Friday, October 5, 1888. PORRIGN IMMIGRATION. France like several other countries. much troubled by the influx of "pauper labor." In order to check it President Carnot has drafted a decree placing serious restrictions on all sorts of foreign immigration. Persons intending to become residents have an elaborate account of their birth, parentage and occupation, and give notice every time they move. In fact, it is a renewal of the passport system in a more odious form, and although persons visiting France for "business or pleasure" are exempt from its operaion, of course they may have to show that they came for business or pleasure in order o secure the exemption.

There is opposition to this in France, and whether or not it will be carried out remains to be seen. The problem it is intended to solve is a very serious one for France and for ome other countries. The New York Evening Post thus speaks of some phases of this roblem: An annual Italian immigration, ming over in the spring an going home for the winter with its savings, and living like avages, in huts, while here, is something which even ten years ago would have seeme an impossibility; but it is to-day a very cor picuous industrial phenomenon along our whole eastern coast. So also, when forty rears ago Christians began to attack the Chiese for being so exclusive and refusing to trade or associate with their betters, we all thought that the only result of compelling them to open their frontier would be the opening of their markets to foreign trade. As time went on, however, they began to turn the tables on us and gave us more interourse than we could stand. Accordingly oth England and America, after having bullied China into letting her people out, are now bullying her into keeping them at home. It is not surprising if under these circumstances she is a little puzzled to know what the "Foreign Devils" really want. In trath, the new facility of travel promises to imposes on all the more highly civilized countries a omplete revision of their attitude with regard to the reception of foreigners. They find they cannot afford to share their civiliza tion on a broad scale with new comers who have lived on a much lower level, or have not the same social standards. EDITORIAL NOTES. The latest is a Cabbage trust, which con-

If a lass full of beer is left standing in the open ir, or set in the window under the direct rays of the sun, in four or five minutes the ser will contract an unpleasant smell and aste, whereas beer left in a mug with a over remains undeteriorated, even though the mug should be exposed to the sun. Diect sunlight will spoil the best beer in a very short time, and similar injury to taste and smell is effected, though in a less degree, by gas light or lamp-light. Possibly the totalers may find their account in making see of Dr. Schulze's confession that "the sun s the mortal enemy of beer." "Ya-as," said the stout man; "goin' iround with a flag in your button hole ain't upportin' your candidate. If you've got a andidate to support support him; that's Dr. Warner's Health Underwear recomwhat I say."

Leonidas made no reply.

"What talks in a campaign! Money talks every time. Put up your money on your candidate or shut up. I'm only giving you my opinion," the stout man continued, addressing the crowd.

Leonidas continued silent ended for comfort, durability and health.

Leonidas continued silent 'Here's a little wad," continued the stor man, producing a huge roll of bills, "that says Cleveland is elected in November. My roll, gents and ladies. If any gent with a button in his clo'es wants to pu up a role of the same size—or any part—I'm his popsy-wopsy—and I won't say anything about his having red hair and being flat chested either." Leonidas wrapped himself up in silent lignity, but when the boat reached the slip he hurried off to the train, sank into a seat and was trying to extract balm for his wounded spirit out of the New York Even-ing Mule-in Distress when a long, lank, im-

"My friend, I am pained to see so young man flaunting the symbol of the party which offers free whiskey to the masses. You are putting the cup —" Leonidas went into the baggage caboose o the smoking car, where he gave the baggage-man the cigar he had meant to smoke that evening. He also put his button in his pockt, but not before the baggageman had said 'They're sheddin' them things lively nowa

When Leonidas got home he told his fath? er about his experience. The old gentleman took the button and carefully deposited it is the kitchen stove. "My son," said he, "any man can vote an blame pleases to in this free country. Harte is amiable and pleasant as well as gifted, but his acquaintance is reputed to be expensive. It is a pity that in some respects he resembles Harrold Skimpole. He may not have aspirations after the infinite, but many of his creditors have, it must be confessed, longings for the unattainable. His intimates say that he is the dupe of his imagination; he believes that he is always on the point of discharging his old obligations, and impelled by this belief is continually contracting new ones. GOV. J. B. FORAKER SPEAKS. n Immense Audience Greets Him At the Hyperion Last Evening-Hun-dreds Turned Away Unable To Find Standing Room-A Rousing Address

Never at a political gathering has there been a greater throng at the Hyperion Theater than assembled there last night to do honor to Ohio's great Statesman, Governor J. B. Foraker. The people were packed in like sardines. Hundreds were turned away. The Bulkely Marines turned out, dressed in their new uniforms, and made a short parade. They occupied front seats and made a handsome appearance. There was a host of ladies present. Every box was occupied, and all in all it was by far the grandest political demonstration held in this city during the present campaign. For an hour and a half Governor Foraker kept the andience in a fit of langhter or in a round of applause.

