Saturday, August 29, 1885. DAKOTA. What will the Democrats in Congress about Dakota this winter? is one of the ineresting questions. The territory seems be fairly entitled to statehood. A census has just been taken which shows a population exceeding four hundred thousand in the whole territory; about one hundred and fifty thousand, enough for one member of Congress, being in that part of the territory which desires separate admission as North Dakota, nearly or quite enough to entitle that part to two members of Congress There are eighty thousand farms in the terri tory. The population is of a stable character. As a State Dakota would to-day rank in population above Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Nevada, New Hampshire, Oregon, Rhode Island and Verment; while ten years

But the Democrats can nardly afford to reject them for such a reaon. Perhaps they will make things even by admitting a Democratic territory also. The three territories most likely to be considered are Utah, New Mexico and Washington. It is hardly possible that the Democrats will dare to let Utah in until the Mormon probem is in different shape. There are objections to New Mexico. Washington territory has the best chance. It already has a population large enough to form a congressional district, is rapidly growing in population an wealth, and bids fair to be a powerful State. But whether any other territory is admitted or not, it is certain that Dakota is entitled to admission. And it won't do the

> An interesting antiquarian discovery was made recently in a field near Dunfermline, Scotland, in the shape of tumuli of large limensions. Some masons were digging for sand in the vicinity when tumuli were come upon. Already four cists with a large quantity of implements of the Stone Age, and not less than two thousand years old, have been turned up. The urns were three feet six inches in length by one foot six inches in breadth, and about ten inches in depth. They were all filled with black mould, in which was placed a clay urn about five inches in depth and twenty inches in circumference. There were also flint flakes, arrow heads, pestles and other implements inside the cists or near them. The work of excavation will probably now be carried on under the Scottish Society of Antiquaries. An English lady who has been visiting Canada expresses in the Pall Mall Gazette the opinion that "a judicious and gradual influx of highly cultivated English women into Canada and the United States would be as great a boon to those countries as it would be a relief to Great Britain." Her reason for this opinion is thus stated: "Although the ladies in the older cities of the North American continent are, with scarcely any exceptions, superior to English gentlewomen in brain power, in clearness of mental vision in common sense, in practical, sound judg ment, and in general intelligence, yet we miss in them that indefinable charm which always clings to a highly cultivated European." But question that arises is this: Was this the since and "owin'" to some misfortune of 'Owen" who when visiting the islands found such hospitality among the very men whon he slanders as ought to make him ashamed to even think the evil things that he so freely writes about them? Possibly neither of these hypotheses could be proved, but so many exactly similar cases have occurred many exactly similar cases have occurred that he must not be offended if, being found in the vile company of slanderers, he received even more than his share of puhishment. We suggest that he join the De Young-Chronicle crowd and, in order to reach the foundation of things, begin with his curse upon the unfortunate Spanish navigators who discovered the Sandwich Islands away back in sixteen bundred and something, and then touch up the memory of Captain Cook, who rediscovered them later on, and was partially punished for it by the loss of his life and some of his limbs. Should he even curse the fathers and mothers of those venerable "salts," he will find it less dangerous than to cast slurs upon a well-bred lady of San Francisco because her husband and sons were uncommonly sharp business men. (It is said that the jury that acquitted Adolph Spreckles in the case of his murderous assault upon De Young had serious doubts whether he ought not to have been fined at least for disgracing his previous good marksmanship.)

Lucky General Wolseley - The Batten borg Business Politics in France and England-Missionary Work-France and Bismarck-Diamonds. cial Correspondence of the Journal, and Cour IER. All Rights Reserved.]

LONDON, Aug. 15.

