Washington, D. C., January 20th, 1880.

Gentlemen: This compound, in the opinion of this office, would have a sufficient quantity of the BAI-SAM OF TOLU to give it all the advantages sacribed to this article in pectoral complaints, while the whiskey and the syrup constitute an emulsion rendering it an agreeable remedy to the patient. Compounded according to the formula, it may properly be classed as a medicinal preparation under the provisions of U. S. Revised Statutes, and when so stamped may be sold by Druggists, Apothecaries and Other Persons without rendering them liable to pay special tax as liquor dealers.

Yours Respectfully, (Signed) GREEN B. RAUM, Commissioner.

The Ohio tramp law seems to have been re narkably successful, as all similar laws, when enforced, have been. Three years ago farm houses that for a quarter of a century had never seen a lock or key had to be bolted at every door, and their windows securely fastened at night. The Pall Mall Gazette gives some not orthy statistics in regard to the increase of runkenness—or at least of arrests for drunknness-in London of late years. Ten years ago the number of persons arrested for being drunk and disorderly was 21,625, while last year it had increased to 33.892, or by nearly favor since it was nominated. It met with 57 per cent. The increase is especially renarkable in the case of women. Of the total number of persons arrested for these offenses during the year 1879, not less than the ticket. Colenel Torrance Suggested as the Repul lican Nominee for Congress. I notice in your paper of yesterday morning, that a communication speaking of our ap; proaching Congressional convention, suggest (in case the nomination does not go to Middletown,)the name of Hon. Thomas Wallace of Derby. That name is worthy of any honor we can bestow upon it; but I suggest the name of Col. Torrance, of Derby, a man of peculiar fitness for the position, both by experience and cultivation. A man who always votes as he fought, and who fought as he votes, for the best good of the country. His name would "enthuse" the youthful blood of the district, and quicken the heart-throbs of the district, and quicken the heart-throbs of the veterans as but few other names would. Give us Col. Torrance of Derby, and we will march to victory over the "green back," "soft-shell" Democratic nominee, with a rousing majority. His name would strengthen our entire ticket, national, State, congressional and local.

He therefore prays that on making the proof and the taking the oath prescribed by law he may be admitted a citizen of the United States. The allegations of the petition are supported by the oath of the petitioner, and the period of residence is duly wouched by John F. Snyder. In addition to this community of the period of the 'honorably discharged' from the naval service of the United States on the day mentioned in his petition. Here the proof stops. Such proof is entirely inadequate to warrant us in granting the petitioner's prayer. There is no act of Congress which authorizes the courts to admit a foreigner to citizenship merely because he has served in the United States Navy, and certificates of citizenship have been granted based upon such service, they are all null and void, and afford the holder no protection or right whatever by reason of them. The peti-tioner has probably confused his supposed right with that of a seaman who has served on oard a merchant vessel of the United States. The act of Congress conferring the latter's right is in those words: "Every seaman, being a foreigner, who declares his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States," in any ompetent court, and shall have served three ears on board a merchant vessel of the United tates subsequent to the date of such declaration, may, on application to any competent court and the production of his certificate of discharge and good conduct during that time, together with the certificate of the declaration of his intention to become a citizen of the United States.' It is quite plain that this act does not extend to the navel service. It was doubtless passed as an inducement and encouragement to foreigners to enter our merchant service, to answer the wants of that ser-

It was twenty odd years ago. Owen was a respectable farmer, in good circumstances, and a consistent church member. He had been twice married. He had several children by his first wife; his second was childless, a circumstance which peculiarly affected her mind and temper. There was formidable prosecution—Lew Wallace, udge Gregory and others appearing against "It was proven that a short time before Mrs. Owen's death her husband had purchased strychnine at a drug store in the neighbor-hood; telling the druggist that he wanted it for poisoning rats. But he asked the drug-gist to charge it to him, a fact upon which we laid great stress in the argument, insisting that had he entertained a criminal design in buying the drug he would not have put the damnable evidence of the fact on record. Nothing is more savory to a southern ne-gro's palate than a roasted fat opossum. One old negro hunter captured a fine specimen the other day and feeling hungry stopped to cook it in the woods. He built a fire and dressed and spitted his meat; but, being vary tired as well as hungry, he fell asleep while the 'possum was roasting. As he sleet a he 'possum was roasting. As he slept, a 'low-trash' negro came upon the scene, loubtless attracted by the fire and the smell f roasting meat. The new comer appro ed cautiously with one eye on the 'possun and the other on Uncle Eph, who slumbered First, he shook the old man, who turned to an easier position, but would not awake. The stranger took in the situation, and then pro-ceeded to take in the 'possum. He, too, was a 'possum-eater, and he made short work of the dainty roast. He ate and ate till but the the dainty roast. He are and are the but the bones were left. Uncle Eph was still sleeping and it occurred to the vandal that he would make Eph think that he had been to supper, so that when he awoke he would not suspect the theft. Then the "low-trash" negro pro-ceeded to 'possum grease Eph's hands and ceeded to 'possum grease Eph's hands and face and mouth, and to pile in the old man's

