CARRINGTON & CO., JOHN B. CARRINGTON

Washington that there is promise of a general and organized movement of the Independents in the southern States during the ning summer and autumn, some forcible and pointed remarks by the Vicksburg (Miss.) Herald are interesting and significant. The Herald reminds its readers that in 1860 a man who favored the nomination of Stephen A. ouglass to the Presidency was hounded down as a traitor to the South. The few who voted for him in Mississippi were barely tolerated. The blundering politicians and the short-sighted newspapers could find no epithets sufficiently strong to express their political contempt for the men who dared to support for President the Little Giant of the nocratic party. The party lash was used without mercy, the Charleston Convention was split, war ensued, and the present generation will hardly recover from its effects. That is the price it cost the whole people of the South, whether they were in favor of splitting that Democratic party to please extreme Democrats or not. No matter how well satisfied the great majority would have thousand men have been employed from time been to see Mr. Douglass President, they were whipped in, and compelled to share the

The Herald alludes to these things only to point out certain political similarities between 1860 and 1881. It says: We have to-day the high priests of Democracy, who lash without mercy and excommunicate if provincialism is not placed above nationalism, and extreme policies and methods are not advocated as wise and just. The men in 1860 who said it was wise and conservative to follow the extreme Democrats and scouted the idea of danger, promising that not enough blood would be spilt to stain a pocket handkerchief, are closely imitated by the Bourbons of the present day. The extrem ists tell us that it is necessary to array the Solid South against the Solid North, and that it is a sound, wise policy to pretend that the constitutional amendments are freely accepted and lived up to in every portion of the South. But it is for the young men to do their own thinking and acting. It is for them to say whether they will take the advice of those who temporize and pretend to do things, and who will not tolerate free speech, free thought, and a fair ballot. It is for the young men to say what the future of the South shall be. If they wish section arrayed against section, and eternal irritation to exist, they have only to follow the lead of the extremists and cower like curs when some old Bourbon calls them a Radical or hints they are traitors to the South. If the young men wish to make the best of what the blunders of the Bourbons of 1860 left them, they have only to do their full data toward themselves and all other effects of this kind shall be fairly investigated, and if vacancies are created the places will be filled irrespective of party affiliations. Assessments on the police for political purposes shall no longer be tolerated. Contributions and assessments for political purposes have produced, and will continue to produce, the worst possible results to the whole body politic. Whilst nominally procured for honest and legitimate election expenses, they are used to corrupt the voter and purposes the election officer. If corpofull duty toward themselves and all other citizens without regard to the past. They have only to adopt a just, permanent policy of toleration, full protection of all in their rights. Instead of arraying race against race or section against section, they should provide their money, with the known to contribute their money thus contributed is used to corrupt our elections, it shall be known that during my administration the police of Philadelphia shall not be made accessories to only to adopt a just, permanent policy of race, or section against section, they should do just the opposite. The way to begin to do this is to inform the extreme leaders that they will not follow them, and that they may read out, excommunicate or do what the

This is first rate advice and timely also, fo the situation is very favorable for a success ful independent movement in the southern States. The best men in the South are sick of Bourbon ideas and Bourbon managemen and ready for something better. They see that the best interests of the South demand a different policy from that which has been pursued. The change must come sooner o later, and the voters of the South will show wisdom in not delaying it.

entative H. C. Sloan, of the Legis lature of Wisconsin, who was elected as a Democrat, arose in his seat in that body a few days ago and announced that he solemnly and forever renounced the Democratic party, as being false to its name, to its prin ciples, and its early record of fidelity to the Constitution. Sensible Sloan.

The widow of John Brown, the abolition ist, is said to be living in obscurity and poverty on a farm near San Jose, California, dependent in her old age upon the exertions of a daughter, who, though a lady of culture, is able only to poorly supply her mother. If this is true these women ought to be and doubtless will be generously provided for.

