Constant Woman. [From the New York Times.]

One day last week a brutal husband, painful stories about the adulteration of toxication, dragged his sick wife out of her maltreated her that she was subsequently found lying insensible on the floor by the side of her newly-born, but dead, infant is not a mistake somewhere in the scener and situation of the doleful tale. Cruelt picked. That the presence of moisture is it was among the savage Comanches, or the bestial Digger Indians, that this shocking barbarity was committed. But this all hap pened in the city of New York, where, to reproaches and expostulate with his barbar their remedy in a suit for damages against the seller.

An interesting and important decision has been rendered in the United States Circuit Court in Ohio. A suit was brought against the Pennsylvania railroad concerning a discrimination made in the freight charges on coal between Salineville and Cleveland. These charges were graded by the road according to the amount shipped, so that large shippers obtained lower rates than small ones. The court not only-held this to be illegal, but said that the shipper had a choice of remesaid that the shipper had a choice of reme- husband, save whin the drink is in him, and

As women are not usually supposed to be moved by pure reason, it is useless to acrailroad corporation could, with impunity, defend and forgive the brutality of their huscarry the same class of freight over the same bands. Of course, there are women who will finally break down under ill treatment, and will forsake the man whom they have sworn women who hate their own offspring, but there are not many such. The vast majority of women will conceal, if possible, the ill-usage that they suffer at the hands of their husbands, and will seem to love them more tenderly for the treatment visited upon themselves by a most unnatural man. As right thing in voting against this scheme.

There was some feeling among the people of could make and unmake the fortunes of pose that the instinct of self-preservation said to be guided by instinct would urge them to flee from him who daily threatens life and limb. A woman's intuitions are notoriously worth far more than a man's absolute knowledge. What a man must arrive at by long investigation and by laborious processes of ratiocination a woman exultingly swoops down upon, across lots, as it were, by the mere exercise of a spirit of divination peculiar to the femin ne human na-ture. When a woman of fine intuition is asked why she believes in a certain alleged statement of fact, she simply replies, "Be-cause I know it." This is the end of all argu-It is said that Count Taaffe is likely to have considerable difficulty in managing the Austrian Reichsrath during the austrian Reichsrath during the austrian Reichsrath during the managing the Managing the Managing the Managing the Managing t tuitions when she promises the police magis-trate that Teddy will beat her no more if his

If this perverted idea of love and duty were shared by both sexes, the wonder of it would cease. If it were peculiar to the low-er walks of life, it would be less of a puzzle. But men shake off their wives and flee away, usually, at the slightest provocation. And the high bred and delicately reared wife will wear the martyr's crown forced upon her, in upper circles of society, without a murmur and without giving sign of the secret horror of her home. The universal rule of woman's devotion to an unworthy object need not be proved by husbands who use corporeal vio-lence to assert lordship over their wives. The roofs taken from handsome and costly nes would sometimes show a barbarous state of things within. Disgusting intemperance, unfaithfulness to marriage vows, the cruelty of stinginess, and a refin lite ill-usage may take the place of blows and kicks. And when the roof does come of and there is no longer the dread of pub-shame and scandal to silence the abused she still excuses and defends the ruffiay

In 1666, MM. de Rouannes, de Sourches and de Gienan formed a partnership under the title of the Societes des Carosses publiques de Paris. At that time the word carosse was feminine. They obtained letters patent from Louis XIV. to establish a service of vehicles at fixed hours, to go from one part of Paris to another at the same price of five sols for buses and tramways. Grapevine Point.

Few Years Ago and Now-A Growing Part of Our Town-Heavy Manufacturing, Coal and Lumber Interests. Those of our citizens who have lived on or near the Point-Grapevine Point-for the oast few years, to say nothing of the "oldest nhabitant" of our Fair Haven (West), are nore and more astonished at the changes aking place in that little locality. Only a ew years since the locality was nearly barren land, but our honored Governor Bigelow coneived the idea of building up the broken lown establishment of John Parshley, and now well he succeeded is a household word, and not only in his own business proper, but his popularity and success drew around him some of the best business talent of our city; and D. Frisbie, in connection with the now Governor, made a fine start and is now reaping a splendid harvest. Then the Holcomb

