We are selling off the remainder of our winter's stock, but in addition to that we have on hand the balance of a large lot of very elegant garments recently bought from an importer who closed them out far below the original cost. We have been selling them retail at less than they were imported for in large quantities, but we propose now to make FURTHER REDUCTIONS and wind up the whole transaction right off. Observe, they are the most elegant styles of imported Cloaks, all this season's goods, and nothing shop-worn nor faulty among them.

Amether Great Cure in New Haven.

This is to certify that I have been sick for a long time with difficulties of the Liver, Ritheys and Spline. My Spline and Lungs were very weak and I had a constant pain in my head. I have been treated by other physicians from time to time, but never received any permanent benefit until I applied to Dr. Fisks. He examined me clairvoyantly and told me my feelings exactly, and I had taken his medicines out a short time when I felt a change throughout my whole system, and I have gained so rapidly that I now consider myself cured of all my old chronic discusses with which I have suffered so long. I make this statement for the benefit of suffering humanity, and I advise all those that are afflicted to consult the Dector and receive his valuable treatment and medicines. Dr. Fiske is a gentleman skilled in his profession and honorable in all his dealings.

Yours truly,

THE PHOTOPHONE sor A. Graham Bell, who went incs awarded him by the French Academy for the invention of the articulating telephone, has returned to this country, and has been talking about that marvellous instrument the photophone, which he and Mr. Sumner Taintor are now at work upon. The photophone transmits sound by rays of light. Two kinds have been made—the musical and the articulating. The musical pho phone Mr. Bell calls very simple. An inlined mirror throws rays of light through a lens. These rays focus near the edge of a wheel, the wheel being perforated near its edge with forty-four holes. Each revolution of this wheel interrupts the light forty-four times. The rays then pass through two ore lenses, which bring them again to a foous near a receiving disk to which a tube is reply. ached and through which sounds are heard. sound waves having a greater velocity [than thirty per second are audible; so the inter ruption of rays of light by the perforated wheel thirty times or more per second gives an audible sound, the pitch being determined by the rapidity of the interruptions and corby the rapidity of the interruptions and corresponding with the vibrations of a tuning fork. Two hundred and fifty interruptions per second will give the same musical note as the same will give the same will give the same will give the same w

But by experiments Professor Bell and Mr. Taintor have discovered that all substances when in the shape of thin diaphragms emit sounds when submitted lington." thin diaphragms emit sounds when submitted to interrupted undulatory beams of light. The articulating photophone is made by an addition to the one just described. In the place of the receiving disk is put a silvered glass disk one two-hundredth of an inch thick. This reflects the rays of light to a battery circuit. This disk is also the part of the instrument against which the voice acts. When this is a plane surface and still, rays are thrown in parallel lines to the selenium receiver. But as it becomes alternately concave and convex the rays reflected converge and diverge and a greater or smaller proportion of rays are reflected upon the selenium, and this is so sensitive in an electric current to varying degrees of light that the sounds of the voice are transmitted by it to the telephone circuit and under favorable conditions are more perfect, natural and distinct than in any of the telephones yet produced, the pitch, of course, still depending on the rapidity of revolutions

To-day he ploys nearly three thousand men and boys, urns out 50,000 tons of iron a year, pays $100,000 a month in wages and salaries, a business of about $4,000,000 a year. The young shipping clerk was Harry W. Nowhere in fiction can a more exquisite illustration of the charity that thinketh no evil be found than in "Daniel Deronda," when the anonymous Mirah is introduced to the family who give her a home. There is no suspicious forethought on the part of the mother lest near or remote evil come directly or indirectly to son or daughter. No gathering up of sanctimonious skirts on the part of those daughters lest the touch of the fallen bring a shadow of shame. The mother-heart, which has always in it something of the divine as well as human love, gives the pass-word of welcome, and not prison-bars, but golden gates of love and confidence keep the homeless wanderer within their safe shelter. The action of the authorities in Montreal in trying to prevent Bernhardt's appearing was as unwise as well-meant. Of course it

A hole is bored through the tip-ups two or three inches from the center, so that one end will be heavier than the other, when a stick a foot or so long is run through the hole. To the light end of the tip-up the line is fastened. A round hole, in diameter from a foot to two feet, according to the fancy of vacation speech to her pupils, last Friday, trusted they would come back resolving that their behavior should be unexceptionable, and that they would give up all bad habits, when a little girl in the back of the room jumped up and said, 'The same to you ma'sm."—Transcript.

he Sleighing Carnival at the Capital Five Dollars an Hour for Sleighs. Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.-It was learned at the signal office to-day that the snow storm of yesterday and the night before had this morning central in the east of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The cold temperature in this morning the thermometer at the signal office marked 7 degrees below zero, the coldest weather known here for years. Last Senate in originating such a measure tresnight the lowest temperature was at Fort Stephenson, where the thermometer went down to 27 degrees below zero. At all other signal stations in the country it was below the freezing point except at Key West and Partarass in Florida. In the Pacific States to-day it is raining. In all the country west of the Rockies generally clear weather prevails. There are no indications of another storm. The indications for to-day in this section point to clear and cold weather followed by a slight increase in temperature by road question. There is but little doubt that they will sign the contract, their object in withholding being to secure action in relation to their tribal boundary. The Cheyenne section point to clear and cold weather followed by a slight increase in temperature by to-morrow. The jingling of sleigh bells is common music here, and every day the snow lasts increases the number of sleighing vehicles. Many persons have in the last few days telegraphed to New York dealers for cutters and sleighs to be shipped here immediately lest the snow might disappear before the arrival of the vehicles. Sleighs have been hired out at the rate of $5 per hour. Tonight the weather is clear and very cold.

> The overcoats, boots and some parts of the clothing of Captain James Clark and his mate, James Willett, have been found, hav ing drifted ashore, leaving no doubt that they met a watery grave. Captain Clark was n for shelter last Friday at Norwalk harbor. It had come from Cold Spring, L. I., and, a has before been stated, the captain and Mate Willett went ashore in the small boat for supply of provisions. In getting up to the vessel to go aboard when they returned, the boat struck the bow of the schooner and partly capsized, throwing both men into the water. They tried to cling to the boat, but low prices for cash. the rough sea, the strong tide running at that point, the darkness, the icy temperature of the water and their being encumbered with heavy clothing, made the struggle almost a hopeless one. There were two boys on the ressel, but they had no boat and could do nothing towards the rescue of the struggling men, except to throw out ropes, and this proved of no avail. They must have divested themselves of the articles found, while in or around the boat. Neither of the bodies have been recovered. The captain have been married Saturday.

The annual entertainment of the Congregational Sunday school took place at Wooster Hall Wednesday evening. Notwithstanding the deep snow and the severe storm the hall was well filled to see the little ones execute the exercises. The programme evinced careful management and skillful training. The chorus consisted of twenty-four juvenile voices, with Bertie Northrop as "Santa Claus," Willie Pollock as "Frost King" and Miss Emma Bradley as "Elfin," all of whom conveyed to the audience very perspicuously the ideas and expectations of children season. The following is the programme:
