Saturday, December 11, 1886. A SIGN OF PROGRESS.

These are progressive times for Woman. wo women have been lately made members of the board of education in New York | th city, and one has been made a member of the Philadelphia board. Mayor Grace of New York has written a letter to the school committee in which he makes a suggestion inended to benefit young women. It is certainly an interesting and significant one. He calls attention to the fact that the New York Normal College for Young Women yearly turns away hundreds of scholars who have demonstrated their fitness by obtaining he required percentage of scholarship credts in the lower schools, but for whom there s not accommodation in the institution. The result is that only the best scholars are accepted, and that policy has raised the perentage requisite for admission to the high mark of 85. There are, on the other hand, ample accommodations for boys who wish to Churches are split in pieces by it; neighbors are made enemies by it for life. day the use of the State House saves the city a considerable sum annually. It is believed that if the hue and cry against the State House could have its desired effect and result in the destruction of the building, it would not be long before an outlay of at least $150,000 would be demanded for land and a new building for various public uses (and these in no way connected with a public library).

Who would be benefitted thereby? Those who have guessed at the profit accruing from the erection of some large buildings in this city can guess at this:

The Acropolis of To-Day. [From the Cornhill Magazine.]
From the head of Eolus street I caught av first glimpse of the Acropolis, I had wandered about as far from it as was possible without leaving the city. Telescoped by this busy thoroughfare of shops, where everything under the sun may be bought or sold, and a remarkable number of the languages current among human beings heard, on the summit of which were some great pillars, with the daylight shining through their interstices. And straightway I pushed past the venders pink and purple eggs by the thousand, who have a special mart in this Eolus street, past the two or three brown squab churches which modestly offer this year than during the corresponding period last year." The Chicago anarchists have adopted a new line of defence in case they get a new trial. They will claim that no bomb was thrown at all; that it was only a woman who ran through the crowd with an umbrella in onhand and a market basket in the other. The only weak point in this defence is that the carnage was too slight.—Burdette. the oddities of their architecture and contil, after a steep and tortuous climb through some brief unsavory slums. I find all further progress stopped by the root of the Acropo-lis itself, and the ineffable litter of cabbage stalks, offal, oyster shells, old boots, hats and worthless rags which nowadays stand for the offering of Athens at the shrine of its most splendid relic! One holds one's nose and gropes hither and thither for a track that would not frighten a goat. These refuse screes on the north side of the Acro-polis are a scandalous disfigurement of the ancient site. Thanks to generations of lazy householders in this part of the city and to the no less lazy excavators on the plateau of the Acropolis itself, what was originally a pell mell over the brow of the rock have al-tered the level of its base, and these Greek and Turkish householders may be said to have fertilized the accumulation of marble have fertilized the accumulation of matter fragments and virgin soil with the rubbish of their own establishments. Every and the thousands of grateful testimonials received by them show that their policy has been wise as well as cient ruin, with one or two exceptions, was visited. "The pure cussedness of the Turkish empire" forbade any excavations. There is no straight thing there in government, agriculture or the country except the British telegraph wires. The chief source of Greek art is in the Hittites and back of them in Babylonia, not in Egypt. Assyrian and Mr. Ward exhibited tablets and barrels which dated back to 3,000 years B. C. The tablets from Assyria are trustworthy and give complete histories of the reigns of kings. One important library was obtained. The tablets were used for literature and business, for wills, receipts, etc. Also Mr. Ward showed about one hundred of the old cylinder seals, some of them dating back to 3,800 B. C. These were used in Phœniera, Babylonia and These were used in Phoenicia, Babylonia and among the Hittites. Later they gave way to the convenient flat seal, cone-shaped, a great many of which are used to-day. After these a great many ring-shaped seals came into use. In closing he spoke of Bagdad and its importance. There to-day the Talmud is studied as a religion. The lecture was very interesting and profitable.

Sunday Servi Grand avenue, just east of the railroad crossing and on the south side of the avenue. Entirely unconscious of the close proximity of a train, Scott drove on to the crossing. The gates were up and no tender in sight, and he naturally thought everything all right. Scott was driving at a good pace. Just as the wagon reached the center of the track up dashed engine 47 with the pay car attached.