Bros. succeeded in establishing a very prosperous business and getting to themselves a reputation of which only the best are worthy. Then followed Peck & Beecher, and Mersick & Co., who promise to be the sure and suc cessful rivals of others that have preceded them there. The new large carriage establishment of Moore & Co. is just looming up and is looking as if already assured of success. Then there is the enterprising establishment of D. B. Crockett & Co.; then the Rolling mill, which is only a part of the immense business of E. S. Wheeler & Co. Then there are the two large breweries or distilleries and the lively looking ship yard, or boat yard of the New England Transportation company. With all these new surroundings a great change has been wrought in the looks of this part of our prosperous town. Then again the influence of the channels of the two rivers-Quinnipiac and Mill riversis felt, and business all along the banks is constantly increasing. Take a look at the sea of logs at the Steam Sawmill company's. Then there are various and large manufactories situated on the west side of Mill river, from Grand street to Bridge street, which are naving their influence on the east side, and nore dwellings have been erected in this locality than in almost any other in the city of equal size. One of the great influences or nducements to locate manufactories here is the fact that all the railroads de switch track between Grand and St. John streets without extra charge, it being in fact a great relief to the road itself. Messrs. lower & Mansfield and Sperry & Kimberly have made essential improvements on their premises and all are occupied. A few years since there was only one coal dealer and not over 30,000 tons of coal annually were sold here, but now a business of nearly 300,000 tons annually is done by the five dealers now located there, and the business of Messrs Gower & Mansfield, lumber dealers, also asimes large proportions; and take it all in al it is a very growing and prosperous locality. Mr. Morgan said it appeared that the Chinese minister had been allowed to make suggestions in regard to pending legislation, and the President accepted them in vectoing this measure. It was strange that he ideas of the Chinese ambassador should have more influence with the Executive than majorities of both houses of Congress. He supposed it was simply an effort to smother the bill.

Mr. Bayard contended that the reference was wholly and utterly useless. If the bill was to die let tis triends say so, but do not undertake by reference to change its features. All that could be done now was to vote whether to make it a law over the veto. He bjected to the language used in the message, saying there was no justification for it either in fact, comity or the traditions of communication and the dignified and respectful consideration of one branch of the government with the other. Its language was an impugament of those who passed the measure after careful deliberation. He denounced the Buringame treaty as a humbug. The same spirit as led to it wanted the present measure to fall. There was no word in the veto message of sympathy with the citizens of the Pacific coast, but it was a Chinese message from beginning to end. He earnestly hoped the bill would pass over the veto.

The motton to refer the bill was lost by 18 to 32. Those voting in the affirmative were Messars, Aldrich, An hony, Blair, Dawes, Frye, Harrison, Hawley, Hill Hartford, April 5, 1882. Senate.

The Senate assembled at 10:30 o'clock Lieutenant Governor Bulkeley in the chair. Prayer was offered by Chaplain Sage. Senator Hoyt presented a petition signed b H. A. Hoyt and 690 others of Stamford in aid of the Parallel road. The resolution extending thanks to Presi dent Arthur for his action in vetoing the anti-

Chinese bill came from the House passed. Senator Mills moved to lay the resolution up or the table; so ordered. At 11 o'clock the special order of the day, being the petition of Marshall Jewell et al. to build a railroad, was called for. The action of the House in rejecting the majority report and passing the report of the minority was announced by the clerk Senator Baker moved to table the majority report; so ordered. He then moved to substitute the minority report. The House amendments to the bill were adopted.

Senator Baker, chairman of the Committee on Railroads, addressed the Senate and said that the first thing to be considered is the men who ask for permission to build the railroad. There is no doubt but what the gentlemen who ask for the road will build it. They wish to build a road across Connecticut from New York to the Rhode Island line.

They wish to take a little strip of land six or seven rods wide and they want to pay the full price for it. They also wish to make money, and no one objects to that. They will spend $8,000,000 or $10,000,000 within The House at 1:35 adjourned until 10 a, m. the State, and the only opponents to this petition are the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and the Air Line. I pay no attention to the latter for it has not much except a track, and they are sold body and soul to the Consolidated road. The only opponent is the Consolidated and they are making an immense per cent. on the capital invested. New York city will be accommodated by the new road, and the business of Connecticut materially advanced. Many of the people that now go from New York to New Jersey to live will, if the railroad facili ties are increased, leave the mud and mosqui toes of New Jersey and come into Connecti-cut. Another railroad is needed at the lower end of the State. The old road has no terminus either in New York or Boston, and yet the building of the road towards New York has materially benefited the towns. In fact their prosperity is entirely due to the railroad. If this charter is granted there is no reason to doubt but that not only the western section of the State, but the eastern will be naterially benefited.

Senator Bradstreet favored the charter, and said his constituency was also in its favor. He said the only opposition came from the Consolidated road, a road which made a greater rate per cent than any road east of the Rocky Mountains. The manufacturers of the Naugatuck valley are being charged the same rate of freight as they wer during the war. It costs $1 per mile to draw a car load of lumber from Madison to Saybrook, while it only costs eight cents per mile to draw it from Chicago. But the Consolidated road say they can do two or three times as much business as they do now. I don't believe it. The petitions against the profanation of Sunday by freight trains show this. There is no question which troubles the managers of this road as much as how they shall manage the immense business which is crowding them.

Senator Hoyt said that the people through out his section were in favor of the Parallel road. If it were possible he would resign his seat and give his constituency the oppor-Waterford, Conn., July 39, 1880.

Dr. Clark Johnson:

I have suffered very much in the last three years from Headache, and have got little or no relief from any source until lately. I purchased of your agent some of the Indian Blood Syrup, and am conscious of great relief from its use. I can recommend well. Consolidated carried its patrons safe and well. Considering the premium upon the time all confidence.

