Amether Great Cure in New Haven.
This is to certify that I have been sick for a long time with difficulties of the Liver, Kidneys and Spine. My Spine and Lungs were very weak and I had a constant pain in my head. I have been reasted by other physicians from time to time, but never received any permanent benefit until I applied to Dr. Fiske. He examined me clairvoyantly and told me my feelings exactly, and I had taken his medicines but a short time when I felt a change throughout my whole system, and I have gained so rapidly that I now consider the benefit of authering humanity, and I advise all those that are afflicted to consult the Doctor and receive his valuable treatment and medicines. Dr. Fiske is a gentleman skilled in his profession and honorable in all his dealings.

Yours truly.

Thursday Morning, Dec. 30, 1880. THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

The messages of Mayor Bigelow have on great merit which is too often, in fact almost always, lacking in such documents, namely, brevity. He says what he has to say plainly and with few words. In his message delivered last evening he says he accepted the duties of his office with a desire to conduct the affairs of the city nomically. He has done so. His administration has been just what was needed. Sufficient improvements have been made during it, but there has been no extravagant expenliture to burden the taxpayers. During his term of office the city's debt has been decreased $73,739.13, and the financial outlook

The message gives a concise account of the work of the various departments during the past year, and proper credit is given to each. A good word is spoken for the East Rock park, the Derby railroad and the breakwater nd the message closes with some kindly sen-satisfactory one. He has made a similar record in all the other offices he has filled, and we believe he will perform the duties of the high office he is about to assume in a manner that will satisfy the people of the State and

CABINET MEMBERS IN CONGRESS. From the fact that General Garfield has een one of the strongest supporters of the proposition to give Cabinet member seats in Congress it is thought probable that he will use his influence a President in the same direction and that the plan will succeed. It is nearly sixteen years since Mr. Pendleton offered a motion to make this change and General Garfield spoke earnestly in favor of it. At that time there was special reason for the proposed action. R | was in the winter of 1865, and the House had been trying for weeks to get a report from the War department as to the state of the army and the measures deemed essential for the national defence. "We have been All to be Sold Very Cheap. working in the dark," said General Garfield, and it is only as we have reconnoitered the War department and forced ourselves in sideways and edgeways that we have been able to earn" what it was the right and the business of Congress to know. To the objection that such a measure would aggrandize the executive authority General Garfield said : To me it is one objection to this plan that it may have exactly the opposite effect. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that the fame of Jefferson is waning, and the fame of Hamilton is son is waning, and the fame of Hamilton is waxing, in the estimation of the American people, and that we are gravitating toward a stronger government. I am glad of it, and I hope the effect of this measure will cause the heads of departments to become so thoroughly acquainted with the details of their bring our ablest men to the Cabinet? Who bring our ablest men to the Cabinet? Who does not know that if a man is to be responsible for his executive acts, and also be able to tell why he proposes new measures, and to comprehend intelligently the whole scope of his duties, weak men will shrink from taking such places? Who does not know that it will call out the best talent of the land, oth executive and parliamentary? Mr. Cox, in the course of the debate, had drawn a ridiculous picture of what he conceived might be the result if Cabinet minis

Instead of that unworthy and unmanly exhibition, I would see the executive heads of the government giving information and consulting with the representatives of the people in an open and undisguised manner. Sir, the danger to American liberty is not from open contact with departments, but from that un-seen, intangible influence which characterizes courts, crowns and cabinets. Who does not know, and who does not feel, how complete-ly the reasons of a member may be stultified by some one getting up and reading a dictum of some head of a department that he thinks a measure is good or bad, wise or unwise? I want that head of department to tell me why: I want him to appeal to my reason, and not lecture me a cathedra, and expect me to follow his lead just because he leads. It is the silent, secret influence that saps and undermines the fabric of republics, and not the array of facts, the collision of intellects, the

As the New York Herald has pointed out the change would be a much more radical one than is generally supposed. It would affect the power of the President, give the Cabinet officers an independent position in the country and largely strengthen the Senate and House. But it seems, on the whole, to be in the direction of sound policy and a much needed step towards more intelligent legisla-