To the Editor of the JOURNAL AND COURIER: General Wolseley, Baron of Cairo, ha just been made a viscount. This lucky sol-dier is simply overwhelmed with honors and bank notes by a generous Queen and a grateful country. After having beaten the Ashantees in 1874, brought home the umbrella of their king and burned their capital, a feat, as I have said elsewhere, not requiring much talent, the dwellings being built of wood mud and straw, General Wolseley on his return to England had a grant of £25,000 made to him. Eight years later on his return from Egypt this same general received s peerage and £28,000. Lord Alcester, his companion in arms, who had operated on the walls of Alexandria whilst Lord Wolseley was operating on the backs of the Egyptians, also obtained a peerage and £30,000. Now Lord Wolseley was sent last year to the Soudan to regain Khartoum. Unable to do so, he had to conteut himself with regaining the road to England. For this feat of British philosophy he has been created a viscount. When I consider the small number of British soldiers whose deaths the general caused to be deplored I imagine that all these hon ors have been bestowed upon him at the instigation of the Royal Humane society. Queen Victoria has not yet heard the lasof the Battenberg business. In a case of mere ordinary discontent with the sovereign's choice of a husband for her daughter, the grumblings would have subsided after the tying of the matrimonial knot, whereas at this match there is still a feeling manifested which is more akin to disgust than to disapprobation. It was bad enough to choose uch a husband for a royal princess of Eng-UMBRELLAS. land, but the crowning blunder was committed when he was created a Royal Highness and made a Knight of the Garter. If the English nobility, many of whom have royal blood in their veins, had any doubts as to why they were sent to this world, it must now begin to dawn upon them, I should think, that they were created to hand pocket-handkerchiefs to German serenities. It is no wonder they are branching out into com merce, etc.; that one duke's son goes into grocery, another into stockbroking and that honorables are to be found touting for wine merchants. The ladies seem to be following the example of their lords, to judge by the fact that a lady of rank has lately opened abounct shop in the West End of London. As everyone knows, Lord Tennyson, poet laureate, wrote an ode on the occasion of the marriage of Princess Beatrice. The poet's effusions are as humorous as the prose details of this interesting wedding. The bride, loubt make it hot for him. As I told you before, the Queen allowed the young coup company quietly. At the end of the pre-cribed time down came to lunch with the pair the inexorable mother-in law. Such ar angements have certainly had no parallel ince the case of the small tradesman found 'traveling alone" upon his honeymoon, is consequence of the money not running to

I hope we shall hear no more of the Lon-ion scandals. The criminal law has been nended, and now that this nasty business is over it is amusing to see the English press trying to prove that all great foreign towns are worse than London. FLOWER'S icalism," England with, "Conservatism of Liberalism." The cry "Monarchy" will of course be raised in France, but not responded to by the people. The republic is for the present the unchallenged master of the situation. If France had a king on the throne most bourgeois and the whole of the peasanry would vote for monarchists at the elec ons, but the middle classes in France will bear anything rather than that there should be a fresh upsetting of the existing form of government. What the French people want is peace at home and abroad. Their ideal is jogtrot and thrifty existence. When will French rulers understand that and abandon heir colonial politics, which are making the A Railroad President's Testi-French a laughing-stock in Europe;

It should be said that the French partisans of a spirited colonial policy have a strange way of understanding the thing. They beleve that colonies are made by governme by the force of arms. They will not understand that English adventurers, not English overnments, have made English colonies Jeneral Gordon said in his diary at Khar um that the English would do well to bor row a little chivalry from the French, but urely the French would do well to borrow ittle wisdom from the English. Coionies ould be made by private enterprise. The English go to "pastures fresh and new" at their own risks and perils, especially the missionaries, who are the best colonizing agents. Colonies should be made for overflowing populations, not for the wholesa exportation of officials. In Cochin Chir ere are one thousand French inhabitants France has just received her annual ser-non from Prince Von Bismarck. Every ummer sees cavalry manœuvres in the eas of France, and these are always the signal for warnings from the official press of the re-doubtable chancellor. The French may be ill-advised to occasionally let fall the word "revenge," but surely the Germans are still more so to be constantly reminding their neighbors of their defeat. I am afraid France is now in just the kind of position in which Bismarck has long wished to see her M. So for the moment we have lost the sympathy of our natural allies; we have thirty-five thousand soldiers in Tonquin, where we have also lost fifteen thous have six thousand in Madagascar. Our cof-fers are empty; we are over head and ears in debt. M. de Bismarck, pleased at seeing us all right at least, tells us that we had better keep quiet and not talk about our revenge, or he will give us a good drubbing. When the general elections come off I hope France will not forgive a French minister for having

Scientific Remedies RIP VAN WINKLE.

Joseph Jefferson, the great actor (whose equal the character of Rip Van Winkle we shall never see again), states that he visited Dr. Flower in a very low state of health. He had given up the stage on account of his health being utterly broken down. Dr. Flower entirely cured him, and he is to-day enjoying the very bost of health, after having filled last season a heavy professional engagement. The two great remedies used in this celebrated cure were Dr. Flower's Liver and Stomach Sanative and Narve Pills.