The men in the team could not be any by the moving engine. The men in the team yelled desperately at the horse, but 'twas too late. The crash came. The paymaster's car struck the wagon square in the center. In an instant the occupants were thrown high into the air and the wagon smashed into a thousand pieces. Mr. Scott was tossed into the air a distance of twelve feet and fell alongside the rails. In his fall the position of his body was such that his right leg from the knee down lay right across the rail. Captain Smith looked out of the police precinct windows the mement after the frightful collision occurred and saw a sight that made the blood run cold through his body. There lay Scott, the blood flowing from several ghastly looking cuts in his head and his right leg being horribly crushed into a mass of bone, flesh and blood, and his left leg being cut clear off at the knee. The captain stood there almost paralyzed with the horribleness of the fearful spectacle. The cart and the locomotive wheels passed over the leg. Lyons went through almost a similar experience to that of Scott, only that he was more fortunate in his fall.

Scott after being run over was dragged along the track for a distance of thirty feet. It was thought when picked up that he was dead, but he was found to be breathing. Captain Smith of the precinct summoned the ambulance and Scott was picked up tenderly, covered up and the ambulance driver made all speed to the hospital with its horribly mangled and unconscious bur-den. he had ascertained some of the facts concerning the case.

Merritt B. Scott has long been a resident of this city. During his early life he learned the machinist's trade, and shortly after his apprenticeship ended the gold craze broke out and he turned with the rest toward California. That was in '49 and, after a long and tedious journey around Cape Horn, he landed at San Francisco. From there he went to the mines where he remained for a time and then obtained a position in the United States mint at San Francisco, where he worked for three years. hree years.

He then returned to New Haven and wen to Westville, where he was employed for a short time, and afterward started a grocery and provision store in that town. That was

He engaged in different occupations until 1869. He and a man named Smith bought out Evarts, and for the next three years the firm of Scott & Smith did business at the firm of Scott & Smith did business at the ole stand on Chapel street, just above the Insurance building, but in '72 C. E. P. Sanford beught out Smith's share in the concern and until '77 was the junior partner.

In that year Mr. Scott became the sole owner and he conducted the business until 1884, when Foskett & Bishop bought his stock and employed him as their foreman. He was a portion of the time on duty at the firm's store in Todd's block. State street.

His wife remained a constant watcher by his bedside all day long. He did not recognize her when she is and over the bed on which he had been placed. The Rev. Dr. Goodsell of the First M. There was a novel rat killing scene in this oity recently. At a Church street restaurant in the kitchen and cellar large rats are numerous, as is usually the case in such a place. The train was an unusual one and the gatetender was not expecting it. Engineer Hall says he whistled. "It is not of much consequence whether he did or not," said Agent W. E. Morgan at Belle duck, "since all whistling will be abolished in five days."

Edward E. Hall, the engineer of No. 47, said: "After leaving the junction and between the packing house and the old New London house, I whistled. This is the regular whistling place. The bell was then rung all the way to the crossing. The gates were up. A coal cart, with a gray horse attached, passed over ahead of the car. The engine, which was going at the rate of between eight and ten miles an hour, was slowed up a little for this team to pass. Another team had been stopped when the occupants saw the engine so close by. They saw the engine slow up somewhat and the horse was whipped along to get ahead of the engine, which was about ten feet away. Conductor Morrell, who stood on the front end of the pay car, called out at the top of his voice when he saw them attempt to get over, and he also shouled before that. That the train was not going faster than eight or ten miles an

One of the boats reached the vessel and saved the crew, but the other boats capsized and it is believed that twenty-seven of their occupants were drowned. The survivors of the boats' crews state that the boat instead of righting herself remained bottom up with five men under her for over one hour, although the water at the place was only knee deep. The boat could not be righted sooner because the survivors were too few in number to turn her. Two of the imprisoned men escaped with their lives, but the other three were suffocated.

