Temporarily at th Head of Affairs-A Refusal to Qualify ports of Republican Policy.

Augusta, Jan. 9 .- The excitement here i still intense. There is a widespread feeling of doubt and distrust among all parties. The military power, though no troops have been salled out, is becoming unusually conspicuous for Maine. General Chamberlain is in con stant consultation with the civil authorities and is gradually becoming an important figure General John Marshall Brown, of his staff, arrived from Portland this morning and oth er old army officers are expected to-day. The conference at Mr. Blaine's house lasted until a late hour this morning, and teams were coming and going to and from his house as late as 1 o'clock. In the State House just beyond all was quiet, the principal offices being brilliant ly lighted. No men were visible, but men were there. At the Augusta House ever person who entered or went out up to 2 'clock, at least, was an object of suspicion and was closely watched until his busines was known. When the Senate met to-day but one of the Republican Senaters, Mr. Looke of Cumber-land, was present. Only a short session of the Senate was held, but the House continued the Senate was held, but the House continued ready for business until nearly 6 o'clock, About twenty-five petitions were presented from parties claiming the seats of members now holding certificates. The Republican members of the Senate committee on petitions were present this afternoon and acted with the rest of the committee.

When the House met no Republicans were present. As soon as the reading of the journal was finished Mr. Swan of Mechanic Falls rose to a question of privilege and gave the rose to a question of privilege and gave the story of the alleged attempt to bribe him. The name of the accused man is Wallace R. White, name of the accused man is Wallace R. White, of Winthrop, a Republican lawyer, who denies the charge in the strongest terms. The House appointed the following committee to act with the committee appointed yesterday by the Senate to investigate charges of bribery, with authority to summon witnesses and have all necessary powers: Ingalls of Wiscasset, Plaisted of Lincoln, Young of Brunswick, Robinson of Thomaston and Hill of Exeter.

The Senate committee appointed on the Gubernatorial votes is composed of Mesers. Atwell, Linn, Thompson of Knox, Barrett, Locke, Fingley and Flint. The Committee on In the City can be seen in the Ex- duty. It is composed of Messrs. Strickland, Patten, Thompson of Knox, Rankin, Coombi and Sampson.

General Chamberlain has issued a general

General Chamberlain has issued a general order stating that in view of the extraordinary situation presented at the seat of government he would assume command and protect the public property and institutions of the State in trust for the people until the Governor's successor is legally elected and duly appointed. The police force at the State House was changed this morning, those indicated by Governor Chamberlain taking the place of those who have been there the past few weeks. those who have been there the past few weeks.

President Lamson has sent the following answer to the demand from the Republican members yesterday to be qualified:

"State of Maine, Senate Chamber, Augusta, Jan. 9. To Hon. Geo. E. Weeks—Dear Sir:

In reply to your official request to me as Pres ident of the Senate, to administer the oath of office to members of the House of Representatives holding certificates of election from the Governor and Council, I have the honor to say that while I feel it to be my duty to perform all official acts devolving on me as defined by the Constitution, I find by an examination of the same Constitution and law that certain specific things are required in order to allow the oath alluded to; first, the aforesaid oath shall be administered in the presence of the Governor and Council. order to allow the oath alluded to; first, the aforesaid oath shall be administered in the presence of the Governor and Council; second, before the President of the Senate can act as Governor, there must be a vacancy in the office of Governor such as the Constitution contemplates. I find there is serious doubt in the minds of well-informed legal gentlemen as to whether there be now any Council in the State. I find also that serious doubts exist as to whether there ous doubts exist as to whether there be now such a vacancy in the office of the Governor as the law and Constitution contembe now such a vacancy in the office of the Governor as the law and Constitution contemplate when the President of the Senate can lawfully exercise the functions of the Executive. I therefore conclude that not being satisfied that I have legal authority to administer the oath as requested, and being unwilling to exercise any functions of doubtful authority, I must respectfully decline to comply with your request. Respectfully your obedient servant, (Signed) James D. Lamson, President of the Senate.

It is reported that the Republicans assert if James L. Smith is elected Governor, the Republicans claiming the House to be an illegal body, they will be supported by General Chamberlain, who will refuse to give up the authority delegated to him by Governor Garcelon until the question of the validity of Smith's title is decided in court.

It is said that the Republicans absent from the House this morning were holding a private consultation, preparatory to organizing another legislative body. It is rumored that they will elect State officers and attempt to seat them in less than twenty-four hours. Nothing definite is known. The excitement is intense to learn the result of the Republican deliberations.