Col. Thomas A. Scott, for years President of the great Pennsylvania Railroad, said just before his sudden death, in answer to a question: "There is but one Dr. Flower, and it will be a century before there is another, and the one medicine for Liver and Stomach troubles, and the general system, is his Liver and Slomach Sanative."

A Case Without a Parallel. In that horrible railroad disaster at Ashtabula, Ohio, which everyone remembers, Mrs. F. M. Coulter was hurled through the bridge, 70 feet in the river of ice. Her friend and Messra. Moody and Sankey's associate, the sweet singer P. P. Bliss, was killed, and she so badly injured and her nervous system so shocked that chronic hysteria followed. She was sent to a private asylum, where, after a long treatment, she was pronounced incurable. Four years ago a friend sent her a bottle of Dr. Flower's Nerve Pils. The effect was like magic; 17 bottles were taken, and Mrs. Coulter was thoroughly cured.

ABOUT CHURCH STREET. Glance At Some of The Many Change In The Past Four Years.

Church street merchants regard with com cency the attractive alteration of the Bai ley building now in progress as another step forward in the way of improvement on that prominent business thoroughfare, and this, with the improvements given the fronts of the American building and Hoadley building on the same street, and the extensive enlargement and improvement of the postoffice, is very gratifying to real estate owners on the street and to good citizens pleased ever, many visitors came from Bridgeport, with the city's prosperity. Then further down near George street is the new and substantial building with roomy stores which ex-Governor English is srecting and which takes the place of the old wooden building which stood on the same site and was a relic of the old New Haven days of long ago, built when the city had less than 10,000 innabitants, or about as many as Norwalk has

These are all indications of the increasing growth and wealth of the city, and the consequent call for larger and better buildings and finer stores in the center. Church street, it might be added, at once takes the attention of most newcomers from the trains as they approach it, owing to the monster teakettle which occupies so conspicuous a position over the store of Major General Chidsey, the purveyor, of whom the New Jersey Knights of Honor took home most glowing recollections of friendship and good fellowship. The teakettle also recalls to thousands of New Haveners one of the most notable bazaars or fairs ever held in the city, ble bazsars or fairs ever held in the city and an amount of guessing at ten cents as the amount of water it would hold, enough mous and exhausting to contemplate. Church street, lower part, has also taken on a new street, lower part, has also taken on a new phase in late years, owing to the American Theatre and bi-weekly band concerts from the theater hall-way, preliminary to matinees, which the indefatigable Eldridge gives regardless of expense, and likewise in Church street buildings are schools of music, both vocal and instrumental, G. A. R. halls, Knights of Columbus halls, the Stationary Engineers hall, an Odd Fellows' hall, elegantly equipped, the Grays' association hall, with its handsome equipments, etc. And all these are changes and improvements made in very recent years, and all of them are on that portion of Church street south of Chapel. There are besides such fine buildings as the Massena Clark building, Benedict's building, the late Dr. Wood's building and ex-Governor English's new buildings, all of which come properly within the enumeration of improve-

MONG THE GREEN MOUNTAINS New Haven Gentleman's Picasant Experience Among the Farmers. Professor Louis Bail, who has been spend ing four weeks of his vacation at Greensboro Vt., has returned home and gives glowing accounts of his trip. The beauty of the mountain scenery at the place where he was located the professor thinks almost unsurpassed. He brings back with him a number of sketches of mountain, hill and valley running brook and silver lake, with wide spreading farms and well kept farm houses, which are pleasant to look upon as sketched but no doubt far more beautiful in all their reality. Greensboro is a farming town, although the farms are principally devoted to grazing. The farmers are an intelligent, well to do class of men, and many of them have accumulated their wealth from the large groves of maples which are so abundant in this region and from which the delicious maple sugar and syrup is made and shipped to all parts of the country. Most all of the large farmers take boarders in the sum mer, and there is one quite large house in the place which makes a business of keeping summer boarders. Another wealthy farmer is transforming his farmhouse into a board ng house to be used next summer. Th prices charged, says the proprietor, are re markably low for the excellent food and oth er accommodations provided. Greensbor which is three miles distant from the railros short distance from the village is "Caspian" or "Beautiful" Lake, three miles long, and it is fed almost entirely by springs. The water of the lake is clear and cold and trout are abundant. On this lake Julius Preston, formerly of this city bu now of New York, has this summer placed a little steam yacht, which was brought by rai to Greensboro. It skims hither and thither about the lake, taking pleasure parties wher-