WELCOME C. BATES, above the dividend goes into the road and freight are the lowest, and passenger tickets will soon be sold at the rate of two cents per mile. As long as this road does so much for the people, have we the right to destroy it? At this point Senator Hoyt introduced a long letter from ex-President W. D. Bishop of the New York, New Haven and Hartford road, and requested that it might be read by

The letter went over the history of the vaious petitions for a "Parallel" road and averred that they had all been brought for speculative purposes, and mainly for the sake of getting money from the Consolidated road. In it Mr. Bishop stated that his interest in the Consolidated road is comparatively small, and the granting of a charter to the petitioners could affect him but little. He also There and carries the Fewer out of the system. Stated that the construction of railroads by It cures when all other remedies fall.

At the conclusion of the reading Senator Hoyt said that he wished it distinctly understood that he did not believe that the gentlemen whose names appear in the petation would do anything that is not fair and above board. said that he regretted to hear the letter from Mr. Bishop which had been read. Mr. Bishop had full opportunity to appear before the ommittee and make his statement and that was the place for him to have made his argument and charges. Mr. Pool, about whom so much has been said was highly endorsed before the compiler. said, was highly endorsed before the commit-tee by Mr. Wheeler, a director of the Consolidated road. It has been the rule throughout the country that competing lines have reduced fares. This is shown by the competing routes between Washington and Balti more, New York and Philadelphia, and Boston and Portland, not to mention the great competing routes West. In regard to the general railroad law the speaker said that it was the work of W. D. Bishop, and that he 1874 that that law was passed to prevent a Parallel road being built. Mr. Paige detailed the circumstances of the crime for which Walton had been convicted, and explained the reason for his opposition to the release. In his speech Mr. Paige said that mployes of the State prison were on the loor of the House lobbying for Walton's release. The House did not need the services of the prison chaplain or anyone else to be here pleading for the release of a man on the ground of good behavior.

A long discussion ensued on the resolution, in which the release of the prisoner was advocated by Messrs. Mahan of New London, Bartlett of Oxford and Brown of Chatham. The latter gave an interesting account of a visit he had made to the State prison to study the case for himself. He said that there were grave doubts as to whether Walton had actually committed the crime, and that the latter would not admit having committed it even under promise of being given his liberty if he confessed the crime. An affidavit from Marion Baker, the girl on whom the alleged rape was committed, was read, showing that she was not convinced that Walton committed the offense. The resolution was opposed by Mr.Paige,Mr. Hayes of Harwinton, and others. An effort to have the resolution recommitted was deeated, 53 to 98. On motion of Mr. Cooley the previous question was ordered and on vote the resoluion was passed, ordering Walton's release.

in Ansonia. The Valley Sentinel says of the attempt to burn the Baptist church in Ansonia on last Saturday evening: "The janitor, Mr. Davidson, visiting the church Saturday evening, detected a strong odor of gas on entering, and in one of the rooms the atmosphere was so heavily charged as to render breathing almost impossible. Throwing open the windows, however, soon relieved the church of the gas, when the sexton proceeded to an examination. He found, he says, the gas all turned on, with several burners open, and the key that turns the stop in the pipe leadthe key that turns the stop in the pipe leading up stairs missing from its accustomed place. This he subsequently picked up in the pulpit up stairs. In the furnace room the door was found propped open with the poker, and a couple of jets burning. Had the escaping gas reached this part of the building the entire interior portion of the church would have been all affame in an instant, and the destruction of the building stant, and the destruction of the building would have been inevitable. The chairs were also disarranged in the lecture room.

"The author of this evident attempt to burn the Baptist church is unknown. No forcible entry was made. It is stated, however, that there are many keys held by persons outside who are not entitled to possess them, among whom is at least one boy. The locks are also of the common kind and easily turned with the ordinary key. Worshipers at the church on Sunday were able to detect an oder of the sun the armosphere of the audit odor of gas on the atmosphere of the audi-

After being restored to sound health by Dr. Lyon she sout the following lettes, sarnesilly requesting that it should be published in the hope that it might reach others similarly afficied:

To all who may be afficied with that common disease, Consumption, or any weakness of the lungs, I would appeal to them to immediately consult Dr. John L. Lyon, of New Haven, Coun., feeling sure that by secting they may be restored to health. For several years I was troubled with a cough, hemserinage of the lungs and the usual symptoms of Consumption. I consulted and was treated by some of the most eminent physicians the country afforcied, without deriving any permanent beneat whatever. In the spring of 1805 the disease made such rapid progress that my attending physician and friends gave up all hopes of my recovery. On the 18th of May, 1805, I consulted the above named Decker. I was at that time reduced to a perfect wreck of my former self, coughing incommitted, and it would seem just on the were of the grave. After the usual examination, he kindip but builty informed me as others had done, that we dispating infainty informed me as others had done, that we dispate the self-case of the set of the set of the set of the plainty informed me as others had done.