The districts represented by these six southern members contained only 2,550 manufacturing establishments, employing 3½ hands apiece. These hands averaged about $250 a year wages. Mills' district had only 78 manufacturing establishments, employing 58 hands, who earned an average of $121 a year each, or 38 cents a day. The whole industries of the country, aggregating billions, were at the mercy of these six men. They were trying to force upon the country the the free trade ideas embodied in the confederate constitution, for which all six had ent Cleveland's assertion that the President Cleveland's assertion that the cost of an article is enhanced to the consumer by just the amount of the duty was vigorously combatted. Article after article was mentioned which had cheapened enormously in price after a protective tariff had afforded a chance to make it in this country. Steel rails tumbled from $138 per ton to $27 under home competition. Sods ash came down from $48 to $28 per ton. Corn starch fell home competition. Sods ash came down from $48 to $28 per ton. Corn starch fell from 10 cents to 4 cents a pound. Floor tiling settled from $1.25 per foot to 33 cents in four years. In no case did the tariff increase the price. According to President Cleveland's idea the price of the articles should have gone up under a protective tariff.

In the past twenty-four years the Republicans have controlled the House of Representatives in Coagress twelve years and the Democrats twelve. Here is where all tariff legislation must originate. In their twelve Democrats twelve. Here is where all tariff legislation must originate. In their twelve years the Republicans passed ten tariff bills, reducing the government's income about $35J,000,000 a year. The Democrats passed one, making a yearly reduction of about $5,000,000. This proves that the Republican party has business sense enough to reduce the income as well as to increase it when made necessary by war. The Democrats never had any business sense at all.

Governor Foraker condemned the Precident for his pension vetces, and said that free trade England is behind the Democratic party as she was behind the South. "Suppose," he said, "that a man opened a store on

"I dislike to indulge in personalities. Mr. Brice, chairman of the Democratic National committee, announced that this was to be a campaign of intellect and not of slander. They said that they would stop lying about Harrison, and we agreed to stop telling the truth about Cleveland." (Laughter that broke forth several times.)

The speaker then passed to the tariff question and said it was the important question during this campaign. "It is an old question," he said, "old as the country. We have disputed about the question of tariff and free trade ever since our government was estaabished. We have had four periods of free trade and four of protection. Under free trade we had a specimen of Democratic prosperity, in other words, unusual depression and taxation and bankruptcy. And under protection we have attained a prosperity greater than any other nation in the world. (Applause.)

The services were those of the Episcopal church, deeply solemn, significant and impressive, and in addition a tribute to her worth was read by the officiating clergyman, Rev. Dr. Beardsley, pastor of the deceased for many years. The burial was in the old cemetery as the declining rays of the October sun were still lovely in their effulgence and beauty, and it seemed in nature's serenity and autumnal beauty, a day most appropriate for the gathering to rest of the sleeper. Dr. Beardsley's remarks were as follows:

On the stage were seated scores of prominent men. There was not a vacant chair and the scenes had to be set back further than usual in order to accommodate the vast number of vice presidents. On the scene hung a large Republican flag.

One of the features of each Republican meeting is the singing of the Glee club. The members sing so well that they are encored several times and last night was no exception to the rule. The following were the officers of the meeting. It was just 8 o'clock when the speaker, es-

Hugh Dailey, in a few pleasing remarks ntroduced Gen. E. S. Greeley as the presi dent of the meeting. Gen. Greeley said: I esteem it a high honor to preside at this meeting, and I know that I would fail of my duty if I attempt to occupy the time with a speech. In a month the voters of this country will be called upon to decide the greatest question since the civil war. The Democratic party, through President Cleveland and the House of Representatives, espouses a causes looking toward free trade. The Republican party wants protection to the sys-tem that has made our workmen better off

What applause!
One could not hear himself speak, so deafening was the applause. As it died away there was a fresh outburst. Flags were waved, hats were thrown in the air, the ladies waved their handkerchiefs and, in fact, the acene was one that surely must have been gratifying to the Republican managers. It was several minutes before Governor Foraker Hine, Ch.

was several minutes before Governor Foraker could speak.