Governor's day at Camp Harrison and the ished, others are in process of construction, camp grounds presented a lively scene, there being nearly five thousand visitors at the camp grounds during the day. Only about twenty-five were present from New Haven, the people in the latter city seeming to take little or no interest in camp life this year, as the Second regiment are not here. How-Frand street Stamford and way stations on the Shore Line railroad and the steamer "Ella" brought down a large crowd from Norwich, and there were also excursions by boats from New London and Mystic, while nearly five hundred of the visitors came from Hartford and vicinity. The weather was the best possible and the men were feeling their best, and during the morning the captain of each company drilled the men under his command for one hour and a half in preparation for the afternoon dress parades. During the morning the visitors spent the time in walking up and down the different company streets, and many visited the Spiritualists' camp meeting which is being held about half a mile to the west of the camp. The camp this year, however, does not begin to present the appearance it did last year when the four regiments were in camp, and much dissatisfaction is felt by the superior officers that the four regiments did not go. The Third regiment occupy the southwest end of the camp grounds, the Fourth comes next, then the Fifth battalion and at the northeast end the Guilford battery, while the staff and field hundred of the visitors came from Hartford

As the Wheeler & Wilson band struck up at 2 o'clock in the afternoon the different companies of the regiments and battalion appeared almost at the same moment from their company streets, when they were drawn up in line and reviewed by Governor Harrison, who with his secretary, Arthur Osborne, and Colo-nei Mallory occupied a carriage to which with his secretary, Arthur Osborne, and Colo-nel Mallory occupied a carriage to which were attached four large black horses. hooting; but as a whole the firing was much better than that of last year. Promptly at 5 o'clock the gun was fired and the flag taken in, and at 5:30 o'clock the dress parade took place and the work of the day was over. During the exercises the visitors lined the the doutside the guard line and applauded the regiments from time to time, the Fifth battalion receiving many comments on the fine manner in which they drilled. They are said to be the best drilled of any of the soldiers in camp. Company A of the Fifth, of New Haven, is said by Captain A. J. Death of Mr. A. F. Wood. Mr. A. F. Wood, the well known druggist for many years proprietor of the drug store at the corner of Church and George streets, died at his residence, corner of Second avenue and Wood street, West Haven, yesterday norning at 9:30. He had been suffering with lung troubles for several years past, which finally caused his death. Winter before last he took a tour and enjoyed the milder climes of the Bermudas and came back somewhat benefitted, but all that the best care and medical skill could do was unavailing. He was about 61 years of age lived until he came to this city to enter the drug business. He at first served as clerk inder Dr. Dow, whose store was near what is now the New Haven House. He sometimes walked back to Woodbury Saturday nights and walked back to the store on Monday mornings, finding benefit from the change and the exercise. He started in business for himself in 1845 on the corner where his store now stands. The present fine commodious brick building on the corner was erected by Dr. Wood ten or twelve years ago. He leaves an estate estimated at about $100,000. He was a Freemason and was one of the projectors of St. Thomas' parish this city. He was first treasurer of that church and a vestryman from the founding of the church until his death. He was a very intelligent and conscientious man and valuable citizen. He leaves a widow and four children, three sons and one daughter. The sons are: Luther, who is now a physician in Denver, Colorado; A. Felton, jr., who has been associated with his father in business for a number of years, and James, the youngest, who has also been in business with his father. The Young Couple United in Wedlock at Huntington, L. I. Stamford society circles have had a decided urore of excitement. Miss Ella B. Pratt fSt. Louis, a daughter of Major William Pratt, U. S. Delafield Wright, residing with his mother in Division street, quite near the Snelling nansion. Mrs. Snelling is an aunt of Miss Pratt, and Ella first met Delafield two years ago while visiting Mrs. Snelling. Ella up to within two years lived in Plantsville, Conn. Delafield was an excellent sailor and had a pretty yacht, and it was while yachting that the young couple became desperately in love with each other. The young people seem to have made up their minds they couldn't live without each other, and determined to defeat all obstacles present and prospective to their union by eloping together. It appears that the course of true love did not run smooth, Delafield having asked consent of the mother. the course of true love did not run smooth, Delafield having asked consent of the mother and been refused. Also efforts were made to wean the girl of her affection for her lover. On Tuesday evening Miss Pratt, by permission, went to take tea at Mrs. Wright's. Not reporting home in due time, it was found by inquiry that they had gone out sailing in Mr. Wright's yacht, the Ione. The selection of a suitable school is a matter calling for careful consideration by parents who have their daughters well educated and properly trained under home-like and Christian influences. To all such we would recommend an examination of the prospectus and methods, and an inquiry into the general standing and repute of for young ladies and little girls, conducted by Mrs. S. L. Cady, at 99 Howe street, New Haven, Conn. It will be found in the foremost rank of the seminaries of New England for the past twenty-five years. The studies are classified under four departments, viz: Kindergarten for little girls, Primary department. The Institute department, and Institute department. The Institute department comprises a four years' course, and diplomas are issued to pupils who honorably complete said course. By special arrangement pupils may also be prepared for entrance to either Vassar, Smith or Wellesley college. Parents interested should send to Mrs. Cady, 99 howe street, New Haven, Conn., for her properly trained under home-like and Christian influences. To all such we would recommend an examination of the prospectus and methods, and an inquiry linto the general standing and repute of the West End institute, a boarding and day school for young ladies and little girls, Prima a whole, higher than those in any other mill rapidly in all parts of the State.