Near-sightedness is increasing in Germany at an astonishing rate. Thirty eye doctors recently examined the vision of 40,000 pupils in schools of all degrees. They conclude that near-sightedness rarely exists at birth or at less than five years of age, and in village schools the near-sighted form only one per cent. of the attendance. In the city schools they constitute 5 to 11 per cent., in the schools next above 10 to 24 per cent., in the next grade of schools 20 to 40 per cent., and in the highest 30 to 50. A physician of Tubingen found in a body of 700 theological students 73 per cent. myopic, and Professor Virchow recently said in the German Parlia ment that 95 out of every 100 of the medical students are unable to see what hes before them. But the Germans are near-sighted in far greater proportion than any other na-tion, for which they have chiefly their bar barous script and print to thank.

The American Architect calls attention the serious danger which may be incurred by the introduction of the electric light with aerial wires in cities already spread with tele phone circuits. All those who have employ ed the telephone wires running parallel or crossed by telegraph wires are aware of the ease and frequency with which the currents on the latter are transferred to the former. there happened by accident to be contact between a telephone wire and an electric wire

What trouble such a winter as that just In connection with the report which come past makes western railroad men is illustrated by the experience of the Northwestern railroad company, which has spent over three hundred thousand dollars in the fight against snow since October last. Thirty-four im mense snow ploughs have had plenty of work, and these have been backed up tremendously by from two to six locomotives each. The might of these ploughs and the great power of a snowdrift may be estimated from the fact that one plough weighing 48,000 pounds, ballasted by 80,000 pounds of railway iron and driven by six locomotives, attacked a snow-choked cutting, but was defeated. The drift was fifty-two feet high. When the workmen, after the tremendous charge, caught a glimpse of the immens plough, they found that it, with all its 128,-000 pounds, had been repelled as if it were s eather, and that it had rolled disconsolately over the drift and had lodged against some forest trees, where it proposes to remain until summer. From one cut 324,000 cubic vards of snow were taken, but in eight hours the wind had piled it up full again. Nine > to time during the winter as shovellers. Mayor King of Philadelphia has "tackled" big job, namely, to free the city from artisan police. He speaks thus: It will be my duty to free the city from partisan police. An observation of many years has convinced me that a police force, in order to be truly effective, must be entirely disconnected from politics and that its mem-bers should hold their positions as long as they conduct themselves honestly, soberly and efficiently. The very knowledge that they hold their positions on these terms will make them the terror of every violator of the law. By the present system, when votes are to be secured, laws and ordinances are disregarded, crime connived at, and known and open violators of the most salutary laws go free and unpunished. Under my admin-istration the members of the police force will istration the members of the police force will not be permitted to interfere in elections or in the nominating conventions of either party, and every violation of this rule will cause an immediate discharge, and no member of the force so discharged will ever be able to regain his position. In making this declaration it is proper for me to say, further, that I am aware that in some wards of the city members of the police force have been used by so-called political leaders for their own purposes. political leaders for their own purposes. Nominally on the force, they have been the political agents to carry out the views and partisan designs of these leaders. Every se of this kind shall be fairly investigated

Hundreds Buried Alive.

Heartrending Scenes at the Recent Casamicciola Earthquake. The special correspondent of the London Daily News at Casamicciola sends a vivid description of the town after the recent earthquake. Down the steep road came old and young, laden with such of their household goods as they had saved, chiefly bedding. Their woebegone faces showed traces of a night spent in tears. Then came a little handcart, filled with dusty and tumbled clothes, from under which protruded a pair of booted feet, telling of the sad burden there hidden feet, telling of the sad burden there bidden. feet, telling of the sad burden there hidden. Opposite ruined houses were encamped their occupants, or in the orchards and gardens you saw improvised tents. On the roadside was a bed on the ground, and tented over with shawls and other garments as warmly as possible, for beneath lay sick persons. Groups of young girls wandered about, weeping; but all the people were very quiet and as if stunned, and only when some sad burden was carried past did their voices rise in lamentable exclamations. Before we lamentable exclamations. Before we reached the Piazza we came upon a group of houses fallen in one heap of ruin across the street, so that we had to climb over a hill of street, so that we had to climb over a hill of rubbish. Here the soldiers were at work digging. Alas! they could hope to find no living person under those crushing masses of masonry. On every side of the piazza the houses were ruined. Roofs had fallen through, carrying first floor and ground floor into the cellar. Of one house the front, not always. The house of the parish priest is level with the ground. His aged brother and sister, the latter of whom was in bed on the first story, found themselves deposited in the garden alive, they know not how. The doctor of Casamicciola has lost one of his children, who with a servant was buried with the falling staircase, while the rest of the oc-cupants remained unburt and escaped out of the windows by means of a rope, all the other ways of descent being cut off.