He completely captivated his audience, and the more he talked the more interesting he became. He began by speaking highly of Cornecticut, and that if there was one thing he gloried in it was that Ohio was not only a sister of Connecticut, but a daughter. He was pleased to be assigned to Connecticut, as he had always had a high regard for its people and he wanted to see all he could of them.

The man who was paying $2 would be driven to the wall. With individuals so with nations. It is the same case between Eugland and the United States. If we have free trade we must pay the cheap wages that England is paying. We must do one of three things, quit, break or protest. We don't intend to quit or break, but we do tem that has made our workmen better off than any other in the world.

It needs no prophet to tell what the result will be if the Democratic system of free trade is established. We have only to turn back to history to show what free trade did do under Democratic administrations. We had ruin and disaster, while under a protective system since 1861 we have prospered as no other nation on the globe has.

"I turn now to a more pleasing duty. I congratulate you on being here to listen to a war veteran who has made a record for himself second to none. I have the pleasure of introducing to you Governor J. B. Foraker of Ohio."

Well Known Democrat Asks a Searching Question and Heceives Straightforward Answers. ADRIAN, Mich., Ost. 4 .- Mr. Blaine spoke at the fair grounds this afternoon to about 12,000 people. Beginning with a reference to a letter published in a Democratic journal at Detroit on the 3d inst., and addressed to him over the signature of "W. Stearns," the Democratic Congressional candidate, Mr. Blaine said that whether it was intended to se courteous or not, the letter would receive from him a courteous reply. He continued: The writer wants to know why in the House of Representatives in 1868 I opposed a tax on lumber and why I am now in favor of continuing the tariff on lumber. A LESSON IN POLITICAL ECONOMY. My questioner has evidently consulted the official record, for he cites a page and date of the Congressional Globe. If he will again make the same reference he will find that opposed an internal tax on lumber, except as it made the tariff more effective. That was at a time when we were taxing everything on account of the great increase of our national debt. I maintained then as I maintain now that it was unwise to impose upon bread stuff or lumber an internal tax which ncreased by the amount of the tax the cos o the consumer in the United States. I he gentleman cannot distinguish between a nternal and tariff tax I will explain the dif ference. The internal tax is one that does not protect any American industry, but takes just that much out of an industry. It is a tax which, in this country, is levied (except on a very few articles) only in war times. It is the same as the excise which has been for expersions so odions a tax in Great Rritain. erations so odious a tax in Great Britain generations so odious a tax in Great Britain.

It is the same against which the people of portions of the United States came near rebelling during Washington's administration.

We are in better order now and we pay every tax that is levied. But the United States in the judgment of the Republicans ought to raise all the money they need for support of government from the tariff because the tariff eights to the American laborer and to every gives to the American laborer and to every industrial interest in our own country great advantage over the foreign laborer and the industrial interests of other countries and alds in building up a great home market, which is something that the Uunited States possesses to day beyond any nation on the globe. ANOTHER READY ANSWER. I have said that I was opposed to every tax

During the debate Mr. Teller stated that if the issue of the presidential election depended upon money, the Republican party might as well surrender now as any time. The ability of the Democratic party to raise money not only in this campaign but all other campaigns, had always greatly exceeded that of the Republican parameters are supported to the result of the Republican parameters. reatly exceeded that of the Republican par y except it may have been immediately a onnection with the reb of March 3d, 1883, "to adjust the salaries of postmasters" was taken from the calendar and as amended, so as to take effect on July

Mr. Spinola of New York said that the question presented was whether one class of Christians should be armed with the great power of the American government to crus another class which also claimed to be Chris lans. A precedent of this character was a langerous one for the American republic to tablish, for when this association should iumph in its undertaking and should drive ormonism from within the limits of the reiblic its attention might be turned to som After some further debate the conference eport was rejected and the House adourned.

THE MINORITY REPORT. Democrats of the Senate Tell Why They Oppose the Substitute For the Mills Bill-A Simple Repetition of Their Old Arguments-A Specious Appeal For the Poor Man's Vote.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 .- The minority report of the Senate finance committee on the tariff bill complains that none of the minority were consulted or informed about the provisions f the substitute reported by the Republican majority until it was reported to the full committee September 25. It also asserts that in the hearings before the sub-committee since last May the interests benefitted by a high protective tariff were fully heard and had much influence in shaping the substitue, while the great body of the people, the tax-payers and victims of this policy, have not been heard. Criticizing the substitute, the minority say the Senate substitute is framed in the interest of three hundred thousand manufacturers. The taxation under it bears heavily on the necessaries of life, Practically the substitute offers to the people free whiskey and free tobacco. Commenting on the connection between the tariff and trusts the minority say: The present tariff is the nursing mother of tausts. It is the wall behind which these combinations are formed, by which the peo-combinations are formed, by which the peo-ple are plundered. Language is inadequate to describe the iniquity of these corporations against the rights of the people or to depist their disastrous effects up-on the general welfare. The provisions of the senate subteitute are held to favor trusts greatly trusts greatly.