No action was taken upon either of them and at 11 o'clock the hearing was adjourned until next Friday.

Yesterday forence Judge Pickett heard the arguments in the case of Whitney Elliott vs. E. M. Beaumont et al. It is a petition for a foreclosure of a mortgage of about $800 on property in North Haven. The argument was made on a plea in abatement for the reason that the property was outside the city limits. For plaintiff, Linsley; for defendant, O. H. T. Fowler of Wallingford, who represents a subsequent foreclosure. The owner of the equity is a son of the plaintiff, and he wants the defendant to get out of the mortgage so as to leave a clear title. Decision

Mere Toy In Democratic

VIEWS OF SENATOR EDMUNDS

REMUNDS ON CIVIL SERVICE. He Thinks Cleveland Powerless to Enforce the Law and That His Ad-pintments and as to his own probable attiwere not in accordance with reform principles Senator Edmunds said: "Well, so far as that is concerned anyone who knows me and my course in years past knows that I have always been and am still a friend and advocate of civil service reform. He knows, advocate of civil service reform. He knows, too, that I should oppose any departure from that principle in the matter of appointments, whether the person immediately concerned policy of the administration in this matter I said last spring that Cleveland's intentions were good and that if he got the right kind of men about him he might be able to carry out his purposes in this regard. By the right kind of men I meant men friendly to civil service reform and with backbone stand out against the opposition hey would encounter from the Democratic poilsmen. Such opposition must necessarily be very great, for the larger part of that party still cling to the old Jacksonian principle in regard to appointments. But Presi lent Cleveland has not about him the men who would aid him in adhering to civil service reform. The majority of his cabinet are unfavorable to it. Now it is impossible for one man to investigate the details con erned in each appointment. The President annot know himself the circumstances o one per cent. of the appointments he makes There would not be time enough if he worked twenty-four hours a day for him to in regard to it. Thus it is that at the present time when a man's name comes up for removal some serious charges have been prepared against him as in the case of General Wells. The man is re-moved and another appointment made with-out the truth or falsity of the charges being known or even investigated. I think there is no doubt that gradually these changes will is no doubt that gradually these changes will continue until the policy and practice of the administration have degenerated into simply a spoils system. There is no doubt that if the Senate had but been Republican the change would have come already. If the Senate had been Democratic it would not have adjourned when it did, but would have stayed over a month or more and there would have been a 'clean sweep.'" Speaking of newspaper reporters the Senator said: "I talk freely to you, but generally I am shy of them. Many of them are mere Bohemians and not to be relied upon. They will distort and manufacture in a wonderful way. In Washington I have been approached by reporters and asked to divulge the ed by reporters and asked to divulge the proceedings of a secret session of the Senate or asked to give in advance the probable action of a committee on some subject of importance. I politely but persistently decline to say anything and the next day read in some newspaper what Senator Edmunds said on the very subject bont which I refused to talk. This is wha some reporters call enterprise. It is often done with some financial end in view. The other day after I had gone to Europe I saw an interview in some paper which purported to come from me on my departure from New York. But it all came from the fertile imination of some reporter.' Washington, Aug. 28.—Third Assistan Postmaster General Hazen to-day received elegram from Castleton, N. Y., stating that the postal card contractor there was now turning out about eight hundred thousand ostal cards per day. All of them, however, vere not available for use as some difficulty was experienced in drying them. The print-ing and quality of the cards, while showing a slight improvement, is not as yet satisfac-tory to the department. Hanged For a Cold Blooded Murder BOWLING GREEN, Mo., Aug. 28.-Samuel W. Collins was hanged here to-day at 10:15 for the murder of Owen Utterbock Monday September 24, 1883. Collins killed Utter-bock near the latter's barn in Pike county, Mo. Collins walked nine miles from home, scured a good position to shoot from, drev bead and called to his victim. When the latter looked up he fired. After Collins' ar-rest he confessed that he had gone to Utter-bock's the day before intending to kill him, but changed his mind and had returned Monday and carried out his intention.