A Defaulting Treasurer. New York, Jan. 9. It became known to few persons yesterday, and to-day was made public, that Benjamin C. Bogert, treasurer of the Produce Exchange since its organization, with the exception of one year, was a defaulter to the Exchange in a large amount. The disclosure of the defalcation was due to the determination of the finance committee of the Produce Exchange to transfer the amount of the Exchange from one bank to another. Mr. Bogert is supposed to have used the money which he took in his private business. Mr. Bogert did not appear at the Exchange or at his office after the discovery was made, and died suddenly yesterday afternoon at the house of a friend in this city. London, Jan. 9.—The authorities of the French cable company inform this agency that there is no truth in the report recently men-tioned by the London Standard that the syndicate which controlled the shares of the company had thrown them on the hands of the contractor in consequence of the discovery of a flaw in the contract. They say that as soon as the cable to make the connection between Brest and England is laid, their cable, which is in perfect working order, will be opened for traffic, certainly not later, they think, than the first week in February.

How Silver Ore is Sold. [From the Leasuile (Col.) Reveille.]

The business of buying and selling ores in a camplilike this, when the output of the miners is so immense and the value of dollars so great, has been reduced to a science, and is by no means, as many have supposed, dependent on the fair dealing and honesty pendent on the fair dealing and honesty of the mill men, who generally are the purchasers. The large mining coporations and wealthy individual owners of productive properties have their own assayers, as well as their own scales at the mines. So far as practicable similar ores from the different pay streaks are piled together for shipment, under the distinguishing titles of hard carbonates, iron, dark sand, gray sand, and many other varieties of ore. The assayer makes frequent assays for the purpose of keeping a general knowledge of these separate kind of ore, yet such assays are not the basis upon which sales are made, owing to the fact that such samples are either too high or too low for the bulk of such lots, and the correct sampling must be arrived either too high or too low for the bulk of such lots, and the correct sampling must be arrived at by the process customary at the sampling works of reserving so many pounds at regular intervals out of a given weight of ore, to ascertain which is equally to the interest of buyer and seller. Samples from these bulk samples are assayed by the mill men and by the owners, and if the ounces closely tally, the price to be paid is arrived at. If too great variations occur, the assays are made over again until they do agree. The owner of ore, knowing the cost of milling and marketing ore, is as well able to determine what the mill ore, is as well able to determine what the mill man can afford to pay as the mill man himself, and thus there is full and complete satisfaction and confidence existing between the sellers and the buyers of ore in this camp. The weight of each ton of ore is made to tally almost to a pound by allowing for the un avoidable high waste in hauling, and it is very seldom that disputes arise on this point.

Mr. Waller said the State now proposed to put on two or three witnesses to show that the Rev. Mr. Eldridge told what he testified to as to his conversation with Mr. Hayden, before he had talked with Mrs. Hayden. Mr. Waller said if a witness was impeached evidence could be introduced to show that he had stated to three or four different parties the same as he had testified to on the stand. He said they ought to be permitted to show He said they ought to be permitted to show that Mr. Eldridge's conversation was had with she had a similar conversation with Mr.

Eidridge.

Mr. Watrous said there had been no purpose on the part of the defense to attack the capability of Mr. Eidridge as a witness. We believe he was mistakan as to the source of his information as coming from Mr. Hayden instead of Mrs. Hayden. Mrs. Eldridge says his recollection is dim as to the conversation he had with Mr. and Mrs. Hayden. If this was so and his evidence had been weakened, was so and his evidence had osen weakened, was it any reason that the State should be permitted to bring in witnesses to brace up his evidence, when his truthfulness had not been attacked? If so he could not see where

Mr. Waller replied. He insisted that it was Mr. Waller replied. He insisted that it was within the rules to introduce testimony to meet the statement made by Mrs. Hayden. He said the State desired to show that Mr. Eldridge told what Mr. Hayden said about the girl's condition before this Friday when Mrs. Hayden says she had this conversation with Mr. Eldridge.

Mr. Watrous read from the evidence of Mr. Editidge to show that the witness was not pos-itive as to his conversation had with Mrs. Hayden. He then replied at length to the arguments of Mr. Waller, contending that the introduction of this testimony was not accord-

The court ordered a recess at this point. After recess the court gave its opinion on the question of evidence sought to be intro-duced by Mr. Waller. Chief Justice Park said that Mr. Eldridge had testified that he had a certain conversa-tion with Mr. Hayden on Wednesday. The defense says that he had similar conversation with Mrs. Hayden on Friday and that he is Mistaken as to the source of his information.