In the Piazza two men sat on the doorstep of their house their arms folded on their knees, their heads bent down in a dumb de-spair, terrible to see. A woman, weeping, told me that the wife and mother lay buried the middle of the Piazza sat an officer, taksilent and sympathetic listeners stood close around. The silence in the usually voluble being ordered off in parties to various parts past. On them were the flattened and dustcovered forms of a woman and a little girl, just dug out. Three or four men passed me carrying and supporting in a chair an elderly woman with crushed and bound up face. She was speaking and her bearers told her not to be afraid. This was about 3 o'clock not to be arraid. This was about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The earthquake had happened at exactly 1:05 o'clock on the day before, as the great clock of Casamicciola, which had stopped, proved. The poor woman had therefore lain buried alive 26 hours, with what agony of body and mind through the long dark night and folmile 26 hours, with what agony of body and mind through the long dark night and following morning one can happily scarcely imagine. Oh, those heaps of ruined houses llusters of them hung on the edges of steep valleys at each side of the Piazza. Many of them were very old and crowded together, and possibly many had bad foundations in the hilly and loosely composed ground, and here the greatest ruin had taken place. The evidences of the violent shaking of the soil extended for about two English miles. Where there were no houses, landslips, fallen walls and scattered stones along the roads and lanes were proof enough that the con-vulsion had been general within this area. The last houses that were shattered lie beyond the hill of Casamicciola, on the decent towards Lacco, at a place called Casaminella, where there are hot mud baths. When I tell you that from 300 to 400 houses when I tell you that from 300 to 400 houses are totally destroyed and others will have to be pulled down, and that a million francs will not cover the damage to buildings alone, without reckoning the loss of portable prop-erty, you will have some idea of the extent of the disaster and the misery that must still ensue. Quite two thirds of the town are de stroyed, and it all happened within five min utes, nay, less, for the first shock that did the real damage lasted only seven seconds, followed within the five minutes by a second, followed within the five minutes by a second, causing the already shattered houses to fall. They were still falling. As we passed along the edge of one of the valleys we heard a clatter, and looking back saw a cloud of dust which rose from a house on the other side which had just fallen in. Excavation was dangerous, and had to be stopped during the preceding night, for there was no light, the lamps being all broken. amps being all broken.

All was being done that could be to alle viate the distress; but the misery to be re-lieved will last for months, and subscriptions are already opened. It is to be hoped that the usual summer visitors will not be fright-ened away, for that indeed would take the bread out of the mouths of many who are dependent on the season for their livelihood. The last great shock at Casamicciola was in 1861, when about thirty people were killed. In 1828 there had been a more violent shock.