He has been in a maudlin condition all day During the morning a former prominent cit sen of Richmond now living here, who was a nember of Dr. Armstrong's congregation there, called to see his former pastor. Dr. Armstrong refused to recognize the gentle-man although they had been warm friends, and he felt convinced of the fall of a won and he reit convinced of the fail of a won derful man. There were numerous callers at Hunt's this morning, all anxious to see the alleged Booth. Many people stood on the pavement and waited for a glimpse of him. A gentleman from Washington who had known Booth was so struck by the rehad known Booth was so struck by the resemblance that he said, "If I did not

The Words of a United States Judge Bring Joy To An Indian Mother's Bosron, Aug. 28.-A Washington special to the Record says: The action of the United States court at Sitka, Alaska, in granting a of the Isabella's crew named Francis Neniro attend personally to them all. Hence the difficulty of carrying out this principle when Indian child to its parents against the Both crews have been kept on short allowance and while in Hudson straits lived by claimed to have control has been reported to Washington as a sufficient reason for the will probably refit here and continue her voyremoval of the judge and other court officials. The managers of the institution charge that the child has been delivered to a life of prostitution, that the court officials are drankards and guilty of worse crimes and that the reform of the Indians has been rendered almost an impossibility. The Indians took sides with the court. The mother of the child has dictated a letter to the great father stating her case in poetical language. Her child, she says, is her heart, and she would not train her to walk barefooted. When she allowed her to enter the institution she did it because she wanted her to learn how to make the books, to talk and to put down her mother's words to make them talk again. The "Bostons" were too slow, however, and the father wanted his child back. She heard the words of the judge who gave back her heart and they sounded in her ears like running water. At night-time she could still hear them until she fell asleep. To the charge that her husband had used violence in attempting to take her hill ferror the charge that her husband had used violence eradicate the scourge altogether from the in attempting to take her child from the institution she said: "My husband was not there to see how I was once treated. most extensively engaged in at Saratoga. The many and every report of the New York market is watched with intense interest by the reckless speculators. The following statement by Cyrus W. Field from the New York Mail and published in the Saratogian faily as a hint to stock speculators here should be widely circulated as a precantion o crazy investors elsewhere:

Cyrus W. Field is quoted by the New York Mail as predicting that there will certainly e a panic in the stock market. When sked what he would advise capitalists to do e is reported to have answered:

Speculation is making people crazy. Why can any sane person believe that this condition of things can continue when stocks are seen rising in the market several per cent. daily? To illustrate the present inflation of prices let me give you a bit of my own experience: Before I left for my trip around the world I purchased many hundred shares of the stock of a western railway at $6 a share. Yesterday I sold it all through my broker at $92.25, $62.50 and $62.62% a share. Such inflation must be followed by a sudden collapse. I have hardly seen a sane man since my return from Europe. Speculation is making people crazy. Why, when I went to Delmonico's to lunch this afternoon I saw a throng of pale and anxious men congregated about a stock indicator, watching it as if it had been the pulse of a dying friend. It was a melancholy sight. Speculation is carried to an extreme which is sheer madness. A financial crash will soon bring people to their senses.

The following table, showing the decline in stocks since 1881, will be found extremely interesting, the respective dates being June interesting, the respective dates being June 3, 1881, and May 4, 1885:

Further chunks of wisdom from Mr. Field are as follows: "I regard the settlement of the are as follows: "I regard the settlement of the West Shore railway trouble as a very encouraging sign, and I sincerely hope we are not to witness any more disastrous wrecks of railway property like that of West Shore. I very much regret to see the Baltimore and Ohio railway expending a large amount of money to construct a competing line from Baltimore to New York. Business is now on a solid basis and sagacious management will bring prosperity, but recklessness will always result in ruin to individual enterdways result in ruin to individual enter prises, however prosperous the country gen-erally may be."