The absurd accusation that the Mills bill means "free trade," the "ruin of industry" and the "degradation of American labor," as the minority say, is as false as it is misleading. Any revision of the tasiff may be called free trade with the same propriety. Free wool is discussed and the minority are firmly con-vinced that beside the incalculable advantage to the whole country which would result from the placing of wool upon the free list, from the placing of wool upon the free list, it is easy demonstrable that no class will suffer, but each will reap his share of the benefit. The report closes by recommending to the Senate and the country the Mills bill as a measure for the reduction of taxes based alike upon justice and good policy.

The report is signed by Senators Harris, Vance, Vorhees and McPherson, the last named qualifying his endorsement of the report with this statement: "I concer in the port with this statement; "I concur in the above report endorsing the House bill in respect to articles placed upon the free list, but desire some modifications in the dutiable

Senator Beck's Opinion. Washington, Oct. 4 .- Senator Beck's in dividual report on the Senate tariff bill was sent in with the other reports to-day. A TREASURER'S THEFTS. Albert Bosworth of Fall River, Mass. Decamps With a Big Boodle for Parti Unknown. FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 4.—Albert E. Bosworth, treasurer of the Stafford mills corporation, has fled the city and his present abiding place is unknown to his business associates He was also treasurer of the Beattle Zinc company and was interested in several specalative enterprises. His flight is a result of the disclosures made in the affairs of the National Union bank and the Union Savings bank, the first of which was an irregular loan of $23,000 which was discounted by Cashier Chapin without the knowledge of his directors. When this disclosure was made Tressurer Bosworth's management of the affairs of the Stafford mills was enquired into by his directors and at a special meeting held Tuesday afternoon his resignation was asked for and presented. It was not then accepted, it being decided to continue him in his position temporarily, pending an investi-ception. I am in favor of continuing the tax on whiskey except on that which is used in the arts and in medicinee as proposed in the new tariff bill just reported to Congress. (A voice, "Why!") I will tell you. I am in favor of it because I think the tax tends to make the price a little higher and to lessen the number of those who purchase it as a drink.

gation of the affairs of the company. A few hours after the meeting Bosworth asid he was going to Boston on business and took an afternoon train. This did not occasion any anxiety at the time and none was felt until this morning, when his continued absence caused alarm. Then another special meeting was called for this noon, at which the resignation of Mr. Bosworth was accepted and Samuel W. Hathaway was chosen. To the directors on Tuesday Mr. Bosworth stated that the finances of the company. chosen. To the directors on Tuesday Mr Bosworth stated that the finances of the mili were in no wise impaired by his management. Experts are now examining the books, but up to a late hour to-night nothing irregular had been discovered, although nothing positive can be stated until the examination of the books is completed.

No trace of him can be found and he i supposed to have either gone to Canada or sailed for Europe on the City of Rome which satisd for Europe on the City of Rome which left New York yesterday. To-night people are coming up who say they paid for stock in the company and have not yet received certificates, Mr. Bosworth having put them off on the plea that he did not have time to issue them. An expert has been sent for to open the safe, and it is expected that the books will be obtained to-morrow and an examination begun. It is not expected that in any event the credit of the Stafford Mills will be affected as it has a large surplus, which so far as can be ascertained appears to be intact. The affairs of the Union bank are being straightened out. The different mem-bers of the Nichols family have made an as signment for the benefit of both the banks Bank Examiner Chapin said he had practically completed his examination of the at fairs of both concerns, and had not made any further discoveries beyond those made public. The bank only held $55,000 of Nichols' paper, and that will be covered by as an Occasional Preacher. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—The Philadelphia

Baptist association in session at Bustleton yesterday made the humorist, Robert J. Burdette, a full fledged minister, with license to preach in the Lower Morton Delaware Baptist church. Mr. Burdette has been a member of that church since living in Lower Merton, and has been a deacon for about a year.