It would be impossible to relate all the sad incidents I have heard of. Two glimpses of happiness in the midst of so much wee are a relief. One young man appearance of the sad incidents in the midst of so much wee are a relief. relief. One young man succeeded in digging out alive his mother and sister, though the latter had both legs broken, from the ruins of their house immediately after the shock. I never saw such a happy smile as that on the face of a young woman who showed me her healthy babe safe in her arms. It was the cally face with a smile I have seen. The reco only face with a smile I have seen. The people seemed stunned—too horrified to complain, too weary to utter a word or to take comfort. Those who stand idle—for only a few can relieve their despair by helping in the work—look at us with haggard eyes and blanched or flushed features. Casamicciola blanched or flushed features. Casamicciola is one of the sweetest, as it is one of the healthiest, spots on earth. It will be many months, however, before the district regains its former smiling, prosperous appearance, and the remembrance of this most terrible catastrophe will never be lost by those who

The Independent Voter. In the spring elections that have been held thus far the independent voter has asserted himself in a way that cannot fail to make the regulation machine politician almost despair of the country. He first made his power felt in Philadelphia, where an overwhelming Republican majority, cast solidly year after year, had produced a condition of affairs al-most as corrupt and scandalous as the Tweed the unfortunate user of the former would receive a shock certain to stun, and likely to do worse. It won't pay the electric light managers to damage or kill people, and therefore they will be wise in putting their wires underground.

The Board did not attribute the alteration to any want of courtesy or intent to be unfair, but to some exigency which had influenced such an alteration. The Board discussed the matter, and after remarks by Messrs. Hart, Andrew, Feldman, Cooper, Hugo and the Town Agent, Messrs. Hart, Reynolds and Andrew were appointed a committee with power to act on the ques tion after consultation with counsel. The following regular matters were disposed of : The matter of appointing an aditional physician for care of the outside poor was indefinitely postponed.

A petition was received from Town Clerk Shuster, signed by prominent conveyancers and other citizens, setting forth that Vol. 1 of the town records was so much time worn see who held it. The next witness was Philip Hine, of Ansonia, who knew both the murdered man and the accused, and saw them at about 7 o'clock on the evening of the shooting on Main street, Ansonia. He heard Hayes say to Smith, "Well, yes, I know Chip; but then you had better come along."

The witness stopped and saw Hayes try to put the "nippers" on Smith. The two strug-gled over to where Hine stood, and the latter oved out of the way. He got about fifteen feet away when he stopped, turned around and heard a shot fired. He went back to the and heard a shot fired. He went back to the two men. Hayes cried out. "I'm shot," and called for help. None of the crowd that was gathered seemed to respond, and then Hayes, who knew the witness, called him by name and the latter went over and took hold of Smith. The three had a struggle and went own on the sidewalk. When they got up mith was between the two who held him. The young man still grasped in his right hand the revolver that the witness noticed he held when he went back to help Hayes after the shot was fired. This hand Hayes held, while the witness alutabed Smith violation. while the witness clutched Smith's right arm orther up. The witness distinctly heard smith snap the hammer of his revolver three limes while so held. Hayes called for more times while so held. Hayes called 10 more shelp and Charles Martinez, a young man, responded, and finally Smith agreed to go along. Thereupon Hayes asked Hine to go for a doctor, and Smith, Hayes and Martinez

The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Blydenburgh, witness in response stating that he heard but one pistol shot, and that the hippers came off from Smith, not having n locked, and witness found them lying or the walk. He did not see who fired the sho nor see the revolver before the shot, nor whether Hayes used his billy before the shot A. W. King, of Ansonia, saw the scuffle and heard the cry "I'm shot," and starting toward the spot saw a revolver in Smith's right hand. He was forty feet away when he shot was fired and heard only one shot.

Dr. Baldwin was recalled and testified to treatment of Hayes after the shooting and what medicines he gave him.

In the afternoon the first witness was Edward F. Lundie, of Ansonia. Heard the pistol report, and looking out of his store saw the scuffle between Hayes and Smith, and that Hayes was hurt. He ran to the spot and asked Hayes what was the matter, Hayes replying that he was shot, and witness then calling to person pear by to help arrest the calling to persons near by to help arrest the man who fired the shot. But it is when a sufferer comes miles to tell the story of his deliverance in person, to that ended her life. Her death was not wholly unexpected, though it was hoped by her friends that the moment of dissolution was not so near and a faint hope had even been cherished that her robust constitution would in time overcome the fatal disease. But their hopes were blasted and the winged nessenger called her at last from her bed of suffering to the realization of that eternal rest for which she had so long sighed. She was a gentle and estimable Christian lady one whose fine social qualities had endeared her to a large circle of loving friends who will mourn the call that summoned her while yet in the morning of a happy and peaceful life. Her remains will be brought to this city for interment.