I forgot to mention about the surplus of fat women that are visiting Saratoga this season. It is not an uncommon sight to meet, as we do here every day on the streets and in the hotels, many women who weigh anywhere from two hundred and twenty-five three hundred pounds. One fine looking ady in particular is noticed at one of the hotels here who must tip the scales at three hundred pounds. She is a widow, very ele-gantly attired, of good proportions, and she is said to be worth several hundred thousand lollars. A well known New Haven widower overheard a conversation between several gentlemen yesterday—evidently speculation—while quietly viewing "this widow's mite." One of them innocently remarked that a good idea would be to form a joint stock company, and one of the gents said he wouldn't mind taking a few chances in the enterprise, as it would seem to him like a arge investment.

Rev. Dr. Hawes, recently of the North and is indulging in the Hathorn water.

The weather in Saratoga has been quite unpleasant for the past few days, and everybody is complaining of the chilly state of the atmosphere. The thermometer indicates 54 to 64 degrees. As September approaches uite large numbers of the guests at the va-ious hotels depart for their homes, most of them quite well satisfied with the agreeable time (hey have enjoyed, and much pleased with the number of pounds that have been added to their weight, which is attributed in most cases to their judicious use of the mineral waters so abundantly found here. Most of our New Haven visitors have departed, and only a few new arrivals and only a few new arrivals have been noticed this week. Among them are Wallace B. Fenn and wife, Samuel Stevens and daughter, W. H. Ely, Judge L. P. Deming, Mrs. E. P. Upson, Mr. Bishop of Peck & Bishop, and Dwight Mallory and wife of Fair Haven. The wife and daughter of ex-Chief Charles W. Allen have been here for a number of days; also Wyllis Smith (of Smith & Sperry) and wife and

been here for a number of days; also Wyllis Smith (of Smith & Sperry) and wife and Miss Dawson have spent a pleasant season at Congress Hall. Prof. Shepard and wife and Prof. Bonney are at the same hotel and will return home September 1. Rev. E. E. Atwater and Gardner Morse returned the 25th, having had a very pleasant and satisfactory visit here, with very much improved health. Henry A. Warner and wife are nicely fixed at the Aberdeen, a very nicely fixed at the Aberdeen, a very nicely fixed up hotel recently built on upper South Broadway. Quite a business is being done just now by merchants on Broadway, especially by those dealing in small wares and fancy articles, which are being purchased in large quantities by those about starting for home as mementoes or presents to their friends whom they expect so soon to meet. In fact, the scene in the atores and on the streets vividly reminds one of Christmas times, each moving figure repof Christmas times, each moving figure representing the venerable Santa Claus as he or she hurries along burdened with packages and bundles freshly selected as rewards of merit for their hosts of youthful admirers who have, for a short time at least, been "ever so good," and who expect the dawn of the residue of the state of

But a short time will elapse before the thousands who have been summering here will have returned to their homes and resumed their daily business routine. Many of the stores and hotels will be closed, the springs and parks will be deserted and all that will be left here to remind one of the pleasure and gaiety of the past summer sea-

One of the board contended that the recommendation could not be final except by vote of the board. It was a stormy meeting, the book board. It was a stormy meeting, the book agent assuming to be the committee's attorney. This book agent in less than twenty-four heurs had biased the committee, visiting them individually at their homes, in favor of his arithmetic. The recommendation miscarried only through a legal technicality. No change has yet been made in arithmetics. A committee may well be chosen to examine and recommend a text book, and said committee may set forth the merits of the book, but the hoard should be allowed a reasonable time to Chicago Gra board should be allowed a reasonable time to Chicago Grain and Provision Mar tell its merits by comparing it with others. Another thing: The secretaries of our school boards are too commonly too self-reliant "for anything," and assume prerogatives not theirs in virtue of their office. The secretary's first duty is to correctly record the do-ings of the board. His advice is no more final than that of any other member of the board. Another thing still, and important, is that every member of the school board should qualify himself to discharge the functions of his office and faithfully attendall the sessions of the board. The member who but seldom attends the board meetings is the person that should resign straight-away. Moreover, every unpaid member should visit for one hour, more or less, all the schools of his town, with a view to note what is done in them and to advise relative to them at the board meetings.