REV. DR. McGLYNI

Summoned to Rome to Explain Hi New York, Dec. 10.-Rev. Dr. McGlynn still declines to discuss his summons to Rome and Henry George says he will not make any Catholic circles it is understood the summons in this case does not imply charges of unpriestly conduct. It is for the purpose of of George's theories and of their effect if put into practice that Dr. McGlynn has been summoned. The church has never taken should be held by individuals for their own benefit or by the community for the benefit of all. The letter of Archbish op Corrigan published yesterday is a peculiar one, as it is directly contrary to the usual custom of the church. I know one, as it is untry usual custom of the church. I know Archbishop Corrigan is strongly in favor of George and thinks him to be a true man. Father McGlynn may have been summoned. to Rome to explain his position, but I be lieve that is all. The first statement is con trary to the rules of the church and I believe that Father McGlynn would make no state ments that would stand between himself an his church. At any rate if he had been de-posed it would never have been made so pubic. I do not think that the Tribune would dare publish, however, anything that is no true. It would not take the liberty of s

DUFFY CREATES A SCENE

Between the Trade Unions and th COLUMBUS, Dec. 10 .- The trades unio onference met at 9:30 this morning with President McBride in the chair. The dele gates continued the discussion of their respective unions and their relations to the Knights of Labor. Some very serious charges in the eyes of the delegates were made against the Knights and from their number it is evident a conference committee can never adjust the differences. The committee appointed to confer with Mr. Powderly's committee from the Knights presented a report. It states that the Knights of Labor committee did not have full power to act, but could only adjust minor grievat the ceiling. ances and the committee asked instructions The report was accepted and the committee instructed to insist on a settlement on a basis of the trades union treaty. Evidently the breach is widening and the work of the con-ference committee indicates that the differ-ences will not be adjusted. The feeling against the Knights grows more bitter daily. The results of this convention will no doubt be a struggle for supremacy between the two organizations which will result in the sur organizations which will result in the survival of the fittest. Trades unions will never be completely destroyed, but if defeated will occupy a subordinate position tributary to the Knights of Labor. On the other hand should the trades unions gain the Knights of Labor will be practically wiped out. The strained relations that exist between the Knights of Labor and the trades union is still more apparent to night. It is now evident that an adjustment of the differ ences between the organizations is impossi

Knights Expelled From Church Mem CINCINNATI, Dec. 10 .- Concerning the fourteen Knights of Labor stricken from the German Reformed church membership at Fon du Lac, Wis., Pastor Broemer of this city said to day: "The action is not an exceptional one. Our church as a body is opposed to the Knights of Labor. The syn o composed of German Lutheran churches of Missouri, Ohio and other States, has de clared against the Knights and similar asso-ciations on the ground that it is an oath-bound organization. Even the solemn obli-gations of the church are not assumed with an oath. The majority decision is obligato-ry upon members. The aim of the society is discontent with present assumed and liscontent with present earnings and circum tances, which our church holds to be con trary to that scriptural doctrine to 'be content with such things as ye have.'" fore the Senate Committee. NEW YORK, Dec. 10.-There was a sensa ion to-day in the Boodler McQuade case. Duffy was on the witness stand and being examined by Mr. Nicoll for the prosecution Referring to the testimony Duffy gave bethe answer from the informer that that testimony was what had been agreed upon by himself and McCabe in the office of Mr. Newcombe and under the instruction of the latter. Mr. Newcombe's face flushed at this answer and he looked viciously at Duffy, who at the time was very industriously engaged in Duffy produced a decided sensation, which was intensified when Lawyer New combe stood up slowly and with strong emotion demanded that he be permitted to take the stand at once to refute the testimony of the informer. Recorder Smyth said that Mr. Newcombe could go on the stand at some later stage in the proceedings, but not then. General Tracy came to his colleague's rescue by demanding to know if the court insisted that a member of the bar should rest for a moment under such an imputation as the informer Duffy had given expression to Recorder Smyth dryly remarked that a member of the bar was deserving of no more consideration than any other witness, whereupon General Tracy said: "Well, then, your honor, shall any man rest over night with such a foul charge over him Shall such an accusation be permitted to go broadcast without meeting it at once? This is the foulest injustice. I ask that this man, my brother and associate in this case, be produce written evidence of the wretche perjurer who uttered it." repeated his ruling that Mr. New-combe could not take the stand at this time. The lawyer subsequently stated that he had written evidence in his possession proving conclusively that Duffy had perjured himself. He added that he had received an intimation that Duffy mean to assail him in this manner, and he was fully prepared for him. Mr. Newcombe also said to the reporters that he had received two threatening letters to day, which it is understood came from some of Duffy's friends. Other witnesses were then called, including Alderman Waite, who repeated his story of After Mr. Duffy was excused a large quatity of documentry evidence was introduced, the reading of which occupied the time until the adjournment. The jury were locked up at the Astor House for the night.