Now the State desire to show that he told others before Friday what Mr. Hayden told him in order to strengthen the evidence of Mr. Eldridge. For this purpose they thought it was proper.

Leverett M. Leach was called and in reply to Mr. Waller testified as follows: I know Rev. Mr. Eldridge. I saw him on the week of the homicide in Middlefield at the parson-age. Think it was previous to 9 o'clock. Think the day of the week was Friday, but cannot tell positively. Have no doubt but that it was the morning of Mr. Hayden's ar-rest. Should say that I heard of his arrest about 7:30 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Waller—Did Mr. Eldridge at the time you have mentioned say anything about a conversation had with Mr. Hayden about any woman's physical condition?

A. He said something to the effect that Mr. Hayden had told him something about Mary Stannard's physical condition. Cross-examination by Mr. Watrons. Mr. Watrous—Of course you know about who Mr. Eldridge had talked with on the subject before you?

A. No, sir.
Q. In that interview do you know whether Mrs. Havden was spoken of? not swear that we did not speak of her in about this subject before you talked with Mr. Eldridge?

A. Think very likely I did.
Mrs. Eshher R. Eldridge was next called.
She said she was the wife of Mr. Eldridge, the minister. I talked with Mr. Eldridge the evening after the homicide, about what Mr. Hayden told him. He told me that Mr. Hay-den said that he knew of the physical condi-tion of Mary Stannard the month before, as he had learned it from his wife. There was no cross-examination of this wit

Mr. Waller stated to the court that the ject of bringing this witness was to show that there was a stick up in the woods that had been used to stir up the pool of blood where the body was found. The defense had attempted to bring a bloody stick into the case, and they desired to show that such a stick was found and used and was generally known in the neighborhood, but no one ever attempted to connect it with the murder. State intended to bring in this evidence to sustain the testimony of Ben Stevens. If knew anything about the taking off of Mary of a certain stick or club that had been found with blood and bair upon it. He replied no. The defense introduced evidence to contradict him. Now, we protest that evidence in re-buttal cannot be introduced in this way. Chief Justice Park said that Benjamin Stevens appeared in this case as a witness. He was asked if he did not make statements

This don't prove that he ever had such a stick in his possession, but only contradicts him as a witness. This being so it would seem that you cannot show that such a stick Munroe Burr was excused. Egbert Stannard was called, and in reply to Mr. Harrison said he was at the Stannard house when it was testified that Benjamin Stevens and Susan Hawley went into the pantry. The door was not shut when they went in. They were gone a moment. There were other people in the room.

On the cross-examination by Mr. Jones, witness said the door was not wide open when they went into the pantry. The door was not moved after they went in, so far as he saw. Mr. Jones—Have you talked on this subject with any one in the lobby of this court room?

A. Yes, sir. I talked with Mr. Hubbard and prepare these. I talked with the they have and perhaps others. I told him that the bo-told the truth except about the door being

Did you not say that the door was no A. I think I did, sir.

The State desired to introduce evidence at this point to contradict George Bunnell as to the persons who were at the scene of the hom the blood stain. After discussion the testimony was rules out and a recess was ordered until 2 o'clock. Afternoon-The Last Evidence of the Great Trial.

The State supposed that the evidence was not concerned to reply to the attack. Mr. Jones held with equal force that the evidence was not proper to come in at this stage.)

The court held that this was not made a serious question until the robuttal.

versation.

Mr. Watrous. You were called to a seat behind the trying justice? A. Yes, sir; Mr. Wilcox invited all the magistrates to seats on the sofa back of him. No, sir; I don't remember everything said by Mr. Stevens. No, sir; all of the justices couldn't sit at one time together on the sofa. I think I was on the sofa when Benjamin Stevens testified. No, sir; have no recollection what day of the week or what part of the day it was he testified. I didn't hear him say he was full. Heard him say he was at a dance. I think he admitted having had something to drink.

Q. Did he say he was full? A. Don't think he did.

mon in allusion to Mr. Hayden?

Witness—I think I preached a sermon from the text "She has done what she could."

[Narrative objected to.]

Q. Did you say, "I did not think it right to sacrifice the church, to sacrifice my own soul for Mr. Hayden; that he is where he is."