Frank Norton arrived in Nor wich Tuesday evening from the Pacific coast in improved health. He is contemplating making a tour of Europe the coming season. Mr. George W. Osborn, one of New Haven's highly respected young business men, has returned from the West, and has opened an office at No. 13 White's building, where he will continue his old business of law, real estate, loans, etc. His many frien will be glad to hear of his decision to furth secute business in his native city. Mr. Ariel N. Barney, agent for Steel Mackaye's Won at Last company, and late of the Cleveland Plaindealer and Cincinnati Enquir er, is in town arranging for the company's appearance. Mr. Barney was at General Garfield's, at Mentor, when Conkling, Logan and Grant visited him and later sent out an interview with General Garfield on the tarif

New Orleans, March 31 .- In 1873, the mount paid for jute imported into the United States was $4,500,000; in 1880, for the year nding June 30, it was $7,000,000; and this ear it will, in all probability, reach the round um of $10,000,000. Jute is an annual plant sum of $10,000,000. Jute is an annual plant of the order tiliaces, and of the genus corchorus capsularis. Its stem is from one-half inch to one inch in diameter, grows to the height of ten or twelve feet, is very straight, and branches only at the top. It has sharply serrated, lanceolated leaves, about six inches long and nearly two inches wide. The flowers have five senals and five netals. The long and nearly two inches wide. The flow-ers have five sepals and five petals. The stamens are numerous, but they have only one pistil. The bark is fibrous, like that of op or flax, and it is the fibre that is used hemp or flax, and it is the fibre that is used. It is more soft and silky than either flax or hemq, and is very fine—that is, capable of minute subdivision—and its being so fine and of such great length causes it to be sometimes woven with silk in cheap fabrics. The seed is sown in March or April, and it may be certified by the source of the flat of the seed of th be cut, in June, July, and August. It is best t cut it when it begins to blossom, as the fibr is then better than when the plant is older. After being cut the stems are steeped in water until the fibre separates easily from the stems. It is then prepared for the loom in a manner similar to that in which flax is prepared, only the stems are not dried and brok-en, as are the flax stems. In Egypt and Syria took place. Mrs. Drew, the secretary, after the corchorus olitorius is cultivated as a pot herb. The American linden or basswood, sometimes called "linn wood" is the most familiar from the ladies. Mrs. Waterhouse, the pres-ident, responded at length with much feel-made from linden blossoms, and highly prized of flax, as was often said.

Gunny is the name of the coarse cloth used to bale cotton. The yield of this year's cotton is set down at 6,000,000 to 6,250,000 bales. Each bale takes about seven yards of gunny, hence 6,000,000 bales of cotton alone require 42,000,000 yards of cloth made from fibre of the jute plant. This is one item, and the largest, but to it we must add the bagging for the increasing rice crop, and for wheat and coffee and pepper until the whole catalogue is filled.

in a happy speech addressed Mr. Converse, speaking of his services for several years past as clerk and treasurer in very complimentary language, and concluding by presenting him in behalf of the prudential committee of the church with an elegant large photograph album. It was a complete surprise to Mr. Converse, who rallying responded with fitting remarks. The occasion afforded much pleasure to all.

List of Patents

List of Pa state. It is no narder to raise than corn, and the time of harvesting comes just about the time when the cotton planter could cleverly put his farm force to the cutting of jute, and thus few extra hands would be needed. To cultivate it is light labor, the rank growth causing it to overshadow everything else in To cultivate it is light labor, the rank growth causing it to overshadow everything else in the field, and the yield is, to say the least, wonderful. The ends of the stems are used for making paper, as are the old sacks and bags. The stems may be used for garden fences and coarse baskets, and, like the wil-

METHODISTS IN SESSION Meeting of the New York East

DOINGS OF THE PAST YEAR.

