DRUNKENNESS IN ENGLAND. The Salvation Army in England has ex cited much hostility among the lower classes on account of the crusade it has carried on against beer and gin. Mr. Jennings, the experienced observer who keeps the r, aders of the New York World informed con cerning English matters, in his last letter lefexids the Salvation Army and gives some empera uce in England.

Mr. Jen nings says the upper classes have reformed. It is no longer the custom to drink wine after dinner until the majority of | 000 en igrants, of whom quite a third are of the company are under the table. In fact, Italian emigration to Buenos Ayres amounted drank nowadays by people who can well afford to drink it. For one thing, the doctors have set their faces a good deal against the use of stimulants. Almost every eminent English physician will now place his patients on a very small allowance-say a pint of wine at the utmost at dinner, and no other alcoholic liquor either before or afterwards. But while Mr. Jennings speaks thus cheeringly concerning the drinking habits of the upper classes, he says that no one who has not lived in England can form the least idea mies and high schools. A general introducof the extent to which intemperance is indulged in by an enormously large proportion of the population. The national expenditure and faculties, and the work is then divided in England is large-over £80,000,000-but the amount annually spent in drinks is much larger, and Mr. Jennings says: "If the reader had seen as much of this (the evils of intemperance) as I have he would not laugh at | Jarman. and accuse me of passing off a temperance sermon under the disguise of a London letter; but, on the contrary, he would feel shocked at the fearful prevalence of a vice which seems to give rise to more crimes and more

And in connection with our great bargain in TABLE DAMASK, we shall offer several unap- unhappiness than all the other frailties known to mankind." Other organizations besides the Salvation Army are fighting intemperance in England. "Of late," says Mr. Jennings, "I have noticed a good many men in the streets of London with a little piece of blue ribbon in their button holes. They belong to another 'Army,' whose object also is to deal whatever blows they can at the demon of drink. Then there seems to be a 'yellow ribbon' organization coming into the field, intended to counteract the operations of the other two. It is called the 'Moderation Army,' and invites all moderate drinkers to join its ranks. If these three armies were to meet some day the erash would be terrific, unless one or two of them acted like the valiant foe recently capured by 'our only General' in Egypt." The workingmen of England have for many years been open to the reproach of intemperance, and it is high time that there was a reform in their drinking habits. If the Salvation Army, or any other army, can do anything to bring about this reform it should have support in its work.

New York is now the chosen haven of the Italian emigrant. The great current of days."-Boston Commercial Bulletin. Italian emigration has till now been directed to South America, and especially La Plata. In the republic of Uruguay there are now about 450,000 inhabitants and there land at Montevideo every year about 17,000 Italian emigrants. The celebrated hyg enist, Signor Paolo Mantegazza, wrote, not long ago, that on arriving there one seemed to be transported into an Italian colony. The boatman who landed you, the porter who carried your baggage, the hotel keepers, all were Italians. Italian emigration develops enormously on the other shore of the estuary of La Plata. It is calculated that from 1857 to 1875 more teres ting information about the progress of than 449,000 were Europeans, and that from 1875 onward the average annual number of emigravats is 40,000. Heavy Rods.
[Correspondence of the Journal of Commerce.] I have received so many letters asking ad vice in the purchase of rods for fly fishing that I propose, with your permission, to answer all in one. It is noteworthy that many of these letters are from fathers de-siring to buy rods for their young sons. This is a good sign. Nothing is more important in the education of the young than the indoctri nation of a love of open air exercise and the formation of an acquaintance with nature Every boy, if his surroundings make it pos sible, should be given the opportunity of be-coming an angler. If he takes to it, he will be grateful through all his life for the physical and mental improvement and enjoyment which are certain to accompany him in practicing the gentle and contemplative art.

The question, which is constantly put, is "What should be the weight of a fly rod?"

This is a fruitful subject of discussion, and much has been written on it. The contro versy has been between "light rods" and "heavy rods." I frankly confess I cannot take either side of the dispute, because I do not know at what weight the distinction begins, and therefore do not know exactly the difference between a light and a heavy rod. Since the middle of May last I think there three days (Sundays always excepted) which I have not taken more or less fish with which I have used and shieh I ordinarily use.
For the angler who goes a fishing once a year for a week or two and does not wish but one rod, I fancy the best advice is to buy and use a seven or eight ounce rod. But if he have opportunity, let him try lighter and heavier, and then adopt and use just what suits him best. It is absurd to be dogmatic in such matters. You can catch minnows with bean poles if you know how, and you can kill five pound trout with a five ounce rod if you know how. Lovers of very light rods love them very much. There is great satisfaction in using them, and, in skillful hands, they will do heavy work. The theory of angling is that the rod is only a stiffening of the line, up to the hand, enabling you to manage it; and the reel is a means both of bringing the fish in and of allowing the line to run free and prevent a sudden strain of the fish on the hook. The same gentle pressure may be ap plied with a heavy as with a light rod, if th reel is properly used. The bend of the rod is the application of a spring which keeps the line "taut" and holds the hook in its place gently without such force as to tear it out. Light rods will not stand steady and cor stant angling from day to day. If one ex-pects to take large and strong fish on each successive day of fishing, he needs either a fairly heavy working rod or two or three light rods. This is specially true in wet weather. Three days' fishing and taking heavy trout, or one day's fishing and taking black bass, in rain, will ruin a six or seven ounce rod, unless it be carefully straightened by hanging it from the tip with a weight on the butt, or in some other way, and allowed to dry while the fibre recovers position. In brief, the proper weight for a rod de pends on what you want to do with it. A few days ago I was easting for trout where was necessary to get out an occasional cast against the wind. I was using a five ounce Norris rod, and it worked delightfully till the wind became so strong that it was useless in my hands. Perhaps a better angler could have put his fly down accurately against the gale with that rod. I could not, and so went ashore and got a seven and a half-ounce rod, wherewith I could and did accomplish what was desired.