A. I think not—I think I did say that I felt a sympathy for Mr. Hayden in that sermon. [Objected to.]

Mr. Watrons, in support of objection, read from his notes testimony that the clergyman did presch a Judas; he read what "the good dlady, the member of the church for forty years," testified to, that the minister said

Q. How full did he say, two thirds full?
A. Didn't say exactly. No, I won't swear I heard all Stevens testified; won't swear I was present all the time that he was testifying. I don't think Stevens testified at Madison that he had a talk with Hayden at Madison that he had a talk with Hayden out doors, because he didn't so say before witness at the coroner's jury. [Question of relevancy of answer argued between Mr. Waller and Mr. Watrous.)

Mr. Luzerne Stevens—To Mr. Waller—Was during the trial at Madison at the home of Mr. Hough. My wife did not say there to any one that I saw Hayden on the day of the homicide at 2 o'clock. Had a talk with Judge Harrison about the mistake in the newspaper. To Mr. Watrons—Yes, I read other newspaper per reports of the trial. I looked in the Union and Register's reports of the trial. They did not sgree with the Palladium. Mr. Watrous—Allow me to show you the Register of Sept. 14, 1878. [Showing to witness copy of Register] Will you do me the favor to read this. [The report said 2 o'clock.] Mr. Watrous-Don't you know that the Hartford Times re ported you in the same way? A.—No, sir.

Mr. Waller—Do you know who the reporters of the Register were, and that they took this portion of the report from the Register?

A. No sir.

Mr. Watrous replied that the report of the Mr. Waller—Mr. Girdner or Gardner, step this way. Charles E. Gierding sworn. [Spelled his name.]—Live in Madison. Know Mr. Hough. Q.—Did John Hough ever say to you that Luzerne Stevens or Mrs. Stevens told him that they saw, or either of them saw, Mr. Hayden at 2 o'clock the day of the tragedy? A.—No, sir.
To Mr. Watrous—We had a slight converse tion about the homicide. I remember he said Mr. Hayden was innocent. Mr. Watrous-The topic was his guilt or innocence?

Mr. Waller—He expressed that opinion long time ago. (Laughter.)
Mr. Watrous—He was wiser than some of us who have come to the conclusion more recently. (Laughter.)

Witness—It was noisy in the shop when we were talking. We suspended business a moment to talk. Q.—How many machines are going there? A.—I never counted them. Q.—Did they suspend operation while you were talking? A.—No, sir. Mr. Justice Wilcox, who heard the Madison case, recalled. To Mr. Waller—Yes, sir; I took notes of the Madison trial. Q. They do not say that Benjamin Stevens had a talk with Mr. Hayden the day of the homicide out-doors? A. I think not. Q. Do they say that Luzerne Stevens said 2 o'clock. A. I To Mr. Watrous-I didn't take full notes.

wrote as fully as I could, but I could not take all. No importance attached at that time as to what Stevens and Hayden talked about on that day. I will not swear that Mr. Benjamin Stevens did not say he had such a talk. (Ob Mr. Watrous-Notes are of no object unless they connect themselves with the memory of the witness. (Answer admitted.) Witnes My impression is that Benjamin Stevens did say something about lumber. As to Luzerne Stevens, my recollection is very clear that I did say he saw Mr. Hayden at 2 o'clock. think he said he went out of doors with his children at 2 o'clock. My impression to that effect is very strong.

Mr. Waller—Your impression is very strong?
Did you not say once before on the stand that Luzerne Stevens testified it was 2 o'clock? A. I think I did. I said to him (Luzerne), as we went in the cars, Did you say 2 o'clock? He connect it with the murder.

Watrons said it was obvious that the intended to bring in this evidence to in the testimony of Ben Stevens. If as the case it was manifestly improper.

As the didn't. On the stand, being asked, I said I couldn't say exactly. I think I have been asked on the stand if I had not read it in the Palladium report.

Q. Haven't you been struggled with to see if you didn't get your idea of the time from the Palladium report? A. Tothat I can answer at once, no. No. sir; I have next to nothing of once, no. No, sir; I have next to nothing of the notes of Mr. Hayden. Mr. Waller said: I asked, as I thought he would be sure to have in what Hayden said. Witness was excused. He desired to explain (permission given) that it was not lawyer's work which made him remember. It came to my recollection when I was by myself, thinking the matter over. To Mr. Waller—I was alone in the carriage rid-ing home from the depot about two weeks ago. Mr. Waller had a caucus or session with ago. Mr. water and a caucus or session with the judge, and concluding said: If there is any other revelation comes to you before the trial is over don't fail to bring it. (Laughter.)