THE DEBT OF NORTH CAROLINA

NEW YORK.

New York East Conference.

Iethodist Episcopal Conference resumed its edford avenue. Bishop Wiley presided at ess began the galleries were crowded with adies. Certificates of transfer of Rev. F. V. Erreckson, A. J. Anderson and Christian . Treider from the Northwestern Confernce were presented and they were admitted. Presiding Elders Kettle and Hill presented the annual reports of their respective districts, after which Rev. G. A. Hubbell, presidng elder of the New Haven district, present ed his annual report. The district comprises sixty-seven pastoral appointments, fortyeven of which were filled by effective members of the conference, two by superintendents and eighteen by local preachers. Rev. G. A. Parkington had died and Rev. Samuel loyle, a local preacher, was killed by an exosion at Milford. Rev. William H. Mcllister had severed his connection with the onference. The pastors had done efficient ork and the camp meeting had been especally productive of good results. The meetngs had resulted in revival services in about ifty churches. The most remarkable revival was at Meriden, where eight hundred were onverted. During the year the churches nad recovered some abandoned territory and hurch property had been improved in sevral places. The number of churches in this listrict is eighty and of parsonages thirty-six.

The total valuation of churches and parsonages was $891,400, a decrease of $17,600. The proper support of the ministry had become a serious question. There were four-teen churches in sparsely settled neighbor-hoods which contributed to their pastors from $1.75 to $450 yearly. The most rational method of relief from these embarrassments was in a full return to the circuit system, but this was opposed by pastors and people, the people arguing that the partial closing of their churches on the Sabbath would hasten their final closing, and the preachers objecting to the expected that under its workings the railway mail service will be equal to any in the world. The adjournment of the Senate to-day till their final closing, and the preachers objecting to the expense, labor and exposure of traveling. The benevolent contributions were decidedly small. Wesleyan University had had another year of financial prosperity. Mr. George I. Seney had increased his gifts toward its endowment to $250,000. The outlook for Methodism in the district was on the whole looked on as encouraging. The num-Madison church, which at the last conference had been under the ban of disloyalty, had shown sincere devotion to Methodism. Upon shown sincere devotion to Methodism. Upon the conclusion of Elder Hubbell's report the names of the preachers in the district were called in the usual order, and they reported their missionary collections. When the name of Rev. William H. McAllister was reached, Mr. Hubbell moved that he have leave to withdraw from the conference and from the Methodist Episcopal church. The Bishop put the question on the motion, and it was declared carried by the affirmative show of hands. Mr. McAllister left his New factions which distract the New York Repuband from the Methodist Episcopal church.

The Bishop put the question on the motion, and it was declared carried by the affirmative show of hands. Mr. McAllister left his New Haven charge to become pastor of a Balti-more church. The list of supernumerary preachers was then taken up, and when the name of Rev. Sensea Howland was called there was a stir in the conference. Rev. Mr. Buckley made a fierce assault on him charging him with a discreditable transaction and assault and battery. Dr. Curry replied to the accuser, and Mr. Howland spoke in his own defence, complaining that he had been lied about. The case was laid on the table for the present. WATERTOWN, April 7 -An unknown di ase has broken out among the cattle at East Watertown. The stock attacked are blooded nimals and are in the very best condition everal of them have died. They are taken first by an intense coughing, then followed by a loss of appetite and in cows a shrinkage of milk. When let out where they can have perfect freedom they appear almost crazy, and will bite themselves, tearing out pieces of flesh, and appear to be in the greatest agony. The attention of the State authorities has been called to the matter.