For a young beginner it is advisable to purchase a rod weighing eight or nine ounces, and let him learn to cast with it. He will b sure to smash it. That cannot be avoided Therefore, it is a waste of money to start him with an expensive rod. One who has learned to cast with a nine ounce will easily use a five or six ounce rod afterward, while, on the contrary, persons accustomed to very light rods, find difficulty and fatigue in using heavier ones. It seems to me that every one who goes a fishing frequently, or from year to year, in various waters, should have two rods, one not over seven ounces, and one not less than nine in weight. There is no mistake about the great delight of using a very light rod in some weather. Of a still day, on a lake, with light rod, light ine, gossamer leader and the smallest gnats, one may enjoy sunshine, air and skillful angling to his heart's content. But if one be tishing a rapid river, and has struck a twobound trout in the rush of the stream with a five or six ounce rod, he will, if he loves his little rod, wish he had left it at home that I have been using a great deal lately, with the utmost satisfaction, a six and a half ounce rod, made by Mr. William Mitchell, of No.

26 Vandam street, New York, which is with out exception the ablest rod of its weight ever bandled. The wood is shad-blow, or withe wood, or sugar plum, for it has various local names. I have frequently men tioned it in my correspondence. I fished one day with this rod in a stiff gale with extreme butt end with its regular taper, and the handle slips on over it. The purpose i to give a complete spring in the butt to the of rods. I have no hesitation in telling those who have asked my advice to go to him and order rods of whatever weight trusting to his skill and experience. For steady use no one need think of buy-ing a cheap rod. With rods as with guns, you may, by buying four or five cheap ones, hit on one which is good and lasting But if you wish a useful, trustworthy article, go to a first class maker and pay a first clas price. Some men object to paying a lawyer a doctor, a mechanic, an engineer, or anyone, a high price for his reputation. This is onsense. The sensible man knows that the reputation entitles the high charge, and guarantees the purchaser or employer. count eleven trout and bass rods in my rod case or hanging in the cabin. These have cost variously from $25 to $65 each, and the higher priced rods have done ten times the work of the cheaper. I believe that the ordinary cost of a first class trout rod, by maker of reputation, now a days is from $27 to $40, according to quality, extra pieces and was called to the acting pastorate of the church by a unanimous vote for the term of one year-a vote which was repeated for three years. At a regularly notified meeting of the society of date January 19,1880, it was voted that the society's committee be instructed to make arrangements with Rev. Henry S. Kelsey to preach for us at the rate of $2,500 per year. This vote was not regarded by the society as essentially changing the nature of its relations to the pastor, except as it rendered the contract terminable at any moment should it be desired by either party. That Mr. Kelsey did not entertain any other sentiment the accompanying note to the chairman of the society's committee will testify: lowed by threatening weather and rain, north to east

at Hartford yesterday was called to order by George G. Sill at 11:30. Hon. Albert Austin, of Suffield, was chosen chairman, and W. W. Cowles, of Manchester, secretary. After accepting the list of delegates Mr. West, of Hartford, nominated William W. Eaton, and Mr. Eaton was unanimously nominated by acclamation. Resolutions were passed, and Mr. Eaton being loudly called for responded with thanks for the nomination, though he had not, he said, sought it. After highly eulogizing his district he launched several shots at the Republican party-speaking of the river and harbor bill as a "steal" and adding that a proper revenue bill must emanate from the House of Representatives, as also legislation for the great economical and industrial interests of New England. He promised that the next House would be Democratic, whereat there was great applause. "Now, sir, what does this district desire? Go and ask the manufacturers and the business men in village, town and city; ask the silk makers of Manchester and cotton and

Your representatives in Congress, who hold the purse strings, should be men on whose judgment you can rely when great measures come, when great questions and bad bills, involving unpaid millions of money of the people's taxes, come before Congress. I may add one thing now. There will scarcely be in the next House of Representatives a Democratic member with whom I am not personally acquainted. Therefore I have a right to say that if I should become the representative of this district I shall take my seat with a majority who known me, and I will say it though it may sound immodest, therefor

IGOR, HEALTH AND MANHOOD

For coughs, and all their attendant ills. We present our readers with a simple recipe, long in use in before us. It has demonstrated its rare excellence in almost every case in which it has been tried. Fresh colds, as well as those of a stubborn character, disappear when it is used. Influenza and Asthma are cured by its continued use. Bleeding of the Lungs and even Consumption are greatly benefited by it. The reputation of this recipe has passed from mouth to mouth until it has become well known in certain sections of this State. It may save a good deal of trouble and sickness if you keep it in the house now that the scasson for colds is upon us. It is called American Cough Drops and may be had of any Druggist at 35 cents a bottle.