The Italian Minister of War is anxious t have every Italian thoroughly trained in rifle practice. His plan is to organize committees in all the chief districts and commands composed of the syndic and the commandant who will then form establishments for shoot ing and draw arms and ammunition from the government, paying the actual costs only. As soon as a sufficient number of persons have arolled themselves a society will be formed for target practice, with a committee, one member of which must be an officer. The pupils in all the secondary schools are to be taught shooting conjointly with gymnastic and the manual exercise, and the same study will be obligatory in the lycees, the pupils of which will march to the practice ground in military formation. No youth will be able to become a "one-year volunteer" without passing through the courses of shooting for two years, and even men who have passed forty years of age, and are therefore no

The streets of Boston are less puzzling to a stranger than they were ten years ago and still further improvement is planned. When Roxbury was annexed to Boston it was found necessary to change the names of many streets which were the same in both cities, and since the annexation of Charlestown Dorchester, West Roxbury and Brighton the same necessity has again become apparent. The street commissioners have taken hold of the matter. The Legislature at the last session passed a law providing a remedy, and the commissioners have made a report to the Aldermen in which it is proposed to change the names of 259 streets, avenues, places, etc. A wise discretion has been used in the selection of names, most of which are historical and euphonious, or specially appropriate Garibaldi master of the field of battle, as he cal and euphonious, or specially appropriate for local reasons. Unimportant thoroughfares heretofore called "avenues" are reduced to "streets," and some prominent duced to "streets," and streets, and streets are dubbed "avenues." In some cases the winding ways in the suburban wards which have hitherto borne but one name are divided into three or four parts, each newly named. The absurd alphabetical and numerical style of naming, which has a footing only in South Boston, is allowed to go no further, and the purpose is to individualize every street in the whole city.

Mr. White, formerly a Washington correspondent, and now editor of the Providence Press, gives an amusing account of the apcointment of the late A. K. Akerman as atorney general. Mr. Akerman was a lawyer of respectable abilities and moderate legal atinments. His practice had been confined to an interior county in Georgia, and probably not a third of the lawyers even of his own State had ever heard of him. But he had happened to meet General Grant while in Washington on business, and the general formed a high opinion of his good sense and tegrity. When Grant, upon the retirement of Judge Hoar, resolved to have a southern nan in his Cabinet, objections were made to every one whose name was suggested. At ast he determined to select some one to whom no objection could be made because no one knew anything about him. So he appointed Mr. Akerman, but neither the President nor anybody else knew his address, and some time was lost in a search through the departments, where at last it was discovered on some documents which he had filed, and a dispatch was sent to him. As he afterwards teld Mr White, he lived a long distance from the nearest telegraph office, and General Grant's dispatch lay at the point where it was received for at least twenty-four hours before any attempt to send it to him was made. Then, when anxious inquiries for an answer began to come from Washington, the operator, having been assured that he would be reimbursed any expense he might incur, hired a negro man to take the important mesto Mr. Akerman. Mr. Akerman said the was sitting on his porch at about dusk one evening, and his surprise at reading the message can better be imagined than described. He had sought no office, and did not know that he could command political influence enough to get an appointment as an internal revenue agent. He of course accepted, but before he was heard from the country began to doubt the existence of any such man as

It will be a source of regret to many admirers of the French classic drama that Miss Sarah Bernhardt, during her New York engagement, played only one piece by John Root and none by Peter Crow. But excuse me one moment; there is a devil of an Austrian over there I have taken a fancy for." Sir John put his rifle to his shoulder, and the Austrian for whom he had taken a fancy, shot in the heart, took a step forward and fell on his face. Sir John took his glass, examined his Austrian, made a little gesture of satisfaction and turning to the General said as he tion, and, turning to the General, said as he held out his hand, "Good morning, General, I hope you feel well to-day?" In his youth Sir Richard Phillips edited and published a paper at Leicester, England, called The Herald. One day an article appeared in it, headed "Dutch Mail," and added to it was an announcement that it had arrived too late for translation and hed so have set up and printed in the original. This wondrous article drove half England crazy, and for years the best Dutch scholars squabbled and pored over it without being able to arrive at any idea of what it meant.

merely a column of "pi."