Mr. Jones replied: Send for Gibbs.
(Laughter.) The next witness was Mrs. Gibbs.

Mrs. Gibbs, wife of Rev. Mr. Gibbs, of the Rockland church, recalled. Witness was called to contradict testimony of Mr. John H. Tuttle, awyer, of this city, and wife, that Mr. Gibb called on him to arrange to get out of testify-ing; and that he said the reason was that he was not positive about remembering the time which he said Mrs. Hayden gave of Mr. Hay-den's going to the wood lot. Witness denied that such remarks were made on that occasion in her presence.

To Mr. Watrous—I saw the report of Mr.

Bombshells and Ocular Demonstration. Q. You came in consequence of a previous arrangement because of this bombshell sent into your domestic circle? (Mr. Waller—Pooh!) Witness—Am stopping on Wooster street, No. 95. He didn't say to Mr. Tuttle that he was called as a witness in the Hayde trial. He didn't then, anyway. Not when I Mr. Watrous asked if witness had not ever noticed that often when in a room where a clock was ticking she would be unconscious of the ticking unless her attention was called

Mr. Watrous used this illustration and said that talk might have been had, however. There may be times when you are not coularly and bodily in the presence of your husband and some other woman is? (Merriment.) Witness—I didn't hear him tell Mrs. Tuttle that he was called and wanted to get rid of testifying. I know I never heard him say so anywhere.

Q. It is quite possible that this fact, like the other, may have been said in your presthe other, may have been said in your presence and you not have remembered it? A. I know he didn't. If he did I should have remembered it. (Laughter.)

Mr. Watrous asked a few playful questions, exciting merriment, as to whether her husband might not have said stories which she never hard of. Witness said she never followed him around to see.

Judge Park—Was your husband then subposassed? A. No, sir.

Witness to Mr. Watrous—I think he was expecting to be. He had been summoned at the Madison trial. He didn't care to go Benjamin Stevens said until after he said it. Withdrawn.] Witness said Mr. Stevens did not testify about lumber. Mr. Hayden did. To Mr. Jones—Yes, I have talked it over with my husband since this trial. No, sir; I haven't been one of the advisers in this case. Q. Didn't you sit by counsel in this case. A. Only on one occasion.

Q. Didn't you lean over at different times to Mr. Harrison and offer suggestions? A. No, sir.
Q. Haven't you been with Mr. Harrison in court and out asking you questions about the case? A. He has asked me some questions.
Mr. Waller thought witness had sat by counsel only a few minutes.
Witness said about two hours.
Mr. Waller had no recollection of ladies sitting around him.
Mr. Watrous—I have. Mr. Waller—then you must have enjoyed yourself. [Laughter.] Mr. Watrous—I was glad to see you surrounded with a galaxy of posies. [Laughter that the state was not attacking Mr. Hayden that it was 2 o'clock, and soon after hearing her fell Mr. Gibbs it was 2, and held that the evidence now sought was out of order. Mr. Waller replied that the state was not attacking Mrs. Hayden.

Gibbs it was 2, and near that the evidence how sought was out of order. Mr. Waller replied that the State was not attacking Mrs. Hayden. It was defending Mr. Gibbs because attacked by Mr. Shaw. The State would show that by Mr. Gibbs. [Question excluded.]

Q. Will you tell what you said in any sermon in allusion to Mr. Hayden?
Witness—I think I preached a sermon from the text "She has done what she could."

Mr. Watrons, in support of objection, read from his notes testimony that the clergyman did preach a Judas sermon, and implied Mr.
Hayden as the Judas; he read what "the good old lady, the member of the church for forty years," testified to, that the minister said about "sacrificing his church," etc.
Q. Mr. Gibbs, did you ever say in your pulpit at any time anything against the interests of Mr. Hayden, or show any ill feeling toward him or his family? [Objected to and excluwhat Mr. Watrous said the good old lady said?

A. I think I did, in connection with other things. If I could Mr. Waller-Oh! don't please, Mr. Gibbs; Mr. Gibbs-I was speaking of Mr. Hayden and the duties we owed to the church, and of the duties we owed to Mr. Hayden, and in the remarks I think I expressed sympathy for Mr. Hayden, and that the duties we owed to the nurch ought not to interfere with the well-

Q. Did you ever preach a sermon on Judas?
No. sir, not since this case. Q. Did you ever preach a sermon in which, by inuendo or any other way, you likened Mr. Hayden to Judas? [Objected to and ruled Q. Did you ever say to Mrs. Stone that anybody who stood up for Mr. Hayden was like Judas? A. No, sir; 1 did in that talk allude to Judas.