The church in which he was licensed to preach is a very ancient one. It was recently remodelled. George W. Childs gave to he church o fine memorial window. When Mr. Burdette was seen and informed of his elevation to the dignity of the ministry he said: "Did they do that? Well, you see, I'm not exactly an ordained minister. It's only a sort of honor, you know; a recognition of those who have the gift of continuance or rather those who know how to talk. I've been a deacon for about a year in the Lower Merton church. What do I do! Oh, a deamerton church. What do lad of the con does lots of things—passes the hat and looks after the coal. I did once preach in a Baptist church. It was about three years ago, I think, and it was up in the North Creek region of the Adiron-dacks at the Second Johnsbury church. I was up there for the summer and the church dea-cons came up to me and had me preach, as they were without a pastor.

"I told them I wasn't good enough t preach, but they wouldn't take no for an answer. I preached all summer, and had all the experiences of a preacher, from pastoral visits to a donation party, but they gave it to me gratis. I wouldn't take a salary, so they said: 'Well, we'll give you a donation party.' But all I took away of the donation which was a good sized party, was a round allver dollar, as a memento of the first money I earned as a preacher. As I am licensed now I suppose I will preash occasionally, but I am not a regular minister."

Mr. Burdette will not lecture much this year, and after Christmas expects to take a long rest and engage only in literary work at long rest and engage only in literary work at his deak. One of Mr. Burdette's brothers is River mill, a Connecticut and Providen

DEMOCRATS IN A QUANDARY. The House is Anxious to Avoid the Republican Tariff Bill But is Afraid to Adjourn. WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.-While there ha een no formal conference among the Democratic members of the House touching the advisability of adopting an adjournment resolution, there has been an exchange of private opinion upon the subject, the majority of the members holding that the tariff bill having been reported to the Senate, there is no longer any reason why the House should not adopt the resolution and allow the Senate to act upon it one way or the other. If some positive assurance can be obtained that the resolution if passed by the House will be adopted by the Senate, there is little doubt that such action will be taken.

But the Democrats in the House hesitate to adjourn immediately because such action could justly be used by the Republicans as an argument to prove that the Democrats are afraid to face the Senate bill.

He wept bitterly before going to bed last night, but was quieter through the night. Of late the prisoner has expressed deep contrition and repentance for his crime and his passionate spirit is wholly broken and subdued. Palladoni frequently asks for news from his father and mother and the fact that no assurance of forgiveness has come much embitters his few remaining hours. Father Leo's faithfulness in performing the last rites of the church have won for him the fullest confidence of the doomed man. In conversation yesterday the priest said: "I consider that the crime was done upon the impulse of the moment. Palladoni is at times the most harmless and peaceable man I have ever seen, but he is such a passionate, excitable person that the least irritation will cause him to fly into uncontrollable anger. I think that it is that the least irritation will cause him to fly into uncontrollable anger. I think that it is a shame to hang the man, because I am convinced that he did not go to the quarry to kill his brother. Let us hope that he will be an example to all. To-morrow he will be no more; his soul will have gone before his almighty judge."

At 9 o'clock last night he retired. Deputy Sheriffs Driscoll of Westport and Bolston of Stamford formed the death watch for the night. Soon after this Father Leo retired. Mass was celebrated at 6 o'clock this morning, followed by the sacrament and coming, followed by the sacrament and com-munion. Sheriff Clarkson has issued about

His parents, John and Annice, and three sisters, Conjesta, Marie and Hannah, live together in Ajaccio, while his brother Antonio is a raging lunatic in an asylum. Before he came to this country Palladoni was a laborer. White is the man who last January was so cleverly caught by Detective Brewer. STAMFORD, Oct. 4 .- Stamford Republican were boiling over with wrath and indignation yesterday morning. Alexander Weed, who was defeated by the Democratic candidate for selectman Monday, looked even sterner and more unapproachable this morning than he did yesterday. Dr. Ed. Rowell who voted for Cleveland four years ago, but who has joined the Republicans this year says that such rowdyism and abuse as the narching clubs of the Republicans were subjected to Wednesday night was a menace to our Republican form of government. At other points along the line of march rocks and jeers greeted the battalion. The guy ropes of the Republican banner were also cut last night.

It is claimed that all this was the work of Democrats old enough to vote. At the open-ing of the campaign the Republican and Democratic town committees agreed that on nights when one party was doing public campaign work the other should desist from demonstration.

Last night was the first on which any pub

c demonstration has taken place, and the depublicans claim the Democratic town com-nities violated its pledge by holding meetings here.

The Republicans do not believe that any reputable Democrat had anything to do with the assault on the paraders, and are satisfied that the outrage was the work of irresponsible hoodlums.