"Pi," it may as well be explained, is a jumble of odd letters gathered up and set on end so as to save their faces from being scraped, to be distributed at the leisure of the printers, in their proper places. Some letters are upside down, often ten or twelve ts or as many vowels come together, and the whole is peppered with punctuations, dashes and so on, till it might pass for poetry by a lunatic Chociaw. The story Sir Richard tells of the particular "pi" he had a Business for Unemployed Women. If some woman who wants bread, not the ballot, would set up a mending establishment to repair the clothing of business men who have no one to do it for them, she might create a new industry for which there is a great city who have no wives, mothers or sisters to give that little stitch in time which a wardfit of a ready made garment, which usually needs a little attention. Now here is an em-ployment for women for which the demand is simply overwhelming. It requires no cap-ital to begin. There is no red tape about it. A five-cent thimble, a paper of needles, a half women need to seek new kinds of employ-ment. To meet any success they must devise a supply and create a demand for it. Women are, as a rule, hopelessly inefficient. The suffering which results from their limitations is not a subject to be touched from any but a sympathetic point of view, yet all the but a sympathetic point of view, yet all the same it is true that woman's personal incapacity is the rock on which she shipwrecks. It is not wholly her fault. We need kitchengardens and industrial training schools to educate women that they may help themselves. There would be just as much suffering among men as women if they all persisted in crowding into some three or four employments.

How Glass Cloth is Made.

[From the Pittsburg (Pa.) Commercial.]

[From the Pittsburg (Pa.) Commercial.]

After the mass has gradually become fused into molten glass two of the employes of the factory, with tongs, take a mass of glass out of the furnace and pull it slowly in opposite directions until it gradually stretches along the floor of the factory, like a red hot rope, from one end of the apartment to the other. After a sufficient number of these long ropes of glass have been drawn, say of a thickness of from half to three-quarters of an inch in diameter, they are cut into lengths of three feet each and allowed to cool, becoming annealed gradually. They are then taken to the spinning-room. Here there is a large driving-wheel made of wood, eight and one-half feet in diameter. The periphery of this wheel is smooth and about 12 inches in width. This driving-wheel can be revolved at the rate of 300 revolutions per minute, the motion being driving-wheel can be revolved at the rate of 300 revolutions per minute, the motion being furnished by steam-power. At one side there is a small stand with a hot-air blow-pipe set at right angles with the wheel. The operator takes one of these bars of glass three feet long and holds the end in this hot blast, which is sufficiently hot to melt the glass. A thread of glass is then drawn out of the bar with a pair of pipeers and featened around the size. pair of pincers and fastened around the cir-cumference of the wheel. The steam is then turned on and the wheel begins to revolve. From the bar of glass held in the hot flame there steadily runs a thread of glass. At first it is thick, but as the number of revolutions of the wheel increase the thread gradually dwindles down until it becomes as fine as gos-samer or the finest silk thread. If it be desired to run more than one thread at a time, another end is started and fastened in the another end is started and fastened in the same way and woundaround the wheel at the rate of three or four miles a minute. Singular as it may appear, the finer tha thread is spun the more elastic and pliable it becomes. In addition to the pliability it has also great tensile strength. After an immense coil of glass thread has been made it is bound together in skeins. The next step in the fabrication of glass cloth is the weaving. For this purpose a weaving machine resembling a silk weaving machine is used. The fibres of glass

Resume of the City's Work for th Year-Condition of the City's Finance -The Breakwater-East Rock Park and Other Matters of Interest Consid-

The valedictory message of Mayor Bigelow delivered before the joint Boards of the Court of Common Council last evening was as follows Gentlemen of the Court of Common Council: We are assembled this evening to render an account of our stewardship and to formally close our relations with the city government for the year 1880. If we have so fulfilled the obligations devolving upon us that those who succeed us can find anything worthy of emulation, then may we feel that ours has been an administration of significance and honor. In assuming the functions of the chief or. In assuming the functions of the chief magistracy of our city two years ago, I accepted its trusts and obligations not as an experienced legislator, but as a practical business man, desirous of infusing only business principles into our municipal affairs, and my desire has ever been to regulate the affairs of the city as economically as those of my private business. The courteous, prompt and efficient aid of all associated with me has in no small degree contributed to the pleasure of my official duties, while the wisdom and prudence of our executive and legislative officers enables me to point with pride to the condition of our city financially and otherwise.