Shot by a Detective. New York, April 7 .- Shortly after 1 o'clock is afternoon, Detective Samuel J. Camp-At Sixty-first street near Madison avand attempted to arrest him, whereupon the man put his hand in his pistol pocket, saying: "If you put your hand on me I'll blow The detective the ew his pistol and shot the man dead while the latter was raising his arm to take aim. The detective surrendered himself. The po-lice do not know who the dead man was. He was good looking and wore light clothes. NEW YORK, April 7 .- Among the certifites received at the bureau of vital statistics o-day was one in regard to the death from voluntary inanition of Magdalena Miller, 61 years of age. In his certificate the doctor says: "Starvation was self-imposed. The patient had had considerable mental trouble on the disconsiderable mental trouble on the disco and had met with reverses in fortune, hence she determined, despite all efforts of persua-sion and even force to prevent it, to starve sion and even force to prevent it, to sen vehicles with the success which the certificate indicates." Mrs. Miller three weeks ago nartake of any food. Nine days ceased to partake of any food, ago she refused water also, and ne until her death she fasted.

rth Carolina's Debt-A Subject for the Day's Session-Senators Talking on an irrelevant Topic-Vance in Defence of als State—An Adjournment Taken till Monday-1 Readjustment of Postoffice WASHINGTON, April 7 .- Another day has assed into the history of the Sente with nothing accomplished towards the execution of the business for which the nembers were brought together. Senator Vance, of North Carolina, got the floor immediately that the pending business—the resolution for the election of officers of the Senate—was taken up, and a resolution to go into executive session, made by the Democratic side, was, as usual, voted down. Being an entertaining talker, with something of the late Matt Carpenter's granter than two of the four Indians that I sent to Sitting Bull's camp arrived at Poplar river on the 2nd, accompanied by nine hostiles from Sitting Bull's camp. They report the camp, consisting of two hundred souls, fifty miles from Poplar river, en route to Fort Buford to surrender. The camp is moving slowly and will reach Poplar river about the 6th. Sitting Bull promises to follow as soon as the the late Matt. Carpenter's manner, though in a coarser vein, he succeeded in interesting in the later transportation and supplies in the the Democratic Senators and the galleries. The burden of his speech was North Carolina's attitude and history in regard to her debt. He reviewed the financial history of the State to show that in her darkest days Fresh Stock!

North Carolina had done all she could to provide for her indebtedness, and that it was not until under the Republican reconstruction of 1868 that she in any way repudiated any part of her debt, and then because compelled to by the disadvantage of reconstruction. He characterized the expenses incurred by the reconstruction government as fraudulent and said the State never had tried to pay them and never wanted to. The State was now a community of law and order, and no one could malign her. In reviewing the history of his State the speaker found an opportunity to introduce several humorous in.

that right. The blacks were daily growing in intelligence and were much more capable of exercising that right than when it was first granted. They were also nurturing good feeling when left to themselves, and the worst thing the Republicans could do was to try to turn the blacks against those who would be their friends. Mr. Kellogg, of Louisiana, took exception to some of the last speaker's explanations of the financial record of North Carolina. Messrs. Vance and Ransom both tried to re-explain, but the colloquy that ensued was unsatisfactory to either side. Mr. Saulsbury spoke in support of the principle that charity begins at home. He thought that the New England Republicans had much to look at at home, and could not expend all their energies and sympathies in Herr Most Committed for Trial. LONDON, April 7.-In the Bow street police ourt to-day, after much formal evidence had been taken connecting Herr Most with the publication of the Freiheit, he was commi ted for trial on a charge of having in the col-umns of his paper incited the people of a for-eign State to sedition and rebellion. He then took up the issue of free ballot and fair count, and a discussion fol-lowed in no new vein, however, which was participated in by Messrs. Call, Blair, Beck, Saulsbury, Dawes and Hoar. The discussion drifted into a review of the alleged suffrage abuses in Massachusetts, and more than an hour was consumed in the production of testimony and denials which had been ventilated more than once on the floor of the Senate during the present session. The debate continued until 5:30 p. m., when on motion of Mr. Burnside, the Senate ad journed until 12 m. on Monday. For the purpose of increasing the efficiency of the railway mail service by defining the duties and adjusting the pay of employes in accordance with the work done by them, an order has been issued by the Postmaster General fixing the pay of an employe where only one is needed on any line at a sum not to exceed $1,000; where two are needed, one at $1,300 and one at $1,150; where a third is needed, his pay to be $1,000, and each ad ditional one not to exceed $900 per annum.
On lines where papers are worked the salaries will be the same, but there will be two employes at $1,150. Much dissatisfaction has heretofore been created by the discrepancy in the pay of employes doing the same or similar work. The effect of this order will be to put all employes doing the same work upon an equality. It will necessitate a reduc-tion of those incompetent to do the work as-signed them and the promotion of deserving