An Employer Who Isn't Crushed. LYNN, Mass., Dec. 10.-F. W. Breed whose shoe factories are closed by a strike went on a sleigh ride yesterday in an elegan sleigh behind a dashing pair of horses on the mile ground. On either side of the road were between four hundred and five hundred people, quite a number of whom were not all pleased with the display made by the manufacturer, who had reduced the wages of his operatives and could not afford to pay the prices agreed upon by the Shoe and Leather association, of which he was a member, and the Knights of Labor. Mr. Breed's appearance did not indicate that he had been reduced to poverty. He was greeted with howls of derision and volleys of snowballs.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 .- Mr. Morrison ha decided to call up the tariff bill in the House the latter part of next week. Tariff reform ers in the House are confident that they will be able to get the matter up for consideration and believe there will be tariff legislation this session. They are prepared to take advantage of every circumstance. It is conceded that Mr. Randall has placed himself at a disadvantage by the introduction of his bill. By so doing he committed himself to the acknowledgment that a revision is necessar and the friends of revision say he cannot refuse to consider the question. They urge, too, that no man in the House disputes that the revenues of the government must be reduced and they can no longer refuse to at duced and they can no longer refuse to attempt the reduction. The opponents of the measure are invited to consider the proposition in a spirit of fairness and to amend the bill in any way possible that may please them. Many Republicans it is believed are disposed to do so. Mr. Hiscock and other

Mr. Sargent is not as easy a speaker as Mr.

the effect that people in the convention at

Mr. J. M. Hubbard, of Middletown, said questions had been asked and left unanswered which, so left, seemed to indicate that there were no successful farmers in Connecticut. He wanted to protest against such an idea and cited numerous examples to the contrary. Mr. Sperry said he supposed he had covered this point and then spoke in the same vein as Mr. Hubbard.

On the conclusion of the cross-examination of Meaney the defense was commenced, the first witness called being Robert G. Curtis. Mr. Sperry replied briefly, reading from Robert T. Porter's report to show the wretched condition of certain British artisans, especially the nail workers, among whom a family of three working 14 hours a day may earn about $4.18 a week among them. He said he had heard Mr. Sargent five old times make a much better speech for protection than he had just made for free trisde. The last speaker had built up an enormous industry and had done it under protection and by protection. Now if he could have five trade he would destroy the small competitors, because with the great variety of goods he produced, much over a thousand, he could lose on any few long enough to ruin a competitor. Then, as to raw materials, the word had been misused. As soon as an axe is struck into a tree or the ore disturbed in the mine it ceases to be raw material. Part of its value then is in the labor it has received. If he wanted materials free let him increase the production; taking off the tariff would raise the protect on the other side.

Mr. Sargent again said that the raw maker and first one are right and the production; taking off the tariff would raise the protect on the other side.