At the beginning of my term the indebtedness of the city was $751,803.73, and at present it is $678,064.60, a decrease of $73,-739.13. The funded debt of the city is distributed as follows :

City Hall bonds.

City bonds aid of Derby railro
City sewerage bonds.

City municipal bonds.

From a perusal of the Auditor's seport it will be seen that, in addition to the yearly payment of $20,000 in behalf of the Derby railroad, the city will have to pay next year $60,000 for the bonds issued for the erection of the City Hall.

It is my pleasure to inform you that no adof the City Hall.

It is my pleasure to inform you that no additional burden will be necessitated by the payment of these bonds, since the fund established for their liquidation already exceeds by $1,000 the amount of the indebtedness. With over $90,000 cash on hand and over $84,000 deposited in sinking funds, I feel safe in saying that our successors will have no cause to complain at the financial condition of the city as left by us.

The members of the road department have without exception been watchful of the large amount of money expended under their supervision, and much credit is due them for their faithfulness and efficiency. During the year 1880 1,057 feet, or two-fifths of a mile, of streets have been paved, making at the present time 13.476 miles of paved streets in the city. Previous to this year we had

I take pleasure in renewing my approval of a year ago in favor of a large and orna-mental park in the vicinity of the city. The limitation in the amount to be expended limitation in the amount to be expended thereon in any one year by the city to $6,000, which I recommended, met the approval of the last Court of Common Council, and will without doubt be so regulated by the next Legislature. The park included 371 acres, of which number 141 acres are in the city and the remaining 230 acres in the town of Hamden. We have already acquired fifty-two acres by gift, five by purchase and about forty more are promised, leaving nearly two hundred and seventy-four acres to be still acquired before the entire site contemplated is mired before the entire site contemplated i

The PIRE DEPARTMENT.

This branch of our city government has been a source of pleasure and congratulation for its prompt and efficient work. Out of one hundred and fourteen alarms responded to during the year the loss will not exceed $35,000, the smallest of any year since 1871. The recent change in the numbering of the THE FIRE DEPARTMENT, re alarm boxes has not been tried suffic y to demonstrate to our citizens the utility and importance of having the boxes begin-ning with the same figure in one locality; but when its advantages have shown them-selves all will agree in the wisdom of the

This road is one in which the city has This road is one in which the city has a large pecuniary interest, and it affords me great pleasure to be able to state that, as a result of the pooling arrangement made about a year ago between it and the Naugatuck railroad, not only has a benefit accrued to our business interests, but also there is a fair prospect that ere long the road will pay the interest on its bonds now borne by the

The BREAKWATER.

Two years ago I recommended the desirability of taking active measures for the establishment of a breakwater at the mouth of the harbor and for the widening and despening of the channel. Aided by our able and painstaking committee I proceeded to Washngton, and the result of our efforts was an opriation of $45,000 for the beginning the enterprise. One year ago the of the enterprise. One year ago the sum of $45,000 was appropriated for and applied toward the same object, and the committee of the present Congress has recommended the additional sum of $65,000 for the same purpose. The breakwater is al-ready partially visible and the process of imroving the channel is well under way, and I eel safe in the assurance that our successors will not fail to urge the continuance of the undertaking, in order that at no distant day the extensive commerce of our city may re-ceive that protection and encouragement which such improvements would secure.

CONCLUSION. In conclusion, gentlemen, allow me to extend to you, each and all, my warmest thanks for your faithfulness in the discharge of the duties assigned to you, and for your uniform courteous and gentlemanly aid rendered me at all times. Nothing has ever contributed to mar our pleasant relations, and hoping that our future associations may be of the same friendly degree, and that the duties of those who succeed us may equal in pleasure

The Sunday school of Calvary Baptis church had a very nice time last evening the church. Despite the falling snowflakes they rallied in force and their eyes were greeted with two fine Christmas trees, heavily laden and finely adorned. Also their kind pastor, Mr. Samson, their superintendent Board during the past year. He extended hanks to the members of the Board for kind ance, and a large number of the members of urtesies extended to him during the year, the church in general. Though Santa Claus a very high opinion of the school, judging from the liberality displayed. Every child was made happy with some gift and the pas the former receiving a beautiful Frence clock and pair of vases, and the latter quite a number of reminders of regard. A Grand Banquet—Feasting an American Railroad King—Promisent Persons in Attendance.