At two o'clock this morning the first of the victims of the disaster were brought up from the mine. Before all the bodies could be removed a fire broke out and was not extinguished until seven o'clock. One hundred and thirty is the lowest estimate of the dead, and it is estimated that there were four hundred horses and ponies in the mine. The bodies of twelve men which have been brought up are frightfully disfigured. There are eleven more bodies near the pit shaft. It will be some time before the other bodies can be recovered, and some may never be found, as they are buried under the debris of the explosion. Another fire has begun in No. 3 shaft at the ventilating surface. This will delay the explorations. A dispatch from Seaham to the Ecening Standard compiles a list, from which it ap-pears that one hundred and sixty-two men are missing. The latest official statement places the number of killed at one hundred and forty-seven. A broken Davy Safety lamp has been brought up from the main seam, and it is believed to throw some light on the origin of the disaster.

tratford, Thursday evening, took place, despite the heavy sky, the mud and the rain, and was a very decided success. It was at first thought to postpone, but as the speakers were coming it was decided to go ahead. At 8 o'clock a committee from the Garfield and Arthur club, consisting of the Hon. F. A. Beujamin, Stiles Judson and F. J. Beardsley, proceeded to the depot to meet the Hon. N. D. Sperry, the speaker of the evening, and escorted him to the headquarters of the club. Upon their arrival in front of the hall the egant banner was flung to the breeze amid the shouts and cheers of the crowd, and a profusion of red fire. There was also a arge bonfire. The banner hangs suspended from a pole placed in front of the Masonic building, across Main street to the tree opposite. It bears the portraits of the Repub Garfield and Chester A. A lively meeting was held in the Tenth ward last evening by the campaign Garfield and Arthur club of the ward. Wier's Hall was crowded and great enthusiasm was shown. Short addresses were made by Colonel Buckingham, President Studley and Captain Loomis. Several names were added to the already long rell, and the military organizations also received many additions. The young men of the ward seem to be alive to the issues and are showing great activity in the good work which goes so bravely on.

The Stratford Republicans-Notes erally.

The campaign rally of the Republicans of military companies already organized held business meetings. Captain Ladieu presided over his company of fifty-four men, while Saptain Beach was chairman of his company secting. Uniforms were selected and reruiting committees were appointed. Steps were taken for the purpose of forming a third company. The committee appointed went actively to work and soon enrolled a third company, forty-five men enlisting. H. R. Loomis was elected captain, Charles H. Warner first lieutenant, H. G. Hotchkiss second lieutenant. The company adjourned to meet Wednesday night. After the formation of the third company a meeting of the commissioned officers of the B. seemed to come up along the coast, and strike inshore all about the same time, and the first inshore all about the same time, and the first notice of their arrival was often their appearance in the weirs on the bays and inlets. An sdvance guard preceded the main body often by a week or ten days. A mysterious live seed, of which Middletown could only hear that it was red, excessively hot, like pepper, and floated in the water, was thought to be the mackerel's principal inducement to come into the bays. He was passionately fond of it, and when it was ripe he was there, though it was a most reckless dissipation, for it was it was a most reckless dissipation, for it was said that it was so hot that it would burn its way out of a fish in a few hours, and it burned the hands of the fisherman in dressing such as had eaten it. A multitude of smaller marine creatures were fond of the red seed marine creatures were fond of the Fed seed also. The tiny pilot-fish, perhaps a kind of fugleman for the mackerel, but more likely his prey, like the rest, came first; then shoals of herring, shrimp, squid, menhaden. The round, limpid jelley-fish called the sun-squall, occurring sometimes almost numerously ds was held to elect field officers. P. enough to stop the way of a boat, sought it.

Woe to them all! They can snatch but a furtive joy; the fierce mackerel follows them up, devouring them as they fly. The only visible bits of solidity in the organism of the limpid sun-squall are the few red seeds, which it seems not even to have the pleasure past few days continued yesterday morning, of digesting. The mackerel ruthlessly tears and it was not until nearly noon that teleand it was not until nearly noon that telegrams were sent out to the principal towns that incompleted races would take place. At this hour the rain had ceased falling, the clouds raised and blue sky appeared on the borders of the western horizon. The country farmer, with his yoke of oren and brush harrow, was set at the country farmer, with his yoke of oren and brush harrow, was set at the country farmer, with his yoke of oren and brush harrow, was set at the country farmer, with his yoke of oren and brush harrow, was set at the country farmer, with his yoke of oren and brush harrow. The country farmer, with his yoke of oxen and brush harrow, was set at work to smooth off the face of the track, and everything so far as possible was placed in readiness for the races which were to follow.

The first race was a continuation of the 2:50 class, which was adjourned Thursday on account of the storm. When the time for the races arrived the judges were absent and new ones had to be selected. They were John Hard of Stratford, W. E. Trubee of Bridgeport and Dr. J. L. Lyon of New Haven, with Mr. Gates of Derby as time keeper.

The remaining heats of the race were, continuation of the sinister shark is on thy track; the porpoise lunges from the left; the mackerel gill swoops down from overhead; the solemn whale cruises in thy wake, ready to dive The remaining heats of the race were, considering the condition of the track, fine ones. A quaint apparent exception, and the only one, to the universal rule-of ra-pine in the great procession was a little bird somewhat larger than a sandpiper—the sea-goose, so called. It sits over a mackerel shoal, and accompanies it in its course, whether out of an amicable sentiment of com-panionality or as a rival for the mystarious panionship, or as a rival for the mysteriou peppery seed, is not quite certain.