> road, held a controlling amount of this "common stock" till recently, when they parted with enough of it, at a tempting advance in price, to lose their control, and through the channels devised by the parties to the new deal, to turn over that control to the new combination which will now proceed to turn out the present management, select its own officers for the Housatonic road, and to run that institution in its own interests. This, that institution in its own interests. This, the same rumor says, can be headed off by the lease of the Housatonic road, and its branches to the Consolidated, if that lease can be consummated soon enough, and there-fore there is a revival of the former rumors to the effect that the Consolidated road will soon dangle the scalp of the Housatenic at its belt, while a Bridgeport man will be presdent of this newly constructed combination The South, Mexico And California-Grandest Tour. Messrs, Raymond & Whitcomb's latest announcement is of a grand excursion of seventy-five days through the Southern States, Mexico, California, Utah, Colorado, etc. The excursionists will travel like kings in special trains of elegant Pullman palace cars, and hotel cars or dining cars are to furnish meals en route and at points where the hotels are not of the best standard. The party will leave Boston Monday, January 31. The round through Mexico will be of the same omplete character as the Mexico trips of the past two years, and the spring tour on the Pacific coast and homeward will have the Pacific coast and nomeward will have the same advantages that have made the regular winter excursions to the Pacific coast so popular. There are many special features which render this tour remarkably attractive. There is certainly no other way in which so much of Mexico can be seen, or in which the traveler can secure such comfort and lux ury. There will be other excursions to Cali-fornia January 6, 17 and 20, February 3 and 17, and March 10; one to Mexico March and one-to Washington, D. C., January 21.

Frank Crampton, Alias Carpenter's Case to Come Before the City Court. The case of Frank Carpenter, alias Cramp ton, who is supposed to have stolen Riley T. Smith's horse and carriage, which was found in his possession at Hoboken, N. J., will come up before the City court this morning before Judge Pickett. Much interest has centered in the case and no doubt there will all gathered during the day, when Mr. Lyman M. Law drove up to my residence and handed me an envelope containing $25,saying that he thought such a building as had been erected for the colored people of New Haven ought to be paid for at once. Thursday brought the following contributions or pledges: Prof. John E. Russell $5, Mrs. John Townsend $5, Mr. John A. Richardson $10, Mr. M. G. Elliott $5, Mr. C. E. Hart $5. Judge Pickett will address the meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union or Sunday at 3:30 p. m. at English Hall. All are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Gordon Lockwood, of Hunting Ridge shot a raccoon last week that weighed 19 pounds. This is the largest one ever killed in that section, and previous to being cap tured had caught quite a number of fow from the farmers' poultry yards.

Thursday morning about 8 o'clock Captain C. Foster with his steamer Messenger took the following old reliable duck hunters out for a day's sport: A. Holt, E. C. Miller, of Folsom's gun store, Charles O. Davis and other veterans with five or six small duck boats in tow. They succeeded in killing about forty ducks, coots, old "squaws" and some black ducks and secured a loon, after twenty charges had been resisted. All returned well pleased with the day's sport.

THE COURT RECORD.

Court of Common Pleas-Judge Stud-In this court yesterday before court and jury was begun the trial of the suit of Stoddard, Kimberly & Co. vs. Louis E. Ryder It is on a claim for a bill of goods purchased by the defendant.

Friend Dickinson of Westbrook, who was arrested by Deputy Marshal Lovejoy charged with not defacing the stamps upon empty cigar boxes, was brought before United States Commissioner Johnson T. Platt yesterday morning. The case was continued for a hearing until Tuesday, December 28.

Nathaniel Sleeman of Birmingham, whose suit against Lewis Hotchkiss to recover $90,-000 was recently before the Superior court at Bridgeport on the defendant's motion to reduce the attachment bond, brought a similar suit in the New York courts. On Wednesday Judge Van Brunt dismissed the suit, finding that Mr. Hotchkiss was not properly a party to the action instituted in that city IMPERTINENCE. The curiosity and impertinence of some people is simply astounding. At the Bulkeley-Van Zile wedding parties were present at the church on borrowed cards. This uncivil practice is compelling the custom for persons who are invited and do not accept to return cards for the church with regrets. Late occurrences suggest the propriety of adopting the custom in Hartford.—Hartford Courant. THE GUARANTY QUESTION.

The defense in the case of Henry M. Iotchkiss, the Hartford wife murderer, is understood to be a general plea of insanity, and the court will probably be asked to appoint a commission of experts on insanity. Hotchkiss is said to have acted strangely for a long time before the murder, and since the murder he has acted like one dazed. OF BRIDGEPORT HOSPITAL.