London, Dec. 29.—It is now said by Mr. Gowen's friends that the meeting of the shareholders of the Reading Railroad company held on Thursday at the Canon Street Hotel was practically a great success, thorough unanimity and enthusiasm in favor of Mr. Gowen prevailing throughout the entire meeting. Even the Times and other journals which were previously disposed to predict the failure of Gowen's efforts are now acknowledging the great ability of Mr. Gowen, and are expressing a unanimous approval of his plan for the regeneration of the company and manimum and the company has been dangerously ill at No. 101 West Forty, seventh street, whose death was rumored yesterday, was somewhat better to day, and no immediate change for the worse is apprehended.

Signor F. Paolo speeches followed from the Lord Mayor and some of the other gentlemen present. Sir Henry Drummond Wolf in his speech stated that when in the East he often found far more good had been accomplished there by American missionaries than by any other elass of preachers of the Gospel. The banquet continued until midnight, when it ended. It was one of the most gratifying incidents connected with Mr. Gowen's present visit to London, and in an international sense such gatherings are productive of most pleasant and lasting recollections. Woman's Mysterious Death - Found Strangled in Her Bath Room-Her Hus-NEW YORK, Dec. 29 .- The citizens of Ho boken have been thrown into intense excite ment over the mysterious death of Mrs. Sophia Friecken, wife of a wealthy tobacco dealer doing business in this city. Both husmental depression. She is the mother of three very handsome children. The position of the lady and the want of sufficient marks on her neck lead to the belief that she was murdered and a cord attached to her head after her death. Gerharden Brede, a pretty young husband of the dead woman were placed un. der arrest and locked up on the order of the lived very unhappily together previous to usually sleeps next to the wife's room. She says that last night she was afraid to sleep in her room as usual and took another apartment. The rope around the woman's neck had half a dozen knots tied at the back and could not possibly have been so placed by a suicide. The dead woman had recently been to Europe at her husband's expense. The children have been under the charge of the girl Gerharden. There is a report of intimacy between husband and servant, whom the neighbors say is the cause of all the trouble. bors say is the cause of all the trouble. Friechen was interviewed at a late hour this yesterday, but did not see her. I called to see the children. I received the news of her death at my New York office. The servant who has had charge of the children found her hanging in her bath-room. I was afraid she would do something desperate." The servant stated that she did not hear any quarreling between the husband and wife, and that she did not know what occurred last night. She was afraid to sleep in her room and went up stairs.

The government are making extraordinary military precautions in this city.

The correspondent of the Times here says: The first day of the State trials has been remarkable only for gloom and dullness. The first day of the State trials has been remarkable only for gloom and dullness. Those who expected that the city would be full of excitement, that thousands would assemble in the streets, and that the court would be besieged by an eager multitude clamoring for admission, were sally disappointed. There has not been the slightest manifestation of public feeling beyond a gathering of about two hundred persons of the lowest class on the quay near the courts. The absence of any sympathy with the cause or interest in the proceedings on the part of respectable citizens was very significant, and presented to those who remembered the O'Connell trial a very striking contrast.

The trains from the east are past due several hours and it is not known when they will arrive, which adds to the mystery and intense interest. No further details are obtainable here.