Some eminent financier has submitted to he Treasury department a question as t whether the department cannot negotiate a foreign loan under authority of the loan law passed in 1790. This law has never been repealed, but like a great many other acts relating to the finances has been superseded by subsequent acts passed to secure the same result, just as the act of March 3d, 1865, authorizing the issue of fivewenties superseded the act of Jun : 30th, 1864, authorizing the issue of certificates. The Democratic workingmen of Hart-ford had repudiated him, and he did not know that the Republicans were under any obligations to listen to him. HARTFORD, April 7, 1881. [Special to the JOURNAL AND COURSES.]
There has been a rapid disposition of business in both branches of the Legislature today, and the final adjournment is not afar There was an unusually large attendance of third house members to-day, and East Haven was more largely represented than any town in the State. "Annexation" was what brought the residents of your neighboring town to the Capitol in such large numbers and both sides were present in force. The noon train brought Town Agent Reynolds, who, representing New Haven, and the previous question was ordered, and on with an eve to the interests of the town he represents, looked up the annexation bill with At 2:10 the House took a recess until 3:30 a view to scanning it closely before it came before the House for action. He found in the bill what he considered not in accordance with the agreement entered into between the Selectmen of the two towns re garding the boundary lines. As stated by him to your correspondent, it was agreed that the southern boundary line should take in South End, and this had been changed by those who drew the bill, making this line commence at Morris creek. This he claims would give New Haven no water front on the Sound, which was one of the most desirable objects to be obtained in the annexation scheme. He therefore objected to the bill being presented to-day, as he desired to consult his colleagues of the Board of Selectmen in regard to it. The consequence was that the bill was not presented.

The bill giving permission to parties to use steam in dredging for oysters on their private grounds in New Haven harbor, and which was reported unfavorably by the committee, ballots and intimidation of voters in the was reported unfavorably by the committee, was taken from the table in the Senate and | South passed, and being transmitted to the House was passed by that body. amendments. There have been twenty-one districts since 1831, just half a century. But during that time the population of the State has more than trebled. Under the Connecticut system the Senate is the popular body, representing population. The inequalities of representation have become so gross that reform is demanded. He could not himself see any ground for the jealousy of the towns towards the cities. The public sentiment of the State has justified the Legislature of 1881 in attempting to adjust on the basis of population the Senatorial districts. The bill reported was eminently fair, equitable and just. It had commanded the fullest hearing. Mr. Harrisen showed the ground-lessness of the criticism in regard to the or-ganization of districts. If the bill was reganization of districts. If the bill was rejected in favor of the "rotten borough" system, the Democrats would have the responsibility. The reapportionment had been made wisely.
Mr. Morris, of New Haven, considered the EXCHANGES OF BONDS IN WASHING-TON FOR ACCOUNT OF BANKS.

Mr. Morris, of New Haven, considered the bill fair as far as it goes. He thought it might have gone much farther, and with justice to the people of the State. He was willing to support the measure, for the proposed equalization was far better than the prosent system.

Several amendments to the bill were offered making changes of towns from one district to another, but they were all voted down.