The New Haven Irish Team Victors Over the New York Team.

Yesterday the return match between the rish American Rifle clubs of New York and New Haven took place at the Quinnipiac range. Many friends from this city drove out to the grounds to witness the contest, and much interest prevailed. The contest was eagerly watched by several hundred spectators. The New York shooters arrived here on the 8:10 train from New York. They had a warm greeting from the New Haven club through their committee for the purpose, City Clerk Pigott, Captain O'Connell, Messrs. Tierney, Purcell and Cunningham. The party boarded the barge City of Elms and ments were served at the range, after which, two members of the New York team, Messrs. Howlett and O'Donnell, not arriving, the teems were made up as follows:

dight of stairs; entrince either at the Cliurch street or 67 Crown street. Dr. Lyon will continue a here of fore to treat all diseases of every came and a surpression of experience has given him. Thousands of testimontals from grateful patients snatched from the brink of the grave now rejecting in the perfection of health attest the unerring skill of Dr. Lyon. He expecially invites these whose diseases under other methods of treatment have remained intractive, to fall upon him. Yisit him and he will at once describe your condition. Perhaps you would have been cured if your physician had understood your case.

If you have tried for health and falled, it is no reason why you should not try again. Health is precious to all, and if he cannot relieve your case he will tell you so. He can refer you to many, perhaps worse than you are, that were given up by their phys class and friends, who now onloy good health. He will describe your case so clearly that you will know he perfectly understands your disease. It is comething of great importance to you, although very easily accomplished by him, though ne more synderful has true. It is only the starting point to whealth for the physician to understand your disease. It is something the complished by him, though ne more synderful has true. It is only the starting point to whealth for the physician to understand your disease, and then administer the simple remedy to remove that disease. Come, he will dure that cough, pain in the head, saile and back, remove that cold, sinking or burning at the stomach, stiff joints, rheumatism gout, fever sores, cancers, sait zheum, erysipela scala acead and all bad humors, with his vogetable medicines. and Albany.

Da. Lyon—Dear Sir—It is impossible for me to fully express my gratified to you concerning the effect which your medicine has produced upon my system.
I have just shished the medicine you put up for me and can truthfully say that I feel a different being.
My appetite is very regular, and I am not troubled with that dull headache that I once had and sleep never was so refreshing, as I am not disturbed with dreams. Before I came to 5 on it was difficult for me to continue my thoughts for any length of time to any subject, undoubtedly owing to that complaint, and the contract is quite noticeable. If I ever know one troubled with that complaint, I shall im usditely direct them to you as an effectual means of structure, for it seems to me that I almost owe my life to you for if it had been allowed to grow upon me the time could not have been far distant when that incurable disease (consumption) would have been deeply seated

Appended are a few testimonials, want of space for hids the publishing of more. Their mames will cheerfully given to those desiring them by calling the Doctor's office. Oase I is that of a lady who we programed by three of the meet prominent physicians of her native city to be in the last stage of consumption, and told that her case was helplest and hopeless. After being restored to sound health by Dr. Lyon she sent the following letter, carnestly requesting that it should be runnished in the hope that it might reach others simility afflicted:

To all who may be afflicted with that common disease, Consumption, or any weakness of the lungs, I would appeal to them to immediately consult Dr. John L. Lyon, of New Haven, Coun feeling sure that by so doing they may be restored to health. For several years I was troubled with a cough, hemserrhage of the lungs and the usual syon, doms of Consumption. I consulted and was treated by some of the most aminent physicians the converg afforded, without deriving any permanent beneat whatever. In the spring of 1863 the disease made such rapid progress that my attending physician and friends gave up all hopes of my recovery. On the 16th of Msy. 1863, I consulted the above named Doctor. I was at that time educed to a perfect wreck of my former self, coughing incossantly, and it would seem just on the verge of the grave. After the usual examination, he kindly but plainly informed me as others had done, that my disease was incurable; that I had but a few months to live. Having great confidence in his skill. I insisted upon his treating my case. He did so, and with as tonishing success. In twenty days from the time commenced the use of his medicines, my cough was less frequent, I su less frequent, I suffered no more from hemorrhage of the lungs, and day by day found the terrifying symptoms of Consumption disappearing, and was gradually regaining health. I was treated by him one year—at the end of that time I can tryly say I was restored to perfect health. It is now March, 1866, and me symptoms of the disease are reit. I have reason to feel sure that I shall suffer no return of the disease, and it is not only a pleasure to me, but a duty I feel that I owe to hundreds of sufferers who are being daily carried to the grave by Consumption, to mage daily carried to the grave by Consumption, to mage upon them the necessity of seeking relief where it may be found. Very respectively, D. M. S.