A Wife's Retaliation for Abuse. began abusing his wife again, calling her op-proprious names and threatening to kill her with a knife, which he flourished in a reck-less manher. At this point the woman ran up stairs, obtained a revolver, and when he attempted to ascend the stairs fired at him three times, the last shot reaching his heart and killing him almost instantly. The dead man had served a term in a Pennsylvania State prison for robbery, and when released in 1878 came to this city, where his wife soon joined him. THE STATE TRIALS AT DUBLIN VERY LITTLE INTEREST II

THE PROCEEDINGS. THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Concessions-Heavy Indomnity Asked for Right of Way-Secretary Schurz Calls It Nonsense—Judge Porter for Secretary of the Treasury. Washington, Dec. 29.—Secretary Schurz and an hour and a half interview with the Cheyenne River Sioux this morning. After telling them they should, if they desired to be like the white man, attend to the business on which they came, Four Bear and Rattling Rib made talks, insisting upon $7,000,000 as the price for the right of way for a railroad ough their reservations. It was in vain that the Secretary explained that this was more than it would cost to build and equip the road. They insisted that this was the price their people had fixed. The Secretary showed them that the price offered, $5 per

The Indians will probably confer among hemselves and ask another hearing in a day spartment, lately ordered from the Departent of Arizona to duty in Washington, has been ordered to duty as adjutant general of the Department of Texas, vice General Vintry to attend, but who said, "To Mr. Gowen, the Department of Texas, vice General Vintry to attend, but who said, "To Mr. Gowen, the Department of Texas, vice General Vintry to attend, but who said, "To Mr. Gowen, the Department of Texas, vice General Vintry to attend, but who said," and an interview with Secretary Schurz at 2 had an interview with Secretary Schurz at 2 o'clock, did not visit the department until 3, having lost their way, and on inquiring their way of a policeman they were conducted to the executive mansion, whence they were sent to the proper place. Captain Dougherty, their former agent, appeared with them and stated that they visited him last night to the disputed territory being several miles in width, extending across the en-tire reservation. By the claim of the Brules both the projected railroads would be within their limits, while the Cheyenne tribe claim some distance be-low the line of the Chicago and Northwestern low the line of the Chicago and Northwestern route. The contract was read to them, being the identical copy they agreed to before leaving for Washington. Bear Bird said when the contract was read to him on the reservation he did not agree to sign it. The sum proposed would not be a cent apiece for the Indians. Neither did he understand that the road wanted a thousand acres on the riv-er front. If he wanted to sign he would have signed there. He wanted to come to Washington to see if the Secretary could not do better for them. He said before starting he wanted to come to Washington to get their boundary fixed. If that was done he would go home and talk to his people about the railroad. Medicine Bull next began to would go nome and talk to his people about the railroad. Medicine Bull next began to talk of their boundary and asked why it must be the railroad matter first. When he came here a year ago he asked about the boundary. He supposed the map would have been ready. As soon as it was put in his hand he would smile and go home. He was interrupted by Captain Dougherty, who pronounced his talk all trash and said he was sent East a year ago to visit the schools and for ho other purpose. The Secretary explained that the boundary was a question between the tribes, to be settled among themselves. Before he could even advise them it would be necessary to hear all sides, to have surveys and maps made. It had no connection with the railroad matter, which could be settled now. Still the Indians refused to talk railroad and rose to leave, when they were told by the Secretary that if they desired to sign the railroad contract they could come again to-morrow, but he was not ready to talk about the boundary line. There seems to be no doubt about the railroad goready to talk about the boundary line. There seems to be no doubt about the railroad going through. Under the treaty of 1865 there is reserved the right for three roads through the reservation, and with the assent of all the other tribes of the Sioux nation already obtained, it is believed assured. The Secretary believes the warrant under the treaty ample for the purpose, yet he desires to secure the compensation to these Indians and at the same time their good will toward the roads. The Brules will probably, when they find they cannot influence the boundary question, sign the contract, having been among the first to agree to it. The Cheyenne River Indians have in some way got $7,000,000 fixed in their minds with no definite idea of what the amount is beyond that it is "a big heap." If they can be made to comprehend the absurdity of the demand, which amounts to $777 per acre, they will probably sign the contract in a short time.

Wanted a Carriage Ride A singular circumstance occurred in Woodnont on the premises of James R. Ayers a week ago last Friday night. About seven o'clock a fellow having the appearance of a tramp called and asked for a night's lodging, which was refused and he went away. About nine o'clock he returned again and Mr. Ayers formed him that he would furnish him some carriage blankets for a covering if he would sleep in the barn. The offer was accented and Mr. A. saw the fellow comforts bly fixed for the night. Between three and four o'clock the next morning the hired man who slept in the house heard some one oper a large gate leading to the carriage house. He got up and looking out of the window discovered the man with the best carriage rolled out, a new harness and his best horse nearly ready for departure. The hired man ordered the fellow off and he left in haste, forgetting his bundle of old clothes.—Valley

State Correspondence.