Q. Did you make that remark to that good old lady, Mrs. Stone, about Judas? A. Well, I said Judas went out and hanged himself. I was comparing different temperaments and ways of not showing crime. She spoke how she would act, and I how I would act. I make in reply of Index who went out and spoke in reply of Judas who went out and hanged himself.

Mr. Watrous. Mr. Gibbs, were you ever engaged in peddling literature, yellow covered, in relation to this case, a pamphlet giving an account of the murder of Mary Stannard, etc.? Please answer my question?

A. I bought ten of these books and sold

Q. You tried to buy more? A. No, sir; I came in company with Fillmore Scranton to this city. He wanted to buy some.

Q. That is a book which characterizes this transaction as a murder and imputes the ime to Mr. Hayden? Mr. Waller. I object. That is a book gotten up by the reporters of the New Haven Union. If it is to be laid in, well and good. Witness. I understood the book was in favor of Mr. Hayden, and that the sales were for his benefit.

Q. Will you swear you never read i enough to familiarize yourself with its con-tents? A. Only in part.

'Q. Did you sell the ten books because you hought, or upon the idea represented to the surchaser of it, that it was exculpatory of Mr. Hayden? A. I don't think I knew much about it. I think they were sold before I got home. I never peddled them. It was said to me that it was for the benefit of Mr.

Q. You can read? Did you ever read the itle page of the book? A. I presume I one Q. You don't really want the jury to be-lieve that you thought you were doing Mr. Hayden a service? A. I—if I had not lought so I would not have sold them. Q. What were you talking with Mrs. Stone about? Witness gave no answer and tarried long. Mr. Waller begged him not to tarried long. Air. Waller begged him not to be impetuous. (Laughter.) Witness—I was not talking with her more than ten minutes.

Q. Didn't you mean to have the old ladies understand that Mr. Hayden was no better than the historic chap who went out and hanged himself? A. No, sir.

Q. Will you tell us why you mentioned that detestable character? A. Well, I was saying that there were differences of temperaments of people who bear crime. I made the remark if I was arrested on a charge of murder I would, innocent or guilty, show it n my countenance. Q. Do you mean that you would have gone out and hanged yourself? A. No, sir. Q. And you thought yourself at the time in sympathy with Mr. Hayden, and that the ladies so understood you? A. Why, yes, I

Q. And you expressed yourself in sympa-thy with Mr. Hayden by using illustrations about a Judas and by selling this work. Haven't you in this city time and again said that Mr. Hayden was guilty and ought to be hung? A. No. sir. Q. Haven't you said it in substance? A. I don't know what you mean exactly by "in Mr. W.—Oh! I mean as distinguished from chaff. (Laughter.) Witness. I had always sympathized with Mr. Hayden. I never said he ought to hang. I am sure of it. Q. Don't you think it was far fetched in a sermon on "She hath done what she could" to bring in Mr. Hayden? A. No, sir; I thought it was to the point. Q. You felt called upon to say that you wouldn't sacrifice, etc. No

Q Wasn't it because you were annoyed and used this nom de plume, because people were cutting your church because of opposition to Mr. Hayden? A. No, sir, it was not so. No, sir, when I had the talk with the lawyer I was not you want to be a sir, when I had the talk with the lawyer I was sir, when I had the talk with the lawyer I was expecting to be called in the case. I don't say I didn't say to Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle that I would like to avoid testifying; don't know of any reason why they should not remember

To Mr. Waller-Have you from the first to his blessed moment been lacking in sympathy for Mr. Hayden? A.—No, sir. [Objected] The court asked how near through the counsel were. Mr. Waller said that the State had wished to put on Ben Stevens for a few tri fling matters but would forego that. The evidence here was closed and fo announced to the court. The judges showed signs of pleasure. Judge Park mounced thatcourt would adjourn to Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. Rev. Sylvanus Cobb thus writes in the Boston Obristian Freeman: We would by no means recommend any kind of medicine which we did not know to be good—particularly for infants. But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrfants. But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge; in our family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colic pains, quiet sleep, and the parents unbroken rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection, and which is harmless; for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." And during the process of teething its value is incalculable. We have frequently heard mothers say that they would not be without it from the birth of the child till it had finished with the teething slege, on any consideration whatever.