North Haven. At a meeting of the Polyhymnian society held Tuesday evening, Dec. 28, 1880, the fo heid Tuesday evening, Dec. 28, 1880, the fol-lowing resolutions were unanimously passed:

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God in his infinite wisdom to break our circle by calling to his heavenly home our beloved brother, Arthur Mason Hinman; therefore,

Resolved, That we will ever cherish the memory of one who during all our relations with him has been a pleasant associate, a kind friend and a willing worker. Seeking first to know what ought to be done he was always ready to do his part toward its accomplish-ment.

always ready to do his part toward in continuent.

Resolved, That to the parents and friends of the deceased we extend our warmest sympathy, commending them in their hour of affliction to place their confidence in Him who gave and who hath taken away, and to believe that He doeph all things well.

Resolved, That we attend the funeral of the deceased in a body.

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be sent to the family and friends of the deceased and published in the New Haven papers.

F. E. Hall, President. E. L. LINSLEY, Secretary.

The funeral of the late A. M. Hinman took place at his father's residence this afternoon, being conducted by Rev. William T. Reynolds, of the Congregational church, of which he was a member and librarian of the Sunday school, assisted by Rev. William Lusk, jr., of St. John's church. There was Lusk, jr., of St. John's church. There was a large attendance, including the Polyhymnian society, who acted as pallbearers, and who placed two beautiful floral offerings—a pillow and a broken column, in each of which were the letters P. S., the one at the head, the other at the foot of the casket. Mr. Beynolds in his sympaths contrasted this. Reynolds in his remarks contrasted this occasion with the funeral of Mr. Richard Blakeslee a few days since, compar-ing the death of one who had passed four score and ten with the death of one who had barely passed a single score of years. Mr. Lusk, drawing his lesson from the trees which, though now apparently lifeless, with their pure covering of snow would soon bud and blossom into a beauty like that of the flowers upon the casket taught that this body, now cold and lifeless would in the pure atmosphere of heaven but and blossom as the roses. The choir of St. John's sang in closing "Sleep thy last sleep."

The Baptist society of Wallingford have alled the Rev. H. P. Smith of Wales, Mass. Rev. S. Hough, of the Baptist church at Clinton, will resign in the spring, and make his home in Pike, N. Y. The college boat house at Middletown was sold at auction Friday. This probably ends boating for the college boys.

The tobacco warehouses in New Milford are, with two or three exceptions, running full forces, employing about 350 hands.

The West Stafford Tape company are running their factory to its utmost, and are refusing to take any more orders for a month

Rev. F. W. Harriman, of Portland, was very kindly remembered by his people, who presented him on the Christmas tree a purse containing $120 in gold. Burglars broke into the men's furnishing store of E. H. Denham at Stafford Springs, the other night, and stole about $75 worth of small goods. The robbery is thought to have been done by local amateurs. A resolution has been passed by the Com-mon Council of Meriden authorizing the city treasurer to borrow $4,500 for the use of the city. The money is to be used for paying the interest on the city bonds. May Scott, the six year old daughter of Edwin Scott, of Avon, while sliding down a steep hill with her sister one day last week, met with a severe accident, colliding with a tree, fracturing and dislocating her jaw.

The musical convention which is to be held in Meriden January 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th, will be one of the greatest events in a musical way ever held there, and is expected to compare very favorably with the Worcester musical convention.

Bernard M. Woodford, an inmate of the Insane retreat at Hartford, made his escape from that institution last Saturday evening and walked to his home in Kensington, a distance of about twelve miles, arriving about midnight. He was returned the next morning.

A Swede named Jacob Ahlmann, living near Plainville, was badly hurt Toesday by a tree falling upon him while he was chopping in the woods. He was taken to the hospital in Hartford about 5 o'clock in the afternoon,

The water commissioners of Middletown have voted to recommend to the city the building of a receiving reservoir near Stuben's—the highest point between them and the reservoir—the estimated expense being $10,000.
